

PERIODICAL

ML5
.M85

Accessions

252.226

Shelf No.

~~8056.10~~

Vol. 18

1844

Received Oct. 3, 1878

July 1 missing 391

THE MUSICAL
TIMES

Nº

407

THE GEORGE WOODS & Co.'S AMERICAN ORGANS.

These Instruments are celebrated the world over for their remarkably pure and brilliant quality of tone; their great capacity for variety of effect (which is owing to the use of their famous

COMBINATION SOLO STOPS :

ÆOLINE,

VOX HUMANA—an additional Set of Reeds,

PIANO,

All of which are separate and additional sets of reeds and bars, so arranged as to admit of an almost endless variety of orchestral effects and beautiful combinations; and their extraordinary power, elegance of style, and thorough construction and finish. These are the only Instruments that have made their way without the publication of a single Testimonial or puff of any kind, or Exhibition for competition for awards. They stand upon their own merits.

S. G. DENNIS, Sole European Agent, 16, LUDGATE HILL, LONDON, E.C.

BECHSTEIN,

Berlin and London,

PIANOFORTE MANUFACTURER,

By Special Appointment to

HIS MAJESTY THE EMPEROR OF GERMANY AND KING OF PRUSSIA, H.R.H. PRINCE FREDERICK CHARLES OF PRUSSIA,
H.R.H. THE CROWN PRINCESS OF GERMANY (Princess Royal of Great Britain and Ireland).

First Prize Gold Medals—London, 1862, Paris, 1867.

Show Rooms:—London, 10, RATHBONE PLACE, OXFORD STREET, W.

TESTIMONIALS.

BECHSTEIN'S Instruments are distinguished by their superior quality in every branch of Pianoforte manufacture, reliableness and solidity of mechanism, the utmost imaginable uniformity, not only in the action, but also in the register, an inexhaustible fulness of tone, comprehending the greatest abundance of the most varied gradations from piano to forte, the perception of which many years since led me to the conviction, which no subsequent observation has invalidated, that Mr. BECHSTEIN is the first German Pianoforte manufacturer who has brought his instruments to such a degree of perfection as will enable them to enter into advantageous competition with the best and the most celebrated of those of any other country.

HANS VON BULOW,

Court-Pianist to H.M. the Emperor of Germany, Director of the Royal Bavarian Orchestra.

In your Instruments there is everything to praise and nothing to find fault with. Their extremely agreeable action, stimulating as it does to every variety of shade, their powerful, pure, and noble tone, together with the uncommon uniformity and harmonious articulation of the various registers, afford the virtuoso the most ample opportunities for display. In a word, your Instruments are perfect, and they bear witness to German intelligence and industry in the art of instrument making.

F. LISZT.

To pass judgment upon your instruments were only to bestow upon them the most unqualified praise.

According to the opinion of the most competent authorities who have played on your instruments, it is no longer necessary to commend them; this were only a pleonasm, a paraphrase, tautology.

F. LISZT.

At my concerts I use BECHSTEIN'S pianos exclusively, and certify with pleasure that in my several tours they have always commended themselves by their extremely solid construction and the excellent way in which they keep in tune. A noble, inexhaustible, and sympathetic fulness of tone, together with an exquisite action, which admits of the utmost variety of shade, bear testimony to the fact that the manufacturer has attained the utmost degree of perfection in the art of instrument making.

&c. &c. &c.

ANT. RUBINSTEIN,
Director of the Imp. Russ. Orchestra.

* 8055.10
Vol. 18.
1877.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

VOL. XVIII.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER & CO.,
1, BERNERS STREET (W.), AND 80 & 81, QUEEN STREET (E.C.)
BOSTON, NEW YORK, AND PHILADELPHIA: DITSON & CO.

NOV 10 1878
CITY OF NEW YORK

✓

252,226

Oct 31/78

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.,

PRINTERS,

69 & 70, DEAN STREET, SOHO, W.

INDEX TO MUSIC IN VOL. XVIII.

PIECES WITH SACRED WORDS.

No.
407	I will sing of Thy power	Arthur Sullivan.
408	O Saviour of the world	Sir John Goss.
409	Now on the first day of the week (Easter)	Henry Lahee.
410	Leave us not, neither forsake us (Ascension)	J. Stainer.
414	Ye shall dwell in the land (Harvest)	J. Stainer.
417	Hearken unto Me, My people (Advent)	Arthur Sullivan.

PIECES WITH SECULAR WORDS.

411	Gipsy Life	R. Schumann.
412	The Urchins' Dance	J. L. Hatton.
413	{ Lullaby (a Cradle-Song)	J. Barnby.
	{ Farewell	German Volkslied.
415	{ Summer Eve	J. L. Hatton.
	{ The Wanderer's Night Song	Schnyder von Wartensee.
416	{ The Lover to his Mistress	John Bennet.
	{ T'other morning very early	Thibaut, King of Navarre.
418	{ In Memoriam (Therèse Tietjens)	J. L. Roeckel.
	{ Holly Berries (Christmas Carol)	W. J. Westbrook.

GENERAL INDEX TO VOL. XVIII.

LEADING ARTICLES.

	Page		Page
Abuse of Music, The ...	113	Challenger Expedition and Musical Names ...	17
Amateurs ...	326	Chapel Royal, St. James's (Organist) ...	16
A Musical Retrospect ...	60	Chorals in "St. Paul" ...	426
Beethoven, The Family of ...	327	Colour Music ...	169
Borrowed Plumes ...	587	Cooper, G., and Organistship of St. Paul's ...	17
Charles Cowden Clarke ...	161	Concert Rooms, &c. (means of egress) ...	274
Children's Music ...	216	Congregational Singing ...	589
Crystal Palace Problem, The ...	110	Consecutive Fifths and the great Composers ...	529
De Quincey and the Greek Drama ...	57	Country Newspapers and Musical Criticism ...	379
Dussek's Pianoforte Sonatas ...	422, 468	Cuckoo's Note ...	217
English Musical Privileges ...	424	Descriptive Titles to Musical Compositions ...	329, 427
English Opera ...	107, 164, 211, 268	Dactylomonocordo, The ...	477
Festival Committees and New Works ...	527	Doctor's Degrees ...	169, 426
Haydn Memorial, A ...	13, 62	"Faust" and the Sewing Machine ...	529
Hindu Music ...	111	Goss's "O Saviour of the world" (American version) ...	476
Holiday Music ...	579	Hackett, Maria ...	170
Is Mendelssohn in danger ...	209	Holiday Music ...	476
London Musical Season, The ...	369	Huygens on Consecutive Fifths ...	114
Musical Copyright, The Law of ...	214	Italian Opera ...	589
Musical Degrees ...	271	Kent's Anthems ...	116, 170
Musical Journalism, The Decadence of Musicians and their Masters ...	378, 417	Lambeth Degrees ...	66
Music-printing, A Sketch of the History of ...	265, 324, 375, 470, 524, 584	Mason ...	115
Offenbach in America ...	167	Mendelssohn's "Lieder ohne Worte" ...	14
Patronage ...	272	Music at Public Dinners ...	329
Purcell ...	11, 61	Musical Games ...	379
Reinholds, The ...	273	Musical Glasses ...	65
Richard Wagner comes ...	162	Music Licences ...	529
Sensational Paragraphs ...	475	Maelzel and Beethoven ...	588
The Great Composers, sketched by themselves:—		Manuscript Compositions, Correction of ...	273
No. 1. Haydn ...	419	National Anthem and Military Bands ...	16
No. 2. Weber ...	465	National Opera House ...	218
No. 3. Mozart ...	521, 581	Naylor v. Francis (Musical Criticism) ...	66
The Influence of Handel on Music in England ...	321	Operatic Artists ...	274
The Tonal Fugue ...	371	Organs in Private Houses ...	65
To our Readers ...	9	Parry, John ...	116
Wagner Performances at Bayreuth ...	63	Patronage ...	380
		Pensions to Musicians ...	426
		Philharmonic Society ...	115
		"Phono-Mendator," The ...	425
		Piano-playing Simplified ...	476
		Pianos ("The Long Firm") ...	528
		Reviews and Authors ...	218
		Rosa (Mr. Carl) and English Opera ...	15
		Royal Academy of Music (Balfie Scholarship) ...	16
		— (Examinations) ...	217
		Royal Albert Hall Organ Recitals ...	218
		St. Paul's Cathedral Services ...	15
		Seaside Music ...	425
		Sherborne, Organist at ...	170, 218
		Sims Reeves (Mr.) in Dublin ...	273
		— (Concert at Albert Hall) ...	379
		Southport Winter Gardens Band ...	15

OCCASIONAL NOTES.

American Criticism ...	330
American "Degrees" ...	116, 218
Art and the "Royalty" system ...	65
Athenæum and Doctors of Music ...	274
Auber ...	116
Audiences, The Comfort of ...	66
Bach Choir ...	170
Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony ...	169
Beethoven's Pianoforte ...	115
Boy-Bishops ...	115

Stainer, Dr. ...	16
Street Music ...	330
Temperance "Drinking Songs" ...	528
Tenor clef ...	477
Tonic Sol-faism in China ...	116
Worcester Festival ...	589

LONDON CONCERTS, FESTIVALS, &c.

Alexandra Palace ...	278
Bach Choir ...	220
Bache's (Mr. Walker) Concert ...	174
Borough of Hackney Choral Association ...	19, 280, 605
Cambridge University Musical Society ...	279
Caxton Celebration in Westminster Abbey ...	331
Caxton Celebration, The ...	386
Choir Benevolent Fund, Special Service ...	391
Clay's "Lalla Rookh" (Brighton) ...	118
Crystal Palace ...	17, 119, 219, 530, 591
Edinburgh Choral Union ...	593
Gadsby's "Alceste" ...	18
Glasgow Choral Union ...	594
Gloucester Musical Festival ...	477
Handel Festival ...	331, 389
Handel's "Hercules" ...	334
Her Majesty's Opera ...	275, 333, 389, 590
Josef Joachim, Mus. Doc., Cantab. ...	170
Leeds Musical Festival ...	480
Leslie's (Mr. H.) Choir ...	173, 278, 390
Liverpool Philharmonic Society ...	531
London Church Choir Association ...	593
London Gregorian Choral Association ...	279
Monday Popular Concerts ...	68, 119, 172, 552
Newcastle Infirmary Concerts ...	605
New Philharmonic Concerts ...	222
Opéra-Comique ...	592
Philharmonic Society ...	120, 172, 221, 277, 333, 390
Queen's Theatre (Biorn) ...	69
Royal Academy of Music ...	19, 173, 334, 390
Royal Albert Hall Choral Society ...	18, 181
— (Verdi's Requiem) ...	590
Royal Italian Opera ...	221, 275, 333, 390
Rubinstein's Recitals ...	277
Sacred Harmonic Society ...	68, 120, 172, 275, 591
St. Anne's, Soho (Christmas Oratorio) ...	19
— (Bach's Passion) ...	181
St. Gabriel's, Pimlico (Graun's Passion) ...	120
St. Paul's Cathedral (Dedication Festival) ...	68
Sons of the Clergy Festival ...	278
Wagner Festival ...	276

MISCELLANEOUS CONCERTS,
&c.

	Page		Page
Alboni, Madame (Marriage) ...	75	Goold's "Vibration Curves" ...	181
Alexandra Palace ...	182, 342	Greenhill, Mr. J. ...	342
— (School Bands and Choirs Contest)	429	Gresham Lectures ...	75, 224
Allison, Mr. A. ...	224	Grosvenor Choral Society ...	181, 224, 341, 392, 534, 606
Allison, Mr. H. C. (Degree) ...	607	Handel Festival ...	223, 281
All Saints' Church, Kensington ...	281	Handel's "Hercules" ...	223
All Souls' and St. Paul's (Amateur Concert) ...	131	Harries, Miss M. ...	182
Arab Music ...	280	Harvest Services:—
Bach's "Sing ye to the Lord" ...	182	Christ Church, Westminster ...	534
Balfour, Mr. J. B. ...	182	Holy Trinity, Bessborough Gardens ...	532
Baltimore Conservatory of Music (Peabody Concerts) ...	181	St. Andrew Undershaft ...	534
Barnett, Miss E. ...	343	St. Barnabas, Holloway ...	533
Barrett, Mr. W. A., on English Glee-Writers ...	129	St. Botolph, Bishopsgate ...	533
Bermondsey Working Men's Institute ...	75	St. Edmund the King ...	492
Best, Mr. W. T. (Organ Recitals) ...	289	St. James's, Finsbury ...	532
Birkbeck Institution (Violin Class) ...	129	St. Mary, Haggerstone ...	532
— (Mr. Stedman) ...	224, 534	St. Mary's, Vincent Square ...	534
Blagrove, Mr. R. (Concertina Concerts) ...	130, 392	St. Peter's, Windmill Street ...	533
Bolingbroke, Miss (Marriage) ...	343	Hatton, Mr. J. L. ("Hezekiah") ...	607
Bologna International Exhibition ...	182	Hawstone Hall ...	75, 342
Borough of Hackney Choral Association ...	129, 492	— (Lecture on Mendelssohn) ...	606
Bow and Bromley Institute Organ Recitals ...	130, 282, 534	Haydn's Piano ...	607
Brixton Choral Society ...	174, 289, 492	Hennes, Fräulein ...	224
British Schools, Kensington ...	181	Henry, Mdlle. Ida ...	282
Buck, Dr. ...	342	Her Majesty's Opera ...	182, 222, 535
Bunnett, Dr., and Norwich Cathedral ...	491, 606	Hodgson, Miss Clara ...	75
Carrodus and Howell's Quartett Concerts ...	130	Holloway Choral and Orchestral Society ...	182
Caxton Celebration ...	181, 282, 343	Holy Trinity, Paddington ...	29
Cheesemongers' Benevolent Institution ...	289	Holy Trinity, Tulse Hill ...	224
Childerstone, Mr. T. Loder ...	75	Horne, Miss E. ...	281
Choir Appointments 38, 85, 139, 191, 245, 352, 399, 443, 499, 553, 614		Hoyte, Mr. W. S. ...	20
Choir Benevolent Fund ...	282, 289	Hullah, Dr. (Report, Training Colleges) ...	492
Choir House, Westminster Abbey ...	70	Husband's Rev. E., Tune-book ...	493
Christ Church, Mayfair (Advent Services) ...	20	Jarvis, Mr. S. ...	224
Christ Church (Westminster Road) ...	224	Joachim, Professor, and Cambridge University ...	130
City Temple Choral Society ...	224, 282	Jordan, Mr. Warwick (Testimonial) ...	75
City Temple (Festival Service) ...	430	Kennedy, Mr. (Scottish Entertainment) ...	493
Clementi's Grave ...	75	Leeds Triennial Festival ...	20, 69, 222, 341, 430, 534
Cock, Mr. L., Sale of Copyrights ...	130	Leigh, Miss Alison ...	223
Colborne, Mr. L. ...	430	Leslie, Mr. H. (Prospectus) ...	130
Cole, Mr. J. Parry (Variety Concerts) ...	281	Lewisham (St. Mark's and St. Mary's) ...	181
College of Organists ...	392	Liverpool Musical Society ...	130
Conservatoire de Musique, Paris (Collection of English Music) ...	75	Liverpool Philharmonic Society ("Solomon") ...	131
Couldery, Mr. C. H. ...	342	London Church Choir Association ...	391
Cox, Mr. A. ...	343	London Diocesan Deaconesses' Institute ...	341
Crowest, Mr. ...	343	London Institution (Professor Barrett's Lecture) ...	69
Crystal Palace (Freemasons' Benevolent Fund) ...	222	London Society for Teaching the Blind ...	182, 380
— (Saturday Concerts) ...	492	London Vocal Union ...	342
Cuckoo's Call ...	282	Manchester Gentlemen's Glee-Club (Prize) ...	430
Cympson, Mr. E. (Board School Concert) ...	343	Melbourne Music Warehouses ...	75
Downs Chapel ("Elijah") ...	282	Middleton, Miss Edith M. ...	130
Drew, Mr. Theodore ...	282	Monday Popular Concerts ...	19, 533
Edinburgh Choral Union ...	534	Mozart and Beethoven Society ...	282
Ellis, Mr. A. J. (On Musical Pitch) ...	342	Murray, Mr. J. R. (Presentation) ...	607
Fanti Music ...	330	Musical Artists' Society ...	223
Ferrari, Miss (Marriage) ...	223	Musical Association (Report) ...	428, 430, 607
Finley, Mr. D. (Scottish Concerts) ...	130	Mus. Bacs. at Cambridge ...	182
Foreign Notes 32, 80, 134, 185, 237, 293, 347, 397, 440, 495, 548, 609		Musical Biography ...	66
Franke, Herr (Chamber Concerts) ...	130, 282	Musical Degrees at Cambridge ...	295, 334
Gardner, Mr. C. ...	343	Musical Degrees at Oxford ...	533
Gear, Mr. G. F. ...	181	Myddleton Hall ...	182
Gloucester Choral Society ...	534	National Opera House ...	492
Glasgow Choral Union ...	533	National Training School (Fishmongers' Company Scholarships) ...	75
Gloucester Festival ...	131, 281, 430	Newcastle Infirmary Concerts ...	533
		North London Choral Association ("Messiah") ...	223
		Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Scholarships ...	493
		Obituary 85, 130, 191, 245, 299, 352, 399, 443, 499, 554, 614
		Ocarina, The ...	607
		Orchestral Concerts at St. James's Hall ...	534
		Orelyanni, M. ...	343
		Organ Appointments 38, 85, 139, 191, 245, 299, 352, 399, 443, 499, 553, 614
		Ouseley's Preludes and Fugues ...	182
		Park Church, Highbury (New Organ) ...	607
		Patten, Miss ...	607
		Pauer, Mr. E. (Lectures) ...	130
		Philharmonic Society (Prospectus) ...	129
		Promenade Concerts ...	429
		Purcell Society ...	182
		Pyatt, Mr. W. (Tour) ...	392
		Reed, Mr. German ...	75, 129, 282
		Richards, Mr. Brinley (Lectures on National Music) ...	224
		— (Tour) ...	493
		Rimbault, Dr. (Cantata) ...	224
		— (Sale of Library) ...	427
		Rivière's Promenade Concerts ...	289
		Royal Academy of Music (Competitions) ...	20
		— (Smart's "Fishermidwives") ...	131
		— (Professor Macfarren's Speech) ...	532
		— (Lady Jenkinson's Address) ...	534
		— (Mr. Heathcote Long's Prize) ...	534
		Royal Albert Hall Choral Society (Verdi's Requiem) ...	131
		— (Prospectus) ...	534
		Royal Italian Opera (Prospectus) ...	174
		Royal Kent Dispensary ...	282
		Royal Normal College for the Blind ...	174, 392
		Royal Society of Musicians ...	20, 182, 222, 289, 429
		Russian National Anthem at Plymouth ...	223
		Sacred Harmonic Society (Prospectus) ...	534
		St. Anne's, Soho (Bach's "My spirit") ...	535, 607
		St. Gabriel's Church (Graun's Passion) ...	75
		St. George's Glee Union ...	70, 130, 181, 224
		— ("Athalie") ...	533
		St. James's Choir (Hampstead Road) ...	392
		St. James's Hall (Customs' Orphanage) ...	30
		St. James the Less, Westminster ...	342
		St. John the Baptist, Great Marlborough Street (Choir-boys' Entertainment) ...	75
		St. Mary's, Haggerston ...	281, 392, 607
		St. Michael's, Southwark ...	182, 282
		St. Paul's Cathedral (A Year's Music) ...	222
		— (Bach's Passion) ...	224
		— (Service for Working Classes) ...	429
		St. Saviour's, Southwark ...	223
		St. Stephen's Choral Society ...	131
		St. Thomas's, Portman Square ("Creation") ...	223
		Salaman, Mr. C. K. (On the English Language) ...	343
		Sanders, Miss F. ...	342
		Schubert Society ...	20
		Shedlock, Mr. J. S. (Chamber Music) ...	281
		— (Classical Musical Evenings) ...	534
		Sheppard, Mr. J. F. Hallett (Organ Opening) ...	607
		Shinn, Mr. G. ...	282
		Sion College Choral Union Festival ...	70
		Smith, Mr. Townshend (Testimonial) ...	20
		Smythe, Mr. R. S. ...	224
		Society for the Encouragement of the Fine Arts (Praeger's Lecture) ...	70
		South London Musical Club ...	20
		South Norwood Musical Society ...	20, 181, 392, 607
		South Place Chapel ...	20
		Southwark Choral Society ...	182
		Spark, Dr. (Organ Recitals) ...	607
		Stockwell Congregational Church (Organ Recital) ...	607

	Page
Stratford Town Hall (West Ham Infants' School) ...	289
Sunderland Philharmonic Society ...	430
Surrey County Hall, Brixton ...	607
Telephone, The ...	391
Thibaut's "On Purity in Musical Art" ...	75
Thomas, Mr. John ...	342
Tinney, Mr. C. E. ...	130
Titians, Mdlle. ...	289, 343, 392, 430, 493, 534
Tonic Sol-fa College ...	70, 343
Transposing Keyboard ...	75
Trinity College (Examinations) ...	69, 392, 535, 607
— (Choral Festival) ...	280
— (Conversazione) ...	341
— (Gloucester Branch, Madame Patey) ...	491
Trinity Presbyterian Church ("Messiah") ...	223
— ("Creation") ...	289
Turner, Miss Coyte ...	343
Wagner Concerts... ..	223
— (Portrait) ...	289
Walworth Literary Institute ...	182
Watts, Mr. G. (Benefit Concert) ...	70
Welch, Mr. J. B. ...	280
Williams, Mr. Osborne ...	281
Wolverhampton Festival Choral Society ...	607
Woods, Miss M. ...	182
Worcester Cathedral (Bach's Passion)... ..	131
— Festival ...	532, 606
Worrell-Duval, Madame ...	333
Zimmermann, Miss A. ...	281

OBITUARY NOTICES.

Anderson, G. F. ...	17
Baker, Sir Henry... ..	117
Gabriel, Virginia ...	430
Hill, J. F. ...	182
Hobbs, John William ...	67
Jackson, William... ..	492
Land, Edward ...	17
Neate, Charles ...	218
Oxenford, John ...	117
Phillips, Henry ...	17
Rietz, Dr. Julius ...	490
Roberts, Rev. John ...	282
Shore, William ...	70
Smith, George Townshend ...	427
Sullivan, F. ...	73
Titians, Mdlle. ...	530
Tolhurst, George... ..	130

REVIEWS.

Adams, J. Spare us, good Lord ...	437
Allchin, W. H. Prythee, why so pale... ..	438
Atkinson, F. C. Masonic Music ...	31
Barnby, J. It is a good thing to give thanks ...	546
Barth, A. J. Chromatic Rondo ...	440
Bartholomew, Mrs. M. The Song of a Sprite ...	437
Bennett, J. Letters from Bayreuth ...	293
Beethoven. Mount of Olives ...	493
Boccherini, L. Stabat Mater ...	346
Borrow, W. Love's Spell ...	79

Bradford, J. The Music Pupil's Register ...	393
Brown, A. H. Missa Seraphica ...	394
Burton, Rev. Gus. M. The Birth of Christ ...	132
Bywater, H. T. Lightly, gently ply the oar.—Soldier, rest ...	31
Capes, J. M. An Essay on the Growth of the Musical Scale ...	234
Carissimi. Six Cantatas ...	494
Christian Hymnal, The ...	78
Church Hymn-book, The New ...	78
Clarke, Hamilton. Grand March for Organ ...	133
— Sonatina for Pianoforte ...	347
— Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in Bb ...	393
— Lord, how are they increased ...	394
Coenen, W. Yes ...	347
— The Rose ...	438
Cooke, S. C. This is the day ...	79
Cooper, A. S. The Parochial Psalter ...	547
Cummings, W. H. The Rudiments of Music ...	536
Curwen, J. S. Slumber, darling ...	609
Dale, R. F. Four Album Leaves ...	396
Davenport, F. Variations on an Original Theme ...	347
Dessoff, Otto. Un Moment de Joie ...	547
Dick, Cotsford. On the Lake ...	236
Diehl, L. Coralline ...	439
Duchemin, C. J. Caprice à la Gavotte ...	396
Dupuis, L. La Primavera.—L' Estate.—L' Autunno.—L' Inverno ...	79
E. H. A. Tunes set to some Favourite Church Hymns ...	237
Evans-Freke, Victoria. The Song of Praise ...	233
Forman, A. The Nibelung's Ring ...	292
Frost, C. J. A Collection of Organ Pieces ...	395
Frost, W. L. Danse rustique ...	609
Gade, N. W. Comala ...	184
Gardini, G. La Gondolella ...	133
Garrett, G. A short Festal Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E2 ...	132
Gaskell, J. Old and New ...	438
Gaul, A. R. Consider the lilies.—Ruth ...	609
Gausby, J. B. The Wycliffe Canticles ...	394
Gladstone, F. E. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F ...	345
Gluck. Ballo in A major and Bourrée in A minor ...	236
Goddard, J. The New Graduated Method for the Pianoforte ...	234
Gounod, Ch. Messe du Sacré Cœur de Jésus ...	76
— Cinq-Mars ...	289
— Without thee.—Flowers from my Sweet ...	439
Handel. Hercules ...	183
— Alexander Balus ...	546
Harding, H. A. Six Short and Easy Sketches for the Pianoforte ...	132
Harper, H. Time and the Stream ...	133
Hart, A. Joyous Thoughts ...	395
Hauptmann, Moritz. Letters to L. Spohr and others ...	76
Hecht, E. A Lament for the Summer.—The Pride of Youth.—Morning Song.—Life ...	236
— Polonaise ...	396
Heins, N. A Collection of Original Sanctuses and Responses to the Commandments ...	394
Heller, S. Cradle-Song.—Feuillet d'Album.—The Soldier's Farewell ...	346
— The Huntsman's Song ...	440
— Voyage autour de ma chambre ...	133
Hennes, A. A New Method for the Piano—Second Course ...	132
Hennes, A. Home, sweet home ...	396

Hinton, J. W. The International Organist ...	345
Hird, F. W. Twelve Offertory Sentences ...	185
Hodges, E. Church Service in F ...	30
Hodson, H. E. The Office of the Holy Communion ...	185
Hopkins, E. J., and E. F. Rimbault. The Organ ...	393
Horsley, C. E. A Textbook of Harmony ...	77
Hoyle, W. S. Andante in Ab major ...	395
Hummel, J. N. Mass in Eb.—Communion Service in Eb ...	131
Hullah, John. Music in the House ...	546
Husband, Rev. E. A Service for the Holy Communion ...	78
Hymnal Companion to the Book of Common Prayer ...	233
Iliffe, F. Six Short and Easy Anthems (Book II.) ...	395
Jadassohn, S. Serenade (No. 3, A major) ...	29
Jarvis, S. Bourrée ...	293
Karasowski, M. Friedrich Chopin ...	430
Keeton, Haydn. Benedicite in Eb ...	185
Kennard, I. de Bock. A Morning Service ...	394
King, Oliver A. Legende.—Impromptu—Caprice, pour le Piano ...	30
Langley, G. Helen ...	438
Liszt, F. Rose softly blooming ...	133
— Life of Chopin ...	184
Little, H. W. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G ...	185
Lowe, A. The Earth is the Lord's ...	394
Lunn, W. A. B. The Sequential System of Musical Notation ...	393
Macfarren, G. A. The Resurrection ...	343
Macfarren, W. Second Sonata for Pianoforte and Violin ...	185
Macrone, C. A. The Balacava Charge ...	347
Mackenzie, A. C. Five Pieces for the Pianoforte (Op. 13) ...	30
— In our Boat ...	547
Magnus, D. Six Sonatinas ...	429
Major, S. D. Tunes for the Family and the Congregation ...	345
Marshall, F. A. Sweet and low.—I arise from dreams of thee.—A New Year's burden ...	396
Martin, G. C. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in A ...	546
Massé, Victor. Paul et Virginie ...	182
Matthews, Rev. T. R. The North Coates Supplemental Tune-book.—Benedictus in E ...	394
Miller, C. E. A Morning and Evening Service in E ...	345
Moosmair, A. Grand Solemn March for Organ ...	133
— A Dream ...	547
Mullen, J. O give thanks ...	345
Newbatt, E. Longing.—The Return ...	31
Nietzsche, F. Richard Wagner à Bayreuth ...	185
Nohl, L. Beethoven's Leben ...	535
— The Life of Mozart ...	603
Novello's Music Primers ...	536
Oakeley, Sir H. S. Ask me no more ...	31
Oury, Madame. Consolation ...	439
Park, John. Songs ...	184
Pauer, E. The Art of Pianoforte Playing ...	536
— The Elements of the Beautiful in Music ...	536
Pearson, W. W. The Ocean.—Sweet Spring ...	134
Phipson, Dr. T. L. Biographical Sketches and Anecdotes of Celebrated Violinists ...	234

	Page		Page		Page
Pinney, W. Three Andantes for Organ	334	A Suggestion to English Church Com- posers	350	Cambridge	612
Pinsuti, Ciro. Eyes so blue	547	Accidentals in Music, The Use of	549	Canterbury	242
Pontet, H. The dreamer	438	Air de Louis XIII.	239	Cardiff	137
Prout, E. Happy is the man	494	Authorship of the Tune "St. Mary"	240, 296	Carshalton	83
Rimbault, E. F. Scottish Melodies for Harmonium	347	Barker Fund, The	442	Castlemere	83
Roberts, H. S. Laurel Leaves	439	Consecutive Fifths, &c.	187, 188, 239	Catford	137, 297
Roberts, J. Casgliad O Donau	78	Cuckoo's Note	239, 296, 349	Chatham	398
Roberts, J. V. Jonah	131	"Harmonious Blacksmith"	442	Cheltenham	83, 189
Roedel, E. Gloriette.—Air de Danse	347	Kent's Anthems	238	Chertsey	398
Rubinstein, A. Eighteen Two-Part Songs	29	Mendelssohn Concert at the Crystal Palace	135	Chesham	137
St. Germaine, Madame. The Growth and Cultivation of the Voice in Singing	393	Mendelssohn's "Lieder ohne Worte"	33, 81	Chester	612
Salaman, C. Oh, linger.—Without thine ear	79	"Missa Seraphica"	497	Chesterfield	83
Salaman, C. Zuleika	236	Movable Do on the Staff	349	Chichester	8
Salwey, H. A. Maid of Athens.—Sleep on and dream.—While my ladye sleepeth	495	Music at the Centennial Exhibition	35	Christchurch (N.Z.)	498
Schumann, R. Music and Musicians	344	Music in America	188	Clapton	83
— Six celebrated Toccatas for Piano- forte	439	Music in the United States of Columbia	441	Clayton	242
Sewell, Rev. A. The Lord is my shep- herd	235	Music-printing, History of	611	Clewer	297
Silas, E. Gavotte in E minor	396	Musical Criticism	496	Clifton	36, 83, 189, 242, 297, 498, 551, 612
Simon, C. I prithee send me back my heart	438	Parochial Psalter	610	Cockermouth	297
Sloman, R. The sweetest song.—I'll sing of thee	236	Small Notes	82, 135, 187, 239	Coleford	297
Spark, Dr. W. The Organist's Quarterly Journal	346	Songs, The Price of	187	Colnbrook	36, 551, 612
— Short Pieces for the Organ	395	"Sticker Action" in Pianofortes	442, 497, 550	Cork	242
Spitta, P. Johann Sebastian Bach	224	Tuning and Voicing Organ Pipes	188, 239	Cottingham	242
Spontini, G. La Vestale	233			Coventry	398, 551, 612
Stainer, J. The Canticles arranged to Gregorian Tones, 4th Series	393			Derby	36, 242
— Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in Bb	493			Devizes	137, 242
— The Organ	536			Dewsbury	297
Stanford, C. Villiers. God is our hope and strength	291			Diss	298
— Three Songs from George Eliot's "Spanish Gypsy"	609			Dromore	298
Stephens, C. E. Spring	133			Dublin	350, 551
Thackray, W. Lost Israel Identified	31			Dudley	83, 189, 613
Thorne, E. H. O pray for the peace of Jerusalem	79			Dulwich	189
Tours, B. Stay, sweet swallow.—Love and Time	438			Dumfries	36, 298
— A name in the sand.—Solitude	608			Dundee	551
Trekell, J. T. Bourrée.—Le Trianon	31			Dunedin (N.Z.)	350
Trembath, H. G. Andante.—Sketch in E	439			Dunham Massey	552
Turpin, J. Sonata	494			Durweston	498
Verdi, G. Messa da Requiem, ridotta per organo	346			Ealing	552
Vinning, R. O'Leary. I am the angel	347			Eastbourne	189
Wagner, R. The Flying Dutchman	546			Edinburgh	36, 83, 137, 189, 242, 552, 613
Watson, M. Under the lily bells	80			Edmonton	242
— Six Original Pieces for Harmonium or Organ	395			Ellesmere	498
Weber. Oberon. Full score	29			Elmhurst	613
Wely. Six Romances sans paroles	79			Emley	552
— Hop	439			Enniskillen	83, 552
Wesley, S. S. An Air composed for Holsworthy Church Bells	345			Epsom	613
Willis, T. A. Love's Decree	609			Erith	83, 298
Williams, C. L. The souls of the righteous	132			Evershot	137
Winchester, E. C. Church music, &c.	437			Exeter	36, 242
Woolf, J. A vision of home	438			Falkirk	242, 613
Woyke, E. Romance (Tannhäuser) and "Casta diva" (Norma)	133			Farnham	36
Wolzogen, H. von. Grundlage und Ausgabe des allgemeinen Patronat- vereins, &c.	536			Finchley	242
Young, J. M. W. The Return of Israel to Palestine.—Luther's Hymn	235			Five Mile Town	83
				Folkestone	242
				Forest Hill	137, 552
				Gilford	552
				Gillingham	83
				Glasgow	243, 298, 498
				Gloucester	613
				Gorleston	36
				Gravesend	36, 350
				Greasbrough	243
				Great Missenden	137
				Greenock	83, 243
				Greenwich	189, 243
				Greenwich (East)	298
				Grimsby	243, 3

	Page		Page		Page
Harpden ...	298	Nantwich ...	37	Southgate ...	245
Harrogate ...	243	Newcastle-on-Tyne ...	84, 244	Southport ...	138, 351
Hastings ...	137, 243	Newport (I.W.) ...	37, 613	Southsea ...	614
Havant ...	552	Newport (Mon.) ...	298, 552	Spilsby ...	299
Haverhill ...	243	Newport (Salop) ...	37	Stafford ...	351
Hebden Bridge ...	36	Norbury ...	244	Staten Island ...	37
Heigham ...	83	Northam ...	138	Steeple Ashton ...	495
Heptonstall ...	443	North Berwick ...	84, 244, 399, 499	Stoke-on-Trent ...	249
Hereford ...	243	North Elmham ...	244	Stratford ...	190
Hexham ...	83	Norwich ...	37, 138, 351	Street ...	245
Higham Ferrers ...	351, 399	Nottingham ...	84, 190	Stroud ...	553
High Wycombe ...	83, 499	Ockley ...	613	Sunderland ...	352, 399, 614
Hindley ...	137	Oldham ...	244	Surbiton ...	37, 499
Holbeach Hurn ...	552	Ombersley ...	552	Sutton Bridge ...	443
Holwell ...	298	Orsett ...	499	Taunton ...	245
Holyport ...	298	Oswestry ...	552, 613	Tenbury ...	84, 399
Honley ...	298	Oxford ...	84, 298, 351, 613	Tewkesbury ...	443
Hounslow ...	243	Penistone ...	84	Thirsk ...	84
Huddersfield ...	552	Perth ...	37, 351	Toronto ...	190, 299
Hurstpierpoint ...	351	Peterborough ...	190, 499	Twickenham (East) ...	298
Ilfracombe ...	298	Peterhead ...	190	Uxbridge ...	37, 245
Kells... ...	399	Philadelphia ...	138, 244, 351	Ventnor ...	245
Kilmarnock ...	189	Pietermaritzburg ...	244	Walthamstow ...	553
Kingsbridge ...	190	Plumtree ...	552	Wandsworth (New) ...	553
Kirton-in-Lindsey ...	613	Plymouth ...	37, 84	Ware ...	299
Langton ...	190	Poole ...	443	Warrington ...	37
Latton ...	613	Quebec ...	613	Warwick ...	245
Launceston ...	137	Ramsgate ...	37, 84	Weston-super-Mare ...	553
Launceston (Tasmania) ...	552	Reading ...	84, 244, 553, 613	Westerham ...	84
Lee ...	83	Reigate ...	138, 190	Wellingborough ...	84
Leeds ...	137, 190, 399, 613	Richmond (Surrey) ...	298	Wellington ...	245
Leicester ...	36, 243	Richmond (Yorks) ...	37, 351	Weybridge ...	38, 139
Leith ...	36, 243	Ripley ...	84	Whiston ...	245
Leominster ...	137	Ripon ...	351	Whittington ...	553
Leverington ...	443	Rochdale ...	84	Wigston Magna ...	352
Lewisham ...	552	Rochester ...	37, 299	Wimbledon ...	84, 614
Lichfield ...	613	Romford ...	299	Winchester ...	553, 614
Lincoln ...	37, 243	Rugby ...	399	Windsor ...	85, 139, 299, 553
Liskeard ...	552	Rushock ...	138	Wisbeach ...	299
Littlehampton ...	552	Ryde ...	84, 138, 244, 299, 443, 499	Wokingham ...	139, 299, 553
Liverpool ...	37, 83, 190, 137, 243, 298, 552	Saddleworth ...	84, 614	Woodford ...	299
Macclesfield ...	83, 138	St. Albans ...	351	Woolwich ...	352
Maidenhead ...	37, 138	St. Peters (Thanet) ...	399	Wolverton ...	553
Maidstone ...	37, 243	Salisbury ...	84, 244, 614	Wolverhampton ...	38, 85, 139, 191, 245
Maldon ...	243	Scarborough ...	190, 553	Worcester ...	85, 299, 352, 553
Malvern ...	138, 613	Sileby ...	245	Worle ...	245
Manchester 84, 190, 138, 298, 351, 399	552, 613	Silvertown ...	138, 245	Worsley ...	299
March ...	443	Shanklin ...	244	Worthing ...	245
Market Rasen ...	138	Sheffield 84, 138, 190, 244, 351, 553, 614
Melbourne (Australia) ...	84, 190, 351, 399	Sherborne ...	37, 244	Yeovil ...	499
Melbourne (Derbyshire) ...	244	Shrewsbury ...	244, 399	York ...	38
Middlesbrough-on-Tees ...	499	Slough ...	399	Youghal ...	443

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

The Music Pages only are stereotyped; those persons who would possess the Musical Articles, Notices, Advertisements, &c., can only ensure doing so by taking the work as it appears.

No. 407.—Vol. 18.
Registered for transmission abroad.

JANUARY 1, 1877.

Price 3d.; Post free, 4d.
Annual Subscription, Postage free, 4s.

FORSYTH BROTHERS' NEW PUBLICATIONS.

NEW COMPOSITIONS FOR THE PIANOFORTE, By CHARLES HALLÉ.

GLUCK'S MENUËT GRAZIOSO, in G. Transcription. Price 3s. GLUCK'S TAMBOURIN, in D. Transcription. Price 3s.
TWILIGHT THOUGHTS. Op. 7. Price 4s.

THE LATEST COMPOSITIONS FOR THE PIANOFORTE, By STEPHEN HELLER.

Edited and carefully Fingered by CHARLES HALLÉ.

THREE NEW STUDIES. Op. 139. Price 4s. VOYAGE AUTOUR DE MA CHAMBRE. Op. 140. Two Books, price 4s. each.
FOUR BARCAROLLES. Op. 141. Two Books, price 4s. each.

NEW COMPOSITIONS FOR THE PIANOFORTE, By CARL REINECKE.

Edited and carefully Fingered by CHARLES HALLÉ.

SOUTHERN PICTURES. Two Books, price 4s. each. TWENTY-FOUR STUDIES. Op. 121. Three Books, price 6s. each
TWENTY-FOUR CHARACTERISTIC PIECES. Op. 137. Four TWELVE SKETCHES, in Canonical Form. Pianoforte Duets.
Books, price 4s. each. Two Books, price 5s. each.
GAVOTTE, in E flat. Op. 129, No. 3.

NEW PIANOFORTE MUSIC.

GEORGE NEVILLE.

	s. d.
BARBER OF SEVILLE. Fantasia	3 0
DER FREISCHUTZ. "	3 0
DON JUAN. "	3 0
DON PASQUALE. "	3 0
ELISIE D'AMOUR. "	3 0
FRA DIAVOLO. "	3 0
HUGUENOTS. "	3 0
TANNHAUSER. "	3 0
UN BALLO IN MASCHERA. "	3 0
WATER CARRIER. "	3 0
WILLIAM TELL. "	3 0
ZAMPA. "	3 0

COTSFORD DICK.

CLOUDS AND SUNSHINE	3 0
MADRIGAL	3 0

FELIX LÖWE.

AMÉLIE. Valse Caprice	4 0
EN AVANT. Galop Militaire	4 0

J. WRIGLEY.

PUCK. Scherzo	3 0
----------------------	-----

J. RANDOLPH.

	s. d.
IN THE GLOAMING. Air with Variations	4 0
THE MOUNTAIN RILL. Morceau de Salon	3 0
THE RETURN. March	3 0
THE STREAMLET. Sketch	3 0
TORRENT, LE. Grand Valse	4 0
A WAYSIDE DREAM. Caprice	3 0

FREDERICK UNGER.

INVOCATION. Allegro Appassionata	4 0
LIEBESFRÜHLING. Three Sonnets each	3 0
POLONAISE	4 0
PHANTASIESTÜCKE	4 0
ROMANCE	2 6
STURMLIED. Storm Song	4 0

W. WALKER.

BALLET DES SYLPHES. (From Berlioz's "Faust")	3 0
---	-----

S. ELSE.

IDYLLE	2 6
JOYOUS SPRING	3 0
WANDERMARCH	3 0

NEW ORGAN ARRANGEMENTS.

GEO. MARSDEN, MUS. BAC., CANTAB.

TWO MOVEMENTS by CHARLES HALLÉ	3 0
---------------------------------------	-----

A. E. TOZER, F.C.O.

LIEBESFRÜHLING. Sonnet. Composed by F. UNGER	3 0
---	-----

NEW AND POPULAR SONGS.

H. BASQUIT.

BY THY FAV'RING WIND	3 0
CUPID'S CHALLENGE	3 0
I AM SAD	3 0
JESSIE	3 0
SWEET DAY, GOOD BYE	3 0

ASOR DOOLF.

HUSH THY REJOICING	3 0
WHAT AILS THIS HEART O' MINE	3 0

EDWARD HECHT.

BIRD AND MAIDEN	3 0
CORNFLOWER GARLANDS	3 0

CORTES PERERA.

LULLABY	3 0
----------------	-----

CARL ENGEL.

LOVE ME, DARLING	3 0
-------------------------	-----

All the above Sold at Half-price, and may be had from all Musicsellers.

FORSYTH BROTHERS, 272A, REGENT CIRCUS, OXFORD STREET, LONDON AND CROSS STREET, SOUTH KING STREET, MANCHESTER.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS PAULINE EVISON (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 57, Walsley Street, Hull.

MISS FLORENCE CLYDE (Soprano).

For Opera, Oratorio, and Concerts, 24, Watterton Road, W.

MISS ALMINA HALLOWELL (Soprano).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address Ripponden, near Halifax, Yorks.

MRS. NEESHAM (Soprano).

For Oratorio or other Concerts, address 118, Burley Road, Leeds.

MISS ARTHUR (Soprano).

For Oratorios and Concerts, address Butterley House, Leeds.

MRS. WARREN (Soprano).

Of Mr. C. Hallé's Concerts. For Oratorio or other Concerts, address

150, Radnor Street, Hulme, Manchester.

Lessons in Singing. References—C. Hallé, Esq., and E. Hecht, Esq.

MRS. ALFRED J. SUTTON (Soprano)

Is open to engagements for Concerts and Oratorios.

54, Duchess Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

MISS M. B. CRICHTON (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 2, Hallfield Place, Bradford.

MISS ANNETTE IVANOVA (Soprano).

For Concerts, &c., Brooklyn, Howard Road, South Norwood.

MRS. WILSON JACKSON (Soprano).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., 1, Duchess Road, Birmingham.

MDME. ELLEN GLANVILLE (Soprano).

20, Frithville Gardens, Uxbridge Road, Shepherd's Bush, W.

MRS. MARK BROWNE (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 85, Broad Street, Birmingham.

MISS JULIET SMITH (Contralto).

For Oratorios and Concerts, address care of J. F. Jones and Co., 44, Corporation Street, Manchester.

MISS PATTI HARGREAVES (Contralto).

70, Crawford Street, Camp Road, Leeds.

MISS EDITH CLELLAND (Contralto).

Address 51, Elizabeth Street, Cheetham, Manchester.

MR. SIDNEY BARNBY (Alto Soloist).

For Concert and other engagements, address St. Paul's Cathedral.

H. D. PERCY (Tenor).

All engagements to 134, Falmouth Road, New Kent Road, S.E.

MR. WILLIAM DUMVILLE (Tenor).

For Oratorios and Concerts, address 14, Duke Street, Broughton, or Cathedral, Manchester.

MR. VERNEY BINNS (Tenor).

(Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Sig. Ciro Pinsuti.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 6, New Bond Street, Halifax.

MR. JAMES SEARLE (Tenor),

321, Liverpool Road.

W. A. HOWELLS (Tenor).

(Of the Royal Academy of Music.) For Concerts and Pupils, 8, Upper Barnsby Street, Islington, N.

MR. DUNCAN FINLAY (Tenor).

Opera, Oratorio, and Concert Party, 24, Watterton Road, W.

MR. D. DUXBURY (Tenor).

For Oratorios and Concerts, address Albemarle Terrace, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MR. GREENHILL (Tenor).

For Concerts, Pupils, &c., 7, Alma Square, St. John's Wood.

MR. ORLANDO CHRISTIAN (Baritone).

For Oratorios and Concerts, address 18, Adelaide Square, Windsor.

MR. GRIMSBY JOPP, R.A.M. (Bass).

For Oratorios, Concerts, and Pupils, address 109, Downs Road, Clapton.

MR. A. MCCALL (Bass)

For Oratorios and Concerts, address Minster, York.

MR. RICKARD (Bass)

(Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Signor Ciro Pinsuti.)
For Oratorios and Concerts, address King Cross, Halifax, Yorkshire.

MR. THORNTON WOOD (Bass)

(Of the Royal Albert Hall Concerts.) For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 2, Hallfield Place, Bradford, Yorkshire.

MR. F. CECIL (Basso).

For Oratorios and Miscellaneous Concerts, and Opera, address
Mr. Clelland, Cheetham, Manchester.

MR. WILLIAM W. MEADOWS (Pianist).

Address 39, Thurloe Place, South Kensington, S.W.

MRS. OSGOOD requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Oratorios and Miscellaneous Concerts may be addressed to Mr. N. Vert, 52, New Bond Street, W.

CHORAL SOCIETIES.

MR. J. W. HAWES (Contra Fagotto, of Sacred Harmonic, Philharmonic, and Crystal Palace Concerts, Festivals, &c.) can be engaged for the following works: Dr. Macfarren's Accompaniments to "Israel in Egypt," "The Resurrection," "St. John the Baptist;" Dr. A. Sullivan's "Light of the World" and "Prodigal Son." Letters addressed to 63, Vauxhall Bridge Road, London, S.W.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.—EVENING

CLASSES are now held in the following subjects: Harmony, Counterpoint, Classics, French, and German. Instruction will be given in other branches on application of a sufficient number of Students. The new term will commence on Monday, January 8, 1877, at the Class Rooms, 17, Ridinghouse Street, Langham Place, W.
All communications to be made to the undersigned.HUMPHREY J. STARK, Mus. B., Hon. Registrar,
7, Thurlow Terrace, Lower Norwood, S.E.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.—The next

EXAMINATION for LICENTIATE and ASSOCIATE in MUSIC will take place at the Class-Rooms of the College, January 5 and 6, 1877. Entrance fees and Exercises must be sent to the undersigned, at the address below, not later than Dec. 31.HUMPHREY J. STARK, Mus. B., L. Mus., T.C.L., Hon. Registrar,
7, Thurlow Terrace,
Lower Norwood, S.E.

COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS, 41, Queen Square,

W.C.—The CHRISTMAS EXAMINATION will take place on JANUARY 10th and 11th, at 10 A.M. Intending Candidates must send in their names on or before Monday the 8th of January to the Hon. Sec., from whom full particulars may be learned. Applicants should state which of the two days named will be preferred. The usual Monthly Meeting of members and friends will not take place in January. E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Sec.

SOUTH LONDON MUSICAL TRAINING

COLLEGE.—Principal: Mr. JACOB BRADFORD, Mus. B., Oxon.
Professors for all Instruments. Students have free admission to the Classes for Theory, Rudimentary Harmony, and Elementary Singing conducted by the Principal. There are vacancies for two resident pupils. The Classes will be resumed January 8th.HARMONY CLASS on Mondays, at 8.30 p.m. (Class A, complete Class B, now forming.)

HARMONY and COMPOSITION by correspondence.

MUSICAL GRADUATES' CLASS, for the preparation of Candidates for Musical Degrees, will be held during the next Term.
Particulars upon application.OXFORD PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION, 1877.—A private examination of the pupils of the College preparing for the above will be held at the College on Monday, January 15th, at 10 a.m., to which a limited number of other Candidates can be admitted. Entrance Fee:
Half-a-Guinea. Names must be entered not later than January 12th.
College Certificates will be granted to successful Candidates.SOUTH LONDON MUSICAL TRAINING COLLEGE.—
Prospectus post free. Address Principal, College House, S. James's, Hatcham, S.E.

MUSICAL DEGREES and EXAMINATIONS.—

J. W. HINTON, Mus. Doc., M.A., 40, Albany Street, N.W., prepares candidates for Mus. B. or Mus. D., of Oxford, Cambridge, or Dublin, in all branches they may require. Dr. H. continues to revise or orchestrate for composers. Harmony and Counterpoint by post if required.MUSICAL DEGREES.—R. SLOMAN, Mus. D., Oxon., receives PUPILS in Town, and prepares them for Oxford, Cambridge, and London University Examinations. Address
Dr. Sloman, Reading.

MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS.—CANDIDATES

TRAINED for Examinations, either personally or by correspondence. Dr. Holloway, F.C.O., 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.TO COMPOSERS.—Dr. HOLLOWAY continues to Revise and Arrange every description of Music for Publication. Students prepared for the profession or for examinations.
If residing at a distance, lessons can be had by post. Faults pointed out, and every information given to the young aspirant. Dr. Holloway, F.C.O., 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.A GENTLEMAN is desirous of giving LESSONS by post in HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT. References from present pupils, if desired. Terms very moderate. Address Magister, Musical Times Office, 1, Berners Street, London, W.MR. JOHN HILES, 41, Aldridge Road Villas, W.
(Author of the "Catechism of Harmony, Thorough-bass, and Modulation," "Hiles' Short Voluntaries," "Catechism for the Pianoforte Student," and several other important musical works), gives Lessons in Harmony, &c., by post.

MR. HUMPHREY J. STARK, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., S.C.F., undertakes to prepare candidates for Musical Examinations, and to give Lessons in Harmony and Composition by post. 7, Thurlow Terrace, Norwood Road, S.E.

TO STUDENTS.—The Organist of Ripon Cathedral Teaches HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT by Correspondence. For terms, address Edwin J. Crow, Mus. Bac., Cantab.

THE ORGANIST OF St. John's Church, Caterham, has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL. He will receive a thorough Musical Education, &c. For particulars apply to C. J. Tugwell, Organist, Caterham.

ORGAN LESSONS and PRACTICE on a fine new Instrument, with 2 manuals, 15 stops, 2½ octaves of pedals, with Bourdons throughout. Terms moderate. Allen's Musical Instrument Warehouse, 17, Percy Street, Bedford Square, W. Lessons and Practice on other Instruments also.

ORGAN PRACTICE or INSTRUCTION.—Three Manuals, each of 56 notes, pedal organ, 30 notes, 17 effective stops, and blown by Lea's Automatic Hydraulic Engine. Terms, which are strictly inclusive, on application at Blennerhasset's Organ School and Studio, 14, Vernon Street, Pentonville, W.C.

ORGAN STUDIO, 140 (late 166), STRAND (opposite the Gaity).—LESSONS or PRACTICE (and at St. Michael's, Stockwell, S.W.) on fine two-manual C ORGANS (Hill and Son).—Full pedal compass.—W. VENNING SOUTHGATE (Organist, St. Michael's, Stockwell), "the Strand Organ Studio," W.C. Est. 1867.

PIANOFORTE, ORGAN, HARMONIUM, SINGING, HARMONY, and COMPOSITION, LESSONS to Private Pupils or in Schools. Dr. Arthur S. Holloway, 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

YORKSHIRE (ST. CECILIA) CONCERT PARTY. Miss Evison, Miss Kennedy, Mr. Nunn, Mr. Dodds, Mr. Shaw, Pianist. Address Mr. Dodds, 52, Queen's Place, Leeds.

ESTABLISHED APRIL 1866.
THE ENGLISH GLEE UNION.
Mr. H. ASHTON, Mr. F. H. COZENS,
Mr. FOUNTAIN MEEN, Mr. ALBERT HUBBARD,
ASSISTED BY
Madame ASHTON.

For terms, &c., address H. Ashton, Secretary, Ivy House, Stamford Hill, London, N.

To Conductors of Musical Societies, Concert Agents, and the Musical Profession generally.

"THE LIVERPOOL QUARTETTE," consisting of Miss Linda Cuthbert, Soprano; Miss Marie Ternan, Contralto; Mr. S. Tebbutt, Tenore; and Mr. T. H. Harrison, Basso; with Mr. F. W. Hampson, Conductor—is prepared to accept Engagements for Ballad and Oratorio Concerts, Banquets, &c.

Programmes selected from an extensive répertoire of Songs, Duets, Trios, Glee, Madrigals, and Operatic and Oratorio Concerted Music. For terms apply to the Secretary, Mr. S. Tebbutt, 41, Grey Road, Walton; or to Messrs. Hime and Son, Musicians, 57, Church Street, and 18, Hamilton Square, Birkenhead, Business Agents to the Liverpool Quartette.

MR. STEDMAN'S CONCERT PARTY for Oratorio and Miscellaneous Concerts, Institutions, Evening Parties, Soirées, &c., &c.

PARTIES MADE UP FROM THE FOLLOWING EMINENT ARTISTS: Miss Annie Sinclair, Miss Sophie Ferrari, Miss Mary Davies, Miss Matilda Scott, Miss Marie Duval, Miss Jessie Royd, Mdme. Poole, Miss Annie Butterworth, Miss Dones, Miss Gill, Miss Ada Muriel, Mdme. Osborne Williams, Mr. Stedman, Mr. Alfred Kenningham, Mr. J. L. Wadmore, Mr. George Fox, Mr. Henry Pope, Mr. Thurlay Beale, Mr. King Hall, Mr. Henry Parker, &c., &c.

THE STANDARD QUARTET—Messrs. Hodges, Stedman, Charles Beckett, and Thurlay Beale. For terms and particulars, address Mr. STEDMAN, 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIR-TRAINER.—A Lady, of several years' experience, desires a SITUATION. Address W. Parratt, Esq., Organist, Magdalen College, Oxford.

RE-ENGAGEMENT desired (in or near London), by an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER of several years' experience. Communicant. Excellent testimonials and references. Good Organ and Choral Service preferred. Is a pupil of Dr. G. A. Macfarren, and during the last eighteen months has been in Berlin, studying the higher branches of composition under Prof. Kiel. Will return to England in April. Address Organist, care of Rev. R. Bellson, 109, Königgrätzer Strasse, Berlin.

THE ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER of a West End church is desirous of taking a daily service (Sunday excepted). Address B. K. F., 21, Porchester Road, Bayswater, W.

ORGANIST.—A Lady, thoroughly qualified, desires a post as ORGANIST, either in London or within 20 miles. Is an experienced, clever trainer. Excellent references. Address L., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—A Professional Gentleman requires a RE-ENGAGEMENT as above. Address H. J. Dean, 2, Blomfield Street, Finsbury, E.C.

DEPUTY ORGANIST.—An Amateur seeks an ENGAGEMENT as above. Address J. Stair, Music Warehouse, Broadway, South Hackney.

LADY PUPIL, of eminent masters, desires an APPOINTMENT in a School or Music Warehouse. Can teach Pianoforte, Harmonium, and Singing. Address Miss Maggie Wilson (Mr. John Smith), Trafalgar Street, Burnley, Lancashire.

SOLO FLAUTIST is prepared to accept Engagements for Oratorios, Concerts, Festivals, &c. Terms on application to W. Oates, 9, Alexandra Road, Northampton.

WANTED, by a Young Lady, a SITUATION in a Pianoforte and Music Warehouse. Is a good Pianist, has had experience in a Music Warehouse, and can be well recommended. Address, &c., to E. B., 44, Robertson Street, Hastings.

ARTICLED PUPIL.—A gentlemanly Youth REQUIRED by the Organist and Professor to S. George's School, Brampton, Huntingdon. Two choral services daily. Fine organ. Unusual advantages offered. Address for particulars as above.

CHURCH CHOIR.—WANTED, TWO LEADING TREBLES in a surplised choir. Remuneration according to ability. Apply to Choirmaster, any Thursday at 9 p.m., Christ Church, Watney Street, Commercial Road, E.

WANTED, TREBLES, BOYS, for St. Barnabas, Bell Street, Edgware Road. Must be good readers and have good voices. £5 per annum. Apply Rev. R. W. Burnaby, 17, Blandford Square.

WELLS CATHEDRAL.—WANTED, for the Choir, a person aged from 25 to 30, with a good TENOR VOICE, experienced in Cathedral music, and of good moral character. The candidate engaged will be required to attend, and take his proper part in all the Services of the Cathedral, unless special leave of absence be given by the Dean and Chapter, and will be remunerated at the rate of £80 per annum. If elected a member of the College of Vicars, he will have to attend and take his proper part in the Services as above stated, and will participate in the divisible revenues of the College, with the prospect of having a Vicar's House assigned to him as vacancies arise. The Dean and Chapter will make up the income of the Vicar, who fulfils his duties according to their regulations, to £80 per annum, by payments from the Chapter Fund, if his share of the annual divisible revenues of the College shall not amount to that sum. Applications, with Testimonials as to ability and character, which latter will be an essential qualification, to be addressed on or before the 15th day of January next to Mr. Lavington, Cathedral Organist.

Wells, 13th December, 1876.

TENOR VOICE WANTED, for Church near London. Sunday duty only. Anglican music; surplised choir. Stipend, £10. Address Rev. E. V. Hall, Spring Grove, Isleworth.

BASS VOICES.—TWO REQUIRED, for choir of Holy Trinity Church, Bishop's Road, Paddington. Duties: twice every Sunday, and third service each alternate Sunday, except first Sunday in month. Salary, £10 per annum. Choir surplised. Service choral. Apply at Vestry Monday or Thursday, between 7 and 8 o'clock. Send Testimonials to Mr. E. Barnes, 107, Belsize Road, N.W.

WANTED, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, of high musical attainments and ability to train a choir, for a cathedral in the west of Ireland. Must be a Catholic, of excellent character. Testimonial from the priest where last engaged. Salary, £60, with good prospects of piano tuition. Address K., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, for Whitechapel Parish Church. Large new Organ building by Messrs. Hill. Salary, £70 per annum. Candidates will be selected by competition early in January. Notice of the time and place will be sent to invited Candidates. Applications (by letter only) to be forwarded to the Rev. J. F. Kitto, Rectory, Whitechapel, E., by January 2, enclosing copies of two Testimonials, one from a musician and another from a clergyman.

WANTED, by the 24th Lancashire Rifle Volunteers, Rochdale, a Resident BANDMASTER. Apply, by letter, to the Adjutant.

WANTED, a Young Man, to assist in a Music Warehouse, and make himself generally useful. Must be able to tune Pianofortes and Harmoniums well; also teach young pupils, and play the Pianofortes decently. Apply to C. Hoggett, Music Warehouse, West Hartlepool.

WANTED, an ASSISTANT in Music Business, quick and trustworthy. Mr. Dunkley, 101, High Street, Clapham, S.W.

MUSIC ENGRAVER.—WANTED, a competent hand. Apply to R. Notless, care of Simpkin and Marshall, Stationers' Hall Court, London, stating salary, &c.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED for the country, where there is an opening for teaching, and probable appointment, at small salary, as Organist. W. H., 25, Park Crescent, Stockwell, London.

TO ORGAN BUILDERS.—WANTED, first-class WORKMEN (inside hands). Apply to Mr. J. Porritt, Organ Builder, Leicester.

CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION.

NOTICE.

A PRIZE MEDAL of the FIRST RANK was awarded at Philadelphia, 1876, to

PELOUBET, PELTON & Co.,
NEW YORK,

FOR THE GENERAL EXCELLENCE OF THEIR

“STANDARD”

AMERICAN ORGANS.

PRICES, 12 TO 125 GUINEAS.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE to be had on application to

BARNETT SAMUEL & SON,

31, HOUNDSDITCH, E.C., & 32, WORSHIP STREET,
FINSBURY SQUARE,

Sole Agents for the United Kingdom and British Colonies.

A LIBERAL DISCOUNT ALLOWED TO THE TRADE.

EAST LONDON ORGAN WORKS,

9, Burdett Road, Mile End, E.—E. CARDER is prepared to send Specifications for building Organs of very superior materials and workmanship. Alterations, rebuilding, and repairs. First-class workmen sent to all parts on very moderate terms. Tuning, &c. Second-hand ORGANS for SALE.

ORGANS for Church or Chamber, full, rich tone, from 35 guineas. ORGAN HARMONIUMS, with 1 or 2 manuals, full compass of pedals, from 25 to 54 guineas, invaluable for Teaching or Organ Practice. SPRAGUE'S Celebrated ORGAN-TONE HARMONIUMS, 6 guineas; best in the trade.—William Sprague, 7, Finsbury Pavement, London.

A. MONK'S 100-Guinea ORGANS, 2 CC Manuals, 16 Bourdon pedal pipes, 10 stops. 200-guinea Organs, 2 manuals, 16 stops. 300-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 21 stops. 400-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 27 stops. Organs built to any design. Old Organs rebuilt. Additions, Repairs, Tunings, &c. Specifications and Estimates free. Sussex Terrace, King's Road, Camden Town, London.

“TOWER” ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications made out for Organs. Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing, and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. Willis, 29, Minorities, London.

STUTTGART HARMONIUM COMPANY.—LEOPOLD KAHN, Stuttgart, Germany.

Price Lists on application to ALPHONSE CARY, Sole Representative, 26, Fortess Terrace, Kentish Town, N.W.; close to Kentish Town Station. Inspection solicited.

“A supreme and perfect harmony of notes.”

E. & W. SNELL'S IMPROVED HARMONIUMS, for tone, touch, articulation, and general excellence, are pronounced by the profession and public the best and cheapest extant. Prices, designs, &c., free of E. and W. Snell, 37, Kelly Street, London, N.W. Manufactory, Little King Street North, N.W. Trade supplied.

VERTICAL IRON FRAME PIANOFORTES.—

STRUNG UPON A SINGLE CASTING.

CHECK ACTION. Trichord to Covered Strings. Compensating for thermometric changes. Irreproachable stability of construction. Highly important to the Trade, especially in the Colonies.

Full particulars from the makers, PARKER & SMITH, Plymouth. Good Workmen Wanted. Constant employment. Expense of living 20 per cent. less than in London.

SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS.—New Model by Kaps, of Dresden.—This instrument is an improvement on the original Short Grand now so well known. The volume and brilliancy of tone is much increased; it has an unfailling repetition action, and will compare favourably with much larger and more costly instruments. May be purchased wholesale and retail or hired at the original Depot, 26, North Audley Street, W., Proprietor, C. E. FLAYELL.

NEW-YEAR'S PRESENTS.

LONDON AGENTS,

Messrs. MOUTRIE & SON,

PIANOFORTE SALOON,

55, BAKER STREET, LONDON, W.

MR. J. HAMILTON begs to inform Organists, Organ Students, and others that the Pedals and Action for attachment to Pianofortes manufactured by him can be inspected and ordered at the above address.

A set of Straight Pedals 30 notes (C to F), with action and printed instructions, “How to Attach,” price £4 4s. Or Radiating and Concave Pedal Board, with action, price £5 5s.

TESTIMONIAL.

Accrington, August 2, 1876.

Dear Sir,—I enclose cheque for the pedals. I have put the Pedals fairly to the test and am fully satisfied with them; the Action is so light and simple that the touch of the Pianoforte does not suffer, and at the same time they are as effective as it is possible to get them.

Yours, &c.,

JAMES GREEN, Organist.

To Mr. J. Hamilton.

Orders accompanied with Cheque or P.O. Order will receive immediate attention. Send for prices to the Profession and Trade.

Address J. HAMILTON, 11, Brunswick Street, City Road, Bristol.

RUSSELL'S MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

CONCERTINAS, Harmoniums, Organ Accordions, Flutinas, Drums, Fifes, Flutes, Violins, Cornets, Saxhorns, Clarionets, Flageolets, Guitars, Banjos, Musical Boxes, Strings, &c. Self-Instruction Books. Instruments repaired or exchanged. Price Lists free. J. Russell, 158, Goswell Road, Clerkenwell, London.

DEAN'S CHEAP MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

School Band Flutes from 3s. 6d.; 8-Key Concert Flutes, 25s.; Cornets in case, 30s.; Drums, Tambourines, Banjos, and every article in the trade. A good Violin, with Bow and Book, in case, 20s. English, Roman, and Acrobelle Violin Strings—5 best firsts, warranted to stand at concert pitch, sent free for 13 stamps. Price Lists sent free. Joseph Dean, Music Warehouse, 77, City Road, E.C.

T. R. WILLIS (established 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Music Strings, Wire, &c., Violins, Concertinas, &c. 29, Minorities, London. List for stamp.

BRASS, REED, STRING, and DRUM and FIFE BANDS, PIANOFORTES and HARMONIUMS, supplied at wholesale prices, at J. MOORE'S, Buxton Road, Huddersfield. Prices, with drawings of every instrument, post free. Music for any kind of band. Patronised by the army, navy, and rifle corps.

VIOLINS.—The New Joseph Guarini Violin, recommended by Sivori, Leonard, and Remenji, is worthy the attention of all violinists seeking a violin made in accordance with the true art principles, as opposed to the vile imitative craft now so common. Price £7 10s. Sole agent, W. Hargreaves, 7, St. Ann Street, Manchester.

VIOLINS, TENORS, VIOLONCELLOS, and DOUBLE BASSES, by “Craske,” equal to Stradivarius and Guarnerius.

Upwards of 500 of these splendid Instruments now on Sale at Edward Crompton's, 54, Barton Arcade, Deansgate, Manchester (3rd floor), many of which have been made 50 years.

Also a large collection of Italian Instruments.

J. B. CRAMER and CO.'S FRENCH POLISH REVIVER, invented by GEORGE WATTS, for cleaning and polishing furniture, pianos, and leather, of every description.

OPINIONS OF THE LONDON AND BRIGHTON PRESS.

“This is a really genuine article.”—Times. “The brilliant and lasting polish obtained is surprising.”—Guardian. “Very successful results have attended its application.”—Daily News. “We have, therefore, much pleasure in recommending it to house-keepers as a really useful and valuable preparation.”—The Queen. “Anyone can use Cramer's reviver with success.”—The Orchestra.

Price 1s., 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d. per bottle. To be obtained of grocers and pianoforte dealers. Agents wanted.

Wholesale and retail agents—J. B. Cramer and Co., and Metzler and Co., London. Manufacturers—J. B. Cramer & Co., Brighton.

SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES.—150 by

Broadwood, Collard, Erard, Allison, &c., from 4 guineas upwards. HARMONIUMS (New), from £5, in Walnut or Mahogany cases. Largest stock of Pianos and Harmoniums in London at Kelly and Co.'s, 11, Charles Street, Middlesex Hospital. Trade supplied.

SECOND-HAND ORGAN, rebuilt (by a good maker). Two manuals, 14 stops, 1 composition pedal, 16 feet, tone bourdon, varnished pine case, decorated front pipes. Warranted a good instrument. Carriage paid per rail under 50 miles. Price 150 guineas. Apply John Hoyland, 23 and 25, Bow Street, Sheffield.

TO SELL MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS of every description, also Libraries of Music, Music Plates and Copyrights, Stock-in-Trade, &c., SALE (devoted exclusively to this class of property) held every month. Single instruments inserted. Consignments received at any time. Puttick and Simpson, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C. [Established 1794.]

ACCURATE METRONOMES, 1s., post free. Rudiments of Singing, 1s. per dozen. Singing Class Tutor, 12th ed., 6d. each. D. Scholefield, Trinity Street, Huddersfield.

ORGAN to be SOLD, a small Organ by Willis, built in 1870. Four stops, pedals, all enclosed in swell; hand and foot blower. In perfect condition. Price £50. Address Rev. Edward Wanklyn, S. Michael's, Bournemouth.

ORGAN for immediate SALE.—Two manuals, 9 stops in great organ, 4 in swell, bourdon pedal, 1 coupler, 4 combination pedals. Apply, the Vicar, Wellingborough.

ORGAN (Small); 7 stops and pedal. £30. Address W. H. Waites, Clayton West, Huddersfield.

WANTED, an FFF or GG CHAMBER ORGAN, sound-board with action (FFF preferred), for 3 or 4 stops. State price, compass, and dimensions. Viola, Denbigh, North Wales.

CHAMBER ORGAN WANTED, about 6 stops, 2 manuals, pedals, with independent bourdons; or good HARMONIUM, 2 manuals and pedals. Price and other particulars, by letter only, to G. A. P., 26, St. Paul's Place, Canonbury, N.

ORGAN WANTED (Secondhand), for Country Church. Full particulars and lowest price to J. G., 82, Norfolk Terrace, Westbourne Grove, W.

FULL GRAND PIANO, by BROADWOOD, 7 octaves, trichord throughout, Rosewood, lately new, and had little use, 65 gs., cost 150 gs.; also a 7-octave COTTAGE, by same maker, £33, cost 55 gs., new under two years ago. To Organist of St. John's, Putney Hill, S.W.

SILVER CYLINDER FLUTE, Boehm's Parabola, Carte's Fingering, in case complete. Perfect condition. Cause of disposal, ill health. £15 15s. Apply to B. P. Willis, Ilfracombe.

QUARTERLY SALE OF MUSICAL PROPERTY.
120 PIANOFORTES will be included in the above by all the leading European manufacturers, viz., Broadwood, Collard, Erard, Kirkman, Allison, Chappell, Wornum, Cramer, Ziegler, Scholtus, Niedermayer, Hermann, Johnson, &c. several HARMONIUMS, by Christophe, &c.; ORGANS, in elaborate walnut and resonant cases, by Alexandre (à l'Americaine); HARPS, by Erard, &c.; together with a large assemblage of sundries, Pianoforte Hammers, Rails, Desks, Frets, Dampers, Stickers, Hoppers, Ivories, Concertinas, Violins, Flutes, Musical Boxes, Pictures, Sheet Music, &c., &c., being the unredemmed Pledges from various London and other Pawnbrokers, &c., consigned for convenience of Sale.

MESSRS. KELLY & CO. beg to announce they will sell the valuable property as above at their Great Repository, 11, CHARLES STREET, Berners Street, London, on WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 3, 1877, commencing at 12 o'clock precisely. The goods may be viewed and catalogues had (post free) the day prior and morning of Sale.

"A copyright may be a fortune."
MESSRS. H. G. HALLIFAX & CO., 315, Oxford Street, W., are prepared to ENGRAVE and PRINT AUTHORS' COPYRIGHT WORKS, and introduce them on MUTUAL TERMS. Send for Catalogue.

TO COMPOSERS wishing to PUBLISH.—Music Engraved, Printed, and Published in the best style at unusually low prices. Estimates free on receipt of MS. SIMPSON and Co., 33, Argyll Street, Regent Street, London, W.

MUSIC ENGRAVED, PRINTED, AND PUBLISHED in the best style, and on moderate terms, a statement of which sent on application by B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest varied stock of Music in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day, or if in stock posted immediately if required. Terms highly advantageous.
London: B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row.

LITHOGRAPHIC COPYING.—Cheapest System for Preparing Music. All orders neatly executed. Specimen. F. C. Wood, 32, Vincent Square, Westminster, S.W.

TO PROFESSORS RETIRING and Others.—A Young Lady (Organist and pupil of eminent masters) desires to PURCHASE CONNECTION in Pianoforte Teaching, or would act as Assistant. Address (care of M. R. A.) 17, Kilburn Square, N.W.

TENDERS solicited for a first-class MUSIC BUSINESS (old established), with extensive Tuning Connection. Cause of disposal, recent death of the proprietor. For full particulars, address Mrs. Medina, Handel House, 36, Gleebe Street, Stoke-on-Trent, Staffordshire.

THE ANGLICAN HYMN-BOOK.

NEW EDITION, REVISED AND ENLARGED

1. Words and Music, in short score, foolscap 4to., cloth, price 6s.
 2. Words and Music, in short score, super-royal 18mo., cloth, 2s. 6d.
 3. Words and Treble Part (Tune), square 16mo., cloth, 1s. 6d.
 4. Words only, 16mo., cloth, 1s.
 5. Words only, 32mo., paper cover, 6d.; cloth, 8d.
- London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); Simpkin, Marshall and Co. Oxford and London: James Parker and Co.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK, containing 258

Tunes and 85 Chants.

- No 1. Limp cloth, turned in 2s. 6d.
" 2. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered ... 3s. 6d.

TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.

- " 3. Limp cloth, turned in 2s. 6d.
" 4. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered ... 3s. 6d.

About 250,000 copies have already been sold.

Now Ready,

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK (Second Series),

containing 298 Tunes and 74 Chants.

- No. 5. Limp cloth 2s. 6d.
" 6. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered ... 3s. 6d.

TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.

- " 7. Limp cloth 2s. 6d.
" 8. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered ... 3s. 6d.

First and Second Series Bound together.

- No. 9. Limp cloth 4s. 6d.
" 10. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered ... 6s. 6d.
" 12. Tonic Sol-fa, cloth 3s. 6d.

Now Ready.

SMALL EDITION of the COMPLETE WORK.

- 715 Tunes and Chants, providing for nearly 200 Varieties of Metre.
No. 11. Cloth 3s. 6d.

Each Edition may be had in Superior Binding.

Communications and inquiries as to Copyrights, and also as to supplies of this work at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Compilers, at Clare Street, Bristol.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.; Bristol: W. and F. Morgan; and all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes, as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN; containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now Ready.

THE LONDON TUNE-BOOK. A Companion

for all Hymnals. Cloth, 3s.; red edges, 3s. 6d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

Now ready, in small quarto, 330 pages.

THE BURNLEY TUNE-BOOK, an entirely new Psalmody of 683 Tunes, Chants, Kyries, Gloria's, Chant Te Deums, &c., nearly the whole of which are new and never before published. The collection of Chants and Kyries, as well as the Tunes, contains many beautiful compositions; and altogether the B. T. B. will be found one of the most useful, comprehensive, and interesting tune-books ever published.

Plain binding, 4s.; gilt lettered and red edges, 5s.

London: F. Pitman, Paternoster Row. Burnley: T. Simpson.

Eleventh Edition, Enlarged.

TUNES, NEW AND OLD; comprising all the Metres in the Wesleyan Hymn-Book. Also, Chants, Responses, and Doxologies. Compiled by JOHN DOBSON; and for the most part revised or re-arranged by HENRY JOHN GAUNTLETT, Mus. Doc.; JOHN FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., Oxon.; and SAMUEL REAY, Mus. Bac., Oxon. London: Novello, Ewer and Co. Sold also at 66, Paternoster Row. Prices: plain cloth, 3s. 6d.; extra cloth, bevelled boards, red edges, 5s.

Now ready, Revised Edition, price 7s.

PARR'S CHURCH PSALMODY, containing 392 Tunes, 301 Chants, with Responses, &c.; in all 712 Compositions, with Memoirs of the Authors and Histories of the Pieces, giving a quantity of curious and authentic information nowhere else to be found. London: Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

THROAT IRRITATION.—The throat and wind-pipe are especially liable to inflammation, causing soreness and dryness, tickling and irritation, inducing cough and affecting the voice. For these symptoms use glycerine in the form of jujubes. Glycerine, in these agreeable confections, being in proximity to the glands at the moment they are excited by the act of sucking, becomes actively healing. Sold only in 6d. and 1s. boxes (by post for 14 stamps), labelled JAMES EPPS & Co., Homoeopathic Chemists, 48, Threadneedle Street, and 170, Piccadilly.

REDUCED PRICES OF OUSELEY AND MONK'S POINTED PSALTER.

					s.	d.
4to. Edition, with Chants in Short Score	4	0
12mo. Edition. Vocal parts	Each	1	6
32mo. Edition. Words only	0	9
Ditto ditto with Proper Psalms	1	0

This pointing of the Psalter is authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York.

London: NOVELLO, EWER & Co., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)

Now ready, 248 pp., cloth lettered, red edges, 4s.,

CAROLS FOR USE IN CHURCH DURING CHRISTMAS AND EPIPHANY.

By R. R. CHOPE, B.A., Vicar of St. Augustine's, South Kensington, &c.

The Music Edited by HERBERT STEPHEN IRONS, late Organist of Southwell Minster.

With an Introduction by S. BARING-GOULD, M.A., Rector of East Mersea, Author of "The Lives of the Saints," &c.

In this Work there are Carols for Christmas Eve, Christmas Day, St. Stephen, St. John, Holy Innocents, New Year's Eve, New Year's Day, Circumcision, Epiphany, Sundays after Epiphany, Conversion of St. Paul, Purification of B. V. M.

The Traditional Carols are from different counties and countries—the modern by well-known authors.

"The Epiphany Carols are a noticeable feature in the book, and give it a special value. Mr. Chope has done a real service by the publication of this book."—Guardian.

"Bids fair to become as popular as his former work."—Morning Post.

"By far the best and most copious collection of Carols. We earnestly recommend it."—Literary Churchman.

"We welcome with great pleasure Mr. Chope's 'Carols for Use in Church during Christmas and Epiphany.' The music is most carefully edited by Mr. Herbert Stephen Irons, who has introduced some original melodies; and there is a learned and interesting historical essay by Mr. Baring-Gould. This book should be found at all Christmas choir festivals. Well adapted for the Church services."—Saturday Review.

Applications for grants of Carols should be made to the Rev. R. R. Chope, Wilton House, Hereford Square, South Kensington.

The WORDS ONLY—price, in paper covers, 6d.; cloth lettered, 1s.

 An Edition, suitable for Presents, in handsome binding designed by Mr. Butterfield, price 7s. 6d.

London: METZLER AND CO., Great Marlborough Street; NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street.

CHURCH ANTHEMS, &c.

EDITED BY HENRY ALLON, D.D.

Containing 115 Anthems for Congregational Use.

Crown 8vo., cloth	... s. d.	Cheap Edition, limp cloth	... s. d.
" roan	... 3 0	" stiff cloth	... 1 4
	... 3 6		... 1 8

"Dr. Allon has done so much to promote an intelligent use of sacred music in divine worship that we gladly call attention to his last and, as we think, most wise effort in the same direction. Having issued in the 'Congregational Psalmist' a valuable series of hymn tunes, chants, kyries, &c., he has now published in a little pocket volume a collection of anthems intended for the use of the congregation, and not simply for the choir. The pieces, as a rule, require, in singing, a degree of musical culture somewhat greater than that required by chorales and chants, but they are on the whole within the reach of persons possessing a practical acquaintance with the art of sight-singing."—Choir.

New and Enlarged Editions, containing 117 Additional Tunes.

THE CONGREGATIONAL PSALMIST.

Edited by HENRY ALLON, D.D., and H. J. GAUNTLETT, Mus. Doc. Providing Tunes, Chants, and Anthems by the best Composers, Ancient and Modern. List of Editions on application.

London: Hodder and Stoughton, 27, Paternoster Row.

JUST PUBLISHED.

Dedicated, by permission, to the Lord Bishop of Hereford.

A COLLECTION OF EIGHTEEN

Original Musical Settings to the Sanctus AND THIRTY-SIX

RESPONSES TO THE COMMANDMENTS.

EDITED BY NICHOLAS HEINS.

Among the contributors to the collection are the Rev. Sir F. A. GORE OUSELEY, Bart., Mus. Doc.; CHARLES STEGGALL, Esq., Mus. Doc.; E. G. MONK, Esq., Mus. Doc., York Minster; Mrs. MOUNSEY BARTHOLOMEW; HENRY LESLIE, Esq.; GEO. TOWNSEND SMITH, Esq., Hereford Cathedral; Rev. W. D. V. DUNCOMBE, Minor Canon, Hereford Cathedral, &c.; in themselves a sufficient guarantee for the excellence and suitability of the work for the end contemplated, and the result of whose labours will be found to be a collection of much beauty and true devotional tone.

The whole of the profits from the sale of this work will be devoted to the restoration of the Organ of All Saints' Church, Hereford.

Entered at Stationers' Hall. Price 2s. net; by post, 2s. 2d.

London: Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street, W.; and Heins and Co., Hereford.

A MANUAL OF SINGING,

FOR THE USE OF CHOIR TRAINERS & SCHOOLMASTERS,
By RICHARD MANN.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

This work offers to the clergy and other amateur choir trainers a systematic and simple course of instruction, by which they may teach their pupils to read music at sight, in a comparatively short time.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

FORTY-THIRD EDITION.

Price 1s. A specimen copy post free for 12 stamps.

THE COLLEGIATE AND SCHOOL SIGHT-SINGING MANUAL.

FOR CHOIRS.—The easiest system that can be obtained for training, improving, and learning to read music at sight.

FOR SCHOOLS.—Every requisite for learning Music, and reading at sight in a few lessons.

FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.—The exercises will be found invaluable, tending to produce musical effects seldom heard.

APPENDIX.

Containing Exercises, Solfege, Canons, Anthems, &c.

Price One Shilling.

London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.; Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

Third Edition, 2s. 6d. net.

(COMPANION WORK TO THE ABOVE.)

COLLEGIATE VOCAL TUTOR.

Containing Treatise on Voice and Vocal Art, with Anatomical Illustrations of the Vocal Instrument.

London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.; Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

Eighth edition. Paper cover, 1s.; bound in cloth, 1s. 6d.

CATHEDRAL CHANT BOOK.

Containing nearly 200 Single and Double Chants; also the Gregorian Tones.

London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.; Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

NEW EDITION OF

DR. BENNETT GILBERT'S POPULAR WORK SCHOOL HARMONY.

"From intervals to counterpoint."

The Work is divided into 3 Parts, to suit the School Term, and concludes with a copious Examination Paper.

EVERY SUBJECT HAS ITS SPECIAL EXERCISES.

Price 1s. 6d. net.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.; and all Musicsellers.

Second Edition, containing Important Additions.

DEDICATED, BY PERMISSION, TO

H.B.H. Princess Louise, Marchioness of Torne,

President of the National Union for Improving the Education of Women of all Classes.

THEORY OF MUSIC (A First Book on the).

By LOUISA GIBSON.

"A clear explanation of elementary matters essential to a pianist."

—Prof. G. A. MACFARREN. "It cannot but prove a great help to all who teach music to beginners."—Madame SAINTON-DOLBY. "I am perfectly charmed with the book, and shall recommend it as a duty."

—Dr. BENNETT GILBERT. "I think so highly of it that I would advise every student beginning music to study your book."—F. B. JEWSON, Esq. "I would earnestly advise many so-called teachers to study the work well."—Dr. W. H. LONGHURST.

Price: Boards, 3s.; stiff paper, cloth back, 2s., postage 2d.

London: Weekes and Co.; Novello and Co.; Whittaker and Co.

Second Edition, Enlarged.—Price Sixpence.

JORDRELL'S MANUAL OF SIGHT SINGING, on the Tonic or Movable Do System of Reading Old Notation Music. London: C. Jefferys, 67, Berners Street; John Jordrell, Wittington, near Manchester; and through all Book and Musicsellers.

Now Ready. (Dedicated to College of Organists.)

ON TUNING THE ORGAN. Illustrated

APPENDIX, containing faults in action with remedies, price 2s. 6d. P.O.O. to A. Hemstock, Diss.

BAKER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR.

Easy and very plain instructions. Adapted for Schools and General Teaching Purposes. London: B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row; or, post free, 3s., of G. Baker, Stamp Office Place, Wakefield.

"Spirited song for baritone."—Graphic.

THE HIDALGO. Music by ALFRED J. DYE.

Post free, 18 stamps. J. Williams, 24, Berners Street, W.

NOTICE.

"THE MUSICAL WORLD."

ON SATURDAY, January 6, 1877, the usual New-Year's Double Number of The Musical World will be issued to subscribers and the public. It will consist of 32 pages, and contain much original matter. A new series of sketches of "Italian Opera in Modern Costume," from the pencil of Mr. Charles Lyall, will be included, the Opera selected for illustration being "Il Trovatore." The Cartoon (also by Mr. Lyall) will commemorate one of the most noticeable incidents that occurred during the performances of Wagner's "Der Ring des Nibelungen" at Bayreuth. There will also be various sketches in commemoration of that event, besides Portraits of well-known Musicians, &c. A translation, by Mr. J. V. Bridgeman, of Dr. Edward Hanslick's summary of the poem of "Der Ring des Nibelungen" will be comprised among other literary contributions, as well as sketches of musical life and individual character from the pens of various eminent writers.

Price 4d. (free by post, 5d.) Duncan Davison and Co., The Musical World Office, 244, Regent Street. Advertisements for the Double Number, to insure insertion, should be sent to the Office not later than Wednesday, January 3, 1877.

NEW PIANOFORTE SOLO, BY H. C. LUNN.

GARDEN SONG. Post free for 18 Stamps.
Lamborn Cock, 63, New Bond Street.

NEW VOCAL MUSIC, BY C. A. MACIRONE.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL. Solo. 3s. "And shall Trelawney die?" Four-part Song. 6d. net. "Humpty Dumpty." Four-part Song. 9d. net.
Lamborn Cock, 63, New Bond Street, London.

SONGS OF SOCIAL LIFE.—No. 1. "After Dinner," by Dr. Croft. Post free for 18 Stamps.

Lamborn Cock, 63, New Bond Street.

ASHDOWN and PARRY'S CATALOGUES OF MUSIC.

Part 1. PIANO, ORGAN, HARMONIUM.

Part 2. VOCAL.

Part 3. HARP, CONCERTINA.

Part 4. VIOLIN, VIOLONCELLO, ORCHESTRA, &c.

Part 5. FLUTE, CORNET, CLARINET, &c.

Sent post free to any part of the world.

London: Ashdown and Parry, Hanover Square.

POPULAR CLASSICS.—A series of sterling

COMPOSITIONS for the PIANOFORTE SOLO. Selected, Edited, and Fingered by WALTER MACFARREN. Forty-eight numbers, price from 2s. to 5s. each. The series contains some of the most celebrated and beautiful works of Handel, Bach, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Weber, Steibelt, Dussek, Hummel, Schumann, Mendelssohn, Chopin, &c. Detailed Lists forwarded post free to any part of the world.

London: Ashdown and Parry, Hanover Square.

THE BARON OF BRENT. The finest Bass

Song of the day. All who have heard this new song speak in the highest terms of its dash, vigour, and effectiveness, and say, "It is a grand song." May be had in two keys. No. 1 for Bass, No. 2 for Baritone. 24 stamps, post free.

J. Guest, 2, Fishmonger Alley, E.C.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, PENNY READINGS,

and Schools.—R. COCKS and CO.'S PART-SONGS.—"Victoria" (H. Smart), "God Bless the Prince of Wales," "God Bless our Sailor Prince," "Let the hills resound," "The Hunting Song" (Sir J. Benedict), and "Blanche" (Kücken), "Away to the forest" (Abt), post free for four stamps each; "Sound the trumpet in Zion," full choir (B. Richards), "The Village Chorister" (Moscheles), free for six stamps each; "God save the Queen," "Happy be thy dreams," "Far away," "A Rose in Heaven" (Abt), "The Miners," song, with a solo for a baritone (Kücken), "Gaily o'er the Ocean" (Abt), free for two stamps each; "O ye tears" (Abt), post free, 12 stamps.

NEW VOCAL DUETS, for SOPRANO and

CONTRALTO, each post free at half price.

Harp of the winds. Abt. Sunset. Pinsuti. 4s.
Hark! the goat bells ringing. Where I would be. Miss M. Lindsay. 4s.
H. Smart. 4s. Far away. Miss M. Lindsay. 4s.
The time of youth. Pinsuti. 4s.
When the last sunbeams are dying. Rev. E. D. Jackson. 4s.
Kathleen Aroon. Abt. 3s.
O ye tears. Abt. 3s.
The hills of light. Abt. 4s.
Sunrise. Pinsuti. 4s.
A Rose in Heaven. Abt. 4s.
When life is brightest. Pinsuti. 4s.
The twilight hour is come. H. Smart. 4s.
Excelsior. Miss M. Lindsay. 4s.

LOVE NEVER DIES. NEW SONG. Composed by A. S. GATTY, and selected by Mr. Maybrick for his forthcoming Concerts. Post free for 24 stamps. "It is just the composition likely to take the popular ear, and to be a favourite with all who can sing and all who hear it."—Vide Orchestra.

MY LADDIE FAR AWAY. NEW SONG.

Written by Miss SAXBY. Music by Miss M. LINDSAY (Mrs. J. Worthington Bliss). No. 1 in E flat (Contralto), No. 2 in G (Soprano). 4s.; post free, 24 stamps.

London: Robert Cocks and Co., New Burlington Street and of all Musicsellers.

ST. ANNE'S, SOHO.—SPECIAL SERVICES will be held at this Church on December 22nd and three following Fridays, commencing at 8 o'clock p.m., at which a portion of Bach's Christmas Oratorio will be sung with full orchestral accompaniment. Admission to the body of the Church will be obtained by Tickets only, which can be procured by sending stamped directed envelope to the Rector, the Rev. Canon Wade, 28, Soho Square, the Churchwardens, or the Choir Secretary, J. Berwick-Orgill, Esq., Springmead, Roslyn Park, Hampstead.

MUSICAL ASSOCIATION, 27, Harley Street, W.
—There will be NO MEETING on NEW-YEAR'S DAY next. A MEETING will be held in lieu thereof on July 2nd. The NEXT MEETING will take place on Monday, Feb. 5, 1877. A Paper on Sebastian Bach's "Art of Fugue" will be read by JAMES HIGGS, Esq., Mus. Bac., Oxon., at 5 o'clock.

CHARLES K. SALAMAN, Hon. Sec.
24, Sutherland Gardens, Westbourne Park, W.

MRS. WELDON and her ORPHANS daily at the Music and Art Association, 39, Great Marlborough Street, and at Langham Hall on Monday evenings, SING pieces from Grannie's Nursery Rhyme Book. Subscription 5s.

LANGHAM HALL, 43, Great Portland Street.—
IN AID OF MRS. WELDON'S ORPHANAGE.—MONDAY EVENING, 9th April, 1877, at 8 p.m., Mr. CHARLES K. SALAMAN in the Chair, Mrs. Weldon's Thirty-second Sociable Evening, "THE TWO PATHS," or "CONSERVATION" and "RESTORATION." Mr. CHARLES LUNN will deliver a LECTURE on the above, illustrated by the Children from Mrs. Weldon's Orphanage. Reserved Seats, 5s.; Unreserved, 2s. 6d.; Admission, 1s.

* This Essay, of which Mr. Charles Lunn has presented the copyright to the Orphanage, will be published, with additional remarks and an account of the Soirée, by the Music and Art Association, 39, Great Marlborough Street, Regent Street, London. Price 1s.

HELMHOLTZ ON TONE AND SCIENTIFIC LECTURES.

In One thick Volume, 8vo., price 36s. cloth,

ON the SENSATIONS of TONE as a Physiological Basis for the Theory of Music. By Professor H. L. F. HELMHOLTZ, M.D. Translated by A. J. ELLIS, F.R.S.

HELMHOLTZ'S LECTURES on SCIENTIFIC SUBJECTS, translated by E. ATKINSON, Ph.D., F.C.S., with Introduction by Prof. TYNDALL. 8vo., Woodcuts, 12s. 6d. London: Longmans and Co.

This Day, in 8vo., price 6s.

MUSICAL INTERVALS and TEMPERAMENT.
AN ELEMENTARY TREATISE. With an Account of an Enharmonic Harmonium exhibited in the Loan Collection of Scientific Instruments, South Kensington, 1876; also, an Enharmonic Organ exhibited to the Musical Association of London, May 1875. By R. H. M. BOSANQUET, Fellow of St. John's College, Oxford. Macmillan and Co., London.

WORKS by Sir F. A. GORE OUSELEY, Bart.,
Mus. Doc., Professor of Music in the University of Oxford.
ON HARMONY. Second Edition. 4to., 10s.
ON COUNTERPOINT, CANON, and FUGUE, based upon that of Cherubini. 4to., 16s.
ON FORM IN MUSIC, and GENERAL COMPOSITION. 4to., 12s.

"This book supplies a want long felt both by teachers and students. We heartily recommend it as the best text-book in our language on the subject of which it treats."—Academy.

A MUSIC PRIMER FOR SCHOOLS.
By J. TROUTBECK, M.A., Music Master in Westminster School, and R. F. DALE, M.A., Mus. Bac., Assistant Master in Westminster School. New Edition. Extra, fcp. 8vo., 1s. 6d.

Oxford: Printed at the Clarendon Press and Published by Macmillan and Co., London, Publishers to the University.

Just Published,

VOL. II. OF AN OCTAVO EDITION OF

W. STERNDALÉ BENNETT'S PIANOFORTE WORKS

Price 6s. net.

List of contents of this and the first volume on application to the publisher, Lamborn Cock, 63, New Bond Street.

Now ready, Vocal Score, price 3s.

JONAH. A Sacred Cantata, by J. V. ROBERTS, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Choirmaster of the Parish Church, Halifax.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.
P.S.—Full Orchestral Parts to be had of the Composer.

COMPOSERS are invited to contribute hymn-tunes to a new "Monthly Hymnal." First line of words to accompany each tune. Channon Cornwall (Organist, St. John's Episcopal Church), 3, Ashfield Place, Hillhead, Glasgow.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

(PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EACH MONTH.)

Price Threepence.

Annual subscription, including postage, 4s.

Subscriptions will also be received by all Book and Musicsellers (not including postage), 3s.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	2	3
For every additional Line	0	0	9
Half a Column	1	15	0
A Column	3	5	0
A Page	6	6	0

A discount of 10 per cent. is allowed for twelve consecutive insertions.

It is respectfully requested that a remittance be sent with all Advertisements.

Advertisements for the February number should reach the Office not later than January 24. Those received after this date cannot be guaranteed insertion in their proper places, but will appear among the late Advertisements.

JUST PUBLISHED,

EIGHTEEN TWO-PART SONGS

With Pianoforte Accompaniment,

COMPOSED BY

ANTON RUBINSTEIN.

Op. 48 and 67.

THE ENGLISH VERSION BY NATALIA MACFARREN.

Price Four Shillings.

CONTENTS:

- | | |
|---------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| 1. The Angel. | 10. The turtle dove and the wanderer. |
| 2. Birdie. | 11. Twilight. |
| 3. The homestead. | 12. Autumn sadness. |
| 4. The merry maidens. | 13. Song of the summer birds. |
| 5. Wanderer's night song. | 14. In the wood. |
| 6. The hour of parting. | 15. Faith in spring. |
| 7. Night. | 16. Pass by. |
| 8. The cloud. | 17. Rest after storm. |
| 9. The happy birds. | 18. The lotos flower. |

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

FOURTEEN SONGS

SET TO

POEMS OF ROBERT BURNS,

BY ROBERT FRANZ.

Edited and Adapted by Natalia Macfarren.

Paper covers, 2s. 6d.

CONTENTS.

- | | |
|------------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| Twa sweet e'en. | Ye banks and braes. |
| My bonny Mary. | Altho' my bed were in yon moor. |
| Oh! wert thou in the frozen blast. | Thou hast left me ever, Jamie. |
| My heart is sair. | How can my heart be glad. |
| The Highland lassic. | So far away. |
| The lovely lass of Inverness. | My love is like a red, red rose. |
| Phillis the fair. | My heart's in the Highlands. |

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

Just published,

NEW COMPOSITIONS for the PIANOFORTE.
By OLIVER A. KING.

- | | |
|--------------------------|-----|
| Legende | 3s. |
| Impromptu Caprice | 3s. |

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

Just published,

NEW COMPOSITIONS by HAMILTON CLARKE.
Grand March for the Organ 1s. 6d.
Sonatina for the Pianoforte 3s.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSIC.—SIR H. R. BISHOP'S OPERAS, &c.
WANTED TO PURCHASE the above. Address (with lists and prices) Captain Butler, Bletchingley, Surrey.

CONTENTS.

To our Readers	9
Purcell. By W. H. Cummings	11
A Haydn Memorial (continuation)	13
Mendelssohn's Lieder ohne Worte	14
Occasional Notes	15
The late Henry Phillips	17
Edward Land	17
G. F. Anderson	17
Crystal Palace and Gadsby's "Alceste"	17 & 18
Concerts, &c.	18
Paragraphs	20
I will sing of Thy power. Anthem. By Arthur Sullivan, Mus. D.	21
Reviews	29
Foreign Notes	32
Correspondence	33
Brief Summary of Country News	36
Organ Appointments, &c., &c.	38

THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

JANUARY 1, 1877.

TO OUR READERS.

THAT we rarely claim the attention of our readers upon any other subject than that of the art to which our journal is devoted may be accepted in proof of a conviction that our labours in the cause we advocate have so effectually gained the good opinion of the public as to render either prospective or retrospective addresses unnecessary. When an individual enters into a compact to perform a certain duty, it is sufficient for those who put their trust in him if he honourably fulfil that duty; but if he will insist upon periodically calling attention to his strict integrity in carrying out what he has solemnly pledged himself to do, he must not be surprised if some cynical persons begin to doubt his sincerity, and to watch with suspicion his future movements. Impressed with this feeling, we have carefully abstained from alluding to the inconvenience we have constantly experienced in being compelled to exclude matters of importance from our columns, because we knew that unless some remedy were at the same time devised, such allusions could have no possible interest, and might be looked upon by many as mere indications of a desire to prove to our readers the excessive value of the space at our command. As we are now, however, prepared with a practical announcement on the subject, we crave permission to say a few words on our future plans, and also to recall some of the recollections of a period when music was struggling to assert its real power in this country.

To say that THE MUSICAL TIMES was instituted to "supply a want" is so conventional a method of expressing the reason for its publication that we should be loth to use these words were we not convinced that in this particular instance we are merely stating a truth which any student of the history of the art in England may prove for himself. The issue of cheap classical music by Messrs. Novello was the first step towards inculcating a love for the works of the great composers amongst the masses. Amateurs, indeed, there were whose cultivated taste enabled them to appreciate most thoroughly the noble musical treasures bequeathed to us, and whose zeal in the cause urged them to devote both time and money to the promotion of concerts for the performance of compositions of the highest character; but the price of admission to hear these works was on a level with the price of the works themselves; and the enjoyment of good music, therefore, was necessarily limited to the moneyed few. Yet, as we have already hinted, the reform was at hand, and gradually, but surely, throughout the country grew up a reverence for those compositions of which little but the names had before been known. To the multitude, sacred events were recorded and religious truths preached in a language which sank deeply and firmly into the hearts of those even to whom its accents were strange; and in many towns and villages Handel and Haydn shortly took their places side by side with Shakespeare and Milton. It could scarcely be expected, however, that home performance of works requiring an organised choir should long be considered satisfactory, and public and private musical Societies, therefore, rapidly sprang up for the cultivation of an art the elevating and refining influence of which had been previously unknown to the people at large. The efforts of Mainzer and Hullah (the latter of whom founded his system upon that of Wilhem) were mainly instrumental in spreading far and wide a knowledge of as much of the art of singing as was necessary for the formation of Choral Classes; and however in later days we have begun to discuss the relative merits of the "fixed" and "movable" Do, there can be no doubt that the thanks of all music-lovers are due to these missionaries, who, in spite of much apathy, and even opposition, succeeded not only in materially helping the dissemination of cheap music, but in teaching people to read the works which were thus placed within their reach. At this juncture—August 1841—Mr. Mainzer published the first number of the National Singing Circular, with the express object of assisting, and recording the progress of, choral bodies throughout the kingdom. The sale of this journal extended so rapidly, that before a twelvemonth had elapsed it became necessary to commence a new series, under the name of Mainzer's Musical Times and Singing Circular, the retention of the second title being a guarantee that, although the publication was now intended to assume the more ambitious form of a Musical Paper, it would also faithfully reflect the state and prospects of London and provincial Choral Societies, as before. After the issue of only two numbers, it was announced that a musical composition of one of the established masters would be presented to every subscriber of six months; and in a very short time a Choral piece, especially adapted for Singing Classes, was published as a portion of the number itself, a feature which has been preserved intact to the present day. It was fortunate that the journal eventually fell into the hands of Mr. J. A. Novello, for as he possessed the copyright of many important works, the general public had thus the opportunity of collecting a library of valuable choral compositions at the trifling cost of threehalfpence each. That the success of THE MUSICAL TIMES, however, far exceeded the expectation even of its proprietor may be gathered from the fact that in the Preface to one of the early volumes it is frankly stated that a title-page and index had not yet been printed, because the design of the little work was originally "by far too modest to suppose that the distinction of binding awaited it." It will be unnecessary to trace the history of the journal, which under its new name, THE MUSICAL TIMES AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR, gradually won its way to the world-wide reputation it now enjoys. Other musical periodicals grew around it, but the special mission of THE MUSICAL TIMES remained untouched; and although latterly our contemporaries have occasionally reported provincial concerts, our "Brief Summary of Country News" is as anxiously looked for and as fully appreciated as ever. As years rolled on, its importance as an organ of the musical world became so universally acknowledged that the journal was by degrees expanded to twelve, sixteen, twenty, and, in January 1868—when additional leading articles, the introduction of Reviews, and an immense increase of advertisements forcibly pressed even upon our enlarged space—to thirty-two pages. For nine years no alteration has been made in the size of the journal; but its growth during this time, not only in circulation, but in public estimation, has been so decisive, that its further enlargement now becomes an imperative necessity; and in laying before our readers, as briefly as possible, an outline of our intentions, we trust they will admit that as we were compelled to narrow or extend our sphere of usefulness in the future, we have chosen by far the wiser course of the two.

The permanent enlargement of THE MUSICAL TIMES from thirty-two to forty-eight pages commences with the present number. The additional space thus gained will be devoted chiefly to original matter, written by those whose literary acquirements and knowledge of the art are a sufficient guarantee for the value of their contributions. Reviews of new works, which have latterly been a special feature in the journal, will receive even a greater amount of attention, and will not only be considerably increased, but include notices of the most important compositions published abroad. It is scarcely perhaps necessary to say that from the vast accumulation of works forwarded to us we can but make a small selection for notice; but composers may place implicit faith in our impartiality, and in all cases conclude that no piece will be passed over unheeded. Foreign news upon matters connected with the art will be carefully translated from the local journals, and "Occasional Notes" upon passing events at home and abroad will appear in every number. Our enlarged space will also enable us to notice every musical performance of importance, and special attention will be bestowed upon those having a direct bearing upon the progress of the art. We cordially invite correspondence from all who will clearly and temperately state their opinions, and shall be glad to encourage discussion on any point of general interest to our readers. We should wish it, however, to be distinctly understood that we must decline to insert letters which have been also forwarded to other periodicals. Let us, too, take this opportunity of impressing upon those who favour us with their communications the necessity of being as brief as circumstances will admit; and also the fact of time, as well as space, being the capital of an editor. We shall be ever ready, for instance, to reply to important questions on artistic subjects, but must positively refuse to pronounce whether smoking is injurious to the voice, or to say who were Rossini's parents, where and how he spent his childhood, where he was educated, and what were the principal events of his life, with dates—both which tasks have been recently set us by two of our most merciless correspondents.

To effectually carry out the many improvements we have mentioned, a considerable addition has been made to the permanent staff of the Paper; and particular care will be taken to secure the services of a writer in each department whose previous training and experience especially fit him for the office. The price of the journal will be raised from 2d. to 3d., the annual subscription, including postage, being 4s.; but although advantage may occasionally be taken of the opportunity now offered of extending the musical composition published in each number beyond the usual limit of four pages, this, when purchased separately, will be sold, as before, at 1½d. Our readers will see, by the present number, that amongst other reforms in the general arrangements, it now appears for the first time enclosed in a wrapper, the appropriate illustration upon which has been designed by an eminent artist. It has also been thought desirable for the future to make the volumes annual; and Volume 18, therefore, commences with the New Year, and with the first number of our enlarged series. The title-page and index of Volume 17 will be published with the February number.

The advertisement last month announcing these contemplated changes has brought us numerous letters from subscribers warmly congratulating us upon the resolution we have formed to keep pace with the increasing demands upon our space, and kindly offering suggestions for our consideration. It would be quite impossible to notice individually these sympathetic communications, and we can only therefore generally express our gratification that the alterations we have decided upon have given such universal satisfaction. But with regard to the positive adoption of any proposition submitted to us, we can only say that so much do our correspondents differ in their views that were we to implicitly follow the advice of one half, we should unquestionably offend the other. In proof, however, that we have given all the matters referred to our serious attention, we may mention that in the selection of compositions for publication in the journal, due consideration will be bestowed upon the requirements of church choirs; for we quite agree with one of our subscribers as to the difficulty of procuring suitable music for the various portions of the service, especially by the country clergy, unless some guarantee is offered of its excellence. The plan of detaching our advertisements from the body of the paper by leaving them unpagged, so that when bound they can be torn off (as proposed by another correspondent), we think by no means desirable; for on turning to some of the early volumes, our attention has been especially attracted by the advertisements, which indeed offer an accurate history of the progress of the art; and we cannot but believe that their absence would materially detract from the interest of the work. Many other well-wishers must not conclude that their letters have been passed over because we do not here allude to them. Our deeds will now speak for us more eloquently than words; for, as we have already intimated, the confidence between an editor and his readers should be firmly cemented by the truthfulness with which a journal fulfils its mission. In commencing our New Year's enterprise, therefore, we are firm in the faith that as our efforts in the promotion of art-progress have been fully appreciated in the past, renewed exertion, with more extended means at our command, cannot fail to produce the brightest and most gratifying results in the future.

H. C. L.

PURCELL.

THE following is the substance of a paper read before the Musical Association on Monday the 4th ult. The musical illustrations performed were—Airs, "Sweet tyranness;" "When I am laid in earth;" Fugue, G minor; Motett, "Jehovah quam multi;" Song, "Nymphs and Shepherds;" Scene from "The Libertine":—

A most pleasant and picturesque introduction to the Purcell family is to be found in Pepys' Diary, under date Feb. 21, 1659, where we find this entry: "After dinner I back to Westminster Hall with him (Mr. Crewe) in his coach. Here I met with Mr. Lock and Pursell, Masters of Musique, and with them to the Coffee House, into a room next the water by ourselves, where we spent an hour or two. . . . Here we had variety of brave Italian and Spanish songs, and a canon for eight voices, which Mr. Lock had lately made on these words, Domine Salvum fac Regem, an admirable thing. . . . Here out of the window it was a most pleasant sight to see the City from one end to the other with a glory about it, so high was the light of the bonfires, and so thick round the City, and the bells rang everywhere."

Lord Braybrooke's edition of Pepys has a note which is reprinted in the new one now in course of publication, to the effect that the two gentlemen named in the text were "Matthew Lock and Henry Purcell, both celebrated composers;" but this is an undoubted error, to which I have called the attention of the learned Editor, the Rev. Mynors Bright. It certainly could not have been Henry Purcell the composer, for although we know that he commenced his musical career at a very early age, he was only one year old at the date Pepys made the entry in his diary; and admitting he might have had a very lovely voice even at that period, I cannot believe he would have been considered a desirable addition to Mr. Pepys's musical party. As no mention is made of the Christian name of Purcell, we must conclude that Pepys met either the uncle, Thomas Purcell, or the father, Henry Purcell.

The uncle was undoubtedly a musician of reputation and ability. Various entries in official and Court records testify to the numerous appointments he held, such as Gentleman in Ordinary of the Voice and Lute to His Majesty, Composer to the Violins to His Majesty, and Lay Vicar of Westminster Abbey. His compositions are now lost, with the exception of two chants in frequent use in our Cathedrals. A year before his death, probably feeling age or infirmities creeping on, he seems to have retired from active service, for he then executed a power of attorney authorising his son Matthew to receive all payments due from His Majesty's Treasury, Exchequer Coffery Office, "or any other place or office whatsoever." On his death in 1682 he was buried in the cloisters of Westminster Abbey. The power of attorney I have brought for inspection; it is interesting, on account of the autograph signatures of Thomas Purcell and of his niece Frances, the wife of the celebrated Purcell, and I am inclined to think that Pepys met Thomas Purcell, from the little circumstance that the son of the latter was named Matthew, possibly out of compliment to Locke; but it may after all have been his brother, Henry Purcell, the father of the great Henry, for he also was a musician of reputation, a member of the Royal Band, a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, master of the chorister boys of Westminster Abbey, and music copyist of the last-named church, an appointment of considerable importance at that time. He is generally accredited with the composition of one chant still in use bearing the name of Purcell. He died in 1664, and was buried in the cloisters of Westminster Abbey. His wife survived him five years, and although we have no record of their respective ages, it is probable they were both young at the time of their deaths.

We now come to the son, Henry Purcell, "the boast and pride of English musicians," who was born in St. Anne's Lane, Old Pye Street, Westminster, in 1658.

Purcell was only six years old when deprived by death of his father's care, but his uncle Thomas, of whom I have been speaking, bestowed on him all the loving devotion of a parent, and immediately placed him where his precocious genius would receive nurture and cultivation. It was an early age to commence life as a chorister-boy in the Chapel Royal, but at that time and for long after children generally entered choirs at the age of six or seven. When young Purcell joined the Chapel Royal establishment he had the advantage of instruction from a most able master, Captain Cooke, a man who had won laurels in the battle-field fighting for his king, and also in the more peaceful arena of music. He was composer, actor, and singer, and is frequently mentioned by Pepys. On the death of Cooke, his pupil Pelham Humphrey—or Humphries—became master of the boys; and he, a man of considerable genius, must have done much to develop the powers of the young prodigy under his charge. He lived two years to carry on the work, and was succeeded by Blow, also a pupil of Cooke, who doubtless did something toward educating Purcell. At the age of eighteen Purcell, probably through Blow's interest, was appointed music-copyist to Westminster Abbey, and four years later Blow resigned the post of organist in his favour, from which fact we can imagine how highly he must have estimated the genius and ability of Purcell. Blow was himself a remarkable musician and composer, and fifteen years afterwards, when Purcell died, he was re-appointed organist of the Abbey. Blow must have possessed a most amiable and generous disposition, devoid of jealousy or mean envy, for, in addition to this instance of self-sacrifice on behalf of Purcell, he similarly resigned his post as master of the boys of St. Paul's Cathedral in favour of another remarkable pupil, Jeremiah Clark. Purcell's triumphs rapidly increased, and we soon find him occupying the distinguished post of Organist of the Chapel Royal and Composer in Ordinary to His Majesty. He wrote music for the Church, the Court, and the theatre, producing works for each in great number. But, alas! his sunshine was all too short, for at the early age of thirty-seven (a period which has proved fatal to more than one great musical genius) he ceased from his labours, and was borne to an honoured grave in Westminster Abbey, beneath the organ which had so often resounded to his divine harmony. This was in the year 1695. I must now retrace my steps to speak of Purcell's married life. He took to himself a wife when twenty-two or twenty-three years of age, about the time he succeeded to the organistship of Westminster, and had six children, four of whom died young. I have already referred to the probability that Purcell's parents were short-lived. Coupling these significant facts together—the brief lives of father, mother, son, and grandchildren—we have presumptive evidence of hereditary delicacy of constitution. Purcell's wife Frances survived him eleven years, and, dying in 1706, she found a quiet resting-place by his side in the old Abbey.

I suppose most of you are familiar with the aspersions which have been cast on the memory of Purcell's wife—the idle tale which attributes, with such particularity of detail, harsh and unfeeling conduct, resulting at last in the premature and untimely death of Purcell.

It is always easy to promulgate a scandal, but very difficult to trace its origin, and oftentimes still more difficult to refute it. In this case, I have little doubt, the whole story is a base and wicked invention; but, reflecting as it does on the memory of both Purcell and his wife, I propose briefly to state my reasons for the opinion I have formed. Sir John Hawkins, the musical historian, printed the narrative, and although he doubted its authenticity, and suggested that Purcell might have died of decline, yet he added some grave reflections on Purcell's presumed habits of dissipation, and of the bad company he associated with, particularly the notorious Tom Brown. On Hawkins, therefore, rests a large share of responsibility for perpetuating the slander. Miss Hawkins, his daughter, indignant at some idle stories in circulation respecting her mother's treatment of Sir John, wrote thus: "Mrs. Purcell, I should conjecture, had other modes of attracting Mr. Purcell, yet perhaps the whole story may have been as gross falsification as that by which Lady Hawkins is vilified."

The late Richard Clarke cannot be considered blameless in this Purcell matter. He was an enthusiastic and kind-hearted man, but wanting in discrimination, and too ready to draw conclusions from unproved and insufficient evidence. His volume of Glee Poetry contains the words of Purcell's catch, "Jack, thou'rt a toper." I will read the lines and Clarke's comments thereon:—

"Jack, thou'rt a toper, let's have t'other quart;
Ring, we're so sober, 'twere a shame to part;
None but a coward, bully'd by his wife
For coming late, fears a domestic strife;
I'm free, and so are you, to call and knock.
Boldly the watchman cries, past two o'clock."

Clarke informs us that the "Jack" apostrophised as a "topper" was Dr. John Blow, and goes on to say: "There is a tradition that Purcell's death was occasioned by a severe cold, which he caught waiting for admittance into his own house. It is said he used to keep late hours. He appears to have spent much time with Tom Brown, who wrote the words of most of his catches. The wits of that day used to meet at Owen Swan's in Bartholomew Lane, and at Purcell's Head in Wych Street. His wife had given orders to the servants not to let him in if he came home after midnight. Unfortunately his companions had got hold of this and kept him late, as usual, which was the cause of Tom Brown writing the words of the above catch, which Purcell set to music before he went home. Being refused admittance at home, he sat down on the step of his own door and fell asleep, and through the inclemency of the night contracted a disorder of which he died. This but ill agrees with the expressions of grief she makes use of in the Orpheus Britannicus, for the loss of her dear lamented husband."

These interesting particulars are so precise that it would seem to be almost impossible to attempt to controvert them, but fortunately they can be shown to be untrue from beginning to end. The words of the catch were not written by Tom Brown, and are of course not to be found in his works; moreover, instead of Brown having written most of the words of Purcell's catches, it is tolerably certain that Purcell never set a line of Brown's poetry.

In the year 1768 Dr. Arne gave a concert at Drury Lane Theatre, the programme consisting of glees and catches; and for that concert he published a book of the words, which I have here. In it we find Purcell's "Jack, thou'rt a toper," with the following note: "The words of this last catch are said to be written by Purcell, wherein, it is obvious, that he meant no elegance with regard to the poetry, but made it intirely subservient to his extream pretty design in the music."

"Jack, thou'rt a toper" is to be found in Purcell's opera "Bonduca," composed by him the year before he died. The libretto was an adaptation from the play of the same name by Beaumont and Fletcher, but the alterations and additions were made anonymously; it is, therefore, highly probable that Arne is correct in assigning the words and the music of that particular catch, "Jack, thou'rt a toper," to Purcell.

Now let us deal with Purcell's alleged intimacy with Tom Brown. In the year 1693, about seventeen or eighteen months before Purcell died, Brown wrote and printed some very complimentary verses addressed to the great musician, which he headed thus: "Lines addressed to his unknown friend, Mr. Henry Purcell." These were reprinted after Purcell's death without note or addition, and we may, therefore, reasonably conclude that Purcell and Brown never became acquainted. Brown's lines are too long to quote in extenso, and the following must suffice:—

"What praises, Purcell, to thy skill are due,
Who hast to Judah's monarch been so true
By thee he moves our hearts, by thee he reigns,
By thee shakes off his old inglorious chains,
And sees new honours done to his immortal strains.
In thy performance we with wonder find
Corelli's genius to Bassani join'd.
Thus I, unknown, my gratitude express,
And conscious gratitude could do no less.
This tribute from each British muse is due;
The whole poetick tribe's oblig'd to you.
For where the author's scanty words have fail'd,
Thy happier graces, Purcell, have prevail'd.
And surely none but you, with equal ease,
Cou'd add to David, and make D'Urfeys please."

Purcell, in his last will and testament, signed on the day of his death, bequeathed to his loving wife Frances all his estate, real and personal, for her sole use, and also nominated her executrix. We cannot find evidence here of anything but mutual affection and confidence. Many of you can call to mind how differently Shakespeare treated his wife in his will.*

Purcell's widow made frequent public reference to the dear memory of her husband, and the following extract from her last will is specially interesting, as it shows how mindful she was of his wishes, and also that Purcell himself did not cultivate convivial society to the neglect of his family and their worldly interests. Mrs. Purcell says: "According to her husband's desire, she had given her dear son Edward good education, and she also did give him all the books of music in general, the organ, the double spinett, the single spinett, a silver tankard, a silver watch, 2 pairs of gold buttons, a hair ring, a mourning ring of Dr. Busby's, a larum clock, Mr. Edward Purcell's picture, handsome furniture for a room, and he was to be maintained until provided for."

* Subsequent to the reading of this paper, a friend directed my attention to Knight's able remarks on Shakespeare's will, satisfactorily proving that Shakespeare's widow was well provided for, and that the special bequest to her, which has commonly been regarded as a slight, was, on the contrary, an additional indication of favour and regard. I am glad to have this opportunity of expressing my regret for the injustice done to the memory of Shakespeare.

I have now said sufficient respecting Purcell's domestic life, and will only add that his fellow-pupil, Dr. Tudway, has borne written testimony to the studious habits of Purcell, and of his constant endeavours to excel in every branch of his profession.

(To be concluded in our next.)

A HAYDN MEMORIAL.

[From the Neue Zeitschrift für Musik.]

(Continued from page 691.)

THROUGH Herr Pohl we now get, for the first time, a circumstantial account of Haydn's personal appearance. The following is a sketch of him when in the middle course of life: "His stature was somewhat below average height, his frame robust. The lower half of his figure had the appearance of being too short in proportion to his bust, a fact which may, in part, be accounted for by the style of dress he wore. His features were tolerably regular, full, and strongly marked, and had in them something of determination, almost of austerity, capable, however, of assuming, in conversation—by the look of his eye and a graceful smile—an expression extremely gentle and pleasing. In ordinary intercourse his whole appearance and bearing denoted deliberation and a mild earnestness, bordering upon dignity. Haydn has never been heard to laugh aloud. His look was eloquent and animated, and withal measured, kind, and inviting. Out of these dark grey eyes spoke a genuine goodness of heart, familiar only with benevolence: 'Anyone may see it in me that I am well-disposed towards everybody,' said Haydn of himself. His forehead was broad and finely arched, its proportions being, however, much reduced by the manner in which he wore his wig, which latter extended to within little more than an inch of the eyebrows, thus completely hiding the upper part of the forehead. This wig, with cue and some side-curly, was Haydn's companion throughout his life; fashion was not permitted to affect its shape; he remained faithful to it unto death. In consequence of the composer's suffering from a polypus (an inheritance, as we have seen, from his mother), the lower part of his nose had become unduly enlarged, and was, moreover—like the rest of his well-tanned features—covered with marks of the small-pox. Add to this a decidedly sensual, protruding underlip, with a broad, massive underjaw, and we can easily imagine Haydn's head to have presented that odd mixture of the attractive and the repulsive, of geniality and triviality, which inspired Lavater—who had a silhouette of the great composer among his famous collection of portraits—to the following impromptu Hexameters:—

'Something in eye and nose I perceive, precluding the vulgar,
Also the forehead is good; his mouth betrays the Philistine.'

Haydn thought himself to be very plain-looking, and could therefore the less comprehend the fact that he had, in the course of his life, gained the tender affections of many a beautiful woman. 'Surely my beauty could not have attracted them?' he would archly remark; he who at the same time candidly admitted that he had always been an admirer of pretty women, and who always had something polite to say to them too. His German had the broad Austrian dialect, his voice sounding rather more sharp than low, with a nasal twang in it, in consequence of the above-mentioned defect. He was but an indifferent French scholar, but was fond of conversing in Italian, of which he was completely master. His subsequent stay in London induced him, then already past sixty, to make himself acquainted also with the English language. Of Latin he knew enough in order to read Fux's 'Gradus ad Parnassum' in the original, and to interpret, musically, the Mass-texts of his church. With the Hungarian tongue he had—his long residence in the country of the Magyars notwithstanding—never become familiar, owing, no doubt, to the fact that in those parts where he lived German had been the chief medium of conversation. In the princely house, too, German was the language of etiquette, the domestics only conversing, among themselves, in the language of the country. Although of a somewhat grave and sedate temperament, Haydn was fond of giving a humorous turn to conversation, occasionally interspersing some lively anecdote. His innate modesty prevented the mighty lever within his breast, viz., the ambition to obtain honour and fame—from degenerating into an all-absorbing ambitiousness. He looked upon his talent, not as of his own making, but as a free gift of the Creator, to whom it behoved him to show gratitude—a belief which was also perfectly in harmony with his religious sentiments. He was particularly attached to children, who, on their part, clung to their 'Haydn papa' (as they called him) with all the fond impetuosity of their age. But then he had, too, always some sweetmeats ready in his pockets, and would seize his opportunity of making fresh conquests among the youthful throng 'whenever he took his little walks abroad.' We shall become acquainted with numerous examples of Haydn's happy gift of communicating his sense of humour to his compositions. Conscious of his own worth, he was glad to hear himself sincerely praised, while mere flattery was distasteful to him, and even caused him annoyance. Kindly disposed towards everyone, he could also be vexed if he suspected that his kindness had been abused; he would then become irritable, giving free vent to his irony."

Far more agreeable than could have been gathered from the "Decree" already mentioned must have been Haydn's position as Vice-Capellmeister to Prince Nicholas Esterhazy. Herr Pohl gives the following account of it: "Haydn's relations to this prince, who, upon his accession to the reign, had at once increased the composer's salary by one-half, and had, moreover, generously secured him a pension in his will, were of a very cordial nature. The Prince gave his Capellmeister repeated proofs of his esteem and satisfaction, and the interest he evinced in his compositions was a spur to the master in accomplishing greater and greater works. Now and then, it is true, a word of regret at the secludedness of his position would pass from his lips, and longingly his thoughts would wander towards Italy; a kind word, however, an occasional present delicately offered, would soon dispel his gloom, and he would stand firmer than ever by his master, in whose service, according to his own expression, he desired to 'live and die.' And these words, uttered by the man in the prime of life, had an echo still in his breast when old age had crept upon him, and when his days drew to their close his heart was yet full of gratitude for the 'kind and generous' Prince Nicholas. How much his brother, Michael, envied him this princely favour and stimulating interest in his work! 'Give me proper texts,' he would often exclaim, 'and procure me the encouraging protection under which my brother lives, and I will not remain behind him!' Attempts have been made to detract from the merit due to the house of Esterhazy respecting the spiritual and material welfare of our composer. Haydn's talent, they say, had been abused; his powers—instead of being applied to the creation of works of greater import—had but too often been allowed to run waste, through his official obligation of writing ‘occasional’ music; the seclusion of his life had deprived him of the measure of his own capabilities, his official position generally having been rather an obstacle in the way of his development than otherwise. There is, indeed, some truth in this, and we must regret it. Still, we cannot but be grateful to the princely house for having afforded the master a suitable sphere for his activity at a time, be it remembered, when his name was yet by no means known. The alleged drawbacks of his situation were also not without their advantages. It was just this seclusion which contributed to the master’s originality. Nor did he remain a stranger to new phases in the development of his art; they would find their way into Hungary, or if not, he would become acquainted with them upon his visits to Vienna. As to the orchestra, no other conductor ever had so absolutely the disposal of a body of musicians as he had, in order to try, at any moment, the effect of compositions just fresh from his pen. Haydn himself was far from attaching importance to everything he wrote; whatever he did consider worthy of himself has found its way into countries far remote. There can be no greater error than the supposition that it was only in consequence of his visit to London that his genius became generally known to the world; yet this has been asserted even in modern days. The name of Haydn was, on the contrary, known and esteemed everywhere already in the seventh and eighth decade of the past century; offers poured in from publishers on all sides for works from his pen, and it was he who dictated the terms. Affluence, it is true, fell not to his share, yet there can be little doubt that, with a less spendthrift wife, his pecuniary condition would have been one of comparative ease. Considering that Nicholas had a house built for Haydn, and had spared him the miserable necessity of earning a precarious livelihood by teaching, we may well ask: Where was the Prince who would have done as much for the composer’s much-esteemed friend, Mozart? Haydn himself felt contented with his position. Here are his own words on the point, which, although referring chiefly to his residence, during a later period, at Esterházy, we are justified in applying also to the first years of his stay at Eisenstadt, and his position in general. He says to Griesinger (p. 24): ‘The Prince was satisfied with all I did; I met with encouragement; as chief of an orchestra I was enabled to try experiments, to observe what might produce effect or weaken it; thus I could improve, add, curtail, risk. Set apart from the world, with nobody near me to shake the faith I had in myself, or to perplex me with doubts, I was bound to become original.’ Long after Haydn’s name had obtained a world-wide fame, he was so little blinded by the honours heaped upon him, that in his personal intercourse with princes and the leading aristocracy he still upheld, as before, certain limits. In this sense, too, he remarks to Griesinger: ‘I have associated with Emperors, Kings; and many persons of high station, and they have spoken to me many a flattering word; yet will I not live on a familiar footing with such personages, but rather keep to people of my own station.’ The composer has been called, even in recent times, a ‘princely footman.’ This denomination is unjust. If by it we understand a servile creature, ready at any time to humble himself before his superiors, surely Haydn was the exact reverse. He was fully aware of his own worth, and had no need to stoop low in his intercourse with the mighty. Out of many examples we might quote, in order to refute the invidiousness of the above expression, we will select an anecdote from a later period in the composer’s life, related and vouched for in all its details by several members of his orchestra. ‘During a general rehearsal at which Prince Nicolaus (he who had come to reign in 1794) was present, the latter expressed his dissatisfaction with some parts of the performance. “Serene Highness,” was Haydn’s irritated reply, “to understand this is my business.” Whereupon the Prince rose, and casting an ungracious look upon his capellmeister, quitted the room, greatly to the terror of the musicians, who every one clung to their conductor with enthusiastic affection.’”

(To be concluded in our next.)

A LETTER from Mr. C. J. Read, which appears in our present number, raises questions of such importance as to the correct text of many of Mendelssohn’s “Lieder ohne Worte,” that we have looked into the matter with considerable care, in order that we may be prepared with a trustworthy reply to his remarks. The discrepancies in the editions, as noted by our correspondent, are, as he justly remarks, too considerable to be accounted for by any supposition of imperfect correction of proofs, &c. How they arose at first we are not in a position to say. In forming a judgment as to which version is the right one, it may, we think, be fairly assumed that most reliance is to be placed upon the original editions, whether English or German. If a difference is found between the earliest English and the earliest German editions, we incline to give the preference to the latter, because we think it more likely to have been corrected by the composer himself. We have before us the original German edition, published in Mendelssohn’s lifetime (at least the first six books, to which alone Mr. Read refers) by Simrock of Bonn, the proprietors of the German copyright; we have also the first English editions, published by J. Alfred Novello and Messrs. Ewer and Co.; and, in addition, we have collated some of the more modern copies. We will now take Mr. Read’s remarks in detail, and give the result of our investigation into each point.

No. 5, bar 40.—Simrock’s and Ewer’s first editions have A♯, while Novello’s has A♮. The former is undoubtedly the correct reading, as the change from A♮ to A♯ is needed to establish the modulation from B minor to C♯ minor. Additional proof may be found by comparing the passage with bar 36, in which all editions agree as to the reading.

No. 8.—Mr. Read’s remarks here are unintelligible. There are no D naturals in bars 22, 55, 57, and no octaves in bars 29, 30, 63-7, nor can we find any passage to which he appears to refer. We regret that he has not quoted the text. In bar 51, which he does quote, the new editions are not only, in our opinion, the more musicianly, but they correspond with the original German edition, which those of Benedict, Bennett, &c., do not.

Nos. 9, 10, 11, and 12.—Here in every case, without exception, the readings of which Mr. Read complains are those of the original German edition, which appears to have been tampered with in some unknown way, but which modern editors have rightly restored to its old purity. We are strongly of opinion that the “bungler,” who, according to Mr. Read, dealt so “clumsily” with No. 11, must have been Mendelssohn himself; for it is difficult to imagine that he would have allowed an edition, published by the firm for whom he wrote so much as he did for Simrock, to go forth to the public in a garbled state; while, even supposing the possibility of such an occurrence, it is still more incredible that anyone with such a keen regard for his own reputation as Mendelssohn, who was notoriously careful not to publish anything with which he was not fully satisfied, should not have immediately taken steps to suppress the incorrect copies.

No. 20.—Here Mr. Read is quite right. The D in the fifth bar, and the D on the repetition of the passage, is undoubtedly the correct reading. It is printed thus in the first editions, both English and German.

There is one point on which some information would be desirable, on which Mr. Read has not touched. No. 5 of the "Lieder" is inscribed "Piano Agitato." It is not easy to explain here the presence of the former word, because at the commencement of the piece a p is marked between the staves, which would seem to render the word superfluous in the heading. It cannot be a general indication for the whole piece, because the music several times rises to a forte, and once to a fortissimo. Did Mendelssohn intend by it "with slight agitation," or something equivalent? If so, it is a remarkably loose way of expressing himself, and he was generally the most accurate of men. All the older editions agree in the heading, though some of the more recent have altered it. Brandus's Paris copy, edited by Stephen Heller, gives merely "Agitato"—evidently shirking the difficulty by omitting the first word. Pauer (Augener and Co.'s edition) has "Presto Agitato," an emendation which has at least probability to recommend it, though we know not if there is any authority for the alteration. This matter, as well as all the others referred to, will no doubt be shortly cleared up by the publication of the "Lieder" in the new complete edition of Mendelssohn's works, now in course of issue under the supervision of Julius Rietz—an edition which will henceforth be the standard text for Mendelssohn, and which, both for correctness and completeness, leaves nothing to desire.

With regard to the titles given to the "Lieder" in some editions, they are not only spurious, but in many cases absurd. The only numbers to which titles were added by the composer are Nos. 6, 12, and 29, each of which he has entitled "Venetianisches Gondellied," No. 18, "Duetto," and No. 23, "Volkslied." We believe we are correct in saying that the other titles were invented by Stephen Heller, for his edition named above. It is very certain that no one would have more strongly disapproved of them than the composer.

For nearly two years past the music at one service in each week at St. Paul's Cathedral has been sustained by men's voices only. Considering that the play-ground of the chorister-boys consists of the limited area of the roof of the school-house, this is certainly a wise arrangement, inasmuch as it gives the little fellows regularly once in each week an opportunity of getting a run in the country and a breath of fresh air. As our readers are aware, there is a goodly repertory of sacred music for men's voices, in which Mendelssohn's "Festgesang" and three Motetts, Schubert's "Great is Jehovah" and Gounod's "Hail gladdening Light," stand pre-eminent for beauty of melody. We were not a little surprised, therefore, to find a correspondent of the City Press who, after attending one of these services, was evidently under the impression that the short and easy method adopted by the musical authorities in order to get male-voice music was, to take ordinary services and anthems but omit the treble part throughout!! He actually writes to say—"the melody being unrepresented, the musical portion of the service was almost in dumb show." Moreover, he thought the efforts of the organist to play the omitted Treble parts were a failure, for he says "the organ feebly endeavoured to make up the deficiency"! We condole with Tenors and Basses on this newly-discovered fact that melody is only to be found in the Treble stave! But the malcontent correspondent of our contemporary surpasses himself when he says quite seriously and in good faith—"May I ask you, Sir, or some of your more enlightened readers, whether this (service for men's voices) is any further Ritualistic development?" All we can say in reply to this is, to ask some of the more enlightened readers of the City Press whether, arguing from analogy, an organ stop of sixteen-foot pitch is, or is not, more Ritualistic than one of eight feet!

SOME of our contemporaries have freely commented upon the recent remarkable speech of Mr. Alderman Smith, ex-Mayor of Southport; but the musical convictions of so powerful a dignitary cannot have too much publicity, and we hasten therefore to give him the additional benefit of our circulation. It appears that at the Winter Gardens of Southport a band is regularly engaged, under the directorship of Mr. A. G. Crowe, and that this gentleman, having artistic tendencies, and being desirous therefore of choosing, as well as of conducting, the compositions performed, occasionally introduced some of the works of the best masters into the programmes. This unpardonable liberty was duly resented by Mr. Alderman Smith at a meeting on the subject, and Mr. Crowe was reminded of his real duty as a paid functionary so forcibly that we can scarcely imagine he will thus sin again, at least in Southport. "What they wanted him" (Mr. Crowe) "to consider," said the Alderman, with much warmth, "was the interest of the shareholders a little more, and not think so much of the high-class music some people puff him about. . . . For himself, he could say that he was never brought up in a music-shop, but he knew he could appreciate music, and he would be better pleased if there was a little more noise in the tune." Now, without pausing to debate the question whether in order to acquire a classical taste in the art it is necessary to be "brought up in a music-shop," we cannot believe that the worthy ex-Mayor had sufficiently thought out his subject to express himself with clearness upon the best method of arriving at his own ideal of perfection. It is very true that by dismissing half the band (as he recommended) and cutting off high-class music, he would save money, and please many who were present at this memorable meeting; but so far from getting "more noise in the tune," we are decidedly of opinion that the latter item will be so effectually banished from the performances that even those of his own way of thinking will shortly be clamouring for "more tune in the noise."

WHAT Mr. Carl Rosa has done for the cause of operatic music during his recent short season in London can scarcely be estimated at its real value at the present moment. It may be said that he has felt the pulse of the English people and found it tolerably healthy; but the diet he prescribed was a mixed one, suited for his patients' state, and must not be criticised too closely by those whose constitution requires neither weak food nor artificial stimulants. On the whole the works performed have been well selected and satisfactorily executed; and although the lessee has given us more Operas in English than English Operas, he has successfully proved that audiences will crowd the theatre nightly to listen to lyrical compositions sung in the language of the country, provided only that the music be of a high order of merit. The attraction of "Fidelio," "The Flying Dutchman," and "The Water Carrier" will sufficiently attest this fact; and for all that must necessarily follow the successful issue of this experiment we need have no fear. One danger only will require to be courageously met, and if not at once crushed, at least weakened in its effect. We allude to the undue power of the vocalists. During the Pyne and Harrison management of English Opera this was the prominent obstacle to ultimate success; and again in the Carl Rosa company have we been constantly reminded of the existence of the evil. Certainly the works we have mentioned have held an important place in Mr. Rosa's bills during the season; but have not Operas been produced and others held back solely through the influence of the singers? Could we indeed offer a more positive proof of this than the fact of the principal vocalist of the establishment selecting for his benefit a poor Opera by a comparatively unknown composer, simply because there was a good acting part for the beneficiaire? Surely artists should know that they only shed lustre upon the art they follow when they steadily and earnestly uphold its best interests.

It appears to us that when an institution which has earned so high a name in the artistic world as the Royal Academy of Music issues an advertisement announcing that the Balfé Scholarship will be competed for on a certain day, and that "the successful candidate will be entitled to one year's free education in the Academy," the utmost reliance may be placed upon the truth of such promise. A writer in the Figaro, however, who signs himself "Cherubino," thinks differently, and plainly tells his readers that, as no money can immediately come to hand from the funds of the Alexandra Palace (where a Festival was held for the promotion of the Scholarship), it follows "either that the winner of the Scholarship will have merely the empty honour for his pains, or that the Royal Academy will have to bear the loss." Now we certainly cannot see how the holder of the Scholarship can be affected by the Academy having to bear the expense of his tuition, but this portion of the sentence may pass without more comment. When "Cherubino," however, asserts, as another probability, that he may have "merely the empty honour for his pains," he not only impugns the veracity of those who have pledged themselves to found the Scholarship, but his observations may have the effect of preventing many students from competing. It is true that in the next number of the journal it is stated that "Madame Balfé has agreed to make up a great part of the difference between the dividend to be received from the Alexandra Palace liquidation and the amount of the Scholarship"; but this is no apology for the imputation cast upon the authorities of the institution in the former paragraph; and we cannot but think that it would have been better if "Cherubino" had either refrained from commenting upon the matter at all, or informed himself of the real state of the case before venturing an opinion.

WE recollect once being invited to hear a pianist, who had become the pet of an amateur musical circle, perform some of Beethoven's Sonatas with "so many alterations and additions that listeners could scarcely recognise the works." Of course we were engaged, and therefore cannot convey to our readers the slightest notion of the effect produced by this ambitious executant. Whether our regimental bandmasters are endeavouring to pursue the same system with the majority of the compositions selected by them we cannot say, but certain it is that the various versions of the National Anthem now in use, although no doubt very agreeable when heard separately, produce by no means a pleasant sensation when played together. This fact having now become too evident to be longer ignored, has led to an official order on the subject, an "authorised arrangement" having been approved, which is at once to supersede all others. It is also said that "the cavalry arrangement is to be used by light infantry brass-bands and rifles, and the infantry reed-band version by the cavalry when dismounted." We are not sufficiently versed in military matters to understand why the light infantry brass-bands and rifles are to play the cavalry arrangement, or why the cavalry bands "when dismounted" are forbidden to perform their own version; but no doubt all this has been wisely ordained, and at least musical ears will be no longer offended by the intolerable discord which has hitherto reigned supreme. The National Anthem may be regarded as private property; and as it is evident that its custodians look carefully after its interest, bandmasters who have a propensity to mutilate or otherwise disfigure a tune must henceforth choose one which has "no friends."

THE Organistship of the Chapel Royal, St. James's, rendered vacant by the death of George Cooper, has been filled up by the appointment of Mr. Jekyll, formerly assistant-organist of Westminster Abbey, and now holding the post of organist of St. George's, Hanover Square. Although the office is not specially remunerative, it has always been esteemed very honourable, partly from its Court associations, partly from the fact that it has from time to time been held by a series of distinguished men. It is not surprising, therefore, that more than one of our musical contemporaries should have expressed very undisguised dissatisfaction at the selection made by the Bishop of London, in whose hands the patronage lies, as being ex officio Dean of the Chapel Royal. But it is more than probable that the Bishop did not conceive that it would redound to the credit not only of his judgment but also of the musical profession if the post had been offered to some distinguished organist who might not consider it compatible with his position to make formal application for it. Hence it is that Mr. Jekyll has been selected, no doubt with professional assistance, from a bewildering list of names of applicants, which we understand reached no less than two hundred in number. Although we could mention several men whose talents as composers or abilities as organists are of so high an order as to have rendered their appointment a matter of no surprise, yet we feel it only due to Mr. Jekyll to say that he brings no common experience with him to the work, and that alike as an accompanist and soloist on the organ he holds a high reputation. We heartily congratulate him on the honour he has received.

AN impostor, or rather, as our American cousins facetiously term him, a "clever confidence man," who has lately been hospitably entertained in Canada and the United States alike by clergy and musicians on representing himself to be the brother, or at other times the son, of Dr. Stainer, has brought his pleasant career to an untimely collapse by pleading guilty at London, Ontario, to two charges of theft. It is comforting to find that he was recognised as a certain Molesworth Kerr, in no way of course related to our metropolitan organist, who has naturally been much annoyed to hear from time to time of the unpleasant reminiscences his pseudo-relative was leaving behind him on his transatlantic tour. An advertisement appeared on several occasions in the Times warning Americans not to believe him, but apparently without much effect; and the private letters written to America by Dr. Stainer of course reached their destination uniformly after the gentleman had mysteriously disappeared.

SOME of our readers may have observed that among the officers of the Challenger scientific expedition there appeared the names of Nares, Aldrich, and Havergal. The first of these, it need hardly be said, is now Sir George Nares, whose name is on everyone's lips as leader of the Arctic Expedition; the second has been promoted to a Commander for his skill and gallantry in the same perilous voyage; the last is a Lieutenant, R.N. Musicians will be interested to know that Sir George Nares is a descendant of Dr. Nares; that Commander Aldrich is one of the line of Dean Aldrich, of musical, architectural, and logical fame; and that Lieutenant Havergal is a son of Canon Havergal, the Church musician, whose beneficial influence on hymnody is now fully recognised.

SCARCELY had our lamented brother musician George Cooper been laid in his grave, before one of our weekly musical contemporaries permitted a discussion to take place in its columns as to whether he had ever been offered the organistship of St. Paul's Cathedral. We need offer no remark on the questionable taste displayed in this. Is there no force or meaning left in the old words Requiescat in pace?

THE LATE HENRY PHILLIPS.

WE may add to the biography given in our last issue that the death of the once popular basso was somewhat unexpected, he having enjoyed his usual good health up to the week before he died. Some of our contemporaries have fallen into error in their remarks on his career. The statement that he was the original "Elijah" is wholly incorrect. Mendelssohn, writing on the 31st of August 1846, six days after the first performance of his great Oratorio at Birmingham, recounts how "Staudigl took all possible pains" with the work, and he refers to the singers of all the other parts excepting that of the second bass, the part filled by Phillips. Of this performance Phillips has written: "Mendelssohn had been led to believe that my register was not sufficiently extensive to execute the music of 'Elijah,' which he considered too high for me, and that Staudigl was the only man who could sing it. I was consequently allotted the quartets only, which we sang from manuscript parts in single lines; the task, therefore, became nervously difficult, and I confess it was with no very good grace that I sang in the Oratorio." Equally erroneous is the statement that Phillips was personally engaged in the first representation of all Balfe's operas: with the majority of them he had nothing whatever to do.

EDWARD LAND.

WE regret to announce the death of the above-named artist, which occurred at his residence, Cambridge Place, Regent's Park, on the 29th of November. He commenced his musical career as one of the children of the Chapel Royal, and was afterwards brought into prominent notice by John Wilson, the celebrated Scotch tenor singer, who acquired considerable popularity by his entertainments of national Scottish song, and associated with himself as pianoforte accompanist Mr. Land. On the formation of the Glee and Madrigal Union, consisting of Mrs. Enderssohn, Miss Williams, Messrs. Lockey, Hobbs, and Henry Phillips, Land was most judiciously selected as accompanist for such pieces as required the addition of a pianoforte part, and he also occasionally officiated as second tenor vocalist. He was the author of more than one popular song, and was much esteemed for his admirable conduct as Secretary of the Noblemen and Gentlemen's Catch Club.

G. F. ANDERSON.

THE death of Mr. G. F. Anderson, which occurred on the 14th ult., in his 83rd year, will leave a blank in the list of active members of the Philharmonic Society and Royal Society of Musicians which cannot easily be replaced. Mr. Anderson was, until recently, Master of the Queen's Private Band, and even to the day of his decease held the office of Honorary Treasurer to both the above-mentioned Institutions. At the funeral, representatives of the two Societies he had so materially benefited were the pall-bearers; and a large number of his professional and private friends were present.

CRYSTAL PALACE.

SULLIVAN'S Cantata "On Shore and Sea" occupied the greater portion of the Saturday concert on the 2nd ult. This work was composed for the opening of the International Exhibition of 1871, and was first produced on that occasion at the Albert Hall. It consists of ten numbers, and is laid out for soprano and baritone solos, chorus and orchestra. Though containing much clever writing, it is not, on the whole, one of its composer's best works, a fact which may probably be accounted for by its having been written for a special occasion. It is well known that pièces de circonstance are seldom favourable specimens of their authors. The first and last movements of Mr. Sullivan's Cantata are among the best numbers. The performance at the Palace was exceedingly good: the solos were well given by Madame Lemmens-Sherrington and Mr. Wadmore, and the chorus showed the same excellence which has marked all their singing during the present season. Meyerbeer's interesting overture to "Struensee" opened, and Beethoven's great "Leonore" overture concluded, the concert, which also included Bach's Chaconne and Ernst's "Hungarian Airs," played by Herr Wilhelmj, whose répertoire seems exceedingly limited. Mr. Wadmore also sang a Romance by Mercadante, and Madame Sherrington contributed a Cavatina by Rossini.

The instrumental part of the concert on the 9th was exceedingly good. The orchestral works given were Schumann's Overture to "Genoveva," Bennett's Symphony in G minor, and Liszt's "Symphonic Poem," "Mazeppa." The first two of these three works are too familiar to need comment; Liszt's "Mazeppa" was given on this occasion for the first time in England—that is, in its original shape, it having been recently heard as a duet for two pianos at Mr. Walter Bache's recital. The work is an illustration of Victor Hugo's poem, the subject being, it is almost needless to say, the same treated by Lord Byron. Like most of Liszt's compositions, the music requires careful study and repeated hearing for its full appreciation; all that can be said of it at present is that while some parts sound obscure and vague, others give evidence of unmistakable power. The performance was one of the most wonderful pieces of playing ever heard at the Crystal Palace. The music is extremely complex and enormously difficult, but it was rendered with a finish and precision which could not have been surpassed. On the same afternoon Miss Anna Mehlig gave an excellent performance of Hiller's Pianoforte Concerto in F sharp minor. The vocalists were Miss Ida Corani and Mr. F. H. Celli. With the exception of Wolfram's song from "Tannhäuser," it cannot be said that the vocal music was worthy of the concert.

The last of the concerts before Christmas was given on the 16th ult. The day being the anniversary of Beethoven's birth, the programme was entirely selected from his works, and the only fault to be found with it was that it was far too long. It commenced with the Overture to "Prometheus," as illustrating the composer's earliest manner. To this succeeded the Cavatina with chorus "Never more shall sorrow grieve me," from the "Praise of Music," in which the solo part was sung by Madame Blanche Cole. Madame Arabella Goddard then played in her most brilliant and finished style the Concerto in E flat; and after songs by Mr. Edward Lloyd ("Adelaida") and Madame Antoinette Sterling ("Wonne der Wehmuth" and "Neue Liebe, neues Leben") came the Choral Symphony! To precede such a work by so lengthy a selection is in every way a mistake. After an hour's music, hearers are not fresh enough to enjoy thoroughly and appreciate fully so elaborate a masterpiece. The performance was one of very high excellence. The solo quartet consisted of the three artists named above, with the addition of Mr. H. A. Pope; and the chorus distinguished itself in the very trying music allotted to it both by precision and spirit, while the rendering of the instrumental movements was a treat of the highest order.

The concerts will be resumed on the 3rd of February—the anniversary of Mendelssohn's birthday—when the programme will be selected entirely from the works of that composer.

GADSBY'S "ALCESTIS."

FOLLOWING up their recent production of "Antigone" and "Œdipus at Colonus," the directors of the Crystal Palace brought forward on the 12th ult. Euripides' "Alcestitis," with music specially composed for the occasion by Mr. Henry Gadsby. Mr. Gadsby is no stranger at the Crystal Palace, several of his compositions having been given with success on various occasions at the Saturday concerts. The present is, however, so far as we know, the most important work that he has at present written, comprising in all ten numbers, several of them of considerable extent. In the general outline, he has almost of necessity followed the path laid down by Mendelssohn, who was, we believe, the first to set to music any of the old Greek tragedies. It must be said, in Mr. Gadsby's praise, that he is no mere slavish imitator. Indeed, throughout the whole of his music we find nothing which can be called a reminiscence of either "Antigone" or "Œdipus." In some respects his treatment differs from that of his great predecessor: he has entirely discarded the effect of solo voices, and though he has thereby sacrificed some opportunities for musical contrast, it is probable that he has on the other hand conformed more nearly to the plan of the ancients. There is no reason to suppose that any part of the Greek choruses was sung either by a solo voice or by a quartet.

"Alcestitis" commences with a regularly-developed Overture, instead of the short instrumental prelude which Mendelssohn adopted in a similar situation. The introduction consists of the chief theme of one of the most important choruses (the "Fate" chorus), which occurs later in the work; this is followed by a piu moto in A minor and major, well written, but less striking than some of the succeeding numbers. The first chorus, "Before this royal mansion all is still," is chiefly a dialogue between the first and second choir, in which the recitative style predominates. It leads immediately into No. 3, "In vain, our pious vows are vain," a fine and very effective chorus in C major, equally praiseworthy from a musical and dramatic point of view. No. 4, one of the longest pieces in the work, is partly chorus and partly melodrama. A point that strikes us, with regard to Mr. Gadsby's setting of the choral portions of the music, is the large predominance of unison passages. We think the composer is right in his treatment, because with a small choir the melody certainly comes out much more clearly against the orchestra than if the music were written in full harmony; and as the work was designed to be sung by a chorus of only forty, against at least an equal number of instrumentalists, unless great judgment were shown in the distribution of the parts, the voices would certainly be overpowered.

The melodramatic music, both in this and in subsequent numbers, is excellent. Here, perhaps, even more than in the choruses, it was difficult for Mr. Gadsby to avoid the Mendelssohn influence. We think, nevertheless, that he has completely succeeded in doing so. His accompaniments to the spoken dialogue are always appropriate and tasteful, and yet quite different in style from those in "Antigone." No. 5, the chorus in F major, "Immortal bliss be thine," is musically one of the most important numbers of the whole work, and is throughout full of interest. Here we find another innovation of Mr. Gadsby's—this time, we think, not an improvement. Instead of setting, as Mendelssohn mostly does, the first and second strophe and antistrophe to the same (or very nearly the same) music, Mr. Gadsby gives them entirely different subjects. This is, we cannot but think, a mistake, because the two portions of the text so exactly correspond to one another that there is at least a strong probability that they were intended to be sung to the same music. By adopting a different course, Mr. Gadsby obtains greater variety, but the unity of the piece suffers. The following chorus, "Yes, liberal house" (in A major), is one of the best specimens of its composer's style—thoroughly tuneful, and excellently written. Here Mr. Gadsby has for the second strophe repeated the theme of the first, greatly, in our opinion, to the advantage of the music. No. 8 is a movement consisting chiefly of melodrama, interspersed with short choral passages, mostly in unison. The following chorus (in D major), "My venturous foot delights," which sings of Fate, is another very good number, though, like No. 5, it suffers from the want of correspondence in the music of the strophes and antistrophes. The closing portion, in which the praises of the departed wife are sung, is of special merit. A short and effective finale concludes the work.

We have dwelt in such detail upon the music of "Alcestitis" that a few words must suffice concerning the performance. This was on the whole excellent, especially as regards the music. The choruses were capitally rendered by the same choir (under the direction of the composer's father, Mr. W. Gadsby) which did such good service at the revivals of "Antigone" and "Œdipus;" while the orchestra, under Mr. Manns, was simply perfect. The cast of the play, which was satisfactory throughout, was as follows: Alcestitis, Miss Emily Cross; Iole, Miss Emily Vining; Admetus, Mr. Arthur Matthison; Hercules, Mr. W. Rignold; Pheres, Mr. Edmund Leathes; Apollo, Mr. J. H. Barnes; Thanatos, Mr. Henry Moxon; Medon, Mr. Bruton Robins; and Chorus Speaker, Mr. W. Holman. Mr. Rignold's Hercules must be particularly mentioned as an admirable and effective piece of acting.

Mr. Gadsby may be warmly congratulated on a legitimate success in a by no means easy department of musical composition. The music is quite good enough to deserve a second hearing.

ROYAL ALBERT HALL CHORAL SOCIETY.

MENDELSSOHN'S "Elijah" was performed by this Society on the 7th ult. in a manner which reflected the highest credit upon all concerned, the choruses being especially well rendered, and the principal vocalists—Messdames Sinico, A. Sinclair, Arnim, and A. Sterling, Messrs. Pearson, Mellor, Christian, S. Smith, and Signor Foli—being highly successful in the solo parts. At the two performances of the "Messiah," on the 18th and 21st ult., with Mdlle. Titiens, Madame Trebelli-Bettini, Mr. Sims Reeves, Mr. W. H. Cummings, and Herr Behrens as principals, large audiences were assembled, and the execution of the work was thoroughly satisfactory, with one exception—the omission of the air "The trumpet shall sound." This extraordinary circumstance arose, we understand, from the refusal of Herr Behrens to sing the air unless transposed into D \flat , an impracticable request, as all musicians must know, when the obbligato is performed as Handel wrote it, on a trumpet, and not on a cornet-à-pistons. As the directors of the Albert Hall invariably engage a first-rate trumpet-player for this important part, it must have been vexing indeed to have their good intentions thus frustrated; and we may reasonably ask how it happened that, as Herr Behrens declined to fulfil the duty for which he was engaged at the first performance, his place was not supplied on the second occasion? Mr. Barnby conducted all these concerts with his accustomed ability.

ST. ANNE'S, SOHO.

THE first of four special Christmas Services was held on the evening of the 21st ult. at the above-named church. Through the praiseworthy efforts of Mr. Barnby, the musical arrangements have become a distinct feature at these services, and the church was well filled with a congregation the greater part of whom were eager to join their voices with those of the choir wherever such participation was solicited. The chief musical attraction was the "Christmas Oratorio" of John Sebastian Bach, a work which, more impressively than any other, conveys to the religious mind the glad tidings of "Peace on earth and goodwill towards men." The few choral portions of the Oratorio were extremely well rendered by the carefully-trained choir, and the airs and recitatives were delivered, on the part of individual members, with that true devotional feeling and total absence of self-assertion which is due to the religious character of the work and the intensely religious feelings of the master-mind which conceived it. At the conclusion of the Oratorio the "Hallelujah" Chorus from the "Messiah" was sung, the whole congregation joining, and for the first time in our life we felt this sublime inspiration of Handel's to jar upon our feelings; its introduction at this point seeming so thoroughly out of character with the preceding work. It is the Christ born which forms the great theme of rejoicing and contemplation in Bach's Oratorio, whereas it is the Christ triumphant, who has gained the victory over suffering and death, represented in the "Hallelujah" Chorus. Following immediately upon the final chorale of the Christmas Oratorio, with its reminiscences of the peaceful Pastoral Symphony preceding it, the chorus in question has the effect of a roof of sublime architecture being placed upon a humble cottage. Imagine for a moment the "Hallelujah" to follow directly upon the Pastoral Symphony in the "Messiah," and our meaning will be at once appreciated. Grateful as the public must feel towards Mr. Barnby for affording such excellent opportunities of hearing the music of John Sebastian Bach, we cannot but think this combination of two works, so distinct in their individuality and conception, to be decidedly unfortunate. The service was repeated on the 29th ult., and is announced for the 5th and 12th inst.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

THE orchestral concert of the students of this Institution, which was given at St. James's Hall on the 2nd ult., attracted an audience filling every portion of the room. The first part of Professor Macfarren's Oratorio "St John the Baptist," which commenced the programme, gave an opportunity to Miss Bolingbroke of displaying to the greatest advantage her fine voice and distinct enunciation as the Narrator, many of her recitatives eliciting the warmest marks of approbation from the audience. The music of St. John the Baptist was entrusted to Mr. George, who sang carefully and steadily throughout. The choral portions of the work went extremely well, the fresh voices of the soprani especially being much admired; and so admirably was the beautiful chorus "This is my beloved Son" rendered that it was enthusiastically re-demanded. Two works by students were performed in the second part, the first a clever and effectively instrumented Overture, "The Bride of Abydos," by Mr. A. H. Jackson, and the second a "Magnificat," by Mr. Eaton Fanning, which gained the Lucas prize medal at the last competition, and is unquestionably a composition of very considerable merit, the treatment of the choir in several parts evidencing a power which will no doubt ripen with experience. The solo part in this work was excellently sung by Miss Marie Duval. The pianists were Miss Isabel Thurgood, who played in a dashing manner the first movement of Rubinstein's Concerto in D minor; Miss Evans, who gave an unaffected reading of the last two movements of Sterndale Bennett's Concerto in C minor; and Mr. Bampfylde, whose rendering of Mendelssohn's "Rondo Brillant" in B minor showed a real artistic feeling and the result of sound and legitimate training. Miss F. Thomas's clarionet obligato to "Non più di fiori," well sung by Miss Marian Williams, also deserves much commendation. The other vocalists were Miss Leonora Braham, Miss Orridge—who sang the air "Fanciulle che il core" so well as to be unanimously recalled—and Mr. Charles Tinney. The concert was conducted by Mr. Walter Macfarren with his usual care and intelligence.

BOROUGH OF HACKNEY CHORAL ASSOCIATION.

It seems strange that we should have to journey as far east as the Shoreditch Town Hall to hear Schubert's Mass in F for the first time in London; but when the members of the above Association engaged Mr. Ebenezer Prout as their Conductor, they could scarcely expect that he would be content to remain a passive agent in their hands; and the unexampled success of their first concert for the present season, on the 27th November, has fully proved that his counsels have been in the right direction. So excellent a rendering of a work which could scarcely have been familiar to many of the choral body reflected the highest credit, not only upon the Conductor, who must indeed have laboured hard in the task of preparation, but upon the singers, who, although we presume all amateurs, gave ample evidence both of the will and the power to grapple with the difficulties of their interesting task. The religious fervour with which the beautiful "Kyrie" was delivered produced a marked effect upon the auditors; and the "Gloria" with its many movements, including the Trio "Gratias agimus," went almost faultlessly throughout, the fugue "Cum sancto spiritu," which severely taxed the capabilities of the choir, being especially worthy of commendation. The "Credo," a lovely setting of the text, and appropriately subdued in the accompaniment, was sung most impressively, and the "Sanctus" (although to our mind the weakest portion of the Mass) was given with the utmost care, as if the executants had resolved to show their reverence for their work by bestowing equal attention upon every part of it. The "Benedictus," a canon for two sopranos and two tenors, remarkable for the variety of the accompaniment throughout, went well, and was warmly applauded, particularly by that section of the audience unaccustomed to listen to the more elaborate combinations of voices and instruments. The "Agnus Dei," a charmingly peaceful movement, leading to the "Dona nobis"—in which, like Beethoven's Mass in C, the subject of the "Kyrie" is returned to—concluded the work, which had been listened to with extreme delight by an audience filling every part of the Hall. Every praise is due to the solo singers—Miss Marie Duval, Miss Geddes, Miss Pauline Featherby, Messrs. H. Guy, Goodwood, and Thurley Beale—Miss Duval especially distinguishing herself in the many soprano solos with which the composition abounds. The orchestra was extremely good; and the conducting of Mr. Prout, whilst devoid of any superabundant energy, was so calm and dignified as to inspire every person concerned in the interpretation of the Mass with the fullest confidence. We have but space to record that the miscellaneous second part was composed of such classical materials as to induce a belief that the new Conductor has resolved to indoctrinate those who have placed their confidence in him with the true principles of art.

THE Monday and Saturday Popular Concerts have continued to attract during the past month as numerous and appreciative audiences as ever. There has been but little absolute novelty in the programmes; but the works already established in favour with the frequenters of these concerts have been rendered to perfection. Amongst the pianists we may mention Mdle. Mehlig, Miss Agnes Zimmermann, and Mr. Charles Hallé; and Madame Norman-Néruda, by her excellent leading of the most exacting quartets, has fully sustained her reputation as one of the first classical violinists of the day. The series of concerts has now been brought to a close until after the Christmas vacation.

The competition at the Royal Academy of Music for the Westmorland Scholarship and Potter Exhibition took place at the Institution on Monday the 18th ult., the examiners being Mr. F. R. Cox, Mr. W. Dorrell, Mr. M. Garcia, Mr. H. C. Lunn, Mr. Walter Macfarren, Mr. A. Randegger, Mr. Brinley Richards, Dr. Steggall, and the Principal, Professor Macfarren. The results were as follows: Westmorland Scholarship (for which there were 19 candidates)—Miss Marian Williams, elected; Miss Annie Albu, highly commended. Potter Exhibition (12 candidates)—Miss Kate Steel, elected; Miss Margaret Bucknall, highly commended; Miss Fanny Boxell, commended. The Balfé Scholarship (endowed from the proceeds of the Balfé Memorial Festival in July 1876, in memory of Michael William Balfé) was also competed for, the examiners being Mr. H. C. Banister, Mr. M. Garcia, Mr. H. C. Lunn, Mr. Walter Macfarren, Mr. A. Randegger, and the Principal. There were five candidates, and the scholarship was awarded to Master William Sewell.

THE Leeds Triennial Musical Festival will take place in the Town Hall about the end of September next. The committee has for some time past been in active operation, and two or three new and important works are expected to be produced. As an indication of the probable pecuniary success of the Festival, it may be stated that in a few weeks a guarantee fund of over £8,000 was subscribed by a limited number of gentlemen. The fund is now to be thrown open to the general public for subscription, when a large addition to it is expected. Professor Macfarren is engaged in writing an Oratorio for the Festival, the subject being "Joseph," the Professor's promise to write for the committee having been secured shortly after the Festival in 1874, when his "St. John the Baptist" was performed. It may be mentioned as a singular coincidence that Sir Michael Costa, the Conductor in 1874, is reported to be writing an Oratorio on the same subject.

THE following correspondence will show that the indefatigable labours of Mr. Townshend Smith, conductor and hon. sec. of the Hereford Musical Festivals for so many years, have been appreciated and recognised as they deserve:—

"2, Lowndes Street, Nov. 27, 1876.
"Dear Sir,—I undertake the agreeable office, in the name of the president and stewards of the late Hereford Musical Festival, of handing to you a purse of £80, contributed by the above-named gentlemen. We ask your acceptance of this, not that it will repay you for all the anxious cares of your conductorship, but in the hope that you may look upon it as a token that we have not been unmindful of your untiring energy and skill, now, as on former occasions, in directing the Festival to so eminently successful an issue.—I am, yours truly,

"JOHN H. ARKWRIGHT, Chairman.
"G. Townshend Smith, Esq."

"To the Lord Bateman, President, J. H. Arkwright, Esq., Chairman, and the Stewards of the Hereford Musical Festival.

"The Close, Hereford, Nov. 30, 1876.
"My Lords and Gentlemen,—Accept my grateful thanks for the kind and liberal way in which you have shown your appreciation of my services; the good feeling evinced by the gift enhances its value. I have always laboured most earnestly to make the Hereford Festival creditable in a musical point of view, pleasant to those employed, and remunerative. I feel deeply obliged to the stewards, the members of my profession, and the press for all the welcome compliments which they have paid me: these alone would have been highly prized as evidences of esteem.—I have the honour to be, my Lords and Gentlemen, your obedient, faithful, and grateful servant,

"G. TOWNSHEND SMITH,
"Conductor and Hon. Sec. of twelve Hereford Festivals."

THE Schubert Society, under the conductorship of Herr Schubert, gave its Eleventh Soirée Musicale on the 13th ult., at the Beethoven Rooms. Among the more prominent of the long list of vocalists who appeared we may mention the names of Madame L. Gage, Madame Rosetti, Madame Schubert, Miss Alison Leigh, and Mr. Bishenden. Solos on the pianoforte were given by Miss McCarthy and Miss Albrecht. The programme was a long and varied one. Madame Gage received an encore for her rendering of "La Stella," by Mililotti, and Miss Alison Leigh displayed a most promising contralto voice. The accompaniments were played by Mr. Samson and Herr Schubert.

At the Christmas General Meeting of the Royal Society of Musicians, Mr. W. H. Cummings was elected Honorary Treasurer, in place of the late Mr. G. F. Anderson.

MR. W. S. HOYTE gave a concert at the Assembly Rooms, St. John's Wood, on the 5th ult., which was numerously attended. In all his pianoforte solos—which comprised Sterndale Bennett's Sonata "The Maid of Orleans," a Fantasia by Liszt, and a group of minor compositions by Chopin, Henselt, Silas, &c.—Mr. Hoyte was warmly applauded, and several times recalled to the platform. The programme also included three movements of Beethoven's Trio (Op. 97), and Mendelssohn's Trio in C minor, in which the concert-giver was ably assisted by Herr Wiener (violin) and Herr Daubert (violincello). The vocalists were Madame Alice Barth, Miss Marion Severn, and Mr. Stedman, all of whom were highly successful; Mr. Stedman's singing of a new song by Berthold Tours, "I'll crown thee Queen," being especially admired, and Henry Leslie's graceful Trio "Memory" eliciting well-deserved marks of approbation.

ON Advent Sunday, special musical services were held in Christ Church, Mayfair. In the morning Dr. Stainer's Anthem "Hosanna in the highest" was effectively rendered. At the evening service the usual Choir of the Church was augmented by Messrs. Barrett, De Lacey, Thornton, and Moss, of St. Paul's Cathedral, who kindly volunteered their services. The following music was sung: the Canticles to Parry's Service in D, and two Anthems, viz., "Who is this?" Dr. Arnold, and "O Saviour of the world," Sir John Goss. Tallis's Responses were used. The sermon in the morning was preached by the Vicar, and that in the evening by the Rev. Cosmo R. Gordon, D.D., Incumbent of Grosvenor Chapel. The musical portion of the services was under the direction of Mr. R. Stokoe, who presided at the organ.

THE annual concert for the benefit of the Orphanage of H.M. Customs was given in St. James's Hall on the 7th ult., under the direction of Mr. W. Phillips. The success, pecuniarily and artistically, was all that could be desired. Mdme. Edith Wynne, Miss Mary Davies, Mdle. Enriquez, Miss Bolingbroke, Mr. W. H. Cummings, Mr. H. Guy, Signor Caravoglia, and Mr. Maybrick were the vocalists, and Miss McManus, a pupil of Sir Julius Benedict, the pianist. Sir Julius Benedict and Mr. Fountain Meen were the conductors.

A MUSICAL performance was given by the pupils of the London Society for Teaching the Blind at Upper Avenue Road, Regent's Park, on the 18th ult., conducted by Mr. Edwin Barnes, Professor of Music at the Society's Schools. An excellent selection of part-songs was well rendered, and organ and pianoforte solos from the works of Bach, Beethoven, Handel, and Mozart were played by the pupils in a manner which reflected the highest credit upon their instructor.

THE South Norwood Musical Society gave its second concert of the season on the 18th ult., and performed Mendelssohn's "As the hart pants" and the same composer's "Hear my prayer," together with a selection of secular music. Miss Jessie Royd sang the principal solos with much taste and effect, and Miss Bawtree contributed a new Christmas song by the Conductor and won a unanimous encore. The chorus-singing was very good, especially in "Hear my prayer." Mr. W. J. Westbrook, Mus. Bac., Cantab., conducted.

A COMPETITION for the appointment of soprano in the choir of South Place Chapel, Finsbury, took place on Monday, the 11th ult., when twenty-six candidates presented themselves. The choice of the committee fell upon Miss Kathleen Grant. The vacancy was caused by the resignation of Miss Marie Duval.

ON Thursday evening the 14th ult. the first musical evening of the South London Musical Club was held at the Angell Town Institution, Brixton. This Society, established for the purpose of affording its members opportunities for the practice of high-class concerted vocal music, has been in existence for some years, but has recently been placed on a new footing, under the able direction of Mr.

I will sing of Thy power.

January 1, 1877.

Psalm lix., vv. 16, 17.

FULL ANTHEM IN FOUR PARTS, WITH TENOR SOLO.

ARTHUR SELLIVAN.

London: NOVELLO, EWER & CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen St. (E.C.) New York: J. L. PETERS, 843, Broadway.

Allegro Moderato.

TREBLE.

ALTO.

TENOR
(sve. lower).

BASS.

ORGAN.
♩ = 108.

Allegro Moderato.

Gt. Diap. & Full Swell.

Ped.

f

I will sing of Thy pow'r, O God, I will sing of Thy

f

I will sing of Thy pow'r, O God, I will sing of Thy

f

I will sing of Thy pow'r, O God, I will sing of Thy

f

I will sing of Thy pow'r, O God, I will sing of Thy

f

pow'r, O God, and will praise Thy mer - cy be-times . . .

f pow'r, O God, and will praise Thy mer - cy be -

f pow'r, O God, and will praise Thy mer - cy be-times in the morn -

f pow'r, O God, and will praise Thy in the morn - ing, in the morn - - - ing,

- times in the morn - ing, the morn - - - ing,
- - - ing, and will praise Thy mer - cy, mer - cy be - times . . in the morn - - - ing, I will and will
I will sing, will sing of Thy pow'r, O God, sing of Thy pow'r, . . .
praise Thy mer - - - cy be - times in the and will praise, will praise Thy mer - cy in the and will praise, will praise Thy and will praise, will praise Thy mer - cy be - times in the morn - ing, Thy mer - cy be-times in the morn - ing, Thy mer - cy be - morn - ing, Thy mer - cy be-times in the morn - ing, Thy mer - cy be - Name, . . Thy mer - cy be-times in the morn - ing, Thy mer - cy be - morn - ing, Thy mer - cy be-times in the morn - ing, Thy mer - cy be -

- times in the morn - ing, will praise Thy mer-cy be-times in the morn - ing,
 - times in the morn - ing, will praise Thy mer-cy be-times in the morn - ing,
 - times in the morn - ing, will praise Thy mer-cy be-times in the morn - ing,
 - times in the morn - ing, will praise Thy mer-cy be-times in the morn - ing,
 Full Sw

ff
 I will sing of Thy pow'r, I will sing, will sing of Thy pow'r, O God,
 I will sing, will sing of Thy pow'r, O God,
 I will sing, will sing of Thy pow'r, O God,
 I will sing, will sing of Thy pow'r, O God, ff Gt.

First system of the musical score. It features four vocal staves (Soprano, Alto, Tenor, Bass) and a piano accompaniment. The key signature is one sharp (F#) and the time signature is common time (C). The lyrics are: "I will sing of Thy pow'r, and will praise Thy". The piano part consists of chords and moving lines in both hands.

Second system of the musical score. The lyrics continue: "mer - cy be - times . . in the morn - ing." The vocal parts and piano accompaniment continue with the same musical style.

Third system of the musical score. It begins with the tempo marking "Andante." and the instruction "TENOR SOLO." The lyrics are: "For Thou hast been my de - fence and re - fuge in the day of my". Below the vocal staves, the piano part is marked "Ch. Org. p" and "Manuals only." The piano accompaniment features a more active, flowing melody.

Fourth system of the musical score. The lyrics continue: "trou - ble, my de - fence . . and re - fuge, my de - fence and re - fuge in the". The vocal parts and piano accompaniment conclude the phrase.

day of my trou - ble. cres. My strength will I as - cribe un - to Thee, for dim. Thou art the God of my re - fuge, for Thou art the God of my re - fuge, Thou art the p cres.

Sw. Org. cres.

Ped.

p God of my re - fuge. For Thou hast been my de - fence and re - fuge dim. p cres. in the day of my trou - - ble, in . . . the day of my trou - cres. dim. Ped. dim.

ble, Thou hast been my re - fuge in my trou - ble.

Choir 8 & 4 ft. Sw. Sw.

Vivace.

Un - to Thee, O my strength, will I sing, . . .

ALTO.

Un - to Thee, O my strength, will I sing, . . .

TENOR (Sve. lower).

Un - to Thee, O my strength, will I sing, . . .

BASS.

Un - to Thee, O my strength, will I sing, . . .

Vivace. ♩ = 120.

Gt. f

Ped.

Un-to Thee, O my strength, will I sing, un - to Thee, O my

Un-to Thee, O my strength, will I sing, un - to Thee, O my

Un-to Thee, O my strength, will I sing, un - to Thee, O my

Un-to Thee, O my strength, will I sing, un - to Thee, O my strength, un - to Thee, O my strength, will I sing, un-to Thee, O my strength, un - to Thee, O my strength, will I sing,

strength, un-to Thee, O my strength, will I sing, strength, un-to Thee, O my strength, will I sing, un - to Thee, O my strength, will I sing, strength, will I sing, un-to Thee, O my strength,

un-to Thee, O my strength, will I . . sing,
un-to Thee, O my strength, will I sing,
un-to Thee, O my will . . I sing, un-to Thee will I sing, un-to Thee will I sing, will I . . sing, un-to Thee will I sing, un-to Thee will I sing, unto Thee, O my strength, unto Thee will I sing, un-to Thee will I sing, strength, will I sing, un-to Thee will I sing, un-to Thee will I sing, unto Thee, O my strength, will I sing, un-to Thee will I sing, for Thou, O God, Thou, O
unto Thee, O my strength, will I sing, un-to Thee will I sing, for Thou, O God, Thou, O
unto Thee, O my strength, will I sing, un-to Thee will I sing, for Thou, O God, Thou, O
unto Thee, O my strength, will I sing, un-to Thee will I sing, for Thou, O God, Thou, O

The musical score is written for four voices (Soprano, Alto, Tenor, Bass) and piano accompaniment. It features a key signature of three sharps (F#, C#, G#) and a common time signature. The lyrics are repeated in a call-and-response style between the voices. The piano accompaniment consists of a right-hand melody and a left-hand bass line.

God, art my re-fuge and my mer-ci-ful God, Thou, O God, art my

God, art my re-fuge and my mer-ci-ful God, Thou, O God, art my

God, art my re-fuge and my mer-ci-ful God, Thou, O God, art my

God, art my re-fuge and my mer-ci-ful God, Thou, O God, art my

re-fuge and mer-ci-ful God, For Thou, O God, art my

re-fuge and mer-ci-ful God, For Thou, O God, art my

re-fuge and mer-ci-ful God, For Thou, O God, art my

re-fuge and mer-ci-ful God, For Thou, O God, art my re-fuge . . . and . . . my mer-ci-ful God. A-men.

re-fuge . . . and . . . my mer-ci-ful God. A-men.

re-fuge . . . and . . . my mer-ci-ful God. A-men.

re-fuge . . . and . . . my mer-ci-ful God. A-men.

rall.

C. Stevens. The programme mainly consisted of quartets, glees, and choruses, interpreted by the members of the Club. The bass songs "I fear no foe," sung by Mr. Twiss, and "The Diver," by Mr. Wilton, were redemanded, and Mr. E. G. Richardson gave a good rendering of Mohque's song "When the moon is brightly shining." Mr. C. Stevens accompanied.

ON Thursday evening the 14th ult., at Holy Trinity Church, Paddington, a most effective Service was rendered in connection with the opening of the new organ, under the direction of Mr. Edwin Barnes, organist and director of the choir, who presided at the organ. The service used was Hopkins in F, and the anthem, "I have surely built thee an house," Boyce. The soli parts were sung by Master Pitts, Messrs. Birch, Frost, Stedman, Hanson, Stanley Smith, and Ralph Wilkinson. Mr. J. E. Street conducted. The sermon was preached by Canon Miller.

REVIEWS.

BREITKOPF AND HÄRTEL, LEIPZIG.

Serenade (No. 3, A major), for Orchestra. By S. Jadassohn. Op. 47.

HERR JADASSOHN, one of the professors at the Leipsic Conservatorium, and a pupil of the late Moritz Hauptmann, is one of the many German composers whose works have not yet become known in this country, though some of them enjoy considerable reputation on the Continent. In addition to numerous pianoforte pieces and transcriptions, he has written three Symphonies and three Serenades for orchestra, of which latter the third now lies before us. From this specimen of Herr Jadassohn's work, we should judge him to be an excellent musician, thoroughly master of all the technique of his art, possessing fluency of ideas, but of no absolute individuality of style—one, in short, who would occupy a more than respectable place in the second rank of composers, but to whom the gift of genius, in its highest sense, has been denied. A short account of the various movements of which the work consists will show upon what we ground our opinion.

The Serenade opens with an Introduction, Tempo di Marcia, in A major. The subjects of this movement are decidedly pleasing, though the style, especially in the harmonies, reminds us of Schumann, who seems to have exerted considerable influence over the mind of our composer. The introduction is in regular symphonic form, but, owing to the complete change of tempo for the second subject, the unity of the whole is impaired, and to our mind the effect of the movement is "patchy." No. 2, "Cavatina and Intermezzo" in F major, is in our opinion the most successful part of the work. The Cavatina, in $\frac{3}{4}$ time, is very melodious, and charmingly orchestrated, though here again are slight traces both of Schumann and Spohr; the Intermezzo is an extremely clever canon in the octave, carried through the entire movement of twelve pages with such skill as never to appear in the least dry or laboured. Herr Jadassohn may be heartily congratulated on this excellent specimen of his workmanship. The third number, a "Scherzo à Capriccio" in D minor, is a very spirited movement, but not very original in its themes, the chief subject reminding us of Weber's "Momento Capriccioso," while the "Più Allegro" in the major (p. 80 of the score) begins like the introduction to the second act of "Tannhäuser." The Scherzo is developed at considerable length, and would doubtless be effective in performance. The Finale, in A major, is another very good piece, but again strongly suggestive of Schumann, especially of the first movement of his Symphony in C. Throughout the whole Serenade, the writing is highly finished, and the instrumentation admirable, often ingenious, and never too noisy; but the work has not sufficient originality to entitle it to be called a production of genius. Actual reminiscences are seldom to be found in it; but the indirect influence of Herr Jadassohn's predecessors is more or less apparent throughout. It must not be supposed that in saying this we intend either to condemn or depreciate the work: if every composition not of the highest order of genius were to be excluded from our programmes, the répertoire of concert-givers would indeed be limited.

SCHLESINGER, BERLIN.

Oberon. Romantische Oper, in drei Acten. Englischer Original Text von J. R. Planché. Deutsch von Th. Hell; in musik gesetzt von Carl Maria von Weber. Partitur.

THE full score of "Oberon"—never before printed—is now, thanks to the spirited Berlin publisher, before us, and issued in a form which cannot fail to gratify the most enthusiastic lovers of the composer's works. Unless the circumstance of the Opera having been originally produced in this country will sufficiently account for the fact, it seems almost incredible that in the land of the composer's birth, whilst the printed score of "Der Freischütz" has been for so many years available, "Oberon" could only be performed from manuscript copies. As it is just possible that, in consequence of the difficulty of obtaining a score, the charming music of Weber's latest Opera may have been comparatively but rarely heard, we have much pleasure in drawing attention to its publication, and sincerely hope that it may have the effect of bringing the work more prominently before the public, both in England and Germany.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

Eighteen Two-part Songs; with Pianoforte accompaniment. Composed by Anton Rubinstein. Op. 48 and 67. The English version by Natalia Macfarren.

IF Herr Rubinstein's marvellous executive powers occasionally tempt him to think more of his fingers than of his music in writing for the pianoforte, he makes ample amends for this failing in his vocal compositions, where, unfettered by any distracting influences, he strives only to give the most eloquent expression to the words. We could name many of the songs of this composer which possess an indescribable charm, although so unpretentious as to make us wonder that they can be the production of one who in his Pianoforte Concertos gives us passages bristling with such difficulties as to appal even the most agile performer. The eighteen Two-part Songs now before us are remarkable for purity of melody and simplicity of construction, some indeed being so unambitious and quiet, both in the voice-part and accompaniment, as scarcely to win their way to our highest favour on a single hearing. Others strike us at first, by their excessive originality of treatment, as being the carefully finished cabinet pictures of an artist who, even in these comparatively trifling works, sufficiently shows us that he dares to think for himself. From this collection of vocal pieces it would of course be impossible to do more than point out a few which strike us as being of exceptional merit; but as we have already expressed our opinion of their general worth, it will of course be understood that we merely indicate a preference which equally ardent admirers of the work might dispute. No. 1, "The Angel," a lovely theme, with a placid triplet accompaniment throughout, should appeal powerfully to those who desire really religious music instead of music to religious words. The voice-parts are extremely easy, and the whole song a gem. No. 3, "The Homestead," most appropriately expresses the feeling of the poetry, and contains some beautiful figures in the accompaniment. No. 5, "The Wanderer's Night Song," beginning dreamily with the dominant rising four octaves, in the pianoforte part, achieves much by simple means, and will no doubt become a favourite with vocalists. No. 8, "The Cloud," commencing in D minor, and changing to the tonic major, on the words "Refresh'd are the pastures," has a flowing melody, in 9-8 rhythm, carefully and effectively harmonised. No. 9, "The Happy Birds," has just enough of the "trillo" in the accompaniment to identify it with the subject, and the tuneful theme to which the words are wedded never soars too high for the moderate compass of the average vocalist. No. 11, "Twilight," curiously enough, commences precisely like No. 5, with the dominant rising in octaves, and in the same key. The song, however, is totally unlike its companion, and is exceedingly effective. No. 12, "Autumn sadness," begins with twenty bars entirely unaccompanied, the pianoforte then stealing in with an elegant figure against the first voice-part. This is one of the most expressive and melodious songs in the book. No. 13, "The Song of the Summer Birds," has a most attractive subject, and is charmingly accompanied throughout; the conversational bits between the two voices being also an interesting feature in the little composition. No. 14, "In the Wood," beginning with a chromatic descending passage, on a dominant pedal, for the pianoforte, starts afterwards most effectively with the two voices accompanied only by the right hand; the left hand, during the opening phrase, commencing every alternate bar with an arpeggio. There are many points in this composition which cannot be too highly praised; but the absence of any pedantic display is as obvious in this as in every song throughout the book. No. 17, "Rest after Storm," has a quiet melody, with an agitated semiquaver accompaniment. This song is full of dramatic feeling, the dying off of the voices on the dominant, to the words "Rest thee," being especially worthy of notice. No. 18, "The Lotos flower," is a quiet and effective colouring of the words, a syncopated figure in the accompaniment for the left hand giving much character to the subject. In the translation of the German poetry, Mdme. Macfarren has been especially careful to reproduce the feeling of the composer in setting the original text, by using equivalent words wherever possible; and the manner in which she has performed her difficult task is deserving of high commendation. To those who admire the two-part songs of Mendelssohn, a volume so thoroughly in the spirit of these beautiful compositions, and yet so instinct with that individuality which characterises all Rubinstein's works, should be warmly welcomed, and we have little doubt that the book will speedily make its way to the popularity it deserves.

Legende, pour le Piano.

Impromptu-Caprice, pour le Piano.

Composée par Oliver A. King.

Five pieces for the Pianoforte.

Composed by A. C. Mackenzie, Op. 13.

A LIMITED number of those into whose hands Mr. King's Legende and Impromptu-Caprice may fall are certain to regard them not only for their own sake, but for the measure in which they excite expectation of good things to come from the same source. There can be no doubt of the fact that the present is an anxious time in the history of English music. A generation of native composers is passing away, which in no mean degree has sustained the repute of our country; and as one and another join the majority, we look around for their successors, not always with confidence in our ability to find them. The most sanguine amongst us cannot regard the prospects of English art in the next generation without foreboding. From Dan to Beersheba the land, if not wholly barren, gives no evidence of coming plenty. Music, it is true, augments its votaries by thousands from year to year. Never did such an army of men and women court the favour of publishers as now, and never did such a flood of new works issue from the press. But, unhappily, the votaries are simple worshippers, not prophets and apostles of art: the army is made up of rank and file, led only by corporals and sergeants, and the new works are like ripples which subside and are forgotten as the breeze passes. Under circumstances like these every fresh man who starts up with proof of ability becomes a centre of eager and, it may be, exaggerated hopes. Our wish is father to the thought that he may stand a Saul among his fellows, nor can disappointment check the ardour with which we are prepared to welcome his successor. This is why all who know how much promise centres in the composer of the two works now before us turn to them with something like anxiety. Mr. King—he will not be offended if we regard him as still a lad—early attracted attention by the manifest way in which his destiny as a musician was marked out, nor has his boyish talent ceased to develop in a manner equally marked, during the time of the studies he is still carrying on at the Leipsic Conservatory. His ultimate rank in art it would be imprudent to forecast, seeing, as all who have eyes must see, how many elements more uncertain than talent are factors in the problem. But from a musical point of view, the youth who can produce such music as we have here, ought now to fix, and ultimately to justify, the regards of his countrymen. A glance at the Legende is sufficient to prove this. Without laying stress upon the fact—surprising, nevertheless, in our day—that Mr. King has written his charming Andantino in an orthodox style, we may point out the masterful treatment the subject receives from first to last. Not only is the music adapted to the fullest resources of the pianoforte within its scope, but its interest is increased and its beauty enhanced by devices which are many and ingenious without being strained and embarrassing. In this respect it reminds us of Schumann, whose gracefulness of thought as well as elaboration of method is also reflected. The Legende is by no means easy to play, but it is better worth the trouble of mastering than many a more ambitious creation signed by a well-known name. The Impromptu opens with an Allegro agitato in B flat minor of fairy-like lightness and grace. This constitutes the body of the work; but even as Schubert has interjected many of his most serious and tender thoughts into music of equal levity, so here the quick movement is broken by a Larghetto, in the tonic major, upon which the player is likely to linger with fondness. The whole piece is a work of art in its way, and to whatever distinction Mr. King may attain in days to come, he will see no reason for shame in his youthful effort.

Mr. Mackenzie's "Five Pieces" must by no means be confounded with the general run of modern effusions for the pianoforte. They are the work of a man who, before he took pen in hand, found something to say, and then said it in a style which, if not his own in the fullest degree, possesses much of the charm of novelty. The composer has evidently been a diligent student in the school of Schumann, whose influence we imagine ourselves able to detect both in his thoughts and mode of expression. Here, however, is not the smallest cause for blame. To say nothing of the fact that we get a change from the abounding mannerisms of Mendelssohn, we find a deeper poetry and fuller, richer utterance than are common. Mr. Mackenzie writes with a free hand, and here and there occur points to which adherents of the "prunes and prism" school would take exception. There is a purpose, however, in all he does, and the result, as a rule, vindicates the means adopted to secure it. But the leading features in these little pieces are an ingenious fancy and much power of characterisation. A good deal of music is elegantly made and pleasant to hear while destitute of all power to impress. Of such is not the music before us. It has been thought out by a mind able to think, and has an intention which the composer contrives to reveal with all needful clearness. That the pieces are, neither in this respect nor in any other, of equal merit, may at once be granted, but all leave upon the hearer's mind an impression that, while the composer is not "talking for talking's sake," he has the faculties of speech which are necessary to justify him in talking at all.

The Church Service, set to Music in the key of F. By Edward Hodges, Mus. Doc. Edited and published under the supervision of his daughter, Faustina H. Hodges.

WE are not sure that Miss Hodges has added to her own reputation as a musician of taste by editing the above Service of her father's. It is true the work is as free from grammatical errors as we should expect from a Mus. Doc., it being quite possible to defend the double false relation between treble and tenor, and tenor and bass, in the eighth bar of page 8. But there is a want of breadth and solidity about the whole work, and the composer has striven to maintain the musical unity of his production at the expense of the words, by setting strongly contrasted sentences to music identically the same. The opening subject of the "Te Deum" is evidently intended to be the main feature of the whole work. It serves as the commencement of the "Jubilate," "Gloria in excelsis," "Magnificat," and "Nunc Dimittis." In the dominant it is set to the words "To thee all angels cry aloud," and to the latter half of the three Glorias: and twice more it reappears in the "Te Deum"—once in the sub-dominant, as a song of triumph at the words "Thou sittest at the right hand of God," and again in the mediant, associated with the words of supplication "Make them to be numbered with Thy saints." The "Ter Sanctus" is very properly set to the music which accompanies the same theme in the "Te Deum;" but we hardly see why it should serve also for the commencement of the three Glorias. From a purely musical point of view, neither of the subjects of which we have spoken is sufficiently original to bear such constant repetition.

The voice parts are, on the whole, written smoothly, but few choirs will be found to contain trebles possessing a compass of two octaves and a tone. It is a misfortune that no indication whatever is given of the intended time of the several numbers; but if the "Te Deum" be taken at the most moderate pace which the genius of the composition suggests, it is difficult to imagine how any choir could articulate the rapid utterance of the words "Thou art the King of Glory," still less the following verse, where the trebles have to reiterate a high F sharp. These verses, moreover, follow the preceding by a very abrupt transition, which would render their attack the more difficult.

There is, nevertheless, much in this Service that is melodious: some parts are almost striking. It can hardly advance the standard of cathedral music; but to those who regard Jackson in F as an ideal Service it will be welcome.

It is quite within the grasp of parish choirs, and the only difficulty the accompaniment presents is one which the most accomplished organist is no more able to overcome than the veriest tyro, as it involves the employment of a B flat, which is below the compass of the instrument. Perhaps the best parts of the work are the "Gloria in excelsis" and the "Evening Service." The latter would doubtless become popular with country choirs.

The New Israelitish Anthem—Lost Israel Identified. By W. Thackwray.

WE can perhaps best give our readers an idea of this peculiar work by saying that on the title-page it is described as "being a brief sketch in verse of certain statements set forth in the work entitled 'Forty-seven identifications of the British Nation with the Lost House of Israel,' by Mr. Edward Hine, to whom this Anthem is, by permission, respectfully inscribed by the composer." The music is worthy of the subject; and we strongly advise Mr. Thackwray for his next effort to versify and compose either Paley's "Evidences" or Butler's "Analogy," both of which are, we firmly believe, quite as well adapted for musical illustration as Mr. Hine's book.

Lightly, gently ply the oar. Part-Song for a double Chorus. Words by H. T. Bywater.

Soldier rest. Four-part Song. Words by Sir Walter Scott.

Composed by H. T. Bywater.

THE "Part-song for a double Chorus" is not so pretentious as the title-page might lead us to expect, for in no place are the two choirs united, save in the final chorus. In a drawing-room the effect of this little composition would be good, the intention being that the choir of rowers, consisting of Alto, two Tenors, and Bass, should be before the audience, and that of the friends on shore welcoming them home, consisting of mixed voices, in an adjoining room. The air "Home, sweet home" is well woven in, and a good point is gained near the conclusion by the responses of the rowers to those assembled on shore. The voice parts are generally well written; but we should much prefer, in the first bar of the "Allegretto," on page 6, D for the last bass note, the descent of the A being to us particularly unpleasant. The second song is a quiet melody, carefully accompanied, and containing some fair points of imitation, the "Coda," with the final plagal cadence, effectively expressing the words. As the composer tells us that it is to be "sung without accompaniment in the key of D flat," we do not understand why it is published in C. Are the singers to suppose that they are singing it in C, and the conductor secretly to start them in D flat?

LAMBORN COCK.

Ask me no more. Song, for Soprano or Contralto. Written by Alfred Tennyson. Composed by Herbert S. Oakeley.

THE words of the song before us, from Tennyson's "Princess," are excellently adapted for musical treatment, and the Edinburgh Professor (who published this composition before he had won more than a professional title to his name) has given us a highly effective setting of the poetry, if anything perhaps slightly erring on the side of an undue display of harmony. The theme, commencing in C minor, and richly accompanied, has a burst in the tonic major which reminds us too much of many modern songs, but will no doubt be regarded by vocalists, who are unmoved by such considerations, as an extremely telling point. There is an air of refinement and an evidence of artistic power throughout the song which must commend it to the notice of every intelligent listener; and although, as we have said, somewhat over elaborated, it will be universally recognised as the conscientious work of a highly accomplished musician.

ASHDOWN AND PARRY.

Bourrée, in F major, for the Pianoforte.
Le Trianon (Gavotte), for the Pianoforte.

Composed by J. Theodore Trekell.

MR. TREKELL has thoroughly caught the spirit both of the Bourrée and Gavotte. The themes of the first, in F major and D minor, are extremely melodious, and the harmonies quite in sympathy with those of the composers who have left us so many specimens of this old dance tune. "Le Trianon," too, is a genuine Gavotte, which cannot fail to become popular with players and listeners.

WEEKES AND CO.

Masonic Music, consisting of an Anthem, Sanctus, Odes, Marches, &c., appropriate for the Ceremonies in Craft-working, &c. By Frederick C. Atkinson, Mus. Bac., Cantab.

NOT being ourselves Masons, we are unable to say how far the contents of this little work are adapted to fulfil the object at which they aim, but must confine ourselves to their musical aspect. The book contains, first, an Opening March, then an Anthem in three movements, "Behold, how good and joyful," a Sanctus, Procession Music, four Odes, and a Closing March. Mr. Atkinson has evidently had to write under considerable restrictions, but, so far as we are in a position to judge, he has been very successful. His ideas are always pleasing, and the treatment shows the hand of a practised musician, the consecutive octaves on page 14 between first tenor and bass being evidently a mere slip of the pen. The whole of the vocal music is, of course, for male voices. The Anthem is very good, though we care less for the opening baritone solo than for the two numbers which follow. The Odes are, excepting the last, "Hail, Masonry Divine!" mere part-songs, but are effectively written; while the last is for tenor solo and unison chorus, with piano accompaniment, and with a large mass of voices would be very telling. The instrumental parts of the music we also like. Mr. Atkinson has produced a little manual which we should think would be very acceptable at Masonic meetings where music forms a part of the ceremonial.

Longing. Song. Words by "Anon."

The Return. Song. Words by "Anon."
Music by E. Newbatt.

BOTH these songs appear to have been originally published at Port Elizabeth, but we have given the name of the London agent. If the melody of the first composition sounds somewhat sickly, it must be remembered that the words are in sympathy with it. Nothing can be said, in a musical point of view, against either the theme of the song or its accompaniment; but composers must bear in mind that the "weariness" they are constantly expressing in their ballads is very apt to be communicated to the auditors. We prefer the next song, "The Return," although it is merely a pretty waltz, with a somewhat common-place prayer at the conclusion of each verse, which latter Mr. Newbatt tells us "may be sung as a four-part chorus." With a drawing-room audience the song will be tolerably certain to please, more especially if the listeners have not yet discovered what we cannot but term the "trick" of these semi-religious ballads.

[In the review upon Lampadius's life of Mendelssohn, which appeared in our last number, we stated that the work had, until now, been "quite unknown in this country." The Musical World, however, reminds us that the biography was published in that journal in 1854, translated by Mr. J. V. Bridgeman. It is scarcely perhaps necessary to say that what we intended to convey to our readers was the fact that the work had not been translated and published by an English bookseller, like the many other musical biographies which have lately appeared. We are nevertheless glad, on the authority of our contemporary, to retract our assertion that until now it was "quite unknown in this country."—THE WRITER OF THE NOTICE.]

FOREIGN NOTES.

As was to have been expected, the great "national deed," as it is called, which has been accomplished at Bayreuth continues to agitate the minds of German musicians and amateurs. The storm of journalistic controversy raised under the immediate influence of the Nibelungen performances is, however, gradually subsiding now. Nor is this to be regretted. It has raged violently enough for months, making it positively unsafe for a reader not possessed of a robust nervous organisation to open one of the more energetic periodicals, lest he should find himself addressed in anything but flattering terms if his artistic creed happened to be at variance with the opinions expressed by the respective writers concerning the dominant question of the day. Meanwhile the controversy is passing into its second stage, and is being carried on in the shape of pamphlets, which will no doubt in a short time swell the already sufficiently voluminous Wagner-literature in Germany. But, after all, the chief questions involved are fortunately no longer those of an elaborate theory, the general truth of which will hardly any more be seriously questioned, but of principles the practical value of which will henceforth have to be demonstrated on the stage only. In addressing the audience, at the conclusion of the first series of performances at Bayreuth, the master, with characteristic arrogance, had spoken these words: "You have seen what we can do; it is for you to do the rest. If only you will, you have now an art." This curt utterance on the part of a man who—by the aid of the very audience he addressed—had just met with a triumph greater than any ever accorded to genius during lifetime, could not fail to produce a chilling effect even upon the most ardent among his admirers. It has alarmed a certain timid portion among critics of the old school, who hold that, even before the appearance of the author of the Nibelungen Tetralogy, something respectable had been done for the music-drama in the country of Gluck, Mozart, and Weber. There is no need, however, to share the dismal forebodings on the part of those in whose opinion the Wagner movement is undermining the very foundations of true art. Whatever may be said to the contrary, the poet-composer of the Tetralogy has founded his colossal art-work upon the accumulated inheritance of a great past. If the work thus constructed be a fallacy, past genius will certainly reassert itself with renewed vitality in the future, after the present increasing bias in its favour has passed away. Meanwhile the Germans may congratulate themselves upon the fact that genius of a very high order is still at work amongst them, concentrating his marvellous energies upon the approximation to his own artistic ideal, and whose works, whatever our opinion of them as a whole, are at least full of valuable suggestions, which will, in the end, be sure to prove an immense benefit to the further development of the dramatic art in music.

It is intended, on the part of enthusiastic admirers of Herr Wagner, to make the Bayreuth Theatre the property of the nation. Herr Hahn, the energetic advocate of the "party of progress" in musical matters, and editor of the journal Tonkunst, has just opened a subscription for the purpose of raising the necessary funds, and with a view also of defraying the expense of annual standard performances of musical stage works at that building. It is now positively settled that a repetition of the performances of "Der Ring des Nibelungen" will take place during the present year.

Herr Wagner has been much fêted at Rome, whither he had gone in search of rest after his late fatigue. Among other honours of which he was the recipient, the Royal Academia di Sa. Cecilia has nominated him Socio Illustre, being the highest dignity conferred by that institution.

While the principles which at present predominate in the management of our own operatic establishments would seem to exclude altogether that educational element which the performance of the masterpieces of a bygone period cannot fail to supply, our German neighbours, whose art institutions are for the greater part subsidised by the Government, are certainly more fortunate in this respect. Thus, at the Royal Opera in Berlin two works of Gluck, "Armida" and "Iphigenia in Tauris," have recently been performed within a week, and, according to the Allgemeine Deutsche Musik-Zeitung, in a manner worthy of the father of the modern music-drama. There can be no question that such revivals of standard works by older masters are of the highest importance at the present day, when the fundamental principles upon which Opera should be constructed are being discussed on all sides. At the same establishment Schumann's opera "Genoveva" is in course of preparation.

Rubinstein's "Die Maccabäer," which opera has been repeatedly performed at Berlin and Munich, was to have been given for the first time on the 13th ult. at the Russian capital.

Madame Schumann has lately made her appearance at a concert at Barmen, before an enthusiastic audience. Special homage was rendered to the great artist on the occasion, the pianoforte on which she played being adorned with flowers and evergreens.

Some time ago we had occasion to mention in these columns the performance at Berlin, before a select circle of connoisseurs, of an opera by J. H. Franz (Count Hochberg), entitled "Der Wärfwolf." Some highly-characteristic songs, by the same composer, formed part of a recent concert at the Prussian capital. A growing popularity is predicted for the productions of this gifted amateur.

At Leipsic the Subscription Concerts of the Gewandhaus continue their standard performances of classical music, while at the same time duly regarding the claims to obtain a hearing on the part of the works of contemporary composers. Among the novelties lately introduced may be mentioned a Symphony (No. 3) by Jadassohn, and a vocal and instrumental work by H. Hofmann, entitled "Das Märchen von der schönen Melusine." Madame Schumann, M. L. Brassin, Herr Wieniawsky, and Herr Joachim have successively made their appearance: the latter was to have performed a ms. Concerto by Herr Reinecke at the eleventh concert on the 21st ult.

Opera, in one form or another, has been in decided demand at Paris during the past month, and the various institutions dedicated to that species of dramatic performance have been nightly filled to overflowing. "Robert le Diable," "Aïda," "Fille du Regiment," "Oberon," have all proved alike attractive to the music-loving public. At the same time the new opera by Victor Massé, "Paul et Virginie," is maintaining the popularity it so quickly attained since its first performance at the Théâtre Lyrique in November last. There has been a revival, too, at the Théâtre Lyrique of a very interesting little work by Hérold, an early production of his genius: the operetta is entitled "Les Troqueurs," and its performance was evidently much appreciated by the audience.

The doors of the Conservatoire having reopened at the beginning of last month, to admit the public to its annual performances of high-class music, the concert season of 1876-77 may be said to have definitely commenced at Paris. The President of the Republic was present at the first concert, which was inaugurated with the "Heroica" of Beethoven. At the same time, the performances, chiefly of classical music, at the Concerts Populaires are continuing to do excellent work in the interests of true art. It is a curious fact, however, that whereas the works of Gluck, Mozart, Beethoven, and even Weber, invariably meet with the fullest appreciation of the audience at these concerts, the modern German school seems, at present, to have but a poor chance of success. We have lately heard of the noisy demonstrations of dissent which the performance of Wagnerian music produced at the same institution. The works of Joachim Raff, too, seem to be equally powerless in attracting the attention of French amateurs, in spite of the determined perseverance of the conductor, M. Pasedeloup, whose very name—the French equivalent of the German "Wolfgang"—is, in consequence, being suspected of German origin! Thus, according to Le Ménestrel, Raff's charming Symphony "In the Forest," which has been repeatedly performed at the Populaires, has made little or no progress in the favour of the public. On the other hand, a pamphlet entitled "Richard Wagner et les Parisiens," recently published at the French capital, is just now being eagerly read. It need hardly be added that its tendency is not favourable to the German operatic reformer; nor does M. Pasedeloup escape some smart attacks directed against his unpatriotic impartiality in having produced works of that representative of modern Germany at his concerts. Setting aside the artistic merits or demerits of the question, it certainly seems somewhat paradoxical that, under the device of "Popular Concerts," music should be forced upon the Parisian people which happens to be just now peculiarly unpopular with them.

A manuscript Mass by M. Gounod was performed at the Church of St. Eustache on St. Cecilia's day, under the direction of the composer. According to the Revue de la Musique, this new work of the composer of "Faust" will sustain, though not increase, his reputation. "Whence the unproductivity," the same paper asks, "which has marked our great composer's career of late? Can it be that his genius no longer responds to his call so readily as it was wont to do?" The conclusion is that these are only signs of a momentary fatigue, and that before long the favourite national composer will, with renewed energy, resume his further progress in art. It is said that M. Gounod has agreed to write an Opera for the forthcoming International Exhibition at Paris, the libretto of which will be from the pen of M. Sardou.

The publication is shortly to be expected of some 300 letters written by Chopin during his sojourn at Paris, addressed to friends and members of his family. Considering the intimate relations which existed between Chopin and the musical and literary society of the France of some thirty years ago, these letters promise to be of exceptional interest to the student of the art-history of that period. The publication is in the hands of Franz Ries of Dresden.

CORRESPONDENCE.

CERTAIN DISCREPANCIES IN THE VARIOUS EDITIONS OF MENDELSSOHN'S "LIEDER."

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—In the various editions of Mendelssohn's "Lieder ohne Worte" already published, cheap and dear, 4to. and 8vo., are to be found many discrepancies, which, if not corrected ere long, will lead to much misapprehension. At the present time there must be yet those amongst us who have heard the great maestro himself interpret these "Lieder," and who therefore must be able to give us a competent opinion on the subject; but in future times—say, at the distance of a century—these various editions, though having been published during a period embracing 30 or 40 years, will appear as almost contemporaneous, and may occasion serious doubts as to the correct reading. It is with the object of getting yourself or some of your correspondents to ventilate this question, and thus probably arrive at the truth, that I now venture to trouble you with this communication. In making the collation of the various editions I have always endeavoured to obtain the earliest copies available, and in one case (Bk. 2 of the "Lieder") I have met with what appears to be the earliest English edition, entitled "Six Melodies (without words), Op. 30," published by the late firm of Mori and Lavenue.

It will be seen by comparing the corresponding bars of the old and new editions that the variations in some cases are very considerable; so much so that they could not have been the result of accident, misprinting, or imperfect correction of the proofs, but have been acts of deliberate and intentional alteration. If this be so, we naturally inquire, Who has ventured on so reprehensible a proceeding? It could not have been the author himself, for in no case are the substitutions improvements; indeed, in those of Nos. 11 and 20 the alterations are quite commonplace, which Mendelssohn, as he tells us in his letters, abhorred. The editions that have been collated are those of J. A. Novello, Dean Street, Soho; Ewer and Co., Newgate Street; Mori and Lavenue; Benedict; W. S. Bennett (old); also that of Hallé, and the 8vo. of Davison, with those of the foreign 4to. and 8vo. of Novello and Co., and those of Sullivan, Litolf, and the 8vo. of Pauer (new).

No. 5 at bar 40 has an A natural substituted for an A sharp in the new editions—this may or may not be the correct reading.

No. 8 has at bars 22, 55, 57 three D naturals omitted in the bass, and at bars 29, 30, 63—7 the octaves in the bass are also left out.

No. 10. What shall be said of the mutilation of this lovely Lied? In the first place, at bar 61, six whole bars have been ruthlessly torn out; and at the 17th bar from the end one whole bar has been as ruthlessly interpolated, thereby making a commonplace cadence in B minor, and utterly destroying the vague, dreamy wandering characteristic of the whole composition. At bars 102 and 106 four semiquavers have been omitted in the stave for the right hand. Moreover, at about the 27th bar from the end the whole movement of the notes for the right hand for ten bars has been altered, as may be seen in the accompanying example. Further, at bar 96 a D sharp has been inserted in Pauer's 8vo. edition.

No. 11 has at bars 7 and 47 (the latter 11 bars from the end) been clumsily dealt with by some bungler; for after the accompaniment has been running for forty-six bars in single notes, at the 47th bar double notes appear in the bass very clumsily, and after three quavers disappear similarly; further, the cadence in the 48th bar has been transposed, E appearing in the upper part instead of F, and vice versa.

No. 12. At bar 13 the dotted minim of the upper part has been changed to two dotted crotchets, E sharp and G sharp—no improvement.

No. 20. At bar 5 some editions make the fourth quaver in the left hand flat (Hallé's, for example), but the older ones have always D natural the first time; but on the recurrence of the same phrase eight bars further on, the composer himself has introduced the D flat. There cannot be a doubt but that the older editions have the correct reading, and that the bars 5—6 and 53—54 should have D natural for the fourth quaver in the left hand; and I am more confirmed in this opinion by having heard on May 29th Herr Rubinstein play at his recital this very Lied according to the old editions.

In conclusion, I would like to know why some of the titles have been altered? Who caused six bars of No. 10 to be left out and one added? Ought not the original manuscripts to be consulted before we have any more "editions"? Having been a student of this composer's works for the last forty years, I can safely aver that I consider the older editions the most in accordance with the author's intentions, and that if "editing" necessitates the alteration of a composer's ideas, the less we have of it the better.—Yours very truly,

C. J. READ.
Salisbury, Nov. 4, 1876.

THE OLD EDITIONS.

Also those of Benedict, W. S. Bennett, C. Hallé, and Davison. 8vo.

No. 5 (bar 40).

No. 8 (bar 51).

No. 9 (bar 8).

No. 10 (26 bars from the end).

No. 11 (bar 7).

No. 11 (bar 11 from the end).

No. 12 (13th bar).

No. 20 (bars 5, 6, 53, 54).

N.B.—The old editions are those of J. A. Novello, Ewer and Co., Mori and Lavenu, &c.

THE NEW EDITIONS.

8vo. and 4to. Novello and Co. (Foreign), and those of Sullivan, Litolf, Pauer, 8vo.

No. 5 (bar 40).

No. 8 (bar 51).

No. 9 (bar 8).

No. 10 (27th bar from the end).

⊕ This bar has been added.

No. 11 (bar 7).

No. 11 (11th bar from the end).

No. 12 (bar 13).

No. 20 (bars 5-6, 53-54).

No. 10 (the six bars omitted).

The added bar ⊕

MUSIC AT THE CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Among the many European reviews and letters on the Philadelphia Exhibition, none has given to the subject of music that criticism which many Americans feared and others desired. The truth is, music as a fine art was not considered at any time previous to or during the period of exhibition. It was used as a means of attraction on the opening and closing days, on the grounds, and on the 4th July in a general celebration in the yard of the Hall of Independence. On each of these occasions it was placed in the charge of foreigners. To this no objection has been raised, only that, in connection with other incidents, no opportunity has been afforded to show the growth and culture of the art in America during the past century. In the Exhibition itself music had no status whatever. All the other arts had. This is the sore point with musicians—amateurs as well as professors.

Propositions were made to the Centennial authorities by men competent, whether as to capital or working qualities, to properly place the art before the public without any risk of failure or loss; newspaper articles were written, and other influences brought to bear, but all in vain. Music was ignored as a fine art, and visitors from abroad could only judge of us by what they heard on the occasions referred to. We have many shortcomings in music to deplore, but we feel that, bad as we are, we were made to appear by this neglect worse than is the reality. In fact, the nakedness of the land was exposed to our discredit. The great choral associations of the large cities had no hearing. Some military bands were engaged to play in the open air, but none appeared for the advertised competitive trial, whether from want of confidence in their own ability or from distrust of the judgment of the jurors does not appear.

No prizes were offered for choral singing or for native compositions. No American composer was heard save Mr. Buck in his Cantata and Mr. Paine in his Choral, but 5,000 dollars was paid to Richard Wagner for a March which is condemned on all sides, whether in Europe or America. America is not without representatives of the noble army of martyrs who have rashly dared to explore the sublime mysteries of the art and science of composition; but native composers, being discriminated against by a most iniquitous copyright law, cannot reach a market, which is wholly in the hands of publishers and sellers, and thus are without a hearing and without a name. Hence the greater need of all the assistance and fostering care possible at the hands of the Centennial authorities.

But materialism prevailed, and the Exhibition became a success; only, however, through the immense and unacknowledged labours of the American press, notably of the local papers, and sensational shows and fireworks.

It is and has been a regret in musical circles that no encouragement was given to the friends of the art to present such performances as would have indicated its growth and culture since the nation's birth. So flagrant has been the neglect and so important the occasion, that it has been thought proper to seek a record in a European periodical of established position which is identified with the interests and welfare of the art. AMERICUS.

Philadelphia, December 5, 1876.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

* * Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will greatly oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all Subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music pages are always stereotyped, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

JOSEPH SELBY.—We are not aware of the publication of any such list as our correspondent mentions.

W. MUIR.—The tune sung to the Hymn "Adeste Fideles" was composed by Reading in 1680. Vincent Novello says that John Reading was a pupil of Dr. Blow (the master of Purcell), and was first employed at Lincoln Cathedral. The piece mentioned obtained its name of "The Portuguese Hymn" from the circumstance of the Duke of Leeds having heard it first performed at the Portuguese Chapel; and, supposing it to be peculiar to the service in Portugal, he introduced it at the Ancient Concerts, of which he was a Director, under the title of "The Portuguese Hymn." It is, however, by no means confined to the service in Portugal, being the regular Christmas Hymn, "Adeste Fideles," that is sung in every Catholic Chapel throughout England.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this Summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers, or supplied to us by correspondents.

ACTON, MIDDLESEX.—The new organ built by Messrs. Walker and Sons for S. Mary's Parish Church was opened on the 29th November, when full choral service was held. The service was intoned by the Rev. C. Musgrave Harvey. The Magnificat and Nunc dimittis were sung to Parry's Service in D, and the Anthem, "O how amiable," Barnby, was well sung by the choir, which consisted of about 80 voices. The organ, which is not yet complete, has been built at a cost of about £750, and a further estimate of £400 is sent in to finish what will be one of the finest instruments in the neighbourhood, the erection of which has been carried out under the direction of the Rev. C. M. Harvey, Rector of Acton. Dr. Verrinder, organist of Christ Church, Lancaster Gate, presided at the opening, and displayed the quality and power of the instrument with good effect.

AMERSHAM.—A Concert was given in the Town Hall on Thursday the 14th ult., under the auspices of the Literary Club. Mr. Stone, jun., of Chesham, sang "Love's request" and "The Thorn" with much effect, Miss Mead gave with equal success "A fisher maiden" (all three songs being encored), and Miss Jarvis sang "A winter night" and "Five o'clock in the morning" with good taste. A pianoforte solo by Mrs. Cheese also gave much satisfaction. The Concert was a decided success.

BIRMINGHAM.—The Festival Choral Society gave the first Concert of the series on Friday evening the 8th ult., when several glees, &c., were sung, including a new part-song by Mr. A. R. Gaul, entitled "The better land." The vocalists were Mdme. Trebelli, Signor Dorini, Mr. Edward Lloyd, and Herr Behrens. The Messrs. Harrison gave their second subscription Concert on Wednesday the 13th ult., when Charles Hallé's band was the attraction of the evening. The selection performed included Beethoven's "Leonora," No. 3, Haydn's Symphony in G Major, and Mendelssohn's Overture to the Midsummer Night's Dream. Mdme. Edith Wynne and Signor Foli were the vocalists, Mdme. Néruda solo violinist, and Mr. Charles Hallé solo pianist. The Carl Rosa Opera Company were at the Theatre Royal the week commencing the 4th ult.

BISHOP AUCKLAND.—The Auckland Musical Society gave the first Concert of the season in the Town Hall on the 27th November. The programme consisted of a selection from Handel's Messiah, "Triumphal March," from Madame Dolby's St. Dorothea, and Macfarren's May-day. The artists engaged were Madame Edith Wynne, Mdme. Bertha Brousil, Mons. Adolphe Brousil, &c. The performance was a great success, and reflected the highest credit on Mr. Kilburn, the conductor.

BRIGHTON.—The second series of Philharmonic Concerts was brought to a successful termination on the 9th ult. by a performance of Mendelssohn's Oratorio St. Paul, which reflected the highest credit upon all concerned. The band and chorus numbered about 250, the former including some of the most eminent artists from the principal orchestras in the Metropolis. The solo singers were Madame Lemmens-Sherrington, Madame Antoinette Sterling, Mr. Vernon Rigby, and Signor Foli, the minor bass parts being allotted to Mr. T. Ainsworth. It is needless to say how such well-known vocalists acquitted themselves; but a word of praise must be given to the choir, which had been so well prepared by Mr. Kingsbury (who most ably conducted the work) that scarcely a fault was perceptible in the rendering of the difficult choruses with which the Oratorio abounds. "Stone him to death," "Happy and blest," "Rise up, arise," and "O great is the depth" being especially worthy of commendation. Mr. George Watts deserves the hearty thanks of all music lovers, not only for the spirited way in which he has carried on these concerts, but for the introduction of a work of such magnitude as St. Paul; and we trust that the excellent manner in which it was rendered, and the warmth with which it was received, will encourage him to persevere in the honourable career he has chosen.

BRISTOL.—On Friday the 1st ult. a Concert was given by the Bristol and Clifton Orchestral Society in the Colston Hall. The programme was excellently selected, and all the pieces well rendered, great credit being due to Mr. George Riseley, the Conductor, for the painstaking manner in which he has worked to achieve so great a success. The vocalists were Miss Ada Jackson and Mr. Lawford Huxtable, both of whom sang with taste and artistic skill. On Wednesday the 19th ult. a Concert was given in the Colston Hall in aid of the Organ Fund at St. George's Church, Brandon Hill. The programme included several orchestral and vocal works of importance. Miss Ada Jackson was the vocalist. The band and chorus consisted of ninety performers, and was led by Mr. A. W. Waite and conducted by Mr. Stimpson, Mus. Bac.

CLIFTON.—On Thursday the 14th ult. an evening Concert was given in the Victoria Rooms by Mr. J. C. Daniel. The principal vocalists were Mdme. Emma Albani, Mdme. Zaré Thalberg, Mdme. Ghiotti, Signor Piazza, Signor Scolaria, and Signor Ghiberti; and the instrumentalists were Mdme. Gaul (piano) and Mr. Radcliffe (duet). Signor Vianesi ably conducted. The thirteenth annual evening Concert of the Clifton College took place on the 20th ult. Handel's Josiah was given as the first part of the programme, and was well rendered, the choral portions being taken by the College Choral Society, numbering 120 voices, the band being also connected with the College. The solo parts were sung by Mr. S. D. Pears, Mr. T. S. Saxton, and Mr. V. V. Williams. The second part was miscellaneous.

COLNBROOK, NEAR WINDSOR.—The Colnbrook Choral Class gave a concert on the 29th November in the Public Hall. The choir numbered forty voices. The solo vocalists were Miss Emma Christian and Mr. Orlando Christian. Miss Saunders presided at a new American organ by Holman, Miss Rosalind Christian at the piano, and Mr. R. Ratcliff conducted. The performance was a decided success.

DERBY.—The Midland Railway Recreation Club gave its first Concert on Friday the 1st ult., in the Shareholders' Room, adjoining the railway station. The principal vocalists were Miss Peel, Mr. Race, and Mr. Field Baldwin; solo violin Mr. E. King, solo flute, Mr. A. G. King. There was an efficient orchestra of twenty-three performers, under the conductorship of Mr. Belfield. Mr. Parkinson presided at the pianoforte.

DUMFRIES.—The Philharmonic Society gave a successful performance of Handel's Samson on the evening of the 15th ult. A select orchestra from Edinburgh, led by Mr. Hope-Dambmann, ably supported the vocalists in their efforts. The choruses went excellently, the voices being fresh and well balanced. Members of the Society rendered the solos with great success. Mr. J. G. Pearson, organist of Greyfriars, presided at the harmonium, and the whole performance reflected great credit on the Conductor, Mr. J. G. Gooden, organist of St. John's Church.

EDINBURGH.—The organ performances given periodically during the University session by Sir Herbert Oakeley, in his Class-room in Park Place, began on the 7th ult. The selection of pieces included works of the great masters, and also some of those of the less eminent composers, which gave additional interest to the programme, because of the novelty thus imparted to a portion of it. The performance was highly satisfactory. The sixth Concert for the season of the Choral Union took place on the 8th ult. The band, numbering about fifty-five, was led by Mr. Carrodus, and conducted by Mr. Adam Hamilton. Mr. Carrodus also appeared in the capacity of solo violinist, and the singer was Miss Enriquez. The programme included Mendelssohn's Scotch Symphony; the overtures "Leonora," No. 3 (Beethoven), and "Ruler of the Spirits" (Weber); an Andante and Minuet by Professor Oakeley, conducted by the composer; and the brilliantly instrumented introduction to the third act of Lohengrin, which was highly appreciated and encored. The performance of the overture to Leonora was most meritorious, the band quite entering into the spirit of this greatest of overtures.

EXETER.—On the 1st ult. Miss Godolphin gave her second Concert at the Royal Public Rooms, assisted by Miss Marian Lynton, Mr. Chaplin Henry, and Mr. Turle Lee, who, besides playing pianoforte solos, accompanied the songs. The members of the Madrigal Society gave their accustomed winter Concert at the Royal Public Rooms on the 14th ult. The programme was well selected, and included Mendelssohn's "On a Lake," several favourite madrigals, and part-songs, all of which were well rendered. The conductor was Mr. Baly, R.A.M.

FARNHAM, SURREY.—The fifth Concert of the Farnham Musical Society was given on the 12th ult., when a programme of sacred and secular music was well performed, a marked improvement in the part-singing being evident. The solo vocalists were the Misses Harris and M. J. Nash, Mrs. Scammell, Messrs. Sydenham, West, Kingham, and Hawker. A new song, composed and sung by the conductor, entitled "The Expected Ship," was most favourably received. The pianoforte playing of the Misses Rennie (pupils of Mr. Sydenham) was very praiseworthy. The accompaniments were ably played by Miss Sidebotham, Miss C. Julius, Miss Wells, and Mr. Sydenham.

GORLESTON.—Herr Louis Löffler gave a pianoforte recital and lecture on the great musical composers in St. Andrew's Hall, on the 7th ult., to a full and highly appreciative audience. His illustrations—including the "Sonata Pathétique" and "Moonlight Sonata" of Beethoven, the "Harmonious Blacksmith" of Handel, and the "Home, sweet home" of Thalberg—were admirably calculated to display not only the styles of the various composers, but the versatility of the pianist's powers; and his efforts were rewarded by warm and well-deserved applause. The proceeds of the concert were devoted to the St. Andrew's Church Organ Fund.

GRAVESEND.—On the 13th ult., the annual Concert in aid of the funds of the Customs' Orphanage was given at the Assembly Rooms, under the direction of Mr. W. Phillips. The artists comprised Miss Margaret Hancock, Mdme. Ashton, Mr. Albert Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Baynes, Mr. H. P. Matthews, Mr. H. Ashton, Mr. Fan, Mr. Carpenter, and Mr. Fountain Meen. The concerted music was contributed by Messrs. Ashton, Cozens, Meen, and Hubbard (the English Glee Union), supplemented by Mdme. Ashton as soloist. Miss Turner, R.A.M., played a Sonata of Mozart's; Mr. Fountain Meen accompanied.

HEBDEN BRIDGE.—On Saturday the 25th November the new organ, built by Messrs. Forster and Andrews, of Hull, for S. James's Church, was opened by Dr. J. V. Roberts, organist and choirmaster of the Parish Church, Halifax.

LEICESTER.—The first Concert of the New Choral Society for the present season took place at the Temperance Hall, on Monday evening the 11th ult., when Handel's Oratorio Jephtha was performed for the first time in Leicester. The chorus and band numbered about 250, the latter being materially strengthened. The principal singers were Miss S. Ferrari, Mrs. Poole, Mr. W. A. Frost, Mr. W. H. Cummings, and Mr. Lewis Thomas. Miss Ferrari's singing of the music of Iphis left nothing to be desired, Mrs. Poole received great applause for her excellent performance of the music of Storge, Jephtha's wife, Mr. Cummings gave a highly satisfactory rendering of the part of Jephtha, and Mr. Thomas fully sustained the reputation he has long held here by his skilful singing of the music of Zebul. The magnificent choruses were sung in a manner which reflected great credit on the Society. The accompaniments to the ordinary recitatives were played on the harmonium by Mr. H. B. Ellis, organist of St. John's. Mr. Hancock, M.B., Oxon., organist of St. Martin's, conducted with much decision.

LEITH.—A successful rendering of Haydn's Creation was given on the 7th ult., in Junction Street Hall, by the members of the Choral Union. The choir consisted of about 130 voices, which were on the whole well balanced. The principal choral numbers were sung with much firmness, "The Heavens are telling," "Achieved is the glorious work," and the trio and chorus "The Lord is great" being especially effective. The soprano solos were sustained by Madame Tonnelier, Mr. M. Costa Ingham was entrusted with the tenor solos, and Mr. John Nutton, of Durham Cathedral, was the bass, the florid air "Rolling in foaming billows" being particularly well rendered. The orchestra, led by Mr. Hope-Dambmann, gave a very creditable rendering of the "Representation of chaos." Mr. Tom Craig presided at the pianoforte, and Mr. Bromley at the harmonium. Mr. G. M. Davidson conducted.

LINCOLN.—The Messiah was given by the Lincoln Choral Society at the Corn Exchange on the 5th ult., before a crowded audience. The band numbered about 100 performers, and was under the conductorship of Mr. Mason. Madame Billinie Porter, who made her first appearance before a Lincoln audience, was highly successful, especially in "I know that my Redeemer liveth." The other vocalists were Mr. Mason, Mr. Dunkerton, Mr. Pulein, and Mr. Hadley. Mr. W. Cooke led the band, and Mr. W. Mason, jun., presided at the pianoforte.

LIVERPOOL.—The Symphony in C Minor, by Gade, produced on Saturday night the 2nd ult., at the invitation Concert of the Societa Armonica, was especially interesting. With the exception of a slight unsteadiness here and there among the amateur band, the performance was excellent. The other important orchestral items in the programme were Mozart's Il Seraglio Overture, and the Andante from Schubert's "Tragic Symphony." Mr. Armstrong conducted. The vocalists were Mrs. W. Armstrong and Miss Madeleine Roe.—A crowded audience attended the Philharmonic Hall on Saturday the 9th ult., to hear the band of the Grenadier Guards and other attractions. The overture to Semiramide and the Zanetta (Auber) selection were splendidly played by the band, the solos for cornet, clarinet, and petite clarinet being performed in the able manner characteristic of Mr. Dan Godfrey's band. Mdle. Emma Howson and Signor Vizzani were the vocalists. The appearance of Herr Wilhelmj was the signal for an enthusiastic outburst of applause. His playing was marked by a breadth and purity of tone and manual dexterity which could scarcely be excelled. Madame Grey contributed a harp solo, and Mr. Henry Rowe a concertina solo. Mr. W. H. Jude presided at the pianoforte.

MAIDENHEAD.—Mr. E. S. Harding, Organist of Bray, gave an evening Concert on the 15th ult., which was well attended. The programme included songs, vocal duets and trios, and two duets for harp and piano by Mr. W. F. Frost and Mr. E. S. Harding. The vocalists were Miss Griffiths, Mr. Christian, and Mr. V. Harding. Mr. Ernest S. Harding conducted.

MAIDSTONE.—The St. Paul's Choral Society, which has been recently formed, gave its first Concert in the Boys' Schoolroom on Monday the 18th ult., to a large and appreciative audience. The programme opened with the Overture to Les Diamants de la Couronne, which was well played by a band consisting of some of the principal amateurs of the town, assisted by a portion of the band of the Royal Marines (Chatham). Professor G. A. Macfarren's Cantata May Day was also excellently rendered, under the conductorship of Mr. J. B. Groom, the recitative and aria for the May Queen being sung with much taste by Miss Wallis. The second part of the programme was miscellaneous, and included a violin solo by Mr. D. Pine (encored), and songs, &c., by the Misses Wallis, Mrs. Johnson, and Mr. G. Appleyard. Mrs. Hobday presided at the pianoforte.

NANTWICH.—The Philharmonic Society gave the first Concert of the second season on Monday evening the 18th ult., when Haydn's First Mass was performed. The solo vocalists were Miss Salkeld, Mr. Duxbury, and Mr. Minton. Mr. G. D. Harris (organist of the Parish Church) conducted.

NEWPORT, ISLE OF WIGHT.—A concert was given by Mr. R. Roche at the Volunteer Hall on Thursday evening the 14th ult., before a large and appreciative audience. Madame Antoinette Sterling made a great effect in her songs, "When the tide comes in" (Barnby), "Don't be sorrowful, darling," and "Caller Herrin" (Neal Grog); in all she was enthusiastically encored. Miss Fannie Lanham, R.A.M., who came with a good reputation, fully sustained it, and created a most favourable impression. Mr. Cross, principal bass of Salisbury Cathedral, was also highly successful. The duet, "Love and War," by Messrs. Roche and Cross, was a most effective piece of vocalisation. Mr. J. T. Read, organist of Carisbrooke Church, was the accompanist. At the commencement and conclusion of each part of the programme, instrumental selections were played by Mr. J. L. Gubbins (violin), Mr. Adkins (second violin), Mr. S. Pring (viola), Mr. Read (violinello), and Mr. A. V. Firth, R.A.M.

NEWPORT, SALOP.—On Wednesday evening the 6th ult., the members of the Choral Society of the town gave their first Concert of this season. The first part of the programme included a selection from Judas Maccabaeus, the choruses of which were rendered with great spirit and precision. The songs and duets were all taken by members of the Society. The band played the Overture to Saul and the March from St. Polycarp (Sir F. A. G. Ouseley). The second part of the concert was miscellaneous. The band and chorus numbered sixty performers. Mr. Smart, organist of the Parish Church, conducted.

NORWICH.—An evening Concert, in continuation of the series so successfully inaugurated by Mr. James Darken, was given in St. Andrew's Hall on the 1st ult. The Concert was rendered additionally attractive by the appearance, for the first time before a Norwich audience, of Miss Agnes Zimmermann, pianist, and Mdle. Corani, soprano vocalist. Beethoven's Trio in C minor was the most finished performance of the evening, the executants being Miss Agnes Zimmermann, Madame Norman-Néruda, and Signor Piatti, all of whom were also highly appreciated in their respective solos. Mdle. Corani gave manifestations throughout of a most careful training, but was suffering from a severe cold. Miss Enriquez, who is an established favourite in Norwich, sang Gluck's air, "Che farò," with her accustomed sweetness and power. Mr. Kingston Rudd acted as accompanist.

PERTH.—On the 7th ult. the members of the Euterpean Society gave their first Concert of this season in the City Hall, supplemented by a large and efficient orchestra, led by Mr. Carrodus, and conducted by Dr. Sullivan. The first part of the programme consisted of Spohr's God, Thou art great, and Gade's Erl King's Daughter, both of which were given with great precision. The solos, as usual, were rendered by members of the Society, with the exception of the baritone solo in the Erl King's Daughter which was well sung by Mr. Rudolf Hempel. The second part was chiefly orchestral. Mozart's "Non piu Andrai" was rendered by Mr. Hempel in such a spirited manner as to secure an encore. Mr. Carrodus performed two movements of Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto and a Fantasia on Scotch airs. The playing of the orchestra was remarkable for precision and accuracy. Mrs. Hempel and Miss Steele deserve the highest praise for their labours in drilling the chorus.

PLYMOUTH.—The performance of Handel's Messiah at the Guildhall on the 13th ult. was one of the best ever given by the Plymouth Vocal Association. The principal vocalists were Mrs. Arnold, Miss Lansdown, Miss Triggs, Mrs. Owens, Messrs. G. D. Bellamy, H. P. Sawday, Watts, W. H. K. Wright, and Jervis. The choruses were excellently rendered under the skilful direction of Mr. Löhr. Mr. Pardew led the band, and Mr. Faull presided at the harmonium.

RAMSGATE.—A Concert, in aid of the funds of the Ramsgate and St. Lawrence Royal Dispensary, was given in St. James's Hall, on the 18th ult., by the Ramsgate Amateur Choral Society. The programme consisted of solos and choruses from The Creation, and a miscellaneous selection of solos, glees, and part-songs. The principal parts were sustained by Mrs. Rogers, Mr. J. A. Birch, Mr. A. Moulding, and Mr. J. Higgins. Mr. J. B. Lott, Mus. Bac., Deputy Organist of Canterbury Cathedral, presided at the harmonium, and Mr. K. Walker at the pianoforte. Mr. J. A. Birch and Mr. T. Duckett were the Conductors.

RICHMOND, YORKS.—Mr. James H. Rooks, organist of the Parish Church, gave his annual Concert in the Assembly Rooms on Monday evening the 4th ult., before a crowded audience. The programme was well arranged, and was carried out by the following ladies and gentlemen: Vocalists—Miss Clarke, Miss L. Sanderson, Mrs. E. D. Swarbrick, Miss J. Young, Alderman J. G. Croft (ex-Mayor), Mr. C. G. Croft, M.A., Mr. W. H. Emsley, Herr Gruber, Rev. C. T. Hales, M.A., Mr. H. C. Priestman, Mr. E. D. Swarbrick, Mr. C. G. Tate, J.P., and the Rev. J. S. Warman, M.A. Instrumentalists—Pianoforte, Lady Lawson, Miss Bennett, Miss Sanderson, and Miss Louie Young; Violins, Colonel Bradley and Herr Otto Deuk; Violoncello, Sir John Lawson, Bart.; Harp, Miss Croft; Harmoniums, Mr. Pulman and Mr. Rooks; American Organ, Mr. Rooks. The programme included the Overtures to Guillaume Tell and Zampa, a Trio for Piano, Violin, and Cello by Beethoven, and vocal selections from Don Giovanni, Il Flauto Magico, Faust, and Lurline.

ROCHESTER.—On Monday evening the 11th ult. the members of the Choral Society gave a fine performance of Handel's Oratorio The Messiah in the new Corn Exchange. Eminent artists, vocal and instrumental, were engaged, the solo vocalists being Mrs. Osgood, Madame Patey, Mr. Vernon Rigby, and Mr. R. Hilton. The orchestra was led by Mr. J. T. Willy, the Trumpet Obligato was played by Mr. T. Harper, and the Rev. W. H. Nutter conducted.

SHERBORNE.—The organ in Sherborne Abbey, recently improved by Gray and Davison, was re-opened on Tuesday, November 28th, with two Cathedral Services. The Lord Bishop of Salisbury preached at Morning Service, and the Rev. C. F. Newell at the Evening Service. Mr. H. J. Vaughan, the organist of the Abbey, presided at the organ in the Services, and gave a Recital on the organ in the afternoon.

STATEN ISLAND (NEW YORK).—The first Philharmonic Concert, at Association Hall, took place on the 1st ult., and proved a great success. The artists were Miss Antonia Henne (contralto), Mr. Carl Hamm (violin), Mrs. Maretzek Bertucat (harp), and Mr. Richard Hoffman (solo pianist). Mr. Richard Hoffman played, by desire, his new composition, "Barcarolle," which was warmly applauded and greatly admired.

SURBITON.—The members of the Christ Church Choral Society gave their first Concert of the season at the Christ Church Schools, Alpha Road, on Monday evening the 11th ult., conductor Mr. Sebastian Hart, organist of Christ Church. A feature in the concert was the performance of the Surbiton Orchestral Society, composed of gentlemen amateurs of Surbiton and neighbourhood. The vocalists were Miss Batho, Miss G. Wiltshire, Mr. A. J. Lane, Mr. C. J. Unwin, and Mr. A. Barrett. The gems of the evening were Gade's Cantata Spring's Message and Macfarren's May Day. Mr. Basil Philpott and Mr. Sebastian Hart presided at the pianoforte. At the following Thursday evening practice, the members presented their Conductor, Mr. R. Sebastian Hart, with a very handsome baton, made of ivory, with silver-gilt ends beautifully embossed, and his monogram engraved on the handle.

UXBRIDGE.—The first Concert of the season was given by the Choral Society on the 14th ult. The first part consisted of a portion of Handel's Jephtha, and the second of a miscellaneous selection of secular music. The soloists were Miss Agnes Larkcom, Miss Boing-broke, and Mr. Henry Guy. Mr. T. Mountain and Mr. Walsh played the harmonium and pianoforte accompaniments, and Mr. A. D. Miles conducted.

WARRINGTON.—The Musical Society gave a performance of Handel's Acis and Galatea on the 19th ult. The principal singers were Miss Banks, Signor Fabrini, and Mr. Orlando Christian, who did full justice to the solos, and the choruses were all that could be desired. The second part, which was miscellaneous, included the solo and chorus "The Crusader's Song" (Niels W. Gade), the solo given with great effect by Signor Fabrini. Mr. Christian was encored in "Nancy Lee" (Adams), and Miss Banks, who sang in place of Madame T. Wells (indisposed), was recalled for her singing of J. L. Roeckel's "Once upon a time." Mr. Nicholson was solo flute, Mr. Pattison organist, and Dr. Hiles conducted.

WEYBRIDGE.—On Monday evening, the 27th November, Mr. H. P. G. Brooke's Choral Class gave the first Concert of the season before a large audience. The part-songs were well sung, the marks of expression being strictly observed. Songs and duets by Miss Lampard, Miss Kellock, and Messrs. Colbourn and W. F. Harrison, were exceedingly well rendered.

WOLVERHAMPTON.—On Friday evening, the 1st ult., a crowded audience assembled at the Agricultural Hall, to hear the Festival Choral Society's performance of Elijah. The leading singers were Madame Nouver, Madame Poole, Mr. Vernon Rigby, and Signor Poli. The first chorus, "Help, Lord," showed that the choir was in excellent training, and thoroughly under the control of the Conductor. The Baal choruses were well sung, especially "Baal, we cry to thee." The terzetto, "Lift thine eyes," in which Miss Grainger took part, was re-demanded. The band, led by Mr. T. M. Abbott, was most efficient. Mr. F. H. Bradley acted as accompanist, and Mr. Stockley conducted.

YORK.—The second of the Winter Concerts took place on the 29th Nov., when an excellent programme was finely rendered, the artists being Madame Norman-Néruda, Herr Strauss, Mons. Vieuxtemps, and Mr. Charles Hallé. The concerted pieces were Mendelssohn's Trio in C Minor, Op. 66—for Piano, Violin, and Cello, Spohr's Duet for two Violins, and Mozart's Quartet in E flat. Miss Rose Hersee was the vocalist. Mr. Wilson deserves the praise and gratitude of all lovers of music for putting such a musical treat in their way.—The organ in the Centenary Chapel, having been thoroughly renovated and considerably enlarged by Mr. Denman, organ-builder of this city, was opened on the 8th ult. by Dr. Naylor, of Scarborough. The great organ has a register of ten stops, including a double open diapason of 16-foot tone, and a very powerful reed, a posauce, of 8-foot tone. The swell organ has a register of fourteen stops, including two 16-foot tone stops. The choir organ has seven stops on its register, and the pedal organ six. Thus a total of forty-four stops, containing 1,998 pipes, makes this important instrument the largest in York, except the organ on the screen in the Minster.

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. Walter Barnett to St. Andrew's, South Newton, Salisbury.—Mr. George Kitchin, Choirmaster and Assistant Organist to Christ Church, Wanstead.—Mr. Sidney G. Fell to Holy Trinity, Sydenham.—Mr. Edward Morris, Organist and Choirmaster to All Saints', Aden Grove, Stoke Newington.—Mr. Walter P. Fairclough, Organist and Choirmaster to St. James's, Glossop.—Mr. C. W. Hanson, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Paul's, New Wandsworth.—Mr. A. A. Yeatman, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Mary's, Spital Square, E.

CHOIR APPOINTMENT.—Mr. Frank Brough (Solo Tenor) to Christ Church, Mayfair.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

ROBERTS, J. V., Mus. Doc., Oxon.—Jonah. A Sacred Cantata. The Words, chiefly selected from Holy Scripture, by the Rev. Thomas Cox, M.A., Cantab. 8vo., paper cover, 3s.

KITCHEN, JOHN.—The Pilgrim's Progress. An Oratorio in Vocal Score, with a separate Accompaniment for the Organ or Pianoforte. 8vo., cloth, 6s.; paper cover, 4s.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO CHORUSES.—For list of new Nos. see pp. 46 and 47.

KEETON, HAYDN.—Benedicite omnia opera, in E flat. 8vo. 2d.

STRONG, DAVID.—Te Deum and Benedictus. Set to Music in Chant form. 8vo., 4d.

SHORT, JOSEPH.—Deus Israel. Introit from the Mass of the Bridegroom and the Bride. For four voices, with Organ accompaniment. 1s. 6d.

GRANTHAM, Rev. G. P.—Carols for Yule-tide. Demy 8vo., 1s.

IRONS, H. S.—Good King Wenceslas. For Soprano and Tenor Solos, and Chorus. Arranged, with Organ and Pianoforte Accompaniments. 8vo., 4d.

DAVIS, GABRIEL.—The Knight's return. Four-Part Song. 8vo., 2d.

MENDELSSOHN.—Partings (Volklied). Arranged for a Chorus of Men's Voices by Sir Herbert Oakley. 8vo., 2d.

MACKENZIE, A. C.—Five Pieces for the Pianoforte. Op. 13, 2s.

ROECKEL, EDOUARD.—Air de Danse de la Régence. Pour le Piano. 1s. 6d.

GLORIETTE, Souvenir de Schönbunn. Impromptu pour le Piano. 1s. 6d.

SPARK, Dr. W.—Organist's Quarterly Journal. Part XXIII.

- 1.—March (C minor). Geo. B. Allen.
- 2.—Elegy (A minor and major). Charles Goodban.
- 3.—Menuetto (G minor and major). Berthold Tours.
- 4.—Preludio and Fuga (G major). Augusto Moricani.
- 5.—Concluding Voluntary. Arthur Johnson.

To Choral Societies.

MR. CHARLES FRY

Recites the Lyrics in "ATHALIE," "ANTIGONE," &c.

"The Reader was Mr. Charles Fry, and his reading was exceedingly intelligent and good."—Morning Post.

"The lyrics were impressively rendered by Mr. Charles Fry."—Graphic.

"Mr. Charles Fry recited the lyrics in a manner which commends him to our most favourable notice."—Sunday Times.

Address 1, Berners Street, W.

MADAME PAULINE GRAYSTON (Soprano).
Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Concerts, &c. For terms address 26, Lofthouse Place, Leeds.

MR. W. PARKINSON (Primo Tenore),
For Oratorios, Concerts, or Grand Opera,
Address, Theatre Buildings, Preston.

MR. A. H. TAYLOR (Tenor).
For Concerts and Oratorios, address Cathedral Choir, Lichfield.

MR. HUDSON LISTER (Bass).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address Cathedral, Manchester.

MR. D. HARRISON (Basso).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address Minster, York.

MR. ADOLPHUS PHILLIPS (Basso).
(Of the Cathedral Choir, Lincoln.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 92, Newland, Lincoln.

MR. J. SHARPE (Oboe Player).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 235 Lidgett Hill, Pudsey, nr. Leeds.
Bandmasters and others supplied with Triebert's and Morton's celebrated Oboes. Best Oboe Reeds, 2s. each; Staples Recaned, 1s. each.

ORATORIOS and CONCERTS.—MR. HENRY POPE (Basso) begs to announce his REMOVAL to 9, Malden Crescent, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

LADIES' SCHOOL, KETTERING, Northamptonshire.—Principal, MISS BLUNT. The pupils will re-assemble (D.V.) on Tuesday, January 30. An Articled Pupil required.

LADIES' SCHOOL, LANGHAM HOUSE, NORTHAMPTON.—Conducted by Mrs. Brook Sampson. Piano and Singing by Mr. Brook Sampson, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O. An articled pupil required.

ORGAN, PIANOFORTE, HARMONIUM, HARMONY, &c., One Guinea Per Quarter; Lessons and Practice on fine modern Instruments. Organist, 22, London Street, E.C. Est. 1855.

AN ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, of ten years' experience, offers his services gratuitously. Has excellent testimonials. Would not object to deputation. B. S., 46, Moorgate Street, E.C.

AN experienced ORGANIST, being disengaged for a few months, would be happy to DEPUTISE or undertake a temporary appointment. City or S.E. district preferred. Address X., Post Office, Sydenham, S.E.

WANTED, ALTOS, TENORS, and BASSES, for the Voluntary Choir of St. Mary's, Seymour Street, Euston Square. Apply to the Organist at the Church after the Thursday evening service, between 8 and 9 o'clock.

WANTED, a man as TUNER and SALESMAN of Pianos, Harmoniums, &c. Address, H. Nye, Tunbridge Wells.

TO PARENTS and GUARDIANS.—WANTED immediately, in a fashionable watering place on the south coast of Kent, a gentlemanly YOUTH, about 15 or 16 years, as Apprentice in a first-class Music Business. Can live with advertiser (married). It is very necessary that he should be able to play and read fairly, but will have every opportunity of improving his musical education by receiving lessons on the organ, pianoforte, &c. Apply, firstly, to T. P., care of Mr. J. Scrutton, 12, Little Marlborough Street, W.

S. ANNE'S CHURCH, WANDSWORTH.—ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED. Must be a good Churchman and Communicant; choral service. Salary £40. Address Vicar, S. Anne's, Wandsworth, S.W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED for the Lake District. To one thoroughly experienced in Tuning and Repairs, and who has a knowledge of Harmoniums, good wages will be given. Apply Walch and Pohl, Barrow-in-Furness.

WANTED, an ASSISTANT in a Music Shop. Must be accustomed to Book-keeping, and able to take charge during the absence of principal. Apply, with carte de visite and references, stating salary required, to Thompson and Shackell, 4, Queen Street, Cardiff.

FIRST VIOLIN STRINGS; will not break if tuned up to G; never tuning false even from perspiration. One returned for 4 stamps. Send to Mr. Youens, Assembly Rooms, Newby Place, Poplar, E. Established 1840.

CREMONA and other ITALIAN VIOLINS. Between 70 and 80 in stock by Stradivarius, Joseph Guarnerius, Amati, Gagliano, Rugerius, Bergonzi, and other celebrated Italian makers. VIOLONCELLOS by Rugerius, Gagliano, &c., in perfect condition. BOWS by Tourte and others. The highest prices given for old Violins and Musical Instruments. Repairs done on the premises. —P. RICHARDS, No. 1, Wardour Street, London, W., one door from Oxford Street.

SIMPSON AND CO.'S

IMPROVED HARMONIUMS,

FROM £5 5s. Five octaves. Best make. Warranted. Nothing BETTER or CHEAPER made. Lists post free.
Trade supplied.
Simpson and Co., 33, Argyll Street, Regent Street, London, W.

TWO-MANUAL C ORGAN; pipe and reed; full compass pedals. 35 guineas. R., 131, New Cross Road.

ORGAN-HARMONIUM for SALE.—Two manuals and pedals, with separate 16-foot tone reeds, CC to E. Three couplers. Perfectly good condition. Price £30. Address, by letter,
A. B., 26, Marlborough Road, Chelsea.

ORGAN METAL PIPES.—Best quality zinc front pipes. Voicing and tuning. S. Fowler, 127, Pentonville Road, N.

Re D'ALMAINE, DECEASED.

PIANOFORTES AT HALF PRICE.

SHEET MUSIC AT 1-10TH.

Owing to the decease of the Proprietor, an IMMENSE STOCK of all descriptions of MUSICAL PROPERTY is being cleared at most exceptional prices. The Stock comprises—

780 PIANOFORTES

AND OTHER KEYED INSTRUMENTS;

ALSO,

40,000 PIECES OF HIGH-CLASS MUSIC, all full folio size, and of clear, best quality printing, containing every description of composition.

First-class 7-octave Brilliant Cottage Piano as low as 16 and 17 Guineas. Really splendid Instruments at 19 and 20 Guineas, and magnificent Grands, worth 90 Guineas, at 45 and 47 Guineas. Rosewood and walnut respectively.

A 2s. 6d. Piece of Music for 3d.

This is a most exceptional opportunity to the Profession, Amateurs, and the Public—such as does not happen in every lifetime—for obtaining a high-class Piano at cost price.

ON VIEW, 5, PAVEMENT, FINSBURY,

By MOORGATE STREET STATION.

All Goods packed free for the country, or delivered in London.

Orders by letter attended to immediately.

Catalogues of Messrs. PHILLIP, LEA and WHITELEY, 2, City
Road, Auctioneers to the estate.

12s. WORTH OF MUSIC for One Shilling, post free for fifteen stamps, soiled and surplus stock.
James Smith and Son, 76, 74, and 72, Lord Street, Liverpool.

A MORNING SERVICE, Te Deum, Jubilate, and Kyrie, by the Rev. EDWARD YOUNG. Tenth edition, abbreviated for Parochial use. Organ and Choir copies, 4d. each.

"Melodious, vocal, and nicely harmonised—that is, without pretence or straining at effect; and they declaim the words devoutly and emphatically."—Musical Times.

"Good points, and tuneful passages."—Musical Standard.

"The intelligent, devoted, and devotional spirit in which every note seems to have been composed, furnishes one of the best guarantees for excellence."—English Churchman.

"All competent criticism will be found in accordance with the verdict of a high professional authority as to 'abundant proof of imagination, poetical conception, and musical feeling.'"—Christian Observer.

"The strain is devotional, and harmonies full, solemn, and massive.
He fairly claims to have dug a channel for the devout utterance of the words."—Bristol Times.

Also,

VENITE, Organ or Choir Copies, 4d.

CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR, Organ or Choir Copies, 4d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now ready, fourth edition, price 1s.

COMMUNION SERVICE, by ALEXANDER S.
COOPER, including KYRIE and SANCTUS (Four different settings), CRED (Ely Prize Setting), and GLORIA; equally suitable for singing in Unison or in Harmony. Price 1s.; or without Creed, 6d.
BENEDICTUS and AGNUS DEI, to complete the above Service, price 3d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published,

THE MORNING, COMMUNION and EVENING
SERVICE in C major, by THEODORE DISTIN. Complete,
2s. 6d., 8vo.; or, singly, Te Deum, Benedictus, and Jubilate, 1s.;
Kyrie, Gloria Tibi, Laus Tibi, Credo, Sursum Corda, Sanctus, Gloria in Excelsis, 1s.; Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, 6d.
London: Novello and Co.

Price 1s.

THE NORTH COATES SUPPLEMENTAL
TUNE-BOOK. Forty-nine Tunes by the Editor of "The Village Organist." For specimens see Ludborough in "Hymns Ancient and Modern;" North Coates, Chenies, &c., in "Church Hymns;" Colnworth, Corfe Mullen, &c., in "The Bristol Tune Book;"
and many other collections.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

METZLER & CO.'S CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS.

HOSANNA TO THE SON OF DAVID. ...	J. L. HATTON, 2d.
LET US NOW GO EVEN UNTO BETHLEHEM. Do.	2d.
ALL THE ENDS OF THE WORLD ...	Do. 2d.
BLESSED IS HE THAT COMETH IN THE NAME
OF THE LORD ...	Do. 3d.
NOW WHEN JESUS WAS BORN ...	Do. 2d.
IN THE DAYS OF HEROD THE KING ...	Do. 2d.

London: Metzler and Co., 37, Great Marlborough Street, W.

BETHLEHEM. The Shepherds' Nativity Hymn.
Composed by CH. GOUNOD. Price 3d. Words only, for use of Choirs, 4s. per 100.

London: Metzler and Co., 37, Great Marlborough Street, W.

CAROL OF THE REAPERS. (S.A.T.B.) 3d.
SIX EASY ANTHEMS FOR VILLAGE CHOIRS. 2d. each.
MUSICAL LADDER. 1s. TONIC STAFF. 6d.
Novello and Co.; or of the Composer, W. H. Gill, Sidcup, Kent.

CHRISTMAS SONG, "Softly the echoes come and go." Composed by W. HARGREAVES, 7, St. Ann Street, Manchester. Price 2s. 6d.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

SIMPLE CAROLLERS ARE WE. Carol for Christmas tide. Words by J. P. DOUGLAS. Music by J. B.
BOUCHER. Price 2d. London: Novello, Ewer, and Co.

THE REAPER AND THE FLOWERS. Four-part Song with Solos. Words by H. W. LONGFELLOW.
Music by J. B. BOUCHER. Price 3d. A folio edition of the above, for one voice, may be had, post free, price 1s. 6d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

JANITOR JOHN THE FRIAR. The new Buffo
Song, singing by Theo. Distin and others; received night lywith hearty laughter and encores. 3s. 6d.
Hutchings and Co., 9, Conduit Street.

Now ready, post free, 1s. 6d.

OH! COME IN THY BEAUTY. The favourite
Serenade by GEORGE FOX. Suitable for Tenor and Soprano Voices. "A charming serenade, full of merit; the words breathe ardent tone, and the melody is very sweet."—Court Journal.
J. Williams, 24, Berners Street, W.; and 123, Cheapside, E.C.

ANDREW'S "OLD FRIENDS" Song, 3s.
Piano Solo, 4s. Swiss Air, 5s. Half-price, post free. 14, Park Avenue, Manchester.

OLD ENGLAND IS OUR HOME. Part-Song.
By the Author of "Never mind the rest." 4d. Now being sung with great success. Words racy and good, the music bold and effective.
H. F., 57, Winchester Street, Pimlico.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES. — CHRISTMAS
PART-SONG—"Come gather round the Christmas fire." By G. H. GREGORY, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Price 3d.
"Mr. Gregory's music is bold, and thoroughly in harmony with the subject. The part-writing is excellent throughout, and the composition may be confidently recommended to all who cultivate part music
'round the Christmas fire.'"—Musical Times.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ALFRED ALLEN'S "GAVOTTE FESTIVALE."
"Decidedly pretty and tuneful."—Queen. Invariably encores at the Crystal Palace Concerts. Net, 2s. Novello and Co.

DR. DEARLE'S NEW ANDANTE PASTORALE for ORGAN, 1s. 6d. net, and new MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F, 6d. Also, March of Joy, and March of Levites, for Organ, each 1s. 6d. net.
London: Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

Third Edition, enlarged. Small 4to. Price 2s. 6d. paper covers; 3s. 9d. cloth lettered.

ANGLICAN PSALTER CHANTS, Single and Double, edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. G. OUSELEY, Bart., etc., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK.

This work contains nearly 400 Chants; which are appropriated to "Venite exultemus Domino," the Daily and Proper Psalms, &c.; those for each Service occupying a separate page and affording several Series suitable to each daily portion of the Psalter, from which choice may be made. The Chants have been selected with especial reference to the position of the Reciting note.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

Now ready. Small 4to. Price 1s. Vocal parts, 12mo., price 6d. each, 1st and 2nd Series bound together, cloth, 2s. 9d. Vocal parts 1st and 2nd series, bound together in limp cloth, 1s. 4d. each.

SECOND SERIES.

THE CANTICLES and HYMNS of the CHURCH, pointed for Chanting, and set to appropriate Anglican Chants, Single and Double; together with Responses to the Commandments, edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. G. OUSELEY, Bart., etc., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK. This work contains a selection of Double (besides additional Single) Chants; together with special settings of "Benedicite," and a collection of Kyrie Eleisons, old and new.

This pointing of the Canticles is authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

VENI, CREATOR SPIRITUS. Set to Music by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., &c.

For general or Festival use; for male voices and four-part Chorus, with Organ accompaniment, ad lib. Price 3d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

THE ANGLICAN CHORAL SERVICE BOOK.

Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper, 1s.; cloth, 2s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co. Oxford: Parker.

Seventh Edition.

THE ANGLICAN CHANT-BOOK, edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper cover, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d. Large edition, cloth, 4s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

OUSELEY AND MONK'S PSALTER AND CANTICLES, pointed for Chanting. Second Edition. Authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York. 24mo., without chants, 9d.; with Proper Psalms, 1s.; Proper Psalms, separately, 3d.; small 4to., with chants, 4s.; each voice part, separately, 1s. 6d. Canticles, score, small 4to., 9d.; separate parts, 3d.; words only, 24mo., 1½d. Novello, Ewer and Co., and Parker and Co.

Preparing for the Press.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF WORDS OF ANTHEMS, new Edition, revised, corrected, and brought down to the present date.

Eleventh Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Price 5s. 6d., paper covers; 7s. limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation. Score 1s. 6d. The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-notes.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. St. J. B. JOULE. (Large type), price 2s. 6d. This Psalter having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers. N.B.—A small Edition is in preparation.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo., price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Fourth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. Quarto, in cloth elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Fifth Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION.

Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. St. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

To be ready early in January.

THE PAROCHIAL PSALTER: including The Canticles, Daily Psalms, and Proper Psalms. Pointed for Chanting on a new system, with marks of expression, in English, breath marks, and other directions, to facilitate chanting. By ALEX. S. COOPER.

Prices: 8vo., for Clergy and Organists, strongly bound, 2s.; 32mo., for Choirs, 1s. Canticles only, now ready; prices, 3d. and 1d.

London: Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

A MORNING, COMMUNION, and EVENING SERVICE. Set to Music in the Key of F by HENRY SMART. SECOND EDITION, containing a new Benedictus, and also a new and shorter Gloria to the Nunc Dimittis.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

THE MORNING, COMMUNION, and EVENING SERVICE, in C major, by LANGDON COLBORNE, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Complete, 1s. 3d.; or singly—Te Deum, 4d.; Jubilate, 3d.; Communion Service, 4d.; Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, 4d.

Just Published.

A MORNING SERVICE, price 6d., consisting of Te Deum, Jubilate, Kyrie, and Gloria. By I. D. KENNARD, Organist and Choirmaster of Holy Trinity, Margate. Messrs. Novello and Co., or of the Composer.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in E flat, by ALFRED J. DYE. Small 8vo., 3d.; organ copy, 6d. "Easy, effective, and congregational."—"Supplies a want much felt by small choirs." Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

A SIMPLE SERVICE for the TE DEUM. By Rev. J. HOWARD. Price 4d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

Lately Published, price 2s.

A COMPLETE SERVICE for the HOLY COMMUNION, adapted from Spohr's Oratorio "The Last Judgment." By Rev. E. HUSBAND.

"Clever and appreciative."—Musical Standard.

"The arrangement is, perhaps, as happy as it could possibly be made."—The Choir.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

G. A. MACFARREN'S CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR. For Voices in Unison and Organ. 8vo., 6d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CANTATE and DEUS, by R. TAYLOR. An easy Unison Service in F. Price 6d. To be had of Novello and Co., or of the Author, Brighton College.

PLAIN-SONG EVENING SERVICE.—MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS. Third Tone for Voices in Unison, Harmony, and a free Organ Accompaniment. By W. CRESER, Mus. Bac., Oxon., Organist of S. Martin-on-the-hill, Scarborough. Price 4d.

Now ready, 8vo., price Threepence.

THE APOSTLES' CREED, Set to Music (chiefly in Recitative) for Voices in Unison, with an Accompaniment for the Organ, by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Director of the Choir, York Minster.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

8vo., price Sixpence.

OFFERTORY SENTENCES COMPLETE, with Music in full for Organist and Choir. By HERBERT STEPHEN IRONS, late Organist of Southwell Minster.

One or more of these effective "Sentences" may be sung after the Offertory is said by the Priest, or at Matins or Evensong when the alms are collected.

Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

CHURCH MUSIC by ERNEST C. WINCHESTER, Organist of Holy Trinity Church, Wimbledon, Choirmaster of Christ Church, Southwark, &c.

Anthem, "I will give thanks unto Thee, O Lord." For Four Voices, with a Treble (or Tenor) Solo. 4d. Morning Service: Te Deum and Benedictus, in the Chant form. 4d. Evening Service: Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis in the Chant form. A grand setting, suitable for Festivals, 2nd Edition. 3d. Ten Offertory Sentences. 4d. Six Settings of the Kyrie Eleison. 2d. The Te Deum, arranged to Gregorian Tones. 1½d. The Benedictus, harmonised on the 5th Tone, 2nd Ending. 1½d. The Venite, harmonised on the 8th Tone, 1st Ending. A. 1d. The Deus Misereatur, harmonised on the 3rd Tone, 2nd Ending. 1d. The Preces and Responses. For use during Advent and Lent. 1d. Processional Hymn, "Onward, Christian Soldiers," with a free Organ Accompaniment. 2nd Edition. 1d. "Hark! hark! my soul." Hymn tune, "Angelica," with free Organ Accompaniment, 1d. London: F. Pitman, 20, Paternoster Row, E.C.; or of the Composer, 18, Wychiffe Grove, Lavender Hill, S.W.

A list of reduced rates for the clergy and musical profession, and specimen copies of Music, forwarded on application to E. C. Winchester.

4TH BOOK NOW READY. Collection of KYRIES, &c. Original Compositions by Dr. F. Hiller, Guilmant, G. A. and W. Macfarren, Sir G. J. Elvey, Tours, Salaman, Francesco Berger, E. G. Monk, J. Baptiste Calkin, Scotsman Clark, Hamilton Clarke, &c. Books 1, 2, 3, 4, 1s. each. Separate Nos. (1 to 71), 1d. SPOHR'S 24th PSALM, 8vo. (2nd thousand), 9d.; folio, 4s. net.

London: Novello and Co. Sheffield: W. T. Freemantle, High Street.

FIVE INTRODUCTORY VOLUNTARIES for the ORGAN. Composed by T. MEE PARTISON.

These Voluntaries, of medium difficulty, with Pedal Obbligato, will be found eminently useful for the introduction of Divine Service, both as regards character and length. Price 3s. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

THREE PIECES for the ORGAN. Composed by NIELS W. GADE. Op. 22. Price 2s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

EIGHT ORGAN PIECES, Original and Selected, in Four Numbers, 1s. 6d. and 1s. each net. Also, Chant Te Deum, 3d.; Benedictus and Jubilate Deo, 4d.; Cantate and Deus Misereatur, 4d.; Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, 3d. By EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus. Doc., Cantab. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

GRAND MASONIC MARCH. By J. B. BOUCHER. Price 4s.; post free for 25 stamps.

London: C. Jefferys, 67, Berners Street, W.

MUSICAL PRESENTS.

PITMAN'S MUSICAL LIBRARY

IN HANDSOMELY BOUND VOLUMES.

- Vol. 1. Standard and Popular Songs and Duets ... 4 0
80 Compositions.
- „ 2. Sacred Songs and Duets ... 4 0
80 Compositions.
- „ 3. Copyright and Popular Songs and Duets ... 5 0
102 Compositions.
- „ 4. Songs for Young Singers ... 3 0
Sacred and Secular in 1 vol. 62 Compositions.
This is not a Collection of Nursery Rhymes.
- „ 5. Humorous and Motto Songs... 3 6
65 Compositions.

The above volumes are printed in the best style, from bold type, on good paper, and are very handsomely bound in extra cloth gilt, gilt edges. Every piece has an Accompaniment for the Pianoforte or Harmonium, and to most of the songs a chorus for four voices is added. Lists of Contents on application.

Full music size, price 18s., in very handsome binding.

MELODIA DIVINA;

or, SACRED COMPANION for the PIANOFORTE or HARMONIUM.

A most comprehensive Collection of Psalms and Hymns, short Anthems, and adaptations from Handel, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, together with many original compositions. All the principal Religious Periodicals, Magazines, &c., have reviewed "Melodia Divina" most favourably, and the work is in great request as a Gift-book of Sacred Music. Its elegant appearance and sterling worth as a collection of Family Sacred Music render it a most appropriate Birth-day Gift-book or Wedding Present.

WARD'S TRIOS FOR AMATEURS.

Two Violins (or Flutes) and Bass. Three Nos. now ready, 1s. each, net. Each No. contains from 4 to 12 pieces.

FAWCETT'S HARMONIUM TUTOR,

price 2s. net, is the most complete, interesting, and improving Instruction-Book published for that instrument. It contains very full elementary instructions, and numerous examples and exercises in all styles of music.

CHEAP PART MUSIC.

THE ASH GROVE. The most popular four-part arrangement of this favourite Welsh Song is published in No. 35 of "The Part-Singer." Price 1d.

HAIL, BRITANNIA. Composed by Dr. W. SPARK. Published in No. 128 of "The Part-Singer." Price 1d.

ARISE, MY LOVE. Composed by J. L. HATTON. Price 1d.

BYGONE DAYS. Composed by H. SMART. Price 1d.

FAIRY BELLS. Composed by G. A. MACFARREN. Price 1d.

SIX TRIOS FOR LADIES' VOICES.

ARRANGED BY T. CRAMPTON.

In paper cover. Price 6d.

PARADISE.

J. FAWCETT'S POPULAR ORATORIO.

Paper cover, 2s.; cloth, red edges, 3s.

A most valuable Work for Choral Societies whose members are not sufficiently numerous to do justice to the compositions of Handel, Haydn, Mendelssohn, &c. The aim of the composer has been to render the music effective, without being difficult. All the movements, including the Solos and Duets, can be performed without the assistance of professionals. Full Score, with Accompaniments, 2s. Tonic Sol-Fa Copy, 1s. Separate Chorus Parts, 1s. each; Orchestral Parts, 3s. each.

F. PITMAN, 20, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.

A SHILLING'S WORTH OF MUSIC.

In paper covers, price 1s., post free, 1s. 2d.

THE MUSICAL BUDGET.

Vol. 1. Containing a large Collection of Songs, Dance Music, Pianoforte Pieces, &c. Forming the cheapest collection of music ever published.

The Musical Budget is published monthly, price 1d., and commencing with January 1877 will be enlarged to 16 pages, 10 to 12 of which will be occupied by Music, and the remainder with matter of general interest to Musical Amateurs, including an Exchange column. Annual subscriptions post free for 18 stamps. The compositions of amateurs (if suitable) are revised and published, without charge, in the Musical Budget.

London: J. Clarke, 11, Red Lion Court, Fleet Street; F. Pitman, 20, Paternoster Row.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S CHORAL SONGS, as sung by Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir, the Birmingham Festival Choral Society, &c.

No. 1. "THE SILENT LAND." Price 3d.
"Replete with melody. Some phrases are of remarkable beauty."—Musical Times.

No. 2. "THE BETTER LAND." Price 4d.
"Distinguished by beauty of melody and richness of harmony."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

"Full of charming effects."—Birmingham Daily Post.

No. 3. "THE DAY IS DONE." Price 4d.
Composed expressly for Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

VOCAL ALBUM OF PART MUSIC

EDITED CHIEFLY BY

PROFESSOR G. A. MACFARREN.

Zephyr taking thy repose (S.A.T.B.)	...	G. A. Macfarren.	2d.
As the moments roll (A.T.T.B.)	...	G. A. Macfarren.	Webbe. 1d.
A little farm well tilled (T.T.B.)	"	"	J. Hook. 1d.
Come on, jolly hearts (T.T.B.)	"	"	Dr. Hayes. 1d.
Lass of Richmond Hill (S.A.T.B.)	"	"	J. Hook. 2d.
Dame Durden (S.A.T.B.)	"	"	" 1d.
Three merry chafers (T.T.B.B.)	"	"	Truhn. 1d.
Soldier's love (T.T.B.B.)	"	"	Kücken. 1d.
In the wood (Am Walde) (T.T.B.B.)	"	"	Kücken. 1d.
Good night (S.A.T.B.)	Cooke. 2d.
The Lost (S.A.T.B.)	W. Spinney. 2d.
Spring (Trio for Female Voices)	E. H. Thorne. 4d.
Ave Maria (Latin words)	Edwin Evans. 4d.

Lord, for Thy tender mercies sake (with new Organ Accomp. by G. A. Macfarren)	Farrant. 1d.
God is gone up with a merry noise (with new Organ Accomp. by G. A. Macfarren)	Dr. Croft. 3d.
O praise God in His Holiness (with new Organ Accomp. by G. A. Macfarren)	Weldon. 1d.
Choral Graces (S.A.T.B.) [before and after meals]	Dr. Dykes. 2d.

ORDER PROFESSOR MACFARREN'S EDITIONS.

HOLLIS and Co., PIANOFORTE AND MUSIC WAREHOUSE,
63, EBURY STREET, LONDON, S.W.

Second Edition.—Reduced Prices.

CHORAL SONGS FOR SCHOOL & HOME.

FORTY-TWO ORIGINAL SONGS

FOR

ONE, TWO, OR FOUR VOICES.

COMPOSED BY ROBERT JACKSON.

Cloth, complete, 3s.; Parts I. and II., paper cover, 1s. each; Single Numbers, 1d. Specimen copy with list, 1d., and estimates may be had from the Composer, 23, Barker Street, Oldham.

From Concordia.

"This little book is designed for singing-classes in schools, and the simplicity, tunefulness, and attractiveness of the small compositions it contains eminently adapt it for such a purpose."

From the above Work, One Penny each.

PART-SONGS FOR CHRISTMAS.

THE DEATH OF THE OLD YEAR.	RING OUT, WILD BELLS.
THE SKATER'S SONG.	A SONG OF THE SEASON.
BE MERRY, ALL.	THE HOLLY.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PARTINGS (Volkslied), by MENDELSSOHN.
Op. 47, No. 4. Arranged for a Chorus of Men's Voices, by Sir Herbert Oakeley. Octavo, 2d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, &c.

Just Published.

NEW PART-SONGS, MADRIGALS, &c.,

BY

R. L. PEARSALL.

COLLEGIATE SERIES.

No.
68.	Part-Song	... A lad and lassie. S.A.T.B.	2d.
70.	Part-Song	... True love, to-day I must away	2d.
64.	Madrigal	... When old King Cole	3d.
64.	Madrigal	... My bonnie lass, she smileth	3d.
67.	Glee	... Glorious Apollo	2d.
73.	Part-Song	... Was there not a look of fondness	2d.
73.	Part-Song	... Robin Hood	3d.
65.	Glee	... King Charles	3d.
72.	Part-Song	... My mother loves me not	3d.
69.	Part-Song	... Spring brings flow'rets fair	2d.
71.	Part-Song	... 'Twas a trumpet's pealing sound	3d.
52.	Ballad Dialogue	... Who kill'd Cock Robin?	... 8th Edition	3d.
(Folio, illustrated, 3s.)
50.	Part-Song	... Brave Lord Willoughby	... 5th	3d.
25.	Madrigal	... Here on the waters	... 4th	4d.
53.	Part-Song	... Her eyes the glow-worm	... 3rd	3d.
4.	Student's Song	... The three friends. S.A.T.B.	... 4th	3d.
5.	Student's Song	... " " T.T.B.B.	... 4th	3d.
60.	Madrigal	... Down by a river straying	... 2nd	4d.
61.	Madrigal	... Hie away! o'er bank and brae	... 2nd	4d.
58.	Glee	... Flow, limpid stream. A.T.B.B.	3d.
51.	Student's Song	... Gaudemus igitur	... 6th Edition	3d.
74.	Part-Song	... Springs she not as light as air	2d.
63.	Part-Song	... My enemies they do increase	3d.
62.	Part-Song	... 'Tis raining!	3d.
59.	Part-Song	... The Poacher's Song	3d.
56.	Market Chorus	... The Villagers (with Pianoforte, Flute, or Violin Accompaniment), Chorus of Peasants, Market Women, Swiss Jodel, &c.	4d.

DR. S. S. WESLEY.

3.	Part-Song	... The Mermaid. S.A.T.B.	... 3rd Edition	4d.
6.	Part-Song	... Arising from the deep. S.A.T.B.	... 2nd	4d.
2.	Chorus	... The praise of music (Double Choir).	2nd	4d.
18.	Anthem	... O how amiable!	... 3rd	4d.
19.	Anthem	... Wherewithal shall a young man.	... 2nd	4d.
40.	Anthem	... The Lord is my Shepherd	... 2nd	4d.
14.	Anthem	... Let us now praise famous men.	... 4th	4d.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

8.	Part-Song	... Swift the shades of eve	... 6th	3d.
12.	Part-Song	... The Vikings and the north wind.	... 3rd	3d.
10.	Part-Song	... The eagle	... 2nd	3d.
42.	Anthem	... O praise the Lord	3d.
43.	Anthem	... I waited patiently	3d.

DULCIANA.

13.	National Anth.	... God save the Queen	... 20th Edition	2d.
(With Organ Accompaniment.)
7.	Part-Song	... Auld lang syne	... 25th	3d.

SCHUMANN.

26.	Solo and Chorus	... Sleep on, in visions	... 4th	3d.
11.	Solo and Chorus	... Vesture pure and scatheless	... 3rd	3d.
29.	Trio (S.S.A.)	... Magna peccatrix	3d.
30.	Trio (S.S.A.A.)	... The midnight hags	3d.

J. P. KNIGHT.

1.	Madrigal	... Canst thou say me nay?	... 3rd Edition	3d.
----	----------	----------------------------	-----------------	-----	--

NEW BALLADS.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

THE CATHEDRAL CHOIR (with Chorus)					4s.
-----------------------------------	--	--	--	--	-----

R. L. PEARSALL.

DRUMMING AND FIFING					3s.
BRAVE LORD WILLOUGHBY					3s.
WHO KILL'D COCK ROBIN?					3s.

*Just Published.*CONSECUTIVE FIFTHS AND OCTAVES
IN COUNTERPOINT.

AN ESSAY, BY R. L. PEARSALL.

*Price 2s.; post free, 2s. 2d.*London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.
Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street, W.

C. JEFFERYS, 67, BERNERS ST.

The Choral Society.

A COLLECTION OF

PART-SONGS, GLEES,
CHORUSES, &c.,

EDITED BY

MICHAEL WATSON.

Price 2d. each.

No.			Composer.
41.	Hark! the swains are calling	James J. Monk.
40.	May Morn	T. M. Pattison.
39.	Oh, the gallant fisher's life	Theodore Distin.
38.	Spring-time	W. G. Marshall.
37.	Evening	Seymour Smith.
36.	A poor soul sat sighing	J. Meredith Ball.
35.	Ebbing and flowing	T. G. B. Halley.
34.	The Spirit of Music	W. F. Taylor.
33.	Welcome, lovely Spring	Michael Watson.
32.	The boatie rows	... Arranged by Michael Watson.
31.	How beautiful is night	F. Schira.
30.	The Rose of Allandale	Michael Watson.
29.	We meet again (for Female voices only)	Stephen Glover.
28.	Silent river (for Female voices only)	Michael Watson.
27.	Ode to Spring (for Female voices only)	J. H. Tully.
26.	Sunshine	T. G. B. Halley.
25.	Ave Maria	F. Schira.
24.	Daybreak	F. Schira.
23.	Yes, every flower that blows	M. F. Gordon.
22.	Haste, haste, and lightly tread (for Female voices only)	E. J. Loder.
21.	He loves and he rides away	Michael Watson.
20.	The little Church (Das Kirchlein) (for Mixed or Male voices)	V. E. Becker.
19.	Ye little Birds that sit and sing	G. A. Macfarren.
18.	My Love is fair as Summer morning	T. Distin.
17.	The Summer cloud	Odoardo Barri.
16.	Good-night to the day	T. G. B. Halley.
15.	The Arrow and the Song	J. F. Simpson.
14.	The Birdè that had left their song	G. A. Macfarren.
13.	County Guy	G. A. Macfarren.
12.	The Winds	C. J. Frost.
11.	Spring Song	J. L. Hatton.
10.	Bonnie May	J. H. L. Glover.
9.	The Forsaken	J. L. Hatton.
8.	I thought of thee	W. F. Banks.
7.	Good bye	J. L. Hatton.
6.	Moonlight	J. H. L. Glover.
5.	Fairy voices	T. G. B. Halley.
4.	The Winter being over	Ellen Avery.
3.	Where the pearly dewdrop falleth	E. J. Loder.
2.	Corin's Fate	R. Turner.
1.	'Tis silent eve	Michael Watson.

(To be continued.)

LONDON: C. JEFFERYS, 67, BERNERS STREET, W.

MY MUSICAL AND UNMUSICAL CAREER

FROM SIX YEARS OF AGE TO FIFTY, ADVANCING BY DEGREES ROUGH AND SMOOTH, AND IN MOVEMENTS ADAGIO, CHROMATIC, AND MODERATO; CONCLUDING WITH

A CODA OF

MUSICAL DEGREES,

POSITIVE, COMPARATIVE, AND SUPERLATIVE,

WARBLED (OR CROWED) BY A MUSICAL BIRD

OF THE

FOWL(E) SPECIES.

CONTENTS:

CHAP.

1. A new Bird fledged.
2. A Vacancy in the Nest.
3. A First Journey in Life—tied in behind.
4. A New Bird in prospectu at Box. Poor Pussy!
5. A Model Mother-in-Law.
6. The Queen's Coronation.
7. A Coming of Age—Great impressions.
8. An Eventful Year—The First Box of Matches—The Queen makes a Match of it too—The Penny Postage—A Great Murder.
9. A Family Farewell—Wonderful Goodness!
10. Fly Fishing—No end of sport.
11. Going-a-head.
12. Going Out into the World.
13. Very Green in a little Village called London.
14. To be Learned in the Law.
15. A Fill of Music—First Oratorio—Mendelssohn's Funeral—Jenny Lind Mania—A National Loss.
16. First Compositions—Exhibition of 1851—My Organ a Nuisance—Rejected Addresses.
17. The Great Duke's Last Battle—Requiem.

CHAP.

18. Change of Profession, and Musical Degree—A Musical Magazine.
19. Coming to Grief—A Crisis—Bird in the Cage.
20. Well on the Legs again—Great Sale of the First Volume of Original Anthems for Special Seasons ever published.
21. Taking a Partner for Life, or "taken in and done for" at a Public Execution.
22. A Great Subscription Work—Private Introduction to the Prince of Wales—"Not all Gold that Glitters"—Another Musical Magazine.
23. Coming to Grief Again—Another Crisis—Great Sympathy.
24. A Cruel and Atrocious Libel by a Printer—Award of Arbitrators.
25. Twelve Years' Production of Musical Works—Petition to the Premier for a Civil Service Pension—Great Jealousy, and Attack by Musicians with little Minds.
26. Musical Degrees: Positive, Comparative, and Superlative.
27. Wounded in many Battles—Hard Hit, but not Beaten.

EXPLANATION.

THE real object in publishing the above Memoir should be fully explained, or I might justly be accused of conceit in writing my own life. My meaning is plainly and simply as follows: A short time ago an attack was made upon me, and my musical degree, in the Musical Times, by an Organist in the City of London. All that took place will be given in this work. Forthwith I announced "A Treatise on Musical Degrees, English and Foreign," but ill health and other causes have prevented the publication. I now find, after testing the point by advertising, that no one will order the said Treatise, probably because the idea exists that it will be dry and uninteresting. But it is suggested that if I could combine with the said treatise some other matter that would be amusing as well as interesting (from being Truth and not Fiction), the work would sell by thousands. On this ground, and because I very much wish the "Treatise" to appear, I am induced to announce this work, and also because I have been grossly misrepresented in many ways, and naturally desire that much should be known that is now unknown. I may venture to assert, without conceit, that I believe the "ups and downs" of my rather eventful life, so far, will prove very interesting, and, in some respects, useful. The account will be written, where practicable, in an amusing and facetious style, and, which probably may be imagined from the title of the "Career" and the "Contents," as here given.

Price of the Work to Subscribers, 2s. 6d.; Non-subscribers, 5s.

The meaning "to Subscribers" is, those who order at once, or before publication. "Non-subscribers" are those who purchase after publication.

With the works produced the last twenty years I have requested that Subscription money should not be paid in advance; but in the present instance, it will save a great deal of trouble by doing so. In speaking of trouble, I will give an illustration of my meaning. When I produced my first book of Voluntaries, there were nearly 3,000 subscription copies ordered, and the letter-carrier came for about twelve days with a truck to take them to the Post-office. Now, when I state that every person required a receipt sent for his or her subscription, I think it will explain what is meant by trouble. But particular attention is desired to this point, namely, that in order to avoid the possibility of any person being a loser by the payment of 2s. 6d. in advance, in the event of unforeseen circumstances preventing the publication of the "Career," I will send to each and every one paying such sum, musical and literary compositions to the value of the sum so paid, and which need not be returned or paid for when the "Career" is received. This will be giving the work Gratis, and will show the bona fide character of the proceeding. Orders may be sent direct, or through any bookseller or musicseller in town or country.

A Stereo will be made of this page, so that separate copies can be had for circulation, and also of the three "Popular Columns" in Oct., Nov., and Dec. Musical Times, and special price lists sent.

I am now resident in London, and (by previous appointment) may be consulted on all musical matters, the revision, printing, and publishing of manuscripts, selection of instruments and music for country Choirs, which has been my special study for twenty years. (Third edition of the popular "Organist's March" now ready, 1s. 6d.; post free, 9d.)

Address Dr. FOWLE, at Mr. Pitman's, 20, Paternoster Row, London, E.C.

THE SERVICE OF PRAISE IN CHRISTIAN WORSHIP

WILL BE GREATLY FACILITATED BY USING

THE CHRISTIAN PSALMIST

A COLLECTION OF

Tunes, Chorales, Sanctuses, & Chants, for Public & Family Worship.

Eighth Thousand. Small 4to., 2s. 6d., limp cloth; 3s., cloth boards, red edges; 4s. 6d., extra boards, gilt edges, or roan limp. Also, in TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION, at 2s., 2s. 6d., and 4s.

THE CHRISTIAN PSALMIST, Part 2. Containing 100 Chants, Anthems, Sanctuses, &c. Limp cloth, 1s. 6d.; cloth boards, red edges, 2s.

THE CHRISTIAN PSALMIST. Parts I. and II., bound together, limp cloth, 3s. 6d.; cloth boards, red edges, 4s.; roan gilt, 5s.

WORDS EDITION, Pointed for Chanting. Cloth, price 8d.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"The printing and general appearance of the book are in good style, and the notation is clear and readable."—The Choir.

"The music is of a very high order; the printing is beautifully distinct; and the whole work is one likely to advance an object dear to so many Christian hearts—the service of united song around the family altar and in the courts of prayer."—Evening Hours.

"The value of a work such as this, which has been prepared with the utmost care and under the highest professional auspices, cannot be over-estimated; and when we add that it is equally adapted for public or family worship, we have said enough to recommend it to the notice of our readers."—Oxford Chronicle.

MUSIC FOR THE MILLION.

WORKS BY PHILIP PHILLIPS.

NINETY-FIFTH THOUSAND.

AMERICAN SACRED SONGSTER

A Selection of Sacred Music from the best American Composers, with suitable Words, designed for Home and Sunday School Use.

OLD NOTATION AND TONIC SOL-FA.

Limp cloth, 2s. 6d.; cloth boards, gilt, 4s.

TWENTY-SEVENTH THOUSAND.

SONG LIFE

FOR SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

Illustrating in Song the Journey of Christiana and her Children to the Celestial City, with Extracts from Bunyan. Illustrated by C. GRAY PARKER.

Limp cloth, 2s. 6d.; cloth boards, gilt, 4s.

TWENTY-SECOND THOUSAND.

THE SINGING ANNUAL

FOR SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

PARTS 1, 2, and 3.

A Collection of Sacred Pieces never before published.

Limp cloth, 8d. each.

FIFTEENTH THOUSAND.

SONG MINISTRY

PART I.

Containing the Songs sung by PHILIP PHILLIPS at his Evenings of Sacred Song. Arranged for a single voice, with Pianoforte Accompaniment.

BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED WITH CUTS AND ORNAMENTAL BORDERS.

Large 4to., paper covers, 1s. 4d. Parts 1 and 2, bound together, limp cloth, 2s. 8d.; cloth boards, gilt, 5s.

TEN HUNDRED AND THIRTIETH THOUSAND.

AMERICAN SACRED SONGSTER

A Selection of Sacred Hymns from the best American Composers, arranged for suitable Music designed for Home and Sunday School Use.

WORDS EDITION.

Paper covers, 2d.; limp cloth, 3d.

SIXTIETH THOUSAND.

SONG LIFE

FOR SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

Illustrating in Song the Journey of Christiana and her Children to the Celestial City, with Extracts from Bunyan. Illustrated by C. GRAY PARKER. Words Edition.

Paper covers, 2d.; limp cloth, 3d.

FOURTH THOUSAND.

THE VOICE OF SONG

MR. PHILLIPS' NEW WORK.

CONTAINING A HUNDRED SONGS,

Selected from the most recent American compositions.

Limp cloth, 2s.; cloth boards, gilt, 3s. 6d.

FIFTEENTH THOUSAND.

SONG MINISTRY

PART 2.

Containing the latest of Mr. PHILLIPS' Songs, as sung by him at his Evenings of Song, arranged with Pianoforte Accompaniment.

BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED WITH CUTS AND ORNAMENTAL BORDERS.

Large 4to., paper covers, 1s. 4d. Parts 1 and 2, bound together, limp cloth, 2s. 8d.; cloth boards, gilt, 5s.

SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION,

56, OLD BAILEY, LONDON, E.C.

Messrs. NOVELLO, EWER & CO. beg to announce that they have recently issued the following numbers in continuation of the Series of NOVELLO'S OCTAVO CHORUSES.

BACH'S PASSION (ST. MATTHEW).

No.		Pence.
360	Come, ye daughters ...	3
528	With Jesus I will watch ...	3
	{ My Saviour Jesus ...	3
334	{ Have lightnings and thunders ...	3
529	O man, thy heavy sin lament ...	3
530	Alas! now is my Saviour gone ...	2
336	Now doth the Lord ...	1
337	In tears of grief ...	1½
353	I wrestle and pray (Motett) ...	4
392	Be not afraid (Motett) ...	6
	Blessing glory (Motett) ...	6

BACH'S PASSION (ST. JOHN).

531	Lord, our Redeemer ...	3
532	Let us not divide ...	2
533	Beloved Saviour ...	2
	{ Rest here in peace ...	3
534	{ Lord Jesus, thy dear angel send ...	3

BACH'S CHRISTMAS ORATORIO.

535	Christians be joyful ...	3
536	Glory to God ...	2
537	Hear, King of Angels ...	1½
538	Come and thank Him ...	3
539	Glory be to God Almighty ...	3
540	Lord, when our haughty foes ...	3
541	Now vengeance hath been taken ...	1½

BARNEY'S REBEKAH.

626	Lo! day's golden glory ...	8
627	Who shall be fleetest ...	1½
628	Fear or doubting ...	3
629	Protect them, Almighty ...	6

BENEDICT'S ST. PETER.

610	They that go down to the sea ...	4
611	The Lord will not turn His face ...	3
612	The Lord be a lamp ...	1½
	{ It is a spirit ...	1½
613	{ Who would not fear Thee ...	1½
614	Praise ye the Lord ...	6
615	We have a law ...	1½
	{ This man was also with Him—
616	{ This is one of them...—	4
	{ Surely thou art also—They are all
	{ revolvers ...	2
617	This is a day of wrath...—	2
618	Thou that destroyed the Temple ...	3
619	{ He is worthy to die ...	4
	{ He will swallow up death ...	2
620	Fear thou not ...	2
621	Sing unto the Lord ...	2

BEETHOVEN'S MASS IN D.

344	Kyrie eleison ...	4
553	Gloria in excelsis ...	1s.
554	Credo ...	1s.
555	Sanctus and Benedictus ...	6
556	Agnus Dei ...	8

BEETHOVEN'S

RUINS OF ATHENS.

366	Daughter of high-throned Jove ...	1½
367	When thou didst frown ...	3
368	Twine ye the garlands ...	3
369	Susceptible hearts ...	2
370	Deign, great Apollo ...	3
371	Hail, mighty master, hail ...	3

CHERUBINI'S REQUIEM.

331	Introit—Requiem æternam—Give unto the pure in heart ...	2
557	{ Graduale—Requiem æternam ...	1½
	{ Give unto the humble ...	1½

CHERUBINI'S REQUIEM.—Continued.

No.		Pence.
332	Dies Iræ—Day of vengeance ...	6
558	{ Offertorium—Domine Jesu ...	8
	{ Lord Jesus Christ ...	8
559	Sanctus—Holy, Holy ...	1½
333	Pie Jesu—God of mercy ...	1
560	Agnus Dei—Lord Almighty ...	3

FARMER'S MASS IN B♭.

568	Kyrie eleison—Lord have mercy ...	3
569	Gloria in excelsis—Glory be to God ...	8
570	Credo—I believe in one God...—	8
571	Sanctus—Holy, Holy, Holy ...	2
572	Benedictus—Blessed is He ...	3
	{ Agnus Dei and Dona nobis ...	4
573	{ O Lamb of God and Grant us Thy
	{ peace ...	4

GADE'S THE ERL KING'S DAUGHTER.

647	Ateve, Sir Oluf reined ...	2
648	The sun now mounts ...	1½

GADE'S ZION.

649	Hear, O my flock ...	2
650	{ The departure from Egypt ...	3
	{ The Lord hath in Egypt ...	3
651	{ The captivity in Babylon ...	6
	{ But then his flock forsook ...	6
652	{ The return—Prophecy of the New
	{ Jerusalem ...	6
	{ Yet merciful and tender is the Lord

GADE'S CRUSADERS.

653	Flame-like the sand-waste glows ...	2
654	{ Crusader's Song (Shine, holy sun) ...	4
655	{ Father! from a distant land ...	4
656	Silent, creeping so light ...	2
657	The wave sweeps my breast (S.A.) ...	3
658	The welcome sun ...	2
659	Pilgrims' March ...	2
660	His head let each Crusader raise ...	6

GRAUN'S PASSION.

523	{ O Thou that wept for sorrow ...	2
	{ His spirit is faint ...	2
524	{ Whom have I, Lord ...	2
	{ Sadly bendeth earthward ...	2
525	{ Christ unto us hath left ...	3
	{ To utmost heights of faith ...	3
526	{ Sing and be joyful ...	2
	{ How glorious is the home above ...	2
527	Behold us here ...	2

GOUNOD'S MESSE SOLENNELLE.

561	Kyrie eleison ...	3
562	Gloria in excelsis ...	4
342	Credo ...	4
323	Sanctus and Benedictus ...	2
563	Agnus Dei ...	2

GOUNOD'S COMMUNION.

[MESSE SOLENNELLE.]

564	Kyrie eleison ...	3
565	Gloria in excelsis ...	4
566	Credo ...	4
325	Sanctus and Benedictus ...	2
567	Agnus Dei ...	2

HAYDN'S PASSION.

515	Father, forgive them—Lamb of God ...	3
516	Verily, I say unto thee—Lord have mercy ...	3
517	Woman, behold—Daughters, weep not ...	3
518	Eli, Eli—O my God ...	3
519	I thirst ...	3
520	It is finished ...	3
521	Into Thy hands ...	3
522	The Veil was rent ...	2

HILLER'S NALA AND DAMAYANTI.

No.		Pence.
601	Like the moon when silver streaming	(S.A.) 1½
602	See the Palm tree (S.A.) ...	2
603	Hail, fearful King ...	3
604	Let Heralds through all lands	(B. and Chorus) 2
605	Indra, who when day is bright'ning ...	2
606	Pow'rs above, receive our offering ...	3

HILLER'S SONG OF VICTORY.

596	The Lord great wonders ...	3
597	Praise, O Jerusalem ...	2
598	He in tears that soweth ...	1½
599	Praise ye the Lord ...	2
600	Praise the Lord ...	6

HUMMEL'S MASS IN B♭.

438	Kyrie eleison ...	2
439	Gloria in excelsis ...	6
440	Credo ...	6
441	Sanctus and Benedictus ...	4
442	Agnus Dei and Dona nobis ...	3

HUMMEL'S

COMMUNION SERVICE IN B♭.

443	Kyrie eleison ...	2
444	Gloria in excelsis ...	6
445	Credo ...	6
446	Sanctus and Benedictus ...	4
447	Agnus Dei and Dona nobis ...	3

HUMMEL'S MASS IN D.

448	Kyrie eleison ...	2
449	Gloria in excelsis ...	6
450	Credo ...	6
451	Sanctus and Benedictus ...	4
452	Agnus Dei and Dona nobis ...	3

HUMMEL'S

COMMUNION SERVICE IN D.

453	Kyrie eleison ...	2
454	Gloria in excelsis ...	6
455	Credo ...	6
456	Sanctus and Benedictus ...	4
457	Agnus Dei and Dona nobis ...	3

303	Quod in orbe—I will exalt Thee ...	4
-----	------------------------------------	---

MENDELSSOHN'S

MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM.

640	You spotted snakes ...	4
641	Through the house ...	3

MENDELSSOHN'S 95TH PSALM.

646	For His is the sea ...	4
-----	------------------------	---

MENDELSSOHN'S LAUDA SION.

[PRAISE JEHOVAH.]

630	Praise Jehovah ...	4
631	By His care ...	2
632	Sing of judgment ...	2
633	Ye who from His ways ...	3
634	They that in much tribulation ...	2
635	Save the people ...	6

MENDELSSOHN'S ATHALIE.

636	Heaven and the earth display ...	8
637	Ever blessed child rejoice ...	3
638	Lord, let us hear Thy voice ...	2
335	Hearts feel that love Thee (Trio and
	Chorus) ...	3
	{ Promised joys ...	(Chorus) 3
343	{ Hearts feel that love thee ...	6
	{ (Trio and Chorus) ...	6
639	Depart, ye sons of Aaron ...	2

NEW NUMBERS OF OCTAVO CHORUSES.—Continued.

MACFARREN'S MAY-DAY.

No.		Pence.
607	Who shall be Queen ...	4
608	The Hunt's up ...	3
609	Lads and lasses hasten all ...	6

SCHUBERT'S MASS IN E♭.

497	Kyrie eleison ...	4
498	Gloria in excelsis ...	18.
499	Credo ...	18.
500	Sanctus ...	2
501	Benedictus ...	4
502	Agnus Dei ...	6

SCHUBERT'S MASS IN A♭.

503	Kyrie eleison ...	2
504	Gloria in excelsis ...	8
505	Credo ...	6
506	Sanctus ...	2
507	Benedictus ...	3
508	Agnus Dei ...	3

SCHUBERT'S MASS IN C.

458	Kyrie eleison ...	2
459	Gloria in excelsis ...	3
460	Credo ...	3
461	Sanctus and Benedictus ...	2
462	Agnus Dei and Dona nobis ...	2

SCHUBERT'S

COMMUNION SERVICE IN C.

463	Kyrie eleison ...	2
464	Gloria in excelsis ...	3
465	Credo ...	3
466	Sanctus and Benedictus ...	2
467	Agnus Dei and Dona nobis ...	2

SCHUBERT'S MASS IN G.

468	Kyrie eleison ...	2
469	Gloria in excelsis ...	3
470	Credo ...	3
471	Sanctus and Benedictus ...	4
472	Agnus Dei and Dona nobis ...	2

SCHUBERT'S

COMMUNION SERVICE IN G.

473	Kyrie eleison ...	2
474	Gloria in excelsis ...	3
475	Credo ...	3
476	Sanctus and Benedictus ...	4
477	Agnus Dei and Dona nobis ...	2

SCHUBERT'S MASS IN F.

477	Kyrie eleison ...	2
478	Gloria in excelsis ...	8
479	Credo ...	4
480	Sanctus ...	1½
481	Agnus Dei ...	3

SCHUBERT'S

COMMUNION SERVICE IN F.

482	Kyrie eleison ...	2
483	Gloria in excelsis ...	8
484	Credo ...	4
485	Sanctus ...	1½
486	Agnus Dei ...	3

SCHUBERT'S MASS IN E♭.

487	Kyrie eleison ...	2
488	Gloria in excelsis ...	6
489	Credo ...	3
490	Sanctus ...	1
491	Agnus Dei ...	2

SCHUBERT'S

COMMUNION SERVICE IN E♭.

No.		Pence.
492	Kyrie eleison ...	2
493	Gloria in excelsis ...	6
494	Credo ...	3
495	Sanctus ...	1
496	Agnus Dei ...	2

SCHUBERT'S

COMMUNION SERVICE IN A♭.

509	Kyrie eleison ...	2
510	Gloria in excelsis ...	8
511	Credo ...	6
512	Sanctus ...	2
513	Benedictus ...	3
514	Agnus Dei ...	3

SCHUMANN'S

PILGRIMAGE OF THE ROSE.

574	Of loving will the token ...	1½
575	In dancing we spend the sweet night ...	1½
576	Leaves fall from the trees ...	2
577	Sister dear ...	1½
578	In the thick wood ...	2
579	Why sounds the horn so gaily ...	3
580	Rosebud, seek not thy flow'ry land ...	2

SCHUMANN'S FAUST.

580	Scene in the Cathedral ...	4
581	Woods crown with trembling hold ...	1½
582	A noble ray of spirit life ...	6
583	Thou, O purest, holiest ...	1½
584	Chorus mysticus ...	10

SCHUMANN'S MANFRED.

585	Hail to our master ...	2
586	Requiem ...	1½

SCHUMANN'S

PARADISE AND THE PERI.

587	But crimson now her rivers ran ...	2
588	Woe, for false flew the shaft ...	1½
589	The Peri marked where he was lying ...	6
590	Come forth from the waters ...	3
591	For there's a magic in each tear ...	1½
592	Sleep on in visions ...	2
593	Wreath ye the steps (S.S.A.A.) ...	1½
594	Say, is it so (S.A.A.A.) ...	2
595	O blessed tears ...	2

SMART'S

BRIDE OF DUNKERRON.

622	The wine-cup is dry ...	1½
623	Down through the deep ...	3
624	Hail to thee, child of the earth ...	3
625	The dark storm is passed ...	2

SPOHR'S FALL OF BABYLON.

340	Haughty Babylon ...	3
415	God of our fathers ...	2
416	The lion roused from slumber ...	3
417	Raise aloft the Persian banner ...	1½
418	Lord, before Thy footstool bending ...	3
419	Come down, and in the dust ...	3
420	Haste to the banquet ...	2
421	O mighty Bel ...	3
422	Haste, then, haste ...	3
423	Shout aloud ...	3
424	Lord, Thy arm hath been uplifted ...	2
425	Give thanks unto God ...	4

SPOHR'S CALVARY.

354	Gentle night, O descend ...	2
355	Though all thy friends prove faithless ...	2
425	O Thou Eternal God ...	3
426	Shame! shame! shame! ...	3
427	Woe! woe! woe! ...	3
428	Upon us be His blood ...	3
429	Oh, look not down ...	2
430	King of Israel! all hail! ...	2
431	All merciful God ...	2
356	His earthly race is run ...	2
339	What threatening tempest ...	4
431	He was the Christ ...	2
432	Beloved Lord ...	2

SPOHR'S CHRISTIAN'S PRAYER.

No.		Pence.
432	In Heaven, oh, Jehovah ...	2
433	Thy boundless grace ...	3
434	All-gracious Father ...	2
435	O may Thy will be done ...	1
436	O clothe Thy valleys ...	1½
437	O Lord! by heaven's bright armies ...	4
438	Thee, Lord, Thy creatures own ...	4
439	For Thou art Lord ...	4

350	Jehovah, Lord God of Hosts (8th Ps.)	4
-----	--------------------------------------	---

A. SULLIVAN.

357	Domine salvam fac (Festival Te Deum)	4
-----	--------------------------------------	---

VAN BREE'S

ST. CECILIA'S DAY.

542	Breathe within this quiet vale ...	4
543	Brooks shall murmur ...	2
544	Youth and love ...	2
545	Rise and break the chains ...	2
546	Vales may suit the charms ...	2
547	Fragrant odours ...	1½
548	Give way now to pleasure ...	4
549	Holy music ...	4

WEBER'S MASS IN E♭.

642	Kyrie—Merciful and gracious Lord	3
643	Gloria—Glory be unto God	4
644	Credo—Praise the Lord	4
322	Sanctus—Holy, holy, holy	4
323	Benedictus—He is blessed	4
645	Agnus Dei and Dona nobis	2
646	Lord, we pray Thee	2

HANDEL.

395	A virtuous wife ...	Susanna	2
373	All empires upon God	Belshazzar	2
382	All power in Heaven above	Theodora	2
403	All the earth	Chandos Te Deum	3
379	And draw a blessing down	Theodora	2
372	Behold, by Persia's hero	Belshazzar	2
377	Bel boweth down ...	"	1½
384	Blest be the hand ...	Theodora	2
394	Blessed be the day ...	Susanna	1½
381	Come, mighty Father	Theodora	2
552	Crown with festal pomp	Hercules	2
409	Day by day	Chandos Te Deum	3
380	For ever thus stands fixed	Theodora	2
414	Glory be to the Father	Ut. Jubilate	4
400	He comes ...	Esther	4
385	How strange their ends	Theodora	2
387	How long, O Lord	Susanna	1½
393	Impartial Heaven	"	2
551	Jealousy ...	Hercules	2
390	Let justice reign	Susanna	2
550	Let none despair	Hercules	2
412	O be joyful	Utrecht Jubilate	3
413	Serve the Lord with gladness	"	3
411	O go your way into his gates	"	2
376	O Lord, in Thee	Chandos Te Deum	6
386	Oh, glorious Prince	Belshazzar	2
391	Oh, love Divine	Theodora	2
391	Oh, Joachim, thy wedded truth	"	2
374	Recall, O King	Belshazzar	1½
389	Righteous Heaven	Susanna	4
396	Shall we the God of Israel fear?	"	2
378	Shall we of servitude complain?	"	1½
397	Tell it out among	Belshazzar	4
392	The cause is decided	Susanna	2
401	The Lord our enemy has slain	Esther	18.
404	The glorious company of the	"	2
405	Apostles ...	Chandos Te Deum	3
406	Thou art the King of glory	"	3
407	Thou didst open the kingdom	"	2
408	Thou sittest at the right hand	"	4
375	To arms! to arms!	Belshazzar	3
383	Venus laughing	Theodora	1½
388	Virtue shall never long be oppressed	"	2
399	Virtue, truth, and innocence	Esther	2
410	Vouchsafe, O Lord	Chandos Te Deum	1½
408	We believe that Thou shalt come	"	2
402	We praise Thee, O God!	"	2
398	Ye sons of Israel, mourn	Esther	1½

THE ORGANOPHONE
Système—DEBAIN.

PRICES:

2½ SETS OF VIBRATORS, 13 REGISTERS—

Oak, 34 Guineas; Rosewood, 38 Guineas; Walnut, 40 Guineas.

PRICES:

4½ SETS OF VIBRATORS, 2 KNEE ACTIONS, 17 REGISTERS—
Oak, 53 Guineas; Rosewood, 57 Guineas; Walnut, 60 Guineas.

PRICES:

6 SETS OF VIBRATORS, 2 KNEE ACTIONS, 23 REGISTERS—
Oak, 92 Guineas; Rosewood, 100 Guineas; Walnut, 105 Guineas.

Well adapted for Private use, or for small public buildings, where the cost of a pipe Organ would be too great.

The LEADING FEATURES of the ORGANOPHONE are:—

- 1ST.—Melodious quality and distinct variety of tone produced by each set of Vibrators; and, in combination, the close imitation of the brilliant and broad effects rendered by a well-balanced Organ.
- 2ND.—Vocal Expression, Accent, &c., as obtained from the Harmonium, and perfect intonation under varying densities of wind.
- 3RD.—Convenient arrangement of the Registers (or stops), which are "Centered" (instead of "Draw"), and placed in a Moulding in front of the Keyboard, so as to be readily actuated during performance by either of the disengaged digitals. In the larger Models the two Knee Actions (one each bass and treble) contribute valuable assistance to the performer in combinations, prompt tutti passages, &c.
- 4TH.—Facility with which any portion of the interior may be exposed for the purpose of tuning, regulating, &c.
- 5TH.—Extreme simplicity of construction, and non-liability to derangement from either the effects of climate or transport. The case is made of the best seasoned material, and, to prevent warping, &c., the Models in Rosewood and Walnut are veneered both inside and out.

DEBAIN & CO.,

FOURNISSEURS (BY BREVETÉ) TO ALL THE COURTS OF EUROPE, 357, OXFORD STREET, LONDON.

For Harmoniums, Pianos, Pianos-Mécaniques, &c., apply for Special Lists.

THE STEINWAY PIANOFORTES
(STEINWAY HALL, NEW YORK).

The Drawing given above will, it is hoped, afford to Professors of music and intelligent Amateurs some notion of the genius and skill of MESSRS. STEINWAY AND SONS, and indicate to some extent the nature of the inventions and improvements in construction wherewith they have completely revolutionised the modern Pianoforte, and infinitely enhanced its capabilities and resources.

It will be recollected that the supremacy of the Steinway Instruments throughout the entire pianoforte manufacture rests upon a twofold title—first, as being, longo intervallo, the GREATEST PIANOFORTES IN THE WORLD; and secondly, as the sources of all the scientific improvements introduced into European Pianofortes within the past quarter of a century. Every maker, without exception, whether in Europe or America, whose pianofortes exhibit any marks of scientific progress within the period indicated—the most fertile in every form of applied science—has derived them from the Steinway Instruments; and, conversely, every maker who has not empirically copied the Steinway Pianofortes has made no important improvement in his instruments, but remains the mere reproducer of the imperfect and antiquated types of pianoforte construction belonging to a past generation.

It has unhappily become necessary to issue a CAUTION in respect to the numerous FORGERIES and IMITATIONS of the Steinway Pianofortes produced in Germany and France, and imported into England by unscrupulous dealers both in London and in the provinces; and to advise Professors of Music that the Steinway Pianofortes are wholly manufactured in the United States, every portion of each instrument—from the mixing of the ores and the casting of the massive steel frame-work to the forging of the smallest screw—being completed in the factories and foundries of Messrs. Steinway and Sons in and about New York, nor have the firm any manufacturing operations whatsoever in any part of the Continent of Europe. The statements sometimes put in circulation as to their iron frames being sent to Continental makers, or in respect to manufacturing operations being carried on in Germany by members of the Steinway family, are impudent falsehoods.

TYPICAL EXTRACTS.

"Your unrivalled grand pianos are certainly the most perfect instruments I have met with, especially your latest achievement, the Centennial Grand Piano. Their volume of tone is simply marvellous, and at the same time of truly musical and poetic quality, which never changes its noble character under either the most delicate or the most powerful touch: with an action of the most unerring precision, power, elasticity, and unequalled durability under the severest trials."—Madame Arabella Goddard.

"I am amazed at the prolonged vibration of its tone, by which the instrument becomes somewhat organ-like, by the lightness and delicacy of the touch (considering its great volume of tone), and by the precise and perfect cessation of the tone which the dampers effect—an element so essential to distinctness in playing. The perceptibility of the bass tone is much improved by the use of the long scale of the strings, as it is evident that in ordinary pianos the short and too-heavily weighted strings produce unharmonious secondary tones, the musical intervals become indistinct, and the quality decidedly smothered. With such a perfect instrument as yours placed before me, I must modify many of my former expressed views regarding pianos."—Helmholtz.

"Their tone is marvellously grand, of exquisite poetic and sympathetic quality, which was to me a perfect revelation when trying the Steinway Piano for the first time; and it is just this thoroughly musical quality of tone, invariably characterising your pianos, which grows both upon hearer and player, that a cultivated musical ear will prefer the tone of your pianos to all others. The touch is simply perfect—elastic, pliable, and promptly responding to all and every demand made by the pianist."—Miss Marie Krebs.

"Not only by his absence does Steinway shine in Vienna, but also in a more real manner—viz., by his influence upon the entire European manufacture. His overstring system is now so universally adopted that we not only find the majority of the German and Austrian pianos constructed after Steinway, but also those of Spain, Italy, Sweden, and Russia. It is, indeed, impossible to speak in detail of the pianos in our exhibition without referring to Steinway, and if we cannot show any genuine Steinway pianos to strangers visiting the Exhibition, we can answer the stereotyped question, 'Where is Steinway?' by replying, Hic et ubique—everywhere, in the pianos from all quarters of the globe."

—Dr. Edward Hanslick.

CENTRAL DEPOT FOR GREAT BRITAIN.

28, BAKER STREET, PORTMAN SQUARE, LONDON, W.

GOLD MEDALS,

1827, 1834, 1839, 1844.

PRIZE MEDAL,

1862.

MEDAILLE D'HONNEUR,

1855.

HORS DE CONCOURS,

1849, 1867,

1873.

IN

ELEGANT

BLACK WOOD,

BLACK AND GOLD,

AND

Black & Inlaid Cases

ALSO

ROSEWOOD & WALNUT.

THE

BOUDOIR GRAND,

Trichord throughout, Double Escapement
Action, complete Iron Frame with solid Bronze Wrest Plank,

95 Gs., also at 85 Gs.

I. BERROW & CO.,

SOLE AGENTS FOR GREAT BRITAIN AND THE COLONIES, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

PLEYEL, WOLFF & CO.'S PIANOS

THE MUSICAL TIMES

N^o

408

THE MUSICAL TIMES.—FEBRUARY 1, 1877.

ARTHUR ALLISON, HARMONIUM & AMERICAN ORGAN MANUFACTURER.

AGENTS WANTED WHERE NOT APPOINTED FOR
ARTHUR ALLISON'S CELEBRATED BROAD REED ORGAN,
NOTED FOR ITS PURITY AND FULLNESS OF TONE.

PRICES:

Ash, 8 Guineas; American Walnut
or Mahogany, 9 Guineas; Burr
Walnut or Rosewood, 10 Guineas.

ANGLO-AMERICAN ORGANS, from 10 Guineas.

HEIGHT, 2 FT. 7 IN.; LENGTH, 3 FT. 5 IN.; DEPTH, 1 FT. 3 IN.

HARMONIUMS, of all Sizes, with
1, 2, or 3 Manuals and Pedals,
made to Order.
Sole London Agent for Daves & Ramsden's
Patent Melody and Pedal Substitute Organs.
FULL ILLUSTRATED LISTS ON APPLICATION.

JOHN PARK'S SONGS. With INTRODUCTORY NOTICE by PRINCIPAL SHAIRP, LL.D. Leeds: A. Ramsden.

LONDON: ARTHUR ALLISON, 110, WARDOUR STREET, W.

THE ONLY COMPLETE EDITION.

MENDELSSOHN'S LIEDER OHNE WORTE.

Folio, handsomely bound in cloth gilt	12s.
Octavo, " " " " " "	6s.
" paper cover " " " " " "	4s.

THESE ARE THE ONLY EDITIONS CONTAINING THE 7th AND 8th BOOKS.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, BERNERS STREET (W.)

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

The Music Pages only are stereotyped; those persons who would possess the Musical Articles, Notices, Advertisements, &c., can only ensure doing so by taking the work as it appears.

No. 408.—Vol. 18.
Registered for transmission abroad.

FEBRUARY 1, 1877.

Price 3d.; Post free, 4d.
Annual Subscription, Postage free, 4s.

JOHN BRINSMEAD AND SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL
PIANOFORTES were AWARDED—
THE GRAND MEDAL OF HONOUR and DIPLOMA OF MERIT, Philadelphia, 1876.
THE GOLD MEDAL, Paris, 1870.
THE HIGHEST AWARD, THE GRAND DIPLOMA OF HONOUR, Paris, 1874.
LA MEDAILLE D'HONNEUR, Paris, 1867.
THE PRIZE MEDAL, London, 1862.
LE DIPLOME DE LA MENTION EXTRAORDINAIRE,
Netherlands International Exhibition, 1869, &c., &c.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' PATENT
PERFECT CHECK REPEATER ACTION PIANOS.
Patented 1862, 1868, 1871, and 1875, in GREAT BRITAIN, FRANCE, ITALY, PRUSSIA, AUSTRIA, BELGIUM, and AMERICA.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL
PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
SIR JULIUS BENEDICT. "This most ingenious and valuable invention cannot fail to meet with success."

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL
PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
SYDNEY SMITH. "The touch is absolute perfection."

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL
PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
BRINLEY RICHARDS. "A very clever and useful invention, and likely to be extensively adopted."

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON
GRAND PIANOS. Six feet six inches in length, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action. Price, 90 to 100 Guineas.
"The tone of the Grand now referred to possessed all the qualities that a good piano ought to have, and in touch and action was perfect. The sweet and silvery quality of the upper octaves was worthy of special admiration."—The Era.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL
IRON GRAND PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

"Sir Julius Benedict played his well-known composition, 'Where the Bee Sucks,' on one of Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons' Grand Pianos, with the recently patented improvements, which enabled him to produce the sustained tones with great variety of effect in the light and shade of tones, especially so when extreme delicacy of touch is required."—Court Journal.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON
GRAND PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
"Where all the pianos go to seems somewhat of a mystery, for a really good instrument will last a lifetime: and yet every year thousands are made by each of the great London manufacturers, while the numbers made by the 200 or more smaller firms must represent an enormous number in the course of each year. The improvements made in English pianos have caused this trade rapidly to increase, until one pianoforte manufactory after another has been built to supply the growing demand. One of the largest of these, lately erected by Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons, of Wigmore Street, covers nearly an acre of ground in the Grafton Road, Kentish Town, and is intended to accommodate 300 workmen. These works alone can supply 3,000 pianos annually, and there are at least three manufactories in London capable of making an equal number."—Illustrated London News.

*. ILLUSTRATED PRICE LISTS AND DESCRIPTIONS, WITH OPINIONS OF THE LONDON PRESS AND MUSICAL PROFESSION, FORWARDED POST FREE UPON APPLICATION.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' CONCERT
IRON GRAND PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

"Sir Julius Benedict, now seldom heard as a soloist, delighted the public once more by his arrangement of 'Where the Bee Sucks.' He played upon a new Patent Grand by Brinsmead, possessing a remarkably loud and clear tone."—Echo.

"The upright Iron Grand Piano, with sostenente sounding-board, the mechanism produces the obvious result of a fuller and richer tone."—Morning Advertiser.

"Every means are adopted to ensure the production of perfect instruments."—The Orchestra.

GILBERT L. BAUER'S Prize Medal Organ-voiced English HARMONIUMS. On the Three Years' System.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON
GRAND PIANOS. Six feet six inches in length, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action. Price, 90 to 115 Guineas.

"Admirable repetition, perfect sostenuto, and luscious tone of the instrument fully justified the performer's choice."—Sunday Times.

"Magnificent, grand, the air telling out with almost vocal clearness and sweetness to the bell-like treble arpeggio accompaniment, which contrasted excellently with the extraordinary power produced in the forte passages."—Illustrated Sporting and Dramatic News.

"An immense improvement in arpeggios. The rapid passages in the upper register, the beautiful flute-like tone, and quick and perfect repetition, were very effective."—Figaro.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL
PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

"The nearest approach to perfection of 'manual expression' yet attained."—Examiner.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL
PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

"A metal bridge of a peculiar form is used to produce the treble, and a much finer tone is produced than if a wooden bridge were used."—Morning Post.

"A perfect check, great power, and quick repetition."—Times of India.

"Produces a better quality of tone, greater durability, the new patent perfect repetition, with a check (never before attained), with the certainty of the instrument never blocking."—Land and Water.

"Beautiful, light, and elastic touch, and an instant repetition."—Globe.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL
PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

"The softest touch is sufficient to secure a reply, the touch and facility of repetition are really perfect."—Belgravia.

"The advantages fully justify the term 'Perfect' Check Repeater Action."—John Bull.

"The touch is very sure, light, and elastic."—Musical Times.

"This invention is simplicity itself."—The Queen.

"The latest and greatest improvements in the pianoforte."—City Press.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL
PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

On the Three Years' System.

"Receive the greatest approbation everywhere of musicians and manufacturers."—Standard.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL
PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action, from 31 to 250 Guineas. May be obtained of all the principal Musiciansellers.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' PIANOFORTES
GUARANTEED FOR FIVE YEARS.

JOHN BRINSMEAD AND SONS, 18, WIGMORE ST., LONDON, W.,
AND THE "BRINSMEAD WORKS," GRAFTON ROAD, KENTISH TOWN, N.W.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

- MDME. ELLEN GLANVILLE (Soprano).
20, Frithville Gardens, Uxbridge Road, Shepherd's Bush, W.
- MISS ANNETTE IVANOVA (Soprano).
For Concerts, &c., Brooklyn, Howard Road, South Norwood.
- MISS PAULINE EVISON (Soprano).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 57, Walmsley Street, Hull.
- MISS FLORENCE CLYDE (Soprano).
For Opera, Oratorio, and Concerts, 24, Waltherton Road, W.
- MISS ALMINA HALLOWELL (Soprano).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address Ripponden, near Halifax, Yorks.
- MISS ARTHUR (Soprano).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address Butterley House, Leeds.
- MRS. WARREN (Soprano).
Of Mr. C. Hallé's Concerts. For Oratorio or other Concerts, address 150, Radnor Street, Hulme, Manchester.
Lessons in Singing. References—C. Hallé, Esq., and E. Hecht, Esq.
- MRS. ALFRED J. SUTTON (Soprano).
Is open to engagements for Concerts and Oratorios.
54, Duchess Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.
- MISS M. B. CRICHTON (Soprano).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 2, Hallfield Place, Bradford.
- MISS ALICE BERTON (Contralto).
(Pupil of Signor Mazzoni.) 221, Jubilee Street, Mile End Road.
- MISS RUTH HARLOW (Contralto).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address Mr. E. Hermann, Athenæum, Manchester.
- MISS COYTE TURNER (Contralto).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 94, Rotherfield Street, Islington, N.
- MISS LOUISA BOWMONT (Contralto).
(Principal of the Church of the Holy Name, Manchester).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address 51, Mercer Street, Embden Street, Hulme.
- MADAME WHITAKER (Contralto).
Is at liberty for Oratorios or Ballad Concerts. Address 103, Bloomsbury, Birmingham.
- MISS JULIET SMITH (Contralto).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address care of J. F. Jones and Co., 44, Corporation Street, Manchester.
- MISS PATTI HARGREAVES (Contralto).
70, Crawford Street, Camp Road, Leeds.
- MISS EDITH CLELLAND (Contralto).
Address 51, Elizabeth Street, Cheetham, Manchester.
- MR. C. A. WHITE (Tenor).
(Of the Royal Academy of Music.)
For Concerts, &c., address 39, St. Thomas's Road, South Hackney, or to Mr. R. D'Oyley Carte, Craig's Court, Charing Cross.
- MR. WILLIAM DUMVILLE (Tenor).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address 14, Duke Street, Broughton, or Cathedral, Manchester.
- MR. VERNEY BINNS (Tenor).
(Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Sig. Ciro Pinsuti.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 6, New Bond Street, Halifax.
- W. A. HOWELLS (Tenor).
(Of the Royal Academy of Music.) For Concerts and Pupils, 8, Upper Barnsbury Street, Islington, N.
- MR. DUNCAN FINLAY (Tenor).
Opera, Oratorio, and Concert Party, 24, Waltherton Road, W.
- MR. D. DUXBURY (Tenor).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address Albemarle Terrace, Ashton-under-Lyne.
- MR. GREENHILL (Tenor).
For Concerts, Pupils, &c., 7, Alma Square, St. John's Wood.
- MR. ORLANDO CHRISTIAN (Baritone).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address 18, Adelaide Square, Windsor.
- MR. GRIMSBY JOPP, R.A.M. (Bass).
For Oratorios, Concerts, and Pupils, address 109, Downs Road, Clapton.
- MR. T. DODDS (Bass).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 7, Brunswick Terrace, Leeds.
- MR. A. MCCALL (Bass).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address Minster, York.
- MR. RICKARD (Bass).
(Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Signor Ciro Pinsuti.)
For Oratorios and Concerts, address King Cross, Halifax, Yorkshire.

MR. THORNTON WOOD (Bass)
(Of the Royal Albert Hall Concerts). For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 2, Hallfield Place, Bradford, Yorkshire.

MR. F. CECIL (Basso).
For Oratorios and Miscellaneous Concerts, and Opera, address Mr. Clelland, Cheetham, Manchester.

MR. WILLIAM W. MEADOWS (Pianist).
Address 39, Thurlow Place, South Kensington, S.W.

MR. W. OATES (Solo Flautist).
For Oratorios, Concerts, Festivals, &c., 10, Harrison Rd., Northampton

MR. J. SHARPE (Oboe Player).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 235 Lidgett Hill, Pudsey, nr. Leeds.
Bandmasters and others supplied with Triebert's and Morton's celebrated Oboes. Best Oboe Reeds, 2s. each; Staples Recaned, 1s. each.

MISS AGNES LARKCOM will return from Italy February 1st. All communications respecting engagements for Oratorios, Miscellaneous Concerts, &c., to be addressed 57, Charlotte Street, Portland Place, W.

MRS. OSGOOD requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Oratorios and Miscellaneous Concerts may be addressed to Mr. N. Vert, 54, New Bond Street, W.

ORATORIOS, CONCERTS, and PUPILS.—Mr. HENRY POPE (Basso) begs to announce his REMOVAL to 9, Malden Crescent, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

MR. CHARLES JOSEPH FROST begs to inform his pupils and friends that he has REMOVED to 73, Farleigh Road, Stoke Newington, N. Red tram-cars direct from Moorgate Street. Nearest station, Rectory Road.

MR. CHARLES JOSEPH FROST requires an ASSISTANT PUPIL. Address as above.

MR. HARPER, having relinquished his post as principal Trumpet and Cornet at the Royal Italian Opera, is at liberty to accept Engagements in town and country during the ensuing season. Address 25, Brecknock Crescent, N.W.

SOUTH LONDON MUSICAL TRAINING COLLEGE.—Private Lessons and Classes; Harmony and Composition by correspondence. Prospectus post free. Address Principal, College House, S. James's, Hatcham, S.E.

THE GUITAR.—MDME. SIDNEY PRATTEN, Teacher of this elegant instrument, is in Town for the Season. For Lessons and Concerts, address 22A, Dorset Street, Portman Square.

MUSICAL DEGREES and EXAMINATIONS.—J. W. HINTON, Mus. Doc., M.A., 40, Albany Street, N.W., prepares candidates for Mus. B. or Mus. D., of Oxford, Cambridge, or Dublin, in all branches they may require. Dr. H. continues to revise or orchestrate for composers. Harmony and Counterpoint by post if required.

TO ORGANISTS.—PRACTICE may be had on a good Organ. Two manuals, variety of stops, 2½ of pedals, and boudrons to CCC. Terms very moderate. Address E. Francis, Organist of St. James's, Prebent Square, 188, Upper Street, Islington.

A GENTLEMAN is desirous of giving LESSONS by post in HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT. References from present pupils, if desired. Terms very moderate. Address Magister, Musical Times Office, 1, Berners Street, London, W.

MR. JOHN HILES, 41, Aldridge Road Villas, W. (Author of the "Catechism of Harmony, Thorough-bass, and Modulation," "Hiles' Short Voluntaries," "Catechism for the Piano-forte Student," and several other important musical works), gives Lessons in Harmony, &c., by post.

MR. HUMPHREY J. STARK, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., S.C.F., undertakes to prepare candidates for Musical Examinations, and to give Lessons in Harmony and Composition by post. 7, Thurlow Terrace, Norwood Road, S.E.

TO STUDENTS.—The Organist of Ripon Cathedral Teaches HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT by Correspondence. For terms, address Edwin J. Crow, Mus. Bac., Cantab.

THE ORGANIST of St. John's Church, Caterham, has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL. He will receive a thorough Musical Education, &c. For particulars apply to C. J. Tugwell, Organist, Caterham.

ORGAN LESSONS and PRACTICE on a fine new Instrument, with 2 manuals, 15 stops, 2½ octaves of pedals, with Boudrons throughout. Terms moderate. Allen's Musical Instrument Warehouse, 17, Percy Street, Bedford Square, W. Lessons and Practice on other Instruments also.

ORGAN PRACTICE or INSTRUCTION.—Three Manuals, each of 56 notes, pedal organ, 30 notes, 17 effective stops, and blown by Lea's Automatic Hydraulic Engine. Terms, which are strictly inclusive, on application at Blennerhasset's Organ School and Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, Pentonville, W.C.

ORGAN STUDIO, 140 (late 166), STRAND (opposite the Gaiety).—LESSONS or PRACTICE (and at St. Michael's, Stockwell, S.W.) on fine two-manual C ORGANS (HILL and SON).—Full pedal compass.—W. VENNING SOUTH-GATE (Organist, St. Michael's, Stockwell), "the Strand Organ Studio," W.C. Est. 1867.

YORKSHIRE (ST. CECILIA) CONCERT PARTY. Miss Evison, Miss Kennedy, Mr. Nunns, Mr. Dodds. Mr. Shaw, Pianist. Address Mr. Dodds, 7, Brunswick Terrace, Leeds.

ESTABLISHED APRIL 1866.

THE ENGLISH GLEE UNION.

Mr. H. ASHTON, Mr. F. H. COZENS,
Mr. FOUNTAIN MEEN, Mr. ALBERT HUBBARD,

ASSISTED BY
Madame ASHTON.

For terms, &c., address H. Ashton, Secretary, Ivy House, Stamford Hill, London, N.

MR. STEDMAN'S CONCERT PARTY for Oratorio and Miscellaneous Concerts, Institutions, Evening Parties, Soirées, &c., &c.

PARTIES MADE UP FROM THE FOLLOWING EMINENT ARTISTS: Miss Annie Sinclair, Miss Sophie Ferrari, Miss Mary Davies, Miss Matilda Scott, Miss Marie Duval, Miss Jessie Royd, Mdm. Poole, Miss Annie Butterworth, Miss Dones, Miss Gill, Miss Ada Muriel, Mdm. Osborne Williams, Mr. Stedman, Mr. Alfred Kenningham, Mr. J. L. Wadmore, Mr. George Fox, Mr. Henry Pope, Mr. Thurlay Beale, Mr. King Hall, Mr. Henry Parker, &c., &c.

THE STANDARD QUARTETT—Messrs. Hodges, Stedman, Charles Beckett, and Thurlay Beale. For terms and particulars, address Mr. STEDMAN, 1, Berners Street, W.

ORATORIO AND CONCERT PARTY.—

Soprano, Miss Tomlinson (Pupil of R. S. Burton, Esq.); Contralto, Miss Alice Arnold (Royal Academy, London); Tenor, Mr. Chas. Blagbro' (Parish Church, Leeds); Bass, Mr. Thornton Wood (Royal Albert Hall Concerts, London). Conductor and Accompanist, Mr. R. S. Burton (Leeds).—For terms, &c., apply to Mr. Thornton Wood, 2, Halfeld Place, Bradford.

SOPRANO.—A Young Lady, of six years' experience in church music in a paid choir, seeks a RE-ENGAGEMENT. Address E.R.N., 13, Harpur Street, Queen Square, W.C.

TENOR.—RE-ENGAGEMENT REQUIRED in Church choir. Sunday duties. C., 9, Manchester St., King's Cross.

RE-ENGAGEMENT desired (in or near London), by an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER of several years' experience. Communicant. Excellent testimonials and references. Good Organ and Choral Service preferred. Is a pupil of Dr. G. A. Macfarren, and during the last eighteen months has been in Berlin, studying the higher branches of composition under Prof. Kiel. Will return to England in April. Address Organist, care of Rev. R. Bellson, 109, Königgrätzer Strasse, Berlin.

ORGANIST.—A Lady, thoroughly qualified, desires a post as ORGANIST, either in London or within 20 miles. Is an experienced, clever trainer. Excellent references. Address L., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—A Professional Gentleman requires a RE-ENGAGEMENT as above. Address H. J. Dean, 2, Blomfield Street, Finsbury, E.C.

ORGANIST (Deputy).—A Gentleman is open to RE-ENGAGEMENTS as Deputy. Town or country. Organist, 181, Fleet Street, E.C.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—An experienced Organist, who has been on the Continent for the last 24 years (Eng. Church, Rome and Dinan), desires a home engagement in or near a large town. Testimonials and references. Address Organist, Hôtel de la Poste, Dinan, Côtes du Nord, France.

ORGANIST, immediate.—Clarendon requires a post as above. Good testimonials. Clarendon, The Butts, Brentford, Middlesex.

ORGANIST.—A Lady desires a SITUATION. Good references from Clergy and Organist. Address Solo, Post Office, Nutfield, Red Hill, Surrey.

ORGANIST and CHOIRTRAINER.—A Lady of several years' experience DESIRES a SITUATION. Apply to W. Parrott, Esq., Organist, Magdalene College, Oxford.

CHOIRMASTER.—Mr. J. A. BIRCH, of the Chapel Royal, St. James's, wishes to undertake the Training of a Church Choir. Address Beulah Lodge, Dalling Road, Hammersmith.

TO ORGANISTS.—A Young Gentleman, holding an Organist's appointment (disengaged Sunday evenings) wishes to take Lessons, with constant opportunities of practising and deputising. Address, stating terms, A. T., 6, Godolphin Road, Goldhawk Road, Shepherd's Bush, W.

REQUIRED, by a Lady, a SITUATION as Organist in a church within 10 miles of London; W. or S.W. Has had 12 years' experience, and can conduct a choir of moderate pretensions. A large stipend not expected. Address, in first instance, L.N., 4, Ranelagh Villas Grove Park Gardens, Chiswick, W.

A GENTLEMAN wants a RE-ENGAGEMENT as ORGANIST. Address F. W. P., 63, St. Paul's Rd., Camden Sq.

A PIANOFORTE TUNER (22), having just learned the profession, SEEKS an ENGAGEMENT where he could further improve himself. Could assist in repairing Pianos and Harmoniums. Can also play. Address P. T., General Post Office, Bath.

SITUATION WANTED as PIANOFORTE REPAIRER and Occasional Tuner. Sixteen years' experience. Town or country. Three years' reference. Address Freeman, 61, Castle Road, Kentish Town.

WANTED immediately by a Young Lady, aged 17, a SITUATION in a Pianoforte and Music Warehouse. Is a good Pianist. Can teach. Has had experience in a Music Warehouse, and can be well recommended. Address, &c., "Mabel," Musical Library, 18, Palmerston Road, Southsea.

CARLISLE CATHEDRAL.—The PRECENTORSHIP in this Cathedral, lately advertised as vacant, has been filled up by the promotion to that office of the Assistant Minor Canon. A successor to the latter (a Graduate of Oxford or Cambridge) is consequently REQUIRED, at a salary of £180 a year. Applicants are requested to send as early as possible their testimonials (musical and others) to Silas Saul, Esq., Chapter Clerk, Carlisle, by whom all necessary information will be supplied.

SOLO BOY WANTED for Gloucester Cathedral. Must be thoroughly competent to take verses and lead. Special advantages offered. Board, lodging, and education. Apply, not later than February 10, to Charles H. Lloyd, M.A., Mus. Bac., Organist, Palace Yard, Gloucester.

LEADING BOYS WANTED, with good voices and experience, for S. Paul's, Chiswick. Two services on Sundays. Surplised Choir. Salary £10 each. Apply to W. E. Stevenson, Elgin Road, Croydon.

A LAY-CLERK (ALTO) WANTED for Bristol Cathedral. A Communicant. A good reader of cathedral music. Salary £60 per annum, with extras. Duties: Five days in the week, including Sunday; full rehearsal weekly, and whenever the Precentor calls one. Address Rev. Precentor Hey, St. Augustine's Gate, Bristol.

ALTO WANTED for a church at Paddington (a Communicant). Choral Service, Surplised Choir. Two Services on Sunday; Rehearsal on week-day. Must be able to read music at sight. Address Mus. Bac., Messrs. Novello.

WANTED, a BASS and TENOR, for a Church in the East of London. Tenor, £10; Bass, £8. Two Services on Sunday. One weekly Evening rehearsal. Anglican music. Communicants desired. Address, stating some references, containing one clerical, R. E., Sion College, London Wall.

CHOIRMEN WANTED for (voluntary) Surplised Choir, All Souls', Langham Road. Apply to Mr. Millas, after any of the Services, or on Tuesdays and Fridays, at 126, Great Portland Street, between 6.30 and 8.0 P.M.

WANTED, for the Voluntary Choir of St. Mary's, Haggerston, GENTLEMEN with good voices. Surplised choir, full cathedral service, Anglican music. Apply, by letter, to Mr. Charles Joseph Frost, 73, Farleigh Road, Stoke Newington, N.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for a country parish. Salary £40. Apply to Hon. and Rev. F. Dutton, Bibury Vicarage, Fairford.

ORGANIST WANTED, for East Hill Baptist Chapel, New Wandsworth. Salary £12 per annum. One able to train a singing class might add to his income. Apply, by letter, to T. P., 15, Park Road, St. John's Hill, New Wandsworth, S.W.

ORGANIST REQUIRED for Highgate Congregational Church. Two-manual organ, by Bishop and Son. Address, with copies of testimonials, &c., to J. H. Lloyd, Esq., Hillside, Jackson's Lane, Highgate, N.

WANTED, an ORGANIST, for the church of St. Nicholas, Harwich. A good Churchman. Salary £35 per annum. Address Rev. S. Farman, the Vicarage.

WANTED, an ORGANIST and CHOIR TEACHER for a country church. Salary £30. Address Rev. E. D. Wickham, Holmwood, Surrey.

WANTED, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, for S. John's Church, Mansfield. Population of the town, 12,000. Salary £40. Good income can be realised through private pupils by thoroughly competent man. Apply to the Rev. Canon Bartlet, S. John's Vicarage, Mansfield.

AN ORGANIST REQUIRED for St. Barnabas Church, Holloway. A good player and able to train a choir consisting of ladies and gentlemen. Service plain. Salary £30. Apply, by letter, to C. W., 40, Tollington Park, N.

ARTICLED PUPIL REQUIRED by the Organist and Director of the Choir of St. John the Divine, Kennington, S.

ORGANIST WANTED, at Easter, for St. Peter's Church, Bedford. Population of Bedford is 18,000. Salary £25. Apply to the Rector.

WANTED, immediately, a Gentleman ORGANIST for the Congregational Church, Brentwood. One capable of training a Choir. A resident preferred. Apply, stating salary, and furnishing testimonials, to W. Richardson, Brentwood.

WANTED an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Salary, £40 per annum. Address the Vicar, S. James' Vicarage, Devonport.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED for the Central Presbyterian Church, Hamilton, Canada. Salary 600 dollars (about £123 sterling). Fine new organ, driven by water power, having 3 manuals of the compass of 61 notes, and pedal of the compass of 30 notes. Pneumatic levers to Great Organ. Excellent opening for a first-class teacher of piano, organ, singing, &c. Apply by letter, with testimonials of character and ability, to Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London.

THE ORGANIST of S. John's, Torquay, has a VACANCY for a PROFESSIONAL PUPIL, who can be received into the advertiser's house. Daily Choral Services. Large four-manual Organ.—Address, Cleveland Villa, Torquay.

A YOUNG LADY will be given first-rate Music Lessons in return for help in keeping Music Classes in order. Apply, by letter, to J. C. 51, Manor Road, New Cross, S.E.

S. PATRICK'S, Cromwell Road.—An unpaid Orchestra is now being formed for the purpose of an Orchestral Service on Sunday afternoons, at the church. Competent executants who may wish to join are requested to apply to the Incumbent at 104, Earl's Court Road, S.W.

IRISH BAGPIPES.—Good performers on this instrument are requested to send their address to Mr. W. Carter, 23, Colville Square, London, W.

TO PIANOFORTE TUNERS and REPAIRERS.—WANTED, a respectable YOUNG MAN for a Pianoforte Warehouse in a fashionable town in the South of England. Address, stating age, qualifications, salary required, and references, to K. T., care of Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER.—WANTED an experienced Young Man as Tuner, &c., to reside in the house. Special advantages for learning the Organ, Pianoforte, &c., if desired. Address Messrs. Phipps and Co., Pianoforte and Music Rooms, Conservatoire of Music, Swansea.

PIANOFORTE TUNER, Regulator, and Repairer REQUIRED, for the North of England. Constant employment for a competent and steady man (none else need apply); one who can tune and repair harmoniums preferred. Apply, stating age, &c., with references, to F., the office of this paper.

COUNTER ASSISTANT WANTED for permanent engagement. Address, with particulars of age, salary, and experience, Harrison and Harrison, Birmingham.

TO ORGAN BUILDERS.—WANTED, first-class WORKMEN (inside hands). Apply to Mr. J. Porritt, Organ Builder, Leicester.

EAST LONDON ORGAN WORKS, 9, Burdett Road, Mile End, E.—E. CARDER is prepared to send Specifications for building Organs of very superior materials and workmanship. Alterations, rebuilding, and repairs. First-class workmen sent to all parts on very moderate terms. Tuning, &c. Second-hand ORGANS for SALE.

ORGANS for Church or Chamber, full, rich tone, from 35 guineas. ORGAN HARMONIUMS, with 1 or 2 manuals, full compass of pedals, from 25 to 54 guineas, invaluable for Teaching or Organ Practice. SPRAGUE'S Celebrated ORGAN-TONE HARMONIUMS, 6 guineas; best in the trade.—William Sprague, 7, Finsbury Pavement, London.

A. MONK'S 100-Guinea ORGANS, 2 CC Manuals, 16 stops. Bourdon pedal pipes, 10 stops. 200-guinea Organs, 2 manuals, 16 stops. 300-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 21 stops. 400-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 27 stops. Organs built to any design. Old Organs rebuilt. Additions, Repairs, Tunings, &c. Specifications and Estimates free. Sussex Terrace, King's Road, Camden Town, London.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications made out for Organs. Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing, and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. Willis, 29, Minorities, London.

STUTTGART HARMONIUM COMPANY.—LEOPOLD KAHN, Stuttgart, Germany.

Price Lists on application to ALPHONSE CARY, Sole Representative, 26, Fortress Terrace, Kentish Town, N.W.; close to Kentish Town Station. Inspection solicited.

BRASS, REED, STRING, and DRUM and FIFE BANDS, PIANOFORTES and HARMONIUMS, supplied at wholesale prices, at J. MOORE'S, Buxton Road, Huddersfield. Prices, with drawings of every instrument, post free. Music for any kind of band. Patronised by the army, navy, and rifle corps.

CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION.

NOTICE.

A PRIZE MEDAL of the FIRST RANK was awarded at Philadelphia, 1876, to

PELOUBET, PELTON & Co.,
NEW YORK,

FOR THE GENERAL EXCELLENCE OF THEIR

"STANDARD"
AMERICAN ORGANS.

PRICES, 12 TO 125 GUINEAS.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE to be had on application to

BARNETT SAMUEL & SON,

31, HOUNDSDITCH, E.C., & 32, WORSHIP STREET,
FINSBURY SQUARE,

Sole Agents for the United Kingdom and British Colonies.

A LIBERAL DISCOUNT ALLOWED TO THE TRADE.

LONDON AGENTS,

Messrs. MOUTRIE & SON,
PIANOFORTE SALOON,
55, BAKER STREET, LONDON, W.

MR. J. HAMILTON begs to inform Organists, Organ Students, and others that the Pedals and Action for attachment to Pianofortes manufactured by him can be inspected and ordered at the above address.

A set of Straight Pedals 30 notes (C to F), with action and printed instructions, "How to Attach," price £4 4s. Or Radiating and Concave Pedal Board, with action, price £5 5s.

TESTIMONIAL.

Accrington, August 2, 1876.
Dear Sir,—I enclose cheque for the pedals. I have put the Pedals fairly to the test and am fully satisfied with them; the Action is so light and simple that the touch of the Pianoforte does not suffer, and at the same time they are as effective as it is possible to get them.

Yours, &c.,

JAMES GREEN, Organist.

To Mr. J. Hamilton.

Orders accompanied with Cheque or P.O. Order will receive immediate attention. Send for prices to the Profession and Trade.

Address J. HAMILTON, 11, Brunswick Street, City Road, Bristol.

RUSSELL'S MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

CONCERTINAS, Harmoniums, Organ Accordions, Flutinas, Drums, Fifes, Flutes, Violins, Cornets, Saxhorns, Clarionets, Flageolets, Guitars, Banjos, Musical Boxes, Strings, &c. Self-Instruction Books. Instruments repaired or exchanged. Price Lists free. J. Russell, 158, Goswell Road, Clerkenwell, London.

T. R. WILLIS (established 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Music Strings, Wire, &c., Violins, Concertinas, &c. 29, Minorities, London. List for stamp.

VIOLINS.—The New Joseph Guarini Violin, recommended by Sivori, Leonard, and Remenji, is worthy the attention of all violinists seeking a violin made in accordance with the true art principles, as opposed to the vile imitative craft now so common. Price £7 10s. Sole agent, W. Hargreaves, 7, St. Ann Street, Manchester.

SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES.—150 by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, Allison, &c., from 4 guineas upwards. HARMONIUMS (New), from £5, in Walnut or Mahogany cases. Largest stock of Pianos and Harmoniums in London at Kelly and Co's, 11, Charles Street, Middlesex Hospital. Trade supplied.

DEAN'S CHEAP MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS. School Band Flutes from 3s. 6d.; 8-Key Concert Flutes, 25s.; Cornets in case, 30s.; Drums, Tambourines, Banjos, and every article in the trade. A good Violin, with Bow and Book, in case, 20s. English, Roman, and Acrobatic Violin Strings—5 best firsts, warranted to stand at concert pitch, sent free for 13 stamps. Price Lists sent free. Joseph Dean, Music Warehouse, 77, City Road, E.C.

VERTICAL IRON FRAME PIANOFORTES.— STRUNG UPON A SINGLE CASTING.

CHECK ACTION. Trichord to Covered Strings. Compensating for thermometric changes. Irreproachable stability of construction. Highly important to the Trade, especially in the Colonies.

Full particulars from the makers, PARKER & SMITH, Plymouth. Good Workmen Wanted. Constant employment. Expense of living 20 per cent. less than in London.

SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS.—New Model by Kaps, of Dresden.—This instrument is an improvement on the original Short Grand now so well known. The volume and brilliancy of tone is much increased; it has an unfailling repetition action, and will compare favourably with much larger and more costly instruments. May be purchased wholesale and retail or hired at the original Depot, 26, North Audley Street, W. Proprietor, C. E. FLAVELL.

TO CLERGYMEN, BANDMASTERS, MUSICIANS, and Bands now forming.—The best House in the Trade for serviceable Instruments, Cornets, Sax Horns, Drums, Flutes, &c. Large Illustrated Lists free.—THOMAS CAMPTON, Babbage, Hinkley.

TO BE SOLD, a large quantity of good second-hand CORNETS, SAX HORNS, &c., by most of the best London makers, at very moderate prices. Address as above.

RIVIERE and HAWKES, Music Publishers and Instrument Makers, 28, Leicester Square. VOCAL AND INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

Eight various Monthly Journals, for Reed and Brass Bands, Fife and Drum Bands, Bugle Bands, String Orchestra, Piano, &c. Instruction Books, Studies, Solos, Duos, &c., for every instrument.

A large assortment of Violins, Violas, Violoncellos, and Contrabasses, by the best makers. French and Italian Strings. Piccolos, Flageolets, Flutes, Oboes, Clarinettes, Bassoons, Saxophones, &c.

Five different classes of Brass Instruments. Trade mark of the very best Instruments, "EXCELSIOR." Side and Bass Drums, Tympani; also all kinds of Percussion or Fancy Instruments and Fittings of every sort.

Accordeons, Concertinas, and Harmoniiflutes. American, French, and English Pianofortes. Melodeons, Harmoniums, American Organs, &c. The largest assortment and the cheapest house in England.

RIVIERE and HAWKES are Sole Agents for PRINCE and Co.'s AMERICAN ORGANS and MELODEONS, price from £10 to £40.

In all competitions Prince and Co. have received the highest award both for purity of tone and excellence in finish and design.

The most perfect Organs ever manufactured for church, school, or home use.

RIVIERE and HAWKES, 28, Leicester Square, London. Illustrated catalogues free on application.

VIOLINS, TENORS, VIOLONCELLOS, and DOUBLE BASSES, by "Craske," equal to Stradivarius and Guarnerius.

Upwards of 500 of these splendid Instruments now on Sale at Edward Crompton's, 54, Barton Arcade, Deansgate, Manchester (3rd floor), many of which have been made 50 years. Also a large collection of Italian Instruments.

VIOLINS, VIOLAS, VIOLONCELLOS, &c.—JOHNSON HICKS, Dealer in, and careful Repairer of, "CREMONA" and other Violins, &c.—Brunswick House, Torquay, Devon.

J. B. CRAMER and CO.'S FRENCH POLISH REVIVER, invented by GEORGE WATTS, for cleaning and polishing furniture, pianos, and leather, of every description.

OPINIONS OF THE LONDON AND BRIGHTON PRESS.

"This is a really genuine article."—Times. "The brilliant and lasting polish obtained is surprising."—Guardian. "Very successful results have attended its application."—Daily News. "We have, therefore, much pleasure in recommending it to house-keepers as a really useful and valuable preparation."—The Queen. "Anyone can use Cramer's reviver with success."—The Orchestra.

Price 1s., 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d. per bottle. To be obtained of grocers and pianoforte dealers. Agents wanted.

Wholesale and retail agents—J. B. Cramer and Co., and Metzler and Co., London. Manufacturers—J. B. Cramer & Co., Brighton.

TO SELL MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS of every description, also Libraries of Music, Music Plates and Copyrights, Stock-in-Trade, &c., SALE (devoted exclusively to this class of property) held every month. Single instruments inserted. Consignments received at any time. Puttick and Simpson, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C. [Established 1794.]

ACCURATE METRONOMES, 1s., post free. Rudiments of Singing, 1s. per dozen. Singing Class Tutor, 12th ed., 6d. each. D. Schofield, Trinity Street, Huddersfield.

ORGAN WANTED.—A Good Second-hand Organ is wanted for a Church seating about 500. One with 2 manuals preferred. Price not to exceed £150. Address Thomas Wheeler, Esq., High Wycombe, Bucks.

WANTED, an ORGAN for a small church, new or second-hand. Cost not to exceed £300, when erected. Tenders and specifications to H. N. Pinnock, Withnell, near Chorley.

ORGAN for SALE; suitable for small church or chapel. Two manuals and bourdon pedals; 29 notes. Price £120. For full particulars address R.M.Z., Messrs. Deacons', 154, Leadenhall Street, E.C.

ORGAN for SALE.—The Organ lately used in St. Saviour's Church is now for sale, very cheap. Apply to Mark Beaufoy, Esq., South Lambeth Road, S.W.

ORGAN for immediate SALE.—Two manuals, 9 stops in great organ, 4 in swell, bourdon pedal, 1 coupler, 4 combination pedals. Apply, the Vicar, Wellingborough.

ORGAN for SALE, by Henry Willis; suitable for Church or Chamber. Three rows of keys, about 30 stops, (9 stops in swell), couplers, composition pedals, 24 octaves pedals, (Bourbons). Address, Mr. W. Viner, West Malling Church, Kent.

ORGANS.—Two-manual CC to G, 2 stops on each manual, 29 German pedals. Second-hand. Also one-manual CC to F, 5 stops. Second-hand. Apply to A. Hunter, Organ Builder, 379, Kennington Road.

FOR SALE, BROADWOOD GRAND, 6 octaves, in excellent condition; moderate length; metallic plate throughout. Price £8 8s. 9, Arlington Street, New North Road, Islington, N.

FOR SALE, a VIOLONCELLO, remarkably fine tone. Antonius Stradivarius. Formerly the property of Dean Hook, of Exeter. Price £50. May be viewed between 10 and 6 o'clock, at 278, Holloway Road, N.

SECOND-HAND BOEHM PICCOLO; Silver Keys. Warranted. Apply Z, The Musical Times.

WANTED, full Orchestral and Vocal Parts to "St. PAUL," "MESSIAH," or other standard oratorios. Apply, stating work and lowest price, to Hon. Sec., Philharmonic Society, Birstall, near Leeds.

STERNDALE BENNETT'S "MAY QUEEN."—WANTED, about Fifty Octavo copies. Apply to T. H. I Petherick, Ventnor, Isle of Wight.

FOR SALE.—A Large and Old Established MUSIC BUSINESS; with good Tuning Connection, which could be largely extended, being in a wealthy manufacturing district. Cause of disposal, recent death of the proprietor. Full particulars will be furnished by Mrs. Medina, Handel House, 36, Glebe Street, Stoke-on-Trent, Staffordshire.

TO BE DISPOSED OF, an Old Branch Establishment and MUSIC BUSINESS, with fine shop. Good connection. Pianofortes and general Music Stock, Lease, &c. Near Manchester. A rare opportunity for Teacher or Pianoforte Tuner. Small outlay. Address J. T., Messrs. Novello, Ewer, and Co., 1, Berners Street, London (W.).

P.S.—WANTED, sharp YOUTH, who is used to the Sheet Trade.

PRACTICE for SALE.—A Lady (R.A.M.), in the West of England, teaching Pianoforte and Singing, is desirous of Disposing of her Practice to an efficient party. A first-class connection. For terms apply to R. A., 14, Park Avenue, Manchester.

"A copyright may be a fortune."

MESSRS. H. G. HALLIFAX & CO., 315, Oxford Street, W., are called to ENGRAVE and PRINT AUTHORS' COPYRIGHT WORKS, and introduce them on MUTUAL TERMS. Send for Catalogue.

TO COMPOSERS wishing to PUBLISH.—Music Engraved, Printed, and Published in the best style at unusually low prices. Estimates free on receipt of MS.

SIMPSON and Co., 33, Argyll Street, Regent Street, London, W.

MUSIC ENGRAVED, PRINTED, AND PUBLISHED in the best style, and on moderate terms, a statement of which sent on application by B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest varied stock of Music in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day, or if in stock posted immediately if required. Terms highly advantageous.

London: B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row.

THROAT IRRITATION.—The throat and wind-pipe are especially liable to inflammation, causing soreness and dryness, tickling and irritation, inducing cough and affecting the voice. For these symptoms use glycerine in the form of jububes. Glycerine, in these agreeable confections, being in proximity to the glands at the moment they are excited by the act of sucking, becomes actively healing. Sold only in 6d. and 1s. boxes (by post for 14 stamps), labelled JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, 48, Threadneedle Street, and 170, Piccadilly.

12S. WORTH OF MUSIC for One Shilling, post free for fifteen stamps, soiled and surplus stock. James Smith and Son, 76, 74, and 72, Lord Street, Liverpool.

A MANUAL OF SINGING,

FOR THE USE OF CHOIR TRAINERS & SCHOOLMASTERS,

By RICHARD MANN.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

This work offers to the clergy and other amateur choir trainers a systematic and simple course of instruction, by which they may teach their pupils to read music at sight, in a comparatively short time.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

FORTY-THIRD EDITION.

Price 1s. A specimen copy post free for 12 stamps.

THE COLLEGIATE AND SCHOOL SIGHT-SINGING MANUAL.

FOR CHOIRS.—The easiest system that can be obtained for training, improving, and learning to read music at sight.

FOR SCHOOLS.—Every requisite for learning Music, and reading at sight in a few lessons.

FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.—The exercises will be found invaluable, tending to produce musical effects seldom heard.

APPENDIX.

Containing Exercises, Solfeggi, Canons, Anthems, &c.

Price One Shilling.

London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.; Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

Third Edition, 2s. 6d. net.

(COMPANION WORK TO THE ABOVE.)

COLLEGIATE VOCAL TUTOR.

Containing Treatise on Voice and Vocal Art, with Anatomical Illustrations of the Vocal Instrument.

London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.; Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

Eighth edition. Paper cover, 1s.; bound in cloth, 1s. 6d.

CATHEDRAL CHANT BOOK.

Containing nearly 200 Single and Double Chants; also the Gregorian Tones.

London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.; Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

NEW EDITION OF

DR. BENNETT GILBERT'S POPULAR WORK SCHOOL HARMONY.

"From intervals to counterpoint."

The Work is divided into 3 Parts, to suit the School Term, and concludes with a copious Examination Paper.

EVERY SUBJECT HAS ITS SPECIAL EXERCISES.

Price 1s. 6d. net.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.; and all Musicsellers.

Third Edition.

THEORY OF MUSIC

(A FIRST BOOK ON THE)

BY

LOUISA GIBSON.

DEDICATED, BY PERMISSION, TO

H.R.H. The Princess Louise, Marchioness of Lorne.

(Adopted in the South London Musical Training College, and in various High Schools in London and the Provinces.)

Price: Boards, 3s.; stiff paper, 2s., postage 2d.

London: Weekes and Co.; Novello and Co.; Whittaker and Co.; and of the Author, Seaton Terrace, Plymouth.

Second Edition, Enlarged.—Price Sixpence.

JORDRELL'S MANUAL OF SIGHT SINGING, on the Tonic or Movable Do System of Reading Old Notation Music. London: C. Jefferys, 67, Berners Street; John Jordrell, Withington, near Manchester; and through all Book and Musicsellers.

Now Ready. (Dedicated to College of Organists.)

ON TUNING THE ORGAN. Illustrated APPENDIX, containing faults in action with remedies, price 2s. 6d. P.O.O. to A. Hemstock, Diss.

BAKER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR.

Easy and very plain instructions. Adapted for Schools and General Teaching Purposes. London: B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row; or, post free, 3s., of G. Baker, Stamp Office Place, Wakefield.

THE ANGLICAN HYMN-BOOK.

NEW EDITION, REVISED AND ENLARGED.

1. Words and Music, in short score, foolscap 4to., cloth, price 6s.
2. Words and Music, in short score, super-royal 18mo., cloth, 2s. 6d.
3. Words and Treble Part (Tune), square 16mo., cloth, 1s. 6d.
4. Words only, 16mo., cloth, 1s.
5. Words only, 32mo., paper cover, 6d.; cloth, 8d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); Simpkin, Marshall and Co. Oxford and London: James Parker and Co.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK, containing 258

Tunes and 85 Chants.

- | | | |
|-----------------------|---|---------|
| No. 1. | Limp cloth, turned in | 2s. 6d. |
| " 2. | Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered | 3s. 6d. |
| TONIC SOL-FA EDITION. | | |
| " 3. | Limp cloth, turned in | 2s. 6d. |
| " 4. | Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered | 2s. 6d. |

About 250,000 copies have already been sold.

Now Ready,

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK (Second Series),

containing 298 Tunes and 74 Chants.

- | | | |
|-----------------------|---|---------|
| No. 5. | Limp cloth | 2s. 6d. |
| " 6. | Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered | 3s. 6d. |
| TONIC SOL-FA EDITION. | | |
| " 7. | Limp cloth | 2s. 6d. |
| " 8. | Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered | 2s. 6d. |

First and Second Series Bound together.

- | | | |
|--------|---|---------|
| No. 9. | Limp cloth | 4s. 6d. |
| " 10. | Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered | 6s. 6d. |
| " 12. | Tonic Sol-fa, cloth | 3s. 6d. |

Now Ready.

SMALL EDITION of the COMPLETE WORK.

715 Tunes and Chants, providing for nearly 200 Varieties of Metre.

- | | | |
|---------|--------------|---------|
| No. 11. | Cloth | 3s. 6d. |
|---------|--------------|---------|

Each Edition may be had in Superior Binding.

Communications and inquiries as to Copyrights, and also as to supplies of this work at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Compilers, at Clare Street, Bristol.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.; Bristol: W. and F. Morgan; and all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes, as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN; containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now Ready.

THE LONDON TUNE-BOOK. A Companion

for all Hymnals. Cloth, 3s.; red edges, 3s. 6d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

Now ready, in small quarto, 330 pages.

THE BURNLEY TUNE-BOOK, an entirely new Psalmody of 683 Tunes, Chants, Kyries, Glorias, Chant Te Deums, &c., nearly the whole of which are new and never before published. The collection of Chants and Kyries, as well as the Tunes, contains many beautiful compositions; and altogether the B. T. B. will be found one of the most useful, comprehensive, and interesting tune-books ever published.

Plain binding, 4s.; gilt lettered and red edges, 5s.

London: F. Pitman, Paternoster Row. Burnley: T. Simpson.

Eleventh Edition, Enlarged.

TUNES, NEW AND OLD; comprising all the Metres in the Wesleyan Hymn-Book. Also, Chants, Responses, and Doxologies. Compiled by JOHN DOBSON; and for the most part revised or re-arranged by HENRY JOHN GAUNTLETT, Mus. Doc.; JOHN FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., Oxon.; and SAMUEL REAY, Mus. Bac., Oxon. London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, and 80 and 81, Queen Street. Sold also at 66, Paternoster Row. Prices: plain cloth, 3s. 6d.; extra cloth, bevelled boards, red edges, 5s.

Now ready, Revised Edition, price 7s.

PARR'S CHURCH PSALMODY, containing 392 Tunes, 301 Chants, with Responses, &c.; in all 712 Compositions, with Memoirs of the Authors and Histories of the Pieces, giving a quantity of curious and authentic information nowhere else to be found. London: Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSIC PUPILS' REGISTER. By JACOB BRADFORD, Mus. B., Oxon. Invaluable to Music Professors and School Principals. Specimen copy, 12 stamps. Address Principal, South London Musical Training College, St. James's, Hatcham, S.E.

PARTINGS (Volkslied), by MENDELSSOHN. Op. 47, No. 4. Arranged for a Chorus of Men's Voices, by Sir Herbert Oakeley. Octavo, 2d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street.

WILHELMJ CONCERTS.

MR. THEODOR HERRMANN begs to announce that HERR WILHELMJ, the eminent Violinist, having just returned from the Continent, will commence a

GRAND CONCERT TOUR

(under his direction) through England, Scotland, and Ireland, on FEBRUARY 7th.

All letters, communications, &c., to be addressed to

HODGE AND ESSEX,

SOLE AGENTS IN THE UNITED KINGDOM FOR THE

"ESTEY" AMERICAN ORGANS AND STECK'S (NEW YORK)
IRON GRAND PIANOFORTES.

6 & 7, ARGYLL STREET, REGENT STREET, LONDON, W.

MUSICAL ASSOCIATION, 27, Harley Street, W.
—THIRD SESSION, 1876-77.—Third Monthly Meeting on MONDAY, 5th February. At 5 p.m. precisely a Paper will be read by JAMES HIGGS, Esq., Mus. Doc., Oxon., "On John Sebastian Bach's
'Art of Fugue.'"

CHARLES K. SALAMAN, Hon. Sec.

24, Sutherland Gardens, W.

SCHUBERT SOCIETY, Beethoven Rooms,
27, Harley Street, W.—President, Sir JULIUS BENEDICT.
Founder and Director, HERRSCHUBERTH.—Eleventh Season, 1877.
—Prospectus now ready. The Society affords excellent opportunity for rising Artists to make their first appearance in public. Prospectus and further particulars on application to H. G. Hopper, Hon. Sec.

LANGHAM HALL, 43, Great Portland Street.—
IN AID OF MRS. WELDON'S ORPHANAGE.—MONDAY EVENING, 9th April, 1877, at 8 p.m., Mr. CHARLES K. SALAMAN in the Chair, Mrs. Weldon's Thirty-second Sociable Evening,
"THE TWO PATHS," or "CONSERVATION" and "RESTORA-TION." * Mr. CHARLES LUNN will deliver a LECTURE on the above, illustrated by the Children from Mrs. Weldon's Orphanage.
Reserved Seats, 5s.; Unreserved, 2s. 6d.; Admission, 1s.

* This Essay, of which Mr. Charles Lunn has presented the copyright to the Orphanage, will be published, with additional remarks and an account of the Soirée, by the Music and Art Association, 39, Great Marlborough Street, Regent Street, London. Price 1s.

A TEXT BOOK OF HARMONY.

FOR THE USE OF SCHOOLS AND STUDENTS.

BY THE LATE CHARLES EDWARD HORSLEY.

Revised for the Press by W. H. Callcott & Westley Richards.

Small Post, 8vo., cloth. Price 3s. 6d. post free.

EXTRACT FROM PREFACE.

"If I succeed in placing before my readers a practicable, easy, and pleasing form of analysing the works of great musicians, and of enabling students to write down their ideas in a musically grammatical shape, the experience gained by twenty years of study, during thirty years of teaching, will not have been in vain."

PUBLISHED BY

SAMPSON LOW, MARSTON & CO., 181, FLEET STREET.

This Day, in 8vo., price 6s.
MUSICAL INTERVALS AND TEMPERAMENT.
AN ELEMENTARY TREATISE. With an Account of an Enharmonic Harmonium exhibited in the Loan Collection of Scientific Instruments, South Kensington, 1876; also, an Enharmonic Organ exhibited to the Musical Association of London, May 1875. By R. H. M. BOSANQUET, Fellow of St. John's College, Oxford.
Macmillan and Co., London.

WORKS by Sir F. A. GORE OUSELEY, Bart.,
Mus. Doc., Professor of Music in the University of Oxford.
ON HARMONY. Second Edition. 4to., 10s.
ON COUNTERPOINT, CANON, and FUGUE, based upon that of Cherubini. 4to., 16s.
ON FORM IN MUSIC, and GENERAL COMPOSITION.
4to., 12s.

"This book supplies a want long felt both by teachers and students.
We heartily recommend it as the best text-book in our language on the subject of which it treats."—Academy.

A MUSIC PRIMER FOR SCHOOLS.
By J. TROUTBECK, M.A., Music Master in Westminster School, and R. F. DALE, M.A., Mus. Bac., Assistant Master in Westminster School. New Edition. Extra, fcp. 8vo., 1s. 6d.

Oxford: Printed at the Clarendon Press and Published by Macmillan and Co., London, Publishers to the University.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

(PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EACH MONTH.)

Price Threepence.

Annual subscription, including postage, 4s.

Subscriptions will also be received by all Book and Musicsellers (not including postage), 3s.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	2 3
For every additional Line	0	0 9
Half a Column	1	15 0
A Column	3	5 0
A Page	6	6 0

A discount of 10 per cent. is allowed for twelve consecutive insertions.

It is respectfully requested that a remittance be sent with all Advertisements.

Advertisements for the March number should reach the Office not later than February 21. Those received after this date cannot be guaranteed insertion in their proper places, but will appear among the late Advertisements.

WORKS BY JOHN HULLAH, LL.D.,

Professor in Queen's College and in Bedford College, London.

WILHEM'S MANUAL OF SINGING, for the use of Teachers and Pupils. Parts I. and II. Price 2s. 6d. each; or together in cloth, 5s.

EXERCISES and FIGURES contained in Parts I. and II. of the "Manual," for the use of Pupils. Books I. and II. Price 8d. each.

LARGE SHEETS, containing the Figures in Part I. of the "Manual." Nos. I. to VIII. in a Parcel. Price 6s.

LARGE SHEETS, containing the Exercises in Part I. of the "Manual." Nos. IX. to XL. in 4 Parcels of 8 Nos. each. Price 6s.
per parcel.

LARGE SHEETS, containing the Figures in Part II. of the "Manual." Nos. XLI. to LII. in a Parcel. Price 9s.

TIME and TUNE in the ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, a New Method of Teaching Vocal Music. Price 2s. 6d.

EXERCISES and FIGURES contained in "Time and Tune," for the use of Pupils. Price 1s. sewed in paper, or 1s. 2d. limp cloth. To be had also in 2 Parts, price 6d. each, sewed in paper, or 8d. each in limp cloth.

CHROMATIC SCALE, with the Inflected Syllables used in "Time and Tune," on a Double Sheet of Extra Medium Paper, price 1s. 6d.

CARD of the CHROMATIC SCALE, with the Inflected Syllables used in "Time and Tune," price 1d.

NOTATION, the Musical Alphabet, 6d.

RUDIMENTS of MUSICAL GRAMMAR. Price 3s.

GRAMMAR of MUSICAL HARMONY. Royal 8vo. Two Parts, price 1s. 6d. each.

EXERCISES to GRAMMAR of MUSICAL HARMONY. Royal 8vo., price 1s.

GRAMMAR of COUNTERPOINT, Part I., price 2s. 6d.

HYMNS for the YOUNG, New Edition, 8d.

SCHOOL SONGS for TWO and THREE VOICES. Two Books,
6d. each.

INFANT SCHOOL SONGS. Price 6d.

OLD ENGLISH SONGS for SCHOOLS, Harmonised, 6d.

EXERCISES for the CULTIVATION of the VOICE, 2s. 6d.

London: Longmans and Co.

Revised Editions of Mr. Hullah's Two Series of Lectures on the History of Music.

Second Edition, in 1 vol. demy 8vo., price 10s. 6d. cloth.

THE TRANSITION PERIOD OF MUSICAL
HISTORY; a Second Course of Lectures on the History of Music from the Beginning of the 17th to the Middle of the 18th Century delivered at the Royal Institution of Great Britain. By JOHN HULLAH. (With 40 Musical Illustrations.)

By the same Author, uniform, 2nd Edition, price 8s. 6d.

FIRST COURSE OF LECTURES on the HISTORY of MODERN MUSIC.

London: Longmans and Co.

HELMHOLTZ ON TONE AND SCIENTIFIC LECTURES.

In One thick Volume, 8vo., price 36s. cloth,

ON the SENSATIONS of TONE as a Physiological Basis for the Theory of Music. By Professor H. L. F.
HELMHOLTZ, M.D. Translated by A. J. ELLIS, F.R.S.

HELMHOLTZ'S LECTURES on SCIENTIFIC SUBJECTS, translated by E. ATKINSON, Ph.D., F.C.S., with introduction by Prof. TYNDALL. 8vo., Woodcuts, 12s. 6d.
London: Longmans and Co.

CONTENTS.

De Quincey and the Greek Drama , by Joseph Bennett	57
A Musical Retrospect , by Henry C. Lunn	60
Purcell (conclusion)	61
A Haydn Memorial (conclusion)	62
The Wagner Performances at Bayreuth	63
Occasional Notes	65
Musical Biography	66
John William Hobbs	67
St. Paul's Cathedral	68
Monday Popular Concerts	68
Sacred Harmonic Society	68
Paragraphs	69
O Saviour of the World. Full Anthem , by Sir John Goss	71
Reviews	76
Foreign Notes	80
Correspondence	81
Brief Summary of Country News	82
Organ Appointments, &c., &c.	85

THE MUSICAL TIMES AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

FEBRUARY 1, 1877.

DE QUINCEY AND THE GREEK DRAMA.

BY JOSEPH BENNETT.

THE other day, as I was trying to pick up health on the Somersetshire coast of the Bristol Channel, came down from London faint echoes of a wind stirring in a valley of dry bones. It was said, and a local paper brought the tale to my ears, that the "Alcestis" of Euripides was to be played at the Crystal Palace with music by Henry Gadsby. In a moment I was conscious that History, at its old trick, had repeated itself within my experience. Nearly thirty years since [Heigh-ho, masters all!] another local paper, penetrating the rural fastnesses of an adjoining county, told me much the same story. It said that the "Antigone" of Sophocles, with Mendelssohn's music, brought out some time before in Covent Garden Theatre, would be played in Drury Lane for the benefit of Mr. Vandenhoff. I had read "Antigone," but, living far from cities, the only play I had ever seen was "George Barnwell," performed by strollers in the largest room of our largest inn, as—so the manager declared—a warning to youth that the devil must be resisted. In one thus isolated the "Antigone" paragraph could stir up no more than a vague longing. London lay too far off to come within the scope of my actual life, and I should have felt just as much personally interested had the performance been announced to take place in the moon. But nothing is so likely to happen as the unexpected. The wheel of Fortune rolled me up to London, and I saw "Antigone." I have seen it many times since with Fancy's eye. It all so came back to me as I stood on the shore, the other day, watching "the stately ships go on," that, with a dissolving-view effect, the seascape faded out to make room for Memory's picture. Nor did Memory stop at the picture. The oft-times "tricksy spirit" wrought well, and conjured up a volume of De Quincey, with a book-mark at page 198—"The Antigone of Sophocles." Since then I have re-read the sage.

De Quincey had a habit of beginning at the beginning, and his "Antigone" essay contains an energetic vindication of stage unreality at the expense of the late Mr. Addison. The older writer, as everybody knows, poured out a good deal of wrath (from very elegant vessels) upon Italian opera, arguing that "no hero ever summoned a garrison in song, or charged a battery in a semi-chorus." Of this objection De Quincey roundly says that it "shows an ignorance of the very first principle concerned in every fine art," which principle is the idem in alio—the same impression by different means. De Quincey is right, beyond question; but it may not be without advantage at the present time to show how he is right. A rage for dramatic realism becomes dangerous when it leads to a notion that unrealism is an offence, and thus far it seems to have gone amongst us, especially as regards opera, the modern analogue of ancient drama. We are sometimes told that arias and other music "in form" should be banished from the lyric stage, along with the simultaneous utterances of the chorus, because they are inconsistent with actualities. But what if they be? Why should the lyric drama, any more than other kinds of art, reproduce real life, and become that which De Quincey calls a "mechanic imitation"? Its object is to create impressions akin to those excited by the corresponding reality—the grand aim of all art; and to achieve this it may go far indeed from the region of mere imitation. Our philosopher is even bold enough to say that if a man came forward to whistle the battle of Waterloo, "it would be monstrous to refuse him his postulate on the pretence that people did not whistle at Waterloo. . . . It is the very worst objection in the world to say that the strife of Waterloo did not reveal itself through whistling; undoubtedly it did not; but that is the very ground of the man's art. He will reproduce the fury and the movement as to the only point which concerns you—viz., the effect upon your own sympathies. Through a language that seems without any relation to it, he will set before you what was at Waterloo through that which was not at Waterloo; whereas any direct factual imitation, resting upon painted figures dressed up in regimentals and worked by watchwork through the whole movements of the battle, would have been no art whatever in the sense of a fine art, but a base mechanic mimicry." All this Addison, like a good many people nearer our time, failed to see, although he made his own dramatic characters talk in iambics, which are surely as far removed from ordinary dialogue as is music. But the Greek drama was even more unreal than Italian opera, and De Quincey points out that Addison, on his own showing, would have been horrified by a tragedy of Sophocles. "In the very monsoon of his raving misery from calamities as sudden as they were irredeemable, a king is introduced, not only conversing, but conversing in metre; not only in metre, but in the most elaborate of choral metres; not only under the torture of these lyric difficulties, but also chanting; not only chanting, but also in all probability dancing. What do you think of that, Mr. Addison?" It is likely that Mr. Addison never thought of the matter at all; but those should be reminded of it who in our day are fond of talking about an approximation of opera to Greek drama; without stopping to recognise the fact that "Il Trovatore" or "Il Barbiere" is more realistic than the plays which two thousand years ago were the talk of Athens. Nothing in art was ever more artificial than the entertainment so vaunted by Addison and other maligners of modern opera. The prevailing sentiment of Greek drama, as De Quincey well says, suggested the atmosphere of death rather than life, being to life what sculptured marble is to flesh and blood. Imposing, awful, horrible, that wonderful stage stood at a distance from those who looked upon it, and its fateful doings were as the semblance of battle in the heavens—nearer to the gods than to men. This element of far-removedness entered into all its details. The stage itself was but a speck in the vast theatres, which held scores of thousands of citizens, and the pigmies who trod it had their stature raised and the volume of their voice increased by artificial means. Not for the Greek drama were the active natural motion, the free vocal inflection, and the play of feature we deem essential. All was like the masks worn by the actors—beautiful in outline, but solemnly and unbendingly regular, cold, and unimpassioned—in a word (the word is De Quincey's), processional. Add to this the songs and dances of the chorus around the flame-surmounted altar, and we have a crowning example of unreality essaying to represent the actual. Yet such was the consummation of dramatic art among the most artistic people the world has ever known. It is dangerous, therefore, to sneer at the unreality of Italian opera, even in the company of Mr. Addison, and supported by a growing fashion. Nevertheless, the time may come when we shall succeed in making a lyric drama as much like real life as possible. Then, also, we shall have done our best to make it unlike art.

De Quincey saw "Antigone" when it was produced at Edinburgh by Mr. Murray, and, although he went away to rave about the nobleness of Helen Faucit, his keen perception of the incongruous and inadequate made him severely critical. Concerning Mendelssohn's music, however, he shows the boldness of ignorance, or the folly of one who judges that which he cannot possibly understand. "The overture," he remarks, "slipped out at one ear as it entered the other, which, with submission to Mr. Mendelssohn, is a proof that it must be horribly bad; for if ever there lived a man that in music can neither forget nor forgive, that man is myself. Whatever is very good never perishes from my remembrance—that is, sounds in my ears by intervals for ever; and for whatever is bad I consign the author, in my wrath, to his own conscience, and to the tortures of his own discords. The most villanous things, however, have one merit—they are transitory as the best things; and that was true of the overture—it perished." From this "heroic" treatment of the prelude our philosopher goes on to hack and hew at the body of the work: "But that music of Mendelssohn! like it I cannot. Say not that Mendelssohn is a great composer. He is so. But here he was voluntarily abandoning the resources of his own genius, and the support of his divine art, in quest of a chimera—that is, in quest of a thing called Greek music, which, for us, seems far more irrecoverable than the Greek fire." Here is news indeed for musicians who are not philosophers, and who have been taught to believe that Mendelssohn never went an inch out of his way in search of Greek music, but merely laid on a conventional "local colour" by a skilful and appropriate use of the orchestra. After such a mistake the reader may not care for further musical criticism from the same pen, but De Quincey's speculation as to the source of the "Antigone" music is, for various reasons, so amusing that I cannot withhold it: "We, that were learning German some thirty years ago, must remember the noise made at that time about Mendelssohn, the Platonic philosopher. And why? Was there anything particular in 'Der Phædon' on the immortality of the soul? Not at all; it left us quite as mortal as it found us, and it has long since been found mortal itself. Its venerable remains are still to be met with in many worm-eaten trunks, pasted on the lids of which I have myself perused a matter of thirty pages, except for a part that had been too closely perused by worms. But the key to all the popularity of the Platonic Mendelssohn is to be sought in the whimsical nature of German liberality, which, in those days, forced Jews into paying toll at the gates of cities, under the title of 'swine,' but caressed their infidel philosophers. Now in this category of Jew and infidel stood the author of 'Phædon.' He was certainly liable to toll as a hog; but, on the other hand, he was much admired as one who despised the Pentateuch. Now that Mendelssohn, whose learned labours line our trunks, was the father* of this Mendelssohn, whose Greek music afflicts our ears. Naturally, then, it strikes me that, as papa Mendelssohn attended the synagogue to save appearances, the filial Mendelssohn would also attend it.† I likewise attended the synagogue now and then at Liverpool and elsewhere. We all three have been cruising in the same latitudes; and, trusting to my own remembrances, I should pronounce that Mendelssohn has stolen his Greek music from the synagogue. There was, in the first chorus of the 'Antigone,' one sublime ascent (and once repeated) that rang to heaven: it might have entered into the music of Jubal's lyre, or have glorified the timbrel of Miriam. All the rest, tried by the deep standard of my own feeling, that clamours for the impassioned in music, even as the daughter of the horse-leech says 'Give, give,' is as much without meaning as most of the Hebrew chanting that I heard at the Liverpool synagogue. I advise Mr. Murray, in the event of his ever reviving the 'Antigone,' to make the chorus sing the Hundredth Psalm rather than Mendelssohn's music; or, which would be better still, to import from Lancashire the Handel chorus-singers."

I know that I have done a very cruel thing by De Quincey in making the foregoing extract, but if a philosopher will go so comically wrong in fact and opinion, and record his errors in such a racy fashion, he must take the consequences. In this case, as in so many others, the world is wiser than its teachers. Mendelssohn's music to "Antigone" is within reach of everybody's hand; De Quincey's abuse of it I have had, in a manner, to dig up.

Off the line of music our philosopher says much worth notice, especially when he comes to estimate the value of the "Antigone" performance as a reproduction of Greek drama. The intelligent reader will not be surprised to learn that his estimate is very low indeed, for by no reasonable possibility can we in these days even approximate to the real thing. To be sure, we could build a theatre on the ancient model, and fill it with thirty thousand people; we could reproduce the stage, with all its appliances; add two and a half inches to each actor's stature by means of the coturnus or buskin, and cover his face with a mask, which should contain the most approved apparatus for augmenting the sound of the human voice; but all this would give us a body without a soul. The spirit of Greek drama, born of influences now impossible, must for ever elude us. Take, for example, the functions of the chorus. These, if discharged now, would send an audience into fits of laughter. The Greek chorus of our classic revivals is a thing which an Athenian of the days of Æschylus would barely recognise. De Quincey happily hits off that of Edinburgh: "Something should really be done to better the condition of the poor chorus. Think of these worthy men, in their white and sky-blue liveries, kept standing the whole evening; no seats allowed, no dancing, no tobacco; nothing to console them but Antigone's beauty; and all this in our climate, latitude fifty-five degrees, 30th of December, and Fahrenheit groping about, I don't pretend to know where, but clearly on his road down to the wine-cellar. Mr. Murray, I am perfectly sure, is too liberal to have grudged the expense, if he could have found any classic precedent for treating the chorus to a barrel of ale." Let not the unclassical reader who smiles at our philosopher's humorous exaggeration confound the dancing with the tobacco, for, if we well know that a Greek chorus never smoked, we are equally sure that it always danced. Some authorities would have us believe that even the leading characters danced; but, however this may have been, the exercise was one of the most solemn and important of the duties imposed upon their subordinates. On this subject an able writer—Mr. Reginald S. Copleston—observes:—

* Wrong. He was the grandfather.—J. B.

† Wrong again. The "filial Mendelssohn" was a Christian born and bred.—J. B.

"It" (the Greek dance) "seems to be an art entirely lost—so entirely that we now cannot well guess what difference of steps or figures would represent even the most marked difference of feelings; but to the Greeks such variation was most certainly represented. And thus much may be noticed in explanation. The Greeks, in accordance with the general simplicity and natural frankness of their manners, were in the habit of giving much more unreserved expression to their feelings by gesture than is thought among ourselves consistent with dignity or culture; so we may suppose that their eyes became more accustomed to such outward indications than ours are, and their taste was not offended by gestures which to us would seem forced and ridiculous. . . . Lastly, the notion, so difficult to get rid of, that in dancing there is something trivial and undignified, must be as far as possible discarded, for to the Athenian the dances of the chorus were probably among the most impressive, even the most awful, spectacles which ever met his eyes; and if to us dancing seems fit only for merriment and trifling, the cause lies not in our advance in culture, but in our having lost an art or a sensibility."

Without this solemn exercise, without the colossal, statuesque effects (which, by the way, Wagner has striven after in his Trilogy), without the mystery and general "far-removedness" which marked Greek drama, our attempts at revival are but a "vain show," and, which is worse, a misleading show, because containing no more than husks and grains of truth. Nevertheless, in all likelihood such revivals (so called) as that which recently took place at the Crystal Palace will occur from time to time. Their raison d'être must, however, be looked for in the choral music. The play is not the thing here so much as what was originally but an accessory to it. Fruit, this, of the classic fever which, raging in the palace of a Prussian king, impelled the monarch to call for the genius of Mendelssohn, and to set it a perfectly new task. The composer might well have been staggered by the nature of the work he was invited to do. Many before him had illustrated the legends of Greece, either in operatic form or some other, but none had attempted to supply the music of a Greek drama. In that field Mendelssohn stood alone, unhampered by precedent, but also unguided by the footsteps of others. Devrient tells us how much he was puzzled in this strange position. At first the composer thought to be conventionally Greek—"to set the chorus in unison throughout, and to recitative interspersed with solos; as nearly as possible to intone or recite the words, with accompaniment of such instruments only as may be supposed in character with the time of Sophocles—flutes, tubas, and harps, in the absence of lyres." Against this Devrient remonstrated, but "Felix" tried to carry out the idea all the same, only, however, to confess, after a few days' effort, that it was impracticable; "that the chanting of a chorus would be vexatiously monotonous, tedious, and unmusical; and that accompaniments for so few instruments would give so little scope for variety of expression that it would make the whole appear as a mere puerile imitation of the ancient music, about which, after all, we knew nothing. He concluded, therefore, that the choruses must be sung, as the parts must be recited, not to assimilate themselves with the usages of Attic tragedy (which might easily lead us into absurdity), but, as we would now express ourselves, in speech and song. The form and purport of the ancient poem, the spirit that still lives in it, would unconsciously tend to make of its representation something quite different from any drama of our day." Thus did Mendelssohn arrive at the only wise decision possible under the circumstances, but neither he nor Devrient seems to have reckoned upon the subtle power of music to convey impressions perfectly in accord with those which we agree to look upon as having been excited by means now unknown or unattainable. Of this power, nevertheless, the music to "Antigone" is a splendid example. Boeckh, one of the mightiest among "Grecians," described it as "perfectly in harmony with his conceptions of Greek life and character, and with the muse of Sophocles; that Mendelssohn had made such use of modern art appliances as were compatible with the character of the choral passages and the thoughts they contained; and that the excellence of the music was decided by the noble and dignified impression created by the work as a whole, which must set aside all scruples of the antiquarian conscience, especially as no antiquary would be able to supply genuine Greek music in the place of it." We all know this to be true from our own experience. We feel, without being able perhaps to account for the feeling, that the "Antigone" music is surrounded by a Greek atmosphere, and steeped in Greek sentiment; that it fires the imagination to picture with double force the scenes of the drama; and that were it suddenly revealed to us that the Athenian theatre once echoed to the very same strains we should not be in the least surprised. But perhaps the most conclusive evidence is afforded by De Quincey, who, sensible of a certain Greek effect, attributed it, in his ignorance, to the mechanism employed, ridiculing Mendelssohn as an imitator of Greek music, without discerning that the impression arose from the use of wholly modern means. The composer would assuredly forgive the philosopher's bitterness in consideration of so magnificent a compliment.

It is a matter for surprise that, looking at Mendelssohn's success as the musician of Greek drama, others were not at once tempted to follow in his steps. Was it felt that he had, so to speak, covered the field, leaving nothing but the liberty of imitation?

If so, the spell of this obstacle has been broken by the production of Mr. Henry Gadsby's music to "Alcestis," which is a distinct and, I may venture to say, intentional working of the Mendelssohnian vein. Mr. Gadsby's choice of Euripides' drama was, on the whole, a happy one. He might have found better food for his imaginative and dramatic power in Æschylus, but the tenderness and pathos which distinguish "Alcestis" must exercise upon every musician of sentiment an irresistible attraction. The character of the heroine alone is one to move the inmost heart. Mendelssohn would have revelled in it as did Chaucer centuries ago, when he spoke of the "Queene's flour," and thus described the wife of Admetus in his "Legende of Good Women":—

"And from afor came walking in the Mede
The God of Love, and in his hand a quene,
And she was clad in real habit grene:
A fret of golde she haddē next her heer,
And upon that a white crowne she bere,
With floures smale."

So, throughout the ages, has the devotion of Alcestis—a wife who died that a husband might live—given her a gracious memory, and made her to the Greek stage all that Cordelia is to ours, and more. I, for one, therefore, do not quarrel with Mr. Gadsby's choice of the Euripidean play, hoping rather that, even in the face of another De Quincey, he will persevere in giving appropriate musical life and colour to the masterpieces of ancient art.

A MUSICAL RETROSPECT.

BY HENRY C. LUNN.

PERHAPS no exercise is more beneficial to the musical critic—whose especial province it should be to foresee the future—than to take an occasional mental ramble in the past; for there will he see not only the records of the first appearance of executants who have years ago passed, with honours, into history, but of the original performance of compositions which have so long been ranked with the classics of the art as to make us almost wonder what kind of concerts were given before such works existed. There, too, by perusing the criticisms of the day, may he be warned of the danger of writing either from hasty or immature judgment; for although impulsiveness and ignorance may be covered by a gloss which deceives for awhile, the tyrant Time will unquestionably wear this gloss away, and then the flimsy material will alone be perceptible, leaving future generations to marvel how it can happen that the verdicts of those who profess to judge both art and artists should so frequently be completely reversed by an appeal to the public voice.

These thoughts crowded upon me the other morning whilst turning over the pages of an old musical journal called the "Harmonicon"; and I could not resist the temptation of collecting some of the facts and opinions there expressed, as fossils for the study of those curious in specimens of a bygone time. The first thing that struck me was the excessive ease with which reviews of new music were written; for as the laws of Harmony were then inexorable, any person who violated them was adjudged a criminal, and sentenced accordingly. Progressions, therefore, which would now be considered conventional, are exhibited in the "Harmonicon" as proofs of the musical guilt of the prisoner on his trial; and few, indeed, are the instances of what is termed "eccentricity" which are allowed to pass unscathed. In the review upon Beethoven's Sonata, Op. 111, for example, a passage is quoted containing some dissonances, "the harshness of which," it is suggested, "may have escaped the observation of the composer." The portion written in 6.16 and 12.32 is described as "laborious trifling, which ought to be, by every means, discouraged by the sensible part of the musical profession." But it is in deciphering the bars written in 6.16 that the critic has evidently collapsed, for he says—"We have devoted a full hour to this enigma, and cannot solve it." The "Thirty-three Variations on a Waltz by Diabelli" are said to prove "either an entire loss of that sense so needful to a musician" (alluding, of course, to the composer's deafness) "or a degree of neglect in the engraver unparalleled and incredible." In speaking of Rossini's Overture to "Guillaume Tell," praise is given for the introduction of the "Ranz des Vaches," but the remainder of the work is thus summarily dismissed: "The Allegro Vivace, in E major, is full of spirit, all agree; so is an obstreperous man overcharged with Hodge's best; and both are so intolerably noisy that a speedy retreat from their presence is the only refuge left for people not absolutely mad or deaf." Weber's "Concertstück" is said to contain a succession of "velocities of all kinds, involving both performer and hearer in difficulties that will be apt to awe-strike people with healthy understandings;" and the chromatic descent, against the ascending octave passage, is spoken of as a "detestable howl." The same composer's "Invitation to the Waltz" is mentioned as "very pretty, very easy to execute, but too genteel in its manner to possess anything that is striking or new." Those who believe that many of the articles in THE MUSICAL TIMES have occasionally exaggerated the aristocratic character thrown around the principal musical performances given in the metropolis at the time we are now speaking of, should turn to the notices of the "Philharmonic" and "Ancient Concerts." At both these Associations tickets could only be procured through members; and at the "Ancient Concerts" a portion of the room, known as the "Preserve," used to be parted off for the exclusive use of the titled Directors, who, until they fell asleep, generally absorbed the attention of the audience even more than the music. Some of the notices on the works performed at the Philharmonic Concerts are well worth quoting. Here is one on Beethoven's Symphony, No. 7: "The Symphony by Beethoven, in A, is indebted for its reputation to the movement in A minor, which is one of the brightest gems in the author's diadem. The other parts of the composition are without any settled design, confused, full of harsh combinations; and what is worse than all, the time occupied by the whole is at least fifty minutes." The "Eroica" Symphony fares no better, for it is said: "The Marcia funèbre is beautiful, but the whole of what may be termed the Coda, which constitutes three-fourths of it, should be omitted. Sacrificing a part to save the whole is prudent in all cases, and if this Symphony is not by some means abridged it will soon fall into disuse." After declaring that the "Pastoral Symphony" has "many excellent points," but that the "subjects are too much spun out," the notice continues thus: "The Andante would please if about two-thirds of it were omitted; as it stands, it is upwards of a quarter of an hour in duration, and sheds its narcotic influence over the audience before it is half finished. In other parts of this Symphony also there is a great deal of false taste and whim unworthy of such a composer." But this method of criticising by the clock culminates in the review of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. In the first place, it is candidly confessed that the work only occupies in performance "one hour and five minutes," an admission rendered necessary by having previously announced that it "cannot be much less than an hour and twenty minutes;" but even the time it really took is stated to be "a fearful period indeed." The last movement is said to be "heterogeneous," and in this, as well as in other parts of the Symphony, "the want of intelligible design is too apparent." The concluding paragraph I cannot conscientiously abridge: "In quitting the present subject, we must express our hope that this new work of the great Beethoven may be put into a produceable form; that the repetitions may be omitted, and the chorus removed altogether. The Symphony will then be heard with unmixed pleasure, and the reputation of its author will, if possible, be further augmented."

Running through the records of musical events in this journal, some curious paragraphs are constantly to be met with, amongst which may be mentioned one on the début of "Master Liszt" at the Argyll Rooms, and another on the performance of "an adventurous violinist, from the Sister Isle, named Balfe." In a notice of Lablache's appearance as Assur in "Semiramide," it is said that "his voice wants compass for this part, which requires a fine singer, such as the real Galli, or—still better—the admirable Remorino." Reviews of the so-called "Oratorios" at the theatres contain remarks which clearly reflect the existing state of musical thought; and the manner in which Operas in English used to be supported at that time may be gathered from a notice of the revival of the "Marriage of Figaro," in which the "loss of Liston as Figaro" is much deplored. Some newspaper criticisms, too, quoted from its contemporaries by the "Harmonicon," are well worth reproducing. We are told, for instance, that "Mozart's Sinfonia (Jupiter) was sung in fine style by the whole assembled chorus;" that Drouet's performance of a Fantasia on the Flute was in every respect most admirable, "fugue succeeding fugue, and staccato staccatos in endless variety." The most amusing of all these criticisms, however, occurs in a morning paper respecting a performance of Mozart's opera "Don Giovanni": "But seemingly not satisfied," it is said, "with the original richness of the piece, they" (the orchestra) "introduced two airs from the Nozze di Figaro in the supper-scene of the last act, one of which is well known in this country as the 'Duke of York's March.'" Of course it is unnecessary to inform musicians that Mozart has himself given to the rustic orchestra his own then popular air "Non piu andrai." Two other airs are also introduced, one from the first finale of Vincente Martini's "Cosa rara," and the other from Sarti's "Fra due litiganti il terzo gode;" the first of these, no doubt, being the one only known to the sapient critic as the "Duke of York's March."

I regret that I cannot at present extract more from such interesting pages, but on some future occasion I may possibly continue my researches in these almost forgotten volumes. Before, however, taking leave, even temporarily, of a journal which has displayed to me so vivid a picture of the time, I cannot but say that we should all feel a deep debt of gratitude to an editor who in those days manfully upheld the dignity of music according to the best of his judgment, and effectually paved the way for those who held more enlarged views upon the true mission of the art.

PURCELL.

(Concluded from page 13.)

LET me now direct your attention to the portrait of Purcell kindly lent for this occasion by that admirable and benevolent institution the Royal Society of Musicians. This interesting picture has somewhat of a romantic history attached to it, which has never before been made public. A parchment deed in possession of the Royal Society of Musicians runs thus: "Redmond Simpson having presented the portraits of Handel, Corelli, Geminiani, and Purcell to the Directors of the Ancient Concerts (now held in Tottenham Street), of which Sir Watkin William Wynn, Baronet, is Treasurer, so long as the said concerts shall continue, upon condition that when the same shall break up then the portraits are to be given and delivered over to the Royal Society of Musicians, to be by them kept for ever after. In witness and testimony whereof the said Redmond Simpson and Sir Watkin William Wynn have hereto set their hands this 25th day of April 1785." Mr. Simpson, the donor of the pictures, left a statement in writing that the portrait of Purcell was painted by Closterman in 1694, and was many years in possession of Purcell's son, Edward, who said it was very like his father, but that the latter had grown very thin before he died. From the son, Edward, the picture passed to the grandson, Edward Henry, who sold it to Dr. Boyce, from whom it was bought by Mr. Simpson, and at the dissolution of the Ancient Concerts it came to the Royal Society of Musicians.*

I have only time to say that the son, Edward Purcell, became an organist, report says, of moderate ability, and that his son, Edward Henry, was educated in the Chapel Royal under Bernard Gates, and succeeded his father in his organ appointments. So much for the family of Purcell, musicians, as we have seen, for four generations.

Purcell was pre-eminent above all his predecessors and contemporaries—a composer of vocal and instrumental, orchestral, harpsichord, and organ music—sacred, secular, and dramatic. He was an accomplished organist and also a finished vocalist. How early he commenced the practice of composition we cannot tell, but I will now play a little melody or song, "Sweet Tyranness," of his, published when he was only nine years of age. To be able to appreciate the value of his work, we must first consider what was the state of music just prior to his day. The civil wars and the Protectorate had destroyed organs, music books, and dispersed and banished choirs so effectually that at the Restoration of Charles music had to be composed for men's voices only, or if soprano parts could not be dispensed with they were played on cornets, for there were no treble boys capable of singing. Dramatic music there was none: it is true Locke had attempted something in that line, but the very piece on which his fame has been chiefly sustained was really not his at all, but the composition of Henry Purcell when a youth. I refer to the well-known "Macbeth music." This music, however, sinks into insignificance when placed in comparison with later works of Purcell's. Take, for instance, his little Opera "Dido," composed when he was 22 years of age, not 19, as stated by Sir John Hawkins. This Opera is complete, with recitative, solo and chorus—not one word of dialogue; it is full of beautiful music, and one of the airs, "When I am laid in earth," although constructed on the confined limits of a ground bass, is most touching in its pathos. It may be noted in passing that S. Bach has used nearly the same ground in his B minor Mass for the chorus to the words "Crucifixus."

* An admirable engraving by Zobel from this picture, originally intended for private circulation, is now published, and copies may be obtained by all admirers of Purcell.

Purcell was gifted with a soul for melody, and possibly it was the unwonted exhibition of this heaven-born faculty in his works which first attracted and captivated the public ear, for before his time we English as a nation had cultivated madrigals and part-songs with diligence and success; but in all solo songs, till those of Purcell appeared, the chief effects were produced by the words, not by the melody. As for the airs, "they were, till this time, in general as unfused and misshapen as if they had been made of notes scattered about by chance." This last quotation, from Burgh's "Anecdotes of Music," is too sweeping. Dowland had printed some most melodious songs in 1597. Morley, his contemporary, and other names could also be cited as melodists, but the Puritans had probably swept away both the memory and practice of all such compositions, and Purcell's immediate predecessors were not remarkable for tunefulness. As a scientific musician and harmonist Purcell was equally great and successful. At the age of twenty-four years he published a set of "Twelve Sonatas for Two Violins and Bass, with Organ or Harpsichord." From that work I have selected a fugue, which I will now play. One of the favourite exercises of learned musicians in his time was canon-writing, and you need only examine the four volumes of his sacred music, collected and edited by Vincent Novello, to see that Purcell was not a whit behind the most accomplished of his brethren in that cramped and fettered school. The volumes published by Novello contain 123 sacred compositions, chiefly anthems, and there are many still remaining in ms. Purcell's harmonical progressions were so remarkable that they may truly be termed discoveries; so much in advance of the age were they that I have frequently heard foreign musicians to whom his works were previously unknown exclaim on examining them, "Oh, that is Schumann; that is Beethoven," &c. There are some remarkable harmonies in Purcell's Latin Psalm "Jehovah quam multi." When you hear them you may possibly doubt their authenticity, but as I enjoy the friendship of the present owner of the original autograph ms., I can vouch for their correctness.

Purcell wrote more music than we can ever hope, after these long years of neglect, to recover. Still, fresh material is turning up in various quarters, and I trust before long it will be possible to point to a considerable series of his published compositions. I have made a catalogue or list of works for which he composed music, and it includes 47 operas or dramas, 28 odes, and 202 short fugitive pieces of various kinds, vocal and instrumental. I have spoken of his skill as composer, organist, and vocalist. In the latter capacity he assisted in the choir at the coronation of James II., and there is a quaint record of his having sung one of his own songs at Stationers' Hall with "incredible graces." We must not forget also that he stood at the head of his profession as a teacher. One of his pupils—his brother Daniel, older than himself—was no mean composer, but he has suffered partial eclipse by the superiority of the genius of the younger Henry. Another pupil—Weldon—is renowned for his exquisite compositions. Witness his anthems "Hear my crying" and "In thee, O Lord." Purcell's Lessons for the Harpsichord formed the model for most of the succeeding writers for that instrument, and his treatise on "The Art Descant" is remarkable for its clearness and conciseness.

Dr. Crotch has said of Purcell: "He was the greatest master this country ever produced, and the greatest composer of the latter part of the 17th century. Eminent both in the sublime and the beautiful styles, and blended with them a considerable proportion of the ornamental, he composed for the Church, oratorio, stage, and chamber, and thus rested his character both on his individual and on his collected talents. His productions are sometimes simply beautiful, but are generally in a great degree pathetic and scientific, and that without any apparent effort; but when he manifestly endeavours to exert all his powers of expression, and to show the whole depth of his learning, then indeed he surpasses all his rivals." I wish we had the means at hand for immediately proving the truth of this eloquent passage, but that is of course impossible. I trust before long frequent opportunities will be afforded of hearing Purcell's music with the colouring of orchestra and chorus. To make this practicable, publication is the first and chief necessity. To rescue and publish what remains to us of this master-musician—described by all who have had the opportunity of judging as the greatest we ever possessed—is a work which commends itself to the sympathy of all—to us Englishmen in particular, for the honour of our Fatherland, and to the universal nationality of musicians generally, for the glory of their art, which alone has the power to—"Dissolve us into ecstasies,

And bring all heaven before our eyes."

W. H. CUMMINGS

A HAYDN MEMORIAL.

[From the Neue Zeitschrift für Musik.]

(Concluded from page 14).

IN dwelling upon Haydn's compositions, the biographer proceeds with as much warmth as justice. A perusal of his analysis of the first eighteen quartets will sufficiently convince the reader of this. As regards the early symphonies, the point of view from which he would have us consider them must meet with our approval. He says: "Inasmuch as it will always be a source of enjoyment to us to watch the development of genius, these symphonies, belonging to Haydn's first period, likewise afford ample material for serious reflection. Granted the objection, that their resuscitation would be of but little use as far as the general public is concerned, we cannot but regret that at least some of their number, which are worthy of a better fate, should have fallen victims to Time. For, apart from their unpretentious instrumentation, they have still in them sufficient vitality to be able to interest and delight smaller circles; only it would be necessary to approach them in the right spirit, not forgetting that they were, in the first place, intended only for recreation at social gatherings, and for a very limited number of performers, for which reason their execution by a full orchestra of modern pretensions would only cause them to swell at the expense of their natural proportions. It was the custom of the time to which they owe their origin to perform several of them on the same occasion; they had, therefore, to be compact in form, and modest as regards the means employed. A quarter of an hour's duration, a double complement of violins, hautboys, and horns, were the normal conditions, which were rarely permitted to be exceeded. Nor did these compositions attempt to raise the expectations by striking effects, or to appear more important than they really were. It is an interesting fact that symphonies by Haydn (probably the slow movements only) have frequently been played at church in place of graduals, previous to the introduction, by his brother Michael, of vocal graduals. Thus in the musical library of the Convent of Göttweih the orchestral parts of Haydn's Symphonies show the days marked on them on which such performances had taken place, either in the convent itself (in the crypt) or in neighbouring churches. By this opportunity we also learn how frequent and manifold had been the cultivation generally of these symphonies in Austrian cloisters, where the love of music formed, of old, an especial feature. Numerous indications as to place or time of performances are recorded; thus we read in teatro (in the theatre), ad prandium (at breakfast), in horto (in the garden), post cenam (after dinner), in refectorio (in the dining-hall), in Regens-choriati (in the rooms of the choir-master). Very remarkable appears to us the Trio from Haydn's Eleventh Symphony—quoted on page 305—in which the composer has apparently made use of an original Slavonic melody—a supposition which brings it into close relationship with not a few of Chopin's Mazurkas, which are likewise founded on similar subjects. Possibly never before have points of contact been traced between these two composers; as shown, however, by the example quoted on pages 305-306—which, notwithstanding the peculiar interest attaching to it, we have not space here to insert—they are to be met with, if only in rare instances.

Upon Haydn's importance to art it is hardly possible to say much more than is new; nothing, however, can be more to the point than the characteristic given us by Herr Pohl: "Haydn's merits in relation to instrumental music are universally recognised. He has raised the crude forms from the primitive state in which he found them, giving them that firm basis from which alone further development was possible. The forms themselves have expanded under his hands, have become enriched by fresh elements of vitality and expression; from the Sonata he transplanted them into Quartet and Symphony, enlarging indefinitely the sphere of the orchestra by imparting to it greater depth of thought, and by assigning its due place to every instrument according to its character. Most justly, therefore, is he looked upon as the father, the true originator, of all instrumental music; for no other composer of the past century has done so much for its progress and development as he, who had been both a witness and a mediator in all the phases of modern musical history—from Bach to Gluck, Mozart and Beethoven. On the other hand, the fact that from the very beginning of his career he had interwoven his works with healthy and simple (volksliedmässig) melodies has imparted to the creations of his genius that character of unobtrusive, yet deep and intense, feeling which has, at the same time, stamped him as the most popular of composers. The leading features in Haydn's works are truth and unaffected simplicity. Hearing them, we breathe the fresh air of health and cheerfulness. His artistic organisation favoured a bright, sunny display of poetic emotions, and his works, in consequence, are the expression of a cheerful, childlike mind, of an unassuming, complaisant self-contentedness (Behaglichkeit), which, however, if more immediately touched by a sense of the surrounding joys of life, may at any moment break forth into manifestations of the most sprightly humour. According to Haydn's own admission, these musical drolleries emanated from a distinct trait in his character, and were owing formerly to an exuberance of health—'one is seized by a certain waggishness which will not be subdued.' Because of this never-failing source of humour, which he so well knew to impart to his works, Haydn has often been called the German Sterne. Although in his later years this playfulness, this almost unbounded merriment preponderating in his earlier works, was kept more and more within its proper limits, this characteristic element in his music still sufficed, in the eyes of superficial observers, to make him appear little more than a musical jester. The comic element was not as yet recognised as having a legitimate place in music. Thus for a long time the Vienna professors of the art would not acknowledge Haydn as their equal, still less their superior, looking upon his humouristic style as an absolute fault, and seriously discussing the question whether the ignoring of established rules, so deliberately persisted in by the great composer, could be at all tolerated. They were unable to discover that below this playfully-rippled surface there was an undercurrent of earnest thought which, at the right moment, would rush to the surface too, although in but rare cases it would lend itself to the expression of deep, genuine sorrow. Wit and humour (the latter, however, never degenerating into caprice) would still be uppermost, growing more refined, more manly, as it were; and thus to the present day Haydn remains the greatest humourist in the realms of sound, he who, already greatly advanced in age, still knew how to preserve the freshness of youth, and to conquer our hearts by his naïve kind-hearted cheerfulness, expressed by means the most simple and the most natural. It is impossible not to admire the moderation which guided his hand at all times, the wise economy he practised, in the whole as well as in the detail of his works, and which invariably taught him to stop at the right time; for hazy and ambiguous passages were as distasteful to Haydn as aimless wandering or empty phraseology in music. Finally, we may point out his never-ceasing flow of ideas, his fruitful imagination, which constantly supplied him with new conceptions. Innumerable as are the compositions of the master, he has but very rarely repeated himself, while every one of his works bears the unmistakable stamp of his genius, and of his truly German spirit, in depth of feeling and richness of humour. 'Truly in Haydn's vein' we say whenever we hear the first bars of one of his compositions, and we know then that for the next moments to come the cares of life will be dispelled in a manner refreshing to both our heart and mind."

We have given these extracts in order to kindle among our readers the desire to become acquainted with the whole of this first volume of a work the merits of which we cannot insist upon too emphatically. If they have, with us, perused its contents, they will, doubtless, like ourselves, receive with delight the author's salute at the end of the book, "Au revoir at Esterhaz!" and the promise thus implied of our soon meeting again the master upon his further onward career!

F. W.

THE WAGNER PERFORMANCES AT BAYREUTH.

THE paragraphs in the German papers, purporting to give particulars of dates with regard to a repetition of the performances at Bayreuth, appear to be premature. Herr Wagner has just issued a letter to the committees of the various Wagner Societies, a translation of which we subjoin, wherein he proposes that they should amalgamate into one general Society to be called the "Society of Patrons of the Festival Plays at Bayreuth," with a view to avoid the public sale of vouchers for seats, or of speculation therewith. He wants the new Society in the first place to dispose of £5000 worth of seats amongst its members, and furthermore to make efforts towards obtaining a Government grant for another sum of £5000 per annum, to be set aside for the purchase of free seats to be distributed among persons chosen by the Government. Herr Wagner's letter runs as follows:—

“Bayreuth, Jan. 1, 1877.

“To the Directors of the Wagner Societies.

“Conscious of the satisfactory impression produced upon the greater part of the audience at last year's Festival Plays, I was impelled towards a repetition and continuation of the work begun. I could not, however, help seeing that, in order to maintain the distinctive character of the undertaking in its integrity, I ought to revert to my original plans.

“After the depreciating accounts circulated at the outset by a considerable part of the press had been satisfactorily refuted, the success of the performances proved such that an enterprising speculator might have made a handsome profit out of further subsequent repetitions thereof. That which prevented such repetitions was, by no means, the impossibility of keeping the executants at Bayreuth for any greater length of time, but rather the irresistible conviction that, in offering our performances to a merely paying public, we should diverge completely from the course to which I had originally pledged myself towards the patrons of our undertaking; and it is this very consideration which still makes me hesitate to announce a repetition of the Festival Plays this year, or to offer tickets of admission to them at a certain price, though my business friends hold that such tickets would sell easily and quickly at the reduced rate they could now be offered at.

“To explain my repugnance towards such a plan I may refer to my first published ‘Address to my friends concerning Bayreuth,’* wherein, after explaining the characteristics of the proposed performances more minutely, I addressed my acquaintance and such of the public as were inclined to uphold the artistic tendencies of my undertaking. Through their steadfast support I had the satisfaction to find the necessary means for the inauguration as well as for the execution of my scheme placed at my disposal. Yet, in the end, I found myself compelled by untoward circumstances to have recourse to the curiosity of the general public, and to allow tickets of admission to be offered for sale. By doing this, my work, as well as the artists who so generously devoted their powers to its execution, was placed in a false light through which both it and they suffered equally. And hence arose the misconception that I was trying to force the work, together with the peculiar mode of its execution, upon the operatic public in general; whereas my intention, clearly and frequently expressed, was solely to offer it to its well-wishers and promoters. I therefore consider myself justified in simply returning to my original plans, as I can, on no account, further place the true supporters of the undertaking in the same category with those who wish to hinder its influence. I owe this to the artists as much as to our lay friends, whom I have always wished to draw into a sphere of artistic intercourse which should be exempt from the abuses of the usual operatic performances. We are, however, still occupied in developing the novel style. We have to remove defects on all sides, to make amends for imperfections which inevitably accrue to so new and very complicated a task. The experiences at Bayreuth, which I hope may prove important for the German stage, should not take place in the presence of those who look upon them with hostile incapacity. If we are to constitute the true practical school for dramatic musical performances, we ought to be conscious that we are amongst such as sympathise and strive with us. Regarding this point my views have been understood from the very beginning by those who proceeded to organise the Societies for the furtherance of my object; and though these Societies could not raise all the material support requisite for the ultimate accomplishment of their aim, they have, nevertheless, formed the moral basis of the whole enterprise. I therefore turn to these hitherto efficacious Societies with a wish that they may invite the further friends of my art to form a ‘Society of Patrons for the Maintenance of the Festival Plays at Bayreuth.’

“The name I give to this Society explains its object. It will not have to participate, as my patrons have hitherto done, in laying the foundation of the entire scheme by building the theatre and furnishing the stage accessories, but will have to devote its efforts towards the attainment of yearly repetition, continuation, and extension, in the manner I have elsewhere indicated. According to a plan which remains to be discussed in detail, the Society would take up a thousand seats at a hundred marks (£5) each for the three annual performances, and these seats should only be issued to members in accordance with the Society's rules.

“As, moreover, it has always been my intention to offer a larger number of free seats, particularly to young and deserving persons of insufficient means, and as the choice of such is connected with considerable difficulty, it appears to me that at this point some proper means and ways for a combination between the Government authorities and the Society could be found. Already in my earliest communication I pointed towards the final participation of the authorities of the Empire as the return I hoped and called for as soon as I should have succeeded, by means of the first performances of my work, in placing the peculiar character of our artistic tendencies in a clear light. As I may now hope that discerning men of the German nation, like certain Frenchmen, Englishmen, and Americans, have made up their minds to a just estimate of my doings, I may permit myself to hope that the general Society of Patrons will address the German Reichstag with a request for ample support of the annual Festival Plays. To ensure success, an endowment should consist of 100,000 marks (£5,000) per annum, with which sum the corresponding number of seats would be acquired and disposed of in favour of those whom the Imperial Government might choose. This single measure on the part of the Government would be the best adapted to the idea of nationalising the whole undertaking, and therewith, for the first time, a stamp of national significance would be impressed on a theatrical institution as well as upon its administration. For thus the Government would be interested in the preservation of the original character of a theatrical institution, differing widely from all other similar institutions, as it would be interested in keeping the administrative arrangement free from any taint of pecuniary speculation and solely devoted to the furtherance of artistic aims.

“It would lead me too far now already to submit proposals concerning such a future administration, as all this could be settled quickly and easily by persons who care for the thing itself, and not for any pecuniary advantage. But I would, in conclusion, express an earnest wish that preliminary steps be taken at once to organise a meeting of delegates of the Wagner Societies hitherto existing with a view to furthering our object.

* “Gesammelte Schriften,” vol. ix. p. 371.

RICHARD WAGNER."

SHAKSPEARE and musical glasses are sometimes quoted as representing the extremes of art; but it so happens that the instrument, now heard only in our streets, once engaged the attention of very distinguished people. Dr. Franklin, in a letter to Father Beccaria of Turin, ascribes its invention to "one Mr. Puckeridge," though, if the French encyclopædists be right, the Persians forestalled that individual some little time. Puckeridge, who was an Irishman, appears to have used the simplest apparatus. "He collected," says Franklin, "a number of glasses of different sizes, fixed them near each other on a table, and tuned them by putting into them water, more or less as each note required." This primitive instrument and its maker perished together in a fire near the Royal Exchange in 1759. But Dr. Franklin did something more than write about musical glasses. He largely improved upon the idea of Puckeridge, and, under the name of Harmonica, the instrument he constructed became widely known. The chief executant upon it was a Miss Davis, sister of Cecilia Davis, a well-known opera singer of the day. Both these ladies performed together at the court of Maria Theresa, whose son-in-law, the Duke of Parma, requested Metastasio to write, and Hasse to compose, a Cantata for the purpose of combining their talents. Padre Martini and Jomelli also produced works specially for Miss Davis and her Harmonica. In 1806 Dr. Edmund Cullen, of Dublin, made some further improvements in the instrument, and sent it forth to the world accompanied by many "judicious observations," a portion of which we transcribe for the behoof of those who may not know to what honour, in the opinion of eminent men, the musical glasses at one time aspired. Says Dr. Cullen: "It is indeed incapable of those fantastical divisions to which the taste of modern composers so generally leads, but which, in our estimation, is the sworn enemy of good music, and serves no other end than to exhibit the dexterity of some favourite performer, and overwhelms his hearers with stupid admiration. This is not music, and when I witness such feats of skill, though I acknowledge the difficulty of doing them, I cannot but lament that so much ingenuity is thrown away to so little purpose. Our instrument is not capable of this—at least, not in so great a degree as the pianoforte, violin, and some others; yet if the true and original intent of music is not to astonish but to please—if that instrument which most readily and pleasingly seizes the heart through the ears is best, I have not a moment's hesitation in setting it down as among the best of musical instruments." Happy Dr. Cullen! in that he did not live to see the musical glasses in the gutter, and "fantastical divisions" on the throne of art! But even so, perhaps, the enthusiastic Irishman would have comforted himself with the thought that Mozart, King of Masters, condescended to write for the Harmonica—first, a solo, in 1780:—

and next (in 1791), an Adagio and Rondo, for Harmonica with flute, oboe, viola, and cello:—

That which Mozart thought it no disgrace to compose, it is no disgrace to play or hear—a fact Mr. Arthur Chappell may note when on the look-out for further novelties.

WHEN we first saw on the title-page of a popular classical pianoforte piece the words "as played by"—a celebrated pianist, we imagined that it was a special edition in which certain alterations performed by this artist were accurately printed. To our surprise, however, we found that it was published precisely as the composer wrote it; and then we began to understand that it was only one more instance of the magic power exercised over the public by the mere name of a favourite executant. With vocal music, however, it now appears that we have gone beyond this; for we see a pianoforte transcription of a solo from a work of Haydn advertised as a certain baritone's "song," an announcement which could only be justified were he either the composer of the piece or the one singer who had rendered it in public. We have also collections of compositions by the most eminent masters headed in large letters with the names of Tenor, Soprano, and Contralto vocalists, simply because they happen at various times to have been sung by these artists. It is true that, as a point of honour, the humble name of the composer is afterwards appended to each piece; but the name of the vocalist who has kindly patronised the work is relied upon as the real attraction. Now this plan of saving an amateur the trouble of selection by appending a singer's testimonial to every song may act very beneficially in a commercial sense; but it is fatal to the spread of healthy art. What, for instance, would be said at the Royal Academy Exhibition if, in order to bring purchasers, a certain number of works were to be grouped together by a celebrated judge, and labelled "Mr. —'s pictures," as a proof that he had selected them for special approbation? Surely it is not intended that the pernicious "Royalty" system is to be extended so far that compositions not thus signed should be considered as quite unworthy of public attention.

WHATEVER may be the effect of an organ well played on willing listeners, it is evident that the effect of one badly played on unwilling ones is the very reverse of agreeable. This fact has been strikingly proved in a case lately tried at the Westminster County Court, in which a gentleman occupying chambers in Lincoln's Inn, and engaged in literary pursuits, applied for an injunction to restrain a solicitor living on the floor beneath him from performing on a chamber-organ in his room. It is true that the plaintiff attempted to add weight to his cause by sarcastically hinting that the defendant was an extremely bad performer; but he wisely rested his complaint upon the impossibility of remaining in his house whilst any one was playing upon the instrument, in consequence of the vibration causing a feeling of "numbness," almost like that produced by galvanism. This evidence was corroborated by others living in the house; but the defendant declared that he felt no vibration at all, although he had gone into other rooms whilst his friends performed upon the instrument; and a solicitor, who resided on the floor below, affirmed that it never disturbed him; and that staying in his office one evening to test the effect of the organ, he had even given instructions to his clerk—in fact, it was clear from his evidence that he rather liked it. Now, whether the playing of an instrument is fatal to the pursuance of literary labours, whilst legal instructions can be pleasantly delivered to a clerk, with an organ accompaniment, is a question we cannot solve; but it scarcely seems fair that in order to entertain half the inhabitants of a house, the other half should be "numbed." This view of the question seemed to be entertained by the Judge, who declared that it was not an "actionable" nuisance, although an "intolerable" one. Such a nice distinction between law and equity cannot be too widely understood; for it is absolutely necessary that we should know what miseries we may cure, and what we must endure. Meantime, however, sanguine reformers will look forward to the day when the verdict upon a trial shall at least be in accordance with the avowed opinion of the Judge; and then we may expect that a nuisance pronounced to be "intolerable" shall also be "actionable."

WE have purposely abstained from alluding to the trial of "Naylor and Wife v. Francis" because, although a verdict was recorded, notice of appeal was given, and the case therefore remained in abeyance. As it is now, however, decided that the appeal shall not be proceeded with, we may say that the case points a moral both to journalists and artists. It seems that Mrs. Naylor (better known as Miss Blanche Cole) was announced to sing at a concert of the Sacred Harmonic Society, but, being ill, her place was supplied by another vocalist. The critic of the Weekly Dispatch not being able to attend the performance himself, passed his ticket to another, who, believing that the lady who sang was Miss Cole, supplied information upon which a disparaging notice was written. Upon discovering the mistake an apology appeared in the paper the following week; but this not satisfying Mr. Naylor, the action was brought to recover damages, and it is almost needless to say that the jury, with but little hesitation, gave a verdict for the defendant. Now we have little doubt that Mr. Naylor has discovered by this time that to call witnesses to speak to the talent of a public performer in a court of law is a somewhat hazardous proceeding; and seeing that undoubtedly the remarks in the paper were intended to apply to another lady, we cannot believe that the end he desired justified the means, for a verdict in his favour even would certainly have been merely a nominal one. It is by no means proved, however, that because one party was wrong the other was right. A sin of omission is never so bad as a sin of commission. If the critic of the Weekly Dispatch were prevented from attending the concert, no notice should have appeared; but the character of a journal is materially compromised when an unfavourable criticism upon a vocalist is inserted based upon the opinion of one who, in addition to having no special musical knowledge, does not even know one singer from another.

Now, that the Opera-houses are closed and the Crystal Palace Concerts temporarily suspended, it would be an excellent time to consider whether something could not be done to secure additional comfort to the many music-lovers who frequent the pit of our lyrical establishments (including that recently added by Mr. Carl Rosa), and those who by merely paying for admission to the Crystal Palace on the concert days are privileged to be present at the performance. In both these cases we ask, Why are not tickets for numbered places issued at the doors? Each seat can but be occupied by one person, and whether that person wait an hour in a dense crowd, and then, after a frightful crush, run breathless to a chair, or walk quietly in and take the seat to which he is entitled, cannot by any possibility matter to the management. If it be desirable, after filling all the places, to allow a certain number to stand, let every facility be given to those who content themselves with this position; but it is pitiable to witness, as we often do, a mob of persons packed so closely together that they cannot even move their arms, opposite the pit entrance of an Opera-house, or to see a number of ladies standing, faint and weary, at the doors of the Crystal Palace Concert-room for an hour and a half, and when at length they are admitted, dropping into a seat to wait for another hour for the commencement of the music. It is true that they can occupy themselves by watching their more fortunate neighbours walk majestically into their secured places, or by seeing the instrumentalists gradually assemble in the orchestra; but this relaxation soon becomes somewhat tiresome; and indeed such cool treatment of those who must be considered as subscribers to the concerts reminds us too forcibly of the American editor who, after asking his patrons to wait until after the holidays for the usual editorial matter in his journal, expresses his confident belief that in the meantime they will "read the advertisements with interest."

THE Archbishop of Canterbury has conferred the degree of Doctor of Music on Mr. Gustav Wolff, of Bradford, in consideration of his high musical attainments. We congratulate Dr. Wolff on the honour conferred on him, but we think it should be made plain by the Archbishop whether he intends his power of granting degrees to be a fons honoris, or a "back door" to a University. If the former view is accepted by his Grace, it must be evident that several musicians of the first rank in this country are still without title or degree of any sort, and that he might well delight to honour them. If the latter view is held by him, a palpable act of injustice is done to those men who at great pecuniary cost, and risk of professional character, present themselves for admission at the Universities. Moreover, it must not be overlooked that the lower the standard for Lambeth degrees is made, the larger will be the number of those who will commence string-pulling for the purpose of obtaining them. It would in time, therefore, be somewhat doubtful if a really eminent musician would consider it wise to accept such a title. We are at a double loss to know why Mr. Wolff is made a Mus. Doc., because we understand that he for some considerable time has been designated "Dr." We must consult our shilling book on etiquette before deciding whether one apparently twice doctored ought to be called Herr Doctor-Doctor, and, if such is the case, whether Lambeth should take precedence of Philadelphia.

MUSICAL BIOGRAPHY.

THE importance of the old Cheque Book of the Chapel Royal as a contribution to the biography of eminent musicians will be best seen by the following extracts. The Cheque Book was edited by the late Dr. Rimbault for the Camden Society, and is therefore accessible only to members of that body at the present time. The year was then counted in the old style, as beginning on the 26th of March, therefore the second entry, February 1563, is our February 1564, and so in all other cases.

1563. Robert Parsons, sworn in 17th October 1563.
 — William Munday, sworn in 21st February 1563-4.
 1564. Thomas Sampson, gent., in Ric. Farrant's* room, 24th April.
 1561. Thomas Bird, died in February. Clerke of the checke.
 1566. Richard Edwards, master of the children, died October 31.
 1569. Richard Farrant*, from Winsore, sworn in 5th November.
 — Robert Parsons, drowned at Newark-upon-Trent 25th January, and Wm. Bird, gent., from Lincoln, sworn in his place, 22nd February (1569-70).
 1580. Richard Farrant died 30th November.
 1585. Thomas Tallis died 23rd November.
 — John Bull, sworn in January.
 1592. Thomas Morley, sworn in 24th July.
 1597. Nathaniel Giles, gent. and master of the children, sworn in 9th June, from Winsore.
 1598. Jo. Baldwin, sworn in 20th August, from Winsore.
 1602. George Woodson, from Winsore, sworn in 7th October, in Thos. Morleyes room.
 — Wm. Lawes, from Chichester, sworn in 1st January.
 1603. Jo. Woodeson, from Winsore, sworn 2nd July.
 1604. Orlando Gibbons, sworn in 21st March.
 1607. George Cooke, sworn in 21st January, from Winsore.
 1611. William Lawes resigned his place 5th May.
 1613. John Bull, Doctor of Musick, went beyond the seas without licence, and was admitted into the Archduke's service, and entered into paie there about Michaelmas, and Peter Hopkins a basse from Poule's was sworn in his place the 27th December following: his wages from Michaelmas unto the daie of the swearing of the said Peter Hopkins was disposed of by the Deane of His Majesties sayd chappell.
 1614. Mathew White resigned 25th September.
 1615. Thomas Daye, sworn in 30th September.
 1621. Edmund Hooper, organist, died 14th July, and Thomas Tomkins, organist, of Worcester, sworn in 20th August.
 1623. William Bird, a Father of Musick, died the 4th of July.
 1623. Ralph Amner a base, from Winsore, sworn in 16th December.
 — John Cooke, a basse from Litchfield, sworn Pisteler 16th December.
 1625. Mr. Orlando Gibbons, organist, died 5th June at Canterbury.
 1625. Henry Lawes, sworn in January 1st (1626).
 — Richard Boughton, a base from Winsore, 29th April 1626.
 — John Tomkins, orgt. of St. Paule, sworn in gent. extraordinary for next place of organist.
 1627. William Heather, Doctor in Musick, dyed July.
 1638. John Tomkins died 27th September.
 1660. George Cooke died in August 1660.
 1662. Henry Lawes died October 21st, and Dr. John Wilson, Doctor of Musick, sworn in October 22.
 1663. Charles Husbands, a counter tenor from Windsor.
 1664. Henry Purcell died 11th August. [He was the father of the great composer.]
 1667. Pelham Humfrey admitted 26th October.
 1669. Edward Colman died 29th August.
 — Edmund Slauter, a base from Windsor, 13th October.
 1672. Capt. Henry Cooke, gent. and master of children, died 13th July 1672, and Pelham Humfrey in his place.
 — Burges Howe, a base from Windsor, sworn 11th September 1672.
 1673. Dr. John Wilson died 22nd February, and Richard Gadbury, a counter tenor from Windsor, sworn in 16th March.

1673. John Blow sworne 16th March.
 1674. Pelham Humfrey died 14th July.
 — Dr. Wm. Holder, sworne sub-dean, 2nd September.
 1675. Raphell Courteville died 28th December.
 — Michael Wise, counter tenor from Salisbury, sworne 6th January.
 1676. Dr. Christopher Gibbons died 20th October.
 1678. John Gostling sworne 25th February.
 1679. John Abell 1st May, sworn.
 1682. Edward Lowe, organist, died 11th July, in whose place Henry Purcell, 16th September.
 — Thomas Purcell died 31st July.
 1685. John Lenton sworne November 10th 1686.
 1689. Dr. Holder, sub-dean, resigned.
 1695. Henry Purcell died 21st November.
 1696. Dr. Child died 24th March 1696-7.
 1699. Upon a new establishment of a composers place for the Chapell Royal, Dr. John Blow admitted into it.
 1700. Jeremiah Clerk (sic) and William Crofts sworn in and to succeed as organists.
 1701. John Weldon sworn in 6th June.
 1707. William Croft, admitted organist 5th November, upon the death of Jeremiah Clerk.
 1708. Dr. John Blow, organist, composer, and master of the children, died 1st October. William Croft then sworn in as master of the children and composer, and John Weldon as organist.
 1736. John Weldon died 7th May, and William Boyce admitted into his place as composer 21st June.
 1737. John Travers admitted organist 10th May.

The above extracts, which are here presented in the briefest form, are not a summary of the contents of the volume, but only samples of its contents. The entries range from the third year of Queen Elizabeth (1561) to the eighteenth year of George II. (December 1744). It might be supposed that two such peculiar additions to the establishment of a Chapel Royal as those of a "violist" and of a "lutenist" must be of ancient date, but we learn from the volume that they are due to the former Elector of Hanover, our George I. Many laudable old customs are enumerated, and, among them, one of an annual present made to the gentlemen of the chapel of a buck, with ten guineas, for their yearly feast. There are still among us some admirers of ancient usages, and perhaps no one of them might be revived with less probability of dissent on the part of those who are interested than the above. Let us, then, hope for its resuscitation.

The sixty pages of biographical notices, which are printed in small type at the end of the volume, add greatly to its interest and value. They are, in many cases, such as only the special researches of the late Dr. Rimbault could have supplied.

JOHN WILLIAM HOBBS

DIED on the 12th of January, at Croydon, aged seventy-seven. Such was the brief record which appeared in the daily journals, recalling to the memories of the elders amongst us one who in his day was considered the sweetest and most finished exponent of English vocal music. He was born August 1, 1799, at Henley-on-Thames, his father being bandmaster of the volunteers there, and was the youngest of a family of sixteen children. At a very early age he showed great natural aptitude for music and tune, which, coming under the notice of Mrs. Keys, one of a travelling company of actors, and of her husband, the leader of the orchestra, resulted in the appearance on the stage of Master Hobbs, aged three years, "dressed in white frock with blue ribbons, and red shoes," in which becoming costume he sang the ballad "Over the mountains, and over the moors," to the delight of the British public. At five years of age he became a chorister of Canterbury Cathedral, his father having been appointed "singing man" in the same church. Here the beautiful voice of the lad attracted general attention, and, coming under the notice of John Goss, a well-known master and singer of London, he obtained the transference of the services of the clever child to himself. Hobbs, whilst under apprenticeship to Goss, soon acquired celebrity and popularity, especially with the members of the Royal family. The programme of the "Grand Norwich Festival" of 1813 records the names of the principal performers as Master Hobbs, Mrs. Dickons, Mrs. Bianchi-Lacy, Miss Booth, Mr. Braham, Mr. Goss, Mr. Bellamy, and Professor Hague.

Hobbs's voice breaking, he had to leave his master and fellow-pupils, James Turle, afterwards organist of Westminster Abbey, and Goss, now Sir John; but his enforced idleness was of short duration, for he was very soon afterwards appointed tenor singer in the Colleges of Trinity, King's, and St. John's, Cambridge. From thence he migrated to St. George's Chapel, Windsor, where his father had already become one of the choir. In April 1827 he made his final remove to London, having been appointed, by Royal command, one of the Gentlemen of the Chapels Royal, and in October 1836 he received the additional appointment of Lay-Vicar of Westminster Abbey. These offices he held until his death, although for some sixteen years past he had been on the retired pension list. Hobbs sang at the funeral of George III., and the coronations of George IV., William IV., and Victoria. His contemporary, Henry Phillips, wrote of him thus: "Possessing a tenor voice of even and beautiful quality, combined with taste and expression, remarkable for his refinement, high appreciation, and conception of all good poetry, I never heard any one impart such beauty and elegance to that charming composition 'In native worth.' It was perfect in refinement and intellect." Hogarth's "Memoirs of the Opera" also bear similar testimony. Hobbs was the author of many pieces of occasional poetry now forgotten, and also the composer of a great number of songs, about two hundred of which are published. The best known and remembered are "The Captive Greek Girl," "Phyllis is my only joy," "Eulalie," "My ancestors were Englishmen," and "The Old Temeiraire."

During the last twelve years of his life Hobbs had been confined to his bed; his death was therefore not unexpected. He was buried in the family grave in Norwood Cemetery. The Reverend Precentor of Westminster Abbey officiated at the funeral, and as a mark of respect, funeral anthems were performed on Sunday, the 21st ult., at the Chapel Royal, St. James's, and Westminster Abbey.

ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.

THE annual Dedication Festival of St. Paul's Cathedral was held on the Feast of the Conversion of St. Paul (the 25th ult.). At the afternoon service the ordinary Cathedral choir was supplemented by a fine band of fifty performers and a special choir numbering three hundred and fifty. The effect produced by the admirable rendering of the Overture to "St. Paul" when the bishop, dean, and clergy had taken their seats was exceedingly fine. The vast space of the dome gives a mellowness and tenderness to the tone of string-instruments which is never heard in a concert-room. The Psalms were chanted by the Cathedral choir; but at each of the glorias the full band and chorus burst forth grandly. The Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis were composed by Mr. G. C. Martin, the sub-organist, and no two opinions can have been formed as to their merits; both the vocal and orchestral writing are bright and free, and the quartet, "And His mercy," is really beautiful. Mr. Martin may be congratulated on having added one more to the list of excellent orchestral Canticles which the great services at St. Paul's are gradually calling into existence. The usual selection from the Oratorio of "St. Paul" took the place of the Anthem, and was performed in a manner which calls for unqualified praise. Mr. Winn supported the bass part with his usual good taste, and Mr. Kenningham's fine tenor voice was heard to the greatest advantage in the well-known recitatives and songs. It is not difficult to foresee that Mr. Kenningham will take a high position in his profession. Mr. De Lacey and Mr. Kempton took other prominent parts, and the boys of the Cathedral did ample justice to the soprano parts. More than eight thousand people assembled to take part, and their reverent demeanour showed that the grandeur and solemnity of the occasion were not lost sight of.

MONDAY POPULAR CONCERTS.

THESE Concerts re-commenced after the Christmas vacation on the 8th ult., a special feature in the programme being Mozart's Divertimento in B flat, for two violins, viola, violoncello, and two French horns, on this occasion, however, a contra basso part being added. The solo pianist was Mdlle. Krebs, who performed Beethoven's Sonata in F minor (Op. 57), the last movement of which, more particularly, was excellently rendered. At the second concert mention must be made of Brahms's "Liebeslieder Waltz," for two performers on the pianoforte and four voices—the pianists being Mdlle. Krebs and Miss Agnes Zimmermann, and the vocalists Mdles. Sophie Löwe and Redeker, Messrs. Shakspeare and Pyatt—which by their tunefulness and elegance thoroughly enlisted the sympathies of the audience. Unfortunately a severe domestic affliction compelled Herr Straus to absent himself temporarily from these concerts, and his place was most ably supplied by Mr. Henry Holmes. The third concert contained no novelty, but Beethoven's thirty-two variations in C minor afforded Mdlle. Krebs another opportunity for displaying her exceptional qualifications as a pianist of the classical school, and Mendelssohn's "Tema con variazioni" for pianoforte and violoncello, in which she was joined by Signor Piatti, was a welcome item in the programme. The Saturday Afternoon Concerts continue to attract large audiences, the appearance of Mr. Sims Reeves on the 13th ult. having no doubt been mainly the cause of the room being almost inconveniently crowded on that day.

SACRED HARMONIC SOCIETY.

NEXT to "Israel in Egypt," perhaps no one of Handel's Oratorios is so well adapted to display the resources of the Sacred Harmonic Society as "Solomon." It is true that, in consequence of the positive badness of the book, it can but interest an audience through its music; but not only the grandeur of many of the choruses, but the force and pathos of the solos, never fail to move the most impassive listeners; and it is a marvel, therefore, to us that the work appears so seldom in the programmes of the Society. Of its performance on the 26th ult. little need be said, for the principal vocalists—Madame Edith Wynne, Madame Patey, and Mr. Henry Guy—were the same who sustained the solo parts at the last presentation of the Oratorio in 1874. If anything could reconcile us to the music of "Solomon" being written for a contralto, it certainly would be the excellent rendering of it by Madame Patey, who on this occasion threw so much pathetic feeling into the air "What tho' I trace" that she received an encore, which we regret to say she was too ready to accept. Mr. Guy delivered his florid solos in a most praiseworthy manner, and Madame Edith Wynne was, as usual, highly successful. A good word, too, must be given to Miss Julia Wigan, who in all the music allotted to her displayed a good voice and cultivated style. Mr. Maybrick had but little to do, but that little was given with commendable care and judgment. Many of the choruses went admirably, the few points of hesitation being scarcely observed by the majority of the audience. Loud singing must of course result from loud instrumentation, and we can, therefore, forgive the choir for much undue forcing of the voices; but why in the chorus "May no rash intruder" the phrase "Ye zephyrs, soft breathing, their slumbers prolong" should be sung forte we cannot divine. However, the chorus was encored and repeated, and this fact must, we presume, be accepted as a proof that our objections were not shared by the general audience. The two double choruses, "From the censer" and "Shake the dome," were given with admirable precision; and much praise must be awarded to Sir Michael Costa, who conducted so steadily and watchfully as to inspire both band and choristers with the utmost confidence.

ALTHOUGH the performance of the five-act Opera, "Biørn," at the Queen's Theatre, on the 17th ult., occupied nearly four hours, a review of its musical merits needs but a small amount of space in our journal. To act the story of "Macbeth" in Norway, instead of Scotland, and not only to alter the names of the principal characters, but to make Banquo a youth in love with Lady Macbeth, and to transform the Witches' Incantation into a dance round a copper by three pretty girls, might be rather amusing in a burlesque; but Mr. Frank Marshall, the author of the book, has done all this in sober earnest, and the result was of course that laughter ran through the house in what should have been the most thrilling portions of the drama. Whether Signor Lauro Rossi (Director of the Royal College of Music, Naples), the composer of the opera, instinctively grasped the character of the materials entrusted to him we cannot say, but certainly his music is as bold a travesty as the libretto, in proof of which we need do no more than mention that the sleep-walking scene of Lady Macbeth is musically represented by a canonet about her "soft white hand," and that amidst the tragical surroundings of the catastrophe at the conclusion of the opera some trivial dance strains are introduced which certainly would have made the "judicious grieve" had they not by that time become too merry to grieve about anything. Even in purely Italian music we at least expect a certain amount of "prettiness"; but Signor Rossi, with but few exceptions, has so kept to the dead level of commonplace that the ear becomes perfectly wearied, and a chorus of waiting-women in the fourth act and a bright little Serenade for Rollo (Banquo) were positively refreshing, therefore, by the force of contrast. An apology was made for Mrs. Fitzinman Marshall, who played Lady Elfrida (Lady Macbeth), on the score of indisposition, and therefore we reserve any remark upon her vocal powers until we have a more fitting opportunity of judging; but much praise must be given to Miss Cora Stuart, who sang the music of Rollo so excellently as to win the most earnest applause of the evening. Signor Mottino, too, as Biørn (Macbeth), although with rather an unsympathetic voice, displayed much merit both vocally and histrionically; and on the whole the minor characters were fairly supported. The orchestra, although as a rule too loud, went well under the direction of Signor Tito Mattei; and the chorus had evidently been carefully drilled by Mr. J. Pittman. Respecting the extraordinary introduction of two Scottish melodies in this work, Mr. F. Marshall has written a letter to a contemporary explaining that this was done at his suggestion, because Norwegian music was "not easily obtainable." This may be a very good reason for not using any national airs of Norway, but we fail to see how it accounts for the use of the national airs of Scotland, even admitting Mr. Marshall's reminder of the "close connection between the inhabitants of Norway and the Northern Scots."

DURING the past month Professor W. F. Barrett, F.C.S., gave an interesting lecture at the London Institution, on the analogy of sound and light. The lecture was illustrated with many beautiful experiments, in which the electric lamp and sensitive flames were employed. After remarking on the differences between the vibrations of light and those of sound, Professor Barrett passed on to treat of the analogy of law which they displayed. The extinction of luminous and sonorous sounds was effected in a similar way to that in which two pendulums swinging in opposite directions from a bar mutually counteracted, with regard to the bar, the effect which either would have produced. Two luminous waves of different direction uniting would produce darkness, two sonorous waves would produce silence, and two water waves would produce stillness. Light reflected from a mirror gathered into a focus, and sounds also had their focal distance from which they affected a sensitive flame. There was a striking analogy between music and colour; the rate of vibration in sounds gave rise to the gamut, and in colours the rate of vibration in like manner gave rise to the notes forming the spectrum. The colours of the spectrum showed a sequence analogous to the sequence of pitch in the gamut. Newton thought that there might be a correspondence between the length of the spectrum colours and the vibrations of musical sounds, but the true relationship was between the vibrating pitch of colour and the vibrating pitch of sound. The extreme limits of the spectrum embraced an octave in music. Calling red 100, the proportionate vibration of orange was 89, that of yellow 81, that of green 75, that of blue 69, that of indigo 64, that of violet 60, that of ultra-violet 53, and an obscure or extreme violet 50. The vibration of C in music corresponded to that of red in colour, and taking C as 100, the vibration of D was 89, that of E 80, that of F 75, that of G 67, that of A 60, that of B 53, and that of C 50. The vibration of unison, rendered visible, produced on a screen the figure of a circle, that of an octave formed a figure resembling 8, and combinations of figure formed by the visible reflection of intervals of a fourth, a sixth, &c., were proportionately complicated. This was shown by the lecturer by means of tuning forks and sensitive flames; and it was noteworthy that the figure of a discord was as perplexing to the eye as the sound was objectionable to the ear. The exquisite colour produced by permanganate of potash was composed of red and blue, colours which were in harmony, and this corresponded to a fifth in music.

THE recent Examinations of Trinity College, London, were held simultaneously in London, Manchester, and Dublin. At the Manchester Branch the Academical Board was represented by the following examiners (viva voce only): J. Morgan Bentley, Mus. Bac., Cantab., Licentiate in Music, Trinity College, London, Principal Branch Professor; J. Kendrick Pyne, Organist of Manchester Cathedral; and Horton C. Allison, Mus. Bac., Cantab., A.R.A.M.; at Dublin by T. R. G. Jozé, Mus. Bac., Trinity College, Dublin, Licentiate in Music, Trinity College, London, Principal Branch Professor. Thirty-four candidates entered, of whom twenty-three passed, as under: Licentiates in Music.—Jacob Bradford, Mus. Bac., Oxon.; W. H. Gater, Mus. Bac., Dublin; Alfred King, Mus. Bac., Oxon.; A. E. Tozer, St. Leonards. Associates in Music.—F. Howard Amory, Student of Trinity College, London; W. F. Austin; W. H. Bridge; the Rev. Joseph Cater, M.A., Trinity College, Manchester Branch; E. Carrington, Trinity College, London; A. H. Collyer; G. Havelock; W. H. Holloway; F. Ives, Trinity College, Manchester Branch; J. J. Laskey; C. F. Lloyd; H. Ripley; T. Selby; A. Thomson, Trinity College, London. Students in Music.—F. H. Crew; Sidney Jones, Vaughan Scholar, Trinity College, London; H. Pickup; H. Williams, Trinity College, Dublin Branch. Preliminary Arts only.—Alfred Williams. The following gentlemen were the principal examiners: Harmony.—J. F. Bridge, Mus. Doc., Queen's College, Oxford (and of Westminster Abbey); John Abram, Mus. Doc., New College, Oxford; John W. Hinton, M.A., Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Dublin; T. Osborne Marks, Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Dublin (and of Armagh Cathedral). The harmony Prize was not awarded.

WE understand that the arrangements for the Leeds Festival, to commence on the 26th September next, are in active progress. Mr. James Broughton has been again elected chorus-master, and, with the sub-committee, will immediately proceed to select the Festival Choir. In addition to Professor Macfarren's new Oratorio, "Joseph," a Cantata called "The Fire King," by Mr. Walter Austin, has been accepted, Mr. Henry Smart having found it impossible to complete a secular Cantata which he had promised to write for the occasion. Several composers of eminence have also been communicated with relative to new works; and offers have been made to some of them to write specially for the Festival. The Executive Committee have recommended that the Festival should comprise seven chief performances, on four mornings and three evenings; and also that one of the morning concerts should be secular, and include a Symphony. So far as it has been at present arranged, the following are the principal works selected, and the days of performance: Wednesday: Morning—Mendelssohn's "Elijah"; Evening—Austin's Cantata, "The Fire King," and a miscellaneous concert.

Thursday: Morning—"Walpurgis Night," a Symphony, and miscellaneous secular concert; Evening—Selection from Handel's works, including an Organ Concerto. Friday: Morning—Macfarren's "Joseph," and (if time permit) some short Mass or other work; Evening—Miscellaneous concert, with a Symphony. Saturday: Morning—Bach's Magnificat, Bach's Motett "I wrestle and pray," and Beethoven's "Mount of Olives." The Guarantee Fund now amounts to £11,470—being £4,500 more than the total fund in 1874.

THE Choir House in which the twenty choristers of Westminster Abbey will in future be lodged was opened for their reception on Monday afternoon, the 22nd ult., with an entertainment in celebration of the event, which was attended by the Dean, the Sub-Dean (Lord John Thynne), Archdeacon Jennings, Canon Duckworth, Canon Farrar, the Precantor (the Rev. S. Flood Jones), the Rev. J. Troutbeck, the Rev. W. Harrison, the Chapter Clerk (Mr. C. S. Bedford), Mr. John Thynne, Mr. Turle, Dr. Bridge, Mr. Sanders (the late master of the choristers), and other residents in the Precincts, and by the parents of the boys. The proceedings commenced with an address by the Dean, who, after stating the objects with which the Chapter had made this new provision for the choristers, gave them some kindly words of welcome and advice. The boys then admirably performed, under the direction of Dr. Bridge, a Cantata by Carl Reinecke entitled "Little Snowdrop," the accompanying text, translated from the German by the Rev. J. Troutbeck, being read by him between the vocal numbers. At the conclusion of the Cantata the visitors dispersed over the premises to inspect the arrangements, which seemed to give general satisfaction. Mr. W. Sheil, who has for six years been the schoolmaster of the choristers, has been appointed in addition Master of the Choir House, and will be assisted in the superintendence of it by Mrs. Sheil. The Rev. J. Troutbeck, Minor Canon of the Abbey, will hold the office of Controller, which involves a general supervision of the education and management of the choristers.

THE Christmas and New Year meetings of the Tonic Sol-fa College have just been concluded at the Literary Institute, Aldersgate Street. Among those who took part in the proceedings by reading papers, delivering addresses, or performing music were—Mr. Curwen, Mr. A. J. Ellis, F.R.S., Rev. E. P. Cachemaille, M.A., vicar of St. James's, Muswell Hill, Mr. Proudman, Conductor of the Tonic Sol-fa Prize Choir, Mr. McNaught, R.A.M., Teacher of Music in Homerton Training College, Messrs. Evans, Miller, and Dobson, Inspectors of Music to the School Boards of London, Glasgow, and Birmingham respectively, Mr. Venables, Conductor of the South London Choral Association, Mr. J. S. Curwen, R.A.M., Mr. Arnold Kennedy, M.A., Professor Kennedy, of University College, London, and Mr. Griffiths, Secretary of the College. The audience consisted of teachers and students, and the subjects discussed were chiefly of a practical kind, including voice training, the classification of voices in choirs, the elementary teaching of the pianoforte, the training of pupil teachers, conducting, and the various appliances of the Tonic Sol-fa method. There were also lectures illustrated by music, on the form of the Rondo, Minuet, and Sonata, on Wagner, and on the employment of modern harmony in Congregational Music. At the first meeting, the corporate seal of the College was attached to the conveyance of a piece of land at Forest Gate, bought for the purpose of erecting buildings, which are imperatively needed for the classes conducted by the College.

At the meeting of the Society for the Encouragement of the Fine Arts, on Wednesday the 10th ult., Mr. Ferdinand Praeger delivered a very interesting lecture upon "Richard Wagner's Tetralogy." The lecturer commenced by giving an epitome of the plot of "Der Ring des Nibelungen," during the description of which the philosophical ideas therein embodied were explained. An opera-house for the purpose of giving this representation was absolutely necessary, as at no other house was it possible to devote the time, nor adequately illustrate the art theories of the composer. Referring to the instrumentation (which is usually characterised as boisterous), the lecturer pointed out that the additional wind instruments and the arrangement of the resonance-boards mellowed the combined effect, and preserved unbroken the waves of sound that issued from "the abyss." In describing the arrangements of the auditorium, Ruskin was quoted to confirm Wagner's idea that the interior of a theatre should be modelled on the simplest pattern, and without any attempts at decoration. Two excerpts from the "Rheingold" were performed by Miss Blanche Wyatt on the piano, and Mr. Dwyer sang Siegmund's "Liebeslied" with marked success.

THE third Festival of the Sion College Choral Union took place in St. Paul's Cathedral on the 16th ult. The voices were about 500 in number. Mr. E. J. Hopkins acted as conductor, and Mr. Martin and Dr. Stainer presided at the organ. The Canticles were sung to a simple chant service by Dr. Stainer, in F; and the Anthem, "I desired Wisdom," was written expressly for the Choral Union by the same composer. Both were well performed, but especially the latter, in which the picturesque trio for boys' voices was admirably sung by the cathedral choristers. It may be remembered that Dr. Bridge contributed the music for the second Festival given by the Union, and Mr. E. J. Hopkins that for the first. We are glad to find that the good work unobtrusively done by this association is being gradually appreciated; the Cathedral was better filled than on any previous Festival, and the whole service gave general satisfaction.

WE are glad to find that the valuable services of Mr. George Watts, the Manager and Musical Director, at Brighton, of Messrs. J. B. Cramer and Co., are about to receive a substantial recognition. By the organisation of concerts of the highest class, he has done much towards familiarising the public with the standard musical works; and not only in forming a body of choristers, numbering some 200 members, fully capable of taking part in the great oratorios, but in promoting musical entertainments for the benefit of the local charities, he has worthily earned the gratitude of the musical public. It is proposed to give a ballad concert on the 9th inst., at the Royal Pavilion, for his benefit, at which many of the most eminent vocalists will appear; and as highly distinguished patronage has already been secured, we have every reason to believe that the efforts of those desirous of recording their appreciation of Mr. Watts's labours will be rewarded as they deserve.

THE St. George's Glee Union commenced its eighth year's series of Monthly Concerts at the Pimlico Rooms on the 5th ult., when a well-selected programme was performed, and the hall was crowded. The choir was heard in the glees "Blow, blow, thou winter wind" (Stevens), "In the lonely vale of streams" (Callcott), and "Here, in cool grove" (Lord Mornington); also the part-songs "For the New Year" (Mendelssohn), "Who shall win?" (Pearsall), and Rossini's "Carnovale." Miss Julia Augarde made her début as a vocalist, and was much applauded in "When I remember" (Macfarren). Madame Belval gave "I love my love," (Pinsuti) and "Bonnie Dundee," and Mr. Thurley Beale was highly successful in a new song, "The Goodwin Sands" (Scarsbrook), accompanied by the composer. Mr. G. F. Smith, R.A.M., played two brilliant pianoforte solos, "Masaniello" (Thalberg) and "La Chasse" (Heller), with excellent effect. Mr. Garside conducted, assisted by Mr. J. Monday.

MR. WILLIAM SHORE, who died at Buxton on the 16th ult., in his 86th year, was well known not only as an excellent musician, but as a composer; his music to Burns's "Willie brew'd a peck o' maut" being perhaps the most popular of his works, although many of his sacred pieces have met with much success. He was also the founder and original Conductor of the Manchester Madrigal Society, one of the promoters of the Gentlemen's Glee Club, and intimately connected both with the Manchester Choral Society and the Hargreaves Musical Society. Mr. Shore was much respected in private life. Of Sir Henry Bishop, Madame Malibran, and Clara Novello he was the personal friend, the last-named artist always making his house her home on visiting Manchester.

♩ Saviour of the World

FULL ANTHEM

BY

SIR JOHN GOSS,

COMPOSER TO HER MAJESTY'S CHAPELS ROYAL, AND ORGANIST (RETIRED) OF ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.

London: NOVELLO, EWER & CO., 1, Berners St. (W.) and 80 & 81, Queen St. (E.C.) New York: J. L. PETERS, 843, Broadway.

Andantino. mp

TREBLE.

ALTO.

TENOR
(8ve. lower).

BASS.

Accomp.
(ad lib.)

♩ = 60.

O Sa-viour of the world, O Sa-viour of the

O Sa-viour of the world, O . . Sa-viour of the

O Sa-viour of the world, O Sa-viour of the

O Sa-viour of the world, O Sa-viour of the sf world, Who by Thy Cross and pre-cious Blood hast re-deem-ed us, Save us, and

sf world, Who by Thy Cross and pre-cious Blood hast re-deem-ed us,

sf world, Who by Thy Cross and pre-cious Blood hast re-deem-ed us,

sf

world, Who by Thy Cross and pre-cious Blood hast re-deem-ed us, help us, Save us, and help us, O Sa-viour of the Save us, and help us, Save us, and help us, O Sa-viour of the

Save us, and help us, Save us, and help us, O

Save us, and help us, Save us, and help us, help world, O Sa-viour of the world, O Sa-viour, Who by Thy world, O Sa-viour of the world, O Sa-viour, Who by Thy

Sa-viour of the world of the world, O Sa-viour, Who by Thy us, O Sa-viour of the world, O Sa-viour, Who by Thy

do. f dim. Cross and pre-cious Blood hast re-deem-ed us, Save us, and

do. f dim. Cross and pre-cious Blood hast re-deem-ed us, Save us, and

do. f dim. Cross and pre-cious Blood hast re-deem-ed us, Save us, and do. f dim. Cross and pre-cious Blood hast re-deem-ed us, help us, we hum-bly beseech Thee, O Lord, we hum-bly beseech Thee, O

help us, we hum-bly beseech Thee, O Lord, we hum-bly beseech Thee, O help us, we hum-bly beseech Thee, O Lord, we humbly beseech Thee, beseech Thee, O

help us, we hum-bly beseech Thee, O Lord, we hum-bly beseech Thee, O

Lord, O Sa-viour of the world, O

Lord, O Sa-viour of the world, O

Lord, O Sa-viour of the Lord, O Sa-viour of the world, O save us, and cres. Sa-viour of the world, sf O Sa-viour, Who, by Thy Cross and pre-cious cres - - cen - - do al f cres. Sa-viour of the world, sf O Sa-viour, Who, by Thy Cross and pre-cious cres - - cen - - do al f cres. world, cres. O Sa-viour of the world, Who, by Thy Cross and pre-cious cres - - cen - - do al f

cres. help us, sf O Sa-viour, Who, by Thy Cross and pre-cious cres - - cen - - do al f

Blood hast re - deem - ed us, Save us, and help us, we

Blood hast re - deem - ed us, Save . . us, and help us, we

Blood hast re - deem - ed us, Save us, and help us, we

Blood hast re - deem - ed us, Save us, and help us, we hum - bly be - seech Thee, O Lord, O sa - viour of the world, Save us, and hum - bly be - seech Thee, O Lord, O save us, Save us, and hum - bly be - seech Thee, O Lord, O save us, Save us, and

hum - bly be - seech Thee, O Lord, O save us, Save us, and Rather slower. help us, we hum - bly be - seech Thee, O Lord, . . . A - men.

help us, we hum - bly be - seech Thee, O Lord, A - men, A - men.

help us, we hum - bly be - seech Thee, O Lord, A - men, A - men.

help us, we hum - bly be - seech Thee, O Lord, A - men, A - men.

Rather slower. help us, we hum - bly be - seech Thee, O Lord, . . . A - men.

Ped. pp

THE following inscription has been placed on the slab that now marks the grave of Clementi in the South Cloister of Westminster Abbey:—

MUZIO CLEMENTI CALLED
"THE FATHER OF THE PIANOFORTE"
HIS FAME AS A MUSICIAN AND COMPOSER
ACKNOWLEDGED THROUGHOUT EUROPE
PROCURED HIM THE HONOUR
OF A PUBLIC INTERMENT IN THIS CLOISTER
BORN AT ROME 1752
DIED AT EVESHAM 1832

AN Australian paper lately forwarded to us contains illustrations of three new music warehouses in Melbourne, one belonging to Messrs. Allan and Co., another to Messrs. Glen and Co., and a third to Messrs. Nicholson and Ascherberg. All these buildings are situated in Collins Street East, and although varying in the styles of architecture are most imposing in appearance. The description of these establishments proves that elegance and utility have been equally provided for in their construction, and the existence of such extensive premises in close proximity, devoted entirely to the music trade, affords abundant evidence of the increasing taste for the art in the Colony.

A CONCERT was given by Mr. T. Loder Childerstone at Ladbroke Hall, Notting Hill, on the 25th ult. The vocalists were Miss Orridge, who sang Barnby's "When the tide comes in" with good effect, Miss Kate Hardy, Miss Marion Woods, Mr. Maisey, Mr. Stedman, who obtained recalls for his two songs, "Oh, come in thy beauty" (G. Fox) and "Trust" (Marriott), and Mr. Ion Cante. The Orpheus Vocal Quartett contributed two glees, and Mdlle. Gabrielle Vaillant contributed two violin solos, which were much applauded. Pianoforte solos were played by the concert-giver, and Mr. Mallitt Jones conducted.

A DRAMATIC entertainment was given by the Choir-boys of St. John the Baptist, Great Marlborough Street, in the Lecture Room of the Church, on Thursday, 18th ult. The pieces represented were "Incognito" and "The Poor Relation." In the first named, W. Bishop (Eugene) and C. Ward (Marcel) gave highly satisfactory delineations of the mysterious travellers, and were well supported by Messrs. J. and H. Hunt, H. Lee, W. Cook, and W. Kirwan. The same praise is due to the performance of "The Poor Relation," in which the principal parts were taken by Messrs. Lee, Ward, Bishop, Cook, and Hunt, all of whom were much applauded for their exertions. Mr. Bruce presided at the pianoforte.

THE Pall Mall Gazette has the following paragraph: "Galignani states that M. Schœlcher, Senator, has just presented to the library of the Conservatoire de Musique at Paris a valuable collection of English music which has taken him nearly twenty years to form. Within the last sixty years old music has doubled in rarity and price; and a collection like that in question represents, first of all, an important sum of money; and, next, an infinity of research and care. What is most striking in this matter, from its interest and scarcity, is a quantity of English airs, gathered together about 1797 by Joseph Baildon, who employed many years in assembling this series of curious memorials."

MR. COTSFORD DICK, already well known as the composer of some graceful pianoforte pieces, has added to his fame by the music written for "Our Dolls' House," a clever piece recently produced at the entertainment of Mr. and Mrs. German Reed. Some of the songs are extremely tuneful, the concerted pieces are full of life, and a minuet, danced by all the "dolls," is a highly characteristic composition. The principal parts are most ably sustained by Misses F. and M. Holland, Leonora Braham, Messrs. A. Law, A. Reed, and Corney Grain; and the little Operetta seems likely to attain a lasting popularity.

THE Scholarships founded by the Fishmongers' Company in the National Training School for Music having become vacant by the election to Royal Scholarships of both the holders, thirty-one candidates, nominated by the Court, attended at Fishmongers' Hall for examination by Mr. John Hullah and Mr. W. G. Cusins. Eight of them were selected for a re-examination, and at its close the examiners, expressing their regret that there was not a scholarship for each, announced that the successful competitors were Miss Florence Clara Creese and Miss Alice Lemmon.

AN Evening Concert was given in Hawkstone Hall, adjoining Christ Church, Westminster Road, on Tuesday the 16th ult., in aid of the London City Mission, in which the following artists took part: Madame Edith Wynne, Miss Annie Butterworth, Miss Helen D'Alton, and Mr. Chaplin Henry; flute, Mr. E. Stanley Butler; pianoforte, Mr. Brinley Richards and Mr. F. G. Edwards (Organist of Christ Church), who also accompanied the vocal music. There was a large and appreciative audience, and the concert was in every respect a decided success.

WE should be glad to draw attention to a transposing key-board, which we have lately seen at the establishment of Messrs. Berrow & Co., New Bond Street, agents for the pianofortes of Pleyel, Wolff & Co. This key-board can be fitted to any pianoforte; and as it can be removed without the slightest difficulty, the instrument can be used with or without it, at pleasure. For amateur vocalists this will be a great boon, as by merely moving the key-board a song can be immediately transposed to any key.

A CONCERT took place at the Working Men's Institute, Bermondsey, on the 23rd ult., under the direction of Mr. Stedman, assisted by Miss Jessie Royd, Miss Ada Muriel, Mr. Thurley Beale, Mr. J. C. Beuthin, and Miss Florence Sanders, whose brilliant performance on the pianoforte was a great feature of the concert. "Trust," a new song, was introduced by Mr. Stedman, and "Goodwin Sands," by Mr. Thurley Beale, both of which were well received.

MISS CLARA HODGSON gave her first Concert at the London and South-Western Literary and Scientific Institution on Monday evening the 22nd ult., when an excellent programme was provided. Miss Hodgson was highly successful in all her songs, and received several encores. The other vocalists were Misses Dunn and Mills, Messrs. Weston, Mills, Goodfellow, Kitton, and Hulford. Mr. T. Merton Clarke was the accompanist.

IT is with sincere regret that we announce the death of Mr. Fred. Sullivan, brother of Mr. Arthur Sullivan, which occurred on the 18th ult. Both as an actor and a vocalist he was well known and highly appreciated; his most popular character, perhaps, being that of the Judge in his brother's clever Operetta, "Trial by Jury."

ON the 9th ult. Mr. Warwick Jordan, who has been organist and director of the choir of St. Stephen's, Lewisham, for nearly eleven years, was presented with a testimonial, consisting of a handsome silver-mounted ivory bâton and a purse of fifty sovereigns, by the choir and congregation.

GRAUN'S "Passion" ("Der Tod Jesu") will be sung at special services, to be held at St. Gabriel's Church, Pimlico, on the Wednesday evenings in Lent (commencing on Ash Wednesday), under the conductorship of Mr. Marcellus Higgs, organist and director of the Choir.

THE Athenæum announces that Mr. W. H. Gladstone, M.P., is engaged on a translation of Thibaut's work "On Purity in Musical Art," and has added a memoir of the Author. It is to be published by Mr. Murray.

THE Gresham Lectures on Music will be delivered by Dr. Wyld, in the Theatre of Gresham College, on the 27th and 28th instant and March 1 and 2. The lectures commence at 8 o'clock, and the admission is free.

THE Countess Pepoli, better known in the musical world as Mdme. Alboni, was recently married in Paris to M. Charles Zieger, a captain in the Paris Republican Guard.

REVIEWS.

Messe du Sacré Cœur de Jésus; pour Chœur à 4 Voix et Orchestre. Par Ch. Gounod. Partition, Piano et Chant. [Paris: H. Lemoine.]

THE present work is M. Gounod's latest contribution to Church music. It was first performed in the Church of St. Eustache, Paris, at the Festival of St. Cecilia, on the 22nd of November last. While by no means of equal value throughout, it must as a whole be pronounced far superior to the earlier "Messe Solennelle," in G major (also a "Cecilian" Mass). There is in the former a theatrical, in places we might almost say a clap-trap, element, which is wanting in the present work—at least so far as can be judged from the pianoforte score. M. Gounod has sought in many parts to give an ecclesiastical tone to the music by the employment of quasi-antique harmonic progressions. Of fugue, strictly speaking, there is no example in the work, though several points of more or less free imitation are to be met with.

The Mass is in the key of C major, and, with the exception of the "Benedictus" and the "Communion" (the latter an orchestral number), is for full chorus throughout. Whether the composer has done wisely in limiting his resources by not availing himself more largely of solo voices may be questioned. In some of the longer movements, especially the "Gloria" and "Credo," the introduction of the quartet would undoubtedly have given more variety to the colouring, and been felt as a relief after the long continuance of choral music.

The "Kyrie" is by no means one of the best portions of the Mass. The opening subject—is not to our mind particularly interesting; and, though skilfully treated, the whole number is wanting in inspiration. The "Gloria" is very much finer. The opening movement, it is true, we do not care for; here, as in his earlier Mass, M. Gounod, with the evident idea of representing angelic music, has given the whole of the first portion of the hymn piano. The voices have, till the end of the movement, nothing but repetitions of the dominant, G, in unisons and octaves, and are accompanied by this somewhat commonplace subject for the orchestra:—

but at the change of time to Allegro C, for the "Laudamus te," the music greatly improves. A bold subject is announced by the basses, and taken up in free imitation by the other parts. The "Domine Fili," also treated in imitation, is of great beauty, but too long for quotation. A remarkably fine progression will be found on page 18 of the score, of which we must quote merely the harmonies. It occurs at the words "Qui sedes ad dexteram Patris":—

Something very similar will be found at the beginning of the "Sanctus" of Schubert's Mass in A flat, lately published. Did Gounod get the idea from him, or is the coincidence accidental? The chromatic harmonies on the "Miserere" (pp. 18, 19) are extremely effective; but from the "Quoniam" to the end of the movement the music is less striking, an unusually long dominant pedal point, of twenty-two bars, being the chief feature worthy of note.

The "Credo," in G major, is to our mind the finest part of the Mass, being excellent throughout. After a broad introduction of five bars for orchestra, the chorus enters fortissimo, without accompaniment, with a subject which sounds like a harmonised plain chant:—

and the alternations of orchestra and voices are continued for some time. Among the many interesting points of this number must be especially mentioned the "Crucifixus," with its expressive figure of accompaniment, and the powerful setting of "Et iterum venturus est," with the bold modulation at the word "Judicare," the dominant seventh of A flat being followed immediately by the tonic of B flat major.

The "Sanctus" is one of the less interesting parts of the Mass; but the "Benedictus" is both new in form and charming in detail. Here alone through the work the solo quartet is introduced; and the novelty of the movement consists in the frequent interruption of the quartet by the chorus, not (as in Beethoven's Mass in C) echoing the soloists, but with the words "Osanna in excelsis" in broad chords.

The "Agnus" has some resemblance to the corresponding movement in Verdi's Requiem, both in its general character and in its unisonous opening. This, again, is one of the best numbers in the Mass, and if well performed would be certain to please. Of the concluding "Communion," which is given arranged for four hands, we prefer to reserve our opinion till we have an opportunity of hearing it with orchestra. It is not very effective as a duet, and we should have been hardly inclined to indorse the opinion expressed on its first performance that it was one of the finest parts of the work. Much, no doubt, depends upon the orchestration; and to this no clue is given in the vocal score.

Briefe von Moritz Hauptmann, Cantor und Musikdirektor an der Thomasschule zu Leipzig, an Ludwig Spohr und Andere. Herausgegeben von Dr. Ferdinand Hiller. (Letters of Moritz Hauptmann, Cantor and Director of Music at the Thomas School in Leipzig, to Ludwig Spohr and others. Edited by Dr. Ferdinand Hiller.) [Leipzig: Breitkopf and Härtel.]

THE publication in 1871 of two volumes of letters addressed by Moritz Hauptmann to his friend Franz Hauser naturally excited considerable interest among musical readers; for seldom has the correspondence of any musician been published which contained so much that was really instructive. In Mendelssohn's charming letters, familiar to English readers through Lady Wallace's excellent translations, we find incidentally much valuable information; but Hauptmann's correspondence is for the most part more strictly musical, and he was a man of such clear views (though in certain respects somewhat old-fashioned), and of such excellent common sense, that, whatever the subject on which he discourses, he has always something to say which is worth hearing. The wish that was generally expressed on the appearance of the letters to Hauser, that a further selection of the correspondence might be published, has now been realised by the issue, under the superintendence of Dr. Ferdinand Hiller, of the present volume, which is quite as delightful reading as those which have preceded it. It is just one of those books that we can open at random at any page with the certainty of finding something interesting to arrest the attention. This very fact, however, makes it a difficult book to review, because there are so many plums in the pudding that one does not know which to pick out.

The present volume contains letters from Hauptmann to Ludwig Spohr, Selmar Bagge, Ferdinand Böhme, Ferdinand Breunung, Eduard Hille, Ferdinand Hiller, Franz von Holstein, Otto Jahn, O. Kade, Louis Köhler, Carl Koszmaly, J. J. Maier, Gustav Rebbling, Julius Rietz, Ernst Rudorff, Conrad Schleinitz, Caroline Seibt, Wilhelm Speyer, Arnold Wehner, and Johannes Wolf. The most important series is that addressed to Spohr, which occupies about a fourth of the whole volume, and includes the whole or part of thirty letters. Next come those to Otto Jahn and Louis Köhler. Among the most interesting are the letters to Jahn, written for the most part while the latter was engaged on his great biography of Mozart, and full of the most clear-sighted remarks on that great master. They are, however, mostly given at such length as to render a quotation which shall do them justice impossible within our limits; we therefore prefer, as specimens of the works, to translate a few of the "Extracts" given at the end of the book, which are, we presume, taken from letters not included in the present collection:—

"The worst thing in art is mediocrity; that which is bad is not half so mischievous, because it is seldom performed, for nobody will hear it; but that which is mediocre is good enough for many, and so we have plenty of it."

"The prospect of making money by composition is not very bright; a composer must be a favourite and in demand if he will earn as much as a humble piano teacher with low terms. I have often to repeat this when young people come to me, and wish to become composers. If they show talent I do not wish to dissuade them from their fondness for composition, but I must always advise them to prepare themselves with enduring industry and zeal for musical practice of some kind, for what will be practically useful. Just as one cannot easily choose poetry for his exclusive vocation, but must be clever at something else besides making verses, so is it also with composition. Who knows most composers only as composers? they are in their place always something else—piano teachers, virtuosi, members of orchestras, music-directors, conductors—composition is, as a rule, reserved for holidays, and need not on that account turn out any the worse. Even if the time of work be interrupted, the work itself can be connected, and have unity in the idea. The idea may even gain in concentration in such disconnected hours of leisure, while unrestricted leisure may lead to too lax breadth and want of conciseness. Neither too much nor too little leisure will be the best, just as in everything else neither too much nor too little is always the best, or rather the only good."

One more extract is all for which we can afford space; and it shall be of a different kind. The following is Hauptmann's opinion of the great violinist Joachim—an opinion in which all musicians will heartily concur:—

"Joachim is unique; with him it is not the technique, and not the tone, and nothing that one can speak about; but that all these points recede into the background, and are not noticed at all, and we hear simply the music—with all its depths a modesty of performance such as we shall not meet with again, and yet also so effective that without obtrusion of any kind he is everywhere acknowledged."

We warmly recommend this most charming book to such of our readers as are sufficiently familiar with the German language to be able to enjoy it.

A Text-Book of Harmony; for the use of Schools and Students. By Charles Edward Horsley. [Sampson Low and Co.]

THE work now before us was completed only a short time before the death of its author, which took place last year in New York, so that it may of course be regarded as the latest development of his ideas upon the theory of the art of which he was so able a professor. In reviewing books on Harmony, we have often said that in the endeavour to be simple there is constantly a danger that facts will be pared down, or lightly passed over, to accord with the writer's "system"; and we are bound to say that Mr. Horsley's Treatise is no exception to the rule. Indeed, the manner in which the author is disposed rather to turn aside from, than to court, enquiry into questions involved in doubt is sufficiently shown by his observation upon the alleged invention of the diatonic scale by Guido d'Arezzo: "Somebody," he says, "must have invented the form of scale so long in use, and therefore the above author may as well have the credit of the boon he has conferred as any one else, in all probability less entitled to the distinction." This is scarcely a satisfactory method of disposing of the subject, perhaps; but it is convenient. Curiously enough, our author starts with the Triad of C, which he terms the "Normal Triad," and calls all the others in the scale "Transpositions." To a certain extent he seems to agree with the theory of Rameau, who certainly, although a most acute thinker, was one of the many law-givers who, as we have already hinted, found the utmost difficulty in reconciling existing facts with his system. Having fixed the Triad of C as the one upon which new thirds are to be added, Mr. Horsley first gives us a flat seventh upon this chord (which, of course, takes us into the key of F), and calls it the "Dominant seventh," telling us at the same time that this addition "forms no new chord," but that it is "another consonant interval of a minor third, which, added to the fifth of the root, forms, between the extremes, C to B \flat , the interval of a minor or flat seventh." He then adds the major and minor ninth upon this chord, and, true to his theory, even takes the "added sixth" on the same bass note, saying nothing whatever about its occurring upon the subdominant of the scale, and indeed preventing any student from thinking that it can do so by making F the root, and calling it the "first inversion of the major ninth, with the third of the root as its highest sound, and a major, instead of a flat seventh, as its harmony." Now it may give an appearance of simplicity to the subject to take one triad upon which to pile sevenths, ninths, and sixths; but when a student has been told that the original chord is upon the key-note, he can scarcely understand that when a seventh and ninth are added it becomes the dominant of the key a fourth above, and, when a sixth is added, the subdominant of the key a fifth above, although it is true that by the author's treatment of this latter chord he does not believe that the subdominant has necessarily anything to do with it. The augmented sixth (or, as Mr. Horsley terms it, the "Extreme sharp sixth"), still taken upon the harmony of C, he boldly says "has no root;" but he suggests A "as nearly approaching to what it should be." This assertion disarms criticism, for although we can discuss the truth of a given root, it puzzles us when a theorist proclaims that a chord has "no root" at all. As Mr. Horsley says in his Preface that this book is the result of "twenty years of study, during thirty years of teaching," it is of course entitled to respect; but as we have never yet met with any pupils who have studied on this system, we cannot say how far it has helped the author's disciples on their road. It is pleasurable now to turn to those portions of the work which do not involve disputable points of theory; for as we well know (by his published compositions) that Mr. Horsley was a highly-accomplished musician, it may reasonably be expected that the examples scattered throughout will be most carefully considered. The explanation of Intervals is clear enough, although of course we do not agree with the author that, in Harmony, the ninth can be considered merely a "repetition of the second." The best illustrations are the sequences of the various chords, and students may learn a great deal by transposing these examples. Some of the observations, too, upon the method in which pupils should work are worthy of notice, for, apart from his own musical acquirements, it must be remembered that Mr. Horsley was intimately acquainted with Spohr, Mendelssohn, Hauptmann, &c., and we all know how much the character is moulded by constant intercourse with the aristocracy of art.

The Christian Hymnal.

The New Church Hymn-Book.

[John F. Shaw and Co.]

POSTERITY cannot possibly lay to the charge of this generation that it produced no hymnals. Notwithstanding their costliness and the time necessarily required for their compilation, they crop up like primroses in a country lane; but let us qualify the simile by adding, only as to their quantity. What posterity will say to their quality is a very different thing, even should it have neither more nor less knowledge than we ourselves possess. The two books before us are average specimens of their kind. "The Christian Hymnal" contains more than three hundred tunes, set to five hundred hymns. How many of these five hundred sets of words are really good, regarding them as specimens of poetry, or edifying or elevating regarded as expositions of doctrine or religious sentiment, can best be determined by those who have devoted their attention to this question. When occupied in critically classifying hymns, how soon does the "first quality" become limited! Perhaps the same might be said of tunes also; and the only consolation, when one sees these bulky half-thousands, is obtained in the reflection that the good and true will certainly come to the front and live, and the weak or mischievous as certainly sink out of memory and die. Arrangements from secular or instrumental works are far too frequent in the Hymnal before us. Beethoven, Méhul, Spohr, Mendelssohn, Handel, and others have been dragged into the arranger's net, the tune dished up from the Dead March in Saul towards the close of the book (No. 475) filling up the measure of this iniquity. Of some of the tunes the authorship of which is described as "Anonymous" we can only say the authors are to be congratulated on maintaining their incognito. Of the tunes expressly composed for the work some are of great merit, notably No. 358, by J. B. Calkin, several from the prolific pen of Dr. Gauntlett, and No. 213, by Dr. Sullivan; but of others we cannot speak so favourably: No. 441, by Arthur Patton, is decidedly weak, although in this respect admirably matched to the words, the first stanza of which commences:—

"I'm a little pilgrim," and the second:—

"Mine's a better country."

Miss Whateley's tune, No. 266, with its bad consecutive octaves, cannot be commended. On the whole, the harmonies are good; several faults which we at first attributed to the editor's lack of skill seemed on consideration to be misprints; such, for example, as the last note in bass bar 7 of No. 64, which should be G, and in bar 14 of No. 91, where tenor should be A \flat ; other misprints are more obvious, such, for instance, as the omission of the flat to A in the tenor part of bar 3, No. 259. To our general praise of the harmonies many exceptions must be made; certainly the last bar but one of No. 77 is not justifiable, nor is No. 251 satisfactory. Whether No. 22 is harmonised as the composer left it, we are unable, without further reference, to say, but the progressions are throughout incoherent.

"The New Church Hymn-Book," sent to us for review from the same publishers as "The Christian Hymnal," seems to differ only as to the selection of words, the music having evidently been issued under the same editorship, and, as a result, entitled to the same just admixture of praise and blame. "The Church Hymn-Book" is that known as "Kemble's Hymn-Book," to which a considerable number of churchmen staunchly adhere. After all, people really adopt hymnals more from the character of the words than that of the music; and those who are bound up with the section of thinkers which these books represent will find them admirably suited to their purpose. All of us who pin ourselves to a party have to make some sacrifice or other, either of independence of thought, freedom of action, or money. Those who adopt these hymnals will, no doubt, gladly put up patiently with a few uncouth musical progressions, when they consider how well their religious sentiments are expressed in the words.

Casgliad O Donau y diweddar John Roberts of Henllan.
[J. Haddon and Co.]

THIS is a collection of Hymn Tunes composed by the late John Roberts of Henllan and published by his son as a monument to his father's memory. Although the majority are in a style now losing its hold on popular estimation many are good of their kind, and some are remarkable for freshness and originality. Amongst these, "Rhyw afon a gaed" ("O worship the king") is deserving of special praise. Next to this in merit is "Angelion doent yn gysson" ("Hail to the Lord's anointed"), which, as a melody, is strikingly beautiful. Evidently the author of these tunes was gifted by nature with genuine talents for music, and had he been thrown into a sphere of work more suitable to their growth and proper training, without doubt he would have left his mark.

A Service for the Holy Communion. Adapted from Spohr's Oratorio "The Last Judgment" by the Rev. Edward Husband. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE question of the justifiability, or otherwise, of arrangements is one for which no hard and fast line can be drawn; it must be in all cases one of expediency. There are, however, certain general principles which may be of service in guiding to a decision in particular cases. For instance, to adapt music with familiar secular associations to sacred words is evidently inadmissible. We therefore object on principle to the use of the "Christy Minstrel" melodies and music of that class for children's hymns, and also to Psalm tunes, such as are to be met with in some collections, made from operatic melodies—Mozart's "Batti, batti" and "Ah perdona," or (as we lately saw in one popular tune-book) the slow movement of the Overture to "Der Freischütz." But when we come to the question of adapting one piece of sacred music to different words, we are on more difficult ground. Here, perhaps, our safest guide will be the principle that the new text should not be unsuited in feeling to the music, and that the latter should not be altered. Tried by these tests, Mr. Husband's Communion Service taken from Spohr's "Last Judgment" must be pronounced partly satisfactory and partly the reverse. It would be unjust not to acknowledge the extreme ingenuity with which in places he has dovetailed in the new words. Thus the whole of the opening chorus of the Oratorio, "Praise His awful Name," including the incidental soprano and bass solos, has been adapted to the Nicene Creed, and so well adapted that we should not have believed it possible had we not seen it actually done. Here not a note of the music has been altered, and the expression certainly in many parts suits the new text admirably. The "Sanctus" (set, of course, to the "Holy, holy" of the original) is also excellent; nor perhaps could any reasonable exception be taken to the adaptation of the "Benedictus" to the solo and chorus, "All glory to the Lamb." But in other parts of the service Mr. Husband has done what we consider quite inadmissible. For instance, his "Kyrie" is made from a fragment of the duet "Forsake me not," while another part of the same movement does duty for the "Agnus." Not merely is the music mutilated, but passages written by Spohr for two solo voices are arranged for full chorus. It certainly should either have been left as the composer wrote it, or let alone. The "Gloria" is a curious piece of patchwork. It begins, very appropriately, with the opening of Spohr's "Blessing, honour, glory, and power," the fugue which forms the middle part of the chorus being omitted, and the end of the chorus tacked on to the beginning. Then at the words "O Lord, the only-begotten Son" we find the unison chorus, "If with all your hearts." "Thou that takest away the sins of the world" is adapted to the quartet, "O Lord, who shall not fear thee;" and lastly, at "For Thou only art holy" the music of the "Blessing, honour" is introduced again. We will not go so far as to say that the musical effect of the whole is unsatisfactory. The arrangement is very clever, but, as it stands, it is not Spohr's; and, on principle, we strongly object to this presentation of a composer's ideas in a juxtaposition so different from that which he designed.

"O pray for the peace of Jerusalem." Solo and Chorus from the Anthem "I was glad when they said unto me." Composed by E. H. Thorne. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE elaborate Anthem of which the present piece is the middle movement was composed for the re-opening of Chichester Cathedral in 1867; but the whole work being too long (and we might add too difficult) for ordinary occasions and for average choirs, this portion is now reprinted separately. Of the wisdom of this procedure there will not be two opinions from any who knows the music; for this solo and chorus is one of the most pleasing and attractive pieces of church music which has for some time come under our notice. The opening solo is very graceful, and remarkable for the freedom of its harmonic treatment. We find here nothing inconsistent with the dignity of sacred music, but at the same time there is a freedom from the conventional style of cathedral anthems which gives much freshness to the composition. The free imitation on the second page between the solo and chorus, at the words "they shall prosper that love thee," is very good, a novel and pleasing effect being produced by the soprano and tenor of the chorus singing in octaves. Even better, perhaps, is the treatment of the text "Peace be within thy walls," in which the tenor chorus accompanies the soprano solo, the rest of the chorus entering later, and leading back, with an unaccompanied phrase, to the return of the first subject. The close of the movement is also very charming, and the whole piece has given us much pleasure, as it will doubtless do to those who may sing or hear it. It is not particularly easy, for it requires very careful intonation, and much attention to light and shade; but it will well repay for the pains spent in its preparation.

This is the day which the Lord hath made. Full Anthem for Easter. Composed by S. Charles Cooke. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE present anthem is tuneful and easy to sing. It suffers to some extent from want of unity of style, which, however, may be explained, if not altogether justified, by the selection of the words, which are taken from Psalm cxviii. v. 24; 1 Cor. xv. v. 20, 21, 22, 57. The music, however, has plenty of spirit, and is not dry. We are somewhat at a loss to understand the way in which the organ part is written. From the indications of the pedal on the fourth page, we should suppose a C organ was intended, but in other parts of the anthem we find the low B and A written, notes which are not on the manual of a C organ, and which, if intended for the pedal (which appears doubtful, as they occur in octave passages for the left hand), should have been written an octave higher.

Oh, Linger. A Song of Delos. Poetry by Mrs. Hemans. Without thine ear. Song. Poetry by Lord Byron. Composed by Charles Salaman. [J. B. Cramer and Co.]

We hope that the multiplication of Mr. Salaman's vocal compositions may be accepted as a sign that they are as welcomed by the general public as they should be by musicians. It is true that he has always something to say, but he rarely records his thoughts in conventional language; and purchasers of his works, therefore, must have sufficiently trained their minds to wait for the revelation of beauties which do not lie upon the surface. The first of these songs, especially, justifies these prefatory remarks. As a specimen of the form of the German lied, "for voice and pianoforte," it may be cited as one of the best we have seen from Mr. Salaman's prolific pen. Preceded by a gracefully flowing symphony, the voice part lingering upon the B, in excellent sympathy with the words, commences with a most melodious theme, the varied character of which is reflective of the poetry throughout. We are particularly pleased with the broken phrases occurring on the last two pages, after the close on the key-note; and although we might take exception to the word "oh" being lengthened out to two bars of three triplets each, the conclusion of the song, musically speaking, is highly effective. "Without thine ear," in E flat minor and major, composed to a song of Medora's, in Byron's "Corsair," is more simple in construction, but the melody is extremely expressive, and the accompaniment—appropriately subdued until the change into the tonic major—merely indicates the natural harmonies of the theme. We can heartily recommend this song to all lovers of unaffected vocal music.

Love's Spell. Song. Words by Willy De Burgh. Composed by W. Borrow. [Keith, Prowse and Co.]

THERE is much musical feeling displayed in this song, but the accompaniment requires some revision. The descent of the voice in perfect 5ths with the bass (page 3, bar 6), and the doubling of the C, instead of E (in the 8th bar, same page), are faults which should scarcely occur even in so simple a ballad. The words are excellently adapted for musical setting, and Mr. Borrow has well caught the spirit of the poetry.

Six Romances sans paroles. Pour Piano. Par Lefébure-Wely. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

1. Le Sésia (Italie). Rêverie.
2. La Wartha (Allemagne). Mélodie.
3. La Neva (Russie). Caprice.
4. La Guadiana (Espagne). Sérénade.
5. La Lys (France). Rêverie.
6. La Dyle (Belgique). Berceuse.

THE character of each of these six Romances is determined by its title; so that, although confessedly "sans paroles," we have some indication as to what the author had in his mind whilst composing them. With the exception of Nos. 3 and 4, we can scarcely see that they are especially representative of the countries they are supposed to illustrate; but all are thoroughly artistic sketches, and, containing no great executive difficulties, will be found well worthy the attention of amateurs. The figure in the left hand gives much point to the legato subject of No. 1; but it is perhaps scarcely as attractive as No. 2, the theme of which is commenced with the left hand, and afterwards given in octaves, to the right hand, with a rapid accompaniment. Nos. 3 and 4 will, no doubt, be the most popular of the set, the melodies of both being well marked, and No. 4, in A minor, having the true Spanish ring throughout. The subject of No. 5, with the accompaniment divided between the two hands, is well contrasted by an animated theme in the subdominant; and No. 6 is appropriately placid, with a characteristic phrase for the left hand, which is continued, almost without a break, throughout the piece. Like all the pianoforte music of this composer, these sketches are extremely refined, and devoid of any pedantic display of learning.

La Primavera. Mélodie pour le Piano.

L'Estate. Blquette de Salon.

L'Autunno. Morceau de Salon.

L'Inverno. Morceau de Salon.

Par Louis Dupuis. [C. Jefferys.]

WHY, in writing four pieces to illustrate the seasons, one should be termed a "Mélodie," a second a "Blquette," and a third and fourth a "Morceau," we are at a loss to understand. M. Dupuis has, however, in composing for young players, consulted their taste, as well as their probable acquirements; and the result is a group of compositions admirably adapted for their purpose. The melodies are extremely pleasing; and although the resemblance in their treatment is striking, young performers will no doubt estimate each on its own merit, and kindly forget one when they play another. Nos. 1 and 4 are exceedingly melodious, and both in the nursery and the drawing-room will, we are inclined to believe, become the established favourites. The coloured illustrations are most attractive, that representing Autumn and Winter being especially worthy of commendation.

Under the Lily Bells. Fairy Dance, for the piano-forte. By Michael Watson. [C. Jefferys.]

It is well when pieces are published for the exclusive use of juvenile pianists that they should be as good as this little "Fairy Dance" of Mr. Watson's; for even as a holiday trifle for those who are studying more classical works, it may be conscientiously recommended. The subject is appropriately airy and tuneful; and one or two points—especially the change into A flat, and the playful manner in which the key of C is reached—particularly deserve notice. We have seen many bagatelles by this composer which amply prove his aptitude for the position to which he aspires—that of a child's composer—but can scarcely point to one more sparkling and tuneful than his Dance "Under the Lily Bells."

FOREIGN NOTES.

In glancing over the lists of performances at the various operatic establishments in Germany, published periodically in a very clear and interesting form by the Leipzig Signale, we cannot help being struck by the extraordinary activity displayed on the part of managers in presenting to their public the greatest possible variety of works of—for the greater part—standard excellence. It is somewhat tantalising, from an English point of view, to read that during the month of November, for instance, the Hof-Theater at Dresden, Munich, and Stuttgart produced fifteen, twelve, and ten operas respectively, without once repeating the same work during that period! The same applies to the small but excellent theatre at Mannheim, with its nine performances of opera during the same month, amongst which the name of Gluck figures twice. Under such conditions the modern "star" system is rendered comparatively harmless. Of the efforts in a similar direction on the part of the Royal Opera at Berlin we have spoken in our last report. It is true the above establishments are all largely supported by their respective Governments, and, considering the benefit which has for many years accrued from them to the interests of the art, they will always furnish a strong argument in favour of the existence of the minor courts of Germany. In the performances of the different Stadt-Theater—i.e., theatres depending entirely upon the support of the public—an equal variety, though of a somewhat more doubtful character, is perceptible; the works of Offenbach being occasionally in close proximity to those of Mozart and Beethoven.

An activity no less marked has been exhibited in the sphere of concerts at the various centres of German musical life, although, on account, no doubt, of the general feeling of uncertainty in political and commercial matters, there has been of late a considerable falling off in the attendance on the part of the public. According to the Berlin correspondent of the Neue Zeitschrift für Musik, even the sterling performances of the Stern'sche Gesangverein conducted by Julius Stockhausen, as well as the Quartett-Soirées of Herr Joachim, accustomed to overflowing audiences, have this season presented the unwonted spectacle of some rows of vacant seats. On the other hand, the concerts given by a young Spanish violinist, Sñr Pablo de Sarasate, have attracted universal attention all over Germany. The musical papers are enthusiastic in their admiration of the Southern virtuoso, whom the Allgemeine Deutsche Musik-Zeitung does not hesitate to rank by the side of such consummate masters of the instrument as Joachim and Wilhelmj.

The two novelties mentioned in our last issue as having been introduced at the concerts of the Gewandhaus in Leipzig—namely, a Symphony (No. 3) by Jadassohn, and a vocal and instrumental work by Hofmann entitled "Die schöne Melusine," have both been pronounced wanting in originality by the German press, although the former work is said to mark a step in a more serious sphere of the art on the part of its gifted composer. We learn from the Signale that Herr Hofmann has just completed an opera in four acts, on a historical subject entitled "Armin."

At Leipzig, Miss Clara Meller, from London, has made successful débuts, both at a matinée given by the young pianist, and at a concert at the Gewandhaus. The local papers speak highly of the lady's qualifications and versatile talent in interpreting the classical works of the old as well as the modern masters of the art. The débutante was rewarded by frequent marks of approbation on the part of the audience.

Numerous additions have been made during the past month to the polemical literature bearing upon the Bayreuth performances of August last, the majority of them being most enthusiastic in their support of the "new era in art" inaugurated by the Nibelungen Tetralogy. In addition to these pamphlets, several separate impressions have been published of letters written under the immediate influence of the Bayreuth plays, which had appeared in leading periodicals at the time. To those who take an interest in the matter, and who, having followed the many enthusiastic accounts of these performances published in Germany and elsewhere, still hold to the maxim of audi et alteram partem, the perusal of the excellent letters of H. M. Schletterer, originally published in the Augsburg Allgemeine Zeitung, may be confidently recommended. With regard to the repetition this year of the Nibelungen performances, our readers will find in another column of our present issue a modification of the announcement extracted from German periodicals in our last number. Herr Wagner, who has returned to Bayreuth from Italy, is said to be busily engaged upon his new work, entitled "Parsifal," the text for which he had already completed as far back as the year 1866, while staying at Luzern. To give an idea of the restless activity of this remarkable man, we may mention that, during the same period, he was occupied with the composition of the now famous "Ring," while at the same time he wrote "Die Meistersinger" and completed his "Tristan und Isolde." In his new drama of "Parsifal" the conflict between Christianity and Paganism forms a prominent feature, and will, according to the opinion of the initiated, find a most powerful expression. The first part of the Trilogy, "Walküre" (taking "Rheingold" to be the Prologue), as well as other fragments from the "Ring," have been performed in the concert-rooms of various German towns. At the Austrian capital, too, "Walküre" is in course of preparation, and will, it is announced, be performed at the Imperial Opera House towards the end of this month.

On the 26th of March next the fiftieth anniversary of the death of Ludwig van Beethoven will be completed. In commemoration of this event a committee has been formed at Vienna with the object of promoting the erection of a monument to that "supreme master" at the Austrian capital. The model of the intended statue, designed by Professor Zumbusch, has already been partially completed, and a performance in aid of the undertaking has taken place at the Imperial Opera. Signor Verdi was one of the earliest subscribers; he has contributed the sum of 500 francs.

The Beethoven literature has been enriched by a new work entitled "Beethoven, as described by his contemporaries," the author being Ludwig Nohl. The volume is dedicated to "The Master, Richard Wagner, of Bayreuth."

Madame Christine Nilsson made her first appearance at Vienna on the 8th ult., when, in the character of Ophelia, and subsequently in that of Marguerite, the Diva created a furore which, according to a correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, would seem to be almost unprecedented even in her long list of triumphs.

Schumann's "Manfred," the text of which is based upon Byron's drama, has recently found an adequate representation at the Imperial Opera at Vienna.

At St. Petersburg Rubinstein's Oratorio, "Paradise Lost," has been most favourably received. The work was conducted by the composer himself.

At Paris the concerts of classical music at the Conservatoire and the Populaires continue to attract numerous audiences; the names of German masters which most frequently appear in the programmes being those of Bach, Beethoven, and Mendelssohn.

At the Théâtre-Italien, Mdle. Albani achieved a genuine triumph in the rôle of Gilda in "Rigoletto," and, according to Le Ménestrel, the fair artist is firmly establishing herself in the favour of the Parisian public. We read in the Revue de la Musique that a new opera by M. Louis Deffès; the text by M. Sardou, is in course of preparation at the Opera-Comique.

M. Gounod has, it is said, written a new comic opera called "Cinq-Mars," the hero of which is the well-known favourite of Louis XIII., whom Richelieu convicted of conspiracy, and who died upon the scaffold with his accomplice, de Thou.

Mdlle. Clara Vairo, of the Théâtre-Italien, initiated an interesting concert at the Salle Herz a few weeks ago, before a select audience of artistic celebrities and amateurs. M. Capoul and Mdme. de Lagrange were among the performers, as was also a pupil of the latter, Mdle. Emilia Chiomi, who in an air from "Lucia" displayed a voice of crystal clearness and great brilliancy in the florid passages.

The Revue et Gazette Musicale of the 21st ult. contains a very interesting article on Weber's stay at Paris, in the year 1826, before he paid his fatal visit to England.

A new opera by Flotow, "Fiore d'Arlem," has met with great success at Turin; many of the morceaux had to be repeated.

The first representation of a new Opera from the pen of Signor de Giosa has lately taken place at Naples. The work in question, which is called "Napoli di Carnovale," was received with that demonstrative enthusiasm which generally characterises Neapolitan audiences, the composer being summoned to appear before the curtain no less than forty times.

A subscription has been set on foot by the Paris journal La Liberté, with the object of erecting a monument to the memory of Félicien David. The call thus made upon the public has already been liberally responded to.

A daily journal, entitled Actualidade, published at Oporto, has conceived the happy idea of periodically publishing in its Feuilleton an outline of the subject of various operatic works, accompanied by a short sketch of each of the scenes. By this means the general public becomes initiated into the frequently somewhat obscure plots of existing operas, while at the same time the ground is prepared for an intelligent appreciation of their respective merits.

Madame Essipoff, the eminent Russian pianiste, gave a short series of Concerts at Boston, U.S., in December last. Dwight's Journal concludes a sympathetic notice of the lady's performances with the following remarks: "Mdme. Essipoff has left us with a strong desire to hear her more, and in better programmes, and to know her better. If Rubinstein and Bülow gave us rather a surfeit with immense programmes, she has left us with an appetite. We fear it will be long before we hear any pianoforte-playing to compare with hers, unless she come again."

CORRESPONDENCE.

MENDELSSOHN'S "LIEDER OHNE WORTE."

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

DEAR SIR,—I am much obliged by the insertion of my letter on the above subject in your last publication, and also for the remarks you have kindly made on it, and which to my mind throw considerable light on the matter.

Having no opportunity of consulting the earliest foreign editions when writing to you, my examinations were necessarily imperfect; nor, indeed, was I aware that such editions existed, though common sense might have led me to infer as much.

It appears from your perusal of the older foreign editions that what I have alluded to as omissions and alterations in the old English copies are really additions and emendations made subsequently to the publication of the former. If so, by whom were they made? We read* that Mendelssohn composed the second book of "Lieder" in the winter of 1844—5, and in Moscheles' Life† we also read that Mendelssohn did not visit England during the years 1834—9. Further on we have the statement at page 90, vol. 2, that in 1841 Moscheles was engaged in correcting the proofs of the fourth book of "Lieder." Were these alterations and emendations in Book II. by the hand of Moscheles? By whomsoever they were made they must be considered as improvements, particularly the addition of six bars in No. 10 and the avoided cadence 17th bar from the end.

I enclose the text of the bars in No. 8 according to your suggestion, and trust they will render intelligible that which before appeared "unintelligible." In conclusion, I take the liberty of mentioning that at page 35 of your present number the fourth bar of No. 10 should have two semiquaver B's for the fifth and sixth notes in the bass; also at the second No. 11 the first note in treble should be A instead of F; and would also draw to your notice that, by changing the places of the F and E to E and F in No. 11, bar ten from the end, at Φ , the effect of fifths is produced.—I remain, dear Sir, yours truly,
Salisbury, Jan. 6, 1877. C. J. READ.

* "Life of Mendelssohn," by Lampadius, p. 26.

† "Life of Moscheles," by his wife.

The Old Editions of Mori and Lavina, Novello, Benedict, &c.

No. 8 (bars 22 and 55).

Herr Pauer's Edition.

No. 8 (bars 22 and 55).

The Old Editions.

No. 8 (bars 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, and 63, 64, 65, 66, 67).

The New Editions of Pauer, Novello, &c.

No. 8 (bars 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, and 63, 64, 65, 66, 67).

SMALL NOTES.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Your correspondent "Allegro" has, I think, rendered good service to pianoforte players by opening up the question of Grace Notes. I doubt, however, if it can be settled so easily as he imagines.

For the best statement of views on this subject opposed to his own I may refer him to Von Bülow's notes to Beethoven's Sonatas generally, and in particular to those on the "Appassionata."

Judging from the last example given by your correspondent, I should doubt whether he can have read or sufficiently considered these. I fully believe that no "sensible musician" would give the barbarous reading suggested. The old rule (of placing small notes on the beat) is not applicable to the passage given, but if it were so the result would be—seeing that neither the ancient nor modern practice displaces the melodic accent from the principal note, even when this is displaced from the beat.

Perhaps a phrase from the so-called "Moonlight Sonata" may suffice to show that there are two sides to this question—

The practice of a "sensible musician" would surely be, in this case, to take the value of the small notes from the following crotchet (on which the emphasis still remains) rather than from the preceding semiquaver. In nine cases out of ten this is the undoubted rendering of Beethoven's small notes, but exceptions doubtless occur, which are mostly indicated in the invaluable "Cotta" Beethoven. Making allowance for misprints, I think it will be found (as Von Bülow points out) that Chopin's music uniformly requires this rendering of the grace notes. But one of his peculiarities I have not yet seen noticed—namely, his employment of two distinct grace notes (or sets of grace notes), one of which precedes and the other accompanies the beat. I take the first passage that occurs to me from a well-known Nocturne by this composer.

Here, I think, it is not doubtful that it is the second small D that should be played at the beat.

According to Lebert and Von Bülow, broken chords follow the same rule, so that the lowest note is at the beat while the highest retains the accent. If this last condition be neglected, we have what has been rudely called the "Ladies' Arpeggio," an effect often produced by dull pupils, but also a favourite one with ladies of a certain age—especially if they live in the provinces and wear silk mittens. The last example given by "Allegro," if it were in Arpeggio, would illustrate my meaning exactly.

Whether a broken chord should commence before or at the beat must be decided in each case as it arises. I think it will be found that the latter rendering is rather the exception than the rule, but both are in their place legitimate effects.

Need I add that I have been speaking mainly of compositions for the pianoforte? The orchestral question I leave untouched.—I am, Sir, yours, &c.,

CLEVELAND WIGAN.

Dover, 4th December 1876.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

* Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will greatly oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all Subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music pages are always stereotyped, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

J. P. CARLISLE.—The "Creation" was written to German words.

MR. J. V. PINLEIF should read the notice of H. Phillips in THE MUSICAL TIMES of December last, to which the paragraph given in January was an addendum.

VIOLIN.—I. William Forster was born in 1764, and died in 1824, 2. No relation.

HENRY SMITH.—We should recommend Wentworth Phillips's "Guide to Young Pianoforte Teachers and Students," published by W. Cerny.

B. W.—The work alluded to is a Treatise on "Musical Notation," by E. Silas.

P. GREENFIELD.—We cannot furnish our correspondent with the information required.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this Summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers, or supplied to us by correspondents.

ABERDEEN.—The annual Christmas performance of Handel's Messiah took place in the Music Hall on Tuesday, Dec. 26, and was attended with great success, the large hall being quite filled. The soloists were Mme. Pauline Grayston, Miss Patti Hargreaves, Mr. Wright, and Mr. T. Laws. The choruses, by the Union, were sung with great precision, more especially "He shall purify" and the "Hallelujah." Mr. Leon Guyon led the band; Mr. Wood's trumpet obligato was much appreciated; and Mr. W. Morrison presided at the organ.

BANBURY.—A Concert was given in the Town Hall, on December 28th, under the auspices of the Mechanics' Institute. The artists were Mme. Wells, Mr. O. Christian, Mr. Nicholson, and Mr. Josiah Booth. The programme was of a miscellaneous character. Mr. Booth, besides playing two solos, discharged the duties of accompanist.

BEXLEY.—On Tuesday the 16th ult. a private Evening Concert was given at The Vicarage by The British Glee Union (Messrs. Barnby, Parkin, Brough, and Prenton), under the direction of Mr. Prenton. The programme, consisting of glees, madrigals, quartets, songs, and duets, gave great satisfaction, the part-singing being distinguished for the minute observance of the marks of expression.

BLACKLEY.—The Choral Society gave their Annual Concert on Saturday the 20th ult. The first part consisted of selections from Handel's Judas; the principals being Mrs. Herron, Miss Blackley, and Miss Shaw (trebles); Mr. W. Bastide (alto), Mr. Earnshaw (tenor), and Messrs. Wm. Fox and John Taylor (bass). In the second part the band performed the Overtures to Samson and Saul, and other selections. The audience was not very large.

BRIGHTON.—The annual performance of the Messiah, in aid of the funds of the neighbouring Charities, took place on the Saturday preceding Christmas-day; and although the attendance, chiefly in consequence of the unfavourable weather, was not so numerous as could be desired, thanks to the indefatigable exertions of Mr. George Watts

(the local musical director to Messrs. Cramer and Co.), who sent £5 worth of tickets to most of the institutions for the benefit of which the concert was organised, in order to secure their co-operation, the sum realised was in excess of that raised last year. The principal vocalists were Madame Lemmens-Sherrington, Madame Antoinette Sterling, Mr. Vernon Rigby, and Mr. Lewis Thomas, and the Conductor was Mr. F. Kingsbury, under whose direction the choruses were excellently rendered. The band was thoroughly efficient, and Mr. Willing ably presided at the organ.

BRISTOL.—A Concert was given by Miss Brennan in the Athenæum Hall, on the 23rd ult., and was attended by a large audience. The programme comprised a variety of favourite ballads and songs, the vocalists being Miss Brennan, Miss Cottelle, Mrs. Grieve, Mr. Rowe, Mr. York, and Mr. Stuart Higgs. Mr. Stuart Higgs conducted. The audience was large and enthusiastic.

CARSHALTON.—On Monday evening the 22nd ult. a performance of Mendelssohn's Elijah was given in the Public Hall. The band and chorus numbered upwards of ninety performers. The solos were rendered by Madame Adeline Paget, Miss Emily Pittard, Mr. G. F. Carter, and Mr. R. Hilton. A feature of the evening was the singing of Madame Paget, it being her first appearance since her return from Italy. Mr. Burry conducted.

CASTLEMERE.—On Saturday evening, December 30th, Mr. W. H. Richmond, organist of Dundee Cathedral, gave a Recital on the organ of the United Methodist Free Church. The programme was admirably chosen to display the capabilities of the instrument, and there was a judicious blending of the popular and the classical. The Rev. T. B. Saul moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Richmond.

CHELTONHAM.—The Messiah was performed on Tuesday evening the 2nd ult. by Mr. J. A. Matthews's Choral Society, at the Assembly Rooms. There was a well-selected band of thirty performers, including Mr. T. Harper for the trumpet obligato. The solos were sung by Miss Julia Jones (who was most successful in "Rejoice greatly" and "Come unto Him"), Mdlle. Alice Roselli, Miss Pilling, Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr. Bywater (tenor), Mr. Hallowell, and Mr. Halford. Miss Snackman and Mr. Twinning also rendered good service. The choruses were excellently given, "For unto us," "Lift up your heads," and the "Hallelujah" creating a great impression. Mr. E. G. Woodward led the band, and Mr. J. A. Matthews conducted. —Two Concerts were given in the Assembly Rooms on the 10th ult., in aid of Ladies in distressed circumstances. Miss Julia Wigan, Miss Adela Vernon, Miss Bertha Griffiths, Miss Cummings, and Mr. Cecil Tovey were the principal vocalists. A small and effective choir sang several choruses, motets, and part-songs. The most effective were Hummel's "Alma Virgo," the solo part well rendered by Miss Vernon, and Leslie's "Lullaby of Life." Mr. J. A. Matthews presided at the harmonium, and Mr. C. H. Lloyd at the pianoforte.

CHESTERFIELD.—On Tuesday the 16th ult. Handel's Oratorio Judas Maccabæus was performed in the Assembly Room, Market Hall, by the members of the Chesterfield Choral Society. Miss Mary Davies was the principal vocalist, her singing of the recit. and air "From mighty kings" being especially satisfactory. Miss Morton and Mrs. House took the contralto parts in the several duets, and were well received. Mr. S. Marsden, a member of the Society, sang the bass solos with good taste, receiving an encore in "The Lord worketh wonders." Messrs. E. & H. Slack took the tenor solos. The choruses were given with precision, and reflected great credit on the members of the Society. Mr. T. Tallis Trimmell, Mrs. Bac, Oxon., officiated as conductor, and Mr. J. Peck led the band.

CHICHESTER.—A grand Evening Concert was given in the Assembly Rooms, on Friday the 19th ult., when the following artists appeared: Miss Annie Sinclair, Miss Florence May (pianist), Herr Pollitzer (violin), Mr. Charles Brie (violinello), and accompanist Mrs. Dean. The programme included Handel's "Harmonious Blacksmith," Scarlatti's "Presto in G major," Domenico Alberti's "Giga in G minor," and Brahms's "Hungarian Dances" for pianoforte solo. Ernst's "Elegie" for violin solo; Mendelssohn's Trio in D minor, Op. 49; and Beethoven's Trio in E flat major, Op. 1, No. 1, for pianoforte, violin, and violinello; and Miss Annie Sinclair sang Sullivan's "There sits a bird on yonder tree," Bishop's "Bid me discourse," "Auld Robin Gray," and Ledue's ballad "Jenny of the Mill," for which last she obtained an encore. A large audience was present.

CLAPTON.—On Wednesday the 17th ult. the Downs Musical Society, under the direction of Mr. E. J. Wallis, gave a performance of the Messiah in Downs's Chapel, to a large audience. The choruses were well sung, especially "For unto us" and the "Hallelujah." The soloists were Madame Clara West, Madame Poole, Mr. Stedman, and Mr. Thurley Beale. Madame West sang with her usual accuracy the soprano solos, and Madame Poole those allotted to the contralto with much feeling. Mr. Stedman was highly effective in the tenor solos, and Mr. Thurley Beale's "Why do the nations" was warmly received. Mr. Parker and Mr. Hainworth were the accompanists on the piano and harmonium respectively. During the interval there was a collection.

CLIFTON.—The forty-first (annual) ladies' night of the Bristol Madrigal Society was held at the Victoria Rooms, on the 11th ult., and, as usual, the spacious saloon was thronged. The choir numbered 100 voices, distributed as follows: 15 first sopranos, 15 second sopranos, 8 first altos, 8 second altos, 11 first tenors, 15 second tenors, 16 first basses, and 12 second basses, the local vocalists being assisted by gentlemen from Cambridge, Windsor, Temple Church, London, Wells, Gloucester, and Hereford. The concert was made up of selections from the elder madrigal writers, varied by approved compositions by Mendelssohn, Macfarren, and that famous local composer whose "In dulce jubilo" is always best given and received with greater clat when sung by the Bristol Society; Hatton's "Jack Frost," a new work to the Society, had a cordial reception; and the Rev. Precentor Hey's (Bristol Cathedral) "How dear to me," for four voices, a graceful piece, which, though slight in comparison with some of the elaborate madrigals included in the programme, was well received. Mr. Rootham conducted.—Mr. James C. Daniel gave an Evening Concert at the Victoria Rooms, on Monday the 15th ult., in connection with his Clifton Winter Entertainment, the artists being Miss Robertson, Miss Fanny Robertson, Mr. James Sauvage, and Mr. Henry Pope, solo violinello Mons. Albert, and conductor Sig. Randegger. The concert was a decided success in every respect.

DUDLEY.—On Tuesday evening, Dec. 26, the Dudley Vocal Union gave an excellent rendering of the Messiah in the Public Hall. The principal vocalists were Miss M. A. E. Woolley, of Birmingham, Miss Emilie Lloyd, of Wolverhampton, and Messrs. W. Grayson and J. Turner, both of Lichfield Cathedral, all of whom acquitted themselves in a very efficient manner. Mr. B. Barlow conducted.

EDINBURGH.—Sir Herbert Oakeley gave an Organ Recital in the Music Class-room on the 11th ult. to a crowded audience. The majestic power of the instrument was finely brought out in the Solomon choruses and in Chopin's Funeral March. The programme also included Haydn's Symphony in G (The Surprise), and selections from Bach's works.

ERITH.—Hiller's "Springtime" and Barnett's "Ancient Mariner" were performed by the Choral Society, on the 18th ult., under the direction of Mr. Richard Lemaire, at the Public Hall. The principal vocalists were Miss Catherine Penna, Mr. Cockell, and Mr. Thurley Beale, all of whom sang admirably, and the choruses, with one exception, were excellently rendered. Mr. W. Byron accompanied on the pianoforte.

ENNISKILLEN, IRELAND.—The Annual Soirée was held in connection with the parish of Rossory on Friday the 12th ult. Mr. Arnold's Choral Class performed a number of part-songs during the evening; and Miss Bagot and Mr. Porter were the solo vocalists. Mr. Arnold conducted.

FIVEMILETOWN, CO. TYRONE.—The members of the Choral Class gave their fourth Concert on the 28th Dec. in the Court House, when selections from Handel's Messiah, Christmas Carols, &c., constituted the first part of the programme; the second part was miscellaneous. The solos were well sung by Fraulein Rüder, Mrs. Brooke, Mrs. Richards, Miss Burnside, Messrs. Arnold, Montgomery, Irvine, &c. An special feature in the programme was the violin and piano duet of Mozart (Op. 21), in F, rendered by Mrs. Montgomery and Mr. Arnold. Mrs. Montgomery accompanied on the pianoforte, and Mr. Matthew Arnold, of Enniskillen, conducted.

GILLINGHAM, KENT.—On Wednesday the 3rd ult. the first of a series of concerts was given by the members of Gillingham Church Choir, assisted by an orchestra. The programme was miscellaneous. Mr. Chant, the organist of the parish church, presided at the piano.

GREENOCK.—A Concert was given in the Town Hall, on New-Year's Day, by the Choral Union, the members numbering upwards of 90 voices. The soloists were Mdlle. Pauline Grayston, Mr. Verney Binns, and Mr. Maybrick. Mr. Patterson Cross conducted with his usual ability. Mr. Poulter presided at the organ, and Mr. P. Scott (pianist) rendered good service as accompanist.

HEIGHAM.—The Annual Concert, in aid of the Choir Fund, was held on Thursday the 4th ult., and, both financially and musically, was most successful. Among the more notable numbers were Anderton's "Felling of the trees," sung by Miss Snape, and Borrow's new song, "Love's Spell," well rendered by Miss Fyson. The overture to Zampa and Post and Peasant (Suppé) were played by the band with much precision, under Mr. Borrow's skilful conductorship. Mr. Pratt performed a violin solo with good effect; and the pianoforte playing of Miss Flory Browning, who gave Mendelssohn's "Rondo capriccioso" and Wollenhaupt's "Caprice Arien," elicited such applause that she was compelled to reappear and perform two additional pieces.

HEXHAM.—Mr. John Nicholson, organist of the Abbey Church, gave a Concert at the Town Hall on the 19th ult., before a large and most appreciative audience. Mr. Nicholson's pianoforte performance was much admired; and a "Duo Concertante" with Mr. J. H. Beers (violin) and a pianoforte duet with Master Seaton elicited the warmest applause. The principal vocalists were Miss Atkinson, Messrs. Pletts and Nutton, an special feature in the programme being the part-singing of the Abbey Church Choir.

HIGH WYCOMBE.—The organ in Trinity Congregational Church, after considerable additions and improvements, was re-opened on the 18th ult. The alterations have been carried out by Mr. Godman, of St. Albans. Mr. Edwards, organist of Christ Church, Kennington, displayed the instrument to advantage. The vocalists were the Misses Butler, Vernon, and Manston, and Messrs. Gale, Weston, and Woodbridge.

LEE.—A Concert was given in the National Schools on Tuesday the 9th ult., before a large audience. Mr. Stone, jun., of Chesham, sang, with his accustomed success, "The maid I love is six years old," and received several encores. Miss Gibson, Mr. Plaistowe, and Mrs. Ackermann were also very efficient. Glees, &c., were given by the choir in praiseworthy style.

LIVERPOOL.—A "Bach Society" has been recently established here, under the direction of Mr. W. Appleyard, late of Manchester. The object of the Association is the study of the vocal works of Bach; and as fifty members have been already enrolled, there appears every prospect of a highly gratifying result. —The Saturday Evening Concerts commenced on the 6th ult., at the Concert Hall, Lord Nelson Street, when a well-selected programme of popular music was excellently rendered. The artists were Madame Thaddeus Wells, Madame Whitaker, Mr. Orlando Christian, and Mr. Henry Nicholson.

MACCLESFIELD.—Mr. Chas. Seal gave his fourth Subscription Concert on Monday evening the 8th ult. Miss Pickering and Mr. Seal were the vocalists, Mdlle. Bertha Brousil solo violinist, and Mr. Ch. McKorkell, of Northampton, solo harpist and pianist. There was a good attendance.

MANCHESTER.—On the 10th ult. Mr. J. Yarwood gave a Concert in the Corn Exchange, when a comprehensive and well-selected programme was gone through. The artists included Miss Marie Sutton, Miss Lizzie Dow, Miss Shipshides, and Messrs. T. Allen, R. Williamson, G. Foulkes, J. Fildes, John Openshaw, and D. Dunkerley. Some admirable selections were also given by the Fairhurst and Orpheus Glee Parties, the concert-giver's composition, "England's Municipal Glee," being enthusiastically encored. The concert was well attended, and, in every respect, was an unqualified success.

MELBOURNE.—At the second performance of Costa's Oratorio Eli a large audience was assembled, and the performance of the work reflected the utmost credit upon all concerned. A meeting of the artists took place in the supper-room of the Town Hall after the concert, when a handsome liqueur-stand and a purse of sovereigns were presented to Mr. H. E. P. Thompson, the hon. sec. of the Eli chorus, and the gentleman who placed the full vocal and instrumental scores of Costa's work at the disposal of the Conductor, Mr. Herz.

NEWCASTLE.—The new organ, built by Mr. F. Nicholson, for St. John's Church, Westgate Road, was opened on the 9th ult., by Mr. Rea. The inauguration consisted of a grand organ Recital, from the works of Mendelssohn, Spohr, Saint-Saens, Rea, Rheinberger, Haydn, and Handel. In the evening divine service was held in the church, when Mr. Thomas Todd, the organist, presided at the instrument for the service, and Mr. Rea played a solo.

NORTH BERWICK.—A Concert was given by the North Berwick Musical Society, on Friday, December 29th: Vocalist, Mdme. Pauline Grayston; Conductor, Mr. Frank Bates. Mdme. Grayston's rendering of "Rejoice greatly" and "From mighty Kings" was much appreciated. The choruses were well sung, especially "Achieved is the glorious work" and "Lift up your heads." In the secular part of the programme Mdme. Grayston received enthusiastic encores for her songs "Robin Adair" and "The forsaken." Much praise must be given to Mr. Frank Bates, who conducted.

NOTTINGHAM.—The "Christmas Festival" of the Sacred Harmonic Society took place in the Mechanics' Hall on the 26th December, Haydn's Creation being given in the morning and a miscellaneous selection in the evening; Madlle. Titiens was the soprano vocalist in Haydn's work, Mr. Guy and Signor Campobello singing respectively the principal tenor and bass airs. At the evening Concert the same artists appeared, and Madlle. Titiens received a perfect ovation for her brilliant rendering of Weber's "Ocean, thou mighty monster;" a feature of the evening, too, was the Carol "Good King Wenceslas," specially arranged for the occasion by Mr. H. S. Irons, organist of St. Andrew's. Mr. Charles Hallé conducted.—On the same evening Mr. William Pyatt gave a performance of the Messiah at the new Albert Hall, which was in every respect highly successful. The principal solo parts were excellently rendered by Madame Edith Wynne, Madame Patey, Mr. E. Lloyd, and Signor Foli. There was an efficient band, led by Mr. Val Nicholson, and the Oratorio was ably conducted by Mr. F. M. Ward.

OXFORD.—An admirable Concert took place on the 24th ult., in the Town Hall. The artists were Miss Annie Sinclair, Mdme. Osborne Williams, Mr. Stedman, Mr. Geo. Fox, Mons. Victor Buziau, and Mr. Henry Parker. Among the most noticeable numbers were the "Angel" Duet (Rubinstein), sung by the two ladies; "O ruddier than the cherry," by Mr. Geo. Fox; Gounod's "Ave Maria," by Mr. Stedman; "The Lady of the Lea," Mdme. Osborne Williams; "The Bailiff's Daughter," Miss Annie Sinclair; the Quartet "Over the dark blue waters" (Weber); and the Fantasia "Otello" (Ernst), played by Mr. Buziau, all of which were extremely well rendered.

PENISTONE.—On Wednesday, the 3rd ult., an excellent Concert was given at the Assembly Rooms, on the occasion of the thirteenth of the series of annual parochial gatherings, by the Sheffield Orpheus Quartette. The solo vocalists were Mr. Makin, Mrs. House, and Mr. A. Wilson. The glees were excellently rendered, and the concert generally gave great satisfaction. Mr. Hedgman was the accompanist, and Mr. F. Allen, who officiated in the unavoidable absence of Mr. Berrisford, rendered able assistance.

PLYMOUTH.—A Recital of the opera Maritana was given by the Plymouth Vocal Association at the Second Subscription Concert on the 12th ult., in the Guildhall. The solo vocalists were Madame Sinico-Campobello, Madame Rose Hersee, Madame Demerick-Lablache, Mr. Wilford Morgan, Signor Snazelle, and Signor Campobello. The choruses were well sung by the members of the Association. Mr. Löhr conducted; Mr. Pardew led the band; and Mr. Faulk presided at the organ.

RAMSGATE.—On Tuesday the 23rd ult., Mr. J. F. Thorne, who has been the organist of St. Mary's for fourteen years, was presented with several testimonials, on the occasion of his leaving for Coventry. The Vicar (The Rev. R. Elwyn) presided, and there was a large gathering of members of the congregation and friends.

READING.—A successful Concert was given by the Reading Choral Society on the 16th ult., at the Town Hall, the first part consisting of a selection from Il Trovatore, and the second part being miscellaneous. The principal vocalists were Miss Catherine Penna, Mr. Henry Guy, and Mr. Frank Ward. A feature in the programme was an overture composed by the conductor (Mr. Old), which was so well played by the band as to elicit an enthusiastic encore.

RIPLEY, NEAR DERBY.—An Evening Concert was given in the Public Hall, on Thursday the 18th ult., for the benefit of the poor. The band was led by Mr. W. S. Woodward, who also contributed two violin solos. The vocalists were Miss Arthur (of Leeds), Mr. F. Baldwin, and Mr. V. Shepherd, each of whom received well-merited applause. Miss Fanny Arthur was an efficient pianist, and Mr. W. W. Woodward conducted.

ROCHDALE.—The Amateur Orchestral Society gave a Concert in the Town Hall on the 29th December, which was highly successful. The lady vocalist was Miss Annie Butterworth, who was encored in both her songs. Mr. Abercrombie (tenor) has a good voice, and created a favourable impression. Mr. Richmond, of Dundee, gave a splendid performance on the piano; his selections were much appreciated. An interesting part of the concert was a solo on the bassoon, by Mr. Fotheringham. The playing of the orchestra was characterised by care, and merits praise. Mr. Lofthouse conducted.

RYDE.—The Choral Union gave an excellent performance of Handel's Samson, on the 23rd ult., at the New Town Hall, the chorus especially giving evidence of careful training on the part of Miss Margaret Fowles, who conducted on the occasion. The orchestra and chorus numbered nearly 140, and the solos were rendered by Miss Jessie Brown (soprano), Miss A. Bradley, R.A.M. (contralto), Mr. Hanson (tenor), and Mr. Cross (bass). Mr. Godwin Fowles, F.C.O., presided at the organ, and accompanied the recitatives. Mendelssohn's Elijah is to be given at the next concert.

SADDLEWORTH.—An Evening Concert was given in the Mechanics' Hall, Uppermill, in aid of the Boarhurst Brass Band, on the 20th ult. The principal vocalists were Miss E. Smythe, Mr. N. Dumville, and Mr. H. Lister, each of whom did full justice to the solos. Mr. J. W. T. Platt (solo pianist) deserves high praise for his performance which was warmly applauded. The band gave a selection under the leadership of Mr. J. Radcliffe.

SALISBURY.—Mr. Henry Cross, R.A.M., principal bass of Salisbury Cathedral, gave his second annual Concert on Wednesday the 17th ult., with great success. The vocalists were Madame Cross Lavers, Miss Reimar, R.A.M., and Mr. T. W. Hanson; Mdme. Bertha Brouil (solo violin), Mr. John Cheshire (solo harp), and Mr. G. Thorne (solo pianoforte). The concert was under the especial patronage of His Royal Highness Prince Leopold.

SHEFFIELD.—The fifth series of Orchestral and Vocal Concerts, introduced by Messrs. Peck and Wainwright on Saturday afternoons, at the Albert Hall, was commenced on the 13th ult. The programme embraced Mozart's overture to Zauberflöte, the Andante and Allegro Molto from the "Surprise" Symphony of Haydn, Lumbye's "Ma Vie," and the overture Cleopatra, by Blanchetean, each of which was excellently given. Mr. J. T. Wilde played a solo on the violoncello in a masterly manner. Master Holmes, of Manchester Cathedral, and Mr. Henry Makin were the vocalists. Mr. J. Peck was leader of the band, and Mr. Sinclair accompanist. — On the 20th ult. the second of the series was given, when an excellent programme was performed in a highly satisfactory manner. Miss Clara Linley gave an artistic rendering of Hummel's Fantasia, Op. 18. Miss Allen and Master Holmes were the vocalists, and Mr. Sinclair accompanied.

TENBURY.—On the 29th of December the Musical Society gave the Second Concert of the Season, at which Mr. Henry Gadsby's recently published Cantata, Alice Brand, and Macfarren's Christmas were performed. In both these works the Choruses were admirably executed. Members of the Society took the soprano and contralto solos, and Messrs. C. Wade and E. C. Jones kindly lent their assistance in the tenor and bass parts. Between the performance of the two Cantatas, Mrs. Littleton Wheeler and an efficient band gave Bennett's Fourth Pianoforte Concerto with great spirit. The Rev. J. Hampton conducted.

THIRSK.—An amateur Concert was held in the Assembly Rooms on Monday the 8th ult., which was highly successful. The instrumental portion of the programme was played in a manner which reflected the greatest credit on the executants, Mrs. Cholmeley and Lady Lawson, Herr Otto Denk and Mr. J. H. Rooks. The vocalists were also very efficient, the duet "The wind blows fresh from the land" (Smart), given by Mrs. and Mr. Swarbrick, and "O that we two were maying," sung by Mr. J. H. Rooks, accompanied by Lady Lawson (piano) and Sir John Lawson (violoncello), receiving great applause. Mr. J. H. Rooks conducted, and accompanied the various songs.

WELLINGBOROUGH.—The members of the Philharmonic Society, assisted by a few friends, gave, for its ninth Concert, Handel's Messiah, at the Corn Exchange, on Tuesday the 9th ult., under the direction of Mr. W. R. Harrington. The performance was a decided success. The solo singers were Miss Penna, Mrs. Warren, Mr. Hunt, and Mr. Orlando Christian.

WESTERHAM.—Mr. Francis Howell gave a very successful Concert on the 18th ult., at the Public Hall, assisted by Misses Randall, Lockyer, and Harris, and Messrs. W. Whitehead, T. Chapman, and Horace Buck, as solo vocalists, and a small but efficient orchestra. Mr. W. Whitehead and Miss Whitehead gave an excellent rendering of Beethoven's first sonata in D, for violin and pianoforte. Mr. Howell presided at the pianoforte.

WIMBLEDON.—Mr. Gerard Henry gave his second Annual Evening Concert at the Lecture Hall, on Tuesday the 16th ult., assisted by Miss Osman, Miss Martha Harries, R.A.M., Mr. C. A. White, R.A.M., Mr. J. Churchill Arlidge (flute), and The "Euterpe" Quartette (Messrs. Mills, Elsmore, Prestidge, and Budge). Mr. W. D. Sumner (organist of Christ Church) discharged the duties of accompanist most efficiently. Miss Osman and Miss Harries were highly successful in their songs, and The "Euterpe" Quartette were well received. Mr. J. C. Arlidge displayed a good tone and execution. The bénéficiaire gave a capital rendering of "Non é ver," and a new song (first time) entitled "The Lighthouse" (composed by A. J. Dye).

WINDSOR.—A Christmas performance of Handel's Messiah took place on Tuesday, the 16th ult., in the St. Mark's Schools, by the members of the Windsor and Eton Choral Society. The soloists were Miss Banks, Miss Christian, Messrs. Mellor and Orlando Christian, and Master Arthur Smith, of the St. George's Chapel Choir. Sir George Elvey conducted. Miss Christian (daughter of Mr. O. Christian), who made her first appearance in public, was fairly successful in the contralto airs, and was loudly applauded. The choral singing was exceptionally good, "The Hallelujah" and "Worthy is the Lamb" being especially effective. The instrumental portion of the orchestra was under the leadership of Mr. Liddle, Mus. Bac. Mr. T. Harper, of London, was the trumpet soloist.

WOLVERHAMPTON.—A performance of the Messiah was given on the 26th December, at the Agricultural Hall, under the auspices of the Wolverhampton Festival Choral Society. The solo parts were sung by Mdme. Edith Wynne, Miss Helen D'Alton, and Messrs. Barton M'Guckin and Federici, all of whom did justice to the music. Mdme. Edith Wynne and Mr. Federici receiving the largest share of applause. Mr. Stockley, as usual, was a most efficient Conductor, and the choir was well drilled and numerically strong. The band, with Mr. Henry Hayward as leader, was highly efficient, and an especial meed of praise is due to the solo trumpet performance of Mr. Robinson. Mr. F. H. Bradley accompanied.

WORCESTER.—The Philharmonic Society gave its Third Concert of the present series on Friday the 12th ult., when Barnett's Cantata Paradise and the Peri, and a miscellaneous selection, were performed. The solo parts were sustained by Miss Jessie Jones (soprano), Miss Emily Dones (contralto), Mr. J. A. Smith (tenor), and Mr. O. Millward (bass). The band and chorus numbered 120 performers. The second part of the concert included the overture to Oberon, songs and duets by the principals, and march and chorus from Ruins of Athens (Beethoven), and part-song, "The sea hath its pearls" (Pinsuti), for the chorus. The singing of Miss Jessie Jones and Miss Emily Dones was much appreciated, and the concert was most successful throughout, the Hall being crowded in every part. Mr. Quarterman presided at the pianoforte and harmonium, and Mr. W. Done, as usual, conducted. The third and last of Mr. Spark's Subscription Concerts of this season's series took place on Monday evening the 16th ult., at the Music Hall. The Concert was one of the most successful, the programme being judiciously selected. The artists were Madame Campobello-Sinico, Madame Rose Hersee, Madame Demeric Lablache, Mr. Wilford Morgan, Mr. Snazelle, and Signor Campobello, vocalists, Signor Nicala Norrito (solo clarinet), and Signor Romano (conductor).

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. Walter W. Robinson, organist and choirmaster to Unity Church, Upper Street, Islington, N.—Mr. J. O. Smith to the Church of the Holy Apostles, Charlton-Kings, Cheltenham.—Mr. G. Starmer to St. Peter's, Tunbridge Wells.—Mr. James Loaring, organist and choirmaster to St. Mark's Church, Bradford, Yorkshire.—Mr. Ernest E. Parkes to Christchurch, Winchester.—Mr. R. Virgoe Miles to St. John the Evangelist (Chapel of Tailors' Benevolent Institution), Haverstock Hill, N.W.—Mr. C. W. Robinson, organist and choirmaster to the church of King Charles the Martyr, Falmouth.—Mr. John Waddington, jun., to the Wesleyan Chapel, Westow Hill, Upper Norwood.—Mr. Henry Rogers to St. John's Church, Cheltenham.—Mr. Arthur W. Marchant, organist and director of the choir to S. Leonard's Parish Church, Streatham.

CHOIR APPOINTMENT.—Mr. Charles Lee (principal bass), to New Church, Chorlton-cum-Hardy, Manchester.

OBITUARY.

On the 21st inst., at her residence, 14, George Street, Hanover Square, aged 89, Emily Chappell, widow of the late Samuel Chappell, of New Bond Street.

MRS. NEESHAM (Soprano).

For Oratorio or other Concerts, address 118, Burley Road, Leeds.

MR. JAMES SEARLE (Tenor),

321, Liverpool Road.

MR. ADOLPHUS PHILLIPS (Basso).

(Of the Cathedral Choir, Lincoln.)

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 92, Newland, Lincoln.

MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS.—CANDIDATES
TRAINED for Examinations, either personally or by correspondence. Dr. Holloway, F.C.O., 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

TO COMPOSERS.—Dr. HOLLOWAY continues to Revise and Arrange every description of Music for Publication. Students prepared for the profession or for examinations. If residing at a distance, lessons can be had by post. Faults pointed out, and every information given to the young aspirant. Dr. Holloway, F.C.O., 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

PIANOFORTE, ORGAN, HARMONIUM, SING-ING, HARMONY, and COMPOSITION. LESSONS to Private Pupils or in Schools. Dr. Arthur S. Holloway, 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

ORGAN, PIANOFORTE, HARMONIUM, HAR-MONY, &c., One Guinea Per Quarter; Lessons and Practice on fine modern Instruments. Organist, 22, London Street, E.C. Est. 1855.

A LADY PIANIST, of well-known reputation, pupil of Thalberg, Hallé, and Benedict, wishes to teach Music in a first-class Ladies' School, in or near London, where her daughter, aged 12, would be educated. References to several of the nobility. Address, Madame S., Challenger's Music Warehouse, Ladbroke Grove Road, Notting Hill, W.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

MOZART.—Sonatas. For List, see page 87.

MARTIN, GEORGE C.—A short festival setting of the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis (in C), composed for the Dedication Festival, St. Paul's Cathedral, 1877. 8vo., 6d.

HIRD, F. W.—Twelve Offertory Sentences. 8vo., 2s.

CROFT, DR.—Sing Praises to the Lord. Full Anthem for Four Voices. 8vo. Edited by J. Stainer. 4d.

HAYES, DR. W.—Save, Lord, and hear us. Full Anthem for Five Voices. 8vo. Edited by J. Stainer. 6d.

PACEY, F. W., Mus. Bac., Oxon.—Like as the hart. Anthem for Four Voices. 8vo., 8d.

WILLIAMS, C. L., Mus. Bac., Oxon.—The Souls of the righteous. Anthem for All Saints' Day. 1s. 6d.

GRIFFITHS, EDWARD. Thou didst leave Thy Throne and Thy kingly Crown (Christmas Carol). 8vo., 2d.

BURTON, REV. GUS. M., Mus. Doc.—The Birth of Christ. A Service of Sacred Song, being a collection of Scripture Passages, Anthems, and Hymns, illustrating the principal events in the Infancy of Jesus. 1s. 6d.

KERBUSCH, LEO, Mus. Doc.—Rise up, my love. Chorus, with an accompaniment for the pianoforte or organ. Arranged from the orchestral score. The words from the "Song of Solomon." 8vo., 6d.

WRIGHT, HENRY S.—Wouldst thou through life. Four-part Song. S.A.T.B. Post 8vo., 1½d.

ALLEN, ALFRED B.—Sweet Birdie mine. Song. 2s.

GASKELL, JAMES.—Old and New. A Song of the changing year. 1s. 6d.

LORRAINE, J. F.—Against the Stream. Song. Words by F. E. Weatherley. 2s.

SMART, HENRY.—Charge, Chester, Charge! Song. Written by H. B. Farnie. 1s. 6d.

LEFEBURE-WELY.—Hop. Caprice brillant pour Piano. Op. 186. Arranged as a pianoforte duet by Berthold Tours. 2s. 6d.

SPOHR.—Rose softly blooming. Romance. Transcribed for the Pianoforte by Franz Liszt. 1s. 6d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—New Instrument; 2 manuals, 2½ octaves of pedals, with bourdons throughout. Terms very moderate. E. Entwistle, 1, Charles Street, Camberwell New Road.

AN Italian Lady, accustomed to church singing, wishes for ENGAGEMENTS to sing in Protestant Churches. Has a fine Soprano voice, and also gives finishing lessons in singing. Very satisfactory references. Signora, 150, Sloane Street.

WANTED, by a Young Lady, pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby, an ENGAGEMENT at a Church. She has a powerful Soprano voice, is a good reader and successful vocalist, and is well up in sacred music. K. H., 67, Huntingdon Street, Barnsbury.

PIANOFORTE TUNER.—A Young Man, a good Tuner, is open to an Engagement. Gentlemanly appearance; can be well recommended. Apply to F. A., Post Office, Southampton Road, Kentish Town, N.W.

A LADY VOCALIST (Soprano) wishes to obtain FINISHING LESSONS in SINGING from a first-class Professor who would introduce her to concerts and oratorios of the highest order. Apply, by letter, to A. L., Mr. Cockhead, Norfolk Terrace, Bayswater, W.

BOYS' VOICES, and an ALTO WANTED, must read pretty well. Apply at St. Mary-at-Hill Church, Eastcheap, on Thursdays or Sundays after evening service.

TENOR REQUIRED for All Saints', Kensington Park, W. Full cathedral service. Stipend, 20 guineas per annum. None but experienced men need apply. Address E. H. Birch, Mus. Bac., Oxon., 91, Lancaster Road, Notting Hill, W.

BASS SINGER, with good voice and able to read well, WANTED for St. Barnabas, Bell Street, Edgware Road. £10. Apply to Rev. R. W. Burnaby, 17, Blandford Square, N.W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED for St. Paul's Church, Rushall, Tunbridge Wells. Salary, £60. A very fine Organ by Bryceson Bros. and Morten. Apply, with testimonials, to John H. Gower, Mus. Bac., Trent College, Nottingham.

ALL SAINTS', Margaret Street.—There is a VACANCY in the Choir of this Church for a TENOR. A good reader indispensable. Duties, two services on Sundays, Ascension and Christmas Day, and a Rehearsal each week. Salary £25, and 10s. 6d. per each extra special day's services. Apply to Mr. W. S. Hoyte, at the Church, any evening at 5.30; or address 68, Boundary Road, St. John's Wood.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED for Scotland; a first-class man will find the engagement a desirable one. Apply by letter to "Scoto," The Musical Times Office.

SMALL PREMIUM offered for MUSICAL CON-NECTION. Country. Near Railway. "Organist," Rose Cottage, Thatcham, Newbury.

"A supreme and perfect harmony of notes."

E. & W. SNELL'S IMPROVED HARMONIUMS, for tone, touch, articulation, and general excellence, are pronounced by the profession and public the best and cheapest extant. Prices, designs, &c., free of E. and W. Snell, 37, Kelly Street, London, N.W. Manufactory, Little King Street North, N.W. Trade supplied.

St. Ewe, St. Austell, Sept. 7, 1876.

Gentlemen,—The Harmonium arrived on Friday last, but I have been so busy that I have not had an opportunity of writing you before. I am very pleased both with the tone and workmanship; the Treble is particularly clear and musical, and the "Forte" and "Pneumatic Sourdine" stops are really effective. Your instruments, if the one in question is a fair sample, are really cheap, and I cannot see how they could possibly fail to give entire satisfaction. I certainly shall send you any future orders I may get. Wishing you every success, which you fully deserve,

Believe me, yours truly,

To Messrs. E. and W. Snell. ALFRED J. WHITE.

WANTED, a HARMONIUM of about 2 rows of vibrators. Send price and particulars to C. J. F., 73, Farleigh Road, Stoke Newington, N.

FOR SALE, an ORGAN, suitable for Temporary Church; oak case, gilt pipes, 2 manuals, 8 stops, full compass of pedals. Apply, 234, Seven Sisters Road, Holloway, N.

ORGAN for SALE. Two manuals, CC to G, fine tone, independent pedal Organ, handsome case. Apply, E. C., 9, Burdett Road, Mile End, London, E.

ORGAN for SALE; a small 3-manual Chamber, with two and third octaves pedals. Stands 9 feet high by 32 inches deep. Price 60 guineas. For particulars address C., 161, Sandringham Road, Dalston, E.

ORGAN for SALE.—Sweet-toned, with swell, 10 stops, handsome mahogany case, suitable for church or chapel. Now in Old Wesleyan Chapel, Upper Norwood. To be had a bargain. Can be seen by appointment. Address Mr. H. Hoare, 1, Westow Terrace, Upper Norwood.

ORGAN for SALE.—Chancel Organ, 6 stops with pedals, 4 stops in a Venetian swell, open diapason in front, with decorated front pipes; 256 pipes. J. G., 7, Exeter Street, Kentish Town, N.W.

HANDSOME 2-manual ORGAN for DISPOSAL. Full compass of pedals, 8 effective stops, front and side speaking tubes. Address Alpha, 75, High Street, Stoke Newington.

TWO-MANUAL PEDAL ORGAN HARMONIUM, with Stool. Cost £75; price 42 guineas; take Piano or Harmonium part payment. Wilkinson, 41, New Road, Commercial Road, E.

HARMONIUMS, all Sizes.—The lowest price for cash. Wanted, a purchaser for a good 7-stop. J., Manufacturer, 6, Adair Road, Westbourne Park, London.

PIANOFORTE, MUSIC, STATIONERY, and FANCY GOODS BUSINESS.—FOR SALE, the STOCK and GOODWILL of an old-established Business, situate on the Parade, Tunbridge Wells. For particulars inquire of the trustee, Mr. Frederick Lucas, 20, Great Marlborough Street, London, W.

"THE VILLAGE ORGANIST."

N.B.—These popular volumes may now be had from the publishers for

FIVE SHILLINGS EACH.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street.

Just published,

NEW COMPOSITIONS for the PIANOFORTE. By OLIVER A. KING.

Legende 3s.
Impromptu Caprice 3s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

NOVELLO'S

TONIC SOL-FA SERIES.

No.			s.	d.
1.	O taste and see	Sir John Goss	0	14
2.	The Lord is my Shepherd	G. A. Macfarren	0	1
3.	Judge me, O God (Psalm xliii.)	Mendelssohn	0	14
4.	Ye nations, offer to the Lord (Hymn of Praise)	Mendelssohn	0	2
5.	I waited for the Lord (Hymn of Praise)	Mendelssohn	0	2
6.	The Lord be a Lamp (St. Peter)	Sir J. Benedict	0	14
7.	O who will o'er the downs	Pearsall	0	1
8.	Fairy Song	Agnes Zimmermann	0	1
9.	The Cuckoo sings in the Poplar Tree	G. A. Macfarren	0	1
10.	The dream of home	E. H. Thorne	0	1
11.	Blow, blow, thou winter wind	G. A. Macfarren	0	1
12.	The Owl	E. Silas	0	1
13.	Sing Lullaby	C. E. Horsley	0	1
14.	The Sands of Dee	G. A. Macfarren	0	1
15.	Summer Morning	Henry Smart	0	1
16.	Great is the Lord	Dr. Hayes	0	14
17.	Blessed is the man	Sir John Goss	0	14
18.	Te Deum Laudamus in F	Henry Smart	0	14
19.	O come let us worship	Himmel	0	14
20.	Blessed be the God and Father	S. S. Wesley	0	14
21.	Hosanna to the Son of David	G. A. Macfarren	0	14
22.	O how amiable	J. Barnby	0	14
23.	O give thanks	Sir Geo. Elvey	0	14
24.	Praise the Lord	Sir Geo. Elvey	0	14
25.	Rejoice greatly	Henry Gadsby	0	14
26.	If we believe that Jesus died	Sir John Goss	0	14
27.	I will magnify Thee	Sir John Goss	0	14
28.	O give thanks	Sir John Goss	0	14
29.	Stand up and bless the Lord	Sir John Goss	0	14
30.	Why rage fiercely the heathen	Mendelssohn	0	3
31.	What are these that are arrayed	J. Stainer	0	3
32.	O love the Lord	A. Sullivan	0	1
33.	The Wreath	Sir J. Benedict	0	1
34.	Daylight is fading	H. Leslie	0	1
35.	Come away, Death	G. A. Macfarren	0	1
36.	When icicles hang	G. A. Macfarren	0	14
37.	Harvest song	W. Macfarren	0	1
38.	More life	W. Macfarren	0	1
39.	Ragged and torn	C. A. Macrone	0	1
40.	Hail, bright abode (Tannhäuser)	Wagner	0	14
41.	Faithful and True (Lohengrin)	Wagner	0	14
42.	Yet doth the Lord, and Cast thy burden (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0	14
43.	Blessed are the men (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0	1
44.	Baal, we cry to thee (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0	2
45.	Thanks be to God (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0	14
46.	Be not afraid (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0	14
47.	Lift thine eyes, He watching over Israel, and O rest in the Lord (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0	14
48.	He that shall endure (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0	14
49.	Behold, God the Lord (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0	14
50.	Holy, Holy is God the Lord (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0	14
51.	But the Lord from the North, and O come every one (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0	14
52.	And then shall your light (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0	14
53.	All men, all things, and Praise thou the Lord (Lobgesang)	Mendelssohn	0	2
54.	All ye that cried (Lobgesang)	Mendelssohn	0	2
55.	The night is departing (Lobgesang)	Mendelssohn	0	2
56.	Let all men praise (Lobgesang)	Mendelssohn	0	1
57.	Heaven and the Earth display (Athalie)	Mendelssohn	0	3
58.	Promised joys, and Hearts feel that love thee (Athalie)	Mendelssohn	0	14
59.	Ave Maria [Female Voices] and A Vintage Song [Male Voices] (Loreley)	Mendelssohn	0	14
60.	Take, O take those lips away	G. A. Macfarren	0	1
61.	O mistress mine	G. A. Macfarren	0	1
62.	Hark! hark! the Lark	G. A. Macfarren	0	1
63.	Sigh no more, ladies	G. A. Macfarren	0	1
64.	Tell me where is fancy bred	G. A. Macfarren	0	1
65.	Chorus of Shepherds, "Forth to the meadows"	Schubert	0	14
66.	Lord, let me know mine end	Sir John Goss	0	14
67.	We give Thee thanks, O Lord	G. A. Macfarren	0	14
68.	In Christ dwelleth	Sir John Goss	0	14
69.	Lift up thine eyes	Sir John Goss	0	3
70.	Glory be to God	S. S. Wesley	0	1
71.	I was glad when they said unto me	C. E. Horsley	0	2
72.	The Lord is my shepherd	Schubert	0	2
73.	The morning stars sang together	J. Stainer	0	2
74.	God said, behold, I have given you every herb	G. A. Macfarren	0	3
75.	O God, Thou art worthy	Arthur Sullivan	0	14
76.	In tears of grief (The Passion—S. Matthew)	J. S. Bach	0	14

ELIJAH	MENDELSSOHN	2	0
HEAR MY PRAYER	MENDELSSOHN	0	3
HYMN OF PRAISE (Lobgesang)	MENDELSSOHN	1	0
ATHALIE	MENDELSSOHN	1	0
LORELEY	MENDELSSOHN	0	6
LAUDA SION, "Praise Jehovah"	MENDELSSOHN	0	9
CHRISTUS	MENDELSSOHN	0	6

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

BEETHOVEN'S SONATAS MOZART'S SONATAS.

(NEW AND COMPLETE EDITION.)

EDITED AND FINGERED BY

AGNES ZIMMERMANN.

In One Volume, Folio, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges, price ONE GUINEA.

OCTAVO EDITION: Paper, 5s.; cloth gilt, 7s. 6d.;

OR, SINGLY—

No.		s.	d.
1.	F minor, Op. 2, No. 1	4	0
2.	A major, Op. 2, No. 2	5	0
3.	C major, Op. 2, No. 3	5	0
4.	E♭ major, Op. 7	5	0
5.	C minor, Op. 10, No. 1	4	0
6.	F major, Op. 10, No. 2	4	0
7.	D major, Op. 10, No. 3	4	0
8.	C minor, Op. 13 (Pathétique)	5	0
9.	E major, Op. 14, No. 1	4	0
10.	G major, Op. 14, No. 2	4	0
11.	B♭ major, Op. 22	6	0
12.	A♭ major, Op. 26	5	0
13.	E♭ major, Op. 27, No. 1 (Quasi Fantasia)	4	0
14.	C♯ minor, Op. 27, No. 2 (Quasi Fantasia)	4	0
15.	D major, Op. 28	6	0
16.	G major, Op. 31, No. 1	5	0
17.	D minor, Op. 31, No. 2	5	0
18.	E♭ major, Op. 31, No. 3	5	0
19.	G minor, Op. 49, No. 1	3	0
20.	G major, Op. 49, No. 2	3	0
21.	C major, Op. 53	6	0
22.	F major, Op. 54	4	0
23.	F minor, Op. 57	6	0
24.	F♯ major, Op. 78	3	0
25.	G major, Op. 79	3	0
26.	E♭ major, Op. 81A	5	0
27.	E minor, Op. 90	5	0
28.	A major, Op. 101	5	0
29.	B♭ major, Op. 106 (Hammerclavier)	10	0
30.	E major, Op. 109	5	0
31.	A♭ major, Op. 110	5	0
32.	C minor, Op. 111	5	0
33.	E♭ major	3	0
34.	F minor	2	6
35.	D major	3	0
36.	C major	2	0
37.	G major	1	6
38.	F major	2	0

The separate Sonatas sold at half-price.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

(NEW AND COMPLETE EDITION.)

EDITED AND FINGERED BY

AGNES ZIMMERMANN.

In One Volume, Folio, handsomely bound in cloth,
gilt edges, price Eighteen Shillings;

OR, SINGLY—

No.		s.	d.
1.	C major	4	0
2.	F major	4	0
3.	B♭ major	4	0
4.	E♭ major	3	0
5.	G major	4	0
6.	D major	6	0
7.	C major	5	0
8.	A minor	5	0
9.	D major	5	0
10.	C major	4	0
11.	A major	4	0
12.	F major	5	0
13.	B♭ major	5	0
14.	C minor (Fantasia)	3	0
14A.	C minor (Sonata)	5	0
15.	F major	6	0
16.	C major	4	0
17.	F major	4	0
18.	B♭ major	5	0
19.	D major	5	0
20.	B♭ major	5	0

OCTAVO EDITION IN PREPARATION.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO.'S COMPLETE EDITION OF MENDELSSOHN'S PIANOFORTE WORKS.

	s.	d.
VOLUME I., elegantly bound in cloth, folio..	12	0
Ditto ditto .. 8vo., 8s.; paper cover	6	0
VOLUME II., elegantly bound in cloth, folio ..	12	0
Ditto ditto .. 8vo., 8s.; paper cover	6	0
VOLUME III., elegantly bound in cloth, folio ..	12	0
Ditto ditto .. 8vo., 8s.; paper cover	6	0
VOLUME IV., Lieder ohne Worte, elegantly bound in cloth, folio ..	12	0
Ditto ditto .. 8vo., 6s.; paper cover	4	0

The only Edition containing the 7th and 8th Books.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ANTHEMS FOR EASTER.

	s.	d.
BARNBY, J.—AS WE HAVE BORNE THE IMAGE OF THE EARTHY	0	1½
ELVEY, SIR G. J., Mus. Doc.—CHRIST IS RISEN FROM THE DEAD	0	1½
— CHRIST BEING RAISED FROM THE DEAD	0	1½
GADSBY, HENRY.—HE IS RISEN	0	1½
GOSS, SIR JOHN.—CHRIST OUR PASSOVER	0	1½
— IF WE BELIEVE THAT JESUS DIED	0	3
— O GIVE THANKS UNTO THE LORD	0	3
GOUNOD, CHARLES.—BLESSED IS HE WHO COMETH IN THE NAME OF THE LORD	0	1½
HOPKINS, J. L.—LIFT UP YOUR HEADS	0	1½
HOPKINS, E. J.—WHY SEEK YE THE LIVING AMONG THE DEAD?	0	1½
LOWE, ALBERT.—THE LORD IS MY STRENGTH	0	3
NOVELLO, V.—THE EASTER HYMN	0	1½
— THE LORD IS MY STRENGTH	0	1½
SULLIVAN, ARTHUR.—I WILL MENTION THE LOVING-KINDNESSES	0	6
STAINER, DR.—THEY HAVE TAKEN AWAY MY LORD	0	1½
THORNE, E. H.—CHRIST IS RISEN FROM THE DEAD	0	1½
— THE LORD THAT BROUGHT US	0	3
TRIMNELL, THOS. TALLIS.—THE LORD IS KING (97th Psalm)	0	4
WESLEY, DR. S. S.—O GIVE THANKS UNTO THE LORD	0	4
— BLESSED BE THE GOD AND FATHER	0	4

Most of the above can be had in folio vocal score and separate vocal parts.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NINE HYMNS WITH TUNES

FOR

EASTER,

SELECTED FROM

THE HYMNARY.

PRICE ONE PENNY.

CHRIST THE LORD IS RISEN TO-DAY FAR BE SORROW, TEARS, AND SIGHES WELCOME, HAPPY MORNING COME, YE FAITHFUL, RAISE THE STRAIN	SIR GEORGE ELVEY. C. STEGGALL, MUS. D. ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Ditto.
AT THE LAMB'S HIGH FEAST WE SING	GERMAN.
THE DAY OF RESURRECTION	HENRY SMART.
JESUS CHRIST IS RISEN TO-DAY Ditto Ditto	CH. GOUNOD. OLD MELODY.
O BLESSED TRINITY	Ditto.
SOON THE FIERY SUN ASCENDING	GERMAN.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED,

EIGHTEEN TWO-PART SONGS

With Pianoforte Accompaniment,

COMPOSED BY

ANTON RUBINSTEIN.

Op. 48 and 67.

THE ENGLISH VERSION BY NATALIA MACFARREN.

Price Four Shillings.

CONTENTS:

- | | |
|---------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| 1. The Angel. | 10. The turtledove and the wanderer. |
| 2. Birdie. | 11. Twilight. |
| 3. The homestead. | 12. Autumn sadness. |
| 4. The merry maidens. | 13. Song of the summer birds. |
| 5. Wanderer's night song. | 14. In the wood. |
| 6. The hour of parting. | 15. Faith in spring. |
| 7. Night. | 16. Pass by. |
| 8. The cloud. | 17. Rest after storm. |
| 9. The happy birds. | 18. The lotos flower. |

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

FOR LENT.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD.

(ACCORDING TO S. MATTHEW.)

Set to Music by

JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH.

Octavo, paper covers, 3s. Scarlet cloth, gilt, 5s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD.

(ACCORDING TO S. JOHN.)

Set to Music by

JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH.

Octavo, paper covers, 2s. Scarlet cloth, gilt, ..

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD.

(THE SEVEN WORDS OF OUR SAVIOUR ON THE CROSS.)

Set to Music by

J. HAYDN.

Octavo, paper covers, 2s. Scarlet cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD.

(THE SEVEN WORDS OF OUR SAVIOUR ON THE CROSS.)

Set to Music by

CH. GOUNOD.

Octavo, paper covers, 1s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD.

(DER TOD JESU.)

Set to Music by

C. H. GRAUN.

Octavo, paper covers, 2s. Scarlet cloth, gilt, 4s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

FOR LENT.

THE BENEDICITE

SET TO MUSIC BY THE FOLLOWING

MODERN COMPOSERS.

(Octavo size.)

J. BARNBY	1½d.
W. T. BEST	3d.
A. S. COOPER (three settings)	3d.
JOHN FOSTER	1½d.
HOYTE, W. S.	2d.
Ditto (second setting)	2d.
MONTEM SMITH (two settings)	1½d.
J. TURLE (two settings)	1½d.
REV. C. A. WICKES (two settings)	1s.
Arranged to Chants by Dr. STAINER, J. TURLE, and H. S. IRONS	2d.
Arranged to Chants by R. DE LACEY, A. GIBBS, J. STAINER, and
F. CHAMPNEYS	1½d.
Arranged to Chants by J. STAINER, W. WINN, and F. WALKER	1½d.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

FOURTEEN SONGS

SET TO

POEMS OF ROBERT BURNS,
BY ROBERT FRANZ.

Edited and Adapted by Natalia Macfarren.

Paper covers, 2s. 6d.

CONTENTS.

Twa sweet e'en.	Ye banks and braes.
My bonny Mary.	Altho' my bed were in yon moor.
Oh! wert thou in the frozen blast.	Thou hast left me ever, Jamie.
My heart is sair.	How can my heart be glad.
The Highland lassic.	So far away.
The lovely lass of Inverness.	My love is like a red, red rose.
Phillis the fair.	My heart's in the Highlands.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

FOUR-PART SONGS

BY

R. L. DE PEARSALL.

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK, Vols. X. & XI.,

Scarlet cloth, gilt, price 5s. each.

CONTENTS OF VOL. X.

284	The Hardy Norseman	...	(S.A.T.B.)	4d.
284*	do. do.	...	(A.T.T.B.)	4d.
285	Nymphs are sporting	...	(S.A.T.B.)	3d.
286	O who will o'er the downs	...	"	4d.
286*	do. do.	...	(A.T.T.B.)	4d.
287	Who shall win my lady fair	...	(S.A.T.B.)	4d.
288	Why with toil	...	"	3d.
289	When Allan-a-Dale went a-hunting. Glee	...	"	4d.
290	I saw lovely Phillis. Madrigal	...	"	4d.
291	The River Spirit's song	...	(A.T.T.B.)	3d.
292	It was upon a Spring-tide day. Madrigal	...	(S.A.T.T.B.)	4d.
293	Take heed, ye shepherd swains. Madrigal	...	(S.S.A.T.T.B.)	4d.
294	Spring returns. Madrigal	...	(S.S.A.T.B.)	2d.
295	Great God of love. 8 voices. Madrigal	...	"	3d.
296	In dulci júbilo. Christmas Carol	...	"	3d.
297	The song of the Frank companies	...	(S.A.T.B.)	3d.
298	How bright in the May-time	...	"	3d.
299	The Winter song	...	"	2d.
300	The Bishop of Mentz	...	"	3d.
301	When last I strayed	...	"	2d.
302	See how smoothly	...	"	2d.
303	Let us all go Maying	...	"	2d.
304	List! Lady be not coy. Madrigal	...	(S.S.A.T.T.B.)	3d.
305	O ye roses. Madrigal	...	"	3d.
306	Sing we and Chant it. Madrigal for Double Choir	...	"	2d.
307	" " " for 4 voices	...	"	2d.
308	The red wine flows	...	(T.T.B.B.)	2d.
309	Shoot false love, I care not. Ballet Madrigal	...	(S.A.T.B.)	3d.

CONTENTS OF VOL. XI.

310	Laugh not, youth, at age. Madrigal	...	(S.A.T.B.)	4d.
311	Down in my garden fair.	...	"	3d.
312	Adieu! my native shore	...	"	2d.
313	Purple glow the forest mountains	...	"	2d.
314	Caput apri defero	...	"	3d.
315	A Chieftain to the Highlands bound	...	"	2d.
316	A King there was in Thule	...	"	2d.
317	Come, let us be merry. Twelfth Night song	...	"	1½d.
318	Mihi est propositum	...	(A.T.B.B.)	2d.
319	Light of my soul. Madrigal	...	(S.S.A.T.B.B.)	3d.
320	Lay a garland. Madrigal for 8 voices	...	"	3d.
321	Summer is y' coming in. Madrigal	...	(S.S.A.T.B.B.)	2d.
322	Why should the Cuckoo's tuneful note. Do.	...	(S.S.A.T.B.)	3d.
323	Why weep, alas! my lady love. Madrigal	...	"	3d.
324	There is a paradise on earth	...	(A.T.B.B.)	3d.
325	O! all ye ladies fair and true	...	"	2d.
326	War Song of the Norman Baron Taillefer	...	(S.A.T.B.)	2d.
327	Why do the roses. Madrigal for 4 voices	...	"	2d.
328	Sweet as a flower in May. Ditto	...	"	2d.
329	The praise of good wine	...	(T.T.B.B.)	2d.
330	{ The Watchman's Song	...	(T.T.B.B.) }	2d.
	{ Ditto ditto	...	(S.A.T.B.) }	2d.
331	The Waters of Elle	...	(S.S.A.T.B.)	2d.
332	No! No! Nigella. For double choir	...	"	2d.
333	Sir Patrick Spens. In 10 parts	...	"	4d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners-street, W.

ASHDOWN & PARRY'S
RECENT PUBLICATIONS

FOR THE

ORGAN.

BATISTE'S ORGAN WORKS,

EDITED BY

WILLIAM SPARK, Mus. Doc.

(Organist of the Town Hall, &c., Leeds.)

SIX NEW NUMBERS.

No.		s.	d.
28.	MARCHE FUNÈBRE DE CHOPIN	2	0
29.	MARCHE FUNÈBRE DE F. SCHUBERT	3	0
30.	MARCHE TRIOMPHALE DE FERDINAND RIES	3	0
31.	OFFERTOIRE, in A minor	4	0
32.	MARCHE HEROÏQUE DE F. SCHUBERT, in D	3	0
33.	MARCHE HEROÏQUE DE F. SCHUBERT, in C	4	0

Catalogues of the previous Numbers in the Series sent free by post to any part of the world.

BATISTE'S ANDANTE IN G.

FOR THE PIANO:—

Arranged by KUHE	3	0
Arranged by TREKELL	3	0

FOR THE ORGAN:—

Edited by Dr. SPARK ("The Pilgrim's Song of Hope")	2	6
--	---	---

SHORT PIECES FOR THE ORGAN

EDITED AND ARRANGED BY

WILLIAM SPARK, Mus. Doc.

CONTENTS OF BOOK I:—

PRAYER	ARCADELT.
ANDANTINO, D major	BATISTE.
LARGHETTO	SPOHR.
ALLA MARCIA, D major	CHOPIN.
ANDANTINO, F major	W. SPARK.
ANDANTE, C major	W. H. NICHOLS.

CONTENTS OF BOOK II:—

VOLUNTARY	J. S. BACH.
ADAGIO	LOUIS SPOHR.
ANDANTINO	D. HEMINGWAY.
MARCH IN "SCIPIO"	HANDEL.
PRELUDE	E. W. PREVOST.

Price of each Book, 4s.

Books III. and IV. are in the Press.

A SERIES OF ORGAN PIECES,

IN VARIOUS STYLES, BY

EDWIN M. LOTT,

(Organist, S. Peter's, Bayswater.)

No.		s.	d.
1.	ANDANTE, in G	2	0
2.	FANFARE, in E flat	3	0
3.	OFFERTOIRE, in D	4	0
4.	OFFERTOIRE EN FORME DE MARCHE in B flat	4	0
5.	Ditto	3	0
6.	Ditto	4	0

LONDON: ASHDOWN & PARRY, HANOVER SQ.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, &c.

Just Published.

NEW PART-SONGS, MADRIGALS, &c.,

BY

R. L. PEARSALL.

COLLEGIATE SERIES.

No.
68.	Part-Song	... A lad and lassie. S.A.T.B.	...	2d.
70.	Part-Song	... True love, to-day I must away	...	2d.
64.	Madrigal	... When old King Cole	...	3d.
54.	Madrigal	... My bonnie lass, she smileth	...	3d.
67.	Glee	... Glorious Apollo	...	2d.
73.	Part-Song	... Was there not a look of fondness	...	2d.
55.	Part-Song	... Robin Hood	...	3d.
65.	Glee	... King Charles	...	3d.
72.	Part-Song	... My mother loves me not	...	2d.
69.	Part-Song	... Spring brings flow'rets fair	...	2d.
71.	Part-Song	... 'Twas a trumpet's pealing sound	...	3d.
52.	Ballad Dialogue	... Who kill'd Cock Robin? ... 8th Edition	3d.
(Folio, illustrated, 3s.)
50.	Part-Song	... Brave Lord Willoughby	... 5th	3d.
25.	Madrigal	... Here on the waters	... 4th	3d.
53.	Part-Song	... Her eyes the glow-worm	... 3rd	3d.
4.	Student's Song	... The three friends. S.A.T.B.	... 4th	3d.
5.	Student's Song	... " " T.T.B.B.	... 4th	3d.
60.	Madrigal	... Down by a river straying	... 2nd	4d.
61.	Madrigal	... Hie away! o'er bank and brae	... 2nd	4d.
58.	Glee	... Flow, limpid stream. A.T.B.B.	...	3d.
51.	Student's Song	... Gaudeamus igitur	... 6th Edition	3d.
74.	Part-Song	... Springs she not as light as air	...	2d.
63.	Part-Song	... My enemies they do increase	...	3d.
62.	Part-Song	... 'Tis raining!	...	3d.
59.	Part-Song	... The Poacher's Song	...	3d.
56.	Market Chorus	... The Villagers (with Pianoforte, Flute, or Violin Accompaniment), Chorus of Peasants, Market Women, Swiss Jodel, &c.	...	4d.

DR. S. S. WESLEY.

3.	Part-Song	... The Mermaid. S.A.T.B.	... 3rd Edition	4d.
6.	Part-Song	... Arising from the deep. S.A.T.B.	... 2nd	4d.
2.	Chorus	... The praise of music (Double Choir).	...	4d.
18.	Anthem	... O how amiable!	... 3rd	4d.
19.	Anthem	... Wherewithal shall a young man.	... 2nd	4d.
40.	Anthem	... The Lord is my Shepherd	... 2nd	4d.
14.	Anthem	... Let us now praise famous men.	... 4th	4d.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

8.	Part-Song	... Swift the shades of eve	... 6th	3d.
12.	Part-Song	... The Vikings and the north wind.	... 3rd	3d.
10.	Part-Song	... The eagle	... 2nd	3d.
42.	Anthem	... O praise the Lord	...	3d.
46.	Anthem	... I waited patiently	...	3d.

DULCIANA.

13.	National Anth.	... God save the Queen	... 20th Edition	2d.
(With Organ Accompaniment.)
7.	Part-Song	... Auld lang syne	... 26th	3d.

SCHUMANN.

26.	Solo and Chorus	... Sleep on, in visions	... 4th	3d.
11.	Solo and Chorus	... Vesture pure and scatheless	... 3rd	3d.
29.	Trio (S.S.A.)	... Magna peccatrix	...	3d.
30.	Trio (S.S.A.A.)	... The midnight hags	...	3d.

J. P. KNIGHT.

1.	Madrigal	... Canst thou say me nay?	... 3rd Edition	3d.
----	----------	----------------------------	-----------------	-----	--

NEW BALLADS.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

THE CATHEDRAL CHOIR (with Chorus)					4s.
-----------------------------------	--	--	--	--	-----

R. L. PEARSALL.

DRUMMING AND FIFING					3s.
BRAVE LORD WILLOUGHBY					3s.
WHO KILL'D COCK ROBIN?					3s.

*Just Published.*CONSECUTIVE FIFTHS AND OCTAVES
IN COUNTERPOINT.

AN ESSAY, BY R. L. PEARSALL.

Price 2s.; post free, 2s. 2d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.
Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street, W.

C. JEFFERYS, 67, BERNERS ST.

The Choral Society.

A COLLECTION OF

PART-SONGS, GLEES,
CHORUSES, &c.,

EDITED BY

MICHAEL WATSON.

Price 2d. each.

No.			Composer.
42	Row gently here	...	F. Schira.
41	Hark! the swains are calling	...	James J. Monk.
40	May Morn	...	T. M. Pattison.
39	Oh, the gallant fisher's life	...	Theodore Distin.
38	Spring-time	...	W. G. Marshall.
37	Evening	...	Seymour Smith.
36	A poor soul sat sighing	...	J. Meredith Ball.
35	Ebbing and flowing	...	T. G. B. Halley.
34	The Spirit of Music	...	W. F. Taylor.
33	Welcome, lovely Spring	...	Michael Watson.
32	The boatie rows	... Arranged by Michael Watson.
31	How beautiful is night	...	F. Schira.
30	The Rose of Allandale	...	Michael Watson.
29	We meet again (for Female voices only)	...	Stephen Glover.
28	Silent river (for Female voices only)	...	Michael Watson.
27	Ode to Spring (for Female voices only)	...	J. H. Tully.
26	Sunshine	...	T. G. B. Halley.
25	Ave Maria	...	F. Schira.
24	Daybreak	...	F. Schira.
23	Yes, every flower that blows	...	M. F. Gordon.
22	Haste, haste, and lightly tread (for Female voices only)	...	E. J. Loder.
21	He loves and he rides away	...	Michael Watson.
20	The little Church (Das Kirchlein) (for Mixed or Male voices)	...	V. E. Becker.
19	Ye little Birds that sit and sing	...	G. A. Macfarren.
18	My Love is fair as Summer morning	...	T. Distin.
17	The Summer cloud	...	Odoardo Barri.
16	Good-night to the day	...	T. G. B. Halley.
15	The Arrow and the Song	...	J. F. Simpson.
14	The Birdè that had left their song	...	G. A. Macfarren.
13	County Guy	...	G. A. Macfarren.
12	The Winds	...	C. J. Frost.
11	Spring Song	...	J. L. Hatton.
10	Bonnie May	...	J. H. L. Glover.
9	The Forsaken	...	J. L. Hatton.
8	I thought of thee	...	W. F. Banks.
7	Good bye	...	J. L. Hatton.
6	Moonlight	...	J. H. L. Glover.
5	Fairy voices	...	T. G. B. Halley.
4	The Winter being over	...	Ellen Avery.
3	Where the pearly dewdrop falleth	...	E. J. Loder.
2	Corin's Fate	...	R. Turner.
1	'Tis silent eve	...	Michael Watson.

(To be continued.)

LONDON: C. JEFFERYS, 67, BERNERS STREET, W.

Third Edition, enlarged. Small 4to. Price 2s. 6d. paper covers 3s. 9d. cloth lettered.

ANGELICAN PSALTER CHANTS, Single and Double, edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. G. OUSELEY, Bart., etc., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK.

This work contains nearly 400 Chants; which are appropriated to "Venite exultemus Domino," the Daily and Proper Psalms, &c.; those for each Service occupying a separate page and affording several Series suitable to each daily portion of the Psalter, from which choice may be made. The Chants have been selected with especial reference to the position of the Reciting note.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

VENI, CREATOR SPIRITUS. Set to Music by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., &c.

For general or Festival use; for male voices and four-part Chorus, with Organ accompaniment, ad lib. Price 3d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

THE ANGELICAN CHORAL SERVICE BOOK.

Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper, 1s.; cloth, 2s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co. Oxford: Parker.

Seventh Edition.

THE ANGELICAN CHANT-BOOK, edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper cover, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d. Large edition, cloth, 4s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

OUSELEY AND MONK'S PSALTER AND CANTICLES, pointed for Chanting. Second Edition. Authenticated by His Grace the Archbishop of York. 24mo., without chants, 9d.; with Proper Psalms, 1s.; Proper Psalms, separately, 3d.; small 4to., with chants, 4s.; each voice part, separately, 1s. 6d. Canticles, score, small 4to., 9d.; separate parts, 3d.; words only, 24mo., 1½d. Novello, Ewer and Co., and Parker and Co.

Preparing for the Press.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF WORDS OF ANTHEMS, new Edition, revised, corrected, and brought down to the present date.

Eleventh Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Price 5s. 6d., paper covers; 7s. limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation. Score 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-notes.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. St. J. B. JOULE. (Large type), price 2s. 6d. This Psalter having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers. N.B.—A small Edition is in preparation.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo., price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Fourth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. Quarto, in cloth elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Fifth Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. St. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

SECOND EDITION.

A MORNING, COMMUNION, AND EVENING SERVICE. Set to Music in the Key of F by HENRY SMART. Containing a new BENEDICTUS, and also a new and shorter GLORIA to the NUNC DIMITTIS. Price 2s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

Just Published.

A MORNING SERVICE, price 6d., consisting of Te Deum, Jubilate, Kyrie, and Gloria. By I. D. KENNARD, Organist and Choirmaster of Holy Trinity, Margate.

Novello and Co., or of the Composer.

A MORNING SERVICE, Te Deum, Jubilate, and Kyrie, by the Rev. EDWARD YOUNG. Tenth edition, abbreviated for Parochial use. Organ and Choir copies, 4d. each.

"Melodious, vocal, and nicely harmonised—that is, without pretence or straining at effect; and they declaim the words devoutly and emphatically."—Musical Times.

"Good points, and tuneful passages."—Musical Standard.

"The intelligent, devoted, and devotional spirit in which every note seems to have been composed, furnishes one of the best guarantees for excellence."—English Churchman.

"All competent criticism will be found in accordance with the verdict of a high professional authority as to 'abundant proof of imagination, poetical conception, and musical feeling.'"—Christian Observer.

"The strain is devotional, and harmonies full, solemn, and massive. He fairly claims to have dug a channel for the devout utterance of the words."—Bristol Times.

Also,

VENITE, Organ or Choir Copies, 4d.

CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR, Organ or Choir Copies, 4d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in E flat, by ALFRED J. DYE. Small 8vo., 3d.; organ copy, 6d. "Easy, effective, and congregational."—Supplies a want much felt by small choirs.

Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

Now ready, fourth edition, price 1s.

COMMUNION SERVICE, by ALEX. S. COOPER, including KYRIE and SANCTUS (Four different settings), CREED (Ely Prize Setting), and GLORIA; equally suitable for singing in Unison or in Harmony. Price 1s.; or, without Creed, 6d.

BENEDICTUS and AGNUS DEI, to complete the above Service, price 3d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

BENEDICITE, with Appropriate Chants. Three different Settings. By ALEX. S. COOPER. Price 3d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

G. A. MACFARREN'S CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR. For Voices in Unison and Organ. 8vo., 6d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CANTATE and DEUS, by R. TAYLOR. An easy Unison Service in F. Price 6d. To be had of Novello and Co., or of the Author, Brighton College.

Now ready, 8vo., price Threepence.

THE APOSTLES' CREED, Set to Music (chiefly in Recitative) for Voices in Unison, with an Accompaniment for the Organ, by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Director of the Choir, York Minster.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

8vo., price Sixpence.

OFFERTORY SENTENCES COMPLETE, with Music in full for Organist and Choir. By HERBERT STEPHEN IRONS, late Organist of Southwell Minster.

One or more of these effective "Sentences" may be sung after the Offertory is said by the Priest, or at Matins or Evensong when the alms are collected.

Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

Just Published, price 2s., 8vo.

TWELVE OFFERTORY SENTENCES, set to Music by F. W. HIRD. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC by ERNEST C. WINCHESTER, Organist of Holy Trinity Church, Wimbledon, Choirmaster of Christ Church, Southwark, &c.

"Anthem, 'I will give thanks unto Thee, O Lord.' For Four Voices, with a Treble (or Tenor) Solo. 4d. Morning Service; Te Deum and Benedictus, in the Chant form. 4d. Evening Service; Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis in the Chant form. A grand setting, suitable for Festivals. 2nd Edition. 3d. Ten Offertory Sentences, 4d. Six Settings of the Kyrie Eleison. 2d. The Te Deum, arranged to Gregorian Tones. 1½d. The Benedictus, harmonised on the 5th Tone, 2nd Ending. 1½d. The Venite, harmonised on the 8th Tone, 1st Ending. A. 1d. The Deus Misereatur, harmonised on the 3rd Tone, 2nd Ending. 1d. The Preces and Responses. For use during Advent and Lent. 1d. Processional Hymn, 'Onward, Christian Soldiers,' with a free Organ Accompaniment, 2nd Edition. 1d. 'Hark! hark! my soul.' Hymn tune 'Angela,' with free Organ Accompaniment, 1d. London: F. Pittman, 20, Paternoster Row, E.C.; or of the Composer, 18, Wycliffe Grove, Lavender Hill, S.W.

A list of reduced rates for the clergy and musical profession, and specimen copies of Music, forwarded on application to E. C. Winchester.

CHURCH COMPOSITIONS by G. H. GREGORY, Mus. Bac., Oxon., suitable for choirs of moderate ability. MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS on a Rouennais Theme, Price 4d. SIX KYRIES, price 2d.

Shortly to be published,

EVENING SERVICE (full cathedral), in E flat, and WHITSUNTIDE ANTHEM, "God, Who as at this time."

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

THE MISERERE, &c., for Use at Lenten Services. A simple Setting for Parish Choirs. By a Minor Canon. Price 2d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

4TH BOOK NOW READY. Collection of KYRIES, &c. Original Compositions by Dr. F. Hiller, Guilmant, G. A. and W. Macfarren, Sir G. J. Elvey, Tours, Salaman, Francesco Berger, E. G. Monk, J. Baptiste Calkin, Scotson Clark, Hamilton Clarke, &c. Books 1, 2, 3, 4, 1s. each. Separate Nos. (1 to 71), 1d.

SPOHR'S 24th PSALM, 8vo. (2nd thousand), 9d.; folio, 4s. net. London: Novello and Co. Sheffield: W. T. Freemantle, High Street.

FIVE INTRODUCTORY VOLUNTARIES for the ORGAN. Composed by T. MEE PATTISON.

These Voluntaries, of medium difficulty, with Pedal Obligato, will be found eminently useful for the introduction of Divine Service, both as regards character and length. Price 3s. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

THREE PIECES for the ORGAN. Composed by NIELS W. GADE. Op. 22. Price 2s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

EIGHT ORGAN PIECES, Original and Selected, in Four Numbers, 1s. 6d. and 1s. each net. Also, Chant Te Deum, 3d.; Benedictus and Jubilate Deo, 4d.; Cantate and Deus Misereatur, 4d.; Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, 3d. By EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus. Doc., Cantab. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

EASTER ANTHEM.

"THE LORD IS MY STRENGTH." (Short, easy, and effective.) Composed by ALBERT LOWE. Octavo, 3d.

"Mr. Lowe writes with the gravity and earnestness of a true composer for the Church. This little Anthem is well adapted to meet the wants of small choirs, and cannot fail of acceptance when looked at from the higher ground of religious edification. Moreover, it shows a thoroughly musicianly spirit, and that rare gift, the ars est celare artem."—Sunday Times.

"This Anthem amply fulfils the announcement on the title-page; it is 'short' and 'easy'—the subjects, moreover, being both melodious and well harmonised. The unexpected chord of B flat, after the lingering of the voices upon D, is a point worthy of attention; and the manner in which the harmonies flow towards the final close is well deserving of commendation. The Anthem will, we think, be found extremely useful."—Musical Times.

"Mr. Lowe has contributed to Church congregations and Choral Societies a 'short, easy, and full' Anthem, which is calculated to afford much satisfaction, and to be largely in request. The subject is treated in a truly devotional spirit, and with musicianly skill, and it is well harmonised."—News of the World.

"An excellent Anthem."—The Church Times.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

Third Edition, Price 3d.

EASTER ANTHEM. "Christ is risen from the dead." By THOMAS SMITH. Easy and effective.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

Post free from the Composer, Angel Hill, Bury St. Edmunds.

Price 4d. net.

LENT ANTHEM. "Let my complaint." Well adapted for small Parish Choirs, by W. A. HOWELLS, 8, Upper Barnsbury Street, Islington.

JOHN M. W. YOUNG'S NEW ANTHEM.

THE RETURN OF ISRAEL TO PALESTINE, price 2s. 6d.; and "Luther's Hymn," arranged for voices in various ways, with an independent organ part, price 6d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., where his easy Festival Services and Anthems and the Lincoln Psalter may be had.

Now ready, Vocal Score, price 3s.

JONAH. A Sacred Cantata, by J. V. ROBERTS, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Choirmaster of the Parish Church, Halifax.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

P.S.—Full Orchestral Parts to be had of the Composer.

ANTHEM SUITABLE FOR EASTER.

"THOU WILT KEEP HIM IN PERFECT PEACE."

FULL, FOUR VOICES.

Composed by C. S. JEKYLL,

Organist and Composer to Her Majesty's Chapels Royal.

Price: Score, 2s. 6d.; Vocal Parts, 1s.

ALSO, BY THE SAME COMPOSER.

SAVE ME, O GOD. Full, 4 voices	0	9
ALMIGHTY GOD	"	"	..	1
ARISE, O LORD	"	"	..	2
COMMUNION SERVICE	"	"	..	4
Vocal Parts	3
GRAND MARCH for the ORGAN..	3
LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, BERNERS STREET.

SONGS, &c., BY C. S. JEKYLL.

REMEMBER ME	4	0
NOW	4	0
GO, FORGET ME	4	0
THE MERMAID'S LULLABY	2	6
IN MEMORIAM	3	0
ON THE SEA. Part-Song. S.A.T.B.	net	0
V. WEEKES AND CO., 16, HANOVER STREET, REGENT STREET.

THE REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S "SUPPLEMENTAL HYMN AND TUNE-BOOK" (4th Edition) may be had of the publishers, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. Quarto post, large type and beautifully bound in cloth, price 6s. 6d.; on toned paper, extra thick, 10s. 6d.

"MY SPIRIT LONGS FOR THEE." Hymn, set to Music by JOHN NAYLOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon., together with five other original Hymn Tunes, including "Rock of ages," for men's voices only. Price 4d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

HYMN TUNES, composed by ROBERT BROWN-BORTHWICK, Vicar of All Saints', Scarborough. Elegantly bound in scarlet cloth, price 2s. 6d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S SERIES OF MODERN HYMN TUNES, KYRIES, &c. This Series embraces original Tunes and Kyries by some of the best living composers of Church Music, and may be had in separate numbers from 3d. and 6d. each. Novello, Ewer and Co.

CAROL OF THE REAPERS. (S.A.T.B.) 3d. SIX EASY ANTHEMS FOR VILLAGE CHOIRS. 2d. each. MUSICAL LADDER. 1s. TONIC STAFF. 6d. Novello and Co.; or of the Composer, W. H. Gill, Sidcup, Kent.

TO THE HEADS OF MUSICAL COLLEGES AND SCHOOLS.—Just issued by Robert Cocks and Co., W. Hill's VOCAL TRIOS for Equal Voices; 39 numbers, each 2d.; or in Three vols. (Vol. III. contains 23 Trios by Abt), 3s. each, cloth lettered. Also W. Hill's 101 Rounds and Canons; 13 books, 2d. each. In One vol., cloth lettered, 3s.

SACRED MUSIC FOR SUNDAY EVENINGS (for Voice and Piano), intended chiefly for the use of schools and private families. Edited and Arranged by GEORGE FREDERICK WEST. In Two Books, 4s. each (Nine Hymns in each book).—Post free, at half-price, in stamps.

SONG OF THE MINER. Solo for a Baritone, with chorus for four voices. Words by Dr. CARPENTER. Music by F. KÜCKEN. Forming No. 35 of Warren's "Handbook of Glee," &c. Post free for two stamps.

HAMILTON'S MODERN INSTRUCTIONS for the PIANOFORTE. Virtually the book for beginners, as its great and enduring popularity will testify. Price 4s.; post free for 28 stamps. Appendix to ditto, by GEORGE FREDERICK WEST, 5s.; post free at half price.

HAMILTON'S MODERN INSTRUCTIONS for SINGING. 51st edition, price 5s., post free for half price; or in limp cloth, 6s., post free for 5s. "There is no work we know of better fitted for the training of the voice than the one before us."—Vide Scottish Press. Franz Abt's Appendix to the above work, with 24 Exercises for each species of voice, 5s.; post free at half price in stamps. London: Robert Cocks and Co., New Burlington Street. Order everywhere.

Just Published.

THE SALUTATION WALTZES. Composed by EDWIN ALLWRIGHT. Easy and melodious. Admirably adapted for teaching purposes. Price 3s. Sold at half price. London: Joseph Williams, 24, Berners Street, and 123, Cheapside; and of all Musicsellers.

"Spirited song for baritone."—Graphic.

THE HIDALGO. Music by ALFRED J. DYE. Post free, 18 stamps. Forsyth Bros., Oxford Circus, London, and Cross Street, Manchester.

ALFRED ALLEN'S "GAVOTTE FESTIVALE." "Decidedly pretty."—Queen. Encoired at the Crystal Palace and at Mr. de Jong's Concerts, Manchester. 2s. net. Novello and Co.

Just Published.

AGAINST THE STREAM. Song. The Words written by F. E. WEATHERLEY. The Music composed by J. F. LORRAINE. Price 4s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

IN MEMORIAM.

SACRED SONG. Price 2s., net.

FRIEND AFTER FRIEND DEPARTS. As a Tribute to the Memory of the late WILLIAM SHORE, By his Brother-in-Law, R. ANDREWS. Of the Author, 14, Park Avenue, Manchester.

W. T. WRIGHTON'S LAST NEW SONGS.

BRIGHT AS A SERAPH. Soprano or Mezzo-Soprano. "A most enchanting melody, and sure to become a great favourite."

NEW NATIONAL SONG BY SAME COMPOSER.

THE DEAD WHO DIED FOR ENGLAND. "Noble poetry, set to a bold and striking melody." Easy compass. For Baritone or Bass.

NEW SONG, WITH FLUTE OBLIGATO,

By BENJAMIN WELLS, A.R.A.M.

THE MERRY MAID. By Composer of "The Lover and the Bird." Also, same for Voice and Piano in B2 and C. Any of above, post free, 2s.

SIMPSON and Co., 33, ARGYLL STREET, W.

Just published.
NEVER SAY FAIL.—New Motto Song. Music
 by L'ALLEGRO.
 "In life's earnest battle they only prevail
 Who daily march onward, and never say fail."
 Specially suitable for Penny Readings and Entertainments. Post free for 18 stamps.—B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY. Patriotic Song for March
 17th. By JOSEPH SHORT. Price 3s.

"The children of Erin, wherever they roam,
 Oh! fondly they cling to their sainted old home;
 And whate'er be their lot, or wherever they stray,
 Their hearts wander back on St. Patrick's Day."

Also, by the same Composer,

THE SINGERS. New Baritone Song. Price 3s.

Either of the above post free for 18 stamps from the Composer, 220,
 Great Lister Street, Birmingham; or from Truslove and O'Neill,
 Music Publishers, 36, Union Passage, Birmingham.

TO VIOLINISTS, Teachers, and Amateurs.—100
 Easy and Progressive DUETS, from the Works of the best Composers. In Four Books, post free, 2s. each. A Pianoforte and Violoncello Part to Books 1 and 2 for Easy and Progressive Trios and Quartets. London: J. Williams, 24, Berners Street, or H. S. Davies,
 4, Stratford Road, Kensington, W.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S CHORAL SONGS,
 as sung by Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir, the Birmingham Festival Choral Society, &c.

No. 1. "THE SILENT LAND." Price 3d.
 "Replete with melody. Some phrases are of remarkable beauty."—
Musical Times.

No. 2. "THE BETTER LAND." Price 4d.
 "Distinguished by beauty of melody and richness of harmony."— Birmingham Daily Gazette.
 "Full of charming effects."—Birmingham Daily Post.

No. 3. "THE DAY IS DONE." Price 4d.
 Composed expressly for Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir.
 London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WILLIAM J. YOUNG'S
POPULAR PART-SONGS for S.A.T.B.

OCTAVO.
No. 1. I love the merry springtime	...	19th edition	... 2d.
2. Gaily thro' the greenwood	...	25th "	... 2d.
3. Welcome, merry May	...	6th "	... 2d.
4. The mountain maid	...	6th "	... 2d.
5. Come o'er the mountain	...	8th "	... 2d.
6. Hail, merry Christmas	...	14th "	... 2d.
7. Songs of praise the angels sang	...	5th "	... 3d.
8. Blow, ye balmy breezes, blow	...	6th "	... 3d.
9. Fairy revels	...	8th "	... 3d.
10. Oh, peaceful vale of rest	...	5th "	... 1½d.
11. The merry bird	...	5th "	... 3d.
12. Come, let us be merry and gay	...	4th "	... 3d.
13. Forest echoes	...	7th "	... 3d.
14. Haste, ye merry elves	...	5th "	... 3d.
15. The streamlet (with soprano solo)	...	2nd "	... 3d.
16. Sunshine and shadow	...	2nd "	... 2d.
17. Sunny rays (with soprano solo)	...	2nd "	... 3d.
18. A happy new year	...	(just published)	... 3d.
19. The coming of spring	...	"	... 3d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W., or of the Composer, 6, Grove Terrace, Longsight, Manchester.

SOUTHWELL SCHOOL SONGS. First series,
 1s. 6d. By the Rev. R. F. SMITH Minor Canon of Southwell.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.
The Queen.—"Fourteen" (sixteen) "capital little songs in a cheap handy form. Quite new and withal pretty and neatly written."

The Schoolmaster.—"Easy, pleasing tunes, suitable to school use.
 The composer shows himself a true musician; each 'lay' has a separate tune, which is catching, appropriate, and quite in old ballad-song style."

The Musical Times.—"The sympathetic and musician-like manner in which he has wedded them to melodies which cannot fail to please the young vocalists for whom they are expressly designed."

By the same Composer,

TE DEUM in F, 3d. ANTHEM (S.A.T.B.), "The Lord is nigh," 6d.
 London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

Price 2s. each Part.

THE SOLO STOP. A Series of Songs for the Organ, expressly arranged for Amateurs and Pupils. Part 1 contains four Songs (being Nos. 42, 43, 44, and 45 of Vol. I. of "The Village Organist"), arranged by Mrs. MOUNSEY BARTHOLOMEW, with easy work for left hand and foot. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Re D'ALMAINE, DECEASED.

PIANOFORTES BY D'ALMAINE.

GREAT SALE of 780 PIANOFORTES
 OF THIS EXCELLENT FIRM.

In consequence of the Death of the Proprietor, an

IMMENSE STOCK

OF

All Descriptions of Musical Property,

PIANOFORTES, HARMONIUMS,
 SHEET MUSIC,

LITHOGRAPHIC STONES FOR MUSIC PRINTING,

Music Stools, Insulators for Pianos;

A FEW VIOLINS, CANTERBURYS, WHAT-NOTS, HARMO-NIUM CHAIRS, FRETS, ACTIONS & PARTS VARIOUS,

THE CHIEF ITEM BEING

780 PIANOFORTES,

In course of construction at the Death of the late Proprietor.

MOST EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY

TO THE PUBLIC, PROFESSION, THE TRADE, AND SHIPPERS.

NOTE.—It was attempted to clear the whole by auction by a series of sales: the first sale proved that it would be wise to make up the stock and offer the advantage to the public, who can now be supplied at less than the usual cost of making these high-class instruments; thus the following quotations:—

For 17 guineas can be had the 35 guineas Royal

21	"	"	40	"	"
25	"	"	46	"	"
30	"	"	50	"	"
34	"	"	60	"	"
40	"	"	75	"	"
45	"	"	85	"	"

9 to 15 guineas, various second-hand instruments.

These instruments have the famed steel wrest plank plates, are all 7 octaves, trichord for the most part, are check actions of various models, elegant in design, refined in finish, and very high class as pianofortes in touch, tone, and repetition. This is an opportunity that does not offer in every lifetime for obtaining a splendid piano at cost price. 40,000 pieces of music of all descriptions at from 1-10th the published prices.

All particulars of Messrs. Phillips, Lea, and Whitely, auctioneers to the estate, 2, City Road; and on view and sale at 5, Finsbury Pavement, by Moorgate Street Station.

Fourth Edition, revised, fcap. 8vo., 5s.

MUSIC

By HENRY C. BANISTER,
Professor of Harmony and Composition at the Royal Academy of Music.

This manual, written to supply the want long felt of a good text-book of theoretical music, will, by means of the copious Index and Glossary attached to it, be found also to answer to a great extent the purposes of a Dictionary of Music. Not only those who systematically pursue the study, but also more general readers, whether performers or only lovers of music, will find it a convenient and useful book of reference. It contains chapters on Notation, Harmony and Counterpoint, Modulation and Rhythm, Canon, Fugue, Voices, and Instruments, together with Exercises on Harmony and an Appendix of Examination Papers.

London: George Bell and Sons, York Street, Covent Garden.

New and Important Work for the Competitive
Musical Examinations, &c.

Just Published, in crown 8vo., cloth, price 6s.

THE STUDENT'S TEXT-BOOK

OF THE

SCIENCE OF MUSIC.

For Use in Schools and Colleges, and for purposes of self-instruction.
By JOHN TAYLOR, Author of "Manual of Vocal Music," &c., &c.

London: George Philip and Son, 32, Fleet Street; and 49 and 51, South Castle Street, Liverpool.

THE CLASSICAL ORGANIST.

By J. T. STONE.

MESSRS. BREWER and CO. beg to announce that the Seventh and Eighth Volume of "The Classical Organist" will be published early in the present year.

"THE CLASSICAL ORGANIST," a Selection of Compositions from the Works of the Great Masters, arranged from the Orchestral Scores for the Organ, with pedal obbligato, by J. T. STONE. In 6 vols., 12s. each; or in 36 Nos., 3s. each.

This work is engraved in the first style, on large plates, oblong folio size, and printed on a thick superfine paper, which has been made expressly for the purpose. The publishers confidently state that they have spared no expense in rendering the present work for the organ truly worthy of the "king of instruments."

A Thematic List of Contents of Vols. 1 to 6 will be forwarded on application to the publishers, Messrs. Brewer and Co., 23, Bishopsgate Street Within; or to Mr. J. T. Stone, Welford Road, Leicester.

PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS.

A SCHOOL

FOR THE

HARMONIUM,

BY

KING HALL,

Containing a Description of the Instrument, a Diagram of the Stops, full Directions for Blowing, Fingering, &c., Twenty Original Progressive Studies, carefully fingered, and a Collection of Sacred and Secular Pieces by the best Composers, arranged for Instruments of various sizes.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ENDYMION.

A PASTORAL CANTATA.

By VINCENT AMCOTTS and E. ASPA.

Vocal score, 4s.; Chorus parts, 1s.

Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

Just Published, 3s.; post free, 1s. 6d.

NEWTOWN NURSERY MARCH. Composed by
J. H. LEWIS. May be had from the Author, 66, High St., Hawick.

REDUCED TO ONE SHILLING.

SCHUMANN'S FOREST SCENES (Wald-Scenen). Op. 82. For Pianoforte Solo. Octavo, paper covers.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners-street, W.

CASSELL'S FAMILY MAGAZINE.

MONTHLY, SEVENPENCE.

"There is reading in CASSELL'S FAMILY MAGAZINE for every one—FICTION, SCIENCE, HISTORY, TRAVEL, POETRY, and MUSIC are all represented. It is one of the most welcome of our Monthly Visitors."—Nottingham Guardian.

"Its character is so marked and decided that we have no hesitation in giving CASSELL'S FAMILY MAGAZINE the first position among the Monthlies for the people."—Edinburgh Courant.

 Order the FEBRUARY PART, now ready, or Part 25, which forms the First Part of the New Volume, and contains a beautiful Steel Engraving as a Frontispiece.

CASSELL PETER & GALPIN, LUDGATE HILL, LONDON.

PAGE 44 of "THE MUSICAL TIMES" for last month is printed separately, and lovers of justice and fair play should send for the same to Dr. FOWLE, 20, Paternoster Row, London, E.C. (The popular "Organist's March," Third Edition, 1s. 6d. 9d. post free.)

NOW RESIDENT IN LONDON.—DR. FOWLE,

Reviser of Musical and Literary Compositions, and Printer and Publisher of Authors' Works. Special prospectus post free, and the "Column of Popular Marches" and Music for Easter.—Address, 20, Paternoster Row, London, E.C. ("Easter Day March," 1s. 6d. Post free, 9d.) Special List of Easter music.

"VOLUNTARIES P.P.P. & F." Subscribers are informed that this work (being Vol. 4 of Dr. Fowle's Voluntaries) will be ready in April. Price 2s. 6d. Names should be sent at once to Dr. Fowle, 20, Paternoster Row, London, E.C.

Vol. I. is acknowledged to be the best modern work of original easy Voluntaries. Fifth Edition. Post free, 2s. 4d.

VOLUNTARIES P.P.P. & F. A few Contributions wanted. Address, The Editor, 20, Paternoster Row, London, E.C.

Now ready,

A NEW ORATORIO FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES, ETC.
THE PILGRIM'S PROGRESS.

The words selected chiefly from Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," and being a rendering of the principal and most interesting incidents of that beautiful Allegory. In vocal score, with separate accompaniment for the Organ, Harmonium, or Pianoforte.

THE WHOLE ARRANGED AND COMPOSED

By JOHN KITCHEN, Hebden Bridge.

181 Pages of Music.

Bound in cloth and gilt edges, 6s.; paper covers, 4s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

VAN BREE'S MASSES

FOR

MEN'S VOICES.

In Vocal Score, with Organ or Pianoforte Accompaniment.

		s. d.
No. 1, in C, with Tantum ergo	...	6 0
	Vocal Parts, 2s. 3d.
No. 2, in D, with Tantum ergo	...	5 0
	Vocal Parts, 2s. 7½d.
No. 3, in F, with Tantum ergo	...	9 0
	Vocal Parts, 5s. 6d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW PIANOFORTE PIECE BY LISZT.

ROSE SOFTLY BLOOMING

ROMANCE

By L. SPOHR.

TRANSCRIBED FOR THE PIANOFORTE BY

FRANZ LISZT.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED,

PIANOFORTE COMPOSITIONS,

BY

LEFEBURE-WELY.

TITANIA. Fantasia de Concert, pour Piano. Solo, 4s.; Duet, 4s.
 HOP. Caprice Brillant pour Piano. Op. 186. Solo, 5s.; Duet, 5s.
 SIX ROMANCES SANS PAROLES, pour Piano. Op. 160. 3s. each.

- No. 1. La Sesia (Italie). Réverie.
 2. La Wartha (Allemagne). Mélodie.
 3. La Neva (Russie). Caprice.
 4. La Guadiana (Espagne). Sérénade.
 5. La Lys (France). Réverie.
 6. La Dyle (Belgique). Berceuse.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW AND CHEAP EDITION.

SWEDISH MELODIES.

AS SUNG BY

THE SWEDISH MINSTRELS.

THE WORDS BY THOMAS OLIPHANT, ESQ.

Come away, come away	Schäfer	14d.
Onward roaming, never weary	Müller	14d.
Hark! the merry Drum (the Drum March)	Krugh	3d.
Vermeland. Old Swedish National Melody		14d.
Dear land of my fathers do.		14d.
Still amid old Sweden's youth. Dalecarlian Song		14d.

London: Novello and Co.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, &c.

OCTAVO EDITIONS OF CHORUS PARTS

To the following Oratorios are published, with the Music and Text, in very large type.

	s.	d.
HANDEL'S MESSIAH	2	8
" JUDAS MACCABÆUS	2	8
" ISRAEL IN EGYPT	4	0
" SAMSON	2	8
HAYDN'S CREATION	2	0
MENDELSSOHN'S ELIJAH	6	0
" ST. PAUL	4	0

&c., &c.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S ONLY COMPLETE AND UNIFORM EDITION OF

MENDELSSOHN'S

THIRTEEN TWO-PART SONGS.

With the German and W. BARTHOLOMEW'S Original English Words.

Complete in One Volume, folio, 5s. net. Octavo, paper, 2s. net; cloth gilt, 4s. net; or singly, 2s. each. The separate Numbers are sold at half-price.

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|-----------------------------|
| No. 1. I would that my love. | No. 7. My bark is bounding. |
| 2. The passage bird. | 8. Can I light-hearted be. |
| 3. Greeting. | 9. Evening song. |
| 4. Autumn song. | 10. Zuleika and Hassan. |
| 5. O wert thou in the cauld blast. | 11. The Sabbath morn. |
| 6. The Maybells and the flowers. | 12. The harvest field. |
| | 13. Song from Ruy Blas. |

N.B.—The Quartet score to No. 13, 1s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

REDUCTION IN PRICE.

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK.

The Books of this Series are now published at the uniform price of

ONE SHILLING:—

- Book.
 I. Six Songs by Sir J. BENEDICT.
 II. Six Songs by HENRY SMART.
 III. Seven Shakspeare Songs by G. A. MACFARREN.
 IV. Six Songs by J. L. HATTON.
 V. Six Songs by G. A. MACFARREN.
 VI. Six Songs by C. A. MACIRONE.
 VII. Six Songs by HENRY LESLIE.
 VIII. Six Madrigals by various Composers.
 IX. Six Songs by HENRY HILES.
 X. Six Songs by FRANCESCO BERGER.
 XI. Six Songs by J. BAPTISTE CALKIN.
 XII. Eight Songs by J. BARNBY.
 XIII. Six Songs by G. A. MACFARREN.
 XIV. Six Songs by AGNES ZIMMERMANN.
 XV. Eight Shakspeare Songs by G. A. MACFARREN.
 XVI. Six Songs by HENRY LESLIE.
 XVII. Six Songs by HENRY SMART.
 XVIII. Six Songs by SAMUEL RBAY.
 XIX. Six Songs by ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
 XX. Six Songs by W. MACFARREN.
 XXI. Six Songs by J. LEMMENS.
 XXII. Six Songs by HENRY SMART.
 XXIII. Six Songs by CRO PINOSSI.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

VOCAL ALBUM OF PART MUSIC

EDITED CHIEFLY BY

PROFESSOR G. A. MACFARREN.

Zephyr taking thy repose (S.A.T.B.)	G. A. Macfarren.	2d.
As the moments roll (A.T.T.B.), edited by G. A. Macfarren. Webbe.		1d.
A little farm well tilled (T.T.B.) " " " "	J. Hook.	1d.
Come on, jolly hearts (T.T.B.) " " " "	Dr. Hayes.	1d.
Lass of Richmond Hill (S.A.T.B.) " " " "	J. Hook.	2d.
Dame Durden (S.A.T.B.) " " " "		1d.
Three merry chafers (T.T.B.B.) " " " "	Truhn.	1d.
Soldier's love (T.T.B.B.) " " " "	Kücken.	1d.
In the wood (Am Walde) (T.T.B.B.) " " " "	Kücken.	1d.
Good night (S.A.T.B.) " " " "	Cooke.	2d.
The Lost (S.A.T.B.) " " " "	W. Spinney.	2d.
Spring (Trio for Female Voices)	E. H. Thorne.	4d.
Ave Maria (Latin words)	Edwin Evans.	4d.

Lord, for Thy tender mercies sake (with new Organ Accomp. by G. A. Macfarren)	Farrant.	1d.
God is gone up with a merry noise (with new Organ Accomp. by G. A. Macfarren)	Dr. Croft.	3d.
O praise God in His Holiness (with new Organ Accomp. by G. A. Macfarren)	Weldon.	1d.
Choral Graces (S.A.T.B.) [before and after meals]	Dr. Dykes.	2d.

ORDER PROFESSOR MACFARREN'S EDITIONS.

HOLLIS AND CO., PIANOFORTE AND MUSIC WAREHOUSE,
 63, EBURY STREET, LONDON, S.W.

NEW ANTHEM FOR LENT.

"HEAR MY PRAYER."

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

This short, easy, and effective anthem will be found useful and appropriate for the Lenten season, as it can be sung without accompaniment.

PRICE TWOPENCE.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW CANTATA FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES, DRAWING-ROOM ENTERTAINMENTS, PENNY READINGS, ETC., ETC.

THE JACKDAW OF RHEIMS.

Words from the "Ingoldsby Legends." Music by GEORGE FOX. Performed for the first time on Thursday evening, June 29, at St. George's Hall, with enormous success. Price 2s. 6d. net. Harmonium Accompaniment, 1s.

The Band Parts may be hired on very reasonable terms.

"Ingoldsby's humorous poem has been 'set to music' in appropriate style by Mr. Fox, and in this new form will obtain additional admirers. The music is dramatic, tuneful, and spirited, showing not only a fine appreciation of the wit of the story, but also a capability of giving musical expression to it. The solos and choruses are characteristic and good; and the cantata will be found useful both in the concert-room and private parties in affording pleasing entertainment."—News of the World.

"The Jackdaw of Rheims," a cantata, music composed by George Fox. Choral societies, who begin now to complain that they 'have used up everything,' will find an agreeable novelty in this spirited little work by Mr. Fox. The words are, of course, those of well-known verses in the 'Ingoldsby Legends,' which have been recited ad nauseam at penny readings and 'conversazioni.' There are frequent choruses of a lively character, interspersed by solos, chiefly for a bass or baritone voice. Mr. Fox has fully entered into the humour of one of the Gregorian tones upon the words, 'At matins and vespers he never was out.' We cannot pass over the 'Dead March' of the poor jackdaw without a word of special commendation. Notwithstanding the 'lightness' of this composition it gives a strong indication of Mr. Fox's ability to write in a higher strain."—Musical Standard.

"Mr. Fox has made a decided success in a task of no slight difficulty, and his musical setting of the 'Jackdaw of Rheims' is marked by strong originality, great resources of expression, and a nice discrimination between comedy and vulgarity."—Illustrated Sporting and Dramatic News.

"There is much liveliness of treatment and comic spirit throughout the work."—Illustrated London News.

"The Jackdaw of Rheims," set to very charming music by Mr. George Fox."—Figaro.

A NEW WORK FOR AMATEUR ORGANISTS.

FAVOURITE SONGS from the ORATORIOS, arranged for the ORGAN (with Pedal Obbligato), chiefly for the use of Amateurs, by GEORGE R. GRIFFITHS.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS EACH; POST FREE, 1s. 6d.

- | | | | |
|--|---------|--|---------|
| 1. HE SHALL FEED HIS FLOCK. | Handel. | 9. WHAT THOUGH I TRACE; and PIOUS ORGIES. | Handel. |
| 2. HE WAS DESPISED. | do. | 10. THY REBUKE HATH BROKEN HIS HEART; and BEHOLD AND SEE. | do. |
| 3. ANGELS, EVER BRIGHT AND FAIR. | do. | 11. HE WAS CUT OFF; and BUT THOU DIDST NOT LEAVE HIS SOUL IN HELL. | do. |
| 4. HOW BEAUTIFUL ARE THE FEET. | do. | 12. I KNOW THAT MY REDEEMER LIVETH. | do. |
| 5. IF GOD BE FOR US. | do. | | |
| 6. TYRANNIC LOVE. | do. | | |
| 7. LORD, REMEMBER DAVID; and HOLY, HOLY. | Handel. | | |
| 8. WISE MEN FLATTERING. | Handel. | | |

To be continued.

The words being printed upon the top line will be found of great service to the performer in giving proper expression to the songs.

NEW WORK FOR SINGING CLASSES. CHAPPELL'S PENNY OPERATIC PART-SONGS.

For Soprano, Alto, Tenor, and Bass.

The present collection of Part-Songs is entirely new, being selected and adapted from the most striking and popular Choruses in the Favourite Foreign Operas. The Arrangement is purely Vocal, such Choruses only being chosen as can be sung without the aid of an Instrumental Accompaniment. The Words have been expressly written for the work, and the harmonies arranged in four parts, as likely to be most useful in small classes.

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1. Hymn of the Fisherman's Children ... | Adapted to a Melody from Herold's "ZAMPA." |
| 2. Fays and Elves (In mia fe) ... | From Flotow's "MARTA." |
| 3. Spring's Bright Glances (In Elvezia non v'ha) ... | From Bellini's "LA SONNAMBULA." |
| 4. From Yonder Vale and Hill (D'immenso giubilo) ... | From Donizetti's "LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR." |
| 5. Here we Rest (Qui la selva) ... | From Bellini's "LA SONNAMBULA." |
| 6. Onward to Battle (Squilli echeggi) ... | From Verdi's "IL TROVATORE." |
| 7. Rataplan (Rataplan) ... | From Donizetti's "LA FIGLIA DEL REGGIMENTO." |
| 8. The Gipsy's Star (Vedi! le fosche) ... | From Verdi's "IL TROVATORE." |
| 9. War Song of the Druids (Dell' aura tua profetica) ... | From Bellini's "NORMA." |
| 10. In Mercy, hear us! (Cielo clemente) ... | From Donizetti's "LA FIGLIA DEL REGGIMENTO." |
| 11. Come to the Fair! (Accorete, giovinette) ... | From Flotow's "MARTA." |
| 12. Friendship (Per te d'immenso giubilo) ... | From Donizetti's "LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR." |
| 13. Away, the Morning freshly breaking (The Chorus of Fishermen) ... | From Auber's "MASANIELLO." |
| 14. Pretty Village Maiden (Peasants' Serenade Chorus) ... | From Gounod's "FAUST." |
| 15. The soft Winds around us (The Gipsy Chorus) ... | From Weber's "PRECIOSA." |
| 16. See how lightly on the blue sea (Senti la danza invitaci) ... | From Donizetti's "LUCREZIA BORGIA." |
| 17. See the Moonlight Beam (Non fav Mollo) ... | " |
| 18. On yonder rocks reclining ... | From Auber's "FRA DIAVOLO." |
| 19. Happy and light ... | From Balfe's "BOHEMIAN GIRL." |
| 20. Come, come away (Ah! que de moins) ... | From Donizetti's "LA FAVORITA." |
| 21. Hymen's torch (Il destin) ... | From Meyerbeer's "LES HUGUENOTS." |
| 22. Come on, Comrade (The Celebrated Chorus of Old Men) ... | From Gounod's "FAUST." |
| 23. 'Gainst the Powers of Evil (The Choral of the Cross) ... | " |
| 24. O Balmy night (Com e gentil) ... | From Donizetti's "DON PASQUALE." |
| 25. Haste o'er the hills (Introductory Chorus) ... | From Rossini's "GUGLIELMO TELL." |
| 26. Come, sing the Song (Opening Chorus) ... | From Meyerbeer's "ROBERT LE DIABLE." |
| 27. With fair Ceres (The March Chorus) ... | From Bellini's "NORMA." |
| 28. The Tuneful Song of Robin's Horn (Tyrolese Chorus) ... | From Rossini's "GUGLIELMO TELL." |
| 29. The Chorus of Huntsmen ... | From Weber's "DER FREISCHUTZ." |
| 30. Hark! the distant hills (Hunting Chorus) ... | From Flotow's "MARTA." |
| 31. Hence! away with care ... | From Meyerbeer's "GLI UGONOTTI." |
| 32. Hail to the Bride ... | From Wagner's "LOHENGGRIN." |
| 33. Hark! music stealing! (subject from Overture) ... | From Rossini's "SEMIRAMIDE." |
| 34. A bridal wreath we twined (Chorus of Bridesmaids) ... | From Weber's "DER FREISCHUTZ." |
| 35. Behold, how brightly breaks the morning! (The Barcarole) ... | From Auber's "MASANIELLO." |
| 36. From hill to hill resounding (subject from Overture) ... | From Auber's "FRA DIAVOLO." |

Postage free, 1½d. each; or 3 for 3½d.

(To be continued.)

ANTOINE COURTOIS' CORNETS,

Adopted by LEVY, REYNOLDS, and all the principal Cornet Players in Great Britain, United States, France, and Russia.
SOLE AGENT: S. ARTHUR CHAPPELL, 52, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON.

CHAPPELL & CO., 50, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON.

IN THE PRESS.

THE CATHEDRAL PSALTER
CHANTS

Is now in the Press, and will be issued before

EASTER.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast-tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly-nourished frame."—The Civil Service Gazette.

"MANUFACTURE OF COCOA.—We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Epps and Co., manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Euston Road, London."—See Article in Cassell's Household Guide.

MADE SIMPLY WITH BOILING WATER OR MILK.

SOLD IN PACKETS (TINS FOR ABROAD), LABELLED

JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists,
48, THREADNEEDLE STREET, AND 170, PICCADILLY.

WORKS: EUSTON ROAD AND CAMDEN TOWN, LONDON.

Makers of EPPS'S GLYCERINE JUJUBES, for Throat Irritation.

THE MUSICAL
TIMES

ARTHUR ALLISON, HARMONIUM & AMERICAN ORGAN MANUFACTURER.

AGENTS WANTED WHERE NOT APPOINTED FOR
ARTHUR ALLISON'S CELEBRATED BROAD REED ORGAN,
NOTED FOR ITS PURITY AND FULLNESS OF TONE.

PRICES:
Ash, 8 Guineas; American Walnut
or Mahogany, 9 Guineas; Burr
Walnut or Rosewood, 10 Guineas.
ANGLO-AMERICAN ORGANS, from 10 Guineas.

HARMONIUMS, of all Sizes, with
1, 2, or 3 Manuals and Pedals,
made to Order.
Sole London Agent for Daves & Ramsden's
Patent Melody and Pedal Substitute Organs.
FULL ILLUSTRATED LISTS ON APPLICATION.

HEIGHT, 2 FT. 7 IN.; LENGTH, 3 FT. 5 IN.; DEPTH, 1 FT. 3 IN.

JOHN PARK'S SONGS. With INTRODUCTORY NOTICE by PRINCIPAL SHAIRP, LL.D. Leeds: A. Ramsden.
LONDON: ARTHUR ALLISON, 110, WARDOUR STREET, W.

PLEYEL, WOLFF & CO.'S

INDEPENDENT

TRANSPOSING KEYS

For Pianos of all Makers. Require no fixing, and may be placed on and taken off at pleasure.

Price Six Guineas; Case, Half-a-Guinea.

I. BERROW & CO.,

SOLE AGENTS,

CLARENDON MANSIONS, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

The Music Pages only are stereotyped; those persons who would possess the Musical Articles, Notices, Advertisements, &c., can only ensure doing so by taking the work as it appears.

No. 409.—Vol. 18.

Registered for transmission abroad.

MARCH 1, 1877.

Price 3d.; Post free, 4d.

Annual Subscription, Postage free, 4s.

PETERBOROUGH CATHEDRAL.—There will be a trial for a CHORISTER BOY (age $8\frac{1}{2}$ to $10\frac{1}{2}$) in March or April. Application to be made to Mr. H. Keeton, Minister Precincts, Peterborough. The Choristers receive a classical education at the Cathedral Grammar School. Head Master, Rev. W. D. Sweeting, M.A.

WANTED, for St. John's Church, Wimbledon, a LEADING TREBLE BOY. Duties: Morning and Evening Service on Sundays, Practice and Service on Friday evenings. Apply by letter, stating salary required, to Seymour Smith, 153, Gordon Road, Nunhead, S.E.

SOPRANO REQUIRED immediately for Parish Church, Greenwich. One accustomed to Church services, with good voice, and residing in neighbourhood, preferred. Remuneration £10. Apply for all particulars to Mr. H. Killick Morley, 71, South Street, Greenwich, S.E.

SOPRANOS.—TWO LADIES WANTED, of skill and experience as Leaders, to complete choir of All Saints, Gordon Square, W.C. Two Sunday services and weekly practice. £10. Also a DEPUTY ORGANIST (amateur) for afternoon service; practice given; organ by Hill. Apply to Mr. Manton, 51, Frithville Gardens, Shepherd's Bush; or at the Church any Wednesday at Eight.

CHOIR.—TWO LEADING TREBLES WANTED immediately for a surplined choir at the East of London. Two services on Sundays and one weekly practice. Must be fully competent. Liberal remuneration. Apply, by letter, to Mr. Thos. Digs, 220, Mare Street, Hackney, E.

A LAY-CLERK (ALTO) WANTED for Bristol Cathedral. A Communicant. A good reader of cathedral music. Salary £60 per annum, with extras. Duties: Five days in the week, including Sunday; full rehearsal weekly, and whenever the Precentor calls one. Address Rev. Precentor Hey, St. Augustine's Gate, Bristol.

CARLISLE CATHEDRAL.—ALTO (to take the Solos) and LAY CLERK WANTED. Salary £100 a year. For particulars apply to the Chapter Clerk, Carlisle.

ALTO WANTED for St. John the Evangelist, Westminster. Two Sunday services and weekly practice. Salary, £10. Address 29, Beverley Road, South Penge Park.

ALTO WANTED for a Catholic Church. Apply by letter to Mr. Cassidy, St. Joseph's Retreat, Highgate.

CROYDON PARISH CHURCH CHOIR.—TENOR WANTED. Salary, £12. None but good readers need apply. Frederick Cambridge, Organist, 26, St. John's Grove, Croydon.

TENOR WANTED at Church in Islington. Two services on Sunday and weekly practice. Good reader. Stipend, £8. Address E. H., 18, Canonbury Square, Islington.

WIMBORNE MINSTER.—WANTED A BASS SINGER. Salary £25 a year. Apply to J. Whitehead Smith, Organist.

ALTOS and TENORS WANTED for a Glee Union. Address Mr. Odle, 22, Dennett's Grove, Queen's Road, Peckham.

WANTED, for the Choir of Grosvenor Church, South Audley Street, ALTO, TENOR, and BASS VOICES; stipend, £12; a Choir Master, stipend, £30; Eight Boys, stipend, £2. Two Sunday Services, and one week-day evening practice. Apply by letter to Rev. C. E. Wright, 11, Granville Place, Portman Square.

VOICES WANTED for a West End Church Choir. Apply to Musicus, 7, Sussex Place, S.W.

TENOR and BASS WANTED for a Church in Hornsey. Two services Sunday, and weekly practice. Stipend £10. Choir about to be surplined. Volunteers are also required. Address A. D., 17, Stanley Street, S.W.

A MINOR CANONRY in Bristol Cathedral will shortly be VACANT. Stipend £150 per annum. Candidates for the office are requested to lodge testimonials as to musical ability, efficiency in preaching, and general character, with the Chapter Clerk, Chapter Office, College Green, Bristol, on or before 15th March next.

WANTED, an ORGANIST for a Parish Church. Salary £25. Apply to the Churchwardens, Crewkerne.

GLOUCESTER COUNTY ASYLUM, near Gloucester.—WANTED, an Attendant to act as ORGANIST and SCHOOLMASTER. Wages £30 per annum, with board, lodging, washing, and uniform. Must be able to take a plain service in the chapel, also to teach to read and write a few of the imbeciles. A MALE ATTENDANT also required. Musician preferred. Wages to commence at £24, with board, lodging, washing, and uniform. Applications, stating age, whether married or single, with testimonials, to be sent to Mr. E. Toller, Medical Superintendent, at the Asylum. BENJAMIN SHADGETT, Clerk.

WANTED, an ORGANIST for Welshpool. Salary £40. And CHOIRMASTER for Choral Association, £25. Address Rev. J. Hill, Welshpool.

WANTED, about Easter, an ORGANIST. Must be thoroughly qualified to train a Choir. Salary £50 per annum. Fine organ. Choir of men and boys. Excellent opening for a good teacher in the neighbourhood. Apply, before March 15th, to the Vicar, Witton Vicarage, Northwich, Cheshire.

WANTED, ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER for Trinity (Episcopal) Church, Melrose, N.B. Communicant. Light duty, good neighbourhood, and fair field for tuition. Salary, £40. Apply to Rev. W. Simpson, Trinity Parsonage, Melrose, N.B.

WANTED, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER for St. James's Church, Bury St. Edmunds. Salary £60. Private pupils can be obtained by a thoroughly competent man. Choral Service. Anglican music. Apply by letter to Rev. C. F. Wilson, St. James's Vicarage, Bury St. Edmunds.

WANTED an ORGANIST for the Church of St. Nicholas, Harwich; single, active, a good choirmaster, and a good Churchman. Address the Vicar.

ORGANIST.—A Lady of much ability and experience as musician and organist, who is about to train as a deaconess, desires an ENGAGEMENT in London after Easter. Able to train large choir. Address Miss Hudson, 4, Adamson Road, Belsize Park, Hampstead, N.W.

ORGANIST.—A Lady, thoroughly qualified, desires a post as ORGANIST, either in London or within 20 miles. Is an experienced, clever trainer. Excellent references. Address L., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street (W.)

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—An APPOINTMENT WANTED at Easter. First-class testimonials as to character and ability. G. H., 126, Great Dover Street, S.E.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—A Professional Gentleman requires a RE-ENGAGEMENT as above. Address H. J. Dean, 2, Blomfield Street, Finsbury, E.C.

RE-ENGAGEMENT desired (in or near London), by an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER of several years' experience. Communicant. Excellent testimonials and references. Good Organ and Choral Service preferred. Is a pupil of Dr. G. A. Macfarren, and during the last eighteen months has been in Berlin, studying the higher branches of composition under Prof. Kiel. Will return to England in April. Address Organist, care of Rev. R. Bellson, 109, Königgrätzer Strasse, Berlin.

WANTED, immediately, a MUSIC MASTER for the Grammar School, Warminster. Salary, £50 per annum, for 12½ hours weekly for 40 weeks in the year. Applications are requested from gentlemen who can play and teach the piano well. There is a good opening in the town for an able man. Address, with references and full testimonials, Dr. Alcock, Head Master.

A LADY PIANIST, of well-known reputation, pupil of Thalberg, Hallé, and Benedict, wishes to teach Music in a first-class Ladies' School, in or near London, where her daughter, aged 12, would be educated. References to several of the nobility. Address, Madame S., Challenger's Music Warehouse, Ladbroke Grove Road, Notting Hill, W.

THE ORGANIST of the Parish Church, Dorking, has a VACANCY for a PROFESSIONAL PUPIL. Daily Choral Services. Large three-manual organ.

THE ORGANIST and Professor of Music at Trent College, Nottingham, requires an ARTICLED PUPIL. Good advantages. Apply to John H. Gower, Mus. Bac., Trent College, Nottingham.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MDME. ELLEN GLANVILLE (Soprano).
20, Frithville Gardens, Uxbridge Road, Shepherd's Bush, W.

MISS FLORENCE CLYDE (Soprano).
For Opera, Oratorio, and Concerts, 24, Waltherton Road, W.

MISS ARTHUR (Soprano).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address Butterley House, Leeds.

MRS. WARREN (Soprano).
Of Mr. C. Hallé's Concerts. For Oratorio or other Concerts, address 150, Radnor Street, Hulme, Manchester.
Lessons in Singing. References—C. Hallé, Esq., and E. Hecht, Esq.

MRS. ALFRED J. SUTTON (Soprano)
Is open to engagements for Concerts and Oratorios.
54, Duchess Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

MISS M. B. CRICHTON (Soprano).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 2, Hallfield Place, Bradford.

MRS. NEESHAM (Soprano).
For Oratorio or other Concerts, address 118, Burley Road, Leeds.

MISS ALICE BERTON (Contralto).
(Pupil of Signor Mazzoni.) 221, Jubilee Street, Mile End Road.

MISS LOUISA BOWMONT (Contralto)
(Principal of the Church of the Holy Name, Manchester).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address 51, Mercer Street, Embden Street, Hulme.

MISS PATTI HARGREAVES (Contralto).
70, Crawford Street, Camp Road, Leeds.

MR. JAMES SEARLE (Tenor),
321, Liverpool Road.

MR. WELBYE WALLACE (Tenor)
(Of the Crystal Palace, and Gentlemen's Concerts, Manchester, &c. &c.).
Having returned from abroad, is free to accept engagements for Concerts, Opera, or Oratorio. All communications to be addressed (care of) Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

MR. R. ROCHE (Tenor).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address Newport, Isle of Wight.

MR. WILLIAM PARKINSON (Primo Tenore).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address Theatre, Preston.

MR. WILLIAM DUMVILLE (Tenor).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address 14, Duke Street, Broughton, or Cathedral, Manchester.

MR. VERNEY BINNS (Tenor).
(Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Sig. Ciro Pinsuti.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 6, New Bond Street, Halifax.

MR. DUNCAN FINLAY (Tenor).
Opera, Oratorio, and Concert Party, 24, Waltherton Road, W.

MR. D. DUXBURY (Tenor).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address Albemarle Terrace, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MR. GREENHILL (Tenor).
For Concerts, Pupils, &c., 7, Alma Square, St. John's Wood.

Mr. D. HARRISON (Basso).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address Cathedral Choir, York.

MR. ADOLPHUS PHILLIPS (Basso)
(Of the Cathedral Choir, Lincoln).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 92, Newland, Lincoln.

MR. T. DODDS (Bass).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 7, Brunswick Terrace, Leeds.

MR. A. MCALL (Bass).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address Minster, York.

MR. RICKARD (Bass).
(Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Signor Ciro Pinsuti.)
For Oratorios and Concerts, address King Cross, Halifax, Yorkshire.

MR. THORNTON WOOD (Bass)
(Of the Royal Albert Hall Concerts). For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 2, Hallfield Place, Bradford, Yorkshire.

MR. WILLIAM W. MEADOWS (Pianist).
Address 39, Thurlow Place, South Kensington, S.W.

ALBERT E. BISHOP.
(Organ, Harmony, and Counterpoint.)
Address 26, Wilson Street, E.C.

MR. J. SHARPE (Oboe Player).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 235, Lidgett Hill, Pudsey, nr. Leeds.
Bandmasters and others supplied with Triebert's and Morton's celebrated Oboes. Best Oboe Reeds, 2s. each; Staples Recaned, 1s. each.

MRS. OSGOOD requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Oratorios and Miscellaneous Concerts may be addressed to Mr. N. Vert, 52, New Bond Street, W.

MR. FARLEY SINKINS (Basso), having relinquished his duties at Christ Church Cathedral, is now open to accept engagements for Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Address 91, Lyme Street, Camden Town, N.W., or St. Alclates, Oxford.

MR. CHARLES JOSEPH FROST begs to inform his pupils and friends that he has REMOVED to 73, Farleigh Road, Stoke Newington, N. Red tram-cars direct from Moorgate Street. Nearest station, Rectory Road.

THE GUITAR.—MDME. SIDNEY PRATTEN, Teacher of this elegant instrument, is in Town for the Season. For Lessons and Concerts, address 22A, Dorset Street, Portman Square.

MUSICAL DEGREES AND EXAMINATIONS.—J. W. HINTON, Mus. Doc., M.A., 40, Albany Street, N.W., prepares candidates for Mus. B. or Mus. D., of Oxford, Cambridge, or Dublin, in all branches they may require. Dr. H. continues to revise or orchestrate for composers. Harmony and Counterpoint by post if required.

DR. SLOMAN gives LESSONS to CANDIDATES preparing for Musical Degrees. Oakdene, Lower Norwood.

MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS.—CANDIDATES TRAINED for Examinations, either personally or by correspondence. Dr. Holloway, F.C.O., 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

TO COMPOSERS.—DR. HOLLOWAY continues to Revise and Arrange every description of Music for Publication. Students prepared for the profession or for examinations. If residing at a distance, lessons can be had by post. Faults pointed out, and every information given to the young aspirant. Dr. Holloway, F.C.O., 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

PIANOFORTE, ORGAN, HARMONIUM, SINGING, HARMONY, and COMPOSITION. LESSONS to Private Pupils or in Schools. Dr. Arthur S. Holloway, 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

A GENTLEMAN is desirous of giving LESSONS by post in HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT. References from present pupils, if desired. Terms very moderate. Address Magister, Musical Times Office, 1, Berners Street, London, W.

MR. JOHN HILES, 41, Aldridge Road Villas, W. (Author of the "Catechism of Harmony, Thorough-bass, and Modulation," "Hiles' Short Voluntaries," "Catechism for the Pianoforte Student," and several other important musical works), gives Lessons in Harmony, &c., by post.

MR. HUMPHREY J. STARK, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., S.C.F., undertakes to prepare candidates for Musical Examinations, and to give Lessons in Harmony and Composition by post. 7, Thurlow Terrace, Norwood Road, S.E.

TO STUDENTS.—The Organist of Ripon Cathedral Teaches HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT by Correspondence. For terms, address Edwin J. Crow, Mus. Bac., Cantab.

THE ORGANIST of St. John's Church, Caterham, has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL. He will receive a thorough Musical Education, &c. For particulars apply to C. J. Tugwell, Organist, Caterham.

A PROFESSOR of MUSIC in the West of England offers a COMFORTABLE HOME to a youth of decided musical ability wishing to improve. Three-manual organ and other advantages. Premium. Address Mr. Leaman, Ilminster.

ORGAN LESSONS and PRACTICE on a fine new Instrument, with 2 manuals, 15 stops, 2½ octaves of pedals, with Bourdons throughout. Terms moderate. Allen's Musical Instrument Warehouse, 17, Percy Street, Bedford Square, W. Lessons and Practice on other Instruments also.

ORGAN PRACTICE or INSTRUCTION.—Three Manuals, each of 56 notes, pedal organ, 30 notes, 17 effective stops, and blown by Lea's Automatic Hydraulic Engine. Terms, which are strictly inclusive, on application at Blennerhasset's Organ School and Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, Pentonville, W.C.

ORGAN STUDIO, 140 (late 166), STRAND (opposite the Gaiety).—LESSONS or PRACTICE (and at St. Michael's, Stockwell, S.W.) on fine two-manual C ORGANS (Hill and Son).—Full pedal compass.—W. VENNING SOUTH-GATE (Organist, St. Michael's, Stockwell), "the Strand Organ Studio," W.C. Est. 1867.

FOR HOME ORGAN PRACTICE.—Two-manual GRAND PIANO, having pedals full compass, radiating, concave, each taking down unison and super octave. £35. Mr. Grimes, Sherborne, Dorset.

WANTED, SPECIFICATIONS, below £600, for the ERECTION of an ORGAN in the English Embassy Church, Paris. Space available, 12ft. 6in. by 6ft. 6in.; height, 20ft. Apply to J. E. P. Aidous, 16, Rue Miroir, Paris.

ESTABLISHED APRIL 1866.

THE ENGLISH GLEE UNION.

Mr. H. ASHTON, Mr. F. H. COZENS,
Mr. FOUNTAIN MEEN, Mr. ALBERT HUBBARD,

ASSISTED BY

Madame ASHTON.

For terms, &c., address H. Ashton, Secretary, Ivy House, Stamford Hill, London, N.

THE BRITISH GLEE UNION and CONCERT

PARTY.—Mr. Sidney Barnby (Alto), Mr. Henry Parkin (Tenor), Mr. Frank Brough (Tenor and Pianist), and Mr. Prenton (Bass), A Soprano provided. For Concerts, Dinners, &c., please address Mr. Sidney Barnby, St. Paul's Cathedral, E.C.

MR. STEDMAN'S CONCERT PARTIES for

Oratorio and Miscellaneous Concerts, Institutions, Evening Parties, Soirées, &c., &c.

MADE UP FROM THE MOST EMINENT ARTISTS, AND INCLUDING: Miss Annie Sinclair, Miss Sophie Ferrari, Miss Mary Davies, Miss Matilda Scott, Mdme. Worrell-Duval, Miss Jessie Royd, Mdme. Poole, Miss Annie Butterworth, Miss Dones, Miss Gill, Mdme. Osborne Williams, Mr. Stedman, Mr. Alfred Kenningham, Mr. J. L. Wadmore, Mr. George Fox, Mr. Henry Pope, Mr. Thurley Beale, Mr. King Hall, Mr. Henry Parker, &c., &c.

THE STANDARD QUARTETT.—Messrs. Hodges, Stedman, Charles Beckett, and Thurley Beale. For terms and particulars, address Mr. STEDMAN, 1, Berners Street, W.

ORATORIO AND CONCERT PARTY.—

Soprano, Miss Tomlinson (Pupil of R. S. Burton, Esq.); Contralto, Miss Alice Arnold (Royal Academy, London); Tenor, Mr. Chas. Blagbro' (Parish Church, Leeds); Bass, Mr. Thornton Wood (Royal Albert Hall Concerts, London). Conductor and Accompanist, Mr. R. S. Burton (Leeds).—For terms, &c., apply to Mr. Thornton Wood, 2, Hallfield Place, Bradford.

YORKSHIRE (ST. CECILIA) CONCERT

PARTY. Miss Evison, Miss Kennedy, Mr. Nunns, Mr. Dodds. Mr. Shaw, Pianist. Address Mr. Dodds, 7, Brunswick Terrace, Leeds.

WANTED, by a LADY, an ENGAGEMENT in a Pianoforte and Music Warehouse. Is a good pianist, and can produce good testimonials. London or the neighbourhood preferred. M. A. C., Post Office, Peterborough.

WANTED, by a respectable Young Man, a SITUATION as TUNER, or to Assist in a Music Warehouse. Two years at Kirkman's, and tunes well. Country not objected to. Address E. H., 75, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

TO SUPERINTENDENTS.—A Joiner, Cabinet-

maker, and Musician; organ; pianoforte; superior tenor; highest testimonials and references. When re-engaged requires to give a month's notice. Address "Asylum," care of Messrs. Novello and Co.

WANTED, a SITUATION as IMPROVER in PIANOFORTE TUNING. Can do slight repairs; good reference; age 24; small salary; town, country, or abroad. Address A. J. H., 49, Charlotte Street, Caledonian Road, London.

WANTED, ASSISTANT SALESMAN in a high-class Pianoforte Warehouse in the West End of London. Must be intelligent, of gentlemanly address, and a good pianist. Apply, stating age, experiences, salary expected, &c., to Assistant, care of Messrs. Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, London.

WANTED, a steady, respectable young man as SECOND TUNER. One who has been in a factory preferred. State wages. R. W. A., 44, London Street, Southport.

TO ORGAN BUILDERS.—WANTED, first-class

WORKMEN (inside hands). Apply to Mr. J. Porritt, Organ Builder, Leicester.

EAST LONDON ORGAN WORKS,

9, Burdett Road, Mile End, E.—E. CARDER is prepared to send Specifications for building Organs of very superior materials and workmanship. Alterations, rebuilding, and repairs. First-class workmen sent to all parts on very moderate terms. Tuning, &c. Second-hand ORGANS for SALE.

ORGANS for Church or Chamber, full, rich tone, from 35 guineas. ORGAN HARMONIUMS, with 1 or 2 manuals, full compass of pedals, from 25 to 54 guineas, invaluable for Teaching or Organ Practice. SPRAGUE'S Celebrated ORGAN-TONE HARMONIUMS, 6 guineas; best in the trade.—William Sprague, 7, Finsbury Pavement, London.

A. MONK'S 100-Guinea ORGANS, 2 CC Manuals,

Bourdon pedal pipes, 10 stops. 200-guinea Organs, 2 manuals, 16 stops. 300-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 21 stops. 400-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 27 stops. Organs built to any design. Old Organs rebuilt. Additions, Repairs, Tunings, &c. Specifications and Estimates free. Sussex Terrace, King's Road, Camden Town, London.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications made out for Organs. Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing, and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. Willis, 29, Minorities, London.

HARMONIUMS.—All sizes warranted. The lowest price for cash. Fittings, &c. The trade supplied. J. T. B., 6, Adair Road, Westbourne Park, London.

CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION.

NOTICE.

A PRIZE MEDAL of the FIRST RANK was awarded at Philadelphia, 1876, to

PELOUBET, PELTON & Co.,

NEW YORK,

FOR THE GENERAL EXCELLENCE OF THEIR

"STANDARD"

AMERICAN ORGANS.

PRICES, 12 TO 125 GUINEAS.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE to be had on application to

BARNETT SAMUEL & SON,

31, HOUNDSDITCH, E.C., & 32, WORSHIP STREET,
FINSBURY SQUARE,

Sole Agents for the United Kingdom and British Colonies.

A LIBERAL DISCOUNT ALLOWED TO THE TRADE.

LONDON AGENTS,

Messrs. MOUTRIE & SON,

PIANOFORTE SALOON,

55, BAKER STREET, LONDON, W.

MR. J. HAMILTON begs to inform Organists,

Organ Students, and others that the Pedals and Action for attachment to Pianofortes manufactured by him can be inspected and ordered at the above address.

A set of Straight Pedals 30 notes (C to F), with action and printed instructions, "How to Attach," price £4 4s. Or Radiating and Concave Pedal Board, with action, price £5 5s.

TESTIMONIAL.

Accrington, August 2, 1876.

Dear Sir,—I enclose cheque for the pedals. I have put the Pedals fairly to the test and am fully satisfied with them; the Action is so light and simple that the touch of the Pianoforte does not suffer, and at the same time they are as effective as it is possible to get them.

Yours, &c.,

JAMES GREEN, Organist.

To Mr. J. Hamilton.

Orders accompanied with Cheque or P.O. Order will receive immediate attention. Send for prices to the Profession and Trade.

Address J. HAMILTON, 11, Brunswick Street, City Road, Bristol.

STUTTGART HARMONIUM COMPANY.—

LEOPOLD KAHN, Stuttgart, Germany.

Price Lists on application to ALPHONSE CARY, Sole Representative, 26, Fortress Terrace, Kentish Town, N.W.; close to Kentish Town Station. Inspection solicited.

BRASS, REED, STRING, and DRUM and FIFE

BANDS, PIANOFORTES AND HARMONIUMS, supplied at wholesale prices, at J. MOORE'S, Buxton Road, Huddersfield. Prices, with drawings of every instrument, post free. Music for any kind of band. Patronised by the army, navy, and rifle corps.

RUSSELL'S MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

CONCERTINAS, Harmoniums, Organ Accordions,

Flutinas, Drums, Fifes, Flutes, Violins, Cornets, Saxhorns, Clarionets, Flageolets, Guitars, Banjos, Musical Boxes, Strings, &c. Self-Instruction Books. Instruments repaired or exchanged. Price Lists free. J. Russell, 158, Goswell Road, Clerkenwell, London.

T. R. WILLIS (established 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Music Strings, Wire, &c., Violins, Concertinas, &c. 29, Minorities, London. List for stamp.

THE GUSTAVE MODEL LIBRARY REED

ORGAN, unexcelled for purity of tone and brilliancy; 10 stops and improved knee swell; elegantly carved black walnut case, ebonised mouldings, 30 guineas. Gustave and James, 8, Cyril Street, Camberwell Gate, London, S.E.

£30 ORGAN, in good order, suitable for Chapel or small Church; 8 stops, pedals. 170, Pentonville Road, London.

VERTICAL IRON FRAME PIANOFORTES.— STRUNG UPON A SINGLE CASTING.

CHECK ACTION. Trichord to Covered Strings. Compensating for thermometric changes. Irreproachable stability of construction. Highly important to the Trade, especially in the Colonies.

Full particulars from the makers, PARKER & SMITH, Plymouth. Good Workmen Wanted. Constant employment. Expense of living 20 per cent. less than in London.

SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS.—New Model by Kaps, of Dresden.—This instrument is an improvement on the original Short Grand now so well known. The volume and brilliancy of tone is much increased; it has an unfailing repetition action, and will compare favourably with much larger and more costly instruments. May be purchased wholesale and retail or hired at the original Depot, 26, North Audley Street, W. Proprietor, C. E. FLAVELL.

TO SELL MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS of every description, also Libraries of Music, Music Plates and Copyrights, Stock-in-Trade, &c., SALE (devoted exclusively to this class of property) held every month. Single instruments inserted. Consignments received at any time. Puttick and Simpson, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C. [Established 1794.]

SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES.—150 by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, Allison, &c., from 4 guineas upwards. HARMONIUMS (New), from £5, in Walnut or Mahogany cases. Largest stock of Pianos and Harmoniums in London at Kelly and Co.'s, 11, Charles Street, Middlesex Hospital. Trade supplied.

DEAN'S CHEAP MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS. School Band Flutes from 3s. 6d.; 8-Key Concert Flutes, 25s.; Cornets in case, 30s.; Drums, Tambourines, Banjos, and every article in the trade. A good Violin, with Bow and Book, in case, 20s. English, Roman, and Acribble Violin Strings—5 best firsts, warranted to stand at concert pitch, sent free for 13 stamps. Price Lists sent free. Joseph Dean, Music Warehouse, 77, City Road, E.C.

VIOLINS.—The New Joseph Guarini Violin, recommended by Sivori, Leonard, and Remenji, is worthy the attention of all violinists seeking a violin made in accordance with the true art principles, as opposed to the vile imitative craft now so common. Price £7 10s. Sole agent, W. Hargreaves, 7, St. Ann Street, Manchester.

VIOLINS, TENORS, VIOLONCELLOS, and DOUBLE BASSES, by "Craske," equal to Stradivarius and Guarnerius.

Upwards of 500 of these splendid Instruments now on Sale at Edward Crompton's, 54, Barton Arcade, Deansgate, Manchester (3rd floor), many of which have been made 50 years. Also a large collection of Italian Instruments.

VIOLINS, VIOLAS, VIOLONCELLOS, &c.—JOHNSON HICKS, Dealer in, and careful Repairer of, "CREMONA" and other Violins, &c.—Brunswick House, Torquay, Devon.

FIRST VIOLIN STRINGS; will not break if tuned up to G; never tuning false even from perspiration; one returned for 4 stamps. Send to Mr. Youens, Assembly Rooms, Newby Place, Poplar, E.—Established 1840.

J. B. CRAMER AND CO.'S FRENCH POLISH REVIVER, invented by GEORGE WATTS, for cleaning and polishing furniture, pianos, and leather, of every description.

OPINIONS OF THE LONDON AND BRIGHTON PRESS. "This is a really genuine article."—Times. "The brilliant and lasting polish obtained is surprising."—Guardian. "Very successful results have attended its application."—Daily News. "We have, therefore, much pleasure in recommending it to house-keepers as a really useful and valuable preparation."—The Queen. "Anyone can use Cramer's reviver with success."—The Orchestra.

Price 1s., 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d. per bottle. To be obtained of grocers and pianoforte dealers. Agents wanted. Wholesale and retail agents—J. B. Cramer and Co., and Metzler and Co., London. Manufacturers—J. B. Cramer & Co., Brighton.

ACCURATE METRONOMES, 1s., post free. Rudiments of Singing, 1s. per dozen. Singing Class Tutor, 12th ed., 6d. each. D. Scholefield, Trinity Street, Huddersfield.

THROAT IRRITATION.—The throat and wind-pipe are especially liable to inflammation, causing soreness and dryness, tickling and irritation, inducing cough and affecting the voice. For these symptoms use glycerine in the form of jujubes. Glycerine, in these agreeable confections, being in proximity to the glands at the moment they are excited by the act of sucking, becomes actively healing. Sold only in 6d. and 1s. boxes (by post for 14 stamps), labelled JAMES EPFS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists, 48, Threadneedle Street, and 170, Piccadilly.

12 S. WORTH OF MUSIC for One Shilling, post free for fifteen stamps, soiled and surplus stock. James Smith and Son, 76, 74, and 72, Lord Street, Liverpool.

W. G. HALLIFAX & CO., 315, Oxford Street, W., ENGRAVE and PRINT AUTHORS' WORKS, at the lowest possible cost, and introduce them. Estimates by return of post.

QUARTERLY SALE OF MUSICAL PROPERTY. MESSRS. KELLY & CO. beg to announce that the above will take place on WEDNESDAY, 4th April, consisting of 130 PIANOFORTES by leading European manufacturers, also Harmoniums, Harps, American Organs, Violins, and a large assemblage of Sundries. Catalogues post free. 11, Charles Street (Middlesex Hospital), London.

PIANOFORTES AND HARMONIUMS.—To Dealers, Shippers, and Others.—200 New and Second-hand PIANOFORTES, by the best makers. H. T. Cassini, 319, Goswell Road, Islington.

TO MUSICAL SOCIETIES.—To be Sold by Private Treaty the valuable Library of the Liverpool Musical Society, consisting of Full Band and Vocal Parts for Large Chorus, of the works as follows: "Messiah," "Judas," "Joshua," "Israel in Egypt," "Samson," "Acis and Galatea," "Theodora," "Creation," "Stabat Mater," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Hear my Prayer," "Lauda Sion," "95th Psalm," "Last Judgment," "Ancient Mariner," "The Prodigal Son," "Locke's Macbeth," and sundry Part-songs, &c. Catalogues on application to J. Hawkins, Honorary Secretary, 39, Belmont Road, Liverpool.

TO ORGANISTS.—TO BE SOLD, a good COLLECTION of useful ORGAN MUSIC, including Bach, Mendelssohn, Rink, &c., as good as new, and very cheap. Apply to Mr. Lamborn Cock, 63, New Bond Street.

ON SALE, CC CHAMBER ORGAN, in handsome pine case and decorated front pipes, containing 8 stops, two manuals, separate pedal organ with 16-ft. bourdon, fine tone and nearly new; suitable for small church; price £80. Address G. S., Post Office, Stockport.

FOR SALE, a CHAMBER ORGAN, with 8 Stops and 2 octaves; pedals by Cramer and Co., London. Apply to Messrs. Wood and Co., George Street, Edinburgh.

TWO-MANUAL ORGAN FOR SALE; CC swell, 14 stops; bourdon pedals. Price £100. For particulars apply by letter to Mr. Player, 237, Old Street, E.C.

ORGAN, Church or Chapel, of 2 manuals, CC to G, 56 notes, 20 stops; a powerful, brilliant, sweet mellow tone bourdon pedal organ; 30 notes CCC to F; fine combination pedals. Apply to Costloe and Son, Isleworth, Middlesex.

ORGAN FOR SALE (new).—Two complete manuals, CC to G; 19 stops, 7 on great, 8 in swell; bourdon pedals, 3 couplers, 3 composition pedals; fine metal front.—H. Sims, Organ Builder, Onslow Road, Southampton.

FOR SALE, a very fine CHAMBER ORGAN, by Robson. Bellows worked by hand, foot, or hydraulic engine (which goes with the organ). Two complete manuals, CC to G; 56 notes. German pedals, 2 octaves, 18 stops (one connecting hydraulic), 3 composition pedals, &c. For further particulars apply to Mrs. Aitchison, Woodside, near Carlisle, where the organ may be seen.

CHURCH ORGAN FOR SALE.—Sixteen stops, two manuals, good qualities. Price 100 guineas. Apply R. H., care of Messrs. W. H. Smith and Sons, Birmingham.

ORGAN FOR SALE.—2 manuals, pedals, 2 couplers, 21 speaking draw-stops, and 7 combination pedals. For full particulars apply to Churchwarden, Parish Church, Leek, Staffordshire.

WANTED, CHAMBER ORGAN or ORGAN HARMONIUM. Two manuals, pedals full compass, with bourdons. Must be cheap for prompt cash. Address, by letter, with full particulars and price, J. H. H., Hodgkinson and Co., 127, Aldersgate Street, E.C.

ORGAN.—3 stops, sweet tones, and cheaper than harmonium. Thirteen Pounds. No. 6, Marquis Terrace, Marquis Road, Camden Square, N.W.

A PROFESSOR having to remove, wishes to dispose of his new over-strung DRAWING-ROOM GRAND. X., care of Novello and Co., 80 & 81, Queen Street, E.C.

TWO very Fine-tone CREMONA VIOLINS, by Amati, and Guarnerius, with bows by Dodd.—Messrs. VENTOM, BULL, and COOPER beg to call attention to the above valuable Instruments, which will be included in their SALE, by order of the Executors of the late G. J. Reveley, Esq., on the Premises, Caldecote Hill, Bushey, on Friday, March 16, and following days. Catalogues may be had of G. Spencer, Esq., Solicitor, 3, Verulam Buildings, Gray's Inn; on the premises; and of the Auctioneers, 35, Old Jewry.

A Very fine COLLECTION of 12 original Italian VIOLINS, by the first Masters, is OFFERED for SALE. For particulars apply to Mr. Gustav Feldges, Hamburg, Germany.

ON SALE, a BANKS' VIOLONCELLO and an ITALIAN VIOLIN. For price apply, with enclosed stamped envelope, to William Williamson Hatter, &c., Wellingborough.

C. JEFFERYS, 67, BERNERS ST.

The Choral Society.

A COLLECTION OF

PART-SONGS, GLEES,
CHORUSES, &c.,

EDITED BY

MICHAEL WATSON.

Price 2d. each.

No.	Composer
44 The Primrose	Arthur Johnson.
43 An Evening Song	Owen Head.
42 Row gently here	F. Schira.
41 Hark! the swains are calling	James J. Monk.
40 May Morn	T. M. Pattison.
39 Oh, the gallant fisher's life	Theodore Distin.
38 Spring-time	W. G. Marshall.
37 Evening	Seymour Smith.
36 A poor soul sat sighing	J. Meredith Ball.
35 Ebbing and flowing	T. G. B. Halley.
34 The Spirit of Music	W. F. Taylor.
33 Welcome, lovely Spring	Michael Watson.
32 The boatie rows	Arranged by Michael Watson.
31 How beautiful is night	F. Schira.
30 The Rose of Allandale	Michael Watson.
29 We meet again (for Female voices only)	Stephen Glover.
28 Silent river (for Female voices only)	Michael Watson.
27 Ode to Spring (for Female voices only)	J. H. Tully.
26 Sunshine	T. G. B. Halley.
25 Ave Maria	F. Schira.
24 Daybreak	F. Schira.
23 Yes, every flower that blows	M. F. Gordon.
22 Haste, haste, and lightly tread (for Female voices only)	E. J. Loder.
21 He loves and he rides away	Michael Watson.
20 The little Church (Das Kirchlein) (for Mixed or Male voices)	V. E. Becker.
19 Ye little Birds that sit and sing	G. A. Macfarren.
18 My Love is fair as Summer morning	T. Distin.
17 The Summer cloud	Odoardo Barri.
16 Good-night to the day	T. G. B. Halley.
15 The Arrow and the Song	J. F. Simpson.
14 The Bird's that had left their song	G. A. Macfarren.
13 County Guy	G. A. Macfarren.
12 The Winds	C. J. Frost.
11 Spring Song	J. L. Hatton.
10 Bonnie May	J. H. L. Glover.
9 The Forsaken	J. L. Hatton.
8 I thought of thee	W. F. Banks.
7 Good bye	J. L. Hatton.
6 Moonlight	J. H. L. Glover.
5 Fairy voices	T. G. B. Halley.
4 The Winter being over	Ellen Avery.
3 Where the pearly dewdrop falleth... ..	E. J. Loder.
2 Corin's Fate	R. Turner.
1 'Tis silent eve	Michael Watson.

(To be continued.)

LONDON: C. JEFFERYS, 67, BERNERS STREET, W.

ASHDOWN & PARRY'S

RECENT PUBLICATIONS

FOR

THE ORGAN.

SHORT PIECES FOR THE ORGAN

EDITED AND ARRANGED BY

WILLIAM SPARK, Mus. Doc.,

Organist of the Town Hall, Leeds.

CONTENTS OF BOOK I.:

PRAYER	ARCADELT.
ANDANTINO, D major	BATISTE.
LARGHETTO	SPOHR.
ALLA MARCIA, D major	CHOPIN.
ANDANTINO, F major	W. SPARK.
ANDANTE, C major	W. H. NICHOLS.

CONTENTS OF BOOK II.:

VOLUNTARY	J. S. BACH.
ADAGIO	LOUIS SPOHR.
ANDANTINO	D. HEMINGWAY.
MARCH IN "SCIPIO"	HANDEL.
PRELUDE	E. W. PREVOST.

CONTENTS OF BOOK III.:

ADAGIO RELIGIOSO, "HYMN OF PRAISE"	MENDELSSOHN.
ADAGIO, F major	PLEYEL.
SARABANDE, D minor	J. S. BACH.
GAVOTTE, D major	J. S. BACH.
PRELUDE	G. W. HEALEY.

CONTENTS OF BOOK IV.:

ANDANTE, "JULIUS CÆSAR"	HANDEL.
PRAYER, LARGHETTO MAESTOSO	BELLINI.
MARCIA RELIGIOSA	GLUCK.
ANDANTE CANTABILE, TRIO, C minor	BEETHOVEN.
PRELUDE	AUGUST WILHELM BACH.

Price of each Book, 4s.

A SERIES OF ORGAN PIECES,

IN VARIOUS STYLES, BY

EDWIN M. LOTT

(Organist, S. Peter's, Bayswater).

No.		s.	d.
1.	ANDANTE, in G	2	0
2.	FANFARE, in E flat	3	0
3.	OFFERTOIRE, in D	4	0
4.	OFFERTOIRE EN FORME DE MARCHÉ in B flat	4	0
5.	Ditto ditto in G	3	0
6.	Ditto ditto in F	4	0

LONDON:

LONDON: C. JEFFERYS, 67, BERNERS STREET, W.

ASHDOWN & PARRY, Hanover Square.

Third edition enlarged. Small 4to. Price 2s. 6d. paper covers; 3s. 9d. cloth lettered

ANGLICAN PSALTER CHANTS

SINGLE AND DOUBLE

EDITED BY THE
REV. SIR F. A. GORE OUSELEY, BART., ETC.,
AND
EDWIN GEORGE MONK.

This Work contains nearly 400 Chants, which are appropriated to "Venite, exultemus Domino," the Daily and Proper Psalms, &c.; those for each Service occupying a separate page and affording several Series, suitable to each daily portion of the Psalter, from which choice may be made. The Chants have been selected with especial reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, BERNERS STREET (W.), AND 80 & 81, QUEEN STREET (E.C.)
NEW YORK: J. L. PETERS, 843, BROADWAY.

Re D'ALMAINE, Deceased
(LATE NEW BOND STREET AND SOHO SQUARE).

REALISING THE ESTATE WITHOUT RESERVE.

At time of decease of late Proprietor there were in hand

780 PIANOFORTES

OF THESE

704 ARE STILL ON HAND

UNDER CAREFUL FINISH, AND ARE NOW OFFERED AT
UNDER THE USUAL COST PRICE
(See other column).

Sheet Music almost at the price of Waste Paper

AND EQUAL TO NEW

ALL FULL SIZE AND OF HIGHEST CLASS.

Various other Musical Property,

A NUMBER OF

HARMONIUMS, ORGANS, VIOLINS, &c., &c.

ON VIEW AND FOR SALE AT

5, FINSBURY PAVEMENT,

BY MOORGATE STREET STATION.

TO COMPOSERS wishing to PUBLISH.—Music Engraved, Printed, and Published in the best style at unusually low prices. Estimates free on receipt of MS.
SIMPSON and Co., 33, Argyll Street, Regent Street, London, W.

MUSIC ENGRAVED, PRINTED, AND PUBLISHED in the best style, and on moderate terms, a statement of which sent on application by B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest varied stock of Music in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day, or if in stock posted immediately if required. Terms highly advantageous.
London: B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row.

CHURCH ANTHEMS, &c.

EDITED BY HENRY ALLON, D.D.

Containing 115 Anthems for Congregational Use.

	s.	d.		s.	d.
Crown 8vo., cloth ...	3	0	Cheap Edition, limp cloth	1	4
" roan ...	3	6	" stiff cloth	1	8

"Dr. Allon has done so much to promote an intelligent use of sacred music in divine worship that we gladly call attention to his last and, as we think, most wise effort in the same direction. Having issued in the 'Congregational Psalmist' a valuable series of hymn tunes, chants, kyries, &c., he has now published in a little pocket volume a collection of anthems intended for the use of the congregation, and not simply for the choir. The pieces, as a rule, require, in singing, a degree of musical culture somewhat greater than that required by chorales and chants, but they are on the whole within the reach of persons possessing a practical acquaintance with the art of sight-singing."—Choir.

New and Enlarged Editions, containing 117 Additional Tunes.

THE CONGREGATIONAL PSALMIST.

Edited by HENRY ALLON, D.D., and H. J. GAUNTLETT, Mus. Doc. Providing Tunes, Chants, and Anthems by the best Composers, Ancient and Modern. List of Editions on application.
London: Hodder and Stoughton, 27, Paternoster Row.

Second Edition.—Reduced Prices.

CHORAL SONGS FOR SCHOOL & HOME

FORTY-TWO ORIGINAL SONGS

FOR

ONE, TWO, OR FOUR VOICES

COMPOSED BY ROBERT JACKSON.

Cloth, complete, 3s.; Parts I. and II., paper cover, 1s. each; Single Numbers, 1d. Specimen copy with list, 1d., and estimates may be had from the Composer, 23, Barker Street, Oldham.

From Concordia.

"This little book is designed for singing-classes in schools, and the simplicity, tunefulness, and attractiveness of the small compositions it contains eminently adapt it for such a purpose."

From the above Work, One Penny each.

PART-SONGS FOR CHRISTMAS.

THE DEATH OF THE OLD YEAR.
THE SKATER'S SONG.
BE MERRY, ALL.

RING OUT, WILD BELLS.
A SONG OF THE SEASON.
THE HOLLY.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

ENDYMION.

A PASTORAL CANTATA.

By VINCENT AMCOTTS and E. ASPA.

Vocal score, 4s.; Chorus parts, 1s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

A MANUAL OF SINGING,

FOR THE USE OF CHOIR TRAINERS & SCHOOLMASTERS,
By RICHARD MANN.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

This work offers to the clergy and other amateur choir trainers a systematic and simple course of instruction, by which they may teach their pupils to read music at sight, in a comparatively short time.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

FORTY-THIRD EDITION.

Price 1s. A specimen copy post free for 12 stamps.

THE COLLEGIATE AND SCHOOL SIGHT-SINGING MANUAL.

FOR CHOIRS.—The easiest system that can be obtained for training, improving, and learning to read music at sight.

FOR SCHOOLS.—Every requisite for learning Music, and reading at sight in a few lessons.

FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.—The exercises will be found invaluable, tending to produce musical effects seldom heard.

APPENDIX.

Containing Exercises, Solfege, Canons, Anthems, &c.

Price One Shilling.

London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.; Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

Third Edition, 2s. 6d. net.

(COMPANION WORK TO THE ABOVE.)

COLLEGIATE VOCAL TUTOR.

Containing Treatise on Voice and Vocal Art, with Anatomical Illustrations of the Vocal Instrument.

London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.; Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

Eighth edition. Paper cover, 1s.; bound in cloth, 1s. 6d.

CATHEDRAL CHANT BOOK.

Containing nearly 200 Single and Double Chants; also the Gregorian Tones.

London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.; Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

NEW EDITION OF

DR. BENNETT GILBERT'S POPULAR WORK SCHOOL HARMONY.

"From intervals to counterpoint."

The Work is divided into 3 Parts, to suit the School Term, and concludes with a copious Examination Paper.

EVERY SUBJECT HAS ITS SPECIAL EXERCISES.

Price 1s. 6d. net.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.; and all Musicsellers.

Second Edition, Enlarged.—Price Sixpence.

JORDRELL'S MANUAL OF SIGHT SINGING, on the Tonic or Movable Do System of Reading Old Notation Music. London: C. Jefferys, 67, Berners Street; John Jordrell, Withington, near Manchester; and through all Book and Music Sellers.

Now Ready. (Dedicated to College of Organists.)

ON TUNING THE ORGAN. Illustrated APPENDIX, containing faults in action with remedies, price 2s. 6d. P.O.O. to A. Hemstock, Diss.

BAKER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR.

Easy and very plain instructions. Adapted for Schools and General Teaching Purposes. London: B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row; or, post free, 3s., of G. Baker, Stamp Office Place, Wakefield.

Just Published. Prices 2s. 6d. and 1s.

THE PAROCHIAL PSALTER

POINTED FOR CHANTING UPON A NEW AND SIMPLE SYSTEM

WITH

DIRECTIONS FOR EXPRESSION, BREATH-MARKS, AND OTHER INDICATIONS TO FACILITATE CHANTING

BY ALEX. S. COOPER.

PRICES.

8vo, for Clergy and Organists s. d.
32mo, for Choirs and Congregations 2 6

Canticles only, 3d. and 1d.

London: Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover St., Regent Street, W.

Sixth Edition, obl. 4to., cloth, 7s.

PARR'S CHURCH PSALMODY, containing 392 Tunes, in 100 Metres, 301 Chants, various Responses, &c., with Memoirs of the Composers and Histories of the Pieces, giving an amount of information nowhere else to be found.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE ANGLICAN HYMN-BOOK.

NEW EDITION, REVISED AND ENLARGED.

1. Words and Music, in short score, foolscap 4to., cloth, price 6s.
2. Words and Music, in short score, super-royal 18mo., cloth, 2s. 6d.
3. Words and Treble Part (Tune), square 16mo., cloth, 1s. 6d.
4. Words only, 16mo., cloth, 1s.
5. Words only, 32mo., paper cover, 6d.; cloth, 8d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); Simpkin, Marshall and Co. Oxford and London: James Parker and Co.

THE NEW HYMNAL.

THE SONG OF PRAISE, By Lady VICTORIA EVANS-FREE. Being a New and Enlarged Edition of the Rev. EDWARD HARLAND'S CHURCH PSALTER AND HYMNAL, including a large number of Original Tunes written by the most eminent Church musicians of the day expressly for this work. Prices as follow:—

	s.	d.
Large Organ Edition	8	6
Ditto, red edges, strongly bound, with blank music paper at the end, gilt lettered	10	6
Small Music Edition	3	6
Ditto, red edges, strongly bound, gilt lettered	4	6
Words only	1	2
Ditto, red edges, gilt	1	6

Liberal Terms to the Clergy.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS, THE BROADWAY, LUDGATE.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK, containing 258

Tunes and 85 Chants.

- No 1. Limp cloth, turned in 2s. 6d.
- " 2. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered 3s. 6d.

TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.

- " 3. Limp cloth, turned in 2s. 6d.
- " 4. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered 2s. 6d.

About 250,000 copies have already been sold.

Now Ready,

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK (Second Series)

containing 298 Tunes and 74 Chants.

- No. 5. Limp cloth 2s. 6d.
- " 6. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered 3s. 6d.

TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.

- " 7. Limp cloth 2s. 6d.
- " 8. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered 3s. 6d.

First and Second Series Bound together.

- No. 9. Limp cloth 4s. 6d.
- " 10. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered 6s. 6d.
- " 12. Tonic Sol-fa, cloth 3s. 6d.

Now Ready.

SMALL EDITION of the COMPLETE WORK.

715 Tunes and Chants, providing for nearly 200 Varieties of Metre.
No. 11. Cloth 3s. 6d.

Each Edition may be had in Superior Binding.

Communications and inquiries as to Copyrights, and also as to supplies of this work at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Compilers, at Clare Street, Bristol.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.; Bristol: W. and F. Morgan; and all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes, as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN; containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now Ready.

THE LONDON TUNE-BOOK. A Companion for all Hymnals. Cloth, 3s.; red edges, 3s. 6d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now ready, in small quarto, 330 pages.

THE BURNLEY TUNE-BOOK, an entirely new Psalmody of 683 Tunes, Chants, Kyries, Glorias, Chant Te Deums, &c., nearly the whole of which are new and never before published. The collection of Chants and Kyries, as well as the Tunes, contains many beautiful compositions; and altogether the B. T. B. will be found one of the most useful, comprehensive, and interesting tune-books ever published.

Plain binding, 4s.; gilt lettered and red edges, 5s.

London: F. Pitman, Paternoster Row. Burnley: T. Simpson.

Eleventh Edition, Enlarged.

TUNES, NEW AND OLD; comprising all the Metres in the Wesleyan Hymn-Book. Also, Chants, Responses, and Doxologies. Compiled by JOHN DOBSON; and for the most part revised or re-arranged by HENRY JOHN GAUNTLETT, Mus. Doc.; JOHN FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., Oxon.; and SAMUEL REAY, Mus. Bac., Oxon. London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, and 80 and 81, Queen Street. Sold also at 66, Paternoster Row. Prices: plain cloth, 3s. 6d.; extra cloth, bevelled boards, red edges, 5s.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

Published on the First of every Month. Price 3d.; post free, 4d.

SACRED MUSIC (PRICE THREE-HALFPENCE EACH).

ANTHEMS, CHORALES, and HYMNS, for Four Voices (S.A.T.B., unless otherwise expressed).

- | | | | | | |
|-----|---|-----|--|-----|---|
| 121 | A Grace (Give thanks to God) V. Novello | 177 | Hark! the herald angels sing Dr. Ions | 314 | O Lord, my God ... S. S. Wesley |
| 303 | A Hymn of Faith Edited by J. Barnby | 297 | Hark! the herald angels sing Mendelssohn | 276 | O Lord, my God ... Rev. C. Malan |
| 166 | Adeste Fideles (O come, all ye Faithful) | 186 | Hear, holy Power (S.S.T.B.) ... Auber | 125 | O Lord, my God ... Palestrina |
| 80 | Again my mournful sighs ... Battishill | 2 | Hear my prayer, O Lord ... Winter | 163 | O Lord, our Governor ... Marcello |
| 17 | All people that on earth ... Tallis | 213 | Hear the voice and prayer J. L. Hopkins | 366 | O Lord, Thou art my God ... Ouseley |
| 37 | Alla-Trinita beata ... V. Novello | 4 | Hear what God the Lord ... V. Novello | 94 | O Lord, we trust alone in Thee Handel |
| 129 | Almighty and everlasting God; Sanctus and Kyrie ... Gibbons | 32 | & 33 Hear my prayer, O God ... Kent | 207 | O Lord, Who hast taught us J. Marsh |
| 200 | Almighty and merciful God Sir J. Goss | 337 | Hear us, O Saviour ... M. Hauptmann | 82 | O praise God in His holiness J. Weldon |
| 27 | And He shall purify ... Handel | 76 | & 77 Have mercy, O Lord (b. solo and chorus) ... Mozart | 96 | O praise the Lord ... J. Weldon |
| 225 | Arise, shine (Christmas) Sir G. J. Elvey | 88 | He comes, ordained of yore W. Jackson | 168 | O praise the Lord ... Sir J. Goss |
| 175 | As pants the hart (S.S.A.T.B.) Spohr | 349 | He is risen (Easter) ... H. Gadsby | 347 | O praise the Lord ... Mozart |
| 265 | As we have borne the image (Easter) (S.S.A.T.B.) ... J. Barnby | 361 | He in tears that soweth (s. solo and chorus S.S.A.) ... Dr. Hiller | 264 | O praise the Lord ... Earl of Wilton |
| 336 | Ave Maria ... Franz Abt | 157 | Here shall soft charity (A.T.B.B.) Dr. Sullivan | 288 | O pray for the peace ... Dr. B. Rogers |
| 190 | Ave Verum (Jesu, Word of God) Mozart | 74 | Holiest, breathe an evening blessing | 301 | O risen Lord (Ascension) ... J. Barnby |
| 539 | Ave Verum (Jesu, Word of God) Gounod | 240 | Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God J. Bishop | 296 | O taste and see ... Arthur Sullivan |
| 153 | Before Jehovah's awful throne M. Madan | 392 | Hosanna in the highest (Advent) Stainer | 251 | Out of the deep ... Mozart |
| 274 | Behold, I bring you glad tidings (Christmas) ... C. W. Smith | 107 | How beautiful upon the mountains R. A. Smith | 381 | O Zion, that bringest good ... J. Stainer |
| 178 | Behold, I bring you good tidings (Christmas) ... Sir J. Goss | 224 | How dear are Thy counsels Dr. Crotch | 257 | Ponder my words, O Lord L. Colborne |
| 90 | Behold, I bring you good tidings (S.A.T.B.) ... T. L. da Vittoria | 247 | How goodly are Thy tents ... Ouseley | 112 | Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem J. Scott |
| 133 | Behold, I bring you glad tidings Croce | 354 | How lovely are Thy dwellings ... Spohr | 46 | Praise for the peace ... V. Novello |
| 185 | Behold, how good and joyful Dr. Clarke | 290 | Hymns for Easter ... J. B. Calkin and J. Barnby | 63 | Pray the Lord (5 voices) Creighton |
| 74 | Behold now, praise ... Creighton | 48 | Hymnus Eucharisticus ... B. Rogers | 72 | Praise the Lord, O my soul Dr. W. Child |
| 283 | Behold now praise the Lord Dr. Rogers | 195 | If ye love Me ... W. H. Monk | 248 | Protect us through the coming night (S.S.A.) ... Curschmann |
| 285 | Benedicite, omnia Opera Various | 231 | If ye love Me ... Tallis | 237 | Praised be the Lord daily ... T. Ebdon |
| 309 | Blessed are they ... Berthold Tours | 120 | I know that the Lord is great Ouseley | 355 | Rejoice in the Lord ... Sir G. J. Elvey |
| 271 | Blessed be the Lord God ... Dr. Nares | 304 | In humble faith, and holy love Dr. Garrett | 297 | Rejoice, O my people (Christmas) Mendelssohn |
| 310 | Blessed be the Lord God (Anthem for Christmas) ... S. S. Wesley | 238 | In the beginning (Christmas) G. B. Allen | 92 | Remember, O Lord (3 trebles) Boyce |
| 312 | Blessed are the merciful Dr. H. Hiles | 322 | In the beginning (Christmas) E. H. Thorne | 276 | Rend your heart ... J. Baptiste Calkin |
| 277 | Blessed is He who cometh (Easter) (S.S.T.B.B.) ... Gounod | 25 | In Judah is God known Mendelssohn | 219 | Responses to the Commandments W. T. Best & Mendelssohn |
| 342 | Blessed be the Lord God Earl of Mar | 190 | In manus tuas (Like as the hart) Novello | 44 | See what love ... Mendelssohn |
| 46 | Blessed is the people ... V. Novello | 116 | Incline Thine ear (b. solo & cho.) Mendelssohn | 177 | See, the morning star Dr. E. G. Monk |
| 50 | Blessed is he that considereth (S.S.A.T.B.) Dr. Nares | 98 | In Jewry is God known ... Dr. Clarke | 273 | Shades of silent night dividing (Christmas Carol) ... S. Gee |
| 103 | Blessed are the dead (S.A.T.B.B.) Pielson | 151 | In the sight of the unwise (S.S.A.) Ouseley | 334 | Sing and rejoice (Christmas) J. Barnby |
| 110 | Blessed be he (s. solo and chorus, trebles & altos) ... Neukomm | 321 | It is high time (Advent) ... J. Barnby | 182 | Sing the battle ... Dr. E. G. Monk |
| 261 | Blest are the departed ... Spohr | 294 | I will always give thanks J. Baptiste Calkin | 54 | Sing unto the Lord (Christmas) Novello |
| 159 | Blessing and glory ... Dr. Boyce | 180 | I will arise (3 & 4 voices) Rev. R. Cecil | 345 | Sing, O daughter of Zion (do.) H. Gadsby |
| 137 | Brightest and best ... Avison | 52 | I will arise ... Creighton | 70 | Sleepers, wake; To God on high; To Thee O Lord ... Mendelssohn |
| 108 | But the Lord is mindful Mendelssohn | 253 | I will lay me down in peace C. Stokes | 127 | Sound the loud timbrel ... Avison |
| 8 | Call to remembrance Babylon G. B. Allen | 118 | I will sing of mercy (3 trebles) Novello | 368 | Sun of my soul ... Rev. H. L. Jenner |
| 36 | Call to remembrance (solo and chorus) V. Novello | 299 | Jesu, blessed Word of God (s. solo and chorus) ... C. Gounod | 273 | Sweet is Thy mercy (s. solo & chorus) J. Barnby |
| 92 | Charity Anthem (3 trebles) Dr. Boyce | 393 | Jesu, Lord of life ... G. A. Naumann | 4 | There were whisp'rings (Christmas Carol) ... J. T. Cooper |
| 148 | Charity, "La Carita" (4 trebles) Rossini | 182 | Jesu, Christ is risen to-day ... Dr. Ions | 10 | Thou art gone to the grave Beethoven |
| 141 | Christ being raised (Easter) S. Webbe | 147 | Jubilant and Kyrie (in F.) W. Jackson | 221 | Teach me, O Lord ... Dr. Rogers |
| 104 | Christ being raised (do.) Sir G. J. Elvey | 277 | Kyrie Eleison (Nos. 1 and 2) ... Gounod | 221 | Teach me, O Lord ... T. Attwood |
| 239 | Christ is risen (do.) Sir G. J. Elvey | 279 | Kyrie Eleison (Nos. 1 to 4) ... Various | 127 | Teach me Thy way ... Croce |
| 235 | Christ is risen (do.) E. H. Thorne | 292 | Kyrie Eleison (Nos. 1 and 2) Mendelssohn and Weber | 130 | Te Deum laudamus ... J. T. Cooper |
| 169 | Christ our Passover (do.) Sir J. Goss | 372 | Kyrie Eleison (Nos. 1 to 4) F. Schubert | 340 | Te Deum laudamus ... Dr. S. S. Wesley |
| 54 | Christmas Anthem (do.) V. Novello | 332 | Laudate nomen Domini ... Dr. C. Tye | 43 | & 144 Te Deum in F W. Jackson (of Exeter) |
| 170 | Come, Holy Ghost (s. or t. solo and chorus) ... T. Attwood | 94 | Let all men praise the Lord Mendelssohn | 146 | There is a river ... V. Novello |
| 125 | Come, Holy Ghost ... Doulton | 244 | Let the words of my mouth (S.S.A.T.B.) J. Barnby | 262 | The grace of God (Christmas) J. Barnby |
| 235 | Come unto Me ... J. S. Smith | 114 | Let us now go even unto Bethlehem (Christmas) ... E. J. Hopkins | 369 | The Harvest-time Thanksgiving J. Barnby |
| 320 | Comfort, O Lord ... Dr. Crotch | 388 | Lift thine eyes (S.S.A.) Mendelssohn | 333 | The light hath shined on us (Christmas) ... E. Silas |
| 61 | Cry aloud and shout (5 voices) ... Croft | 65 | Lo, my Shepherd's hand (5 voices) Haydn | 58 | The Lord be a lamp ... Sir J. Benedict |
| 290 | Daughters of Jerusalem Sir G. J. Elvey | 380 | Lord Christ, when Thou hadst overcome ... Haydn | 338 | The Lord is my strength (Easter) Novello |
| 350 | Daughters of Zion ... Mendelssohn | 41 | Lord of all power and might ... Mason | 295 | The Lord is my strength (do.) W. H. Monk |
| 192 | Deus miserere ... E. Mammat | 29 | Lord, for thy tender mercies' sake Farrant | 308 | The Lord is my strength (do.) H. Smart |
| 260 | Doth not wisdom cry? Dr. Haking | 376 | Lord, how long wilt thou forget me (Solo and Chorus) Mendelssohn | 59 | The Lord descended ... P. Hayes |
| 228 | Drive far from us the mortal foe V. Novello | 401 | Lord, I call upon Thee ... Ouseley | 121 | The Lord is King ... Pittman |
| 39 | Easter Hymn ... Arr. by V. Novello | 68 | Lord, let me know mine end ... Greene | 318 | The Lord is my Shepherd Macfarren |
| 233 | Envy! eldest born of hell! (Saul) Handel | 243 | Lord, who in Thy heav'nly hand Handel | 107 | The Lord loveth ... V. Novello |
| 292 | For these and all Thy mercies Lancaster | 149 | Lord, who shall dwell ... Dr. B. Rogers | 261 | The Night is far spent (Advent) M. Smith |
| 6 | Forgive, blest shade ... Dr. Callcott | 12 | My God, look upon me ... J. Reynolds | 373 | The Russian National Anthem |
| 286 | Four Hymns for Christmas ... Various | 86 | Methinks I hear (bass and cho.) Dr. Crotch | 379 | The strain upraise ... Arthur Sullivan |
| 372 | Four settings of the Kyrie ... Schubert | 211 | Not unto us, O Lord T. A. Walmisley | 384 | They have taken away my Lord J. Stainer |
| 346 | Four Hymns from "The Hymnary" | 255 | Not unto us, O Lord Lawes & Farrant | 23 | Thine, O Lord, is the greatness Kent |
| 370 | From the rising of the sun (Epiphany) Rev. Sir F. Ouseley | 21 | Now pray we for our country Eliza Flower | 249 | Thou knowest, Lord, the secrets Purcell |
| 357 | Give ear O Lord (Ave Maria) C. Oberthür | 84 | Now is Christ risen (Easter) G. B. Allen | 131 | Thou visitest the earth ... Dr. Greene |
| 165 | Glory to God in the highest Pergolesi | 135 | Nunc dimittis in C ... Ebdon | 123 | To Thee, Great Lord ... Rossini |
| 105 | Glory be to God on high V. Novello | 301 | O give thanks (S.S.A.T.B.) ... Tucker | 155 | Turn Thy face from my sins T. Attwood |
| 66 | God, my king ... Bach | 221 | O come, let us worship ... Himmel | 100 | Unto Thee, O Lord ... Charles King |
| 31 | God save the Queen ... V. Novello | 206 | O God, who in Thy heav'nly hand Handel | 108 | Veni, Creator Spiritus ... Tallis |
| 373 | God save the noble Czar arr. by J. Barnby | 159 | O Holy Ghost, into our minds (Whitsuntide) ... G. A. Macfarren | 19 | Vital Spark ... Harmonized by Novello |
| 35 | Grant, O Lord (Collect) ... Mozart | 214 | O how amiable ... V. Richardson | 316 | We march to victory; and The day is past and over ... J. Barnby |
| 358 | Grant to us Lord we beseech Thee Barnby | 281 | O Lord God, Thou strength of my health ... Sir J. Goss | 332 | We watched her breathing L. Kerbusch |
| 326 | Grant, we beseech Thee ... H. Lahee | 281 | O Lord, how manifold are Thy works (Harvest) ... J. Barnby | 395 | Whoso hath this world's good (tenor solo and chorus) ... J. B. Calkin |
| 204 | Great and marvellous ... Dr. Boyce | | | 181 | Why seek ye the living among the dead? (Easter) ... E. J. Hopkins |
| 202 | Hallelujah! For unto us W. H. Monk | | | 363 | Wreath ye the steps ... Schumann |
| 227 | Hallelujah! Hallelujah! ... V. Novello | | | | |

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER & CO., 1, BERNERS STREET (W.), AND 80 & 81, QUEEN STREET (E.C.)
NEW YORK: J. L. PETERS, 843, BROADWAY.

CONTENTS OF THE MUSICAL TIMES—(Continued).

SECULAR MUSIC (PRICE THREE-HALFPENCE EACH).

GLEES, MADRIGALS, or PART-SONGS, for Four Voices (S.A.T.B., unless otherwise expressed).

- 223 A Canadian boat song (3 voices) T. Moore
56 A Christmas madrigal ... T. Ions
101 Adieu, ye streams (A.T.T.B.) Atterbury
117 A little song of thankfulness (s.s.s.) Parry
187 All among the barley ... E. Stirling
119 A Selection of Five Catches Various
9 Amidst the myrtles (S.A.T.T.B.) Battisill
93 April is in my mistress' face T. Morley
308 A vintage song (Loreley) (T.T.B.B.) Mendelssohn
78 Awake, Æolian lyre ... Danby
282 Awake, my love, awake J. H. Walker
87 Awake, sweet love ... John Doulton
158 Breathe soft, ye winds (s.s.s.) W. Paxton
191 The Blue Bells of Scotland N. Thorne
191 Breathe soft, ye winds ... S. Webb
268 Britons, strike home ... Purcell
160 Oh, were I but a drop of dew Cummings
130 By Celia's arbour (A.T.T.B.) W. Horsley
363 Calm is the glassy ocean (s. Solo and Chorus) ... Mozart
83 Catch on tobacco ... Dr. Aldrich
234 Christmas ... G. A. Macfarlane
132 Chloe and Corinna ... E. J. Hopkins
363 Chorus of Houriis (Paradise and the Peri) ... Schumann
164 Come again, sweet love J. Doulton
375 Come, Dorothy, come Swabian Volkslied
53 Come, follow me ... W. Horsley
260 Come, gentle zephyr (A.T.T.B.) W. Horsley
40 Come if you dare (s. Solo and Chorus) ... Purcell
287 Come let us be merry (Twelfth Night Song) ... R. L. de Pearsall
263 Come let us join the roundelay W. Beale
Full fathom five (s. Solo and Chorus) ... Purcell
124 Come unto these yellow sands (do) Purcell
Gently touch the warbling lyre (A.T.T.B.) ... Geminiani
3 Down in a flow'ry vale ... Festa
3 Down in a flow'ry vale (A.T.T.B.) Festa
146 Dulce Domum ... C. Reading
284 Eventide ... C. Goodban
171 Fair Flora decks (A.T.T.B.) Danby
172 Fair and noble lady (Noble chataine) ... Rossini
329 Fair Katie ... J. W. Elliott
343 Field Flowers ... F. Stanislaus
239 Five times by the taper's light S. Storace
34 Flora gave me fairest flowers (S.S.A.T.B.) ... Wilbye
400 Flow, O my tears ... John Benet
311 For the new year ... Mendelssohn
7 Four rounds for three voices
33 Gentle winds around her hover Emanuel
162 Gipsy chorus, in Preziosa ... Weber
136 Glorious Apollo (A.T.T.B.) S. Webbe
31 God save the Queen ... V. Novello
173 Go, faithless Clori (Perfidia Clori) (s.s.s.) ... Cherubini
206 Good-morrow to my lady bright Macirone
196 Good night, beloved! (T.T.B.B.) Dr. Monk
367 Good night, beloved ... C. Pinsuti
348 Good night, farewell ... Dr. G. Garrett
383 Good night ... Gustave Carulli
193 Great Bashaw—Al Bascia ... Mozart
3 Hail! all hail!—thou merry month of May (s.s.s.) ... Weber 784 Hail, blushing goddess ... Paxton
189 Hail, hallow'd fane ... Mornington
5 Hail! smiling morn ... R. Spofforth
203 Happy is our soldier band (Bella vita Militar) ... Mozart
7 Hark! the bonny (3 equal voices) Aldrich
67 Hark! the lark ... Dr. Cooke
338 Hark! Hark! the lark (s.s.c.) E. H. Thorne 207 Hark! to the rolling drum (voices) ... Sir H. R. Bishop
150 Harvest home ... Dr. Ions
85 Haste thee, nymph (Solo & Cho.) Handel
186 Hear, holy power (S.S.T.B.B.) Auber
11 Here in cool grot ... Mornington
(Here's a health unto His Majesty (s.s.s.) ... J. Saville
69 How merrily we live (T.T.B.) M. Este
402 Home ... Sir Julius Benedict
172 How gently the moonlight ... F. Paer
156 How sleep the brave ... Dr. Cooke
79 Huntsman's chorus (s.s.s.s.) ... Weber
220 Hurrah for merry England F. Berger
75 In good truth, when fondly loving Palestine
374 In the merry spring ... Ravenscroft
1 In these delightful, pleasant groves Purcell
256 I saw the moon rise clear A. R. Gaul
Oh for the swords ... A. R. Gaul
51 Italy (s. Solo and Chorus) V. Novello
403 It is this ... A. C. Mackenzie
24 Just like love ... Davy and V. Novello
371 Lady, see on every side Marenzio
378 Lake and Waterfall ... E. H. Thorne
152 Let us all to the fields (s.s.s.) Ferrari
208 Lightly treading, onward creeping (Zitti, zitti, s.t.b.) ... Rossini 30 Lightly tread, 'tis hallow'd ground (s.s.s.) ... J. Scotland
359 Lines on the pleasures of music C. Stokes
Loose the sail, rest the oar J. F. Bridge
104 Lullaby (s.s.s.) ... T. Goodban
335 Love me little, love me long H. Lahee
99 Lutzwon's Wild Chase (T.T.B.B.) Weber
26 Maidens fair of Mantua's city (s.s.s.) ... Gastoldi
289 March of the Men of Harlech
89 Mark'd you her eye (Duet A.T. and Chorus, A.A.T.T.B.) Spofforth
128 Mark the merry elves (s.s.s.) Callcott
45 May Day (s.s.s.) Müller
48 Monody on Mendelssohn (T.T.B.B.) F. Schneider
79 Music for Trebles or other equal voices
111 My love's like the red rose Knyvett
199 Now Autumn strews ... E. Stirling
87 Now is the month of Maying (s.s.s.) ... Morley
218 Now, O now, I needs must part Doulton
21 Now pray we for our country E. Flower
22 Now the bright morning star (s.s.s.) ... Greville
60 Nymphs of the forest (A.T.T.B.) W. Horsley
183 Now spring in all her glory J. Arkade!
Come, let us all a maying go L. Atterbury
167 O'er desert plains ... H. Walren
352 Oh! The flowery month of June Jackson
115 Oh, the roast beef of old England
234 Old May-day ... Sir J. Benedict
307 Once upon my cheek ... Dr. Callcott
300 O, my love's like a red, red rose Dr. Garrett
13 O, Nanny wilt thou gang with me ... Harrison
315 O sing again that simple song Dr. Garrett
154 Pantant pour la Syrie
385 Parting and Meeting Mendelssohn
390 Parting and Meeting R. Schumann
9 Pleasures of Innocence (s.s.s.) Weber
42 & 43 Popular Ode to Pope Pius IX. Rossini
176 Protect us, ye powers (A.B.B.) Rossini
351 Raise again the bold refrain Russian Melody
365 Requite love ... F. Archer
30 Rule, Britannia ... V. Novello
55 See the chariot at hand ... W. Horsley
36 See the conqu'ring hero comes Handel
126 See our oars ... Sir J. Stevenson
81 Sign no more, ladies (s.s.s.) Stevens
275 Sign no more, ladies G. A. Macfarlane
73 Since first I saw your face T. Ford
350 Sing lullaby ... C. E. Horsley
377 Silent on, with cheerful strain Mendelssohn
364 Silent Night ... J. Barnby
245 Sleep, while the soft evening breezes ... Sir H. R. Bishop 478 Snow-flakes ... Arthur Cottam
16 Soldiers, brave and gallant be (s.s.s.) ... Gastoldi
396 Soldiers' love (A.T.T.B.) ... Küken
341 Song to spring ... Francesco Berger
3 Soon as I careless strayed ... Festa
45 Spring's delights (s.s.s.) Müller
145 Spring's delights (T.T.B.B.) Müller
216 Spring-time (T.T.B.B.) Beethoven
353 Summer and Winter ... B. Tours
95 Summer is a coming in (for 4 Trebles)
38 Sweet peace descending ... Mozart
7 Sweet enslaver (Round) J. Atterbury
270 Sweete flowers, ye were too faire (s.s.s.) ... Dr. T. A. Walmisley 18, 20 & 21 Sweet honey sucking bees (s.s.s.) ... Wilbye
272 Sweet and low ... J. Barnby
226 Take care ... Mrs. Bartholomew
254 Tell me, where is fancy bred? do
399 Tell me, Flora ... C. Piniuti
327 The Angels breathe on flowers J. Naylor
May Carol ... Dr. Garrett
122 The Battle of the Baltic C. A. Macirone
115 The Boar's-head carol (s.r. and b. Solos, with Chorus)
324 The Cambrian plume Brinley Richards
212 The "Carnovale" ... Rossini
102 The Christmas fairies ... C. Goodban
49 The cloud capt towers (A.A.T.T.B.) Stevens
358 The Cuckoo sings ... G. A. Macfarlane
179 { The dream } ... E. Stirling
Red leaves }
313 The dream of home ... E. H. Thorne
387 The fairest flower ... Sir R. P. Stewart
79 The Fisherman (s.s.s.)
109 The flower greeting (s.s.s.) Curschmann
210 The Forester ... E. Stirling
323 The lark's aloft (A May Carol) Walker
106 The last night of the year A. Sullivan
344 The Lullaby Storace and V. Novello
The Maiden of the "Fleur de Lys" E. A. Sydenham
140 The May fly (s.s.s.) ... Dr. Callcott
97 The Nightingale (s.s.s.) T. Bateson
317 The parting kiss ... E. A. Sydenham
47 The Red Cross Knight (s.s.s.) Dr. Callcott
83 The silver swan (s.s.s.) O. Gibbons
222 The sleep of the flowers B. Congreve
232 The song of the poppies E. Stirling
394 The Owl ... E. Silas
319 The Spring ... Henry Lahee
305 The Swallow ... Prince de Polignac
382 The three Chafers ... H. Truhn
302 The victors' return ... Mendelssohn
295 The welcome home ... R. Haking
57 The waits ... Saville
397 The last wild rose ... G. A. Macfarlane
132 This pleasant month of May (A.T.T.B.) Beale
293 This world is all a fleeting show Waley
71 Thy voice, O harmony ... S. Webbe
236 To fair Fidele's grassy tomb (A.T.T.B.) T. F. Walmisley
197 To our next merry meeting (A.T.T.B.) H. Phillips
142 To Rome's immortal leader ... Mozart
37 To the old long life (3 equal voices) Webbe
21 To the redbreast ... J. Baptiste Calkin
91 To Woden's hall ... Purcell
91 Twelfth Night Song (Chorus, with Solos) ... V. Novello
298 Up, brothers, up (for Christmas) J. Baptiste Calkin
113 Vadasi via di qua (Tickling Trio, s.t.b.) ... Martini
215 Venetian boatman's evening song (s.s.s.) ... S. Bach
258 Venetian boatman's evening song Hatton
37 & 47 Vocal Rudiments ... C. D. Collet
291 Wake thee, my dear Clara Gottschalk
79 Weel may the keel row (s.s.s.)
362 We happy shepherd swains J. Netherclift
280 What mournful thoughts (s.s.s.) Best
208 When the sun sinks to rest J. F. Bridge
14 & 15 When winds breathe soft (s.s.s.) ... Webbe
138 Who comes so dark? (A.T.T.B.) Callcott
246 Who is Sylvia? ... G. A. Macfarlane
328 Who shall be fleetest (Trebles) J. Barnby
400 When twilight's parting flush H. Lahee
7 Wind, gentle evergreen (3 equal voices) Dr. Hayes
62 Winds gently whisper (s.s. or t.b.) J. Whitaker
363 Wreath ye the steps to great Allah's throne ... R. Schumann
389 Ye little birds that sit and sing R. Mann
404 Ye maidens, haste (s.s.c.) Les
64 Huguenots ... Meyerbeer
422 Ye spotted snakes ... Stevens
Ye Shepherds, tell me (Trio) J. Mazzinghi

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER & CO., 1, BERNERS STREET (W.), AND 80 & 81, QUEEN STREET (E.C.)

NEW YORK: J. L. PETERS, 843, BROADWAY.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—GREAT TRIENNIAL HANDEL FESTIVAL.—Friday June 22nd, PUBLIC REHEARSAL; Monday June 25th, MESSIAH; Wednesday June 27th, SELECTION; Friday June 29th, ISRAEL IN EGYPT. Conductor, Sir Michael Costa. The Handel Festival Pamphlet, containing full particulars of arrangements, prices of seats, railway excursion tariffs, &c., will be shortly issued.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—ARRANGEMENTS FOR MARCH 1877.

LENTEN ORATORIOS: "Elijah," March 7th; "Stabat Mater," and "Twelfth Mass," March 21st.

DRAMATIC PERFORMANCES: Tuesdays and Thursdays, March 1st, 6th, 8th, 13th, 15th, 20th, 22nd.

WINTER CONCERTS: Saturdays March 3rd, 10th, 17th, 24th, and 31st.

ARTIFICIAL FLOWER & FRUIT SHOW: March 3rd till 17th.

MILITARY BAND PROMENADES: Saturdays March 10th and 24th.

GREAT SACRED CONCERT: Good Friday, March 30th. Fine Art Courts, Aquarium, Skating Rink, Wurttemberg Collection of Stuffed Animals, Technological Museum, Chinese Collection, Statuary, Pictures, Spring Flowers, &c. &c.

MUSICAL ASSOCIATION, 27, Harley Street, W.—Third Session, 1877-78.—FOURTH MONTHLY MEETING, MONDAY, 5th March, 1877. At 5 p.m. precisely, a Paper will be read by Dr. W. POLE, F.R.S., Mus. Doc., Oxon., on "The Philosophy of Harmony."

CHARLES K. SALAMAN, Hon. Sec. 24, Sutherland Gardens, Westbourne Park, W.

ST. ANNE'S CHURCH, SOHO.—SPECIAL SERVICES will be held in this Church on the Friday Evenings during Lent, at 8 o'clock (Good Friday at 4), at which Bach's Passion Music (S. John) will be sung with full orchestral accompaniment. Admission will only be obtained by Tickets, which can be procured by sending stamped directed envelope to the Rector, Rev. Canon Wade, 28, Soho Square; the Churchwardens, Mr. Webb, 434, Oxford Street, and Mr. Shand, 55, Sydney Place, Leicester Square; or the Choir Secretary, J. Berwick Orgill, Esq., Springmead, Roslyn Park, Hampstead.

LANGHAM HALL, 43, Great Portland Street.—IN AID OF MRS. WELDON'S ORPHANAGE.—MONDAY EVENING, 9th April, 1877, at 8 p.m., Mr. CHARLES K. SALAMAN in the Chair, Mrs. Weldon's Thirty-second Sociable Evening, "THE TWO PATHS," or "CONSERVATION" and "RESTORATION."* Mr. CHARLES LUNN will deliver a LECTURE on the above, illustrated by the Children from Mrs. Weldon's Orphanage. Reserved Seats, 5s.; Unreserved, 2s. 6d.; Admission, 1s.

* This Essay, of which Mr. Charles Lunn has presented the copy-right to the Orphanage, will be published, with additional remarks and an account of the Soirée, by the Music and Art Association, 39, Great Marlborough Street, Regent Street, London. Price 1s.

SOUTHWARK CHORAL SOCIETY. Conducted by Mr. J. COURTNEY. Established 1856. ANNUAL CONCERT, March 20, in Vowler Street School, Walworth, S.E., Sacred and Secular, including a selection from Handel's "Joseph." Eight o'clock. Tickets, One Shilling.

This Day, in 8vo., price 6s.
MUSICAL INTERVALS and TEMPERAMENT. AN ELEMENTARY TREATISE. With an Account of an Enharmonic Harmonium exhibited in the Loan Collection of Scientific Instruments, South Kensington, 1876; also, an Enharmonic Organ exhibited to the Musical Association of London, May 1875. By R. H. M. BOSANQUET, Fellow of St. John's College, Oxford. MACMILLAN and Co., London.

New Edition of Macfarren's Lectures on Harmony.

Now ready, in 8vo., price 12s. cloth.
SIX LECTURES ON HARMONY, delivered at the Royal Institution of Great Britain. By G. A. MACFARREN. Second Edition, thoroughly revised, with numerous Engraved Musical Examples and Specimens.

London: LONGMANS and Co.

A TREATISE ON HARMONY, by SAMUEL JOHN CLAY. Quarto, cloth, reduced to 4s. 6d.; paper cover, 3s.

This Treatise, although thoroughly scientific in character, is written in a popular form, and will enable the Student, without the help of a Master or Teacher, to harmonise any melody correctly, and give to it all the richness and beauty which the science is capable of producing.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now ready, price 6s.,
LIFE OF CHOPIN

By F. LISZT
Translated by M. COOK.

"Franz Liszt has written a charming sketch of Chopin's Life and Art."—Encyc. Brit. (new edition).

Uniform with the above,
LIFE OF MENDELSSOHN. By LAMPADIUS. Price 5s.
HISTORY OF MUSIC. By F. L. RITTER. Price 7s. 6d.
LIFE OF CHERUBINI. By E. BELLASIS. Price 6s.
MUSIC AND MUSICIANS. By ROBERT SCHUMANN. [Shortly.]
LIFE OF ROBERT SCHUMANN. [Shortly.]

William Reeves, 185, Fleet Street, London.

WANTED COPIES of the "MUSICAL TIMES" for JANUARY 1877 (No. 407). Address Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 and 81, Queen Street (E.C.)

THE MUSICAL TIMES

(PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EACH MONTH)

Price Threepence.

Annual subscription, including postage, 4s.

Subscriptions will also be received by all Book and Musicsellers (not including postage), 3s.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	2	3
For every additional Line	0	0	9
Half a Column	1	15	0
A Column	3	5	0
A Page	6	6	0

A discount of 10 per cent. is allowed for twelve consecutive insertions.

It is respectfully requested that a remittance be sent with all Advertisements.

Advertisements for the April number should reach the Office not later than March 21. Those received after this date cannot be guaranteed insertion in their proper places, but will appear among the late Advertisements.

WORKS BY JOHN HULLAH, LL.D.,

Professor in Queen's College and in Bedford College, London.

WILHELM'S MANUAL OF SINGING, for the use of Teachers and Pupils. Parts I. and II. Price 2s. 6d. each; or together in cloth, 5s.

EXERCISES and FIGURES contained in Parts I. and II. of the "Manual," for the use of Pupils. Books I. and II. Price 8d. each.

LARGE SHEETS, containing the Figures in Part I. of the "Manual." Nos. I. to VIII. in a Parcel. Price 6s.

LARGE SHEETS, containing the Exercises in Part I. of the "Manual." Nos. IX. to XL. in 4 Parcels of 8 Nos. each. Price 6s. per parcel.

LARGE SHEETS, containing the Figures in Part II. of the "Manual." Nos. XLI. to LII. in a Parcel. Price 9s.

TIME and TUNE in the ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, a New Method of Teaching Vocal Music. Price 2s. 6d.

EXERCISES and FIGURES contained in "Time and Tune," for the use of Pupils. Price 1s. sewed in paper, or 1s. 2d. limp cloth. To be had also in 2 Parts, price 6d. each, sewed in paper, or 8d. each in limp cloth.

CHROMATIC SCALE, with the Inflected Syllables used in "Time and Tune," on a Double Sheet of Extra Medium Paper, price 1s. 6d.

CARD of the CHROMATIC SCALE, with the Inflected Syllables used in "Time and Tune," price 1d.

NOTATION, the Musical Alphabet, 6d.

RUDIMENTS of MUSICAL GRAMMAR. Price 3s.

GRAMMAR of MUSICAL HARMONY. Royal 8vo. Two Parts, price 1s. 6d. each.

EXERCISES to GRAMMAR of MUSICAL HARMONY. Royal 8vo., price 1s.

GRAMMAR of COUNTERPOINT, Part I., price 2s. 6d.

HYMNS for the YOUNG, New Edition, 8d.

SCHOOL SONGS for TWO and THREE VOICES. Two Books, 6d. each.

INFANT SCHOOL SONGS. Price 6d.

OLD ENGLISH SONGS for SCHOOLS, Harmonised, 6d.

EXERCISES for the CULTIVATION of the VOICE, 2s. 6d.

London: Longmans and Co.

Revised Editions of Mr. Hullah's Two Series of Lectures on the History of Music.

Second Edition, in 1 vol. demy 8vo., price 10s. 6d. cloth.

THE TRANSITION PERIOD OF MUSICAL

HISTORY; a Second Course of Lectures on the History of Music from the Beginning of the 17th to the Middle of the 18th Century delivered at the Royal Institution of Great Britain. By JOHN HULLAH. (With 40 Musical Illustrations.)

By the same Author, uniform, 2nd Edition, price 8s. 6d.

FIRST COURSE of LECTURES on the HISTORY of MODERN MUSIC.

London: Longmans and Co.

New and Important Work for the Competitive Musical Examinations, &c.

Just Published, in crown 8vo., cloth, price 6s.

THE STUDENT'S TEXT-BOOK

OF THE
SCIENCE OF MUSIC

For Use in Schools and Colleges, and for purposes of self-instruction
By JOHN TAYLOR, Author of "Manual of Vocal Music," &c., &c.

London: George Philip and Son, 32, Fleet Street; and 49 and 51, South Castle Street, Liverpool.

CONTENTS.

English Opera	107
The Crystal Palace Problem	110
Hindu Music	111
The Abuse of Music	113
Occasional Notes	114
Sir Henry Baker, Bart.	117
John Oxenford	117
Clay's "Lalla Rookh"	118
Crystal Palace	119
Monday Popular Concerts	119
Philharmonic Society	120
Sacred Harmonic Society	120
Graun's Passion at S. Gabriel's, Pimlico	120
Now on the first day of the week. Easter Anthem, by Henry Lahee	121
Paragraphs	129
Reviews	131
Foreign Notes	134
Correspondence	135
Brief Summary of Country News	136
Organ Appointments, &c., &c.	139

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

MARCH 1, 1877.

ENGLISH OPERA

BY CHARLES K. SALAMAN.

ENGLAND may justly be classed amongst the musical countries of Europe. The English have valid claims to be regarded as a musical people. These affirmations will doubtless be demurred to by many who have not given to the subject a calm and impartial consideration. We possess historical, literary, and musical evidence more than sufficient to establish the fact. Inauspicious circumstances have at various periods in our country's history diverted the minds and the inclinations of the people from the pursuit of music, such, for instance, as foreign and civil wars, religious persecutions, fanatical prejudices against art and artists, diversity in popular habits and social customs, revolutions in taste, and changes in fashion; but whenever England has enjoyed repose, and her people have been unrestrained in the selection of their favourite pastimes, they have evinced a disposition to avail themselves of the genial fascinations of music. They have fostered and cultivated the art, and have thus afforded undeniable proofs that a genuine love of music is inherent in the national character.

The national music of England, apart from that of Ireland, Scotland, and Wales, is melodious, pathetic, and vigorous. The music of the Church by native composers, for simplicity of design, for melody, for learned harmonical contrivance, and for sublimity of expression, is unsurpassed. The glees and madrigals of England have a world-wide celebrity. The choicest songs of this country may vie in beauty with the airs and romances of Italy, Germany, and France.

To the honour of being amongst the first European nations who attempted the composition of dramatic music England may also lay a fair claim. For excellence in this department of the musical art she has yet to acquire European fame. This country has nevertheless produced many native dramatic composers who have earned considerable distinction.

In their origin, all artistic efforts are strange and crude. We consequently perceive in the earliest attempts at the lyric drama in England, as in all countries, a style uncouth and barbarous. The result of a critical examination, and an impartial comparison of England's dramatic music during the 17th century with that of Italy at the same period, is highly creditable to this country, in which then flourished one of the greatest musicians of any age or nation—the illustrious Henry Purcell, the founder of English Opera.

The germs of the lyric drama of England may be discovered in the masques represented in this country during the 16th and 17th centuries. A performance—the earliest on record—took place at Greenwich in 1512. At Whitehall an entertainment of the nature of a masque was represented in 1530. "It wanted only machinery," says Burgh, "to fulfil the idea of a complete 'masque,' such as were afterwards written by Ben Jonson and others, and which, with a constant musical declamation in recitative, mixed with air, would have formed an opera exactly similar to the musical drama of Italy in the ensuing century." These incipient melodramas were composed for special occasions, and for the exclusive amusement and recreation of royal and noble persons, at whose palaces and mansions they were privately performed. Three years before the birth of Shakespeare—viz., in 1561—a regular play was written by Lord Buckhurst, in which was introduced instrumental music, performed before each act, on viols, cornets, flutes, oboes, fifes, and drums. According to Sir William Dugdale, who wrote in 1656, the Kenilworth masques, arranged for Queen Elizabeth's entertainment, were represented with great splendour.

As poetry became more polished and her sister art more developed, pieces of greater musical and dramatic interest were produced. A musical play entitled "Damon and Pythias," approaching very nearly to the modern notion of an English opera, was, in Queen Elizabeth's reign, written and composed by Richard Edwards. The performers in this play sang as well as acted. Ben Jonson's masques, which were greatly in advance of those which had preceded them, were set to music by Alfonso Ferabosco and Nicolas Lanieri. Hogarth suggests that they bore a closer resemblance to the regular Italian Opera than the so-called operas which were represented on the English stage during the greater part of the last century. Milton's masque "Comus" was originally set to music by the author's friend Henry Lawes, who has received from his contemporaries perhaps greater praise than has been accorded to any other composer. His genuine English style does not appear to have derived aid from Italy. Lawes was well acquainted with the simple grandeur of Tallis, Byrd, Orlando Gibbons, and Bull, his eminent countrymen, and no doubt formed his style from the study of their works. The vocal music of Lawes is, at least, as tuneful as that of his Italian contemporaries, with which it will bear a favourable comparison.

Up to this period no public performance of dramatic music had taken place, and whatever enjoyment it afforded was monopolised by princes and nobles. The people regaled themselves after their own manner by singing and dancing, and playing on the lute and virginals, the regals and dulcimer, and other popular musical instruments on all festivals and at merrymakings, which were then more frequent and less ceremonious than in the present day.

Many of Shakespeare's plays were written with a view to the introduction of vocal and instrumental music. "The Tempest," "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "As you Like it," and "Twelfth Night" are full of songs. Ben Jonson, Myddleton, Beaumont and Fletcher, Shirley, Dryden, and other dramatists of the 16th and 17th centuries, also furnished in their plays opportunities for the introduction of vocal music. Here we have the origin of English Opera. From 1647 to 1656, the public performance of every department of the drama was strictly forbidden. Singing and dancing during that time were likewise prohibited. According to the religious belief of a certain section of the English public, to indulge in such pleasures was to commit sin.

Sir William Davenant sought to overcome the prevailing prejudice against dramatic performances, and at length was successful in obtaining a patent to open a rude kind of theatre at Rutland House, Charterhouse-square, near Smithfield, for the purpose of producing "An entertainment in declamation and music after the manner of the Ancients." The title and style of this novel species of musical entertainment were borrowed from the Italians, who originated the Opera, with the like view and purpose, at the close of the 16th century.

The "Siege of Rhodes" was the first "Opera" sung in "Recitatif Musicke;" it was produced in 1656. An anonymous author in 1692, referring to the "Siege of Rhodes," says: "It is indeed a perfect opera: there being this difference between opera and tragedy, that the one is a story sung with proper action, the other spoken. It is true," adds the writer, "that the 'Opera' wanted the ornament of machines, which they value themselves so much upon in Italy, and the dancing which they have in such perfection in France." The music of this first English opera was composed after a strange manner, the vocal portion being the joint contribution of Mathew Lock, Captain Henry Cook, and Henry Lawes, while the instrumental music was composed by George Hudson and Charles Coleman. There were seven instrumentalists, whose names are recorded; and among the singers were Captain Cook, Mathew Lock, and the father of Henry Purcell, the celebrated composer. There were also "Singing Operas," entitled by Colley Cibber "Dramatic Operas." "The Tempest" was composed by Mathew Lock. "Psyche" was a joint production by Draghi and Lock. John Banister wrote the music for "Circe." The two first-named operas were produced in 1673, and the last in 1676. These ancient English operas comprised spoken dialogue, and songs and choruses interspersed.

Henry Purcell, the glory of English musicians, was born in 1658, twenty-six years before the birth of Handel. He was the contemporary of Stradella and Alessandro Scarlatti of Naples. By the production of his first opera, "Dido and Eneas," in 1677, at the age of nineteen, he immediately established a reputation as a dramatic composer of the highest class. He was soon occupied in the composition of other operas. Nat. Lee's "Theodosius" was Purcell's first publicly performed work. In 1690, Shakespeare's "Tempest," of which Dryden made a version, offered to Purcell an opportunity to display his talent for dramatic music. He set many pieces to music which yet retain their original popularity. When selecting a composer for his "Albion and Albanus," Dryden unaccountably passed by Purcell and made choice of Grabut, an incompetent Frenchman, whose demerits were as obvious in his day as they are in ours. "King Arthur," the joint production of Dryden and Purcell, was composed in 1691. It is full of music as charming as it is erudite. The "Frost Scene," for a bass voice and chorus, is, without exception, one of the most dramatically expressive compositions that can be found in music. Among many favourable specimens of Purcell's pathetic style of melody may be instanced the songs, "What shall I do to show how much I love her?" "I attempt from Love's sickness to fly," "Fairest isles," and "From rosy bowers"—"the last song the author set, it being in his sickness." "Tell me why, my charming fair," a dialogue in the "Prophetess" for bass and soprano, is very beautiful, and would bear revival. The "Prophetess; or, The History of Diocletian," was composed in 1690. In his dedicatory epistle to the published score of this opera, Purcell thus expresses himself: "Music is yet but in its nonage, a forward child, which gives hope of what it may be hereafter in England, when the masters of it shall find more encouragement. 'Tis now learning Italian, which is its best master, and studying a little of the French air to give it somewhat more of gaiety and fashion." It may be presumed from the foregoing extract that Purcell was well acquainted with the music of the then best Italian masters; but, on comparing his music with theirs, it is quite evident that the English composer, however zealously he may have studied the works of his Italian contemporaries, depended solely upon his own original powers and his national instincts for his inspirations, and for the formation of his purely English style.

For vocal expression Purcell is yet unrivalled. According to an eminent authority, "The highest quality of Purcell's music is its genuine English character." "He was fully aware that the vocal music of every country must be founded upon the peculiar accent in modulation of its spoken language." Purcell studied with attention, and with the feeling of a true poet, the genius and character of his native tongue, and he invented a style of recitative, or "speaking music," adapted to its lyrical capacity. This differs materially from the musical declamation of Italy, which, however well fitted to the soft musical language of that country, is not natural to that of England. The "Indian Queen," produced in 1692, "Tyrannic love," and "Bonduca," are other Operas by our renowned countryman of considerable dramatic and musical merit. "Ye twice ten hundred deities," "Britons strike home," "Come if you dare," from Purcell's now obsolete Operas, when well sung, are sure to receive from a British audience a British welcome. England lost her greatest musician in 1695, at the early age of 37—fifteen years before Handel's first visit to England. It is interesting to contemplate what might have resulted to English music had Purcell lived to be in intimate communion with Handel, who so considerably enlarged the boundaries of his art.

Every Englishman should be proud of the name of Henry Purcell; for a man more highly gifted with musical genius never lived.

"Purcell! the pride and wonder of the age,
The glory of the Temple and the stage!"

"Who e'er like Purcell could our passions move!
Who ever sang so feelingly of love!"

Those who impartially study his music, and consider the time when it was written and the low condition of the art in England at that period, cannot fail to be amazed at the extent of his musical acquirements, and the remarkable powers of invention he evinced. These will bear testimony to the truth conveyed in Dryden's epitaph:—

"Sometimes a hero in an age appears,
But scarce a Purcell in a thousand years."

In order to understand the condition of England's Musical Drama during the eighteenth century, and to fairly estimate her efforts towards its progress, it will be convenient to take a cursory survey of the state of that branch of Musical Art during the same epoch in other countries.

Italy, in early times the pupil of Flanders, originated "Opera in Musica" with the invention of Recitative, or "Musica parlante," at the close of the sixteenth century. The origin of Recitative may be traced to the impassioned language and exaggerated tones used by the people of Italy and of other Southern climes when engaged in animated discussion. The first Operas were composed entirely in Recitative. When the voice was sustained by a single instrument it was called "simple recitative." The Italians considered that the transition from musical speaking to measured song was easier and more natural than from the ordinary conversational voice, and they therefore adopted that mode of recitation and declamation. In the infancy of Opera, and in its adolescence, the boundaries which separated secular from sacred music were undefined: the music of the Church and stage were almost identical. Opera soon took root in the fertile soil of Italy: it was cultivated by many musicians in her several states, and it received countenance and support from the princes and nobles, then the only patrons and encouragers of art. Operas were produced in quick succession in Venice, Florence, Rome, and Naples, each city having an operatic school of its own. They rapidly acquired a world-wide renown for their composers, their singers, and their country. Italy gave birth to the best Masters in composition, the best instructors in the vocal art, and the best vocalists. The Italian school of musical composition and vocalisation was regarded as the best in the world. Musicians and singers travelled to Italy from England, Germany, and France for the purpose of study, and in order to hear the recognised chefs-d'œuvre of Italian Opera, hoping thus to improve their own style of melody, musical construction, and vocalisation. After a time Opera in Italy became vulgarised, demoralised, and deteriorated. It was satirised by English and Italian writers. "As the waters of a certain fountain in Thessaly," wrote an English essayist of the early part of the eighteenth century, "from their benumbing quality, could be contained in nothing but the hoof of an ass, so can this languid and disjointed composition (the Opera) find no admittance but in such heads as are expressly formed to receive it."

But even the biting satire of Addison and other English writers was exceeded by that of the noble Venetian composer, Benedetto Marcello, who, in 1720, published his "Il Teatro alla moda," in which every character employed in the theatre is severely subjected to the satire of the witty writer and musician. Trivialities and gross absurdities had gradually crept into the Opera which destroyed its former dignity. Musical reformers, however, arose, and brought it again into favour and regard.

Let it not be forgotten that while the famous Italians, Stradella, Cesti, Alessandro Scarlatti, Gasparini, Antonio Lotti, Vivaldi, and others were occupying themselves with Opera in Italy, Henry Purcell, the Englishman, was composing pure

English music, which, for erudition, beautiful expressive melody, and fine dramatic effects, was unsurpassed by his foreign contemporaries. Other English composers were similarly employed. In the "Orpheus Britannicus" will be found a song composed by Henry Purcell as a compliment to the famous Mrs. Bracegirdle, for her singing the mad song in John Eccles's Opera, "Don Quixote."

Krieger, Keiser, Matheson, Telemann and other German musicians were laying the foundation of Opera in Germany, while Lulli, Desmarests, Rameau and others were working in the same direction in France. The dramatic music of both Germany and France at that period was inferior to that composed in England by Henry Purcell. Operas in Germany and France were, in the first instance, borrowed from Italy in the form of translations and adaptations of Operas which had become celebrated in that country.

Students of musical history cannot fail to observe the occurrence and recurrence of periodical revolutions in musical taste, in all countries, which have generally ended in the institution, so to speak, of new musical dynasties. The introduction of the Italian manner in English music, at the opening of the eighteenth century may be considered as one of these. England desired Italian Opera, and Thomas Clayton, an English musician, of more pretension than ability, professed to supply it, but in an English dress. He set to music a translated Italian libretto, and produced his Opera, "Arsinoe, Queen of Cyprus," in 1705, with English singers. His work is below criticism, and was soon crushed beneath the weight of its utter insignificance and worthlessness. Its performance was nevertheless tolerated for a few nights, and was followed by Marc-Antonio Bononcini's "Camilla," and the "Triumph of Love," by Saggione, sung in English. A volume, containing the three Operas, published by Walsh, affords evidence of their quality. Clayton's "Rosamund" appeared and failed in 1707. "Pyrrhus and Demetrius" was afterwards produced on the English stage; the English and Italian performers singing in their respective languages. In 1710 "Almahide" was sung entirely in Italian. Thus was inaugurated Italian Opera in England. It soon became fashionable, and little else was listened to for sixteen years. Ballad Operas by Galliard, Motteaux, Carey, and Eccles were occasionally performed, but they made no lasting impression. It is well known with what despotic sway Handel reigned supreme in Italian Opera, and with what success he fought his rivals Bononcini, Attilio Ariosti, and others, who presumed to dispute his authority. At length the enthusiastic admiration for Italian Opera began to cool. The "Beggars' Opera" now took firm hold of the English public, and in 1727 Italian music became unfashionable. The "Beggars' Opera," which for six years retained the favour of the English people, was succeeded by a series of Ballad Operas of ephemeral popularity. Some lines, published in 1730, entitled "Old England's garland," or the "Italian Opera's downfall," bear testimony to another revolution in the musical drama of England; they run thus:—

"I sing of sad discords that happened of late,
Of strange revolutions, but not in the State;
How old England grew fond of old tunes of her own,
And her Ballads went up and our Opera down.
Derry down, down, hey derry down."

The once admired English Operas of Dr. Arne are as obsolete as those of his foreign predecessors, contemporaries, and immediate successors. Arne was a prolific and successful contributor to the rich repertory of English music. His first Opera, "Rosamund," produced in 1733, obtained for its composer a prominent niche in the Operatic Temple of Fame. His early works were composed in a style specially his own. It was gracefully melodious, sweet in expression, and simple in construction. His "Artaxerxes," which was first represented in 1762, was heard with delight for eighty years. It was the first complete English Opera on the Italian model. Arne was unable to withstand the influence of Italian music, and he combined with charming music purely English, airs in imitation of the prevailing florid Italian school, of which the Aria di bravura, "The soldier tir'd," is a favourable specimen. The part of the Princess Mandane was for many years selected for the début of young ladies who aspired to be Prima Donnas. The professional career of Dr. Thomas Arne forms one of the landmarks of English Opera of which England may boast. Dr. Samuel Arnold, Thomas Linley, and Charles Dibdin were his immediate successors. They produced many serio-comic Operas in the form and fashion of the period. Songs and duets succeeded to the spoken text, a characteristic of legitimate English Opera which yet prevails. Elaborated, concerted finales were as yet unknown. The so-called English Operas of those days were greatly admired, and they afforded enjoyment not only to professional musicians of distinction, but to the aristocracy and people of England generally, who had long been familiar with the music and singers of Italy. An English School of Music then existed, and its influence extended from Henry Purcell to Henry Bishop.

There is a form of melody, unmistakably English, whose characteristic is sweetness combined with pathos. There are also casts of melody whose features are bold and manly. Both styles of British song never fail, when faithfully interpreted by fine and expressive voices, to touch a sympathetic chord in British hearts.

(To be continued.)

THE CRYSTAL PALACE PROBLEM.

LOOKED at by itself, Mr. Thomas Hughes's late speech to the shareholders of the Crystal Palace would convey an impression that this is no problem at all. The Sydenham "business" has been carried on for twenty-two years at an average annual profit of £45,000. In the same period its customers have numbered 40½ millions; £241,000 has been paid out of revenue for repairs and renewals; ordinary shareholders have divided £370,000, preference shareholders £228,000, and the holders of debenture bonds £355,000. Besides these large payments, Mr. Hughes assured his constituents that the company had met all their engagements with perfect punctuality; the preference dividends, and the interest on the debentures had always been paid to the day, and they had no debts. The same authority tells us that the concern "looked up" during 1876—a year which saw alike the opposition and collapse of the Alexandra Palace—and would have paid a small dividend on the ordinary stock but for a dispute with the refreshment contractor, which cost £12,000, and a change in the railway service, which cost nearly as much. Yet with all this Mr. Hughes admitted, and nobody questions, that something must be done to rescue the Palace from death in life. Were the original shareholders content to remain with a nominal dividend, or none at all—and at their late meeting an overwhelming majority supported the present directors—the enterprise might go on as now for years. But a minority large enough to be troublesome demands, and is likely to demand, some return for its money, the more because every man sees, or imagines he sees, the way to obtain it. This, however, is not all. An imperative necessity insists that the institution should be lifted out of its present impecunious state, wherein every farthing has to be looked at twice before it is spent, and the first necessity is to make both ends meet. Such a predicament was never contemplated by its founders, whose second thoughts only were of profit or loss when the Queen of England declared the Glass House open and one of her prelates invoked Heaven's blessing upon a humanising and refining mission. Yet to this predicament, by slow but sure degrees, have matters come, and now the Crystal Palace is reduced, as far as concerns enterprise, to stagnation. Enterprise involves risk, which those may not honestly incur who have nothing to lose; and without enterprise he who caters for public amusement and instruction can expect nothing but disaster. The Crystal Palace driven to the shifts of a man living from hand to mouth is clearly a failure, and hence the general consensus of opinion that "something must be done."

But what? Even the ingenuity of the Saturday Review cannot find an answer to the question. Our contemporary, after his manner, sneers abundantly while offering little or no advice. According to him, the Crystal Palace has been, from the beginning until now, a gigantic humbug. The building itself, about which so many fine things have been said, seems to the reviewer an absurdity, because adapted with care and success to "eat its head off" in repairs. Then it is too big, for which reason the fire that destroyed the tropical department was a blessing rather than a calamity; and, worst of all, though the directors have grubbed for dividends, like the most impecunious City concern, they and their friends have surrounded the enterprise with an atmosphere of sentiment calculated to disgust all reasonable minds. This may be true, or it may not—we shall not attempt to decide; but cui bono? The Crystal Palace exists; it is a beautiful edifice with beautiful surroundings; it is a recognised place of recreation and instruction for the people at large; it has done much good, and it is capable of doing much more. This is all, as far as regards the point at issue, which we care to know, or which we need know in order to form a very positive conviction that the Crystal Palace must be kept open. So we come back to the question—How?

According to Mr. Hughes, there are three classes of people ready with an answer. Let us call up a representative of each and hear what he has to say.

Enter, then, the Materialist, who probably is a Licensed Victualler, or has bought shares in the Palace with cash gained by vending "creature comforts" in some form or other. We are not surprised to hear him say: "I can't understand for the life of me why there should be such a fuss over this here concern. What we want is a dividend and no bother; whereby if any one likes to take the place on lease at a fair rent, 'Let him have it,' I says. We've tried to teach the public long enough, and it don't pay. The public don't want to be taught, and small blame to 'em; for when they get a day out, away from hard work and worry, plenty to eat and drink and a hearty laugh is what does 'em good. Mr. Sawyer—a man who knows what he's about—offered to rent the Palace, and give thousands a year more than the average of our earnings, but only got sneered at for his pains. Was ever such fool-hardiness! A fig for the objection that Mr Sawyer's chief aim would be to get together a lot of people likely to spend money at his counters. Of course he would, and why not? Why not, even if he copied the present managers of the Westminster Aquarium, and turned the place into a music-hall? That is nothing to us as landlords. If the public get what they like best, if Mr. Sawyer makes a profit and we receive a dividend, the handsome thing is done all round." We are far from sure that it is worth while to answer this gentleman, especially as the present refreshment contractor to the Palace has withdrawn his offer, and nobody is likely to renew it. Let us, however, remind the Materialist party, at the risk of being sneered at by the Saturday Review, that the Crystal Palace is, and must ever be, something more than a commercial enterprise. It came into the world saddled with responsibilities not to be got rid of without shame. To it, in fact, we may strictly apply the maxim noblesse oblige; while some of us venture to think that even the present managers, in their "grubbing for dividends," as the reviewer puts it, have given just cause for regret, if not for offence. But to farm the enterprise to a speculator in return for a money payment would be to sound the lowest depths of degradation. Much better sell the materials of the building, and put the land in the market as an "eligible site for villa residences." This, no doubt, would be a bitter end, but no disgrace; and a manful death is at any time more desirable than a humiliated life.

Dismissing the Materialist with an emphatic assurance that we have done with him, the Revolutionist comes next. It is hard to gather from the report of Mr. Hughes's speech exactly what this man wants, or why he bears such a formidable name. But we are told that he would have the Company take all its business into its own hands—in other words, we suppose, dispense with a refreshment contractor and pocket his profits, if haply they might be made without his skill and experience. Assuming this to be Revolution, very few outside the ranks of dividend-grubbers will go with it. In the first place, it is open to grave doubt whether the Directors would succeed in a line of business which demands special aptitude and a freedom of action unobtainable where there is a sense of responsibility to others. In the next place, such a body ought not to be in a position which would tempt them to do for themselves all that is objected to as probable in the case of a speculative lessee. Under present arrangements the Company's position is beyond cavil. Where the public are accustomed to resort, refreshments are essential, but it is one thing to give facilities for their provision and quite another to become caterer in person with a necessarily keen eye to all the means whereby consumption may be promoted and profits increased. We shall, no doubt, hear this distinction laughed at as sentimental. Be it so. We have not the smallest objection in the world, if sentiment wins and it is never said that the Crystal Palace Company kept their beautiful edifice open mainly as an eating-house.

Without professing a perfect comprehension of the Revolutionist, we know enough now to send him away and to call for the Sentimentalist, who appears with a Saturday Reviewer at his heels. The Reviewer is in a great rage. He objects to "sentimental showmen." They are humbugs, who want to make money by trading with a gullible public on other than "sound business principles." But he dislikes this one in particular, and accuses him of wishing to support the Crystal Palace by a "system of gambling for profits," which is "substantially the same as that devised for the Alexandra Palace, and consists in tempting people to take guinea shares for the sake of securing prizes 'of money to be spent, according to the option of a prize-holder, either in objects strictly of fine art,' or in household furniture, silks, satins, poplins, and other fabrics for ladies' dresses, or, 'in fact, any article in any kind of material which in form and colour is entitled'—or perhaps may be pretended—to be considered a work of art." In all this we cannot see anything to warrant the Reviewer's anger. But let the "sentimental showman" speak for himself. He says: "I am charged by my friend here—who was never guilty, as far as I know, of a generous feeling—with importing sentiment into business, and no doubt he is right if that be to desire, apart from commercial considerations, the continued existence of the Crystal Palace. Even he grants, though with characteristic superciliousness, that 'the place is, no doubt, on the whole, a useful accommodation to certain classes of the public, and it would be a pity that it should be shut up.' That is precisely my idea. I want the 'useful accommodation' kept open, and the 'pity' avoided for their own sake, without reference to business principles, sound or unsound. Thus far I am sentimental, but no further; and I don't even ask the public to be sentimental at all. I want their money, for which I offer a substantial return. Here is my plan: Form an association on the Art Union principle; purchase the Crystal Palace; apply the profits each year as prizes, the allotment of which extinguishes a certain number of shares, while those not so extinguished in course of time come in for the property itself. The Tontine system is no new discovery, and nobody ever yet charged it with the drawback of sentiment. My plan is a Tontine and Art Union combined, according to which each subscriber sooner or later receives a quid pro quo. What objection, pray, can be made to it?" We certainly have none to offer. The proposal is businesslike and straightforward simply as a form of money investment, while it offers advantages with regard to the Palace itself such as open up a prospect of rare usefulness. With it there would be an end of grubbing for dividends, and the enterprise could be managed in view of the results its founders had in mind. We should secure, as Mr. Hughes remarked, a "real Palace of Art," free from the necessity to lower its character in order to raise its returns; the distinction even now enjoyed in the matter of music becoming the rule of the place, not the exception. With such a result in prospect the friends of the Crystal Palace will hardly be deterred by sneers from wishing well to the scheme of the so-called Sentimentalists. It is the only one before the public worthy of a moment's consideration, because the only one that unites to entire feasibility a guarantee that the original purpose of the enterprise shall be worked out.

HINDU MUSIC.

OUR readers need not be alarmed at the title of this article: we have not the least intention of entering into a learned discourse on the many subtle intricacies of Hindu music. All that we wish to do is to call attention to the remarkable interest which is springing up among Europeans in India with reference to the character and merits of this native art. Nor is this to be wondered at, for the Asiatic origin of music is a fact on which many learned men have insisted. Even if it be granted that Greece be caused in town by the appearance on our breakfast-tables of a paragraph somewhat as follows: "Mr. So-and-so produced the finest effects in his song by the judicious use of skull-tones," &c., &c.

The following may be termed a very sentimental account of sound:—

"Without sound, singing is impossible; without sound, tone is impossible; and therefore sound (nada) is the all-pervading soul of the world."

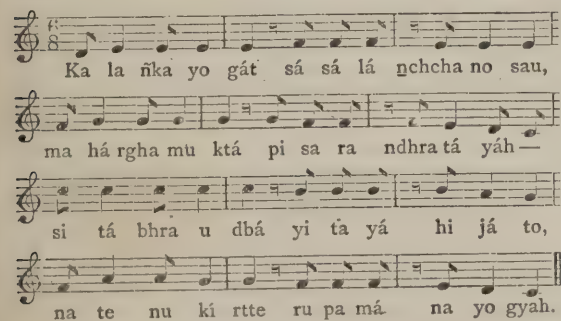

By a reversed mental process this statement also appears as follows:—

"From nada arises srooti, from srooti comes swara (tone), and from swara comes raga, and from raga comes gita; therefore the soul of gita is sound."

Probably the greatest difficulty which the European meets with in Hindu music is the system of murchanás or graces. These do not include such ornaments as a turn or shake (the latter of which, by the way, has the very odd title of a gummucka), but can best be described as roulades of diatonic or enharmonic scale-notes, introduced either at a given sign or at the will of the performer. These graces are a "vital principle" of Hindu music, as Dr. Tagore justly observes. The reader must therefore bear in mind that any quotations we may make from the melodies before us are quite inadequately represented by our musical notes, and cannot be judged by the ordinary standard of musical criticism. The interesting analogy between these Hindu graces and the use of the "enharmonic genus" by the ancient Greeks need hardly be pointed out. The first song we shall give appears at first sight to be of a simple, not to say weak character, but in all probability when sung with proper native grace it is far from uninteresting. The words are as these ("Stanzas in Sanskrit," p. 57):—

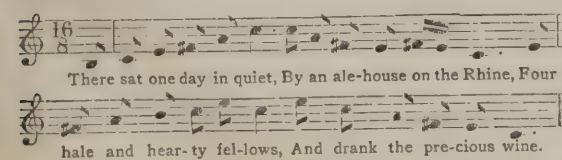

"Neither the moon, nor the precious pearl, nor the bright camphor, can bear comparison with thy brilliant fame. In the moon there is a spot, in the pearl there is a hole, in the camphor volatility; but thy fame is spotless, solid, and ever-enduring."

This startling series of compliments, which must have much astonished H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, is set to the following music:—

Ka la n̄ka yo gāt s̄a s̄a lā n̄chcha no sau, ma h̄a r̄gha mu kt̄a pi sa ra ndhra tá yāh—si tá bhra u db̄a yi tá yā hi já to, na te nu kí rtte ru pa mā na yo gyah.

The next melody is from English verses set to Hindu music, p. 73. The Asiatic form of scale is here much more marked:—

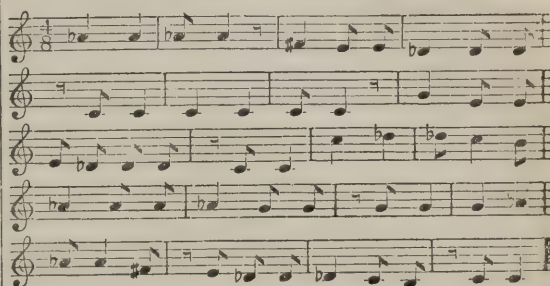

There sat one day in quiet, By an ale-house on the Rhine, Four hale and hear-ty fel-lows, And drank the pre-cious wine.

Any musician who can for the moment forget the "scales" of his youth will see at a glance that the above is a very symmetrical melody as regards form, though it must be confessed that it would be most troublesome to harmonise in our own way. But for difficulty in this respect we commend the following for our readers' consideration. We omit the original words: they are thus translated ("Sanskrit Stanzas," p. 91):—

"Thou art more precious than the most precious gems, and an object of greater regard than the rubies and pearls of the purest ray. Having now embraced thee in her bosom, India has proved herself entitled to the name of Basundhára (the holder of riches), and become a scene of universal joy."

RĀGINÍ ĀSĀ-GAURĪ.

Enough has been said to show that Dr. Tagore deserves warm thanks for the publication of the works lying before us; and notwithstanding the difficulty which a European experiences in appreciating the niceties of Asiatic music it is easy to see that he holds a high rank both as a composer and theorist. We cannot do better than conclude with his setting of our National Anthem:—

God save our gra-cious Queen, Long live our no-ble Queen,
God . . save the Queen! Send her vic-to-ri-ous,
Hap-py and glo-ri-ous, Long to reign o-ver us, . .
God . . save the Queen.

THE ABUSE OF MUSIC.

BY HENRY C. LUNN.

FORKEL says, "The public requires everything to be human, and the true artist ought properly to make everything divine. How, then, should the applause of the multitude and true art exist together?" The more we ponder these lines the more convinced we must be of their absolute truth. As faith in progress is one of the essential attributes of a real artist, so it is impossible for him in creating a work to think for one moment of the manner in which it will be received by those whose knowledge of the subject to which he has devoted his life is merely picked up at intervals snatched from a daily occupation, the nature of which deadens those very faculties which are necessary for the due appreciation of the most subtle poetical compositions. Painting and sculpture appeal with a certain power to the many; for, however ideal may be the pictures and statues submitted to the eye, the fact of their representing known objects acts to a great extent as a passport to popular favour; but the charm of music is in its pure, abstract nature—as Goethe says, “it requires no material, no subject-matter whose effect must be deducted; it is wholly form and power”—and thus it happens that poets who speak to the world through the language of sound must wait until that world has been educated to comprehend the value of those treasures which have been gradually stored up for its benefit.

But whilst the development of the art is healthily progressing, it is obvious that for those who care but for music in a form demanding only a slight attention compositions must be duly provided, and thus a race of manufacturers is provided, whose worldly success is too often paraded before the public in proof of their claim to artistic recognition; nay, it is even urged by those who should know better that composers who write not for the people are mistaken, but talented, individuals, who, had they but seen the error of their ways in time, might have corrected their style and gained the suffrages of those who now treat their works with cold neglect. Against such a doctrine as this it is the sacred duty of all who believe in the true mission of art to protest. The use of music once understood, the abuse of it should be in every instance discouraged; for it is as absurd to say that superior works do no good as that inferior ones do no harm. A gentle toleration of falsehood may be the best mode of action under certain circumstances, but open praise of it is scarcely the method of advancing the truth.

We have been especially led into this train of thought because we constantly see a tendency in the present day to speak not only with kindness upon musical compositions which obviously tend to lower the standard of art, but actually to dismiss them with a few lines of qualified praise. Supposing that critical notices are in the slightest degree valued by the public, this mistaken leniency cannot but have a deleterious effect, for what can be the worth of favourable reviews upon productions of genius when the crudest works are thus encouraged? and how can a composer without a particle of original thought judge of his true position when he is gently urged forward by those whose duty it should be to persuade him that he has mistaken his mission? Were we asked to give some examples of such reviews as we have been speaking of, they could be at once furnished by reference to newspapers, and even to some journals which profess to criticise music. An Opera is performed for the first time—as a work of art worthless; but there is a pleasing ballad in it, an effective duet, a bold march, and a pretty dance-tune. All these are too often lauded with an excess of enthusiasm which would be simply absurd had such compositions never been placed in an Opera; for the probability is that pieces as good, or even much better, are daily published without exciting even a mark of recognition. An Oratorio is produced—the choruses are cut to the prescribed pattern; two or three “well-developed” fugues are introduced; there is a pathetic song for the contralto, and an unaccompanied trio. It is not considered right boldly to tell the composer that, skilfully as the work is put together, it does not contain a spark of genius; but the writing is learnedly discussed, the counterpoint praised, and everybody is made to believe that a new composition of enduring worth is added to the store of sacred art. Even in notices of songs and pianoforte pieces the most commonplace works are frequently extolled as if they were veritable creations of genius; and seldom indeed is that truth spoken which, however galling to a composer at the time, can never do him so much harm in the end as unmerited praise. Strange indeed is it to turn, as we have recently done, to forgotten notices in newspapers and other periodicals where the triumph of mediocrity is duly recorded, and the verdict of a packed audience echoed in print, as if noisy success had anything whatever to do with art. Stranger still is it to remember that whilst such productions as these are placed before the public innumerable works of solid value are utterly unknown save to enthusiasts who endeavour to reveal their many beauties in the studio.

In proof of the ill effects of even faintly praising, what should be strongly condemned we may point to the extracts from notices constantly appended to advertised instrumental and vocal compositions, the extravagant eulogy upon which must indeed appear strange when the works happen to be heard by those who, with a ripened judgment, can calmly gauge their merits. It may perhaps be urged, in justification of thus ignoring the true aim of criticism, that young writers should be encouraged. Granted; but art must ever be considered before artists; and, even if a composer have caught the popular ear, he may be the greatest foe to the progress of healthy music. The merit of a work consists in its intrinsic worth, and not in its power of attracting a number of ignorant admirers. “The public,” truly says Forkel, “requires everything to be human, and the true artist ought properly to make everything divine.” Shall the critic, then, range himself on the side of the public or the artist?

Now that a prize is offered in Germany for the best treatise upon the subject of consecutive fifths in music, a comment by the philosopher Huygens seems to be well worthy of reproduction, especially as it is included in a posthumous work, which few musicians would think of reading as one likely to contain any reference to their own science and art. It is a treatise, written in Latin, upon the probable plurality of worlds, and entitled “Cosmotheoros.” Huygens died at the Hague in 1695, while this work was in the press. He is perhaps now most widely known as the discoverer of the solid and permanent ring round the planet Saturn, and of one of its satellites; also as the inventor of the micrometer and of the improved pendulum for clocks. But he stood quite in the first rank as a theoretical musician in his day: He was one of the fellows of our Royal Society. In “Cosmotheoros” Huygens says: “For if you ask one of our musicians why two or more perfect fifths cannot be used regularly in composition, some say it is to avoid that sweetness and lusciousness which arises from the repetition of this pleasing chord. Others say that fifths must be avoided for the sake of the variety of chords which are required to make a good composition. Such reasons are brought forward by Descartes and others. But the inhabitants of Jupiter or of Venus will perhaps give you better reasons for this, viz., because, when you pass from one perfect fifth to another, there is such a change made as immediately alters your key. You have changed into a new key before the ear is prepared for it.” For exemplification of Huygens’s argument, let us take a few fifths from our diatonic scale of C. C to G is a perfect fifth, from D to A is an imperfect interval in a scale of fixed sounds, because A is tuned as a third to F; from E to B is a true fifth, but remote from C as a consonance—the ear expects E as the bass—from F to C, again, is a true fifth, but one which absolutely requires F as a consonant bass; and so on. Huygens seems to have written this interesting treatise as an antidote to Kircher's "Ecstatic Journeys," which he charges to be a farrago of "unscientific, unreasonable stuff." According to Lowndes's "Bibliographer's Manual," a translation of Huygens's work was published under the title of "The Celestial World discovered," London, 1699, 8vo.

A CURIOUS custom once prevailed, both on the Continent and in England, in "The Church of our Fathers," and one that has been ably illustrated, in the seventh volume of the Camden Society's "Miscellany," by the late John Gough Nichols and by Dr. Rimbault. On the sixth day of December, it being St. Nicholas's Day, the choristers in cathedrals, and in certain parish churches in London, were allowed to elect annually one of their own body to take upon himself the office of the Bishop and others among them for other offices of the Church. This lasted until Innocents' Day, the twenty-eighth of December, and in some cases to the end of January, thus giving a long holiday to the real dignitaries of the Church. In the published accounts above referred to there seems to be but one deficient link. We there find two of the sermons which were preached by Boy-Bishops, the one at St. Paul's Cathedral and the other at Gloucester. There also are numerous extracts referring to celebrations of the custom at various times and in various places. Lastly, a complete account of the episcopal visitation of a Boy-Bishop through the diocese of York in the year 1396, together with the "computus" of all the money received by him, the finger-rings and other presents, and of the ways in which that money was expended. Only one extra piece of information seems to be wanting to complete the illustration, and that is the rubric for the celebration of the Boy-Bishop services, and the musical portion of those services. These are accessible in a fine folio manuscript of the fifteenth century in the British Museum—No. 463 of the Lansdowne Collection. The curious will also find there the service on the day of Thomas à Becket's "saint and martyr" (Dec. 29), with a chant of the extraordinary miracles performed at his tomb. This part, which is about folio 18 verso, has diagonal lines drawn through it by a later hand—probably after Henry VIII. had disallowed the worship of the "saint."

OUR readers must be familiar with Mason's setting, once very popular, and even now not disused, of the collect, "Lord of all power and might;" but possibly few are aware that the composer was a man of sufficient mark to be styled, after death, a "departed genius." Some particulars respecting him may be found in a volume published more than seventy years ago, by Edward Miller, Mus. Doc., and devoted to the history and antiquities of Doncaster. Mason was then deceased, but his reputation as a poet if not as a musician survived, and Dr. Miller rather minutely describes what sort of man he was. From this account it appears that, in addition to his more obvious calling, Mason practised both music and painting. His pictures were bad; but he "performed decently" on the harpsichord, and studied the principles of composition under Dr. Miller himself, though with so little effect that only the themes of his anthems, including, "Lord of all power and might," are his own. Mason's personal character was not the most attractive. He would patronise young artists for a while and then "cut" them, without the smallest explanation, at the bidding of a favourite servant, who, says Dr. Miller, could make him change an acquaintance as easily as a coat. Late in life he married the lady whose monument in Bristol Cathedral, with its touching lines, many of our readers have doubtless admired. His choice of her was due, it is said, to the fact that she spent an entire evening in his company without uttering a word. During the few months of their wedded life Mason became more agreeable, but after her death his moroseness returned. Eccentric to the last, he led the family of an attached friend to believe that his fortune would descend to them, and then, without even mentioning their names in his will, left nearly the whole of it to a man who had been his curate.

It is lucky for the future of the Philharmonic Society that it is justified by its title in moving with the times. The "Ancient Concerts" could not become "Modern Concerts," and the "British Orchestral Society" was bound by its name to engage as executants only those who were born within a certain prescribed circle. But the Philharmonic Society, having no such bar to its progress, has constantly renewed that vitality the loss of which has been periodically threatened by the rapid onward march of music amongst the people. The migration from the Hanover Square Rooms to St. James's Hall was the first recognition of the necessity of admitting an increased audience to the concerts of the Society at popular prices; and a less exclusive selection of pieces for performance has latterly indicated an earnest desire to meet the taste of the day. By the prospectus of the season, just issued, we now find that the system of dividing the programme into two parts has been abolished; and this may be accepted as a proof that the evening is no longer to be unduly lengthened by converting the meeting into a temporary conversazione, such as was sanctioned at the "King's Theatre" when "Fops' Alley" was in full glory, and is even now carried out in the Saloon of the Opera Houses, whilst the poor music-lovers are wearily waiting in their seats. One only reform is now wanted—the closing of the doors during the movements of a composition. The shuffling of the late comers in their attempt to reach their places, and the conversation with the attendants consequent upon the process, are an intolerable nuisance to those who wish to listen to the music; and if the directors of the Society will protect them from this infiction they will add one more to the many concessions already made to the artistic public.

THERE is nothing particularly attractive about Stratford-upon-Avon, and yet an Englishman scarcely feels that he has done his duty unless he has, at least once in his life, made a pilgrimage to this town, and scratched his name upon the window of the room in which Shakespeare was born. Not only, indeed, do we all love to linger over the spots made sacred by their association with those who have earned an immortal fame, but even the most commonplace articles of daily use acquire an enduring worth if it can only be proved beyond dispute that they have exclusively belonged to the great men of the world. The veritable ring which Haydn always wore when performing or composing would be valued by any musician quite apart from its intrinsic excellence; and we have ourselves recently gazed with the utmost reverence at a few roughly printed notes, merely because they had undoubtedly been engraved by the hand of John Sebastian Bach. And now a relic has come to light which cannot fail to excite unusual interest. Beethoven's pianoforte—the especial favourite of the composer, and upon which he played to the time of his death—has lately passed into the possession of Messrs. Hug, the music publishers of Zürich. The keys are said to be “quite hollowed by excessive use;” and when we consider by whose fingers this “hollowing” was effected, the worn old “Tetrachord” instrument must ever evoke a world of thought which no modern “Grand,” even by the most eminent maker, can conjure up. Such feelings may be said by the coldly practical to be unworthy of encouragement; but this silent homage to genius is the spontaneous growth of the purely artistic mind; and Messrs. Hug must not therefore be surprised if their premises should now be constantly invaded by enthusiastic musicians, who will certainly, during a holiday ramble, contrive to take Zürich in their way to see and hear the pianoforte of Ludwig van Beethoven.

AN unexpected testimony to the value of the Sol-fa notation has been recently added to the many so constantly circulated by the partisans of the cause. It appears that the Rev. Jonathan Lees, of the London Mission, Tientsin, North China, has sent Mr. Sankey twenty of the well-known songs, the words translated into Chinese, and the music of them printed in the Chinese version of the Tonic Sol-fa notation. He affirms that these pieces “have already proved their fitness to deepen and cheer the Christian life in a most pleasing way,” and that the Tientsin Church bids fair to be a musical one. The Rev. J. S. Barradale, another of the missionaries, also writing on the subject, emphatically states that our staff notation can never be used by the Chinese, for their letters are ranged in perpendicular columns, and they read from the right-hand side of the page to the left. The Tonic Sol-fa letters can be placed in this way with ease, but not so with the staff, which is necessarily horizontal. We are pleased to find a country so well prepared to receive this innovation; but, at the same time, cannot be made to understand why the Chinese difficulty of reading notes with a staff should be considered insurmountable, whilst our difficulty of reading notes without one should scarcely ever be thought of. Surely, as the “ladder system” of notation has developed with the rise of music itself, some allowance should be made for those who cannot shake off the feeling that acuteness and gravity should be presented to the eye as they are presented to the ear; and, with all our admiration for what has been effected by Mr. Curwen and his disciples, therefore, we cannot but hope that some day a true notation may be devised in which our little prejudices may be at least as much consulted as those of the Chinese have evidently been by the benevolent missionaries who are desirous of importing Sol-faism into China.

THAT Frenchmen know how to honour their great artists as well as their great warriors has been proved by the ceremony which recently took place over the tomb of Auber, at Père-la-Chaise. During the siege of Paris the composer, still in the possession of all his faculties, though almost ninety years of age, took his accustomed walk through the streets of his beloved city; and although beholding with an aching heart the changes wrought by the stern realities of war, bore bravely up against the misery which had fallen upon his country until his favourite horses were seized and killed to supply food for the nation, and then he bowed to his fate and calmly passed away almost unnoticed. But when Paris was restored to her usual life, a subscription was raised to remove the body of Auber from the vault where it had been hastily deposited to Père-la-Chaise; and, although the remains were transferred in December last, it was not until the 29th January that the ceremony we have mentioned took place at the tomb. A handsome but appropriately plain monument had been erected, and a bust of the composer placed at the grave. Instrumental and choral music, from Auber's Operas, was given, with thrilling effect upon the thousands of mourners assembled; funeral orations were delivered, immortelles laid upon the tomb, and tears moistened the eyes of the many who felt that they had lost not only a representative artist who had for so many years lived and worked in their midst, but a true-hearted man who had earned a widely spread sympathy by his kindly and generous nature. It may be justly said that France has a right to be proud of Auber; but this noble tribute to his memory has made the admirers of Auber proud of France.

WE are glad to record that the benefit organised by the numerous friends and admirers of Mr. John Parry, which took place at the Gaiety Theatre on the 7th ult., was in every respect highly successful. Of course the “Critic,” which was the piece selected for the occasion, was well cast (although unfortunately Mr. Charles Mathews was prevented by an attack of gout from appearing); but the main attraction of the morning was the appearance of the bénéficiaire himself, the only drawback to the enjoyment of whose genial “Echoes of the Past” was the reflection that it was the last time he would ever make that appeal to the public which has for so many years met with such hearty response. From the few words spoken to the large audience assembled it was evident that the pain of parting was mutual; but Mr. Parry may feel it a consolation to know that he takes with him into private life the respect and esteem of all who have been associated with him, either professionally or socially; and that he has taught those who follow in his footsteps the valuable lesson that the highest form of humour is that which reflects the cultivated taste of an artist and the refined manner of a gentleman.

A WEEKLY musical contemporary, in offering some remarks about cathedral organists with reference to the growing taste for modern compositions, ventures to predict that it will indeed be a bad time for church music if complete neglect should hide the works of Purcell, Kent, and others. We are disposed to think that the utter want of critical discrimination which could couple the glorious works of our greatest English musician with such hollow and weak effusions as “Kent's Anthems” will seriously reduce the value and weight of the writer's well-intentioned advice. If Kent is such an important element of the classics of conservative Church musicians, for goodness' sake let us go ahead and not look backward.

It will greatly please those of our readers who are graduates of a University in Arts, Music, or Divinity to know that a representative of the “New England” University, U.S.A., is prepared to convince himself, in his chambers in the Strand, of the remarkable merits of those who apply to him for a doctorate; and that on receipt of “the” University dues any degree is forwarded (by parcel delivery) carefully wrapped up inside an appropriate hood. As the duties which this representative of a learned body has to perform are of a delicate kind, we forbear to mention his name or exact address, although a letter from him offering to confer the degree of Mus. Doc. is lying before us.

SIR HENRY BAKER, BART.

ONE more familiar name has found its way into the list of fellow-workers removed by death: it is the name of one of those few men who, happily, find out the sphere of duty for which they are best adapted, work conscientiously and with unflinching perseverance in its paths, and die not knowing in their Christian humility how lasting a name they leave behind them. Sir Henry Baker was no musician; the one or two melodies bearing his name, which are now in every church-goer's mouth, were merely intimated by him to his musical friends on the pianoforte or by his voice; yet he had a remarkable critical faculty which seemed almost to dictate to him the probable future of a hymn-tune. Such a faculty, it must be confessed, rarely exists; and in it lies the secret of the universal distribution of the millions of "Hymns Ancient and Modern," which, to the astonishment of none more than himself, were rapidly called for. That many weak tunes, from an artistic point of view, were thus rendered current coin of worship, is not to be denied, but in his justification it must be said he saw that if sentimental hymns are necessary to supply a want and have their lasting hold on special classes, sentimental tunes must as a natural result follow and fit them. At heart indeed he was warmly and affectionately attached to the rigid and robust form of musical setting, but as a broad-minded thinker he felt that such settings are, as a matter of fact, only partially appreciated; and he knew that it is as impossible to reach the hearts of a rough uneducated congregation by means of true ecclesiastical psalmody as to influence the morals of a mob by reading a chapter from "Butler's Analogy." Not only among those musicians who had the good fortune to hold intercourse with him will his hearty warmth and genuine affection be ever missed, but also by the comfortless widow, the aged, and the orphans in that small parish which was his home. With every face he was familiar, sympathised with every suffering heart, joyed in every smile; and no dissentients did he find to the beautiful forms of divine worship carried out in his church after his own liking, because all who knew him were drawn to him by his simplicity and purity of character, and loved him with that love which casteth out fear. As the author of many beautiful hymns smoothly worded and warm with true religious feeling, his name will undoubtedly be enrolled among the sweet singers of our Church.

JOHN OXENFORD.

ON Wednesday, the 21st ult., died, at his residence in Trinity Square, Southwark, John Oxenford, aged 65 years. The great majority who learn this fact will do so without giving it a second thought; it may even be that the name will pass under their eyes with but a faint recognition, so true is it now, as when the words were uttered, that "the world knows nothing of its greatest men." Nevertheless, John Oxenford was a great man in all that constitutes the essence of such a character. He was modest. With gifts so many and varied, he might have aspired to a high place in the sight of his countrymen. The world was, in a special sense, open to him where to choose, and those who knew him best most appreciated the opportunities of distinction that lay to his hand. But, like many another who has done good service to literature and art, he was satisfied, as regards the bulk of his labours, to work in the comparative obscurity which shrouds the journalist. Personal recognition he never coveted, finding all the reward his ambition craved in the esteem and admiration of a chosen few, and in the consciousness of duty faithfully done. Even in private life this feature of his character was conspicuous. None ever loved more than he to discuss high matters with congenial minds, but none shrank more than he from an ostentatious display either of opinions or learning. "Wise as a serpent" in all that constitutes the materials of sound judgment of men and things, he was yet "harmless as a dove" in the sense of an almost childlike simplicity of manners and modesty of soul. Such a man was not one to push himself in among the crowd who struggle for a "coign of vantage" whereon they may attitudinise before a gaping world. Persons like these, from aspirants after a seat in the parish vestry to candidates for a place on the Treasury Bench, may be necessary to the completeness of social organisation; but John Oxenford found his happiness in work which, while it influenced men's thoughts throughout the whole realm of culture, left the worker in congenial retirement.

John Oxenford was great no less in the capacity to do great things. He does not seem to have had the educational advantages which, in early years, are of such value as giving young ambition a good start in the race of life. But, like many others whose names are written in brass on the walls of Fame's temple, he knew how to make up for this deficiency. An admirable elegiac notice in the Times of the 23rd ult., well said, "Considering his extraordinary attainments, it seems incredible that he should have been almost self-taught. Such, however, is the fact. He acquired Greek, Latin, and the principal modern languages entirely without aid; and, in addition to this, made himself, though only an amateur in mathematics, able to discuss problems and theorems with any professed master of that difficult study." Nor was this all. He had an acquaintance little short of phenomenal, not alone with the ordinary productions of English and Continental literature, but with that literature in its most recondite, obscure, and eccentric manifestations. His purview throughout life seems to have taken in the whole field of book-work, and the marvel is how he found time to read, the power to retain, and the ability to digest so much. Of course, we have an explanation in the fact that, with a remarkable memory, Oxenford possessed a capacious, orderly, and luminous mind. His brain was like some well-stocked and well-lighted library, the owner of which knows exactly the position of every book and can put his hand upon it at a moment's notice. It may, of course, be said—and, indeed, has already been suggested—that the man's mind was receptive out of all proportion to its productiveness. The disproportion, we fancy, is not so great as it seems, taking into account the immense amount of work done by Oxenford for our periodical literature. Still, one cannot but regret that such a ripe, massive, and broadly cultivated scholar did not leave behind more of the intellectual wealth which, unhappily, has now gone down to the grave, and is lost to us for ever.

Concerning John Oxenford's greatness as a critic, it is hardly necessary for us to speak, since he laboured for a generation or more in the fierce light that beats upon the Times. An intellect more qualified for critical work no man ever had, and it is only to be regretted, in the interest of dramatic art, if not of dramatic artists, that he ever allowed his mind to be influenced by a nature amiable even to weakness. Thus was his usefulness limited, though his personal popularity was increased; and the cause of truth suffered that an unwillingness to wound might be indulged. But while we regret this, it is impossible not to think with all the more kindness of the man's individuality. "Even his vices leaned to virtue's side." How readily and heartily he praised when praise was due, and how prompt he was to discover and encourage merit, everybody knows. Talent, even in its most limited development, never appealed to John Oxenford in vain, though he too often passed over incompetence as though he did not see it, or thought it worth no more than an artful sentence meaning praise or blame, as the reader chose to take it.

The private character of John Oxenford is laid bare by the simple statement that he could not have had an enemy in the world. A nature so frank and large-hearted is its own passport to the affections of all with whom it comes in contact; and the dead scholar and critic will be sorely missed in the circles which he enlivened by his wit and warmed by his geniality. The writer of this notice well remembers meeting him accidentally at the solemn table d'hôte of a genteel hotel at an oppressively respectable inland watering-place. During the meal word was brought that the body of a lad had been taken out of a stream close at hand, while just previously a complaint had run round the table against the scarcity of the "pure element." "Now," said Oxenford, in that strident voice which always commanded attention, "here's a curious thing—a boy drowned, and no water to drink." Despite sympathy for the defunct, the remark thawed the guests at once, and a chorus of laughter was the prelude to a clatter of tongues.

It is beyond the scope of our hurried lines to give the details of Oxenford's various labours. To musical readers he is perhaps best known by his libretti, and a host of smooth and polished verses. These will keep him fresh in the memory of the followers of the sister art to that he served so well. But nowhere will he soon pass into oblivion. Requiescat in pace.

CLAY'S "LALLA ROOKH."

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Festival of 1877 in the "Queen of Watering-places" will chiefly be remembered on account of Mr. Frederic Clay's Cantata "Lalla Rookh," the libretto of which is from the pen of no less eminent a poet-dramatist than Mr. W. G. Wills, author of "Charles the First" and "Jane Shore." Mr. Kuhe began, on the 13th ult., with this novelty, and did for it all that his resources allowed. He provided a good band, comprising a large number of first-rate artists, with M. Sinton at their head; the Brighton Sacred Harmonic Society supplied an adequate chorus; while better soloists, taken as a whole, could hardly have been desired than Madame Sherrington, Miss Sinclair, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Maybrick. The composer, therefore—especially as he conducted in person—had every chance of making his mark, and cannot complain if, in any degree, that mark was missed. "Lalla Rookh," as will readily be surmised, concerns itself not at all with the poems which Moore has set, like gems, in his little prose Romance. Each of these is important enough—witness "Paradise and the Peri"—to furnish material for a separate work. Passing them by, therefore, Mr. Wills has dealt exclusively with the story of the Princess who, setting out from Delhi to be the unwilling wife of the Lord of Cashmere, falls desperately in love with a poor poet who beguiles the way with song, and, at length, finds that the potentate and the verse-maker are one. Mr. Wills treats Moore's slight sketch—a mere thread on which to string his verse—with becoming respect, and he must also be credited with having entered thoroughly into its spirit. The libretto is instinct with the warmth of Eastern passion—starts, even, almost at fever heat with a soliloquy for the poet-prince such as promptly fires the imagination:—

"'Tis night; no sound is in the air,
Save insects' hums—the moth that hums.
Oh! Allah, hear a lover's prayer
For her that comes—my love that comes."

This high-pitched emotion is everywhere sustained, and, combined with a strong infusion of "local colour," leaves but little to desire from the stand-point of poetical expression, while assisting the composer by means of the suggestiveness which is the sine quâ non of words for music. Unfortunately, we cannot congratulate Mr. Wills upon absolutely perfect workmanship. Though many of his verses are good, and the majority are fair, some are inexcusably bad, exciting our wonder that the poet allowed them to pass muster for a moment. Here is one example:—

"Morn wanes; we must away,
Away o'er Ganges' yellow tide to wind;
Hence, before the blinding heat of day,
Groves of palm in front and Delhi's walls behind."

Apart from the construction of these lines, it may be pointed out that Mr. Wills should have said "Morn breaks," inasmuch as Indian travellers do not wait for the morn to "wane" before resuming their journey. Again, Mr. Wills makes the chorus sing—

"Lo! signs of light the traveller sees,
Yonder Cashmere's far light;
With bent backs, her ancient trees
Bathe themselves in starlight."

In this verse—to say nothing of awkwardness—we have "light" thrice repeated. Mr. Wills, however, may have gone out of his way to bring the word in so frequently, and it is certain that the poem shows a fondness for alliteration which would charm the heart of Richard Wagner himself. Here are a few examples:—

"Sing me some lulling song—that which my slaves Were wont to sing about me as I lay."
"Would you break into song in soot seeming?"
"Of wending waters and of wandering wind."
"And on its fate their future fates confide."
"Thou fluttering light, so faint and far."
"Farewell, joy that fate forbade me."

There may be no particular objection to some of these examples of the "artful art," but Mr. Wills has, from the musician's point of view, a decidedly embarrassing love for the letter S, which he crowds into his verses till they hiss like an Indian serpent. The defect is more serious than perhaps he imagined, and the more justly falls under censure because it might so easily have been avoided. It should also be pointed out that when a writer of Mr. Wills's eminence appears as a librettist we are entitled to look for a conspicuous example of the merits which libretti seldom show.

The characters in the work are four, albeit the original Romance contains but three. Mr. Wills, however, has not invented one, but simply taken advantage of a reference to Lalla Rookh's favourite musical slave. This personage, nameless in Moore, is here called Leila, and brought well to the front as the Princess's attendant and confidant. Otherwise no change has been made. Lalla Rookh and Feramorz are the impassioned lovers of the prose story, and Fadlaheen is the fussy, consequential individual whom we have all known so long. In action, too, the libretto follows the romance, diverging only when the Princess is made to sail a little boat, bearing a taper, down the river, instead of contenting herself with referring to that pretty custom of love-sick Hindu maidens.

The scope and character of Mr. Clay's talent as a composer are so well known that much information is conveyed by the simple statement of his perfect consistency in "Lalla Rookh." Throughout the new Cantata he is the fluent, if not wholly original, melodist revealed in many previous works. He shows himself not less by simplicity of structure, united to considerable breadth and richness of colour, and by a happy knack of expressing, with a directness and truth many profounder writers might envy, the pervading sentiment of his text. Here, too, as elsewhere, Mr. Clay makes plain that he is not to be tempted out of his depth. At this time of ridiculous striving after the originality which, too often, consists in grotesqueness or incoherence, it is quite refreshing to come upon a composer who says, "I know the limit of my means, and that, within them, I can make pleasant music, such as the world will not be the worse, but rather the better, for hearing. An attempt to go beyond would harm myself and do nobody else any good. Wherefore I am satisfied to do my best as best I can, and not otherwise." Such a composer is Mr. Clay, and if his music be not that of a consummate master—breathing thought and burning word—it is music which, because natural, pleasing, and, within its avowed scope, artistic, has a legitimate place. Besides the merits already referred to—tunefulness, beauty of colour, and simple truth of expression—"Lalla Rookh" exhibits considerable taste in point of scoring. It is no doubt to be wished that Mr. Clay had employed the orchestra in a less conventional mode than is actually shown here; but, this apart, the various instruments are used for purposes of contrast and tone-mixture with an effect which goes far to reconcile us to comparative weakness in point of structural details. As regards the voice parts, it may be objected that Mr. Clay makes his phrases a little too formal; but, on the other hand, the themes are always in a high degree vocal, and adapted to win the sympathy of the executant—a result often overlooked by composers, with consequences more serious to themselves than they perhaps imagine. But leaving generalities, let us look for a moment at some of the more important numbers in the work.

Among these must be placed a dreamy song for the Princess, "Still this golden lull for ever," in which a happy melody and delicate instrumentation justly illustrate the words. Another song, in the relative major key (A flat) of the first, deserves on every account equal praise, if, indeed, it be not the one destined to greatest favour. The Brighton audience, at any rate, encored Mr. Lloyd's rendering of "I'll sing thee songs of Araby" with an enthusiasm excited by nothing else. But comparison apart, both are excellent examples of Mr. Clay's most refined and attractive manner. A lively and tuneful quartett, "Morn wanes" has its simple charm much enhanced by the nature of its accompaniment; and this, too, won an encore, though the honour was perhaps better deserved by the slow March immediately following, wherein Mr. Clay has contrived to obtain a characteristic effect without the aid of eccentricity. The storm portion of a story told by Feramorz is broadly conceived and effective, standing out well against a somewhat commonplace background; and Leila's slumber-song, "Silent the bells of the Mosque," may be classed with those already named on the score of delicate prettiness. Yet another air, "Slow, sail slow," sung by Lalla Rookh deserves commendation for the same reasons; as do many portions of the love-duet following, with which the chief interest of the work comes to an end, save for some dance music, the first movement of which is an undoubted gem. It will be observed that we have said nothing about the choruses, and it must now be confessed that in them Mr. Clay appears at his weakest. He has been too distrustful of himself, or too anxious to keep his Cantata within the means of very moderately gifted executants. The result is, at all events, that the choruses when compared with the songs, are commonplace, and add but little to the musical value of the work. But taken as a whole, "Lalla Rookh" makes a welcome addition to a useful class. Its influence will be for good among the amateurs to whom it directly appeals, because, while not wearying by means of uncomprehended scholarship, nor creating an artificial and unhealthy excitement by extravagance, its tasteful melodies and graceful style will serve to stimulate a liking for higher things.

CRYSTAL PALACE.

AFTER the usual interval at Christmas, the Saturday Concerts at the Crystal Palace were resumed on the 3rd ult. The day being the anniversary of the birth of Mendelssohn, the entire programme of the afternoon was selected from the works of that composer. The orchestral pieces performed were the Overture to "Ruy Blas," and the Scotch Symphony, both of which were rendered to perfection by Mr. Manns's excellent orchestra. A novelty was presented in the shape of an Adagio for strings from an unpublished early Symphony, written when Mendelssohn was a lad of fourteen; the movement, however, was not worth the trouble of revival, unless it was to show (what every one knew already) that the composer was a very precocious boy. Herr Joachim gave a masterly performance of the Violin Concerto; though we cannot but think that if the concert were intended as a representative one, it would have been more appropriate to bring forward one of Mendelssohn's works for piano and orchestra; for the composer unquestionably occupies a more prominent place in the literature of the piano than in that of the violin. The Crystal Palace Choir sang three of the unaccompanied four-part songs ("For the New Year," "The Wandering Minstrels," and "Remembrance") correctly, but with no great finish. Here again we must express our regret that some more important choral work was not chosen in preference to these part-songs. Not only would the choir have in all probability been heard to greater advantage, but a most important phase of the composer's talent would not have remained unrepresented. Few will deny that nowhere does Mendelssohn's genius shine more brightly than in his large vocal compositions, such as the "Hymn of Praise," the Psalms, the "Athalie," and the "Walpurgis Night." As it was, the only specimen of his sacred music brought forward was the air "Then shall the righteous," admirably sung by Mr. E. Lloyd, who also gave the song "By Celia's labour."

The Symphony on the 10th ult. was Beethoven's in C minor, on which it is needless to say a word. Berlioz's overture to "Béatrice et Bénédicte," which was performed on this occasion for the first time in England, though very characteristic of its composer, is less wild and extravagant, and therefore more enjoyable, than some of his earlier works. Another novelty at this concert was a "Sarabande Espagnole du 16ème Siècle," by M. Massenet, a popular living French composer, which is a happy imitation of the antique style. Mr. Walter Bache, one of the most sterling artists now before the public, was the pianist of the afternoon. He chose for the exhibition of his powers Liszt's very clever and effective arrangement for piano and orchestra of Schubert's Fantasia in C, Op. 15, originally composed for piano solo. Whatever differences of opinion may and do exist as to the advisability, or even the allowability, of such arrangements, there can be no denying that Liszt has performed his self-imposed task in a most skilful manner. Most of our readers are probably aware that Mr. Bache is a pupil of Liszt's; and he certainly plays his master's music to perfection. He has probably never been heard to greater advantage than on this occasion. A débutante, Miss Nannie Louise Hart, made her first appearance at the Crystal Palace on the same afternoon. When we say that we should suppose that her first appearance will also be her last, it is needless to add another word. The other vocalist was Madame Patey, who sang a song from Dr. Macfarren's last Oratorio, "The Resurrection," and a trashy ballad, which we should have thought her good taste would have prevented her from offering to a Crystal Palace audience.

The concert of the 17th ult. commenced with Cherubini's magnificent Overture to "Medea," a piece all the more welcome because it is comparatively seldom heard in our concert-rooms, and concluded with a not particularly interesting Overture to Alfieri's "Saul," by Signor Bazzini. The Symphony was Haydn's in G, sometimes known as "Letter Q" and sometimes as the "Oxford" Symphony. Though perhaps hardly equal to the best of the "Salomon" set, the work is throughout redolent of the spirit of Haydn. It was charmingly played by the band, and evidently most thoroughly enjoyed by the audience. The instrumental soloist of the concert was Mdlle. Marie Krebs, who gave a very fine performance of Beethoven's Concerto in G major; while the vocal music was contributed by Miss Sophie Löwe and Madame Antoinette Sterling.

As the concert of the 24th took place after our going to press, we can only say that the programme included Mozart's symphony in G minor, Spohr's 9th Violin Concerto (Herr Joachim), the Overtures to "The Enchanted Forest" (Benedict) and "Tannhäuser," &c., and that the vocalists advertised were Mrs. Osgood and Miss Mary Cummings.

MONDAY POPULAR CONCERTS.

As is invariably the case, the return of Herr Joachim, on the 5th ult., to his post of leading violinist at these excellent concerts, was made the occasion of a special ovation to that consummate artist, on the part of a most enthusiastic and sympathetic audience. Besides taking part in the "Rasoumowski" Quartett of Beethoven, and in one, Op. 64, by Haydn, Herr Joachim played the Chaconne from the fourth of Bach's Sonatas for violin solo; and Mdlle. Marie Krebs gave an effective rendering of Clementi's Pianoforte Sonata in C. Mr. E. Lloyd was the vocalist. The second concert of the month included a Quartett in E flat by Cherubini, the exquisite poetry of which, particularly manifest in the Larghetto and Finale, evoked in us a strong feeling of regret that the chamber music, and indeed the majority of the works of this great master of the classical school, should have fallen into such neglect with the present generation. Mdlle. Krebs, who was again the pianist on this occasion, played, with her usual good taste and brilliant execution, the well-known descriptive pieces "The Lake, the Millstream, and the Fountain," by Sterndale Bennett, taking part also, in conjunction with Herr Joachim, in the performance of the Sonata in D minor, by Schumann. Mr. Barton McGuckin, in airs by Salvatore Rosa and Buononcini, as well as in a song by Mendelssohn, displayed a well-trained tenor voice of a most sympathetic timbre, which will, before long, secure him a prominent place in the estimation of the public. The concert which followed, on the 19th ult., brought with it a novelty, at any rate in this country, in the performance of a Quartett in B flat, by Brahms. It is perhaps hardly fair to judge, from a first hearing, of the merits of an important work of a composer so highly esteemed in his own country as Herr Brahms. This much, however, we may be permitted to say, that the work in question is of unequal merit; that there are thoughts in it full of genuine inspiration, while others have the appearance of being laboured, and even forced; the result rather of reflection than of poetic conception. It need hardly be added that the Quartett was done full justice to by the executants, Messrs. Joachim, Ries, Straus, and Piatti. Mr. Charles Hallé played the posthumous Sonata in B flat, by Schubert, with that unerring precision and lucidity of exposition which invariably characterise his performance. He was afterwards associated with Messrs. Joachim and Piatti in the Trio par excellence, that in D minor, by Mendelssohn. Herr Herschel, an artist who comes to us with no mean reputation from Germany, received special marks of approbation from the audience upon his delivery of an air from Handel's Rinaldo and of two of Schubert's Lieder. For the next concert the arrival was announced of Madame Schumann, who will remain until the end of the season.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

THE principal attraction at the first concert, on the 22nd ult., was Grieg's Pianoforte Concerto, which was played by Mr. E. Dannreuther with an earnestness and artistic finish which indicated that he estimated the work at a higher value than did the majority of his auditors. We cannot certainly say that definite themes are wanting in the Concerto, but many of them are uncouth—the first, especially, with the ascent of two augmented fourths in consecutive bars—and they appear thrown together, as if the composer had resolved to use up all the melodies he had jotted down at various times in his sketch-book. Occasionally we have some excellent writing, and the orchestration is exceedingly effective in many parts; but the composition left a sense of weariness upon the audience which somewhat checked the well-merited applause which the executant received at the conclusion of his difficult task. A great feature of the evening was the very fine rendering of Spohr's "Concerto Drammatico" for the violin by Mr. Henry Holmes, every movement of which was greeted with marks of approbation as enthusiastic as they were well merited. We much regret that his power of memory was not as reliable as his power of execution; but the good opinion of his hearers was sufficiently evinced to show how little his forgetfulness of the cadenza at the conclusion of the Concerto had affected the favourable impression created by his performance. The orchestral works were Beethoven's Symphony in C minor, and the Overtures "Melusine" (Mendelssohn) and "Oberon" (Weber). Madame Edith Wynne and Mr. W. H. Cummings were warmly received in their vocal solos, and also in a graceful duet, by Mr. W. G. Cusins, who conducted the concert with his usual decision.

SACRED HARMONIC SOCIETY.

THE selection from the works of Handel and Mozart at the Concert on the 23rd ult. attracted a large audience. Commencing with the overture to the "Occasional Oratorio," a very interesting first part was given entirely from the works of Handel, prominent amongst the choral portions of which were the chorus, "Gird on the sword," (from "Saul"), "He saw the lovely youth" (from "Theodora"), and "The mighty power" (from "Athaliah"), the alto solo in which was well sung by Miss Julia Elton. We know not whether the "additional accompaniments" had been too lavishly provided for this occasion, or whether those who wield those terrible instruments of brass and percussion were resolved more fully to assert their power; but certainly, although the choir sang lustily, the "accompaniments" held the mastery, and many of Handel's effects were consequently marred. Energy and precision, however, were especially observable in the attacks; and the conducting of Sir Michael Costa was worthy of all praise. Solos were given by Madame Sinico-Campobello, Miss Julia Elton, Mr. Vernon Rigby, and Mr. Lewis Thomas, the largest share of applause being gained by Miss Julia Elton for an excellent rendering of the air, "Lord, to Thee each night and day," from "Theodora." Every credit is due to the Society for the admirable performance of Mozart's Litany in B flat, which we believe has not been heard in England before in its complete form. We much regret that it could not be given with the original Latin text, for although the words supplied by Mr. R. G. Loraine are carefully written to the notes, it is quite impossible that Mozart's composition can be rightly judged save in the form which he bequeathed to us. The chorus "Pignus Futuræ Gloriæ" (we cannot avoid giving the Latin name) was excellently rendered throughout, and produced a marked impression on the audience, the several responsive phrases being sung with a clearness and precision in the highest degree commendable. The execution of the opening "Kyrie," too, was worthy of much praise, and the solo vocalists already mentioned acquitted themselves with much credit, the fine song "Panis Omnipotentia" being given with much expression and sympathetic feeling by Mr. Vernon Rigby. Handel's Coronation Anthem, "Zadok the Priest," formed a worthy climax to the concert.

GRAUN'S PASSION AT S. GABRIEL'S, PIMLICO.

WHATEVER future historians may say of the Church in our day, we feel sure that apathy and coldness will not be laid to its charge. Most people will acknowledge that music has nobly seconded this awakening of the Church, and wherever reverence and a high standard of musical excellence are combined, a large and correspondingly reverent congregation is the result. Services of this character also have an influence in another direction. The best musicians are now attracted and encouraged to turn their genius towards the composition of church music, and, besides this, publishers are ready to lend their valuable aid. We have before us no less than five settings of music on the subject of the Passion of our Lord: Bach's great work (S. Matthew's Passion), which is now annually sung at S. Paul's Cathedral on Tuesday in Holy Week; and S. John's Passion by the same composer, which is familiar to us through the excellent performance of it at S. Anne's, Soho, on the Fridays in Lent; then Haydn's Passion ("Last Seven Words"), a work which is becoming more deservedly popular as a church service; also, Gounod's setting of the same subject, which, as it can be sung without accompaniment, will find a home in churches where orchestral instruments would be objected to at such a time; and lastly Graun's Passion (Der Tod Jesu), which is almost unknown in England. It is of this work and the performance of it at S. Gabriel's, Pimlico, that we wish especially to speak. Graun was contemporary with Handel, and both died in the same year, 1759. He was of a musical family, and there are in the musical library in Berlin several manuscripts by his brother Augustus Frederic. Graun's residence in Italy for a time greatly influenced him in favour of the Italian school; consequently, on his return to Germany, he became very popular with those who considered the native school too severe. At this time Italian Opera was much in vogue in Germany, and Graun

S. Luke xxiv., vv. 1, 2, 3.

1 Corinthians xv., vv. 20, 21, 22.

EASTER ANTHEM.

HENRY LAHEE.

London: NOVELLO, EWER & Co., 1, Berners St. (W.) and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.) New York: J. L. PETERS, 849, Broadway.

Andante moderato.

TREBLE.
ALTO.
TENOR.
BASS.

mf
Now on the first day of the Andante moderato.

ORGAN.
♩ = 92.

f p mf

week, ve-ry ear-ly, they came . . . to the se-pulchre.

sf

And they found . . . the stone . . . roll'd a-way . . . from the p

p se-pulchre.

f mf And they en - ter'd in, . . . and they en - ter'd cres - cen - do.

mf cres - cen - do.

Org. silent. sf found not . . . the bo - f in, . . . and found, . . . and found not . . .

p dy of the

the bo - dy of the Lord Je - - - sus.
p pp rall.

(2)

With spirit. TREBLE.

But now is Christ ri-sen, but now is Christ ri-sen, but now is Christ ri-sen

ALTO.

But now is Christ ri-sen, but now is Christ ri-sen, but now is Christ ri-sen.

TENOR (8ve. lower).

But now is Christ ri-sen, but now is Christ ri-sen, but now is Christ ri-sen

BASS.

But now is Christ ri-sen, but now is Christ ri-sen, but now is Christ ri-sen

With spirit. ♩ = 52.

from the dead, but now, . . . but now is Christ ri-sen, but now, . . . but

. from the dead, but now is Christ ri-sen, but now, . . . but now is Christ ri-sen, but from the dead, but now, . . . but now is Christ ri-sen, but now, . . . but from the dead, but now is Christ ri-sen, but now, . . . but now is Christ ri-sen, but now is Christ ri-sen, but now is Christ risen from the dead, . . . and become the firstfruits of now, . . . but now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the firstfruits of now is Christ risen, but now is Christ risen from the dead, and become, and become the firstfruits of now, . . . but now is Christ risen from the dead, and become, and become the firstfruits of them that slept, the first - fruits of them . . that slept. For since by them that slept, the first - fruits of them that slept. For since by them that slept, the first - fruits of them that slept. For since by them that slept, the first - fruits of them that slept. For since by pp

p Organ silent.

man came death, For since by man came death, by man came man came death, For since by man came death, by man came man came death, For since by man came death, by man came man came death, For since by man came death, by man came

f al - so the re - sur-rec-tion of the dead, by man came al - so the al - so the re - sur-rec-tion of the dead, by man came al - so the al - so the re - sur-rec-tion of the dead, by man came al - so the al - so the re - sur-rec-tion of the dead, by man came al - so the re - sur-rec - tion of the dead. . . For as in A - dam all re - sur-rec - tion of the dead. . . For as in A - dam all re - sur-rec - tion of the dead. . . For as in A - dam all re - sur-rec - tion of the dead. . . For as in A - dam all pp Organ silent.

die, for as in A - dam all die, e'en so in die, for as in A - dam all die, e'en so in die, for as in A - dam all die, e'en so in die, for as in A - dam all die, e'en so in ff

Christ shall all . . . be made a - live, e'en so in Christ shall all, . . . shall

Christ shall all . . . be made a - live, e'en so in Christ shall all, . . . shall

Christ shall all . . . be made a - live, e'en so in Christ shall all, . . . shall

Christ shall all . . . be made a - live, e'en so in Christ shall all, . . . shall ff

all be made . . . a - live.

all be made . . . a - live.

all be made . . . a - live.

all be made . . . a - live.

Tempo 1mo.

But now is Christ ri - sen, but

But now is Christ ri - sen, but

But now is Christ ri - sen, but

But now is Christ ri - sen, but

But now is Christ ri - sen, but

Tempo 1mo.

rit.

now is Christ ri-sen, but now is Christ ri-sen from . . the dead, but now, . . . but now is Christ ri-sen, but now is Christ ri - sen . . from the dead, but now is Christ ri-sen, but now is Christ ri-sen, but now is Christ ri - sen from the dead, but now, . . . but now is Christ ri-sen, but now is Christ ri - sen from the dead, but now is Christ ri-sen, but now is Christ ri-sen, but now, . . . but now is Christ ri-sen from the dead, and be - now, . . . but now is Christ ri-sen, but now is Christ ri - sen from the dead, and be - now is Christ ri-sen, but now, . . . but now is Christ ri - sen from the dead, and be - now, . . . but now is Christ ri-sen, but now is Christ ri - sen from the dead, and be -

- come the first - fruits, and be - come . . . the first - fruits of them
- come . . . the first - fruits, and be - come the first - fruits of them
- come . . . the first - fruits, and be - come the first - fruits of them
- come . . . the first - fruits, and be - come the first - fruits of them that slept. A - - - men.

that slept. A - - - men.
that slept. A - - - men.
that slept. A - - - men.

NOVELLO'S EDITION.

THE

MAY QUEEN

A PASTORAL

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

HENRY F. CHORLEY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

SIR W. STERNDALE BENNETT.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS.

LONDON :

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.,

1, BERNERS STREET (W.), AND 80 & 81, QUEEN STREET (E.C.)

devoted his chief energies in this direction; he also, like his contemporary Hasse, both acted and sang in his own works. The Cantata under notice, however, is considered to be his greatest composition. It was published in 1760 at Leipzig, and has enjoyed a popularity which has been denied to many works of at least equal value. Its chief merit lies most undoubtedly in the choruses, which are grand, effective, and easy to execute. Some of the subjects are, however, strangely familiar to musicians who are versed in the music of the period, and yet are strangers to the works of Graun. The solos are exceedingly long, florid, and of high range, written to satisfy the ambition of voices of the most flexible nature, and therefore unfitted for the service of the Church at penitential seasons. These arias can, however, be omitted without the least detriment to the narrative. The work then would be of very moderate length, and might be sung with great effect by most choirs indulging in anthems. The original words are by Ramler, and the Rev. J. Troutbeck has been very successful with the English adaptation.

Much praise is due to the organist, Mr. Marcellus Higgs, and the choir of S. Gabriel's Church, Pimlico, for having brought this most interesting work to a successful hearing for, we believe, the first time in London. The choruses were sung by a well-balanced and well-marshalled choir of about 60 voices, and the accompaniments were cleverly played on the organ by the conductor's son, Mr. H. M. Higgs. The soprano solos were entrusted to a little boy, who sang with much ease and skill; and the tenor and bass solo music was equally fortunate in having exponents who never seemed to lose sight of the devotional part of their respective tasks. From a musical point of view the service was, in every department, most praiseworthy, while the reverent behaviour of the congregation was ample proof, if proof is necessary, that these services are doing a good work when they are conducted, as in the present instance, in a manner befitting the solemnity of the occasion.

ON the 15th ult. an illustrated lecture on English Glee Writers was delivered by Mr. W. A. Barrett, Mus. Bac., Oxon., in the theatre of the London Institution, Finsbury Circus, which was thronged by an appreciative audience. In his opening remarks Mr. Barrett pointed out that the glee is especially an English production. The word did not necessarily mean either joy or mirth or gaiety; and glees were found to be described by old musicians as serious, humorous, pastoral, elegiac, or cheerful, according to the nature of the words. The first illustration—"Sumer is icumen in"—was probably of the date of about 1250, and was at least 200 years earlier than anything of the kind produced out of England. This ancient glee, consisting of two quaint verses, with the original spelling, was then sung, and received with loud applause. Among the other illustrations were "The Nightingale," the music being that of Thomas Weelkes, 1578-1644; "The Silver Swan," the music Orlando Gibbons's, 1583-1625, the words Sir Christopher Hatton's; "Turn Amaryllis," the music Thomas Brewer's, 1609-76; "Which is the properest day to drink?" words as well as music being Dr. Arne's; "When winds breathe soft," music and words being Samuel Webbe's, 1740-1816; Milton's "Blest pair of Sirens," the music John Stafford Smith's, 1750-1826; "The Cough and Crow," the music Henry Rowley Bishop's, the words Joanna Baillie's, this being the only glee encored; Ossian's "Hymn to the Sun," the words J. Logan's, the music Sir John Goss's; and—this being the last of the series—"When Allan-a-Dale went a Hunting," both music and words being R. L. De Pearsall's. The glees were introduced by interesting remarks respecting the composer or the character of his works. The vocalists were Mrs. Suter and Miss Baxter, soprani; Mr. Hodges and Mr. Sexton, alti; Messrs. Coates, Thornton, Moss, Stokoe, and Becket, tenori; and Messrs. Winn, De Lacy, Horscroft, Wilton, and Lewis Thomas, bassi. Mr. Burnham Horner was the accompanist.

THE second concert of the Borough of Hackney Choral Association for the present season was given at the Town Hall, Shoreditch, on the 12th ult., under the direction of Mr. Ebenezer Prout, the newly appointed Conductor, whose efforts in promoting a taste for the highest class music in this locality were again evidenced in the selection of the programme. The performance of Mendelssohn's music to "Athalie," which occupied the first part, would have done credit to any choir in existence, the voices in the choral portions being most evenly balanced, and the shades of expression observed throughout with an accuracy which proved not only the care but the intelligence with which every chorus had been studied. The solos were charmingly rendered by Misses Marian Williams, Geddes, and Bolingbroke, all students of the Royal Academy of Music, applause being elicited more especially for the parts which demanded the highest artistic qualifications. We have rarely heard the illustrative verses so eloquently and effectively recited as by Mr. Charles E. Fry, who on this occasion, for the first time in our recollection, thoroughly roused the audience to an audible acknowledgment of the true place of the narrator in Mendelssohn's glowing musical picture. The second part included a selection from Schubert's music to "Rosamunde," the melodious Romance, "The full moon rises," being excellently sung by Miss Marian Williams; and the orchestral pieces being so delicately rendered as to cause a desire for the repetition of some, a wish which we are glad to say the Conductor refused to comply with. We must not neglect to mention that Mr. Winn gave a fine reading of Handel's "Honour and arms," and that Auber's spirited Overture "Marco Spada" was capitally performed to a shuffling accompaniment of those desirous of leaving the hall, by no means creditable to the Hackney audience. Mr. Prout conducted with his usual ability.

THE prospectus of the Philharmonic Society for the present season announces but little novelty; yet for those who are content with repetitions of the standard works the concerts will no doubt be of the usual amount of interest. Brahms's new Symphony in C will, however, be performed for the first time in London; and we are also promised a Symphony by Silas which has never yet been heard. The prospectus likewise includes Mozart's Concerto for harp and flute (first time at these concerts) and the third part of Schumann's music to "Faust." Nothing new is promised by our own countrymen; but Mr. J. F. Barnett's descriptive orchestral piece, "The Lay of the Last Minstrel," Mr. Sullivan's Overture, "In Memoriam," and Professor Macfarren's Violin Concerto are to be given during the season. Mr. W. G. Cousins retains his post as Conductor, and the analytical and historical programmes will continue to be written by Professor Macfarren.

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED's refined and amusing entertainment has undergone a partial change of programme during the past month. In addition to "Matched and Mated," which still retains its place in the bills, a new sketch by Mr. Corney Grain, entitled "Spring's Delights," and an afterpiece, called "A Night Surprise," written by Mr. West Cromer, music by Mr. German Reed, are likely to be very attractive. In "Spring's Delights" Mr. Grain most amusingly depicts the annoyances which Mr. Beethoven Brown is subjected to by the workmen who have invaded his house for the purpose of painting and decorating. This is one of Mr. Grain's happiest efforts, and is worked out with consummate skill. "A Night Surprise" affords room for much merriment, and by the charming singing of Miss Fanny Holland, Miss Leonora Braham, and Mr. Grain, and the clever acting of Mr. Alfred Reed and Mr. Law, the piece is sure to prove a great success.

ON the 3rd ult. an entertainment under the direction of Mr. Fitzhenry was given at the Birkbeck Institution by the Violin Class. The vocalists were Miss Rosa Campbell, Miss Ada Coleman, Miss Orridge, Mr. A. Lawrence, and Mr. Gerard Henry, all of whom gave great satisfaction in their several solos, many of which were encored. The Violin Class played an "Andante moderato" (Challoner), and a selection of Scotch airs, specially arranged by S. Jarvis, with excellent effect. Miss Lina Campbell performed a piano-forte solo, and also took part in a duet with Mr. S. Jarvis; and Mr. T. Gatehouse contributed a violin solo, being afterwards joined by Miss Gatehouse in a duet for violin and pianoforte. A reading by Mr. C. Rendle was received with great applause, and Mr. S. Jarvis rendered good service as accompanist. The audience was very large and enthusiastic.

On Thursday the 8th inst. the University of Cambridge will confer the degree of Doctor of Music upon Professor Joachim. The 150th Concert of the Cambridge University Musical Society will be given in the Guildhall on the same evening, the programme of which will comprise Brahms's new Symphony in C minor, the same composer's "Song of Destiny," a ms. overture by Herr Joachim, composed expressly for the occasion, Sir Sterndale Bennett's Overture "The Wood Nymphs," and Beethoven's Violin Concerto, which will be performed by the hero of the day. So graceful a mark of recognition to an artist whose right to the highest degree that can be granted has already been confirmed by the world, will no doubt attract a large number of professors and amateurs from the metropolis.

At the sale of Mr. Lamborn Cock's copyrights on the 20th and 21st ult. the following prices were realised for the more important lots: Sir W. Sterndale Bennett's works—"May Queen," £1875 (Novello); Twelve Songs, Op. 23 and 35, £597 6s. (Novello); Pianoforte Works, £536 (J. Williams). Beethoven's Works, edited by Sir W. Sterndale Bennett, £250 (Ashdown and Parry). Classical Practice for the Pianoforte, £34 (Novello); Sir J. Benedict's "Undine," £73 (L. Cock); Pissuti's Six Two-part Songs, £176 (Novello); Modern Four-part Songs, £177 (L. Cock); Chamber Trios, £800 (Ashdown and Parry); Sir M. Costa's "Naaman," £710 (J. Williams). The catalogue comprised 379 lots, and produced a total of £8,254 3s. 2d.

THE first of Messrs. Carrodus and Edward Howell's three Quartett Concerts was given at Langham Hall on the 6th ult. before a highly appreciative audience. Assisted by Mr. V. Nicholson and Mr. Doyle, Beethoven's Quartett in G (Op. 18) was excellently rendered; and every praise must be given for the solo playing of the concert-givers, Mr. Carrodus performing with much accuracy and finish Bach's difficult Chaconne—made so popular by Herr Joachim—and Mr. Howell being heard to much advantage in Boccherini's Sonata in G. The vocalist was Mr. E. Lloyd, who received well-merited applause in Loder's Serenade, "Wake, my love" and Gounod's "Maid of Athens." Mr. W. H. Thomas was an able accompanist.

THE St. George's Glee Union monthly concert took place at the Pimlico Rooms on Friday the 2nd ult., when Mr. George Fox's Cantata, "The Jackdaw of Rheims," was given with great success. The soloists were Miss Bessie Spear, Miss White, Mr. Jno. Williams, and Mr. Theodore Distin; harmonium, Mr. Granville; pianoforte, Miss Ellen Bliss; conductor, Mr. J. Monday. The miscellaneous part included part-songs, some of which were excellently rendered, and a good selection of vocal solos. Miss Ada May, a very youthful pianist, made a successful first appearance. Mr. Garside conducted with his usual ability.

THE excellent Chamber Concerts of Herr Hermann Franke, given in the concert room of the Royal Academy of Music, have been amongst the legitimate attractions of the past month. The programmes have included not only standard works, but some few which have not won their way into popular favour; and although we can scarcely think that the Quintett for pianoforte and strings, by Carl Grädener, which was performed at the final concert, will aid the composer in establishing a reputation in this country, we are, nevertheless, indebted to Herr Franke for bringing it to our notice.

MR. ERNST PAUER commenced a series of lectures on the 6th ult. at the South Kensington Museum, the subjects of which are of the highest interest both to teachers and pupils. The experience of a professor occupying so distinguished a position upon the art of imparting musical instruction is of the utmost value; and not only his remarks upon the method of practising, the choice of music, &c., were listened to by a large audience with much interest, but his excellent performance of a selection of pieces specially adapted for students elicited the warmest applause.

MR. CHARLES E. TINNEY gave a very successful concert at Langham Hall on the 17th ult. The vocalists were Miss Kate Brand, Miss Leonora Braham, Miss Orridge, Messrs. H. Seligman, H. Guy, Louis Oswald, W. Curtis, and C. E. Tinney. Miss Isabel Thurgood contributed two pianoforte solos, and Mr. Sidney A. Tinney performed a solo on the flageolet. Several compositions by the concert-giver met with an enthusiastic reception, and he received an encore for his singing of "Nancy Lee." Miss Orridge also was much applauded in her solos. Mr. Eaton Fanning conducted.

THE attendances at the series of Concertina Concerts now being given by Mr. Richard Blagrove at the Royal Academy of Music thoroughly prove that his appeal to the lovers of an instrument which has only recently been brought prominently into notice has been liberally responded to. The programmes are excellent—containing important works by Mozart, Haydn, Spohr, Mendelssohn, &c.—and during the ten concerts will be produced original compositions by Professor Macfarren and E. Silas. The first concert took place on the 25th January.

THE Organ Recitals at the Bow and Bromley Institute have during the past month attracted large audiences. We are glad to record the highly successful result of this attempt to provide evenings of classical organ-music for the residents of this locality, and we feel sure that, whilst the execution of the works is entrusted to such artists as Dr. Spark, of Leeds, Dr. Chipp, of Ely, and Mr. W. Rea, of Newcastle—all of whom have recently appeared—there will be no diminution in the attendance at the performances.

MISS EDITH M. MIDDLETON gave her Annual Concert at the Shoreditch Town Hall, on Thursday the 1st ult. Miss Middleton played a duet in conjunction with Herr Rydl, for piano and violin, a duet for two pianos with Mr. George Forbes, and a trio with that gentleman and her pupil, Miss Miles, all of which were given with precision and taste. Miss Middleton also contributed several solos. The following vocal artists appeared: Miss Annie Sinclair, Miss Pauline Featherby, and Signor Caravaglia. Mr. George Forbes conducted with his usual ability.

THE recent death of Mr. George Tolhurst, which occurred somewhat suddenly at Barnstaple, North Devon, has painfully shocked the many who knew and respected him as an able musician and an earnest worker in his art. Although a prolific composer, his Oratorio "Ruth" is the work which has been brought most prominently before the public, and upon the publication of this composition in a popular form, we understand, he was busily engaged up to the time of his decease.

FOUR concerts are announced to be given by Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir during the present season, the first (consisting of sacred and secular music) taking place on the 2nd inst. The director's benefit is advertised for the 28th June, when Mr. Sims Reeves (if in England), Mr. Santley, and other eminent vocalists are to be engaged. In the course of the season glees will be sung by Miss Orridge, R.A.M., Mr. G. Cosby, and Mr. F. A. Bridge.

THE first of a series of Scottish Concerts, given by Mr. Duncan Finlay took place at the Store Street Hall on the 15th ult. The vocalists were Miss F. Clyde, Madame Pennington, Miss Orridge, Miss L. Eliot, Mr. Snazelle, Mr. Lackner, and Mr. Duncan Finlay; Mr. T. MacLagan and Herr Polonaski (solo violin), and Miss M. Montgomery (solo pianoforte). The audience was large, and the efforts of the performers much appreciated. Mr. J. T. Mew, R.A.M., was the accompanist.

WE regret to hear that the Liverpool Musical Society, which has done so much to spread a knowledge of the highest class of compositions in the town, has ceased to exist. The heavy liabilities incurred in placing Oratorios before the public in a thoroughly complete and effective manner has led to a result which we understand has long been foreseen.

ON Tuesday the 6th ult. an excellent concert was given by St. Stephen's Choral Society, at Shepherd's Bush, the work performed being Handel's "Messiah." Signor Dinelli conducted. The choruses were taken with a precision and boldness of attack worthy of great praise, and the solos were very well sung by the members of the Society.

WE understand that upwards of a hundred gentlemen have signified their willingness to act as stewards for the Three Choirs Festival which will be held in Gloucester about the second week in September. Mr. C. Harford Lloyd, cathedral organist, will succeed the late Dr. Wesley as musical director.

AN Amateur Concert on behalf of the choirs of All Souls' and St. Paul's was given under distinguished patronage, at Langham Hall, on the 8th ult., when an attractive programme was well rendered by the ladies and gentlemen who gave their services on the occasion. Mr. Millar was the Conductor.

VERDI'S Requiem Mass was performed at the Royal Albert Hall on the 19th ult. The principals announced were Madame Lemmens-Sherrington, Miss Anna Williams, Mr. E. Lloyd, and Signor Foli; Dr. Stainer being the organist and Mr. Barnby conductor.

AT the Students' Concert at the Royal Academy of Music, on the 24th ult., a new Cantata for female voices, "The Fishermaidens," by Henry Smart, was announced for performance.

BACH'S "Passion" (S. Matthew) will be performed as a special service in Worcester Cathedral during Passion week. This work is also being sung every Thursday evening in Lent at St. Luke's, Shepherd's Bush.

HANDEL'S Oratorio "Solomon" will be performed by the Liverpool Philharmonic Society on the 13th inst., under the conductorship of Sir Julius Benedict.

REVIEWS.

Mass in E flat. By J. N. Hummel. In Vocal Score. Edited and the Pianoforte Accompaniment arranged by Berthold Tours.

Communion Service, in E flat. By J. N. Hummel. The English Adaptation by the Rev. J. Troutbeck, M.A. Edited and the Pianoforte Accompaniment arranged by Berthold Tours. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

IN reviewing Hummel's third Mass in D (in the MUSICAL TIMES of last June), some general remarks were made on the composer's style in Church music. It will be unnecessary now to repeat what was there said; especially as nearly all the observations made with regard to the Mass in D will equally apply to the second Mass, now under notice. We find in this work the same melodious flow of ideas, the same beautiful artistic finish, as in its companion. The absolute genius which shines in the sacred inspirations of the great triad of composers—Haydn, Mozart, and Beethoven—is wanting here; but except in this respect Hummel's music leaves nothing to desire; and if we exclude from our repertoire all works to which the term "inspirations" cannot be fairly applied, we shall greatly restrict our sources of musical enjoyment.

The "Kyrie" of the "Mass in E flat" is a movement of considerable development. After four bars of prelude for the orchestra, the solo quartett enters with sustained chords on the word "Kyrie" piano, which are immediately taken up and continued by the chorus. Through the whole of this first half of the movement the alternations of solos and tutti are continued, and the graceful phrases of the voice-parts are set off by many happy details of orchestration. After a half close on D, the dominant of G minor, the four bars of prelude with which the Mass commenced are repeated; but they now lead to a fine though not very long fugue, the subject of which is announced by the basses, and which is accompanied nearly throughout by quaver passages for the strings. The close of the movement is very novel. After the bass four bars of the chorus have been given without accompaniment, the orchestra enters with what would be expected to be the final symphony; but in the next bar the solo quartett is introduced, and the "Kyrie" ends, as it began, with solo voices. This movement is certainly one of the best portions of the Mass.

The "Gloria" opens with a broad and vigorous chorus, somewhat conventional in pattern, and reminding us, though without actual reminiscences, of similar movements in Haydn's Masses. It leads at once into the quartett and chorus "Qui tollis." Hummel is generally very successful in the quieter and more pathetic portions of the Mass, and the present number is no exception. Among the more striking features of this movement may be named the entry of the solo quartett in F flat (p. 21, bar 1), and the charming passage, also for solo voices, at the beginning of the next page. The "Quoniam" begins with the resumption of the theme of the "Gloria," leading to a masterly fugue on two subjects for the "Cum Sancto Spiritu," worked at considerable length, and concluding with a very spirited coda.

The "Credo" commences with a chorus in the not very usual tempo of $\frac{3}{4}$ —a flowing movement with abundance of skilful points of imitation. At the "Et incarnatus" we find another very beautiful slow movement. The introductory symphony, with an expressive oboe solo, leads to a duet for tenor and bass, with long sustained notes in the voice parts which require fine singing to produce their full effect. The chorus enters at the "Crucifixus," and is subsequently combined with the two solo voices. The whole of this number is extremely fine, but a minute description would be unintelligible without quotations. The "Et resurrexit" brings back the time and rhythm of the "Credo." The long passage for the solo quartett at "Et in spiritum" is very melodious; and on the words "Qui locutus est" the solos and chorus are combined in a somewhat novel manner (pp. 54, 55 of the score). The "Et vitam" is, as usual, treated fugally, but with a curious innovation: much of the fugue is really only in two parts (though with a free accompaniment for orchestra), as the tenor doubles the soprano, and the bass the alto, in the octave below.

The "Sanctus" presents no special features, but the "Benedictus," in G major (quartett and chorus), is one of the most pleasing numbers. In its style it reminds one of Mozart, while the manner in which the solos and chorus are combined would seem to suggest that Hummel had taken a hint from the corresponding movement of Beethoven's Mass in C. The "Agnus Dei," in C minor, is good, without being particularly new, and the "Dona" consists of a short introduction and a fugue, the subject of which is the same already used in the "Kyrie," though the treatment is different. The device of giving unity to the whole work by repeating at the end of the Mass the subject of the first movement is one which has been several times adopted by composers; as examples may be named Mozart's Mass in C (No. 1), Beethoven in C, and Schubert in F.

It is only needful to add that in the English version of the work, the text has been adapted, with his usual well-known skill, by Mr. Troutbeck.

Jonah. A Sacred Cantata, composed by J. V. Roberts, Mus. Doc., Oxon. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

WHENEVER we receive a composition for review from the pen of a "Mus. Doc.," containing choruses in eight real parts, we usually arrive at the conclusion that we have before us the composer's exercise for his degree, simply because we think very few musicians are enthusiastic enough to take the trouble to write a piece with eight-part choruses unless they have some special reason for doing so. In a large number, we might almost say in the large majority, of cases, such exercises are as dry as they are clever—which is frequently saying a good deal. It is therefore much to the credit of Dr. Roberts that he has produced a work which is not merely excellently written, but really interesting, and which we have read with much pleasure. There is no very decided originality of style about it; here and there we find a passing trace of the influence of Mendelssohn; but except in the two bars of symphony commencing the recitative, No. 5 (which are singularly like the opening of the recitative "The Lord hath exalted thee," in "Elijah") we have met with no direct imitation; and the coincidence in the case we have noted is probably accidental. The Cantata contains twenty-one numbers, consisting of an overture, six choruses (four of which are in eight parts), a chorale (also in eight parts), a quartett, seven recitatives, and five airs. Among the movements which we like best are the choruses "Let us eat, friends, and drink," and "Who can stand before His indignation," and the songs "Whither shall I go from Thy spirit?" "Sing, O daughter of Zion," and "The Lord is righteous." The final chorus, "There is joy in the presence of the angels," is also extremely well written; but it suffers from too much similarity of rhythm to the first chorus in the work. The part-writing and harmony are throughout very good; and, so far as can be judged from the indications in the pianoforte accompaniment, the orchestration appears very judicious. We consider Dr. Roberts's Cantata decidedly above the average of compositions written as exercises for a degree, and congratulate him upon its production.

A Short Festal Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, in the key of E flat. By George Garrett, Mus. Doc. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

MANY of our readers will, like ourselves, be familiar with Dr. Garrett's Church music. To them no recommendation of a new Service from his pen will probably be required; but for the sake of such as may not be acquainted with his previous publications, it may be well to say that he is one of those musicians, unfortunately not too numerous, who know how to combine modern forms with the old spirit. In the present Service will be found no mere reproduction of the "cut and dried" cathedral style of two centuries ago; but though the music is by no means old-fashioned in style, it is never secular. Many modern writers of Church Services commit the mistake of making "part-songs" of the canticles, or, if they avoid this error, they give instead a mere series of chords, which resemble nothing so much as the exercises of a student in thorough-bass. The large number of sacred compositions sent to us for review, but which terminate their career in the waste-paper basket, mostly find their way into that much-frequented depository for sinning in one of these two respects. Dr. Garrett, happily, steers clear of both faults. There is plenty of tune in his music; it is certainly not dry, and on the other hand it is never trivial or undignified. It has the further recommendation of not being difficult: any average choir can manage it without trouble. We recommend it heartily.

The Birth of Christ. A Service of Sacred Song. Compiled by the Rev. Gus. M. Burton, M.D. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE idea of this little service is unfortunately far superior to its execution. It consists of a selection of hymn-tunes, chants, and anthems, with two organ voluntaries, designed to be sung in church and interspersed with the reading of passages of Scripture. If the present service is ever performed in our neighbourhood we hope we shall not be within earshot. It contains nine psalm-tunes (four of which are composed by Dr. Burton), three chants and a collect (also from the pen of that gentleman), two anthems (by Messrs. J. H. Greenwood and J. Ives), and two voluntaries. The only good things in the book (except a recitative by Handel, of which we shall speak directly) are the five psalm-tunes which are not by Dr. Burton; all the rest of the music is, to a greater or less degree, trash. Dr. Burton's own compositions are comparatively harmless, though they are clumsily harmonised, and bear, so to speak, the word "Amateur" written in large letters across every one of them. But if Dr. Burton chastises us with whips, Messrs. Greenwood and Ives chastise us with scorpions. It is long since we met with anything worse than their two anthems. Mr. Greenwood has set the words, "O thou that tellest," &c., and, with remarkable modesty, has prefixed Handel's recitative, "Behold a virgin shall conceive," to his own music. He appears to have considered a preliminary study of harmony altogether superfluous; so many glaring faults we have seldom met with in the same number of bars. But we beg Mr. Ives's pardon; we are doing him an injustice, for he fairly rivals his colleague; and if we were forced to say which anthem was the worse, we should be sorely puzzled in deciding. The two voluntaries are two atrocious mutilations and distortions of Handel's choruses, "Glory to God," and "For unto us." If a service of song is to be of any use at all, it must be much better than this one.

The Souls of the Righteous. Anthem for All Saints' Day. By Charles L. Williams, Mus. Bac., Oxon., Organist of Llandaff Cathedral. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THIS composition opens with a short septett, containing some good part-writing, though Mr. Williams (evidently by a slip of the pen) has given consecutive fifths in the last two chords between second tenor and second bass. A soprano solo, "In the sight of the unwise," is followed by a five-part chorus, interspersed with passages for solo voices on the same words. The music is throughout interesting, and by no means very difficult. The only thing likely to be prejudicial to its popularity is the fact of its having two tenor parts throughout. Many choirmasters know only too well how difficult it is to get this department of a choir adequately filled.

A New Method for the Piano. After the "Klavier-unterrichts-briefe" of Aloys Hennes. Second Course. Translated by H. Mannheimer. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

WE have already noticed the First Course of this well-digested work, and are bound to acknowledge that in the Second Course, now before us, the author pursues his plan so steadily and logically as to defy any criticism save upon the plan itself. The directions for the students are carefully written throughout; the lessons are excellently suited for their purpose; and the thought exercised upon the minutest point merits the warmest commendation. Our only question is whether the pupil will not get utterly weary of his journey before he gets half through it. It is true that the mind will not be burdened with too much at a time; but there is a possibility of carrying this method of instruction too far; and when we say that it is not until the commencement of this "Second Course" of the book that any information is given about the bass clef, or indeed about any clef at all, we are certain that many eminent teachers will agree with us in questioning the policy of so long a silence upon a matter of such importance. Our opinion—formed upon many years of experience—is that pupils have but small trouble in learning the treble and bass notes at once; and that from the moment the hands are placed upon the keys, the two clefs should be read simultaneously. To dismiss all possible objection that we feel it our duty to urge against Herr Hennes's method, we may also say that we cannot agree with the system recommended for counting the dotted note, on page 128. A bar is given containing a group of four quavers—G, A, G, A—and a minim—G; and we are told that when each of the quavers is dotted, and followed by a semi-quaver, we play "G to one; A shortly before two, and immediately afterwards upon counting two, the G which follows." Quite true; but the great difficulty is to know when we are to count "two." In truth, the portion requiring to be counted is the space between "one" and "two," and then the "two" will take care of itself. The place of the semiquaver is not in the slightest degree determined by saying that it is to be played "shortly before two," unless we can feel when to count "two," and this can only be done by halving each beat and counting one, and two, and, when every note must be placed in its correct position. In conclusion, we must give Herr Mannheimer every credit for the able manner in which he has translated the work, the value of which, as we have hinted in our review of the "First Course," is attested by such high authorities as to render further criticism, we should imagine, almost superfluous.

Six Short and Easy Sketches for the Pianoforte. Compiled by H. A. Harding. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THESE Sketches are certainly both "short" and "easy;" but, fully recognising the difficulty of making such trifles also interesting, we feel the necessity of not being over-critical in noticing their merits. Unquestionably they are the work of a trained musician, for the writing is careful and conscientious throughout; and there is sufficient variety in character to allow of their being played straight through without creating any feeling of monotony. Of the six, we prefer Nos. 1 and 4, both of which contain some exceedingly good points.

Rose softly blooming. Romance by L. Spohr. Transcribed for the Pianoforte by Franz Liszt. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THERE are two distinct kinds of "Transcriptions"—one written for the purpose of displaying the power of the transcriber, and the other for that of revealing the beauty of the theme transcribed. We cannot say that the artist who has, in the piece before us, undertaken to adapt Spohr's charming melody for the pianoforte has always aimed at producing a work which should be placed in the latter of these two classes, but assuredly he has in this instance performed his task with the utmost reverence, and, without adding undue ornaments or writing a single passage not in keeping with the placidity of the subject, has rendered Spohr's song as attractive to pianists as it has ever been to vocalists. To play this transcription as it should be played a most refined touch and power of producing every shade of expression are positively essential; but it is thoroughly within the reach of every well-trained performer, a merit which, although a strong recommendation in what is termed a "teaching piece," cannot be mentioned as a characteristic of many "Transcriptions" by a pianist to whom mechanical difficulties are merely child's-play. We conscientiously commend this composition to the attention of all masters who desire that their pupils shall cultivate the art of singing with the fingers.

Voyage autour de ma Chambre. Cinq Morceaux Caractéristiques, pour Piano. Par Stephen Heller.

[Forsyth Brothers.]

THERE can be little doubt that each of Mendelssohn's "Lieder ohne worte" is expressive of some certain train of thought in the mind of the composer when he wrote it; but as he purposely published them all without titles, we are left to imagine anything we please when performing them; and that opinions slightly differ upon their meaning may be proved by the fact of the same number having been described by one as a "Drinking Song," and by another as a "Funeral March." But Stephen Heller calls his pieces "Characteristic," and this leads us to the inquiry as to what modern German music is really tending to. Setting aside the feeling, which is strong within us, that compositions are somewhat degraded by the attempt to describe a definite idea in an indefinite language, it certainly becomes difficult to record the success or failure of a "characteristic" piece unless we know what "character" it is intended to represent. "Voyage autour de ma Chambre" would do as well as anything else for a running title; but if we are to consider each composition in a collection like this as a musical enigma, to be guessed or "given up" by the performer, then we think the sooner we return to the system of allowing a piece to stand or fall by its own merits, the better will it be for the progress of healthy art. Apart from these considerations, the Sketches before us will be welcomed with pleasure by every intellectual pianist. The five pieces are divided into two Books, two being contained in the first, and three in the second, Book. As may be expected from those acquainted with the "Nuits Blanches" and "Promenades d'un Solitaire" of the same composer, they are instinct with a poetical feeling which must be shared by the executant in order to do them full justice. No. 1 has a quaint principal subject, which is toyed with, as if the author were loth to quit it; but there is so much variety in its treatment, and the subordinate themes are so winning, that the eight pages to which the composition extends produce no sense of weariness. No. 2, however, is our favourite; but we are by no means disposed to believe that our opinion will be shared by the majority of pianists, for it is scarcely as popular in character as No. 1. It has a light tripping subject, written in 6.16 instead of 6.8, in deference, we presume, to the absurd notion that triplets of semiquavers must necessarily be played faster than triplets of quavers. The movement is full of life throughout, a good effect being gained in the passages marked Appassionato, by the syncopations in the right hand, against the even triplets in the left. No. 3 is a movement full of interest; but Nos. 4 and 5 will, we think, be generally preferred, the former having a gracefully melodious subject, which is doubled almost throughout with the left hand, and accompanied with holding notes. The pieces are carefully edited and fingered by Mr. Charles Hallé.

Spring; Characteristic Sketch for the Pianoforte. By Charles Edward Stephens.

La Gondolella; Canzone per il Piano. Da Giulio Gardini. [W. G. Hallifax and Co.]

By the composition of many works of a higher class Mr. Stephens has fairly earned his right to claim attention for his holiday trifles; and amongst the best of these may be placed the graceful little Sketch before us. The light melodious subject upon which it is based is happily descriptive of the title, and we should therefore have preferred to find out the "characteristic" nature of the music for ourselves. The obstinate appoggiatura, after each arpeggio, gives much point to the theme; and the refined nature of the passages, all of which lie well under the hand of young players, should render the piece highly attractive both to teachers and pupils. We shall be glad to welcome more of such "Sketches" from so accomplished a pen. The composer of "La Gondolella" will not be surprised when we tell him that his clever little piece very much resembles many which we could mention, because he must know that it is extremely difficult to strike out anything original in the "Barcarolle" style; but he has woven in a charming little melody to a figure in the bass which has almost become common property with those who adopt the conventional form of the Gondolier's song. It would be good to mark "Stesso tempo" where the time changes from 6.8 to 2.4; for although it is evident that the composer wishes the bars carried on in two twos, instead of two threes, we doubt whether amateurs will understand this without such direction. The unobtrusive manner in which the principal subject is handled throughout, and the effective little coda with which the piece concludes, deserve much commendation, for to produce effect by simple means is the unfailing sign of a real artist.

Time and the Stream. Song. Words by Maria X. Hayes. Music by Edwin Harper. [Chappell and Co.]

THIS song has a vocal and melodious subject, with an unpretentious accompaniment, the harmonies being in no place overstrained or out of keeping with the feeling of the words. We especially like the modulation into D minor at the eighth bar, and also the phrase at the conclusion of the first verse. Without claiming any high position for the composition, we may say that it is a good specimen of a healthy English ballad.

Grand March for the Organ, composed by Hamilton Clarke (Novello and Co.), is a spirited piece, which will be found suitable either for a voluntary or for an organ recital. It is judiciously written, so that it can easily be played on a moderate-sized instrument, and is commendably free from undue difficulty. We direct the attention of organists to it as a piece worth their knowing.

Grand Solemn March for the Organ, by August Moosmair (Novello and Co.), is a piece decidedly out of the ordinary groove. Though not likely to please so much on a first hearing as Mr. Clarke's March just noticed, it has considerable originality, and will repay study.

Romance from "Tannhäuser" and Costa Diva from "Norma", arranged for piano and harmonium (or American Organ) by Eugen Woycke (Edinburgh, Paterson and Sons), are two easy transcriptions of well-known melodies, which will be found useful by harmonium players. The same may be said of E. F. Rimbault's arrangement of "Scotch Melodies" for the Harmonium, Book I. (Same publishers.)

Three Andantes for the Organ, composed by William Pinney (Weekes and Co.), are simple little pieces requiring no detailed notice. They are all flowing and melodious, and very clear in form; and as they present no difficulties to the performer, will be found suitable for organists of only moderate acquirements.

FOREIGN NOTES.

WHATEVER the friends of the imperial régime in France may have to say of the lustre and brilliancy which its patronage imparted to arts and sciences, it certainly cannot be maintained that the cultivation of music has been suffered to fall into neglect under the more austere rule of the Republic. Indeed, we doubt whether the lovers of true art have ever had less reason to complain of a scarcity of performances of sterling music than at the present day. There may have been in the palmy days of the Empire more pomp and ostentation at the opening performances of the Conservatoire, a more brilliant display of the élite of society at the Grand Opéra, more levity and abandon among the audiences whom M. Offenbach first enraptured with the sprightliness and piquancy of his humour—more earnestness in the endeavour to enlarge and generalise the sphere of representations of legitimate art there assuredly was not. The activity exhibited just now in the management of concerts at Paris and in the provinces, and the variety of works of sterling excellence represented in the respective programmes, are truly remarkable. It would lead us too far to mention the numerous soirées, matinées, and occasional concerts, all of more or less interest to the amateur, which have lately taken place in the French capital. The following selection, however, from works which obtained a hearing during the past month at the prominent concert institutions in Paris, which we extract from Le Ménestrel, may serve to give an idea of the character of these representations.

Concerts du Conservatoire.—Choral Symphony (Beethoven); Suite (Bach); Scene from "Armida" (Gluck).

Concerts Populaires.—Symphony, C major (Schumann); Violin Concerto (Beethoven); Symphony, C major (Haydn); Septett (Beethoven); overture, "Freischütz" (Weber); Largo (Handel); "Damnation de Faust, légende dramatique" (Berlioz).

Concerts du Châtelet.—Symphony, C minor (Beethoven); Poème-Symphonique (Saint-Saëns); Danse-Macabre (Saint-Saëns); "Roméo et Juliette, fragments symphoniques" (Berlioz); "Damnation de Faust" (Berlioz).

Association Artistique.—Symphony, "L'Océan" (Rubinstein); Fragments from "Fêtes d'Hébé" (Rameau); Music to "A Midsummer Night's Dream" (Mendelssohn).

Société des Quatuors.—Quartetts by Brahms and Beethoven; Trio (Saint-Saëns).

Société des Quatuors de Beethoven.—Quartetts by Beethoven and Haydn; Quintett by Brahms.

The Minister of Public Instruction and Fine Arts, with a view to further the progress of music, has lately granted various sums to the Concerts Padeloup and Colonne, as well as to several musical Societies, to form a prize-fund for new compositions of excellence. The Journal Officiel announces the decoration with the Cross of the Legion of Honour of M. Victor Massé and M. Victorin Joncières. Nor has it been overlooked to pay to the memory of departed genius that just tribute which it is the privilege of the living to bestow. The inauguration of the monument to Auber, erected in the cemetery of Père-la-Chaise, took place on the 29th of January last, being the ninetieth anniversary of the birth of the composer of "La Muette." There was a large concourse of musical and dramatic artists present to assist at the impressive ceremony. The monument, which has been designed by M. Lefuel, is crowned by the bust of the French composer—due to the chisel of M. Dantan—and bears the inscription of the dates of his birth and decease (in 1871), as well as of the titles of his numerous scores. Prayers having been read by the officiating priest, the overture to "La Muette" was played, and the pupils of the Conservatoire sang the cantique from "Le Domino Noir;" after which appropriate speeches were delivered by M. Chenevières, on behalf of the Minister of Public Instruction; M. Berthault, as Mayor of Caen (Auber's birthplace); M. Ambroise Thomas, as Director of the Conservatoire, and others. The proceedings terminated with the performance of a further selection from the works of the deceased master of the French romantic music-drama. Special performances in commemoration of the day took place at the various operatic institutions of Paris.

A splendid concert-hall, erected at the expense of Madame Erard, was opened at Paris on the 6th of last month with an interesting concert, in which the orchestra of the Conservatoire and several of the leading "stars of song" took part. Madame Erard, the munificent patroness, had herself engaged the whole of the boxes and stalls for the occasion, the proceeds of which—some 3,000 francs—she handed to the President of the "Association of Musical Artists," Baron Taylor, to be applied, in his name, to the benefit of that institution.

The appearance of Mdle. Albani at the Théâtre-Italien continues to be a source of unprecedented good fortune to the managers of that establishment. The sensation created by the Diva in "Linda di Chamounix" and "Lucia" has been most marked, and may be said to have firmly established her reputation among French opera-goers.

M. Faure, who is just now making an operatic tour in the French provinces, has been everywhere most enthusiastically received. During a performance of "Faust" at Nice the whole of the audience rose to applaud the great baritone in his impersonation of the rôle of Mephistopheles, while wreaths and bouquets were showered upon the stage—an ovation generally accorded only to the favourite prime donne.

According to an announcement in L'Entr'acte, the first representation was to have taken place at the Théâtre-Lyrique on the 21st ult. of an opera by M. Saint-Saëns, entitled "Timbre d'Argent," the text by Jules Barbier and Michel Carré.

We read in Le Ménestrel that an important reform is contemplated in musical quarters at Amsterdam. It appears that the orchestral diapason of that city is exceptionally high, a fact which has been for years past a source of inconvenience to singers, and has given rise to numerous complaints on the part of foreign artists during their occasional performances at the local Opera, Madame Christine Nilsson among the number. At a meeting lately convened to discuss the subject, it was decided that immediate steps should be taken for the adoption of the French normal standard.

Le Guide Musical of Bruxelles contains an interesting notice of the first of a series of musical séances which took place at that city on the 19th of January last, given by Herren Franz Rummel (piano) and Ottomar Jokisch (violin), assisted by MM. Davin, Jacobs, and Hamme. The programme included quartetts by Schumann and Brahms, Bruch's violin-concerto, and pianoforte pieces by Chopin and Liszt. The authority just quoted speaks in terms of high praise of the character and excellence of the several performances. Herr Rummel, especially, created a marked impression upon his audience by the exceptional mastery he possesses over his instrument.

The Italian papers mention the death, which lately occurred at Florence, of Pietro Romani, the intimate friend of Rossini. The deceased, who was much esteemed in his day as a singing-master and professor at the Florence Conservatorium, had just completed his eightieth year. It is not generally known, however, that to the modest maestro is due a share of the fame of his illustrious friend; for not only has he assisted in the orchestration of several of Rossini's more important Operas, but to him are ascribed also some of the popular airs contained in the latter, notably that of Bartolo in "Il Barbiere."

The fourteenth concert of the season at the Gewandhaus of Leipzig, which took place on January the 20th, was one of especial interest, through the first performance of a new work by one of the most remarkable among the composers of modern Germany—Herr Johannes Brahms. The composition in question is a Symphony, the first of this class of orchestral tone-pictures which Herr Brahms has written. In the opinion of a correspondent of the Neue Zeitschrift für Musik the first two movements are the best, being written in the true Symphonic character, and worthy of the composer's immediate predecessor, Schumann.

Among the works to be performed during the festival of the Lower Rhine, which will be held this year at Cologne, are mentioned the "Creation," Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, and Verdi's "Requiem." The latter work, it is said, will be conducted by the composer himself.

A "Wagner Exhibition" is being held at Vienna, comprising works of art, pictures, sketches, &c. founded upon and inspired by the creations of the poet-composer of the "art-work of the future." The King of Bavaria has largely contributed to this interesting collection. Societies have been formed at Berlin and Weimar for the maintenance of the periodical performances of the Bayreuth Plays.

As an example of the degree of estimation which the works of Richard Wagner have attained with some of the German critics, we may quote a passage from a letter of the Königsberg correspondent of the Neue Zeitschrift für Musik. After dwelling upon the beneficial reforms effected in the management of the Opera of that town by the new director, Herr Stagemann, the writer continues his report as follows: "One of the first operatic performances was that of Beethoven's 'Fidelio.' It was followed by Mozart's 'Don Giovanni' and 'Figaro.' To the master par excellence, Richard Wagner—I say it with my heart full of joyful emotion—much admiration and enthusiasm was accorded by the audience who listened to the performances of 'Tannhäuser,' 'Lohengrin,' and 'Flying Dutchman.'"

There is no reason to fear, at present, that the memory of great musicians of the past will be neglected, as far as monuments erected in honour of their name can be said to testify to a just appreciation of their worth. Besides the memorial just erected at Paris to Auber, there are just now in contemplation monuments to Felicien David at the French capital, to Beethoven at Vienna, to Marschner at Hanover, to Thalberg at Naples, and to Bach at Eisenach. At Caen, too—the native town of Auber—the Mayor has just opened a subscription for the purpose of erecting a suitable monument to the memory of his illustrious compatriot.

The following instructive example of what we may call the "florid style" of musical criticism, we quote from the South American Mail. In an article on the respective merits of two rival Opera Companies, the writer introduces his subject in this way: "Notwithstanding that comparisons and contrasts are the standards and tests by which public opinion is formed and maintained, and that they constitute a safeguard to hyperbole and exaggeration in the frenzied flights of excitement and enthusiasm, there exists, invariably, a reluctance—if not prominent and pronounced, at least sensible and palpable—to place in salient juxtaposition the merits and virtues of contending artistes! And this reluctance assumes, in the instance of the Ferrari and Toressi Opera Companies, the measure of unfeigned repugnance. Not that a parallel between the claimants to the applause and admiration of the Rio de Janeiro public can suffer by this moral obstacle as existing in our task; for this selfsame feeling to which we allude, far from impeding the due appreciation we are about to bestow, can but enlighten and enhance the criticism by divesting prejudice or prepossession of its substance and mainstay. Thus, we can bring an unbiassed mind to the analysis of the tenor Gayarre. . . ." We fancy we have quoted enough for the purpose of illustration. The London Opera season being close at hand, we think the above extract might furnish useful hints to aspiring critics. The italics, we ought to mention, are our own.

CORRESPONDENCE.

"SMALL NOTES."

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—I fear that Mr. Cleveland Wigan has not read my letter on small notes carefully, or he would have seen that I prove from one of Beethoven's own writings that the composer meant the small note outside the beat; I can, therefore, not agree with him that in the following passage from the C \sharp minor Sonata the small notes should be on the beat:—

Beethoven, in bar b, which is an answer to bar a, clearly shows that in the latter the big G \sharp * ought to fall on the first note of the bass. In all editions I know it is also engraved as above—i.e., the small notes in advance.

I do not see what good Mr. Von Bülow can do in the matter; the question I wish to move is not so much what Mr. Von Bülow, Mr. Cleveland Wigan, I, or anybody else may think on the subject, but that there should be no doubt in the way of rendering small notes. The misfortune is exactly that there should exist several manners of performing them. A painter has an advantage over a musician so far that his works appear as he has done them. If Mr. Von Bülow or Mr. Von anything make editions of Beethoven's Sonatas according to their own fancies, this does not in the least prove how Beethoven wished them to be played. Look, for instance, in the different editions of the classical works, how the metronome marks vary! Is it likely that the composers gave the choice of four or six different tempi to each movement? At the rate things go it will be almost impossible in another twenty years to find an original edition of the great master's works, particularly those written for the piano.

The fashion now is to have a pianist à la mode, cooking up those compositions with his own sauce. I wish another fashion would start to serve the old masters au naturel, correcting simply obvious misprints. Doctors will never agree whether there are ladies with or without "silk mittens."—I am, Sir, yours truly,

ALLEGRO.

Jan. 31, 1877.

THE MENDELSSOHN CONCERT AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—In the Musical Standard report of the above Concert there are some remarks made which, coming from a writer in the position of a musical critic, ought to be commented upon, and not allowed to pass by unnoticed. The article in question is somewhat a lengthy one, but the few following quotations from it will suffice, it being written in the same captious manner throughout.

First, then, it is said, "Mendelssohn is, and always has been, a misjudged man, and the reasons of it are not far to seek. He was a man of much talent and little genius, and was himself a copyist of the first order, or he could not so easily have been copied." To say nothing of the logic of this latter remark, may I ask whom did he copy? Say in his "Lobgesang," his Hebrides overture, Scotch Symphony, &c., &c., and above all his "Elijah,"—this last admitted to be the greatest oratorio since Handel, Bach, and Haydn?

No! on the contrary Mendelssohn is essentially original and individual, as nearly all his works will show. Where, for instance, in the whole range of musical composition will be found one that can excel, in originality, at least, that marvel of his eighteenth year, the overture to "A Midsummer Night's Dream"? I speak as a practical musician, and as such I would be answered.

Again, it is said, "Art was to him a luxury, and had he been born under an unlucky star he would probably never have been a composer." Now it is, of course, well known that Mendelssohn was entirely free from all those hardships of poverty and neglect with which Beethoven, Schubert, and others were so afflicted. But it was these very hardships that drew from them some of their finest productions. So much the more credit then is there to being sung with great spirit and precision. The soloists were Mrs. Muir, Miss Barnett, Mr. A. E. Hooper, and Mr. Alfred Walters, all of whom sang the music allotted them with admirable effect. The second part consisted of a miscellaneous selection, the chief features of which were the part-songs by the Choir, "Cherry Ripe" and Dr. Garrett's "Good Night," the solos in the last being well sung by Mrs. Borton and Mr. Parker. Mr. Lobbett played two violin solos, and Mrs. Borton, Mrs. Fryer, Mr. Hooper, and Mr. Walters contributed solos which were well received. Mr. G. Minson presided at the pianoforte.

CARDIFF.—An Amateur Concert in aid of the Deaf and Dumb Schools, Llandaff, was given on Tuesday evening the 13th ult. in the Assembly Room of the Town Hall. The programme included selections from the works of Mozart, Haydn, Verdi, Donizetti, &c. The vocalists were Miss M. A. Coleman, Miss Ada Abbott, Messrs. F. W. Thomas, J. W. Morris, C. A. Hodge, J. P. Taylor, and G. T. Coleman; the instrumentalists, Miss Lloyd Coleman, pianoforte; Miss Boulton, harp; Mr. F. Terson, violin; and Master L. Strina and Mr. Page, cornets. Mr. M. D. A. Gee accompanied. The programme was judiciously selected.

CATFORD.—On Wednesday evening January 31st the members of the Choral Society gave their second Concert at the St. John's Lecture Hall, which was well filled. The work selected was Smart's Bride of Dunkerron. The part of the Sea Maiden was sung by Miss Mary Davies with exquisite taste. As Dunkerron Mr. Albert James made a very favourable impression on the audience, and Mr. Ward, although suffering from hoarseness, was efficient in the part of the Storm King. The choruses were given with much effect, the training of the choir reflecting great credit on the conductor, Mr. Frederick Stevenson. The second part of the programme was miscellaneous. The accompaniments throughout the evening were well played by Mr. Edward Trotter.

CHESHAM.—The members of the Chesham Choral Society gave a Concert in the Town Hall on the 6th ult., when a programme of popular music was well rendered. The solo vocalists were highly successful, many of the members being encored. A feature of the evening was the excellent manner in which the choruses were rendered.

DEVIZES.—The members of the Amateur Vocal Society gave their first open rehearsal on Monday evening January 29th, at the Town Hall. With the exception of two instrumental duets the programme consisted entirely of choruses and part-songs, given by the whole of the class, consisting of about forty ladies and gentlemen, conducted by Mr. C. Clarke. At the conclusion of the programme the Mayor, John Marsh, Esq., proposed a vote of thanks to the class, to the conductor, Mr. C. Clarke, and the secretary, Mr. J. H. Chandler.

EDINBURGH.—The orchestral Concerts of the Reid Festival, which commenced on the 10th ult., have been, as usual, of exceptional interest, many vocal and instrumental works, new to Scotland, having been introduced. At the third and last concert on the 13th ult. the programme, as usual, commenced with a performance of certain pieces of General Reid's music. Mendelssohn's overture to the Missummer Night's Dream immediately followed the Reid music, and was charmingly given by the band. Schumann's Concerto for piano and orchestra was splendidly played, and Mr. Hallé, in the piano part, was beyond all praise. Beethoven's great Symphony, the C minor, was excellently rendered. Gade's strikingly original overture to Ossian's poems, with which the second part commenced, was a very fine performance, although it did not seem to be much appreciated by the audience. Mr. Hallé played, as piano solos, a Menuetto grazioso and Tambourin, by Gluck, both of which were given with great taste. The last orchestral piece was Sir Herbert Oakeley's "Edinburgh" March, which, though Mendelssohnian in form, is a very original and clever work. The vocalists were Mlle. Friedländer and Signor Foli. Sir Herbert Oakeley is to be congratulated on the success of the Festival.

EVERSHOT.—A very successful Concert was given by the Church Choir on Thursday the 8th ult. in the new schoolrooms. The opening piece was an instrumental selection from Il Trovatore, played by Mrs. Griesbach and Miss Martin, piano; Mr. Martin and Captain Bennett, cornets; and Mr. F. Griesbach, harmonium. Two songs, "The Diver" and "The Bellringer," were effectively sung by Mr. Manley, the organist, the last song obtaining a well-deserved encore. Bishop's glee "Where art thou, beam of light?" was one of the most successful of the choral pieces. A pianoforte duet was contributed by Miss Florence and Miss Louisa Martin, and Mr. and Miss Martin were the vocalists.

FOREST HILL.—The members of the Christ Church Choral Society gave their first Concert on Monday the 29th January. The programme was well arranged, the principal feature in the first part being Mendelssohn's "As the hart pants," the solos in which were well rendered by Madame Clara Suter. The choruses went well, reflecting great credit upon the performers and Mr. John Davis, the conductor. The second part was miscellaneous, including an effective performance of the overtures to Samson and Fi Aro, and three movements from Haydn's Symphony No. 1, by gentlemen amateurs. Mrs. Crump ably presided at the pianoforte.

GREAT MISSENDEN.—Mr. Stone's concert party, assisted by the choir, gave a Concert in the New Schools on Thursday the 1st ult. Miss Rose, Miss Cailing, Miss Reynolds, Miss Powell, Mr. Stone, and Mr. F. Moulder were highly successful in their songs, many being encored. The Concert in every way was a complete success.

HALIFAX.—On Monday the 19th ult. a lecture was given by Dr. Roberts in connection with the Halifax Church Institute, in the Lecture Hall of the Literary and Philosophical Society, the subject being "The History of Modern Music." There was a large and appreciative audience, and the musical illustrations were excellently rendered by the Parish Church Choir, under the direction of Dr. Roberts.

HARBORNE, STAFFORDSHIRE.—The recently formed Choral Union gave its first Concert in the York Street Board School on Friday the 9th ult. The programme was miscellaneous, and consisted of part-songs, glees, &c., the most interesting being Bishop's "Hart and Hind," for men's voices. The part-singing of the choir was very good. Mr. R. Y. Sturges gave two flute solos—a fantasia on Lohengrin, by Bricialdi, and the Adagio and Rondo, Kuhlau, Op. 57, No. 1. Miss Richardson sang "Take back the heart," (Claribel) and "Kathleen Mavourneen" (Crouch). With these exceptions, the whole of the music was rendered by members of the Union. Mr. S. S. Stratton, conductor, played the overture to Le Domino Noir as a piano duet with Miss M. L. Clarke, and L'Italiana in Algieri with Mr. Bolton, Jun. There was a large attendance, and the concert gave great satisfaction.

HASTINGS.—A most successful Concert was given by the members of the Choral Union in the Cambridge Terrace Skating Rink on Tuesday evening the 13th ult., the occasion being the benefit of Dr. Abram, F.C.O., the talented conductor of the Choral Union, when Handel's Oratorio The Messiah was performed. The band and chorus numbered over one hundred performers. The principal vocalists were Miss Agnes Larkcom, Madame Alice Barnett, Mr. Alfred Kenningham, and Mr. Thomas Kempton. Mr. Zerbin led the band. The Oratorio throughout went exceedingly well, and the choruses, especially the "Hallelujah" and "Worthy is the Lamb," were given with fine effect.

HINDLEY, NEAR WIGAN.—A second Organ Recital was most successfully given in St. Peter's Church by Mr. C. D. Mortimer, the organist, on the 7th ult., to a large and appreciative audience. The programme consisted of pieces by Gluck, Mendelssohn, J. S. Bach, Batiste, Gounod, C. H. Rink, and Handel. A pupil of Mr. Mortimer (Mr. T. Twist) also played a solo which reflected great credit on himself and his master. The organ is a large and magnificent instrument, recently erected by Schulze, of Germany, and is considered one of his finest specimens.

LAUNCESTON.—A Concert was given by the choir of St. Mary Magdalene, under the direction of Mr. Dalby, in the Central Rooms, on the evening of the Festival of the Conversion of St. Paul. The attendance was very large, and a balance of £9 4s. was secured for the Organ Repair Fund. The part-singing was especially good, and reflected unmistakably the careful training of the choir. At the close of the Concert a vote of thanks was proposed to Mr. Dalby and the choir.

LEEDS.—A Concert in aid of the funds of All Souls' (Hook Memorial) Church Sunday Schools was given by the members of the Philharmonic Society, at the Albert Hall of the Mechanics' Institute, on the 6th ult., Mr. James Broughton conducting. The principal vocalists were Miss Arthur and Messrs. J. Hamilton Brown, J. W. Green, and Taylor. Mr. Alfred Broughton accompanied on the pianoforte. The first part of the programme consisted of a selection of sacred music, beginning with Mendelssohn's Christus. Miss Arthur sang "With verdure clad" in a very charming manner, and took the solo part in Hummel's Alma Virgo with a confidence justified by her execution and true artistic sense. The second part of the programme commenced with Schubert's "Shepherd's Chorus," and contained other interesting numbers, including a part-song by the conductor and a pianoforte solo by Mr. Alfred Broughton.

LEOMINSTER.—The members of the Choral Society gave their first Concert on Tuesday evening the 13th ult., in the Corn Exchange. Mr. Simeon Dobbs, organist of the Priory Church, was the conductor, and Mrs. G. W. Balls pianist. The valuable services of Mr. Charles Fredericks, of Hereford Cathedral Choir, were secured. The first part of the programme consisted of Romberg's Lay of the Bell, and the second part was miscellaneous. The Concert was a great success.

LIVERPOOL.—The Philharmonic Society at their tenth Concert, on Tuesday the 20th ult., gave an unusually interesting programme; a first part being wholly occupied by Cherubini's Mass in C, No. 4, a work occasionally heard in the services of the Catholic Church, but quite unknown to the habitués of Concerts and Oratorios, "the more's the pity" and we should hail with pleasure an opportunity of hearing the work in London. The Mass is very beautiful and effective, presenting no superlative difficulties to either orchestral or vocal performers. The orchestration is always bright and fresh, but never overwhelming or ponderous, the part-writing, as a matter of course, is pure and singable, much relief and colour being obtained by the employment of a double quartet of soli voices, none of whom are severely taxed, excepting the first soprano, who has some very trying music in the "Laudate." Many of the modulations and effects are very suggestive of Gounod, especially the "Qui tollis." Unfortunately the band parts of two numbers were missing, but the accompaniments were most ably supplied on the organ by Mr. Best. The soli parts were sustained by Mrs. Osgood, Miss De Fonblanque, Mr. W. H. Cummings, Mr. Maybrick, Miss Green, Miss Jessie Bond, Mr. Henry Guy, and Mr. J. R. Alsop, who all rendered good service under the conductorship of Sir Julius Benedict. The second part consisted of Beethoven's Mount of Olives, the version being that of Dr. Hudson, published by Novello & Co. A more striking contrast to the religious and reflective music of the Mass could scarcely have been selected. The Mount of Olives is intensely dramatic, making great demands on the powers of the principal vocalists, soprano, tenor and bass, especially the two former; happily these requirements were fully met by Malame Osgood and Mr. Cummings. By the instrumental introduction, so solemn, striking and impressive, the composer at once asserts his power and genius, and a continuous succession of fine orchestral effects, pathetic melodies, and grand choral movements make up a work which is not unworthy of the fame of the mighty tone-painter. Closing with the splendid and well-known "Hallelujah," one cannot but wonder that so noble a work is so rarely heard in public. The Philharmonic Society acquitted themselves of their arduous task in a manner which deserves recognition and praise, and should be an incentive to further exertion. —An amateur Concert was given on the 13th ult. in the small concert room, St. George's Hall, under the conductorship of Mr. F. E. Barnes R.A.M., organist of St. Margaret's Church, Prince's Road. The choruses were very well sung, especially Schumann's Gipsy Life. The duets and trios, for piano, violin, and harmonium, given by Madame Husson, Mr. Beale, and Mr. Barnes, were admirably interpreted; and Mr. Barnes gave a brilliant reading of the first two movements of Bennett's "Maid of Orleans" Sonata. The solo singers were Miss Hime, Miss English, Mr. Moore, Mr. Dunn, and Mr. Mackenzie.

MACCLESFIELD.—The fifth and last Concert of the series given by Mr. Charles Seal took place at the Town Hall on Monday evening the 5th ult., and proved the most successful of the season, both as to the performance of the music and the patronage of Mr. Seal's admirers, the latter fact determining the Concert-giver, as he announced from the platform, to give another series of Concerts next season. Mr. Seal played Beethoven's Sonata in F, and Hummel's La Bella Capriccioso, Op. 55, in the same artistic style that he has shown at former Concerts, and which has much advanced his reputation. The vocalists were Miss Jessie Royd, who was highly successful in the "Bird that came in Spring," Mr. Stedman, who introduced the new song "Trust" (C. H. R. Marriott), and Mr. Thurlay Beale, whose admirable rendering of "Bonnie wee thing" (George Fox) was rewarded by a vociferous encore. A selection of duets and trios capably sung by the three vocalists went far to make up a most enjoyable programme.

MAIDENHEAD.—The seventh Concert of the Philharmonic Society was given on the 13th ult. in the National Schoolrooms, when Haydn's Creation was performed. A well-balanced chorus was arranged, and the orchestra of the society—strengthened by professional players, selected chiefly from the Crystal Palace band—was placed under the leadership of Herr Rosenthal. The solo vocalists were Miss Jessie Royd, Mr. T. W. Hanson, and Mr. Harry Horscroft, all of whom were highly successful. The work was excellently rendered throughout, the whole being sung with a crispness and firmness of tone which showed the result of a vigorous discipline to the utmost advantage. Mr. W. Goulden rendered good service at the piano, and the arrangements of Mr. G. R. Bennett, the hon. sec., left nothing to be desired.

MALVERN.—On January 31st a Concert was given at West Malvern in aid of a local charity. Some songs and glees were admirably rendered, and a pianoforte solo, Chopin's Impromptu in C minor, was very artistically interpreted by Miss Annie Broad, who made her debut on this occasion and received a well-deserved encore.—The Royal Tyrolese Singers gave two very successful Concerts on the 5th and 6th ult.—Mr. John Cheshire gave two of his Harp Recitals on the 8th and 9th ult., which were well appreciated.

MANCHESTER.—The Vocal Society (conductor, Mr. Henry Wilson) gave a very interesting selection at the fifth Concert of the season, on the 14th ult., including Mozart's Litany. The Society paid a graceful tribute to the memory of the late William Shore by giving at the close of the first part his adaptation to Bach's Choral "There is a calm for those who weep," announced in the programme "In Memoriam." It was well rendered by the Choir, and produced a powerful effect upon the large audience.—We abridge the following notice of the recent performance of Acis and Galatea (under the direction of Mr. C. Hallé) from the Manchester Guardian: "The interest attached to this performance arose mainly from the fact that for the first time in Manchester—and only for the third or fourth time in England, we believe—the extra orchestral accompaniments written for the work by Mendelssohn were used. Though the fact that Mozart had enriched the score in this manner was generally known, few, we believe, were aware that Mendelssohn had done something of the kind also. At any rate, the novelty would alone have justified Mr. Hallé in giving his subscribers the opportunity, if possible, of hearing these additions; and this, by arrangement with Messrs. Novello, the owners of the score, he has been enabled to do. Respecting their general character, we may at once express a preference for them over those of Mozart. Beautiful as the latter are, the harmonies often differ so essentially from those used by Handel as to take away much of the original character—in fact, to make the music sound very much more modern than it really is—even while building up a whole of unquestionable loveliness. It is in the avoidance of new harmonies mainly that Mendelssohn differs in his manner of treatment from Mozart. Very rarely does he venture on structural change, but where he does it is so entirely in the spirit of the original that without the score before you it would be difficult to detect the addition or alteration. In the matter of filling up the harmony, however, and the use of the instruments of the modern orchestra, Mendelssohn has not hesitated to use all the resources of his genius. It would be impossible in our space to point out the many points of interest in the changes made by Mendelssohn. A few in the actual form of different passages ought not to be unnoticed. Thus, in 'Hush, ye pretty warbling choir,' the broken rhythm of the accompanying orchestral figures is reduced to a flowing succession of similar triplets; and this is almost the only change about the success of which we heard any doubt expressed. In the duet 'Happy we' Mendelssohn passes at once to the chorus without the repeat; while at the close of the chorus there is an extension of a bar or two, with a boldly introduced seventh harmony, which wonderfully improves the otherwise abrupt ending. So again in the chorus 'Wretched lovers,' in order to get rid of what seem unduly protracted pauses, at the words 'the mountain nods' Mendelssohn has compressed four bars into the compass of two—greatly, as we think, to the improvement of the passage. Madame Sherrington, Mr. Guy, Mr. Lloyd, and Signor Foli were the vocalists. Mr. Guy appeared to have a cold, or we should have felt that, as a stranger, his singing deserved special notice. As it is, we defer our remarks until a future occasion."

MARKET RASEN.—The first Concert of the newly formed Choral Society took place in the Corn Exchange on the 13th ult. The programme opened with the overture to Tancredi, which was well played by Miss Glen, Miss Bird, and Miss A. Glen. Mr. Adolphus Phillips (bass), of Lincoln Cathedral, and Mr. E. Dunkerton (tenor) were well received in their songs, and the various part-songs were excellently rendered by the members of the Society, under their conductor, Mr. George T. Hemsley, Lay Clerk of Lincoln Cathedral. Mr. Woods, of Lincoln, was the accompanist.

NORTHAM.—On the 13th ult. Mr. Righton gave a concert in the schoolroom before a large audience. The first part was sacred, and consisted of selections from the works of Bach, Handel, Haydn, Mendelssohn, &c. The second part comprised songs, part-songs, &c., and the overture to Tancredi and Haydn's Symphony in D performed by a small band. Mr. Righton conducted and accompanied the vocal music.

NORWICH.—The eleventh Concert of the Norfolk and Norwich Musical Society took place on Thursday evening the 8th ult., in St. Andrew's Hall, under the direction of Dr. Bunnett. The programme commenced with Mozart's Mass in C (No. 1), the performance of which was in every way creditable, the chorus and orchestra evidently doing their very best. The principal vocal parts were entrusted to Mrs. Arthur R. Bullard (soprano), Miss Emily Harcourt (contralto), Mr. Henry J. Minns (tenor), and Mr. A. Hooper (bass). The Mass was followed by Mendelssohn's 13th Psalm, the solo being sung by Miss Harcourt with capital effect. The second part commenced with two pieces from Dr. Bunnett's sacred Cantata, written by him for Cambridge University as his exercise for the degree of Doctor of Music; and amongst other items were the Andante from Schubert's Tragic Symphony and the March of King David's Army, for voices and orchestra, from Dr. W. H. Longhurst's Oratorio of David and Absalom, with which the Concert finished most spiritedly.

PHILADELPHIA.—The members of the Handel and Haydn Society gave the first Concert of the season, on the 6th ult., at the Academy of Music, under the direction of Mr. Albert G. Emeryck, the president of the society. Neukomm's Oratorio of David was the work selected for performance. The thoroughness of the rehearsals and efficiency of the leader were especially shown in the admirable shading and expression with which nearly all the choral numbers were sung. The soloists were Miss Cynthia Bare, Mr. George Simpson, Mr. Max Heinrich, Mr. W. G. Hale, and Mr. James G. Marec. Mr. Carl Sentz conducted with much spirit.

REIGATE.—Mr. N. M. Day, organist of St. Mark's, gave his second annual Concert on Thursday the 8th ult. The programme consisted of J. F. Barnett's Cantata The Ancient Mariner, and a miscellaneous selection. The principal vocalists were Miss Rose Stuart, Miss Steele, Mr. George Perren, and Mr. George Fox. The performance of the Cantata was a great success. The Misses Stuart and Steele received an encore for the duet "Two Voices in the Air," and Mr. G. Fox for his rendering of "Swiftly, swiftly blew." The choruses were well sung, especially the two for female voices only. Mrs. Ward presided at the piano, and Mr. H. T. Pringuer, F.C.O., at the harmonium. Mr. Day conducted with his usual ability.

RUSHOCK.—A new organ was opened in the Church of St. Michael and All Angels on the 12th ult. After the service (at which the Rev. Sir F. A. Gore Ouseley preached the sermon) a recital of sacred music was given by Mr. A. J. Caldicott, of Worcester, and Sir F. A. Gore Ouseley. The offertory amounted to £28 7s. 7d.

RYDE.—The second Concert of the Ryde Philharmonic Society was given on Tuesday evening the 6th ult., when Mendelssohn's As the hart pants and a miscellaneous selection were performed with a full orchestra and chorus of 100 performers. The principal vocalists were Miss Amy Aylward, R.A.M., Mr. Owen Davis, and Mr. Dudley Watkins. The programme included the Andante and Finale from Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto in E (well played by Mr. Fletcher), Rossini's overture to Semiramide, Gounod's Valse Ariette "La messagera d'amore," sung by Miss Amy Aylward, and unanimously encored. Mr. Fletcher led the orchestra, and Mr. F. H. Summer conducted.

SHEFFIELD.—A grand Concert was given in the Albert Hall on the 9th ult., under the management of Mr. Charles Harvey. There was a large and fashionable attendance. The artists engaged were Mdles. Tiens, Mdle. Alwina Valleria, Mdle. Agnes Bonn, Mr. Bentham, Signor del Puente, Signor Brocolini, Signor Borella, M. Musin, and Mr. F. H. Cowen. Mdle. Tiens was warmly received, and sang in her usual splendid style, the scena "Ocean, thou mighty monster" (Weber) especially receiving immense applause. The duet "Sull' aria," rendered by Mdles. Tiens and Valleria, elicited a hearty encore, a compliment likewise awarded to Mdle. Bonn for the serenade "Sleep, dearest, sleep." Signor del Puente, Signor Borella, Mr. Bentham, and Signor Brocolini were also highly successful. M. Musin was the violinist, and was encored after each of his two performances. Mr. Cowen conducted.—Mr. John Peck's fifth series of Saturday afternoon orchestral and vocal concerts was brought to a conclusion on the 17th ult. Miss A. Schalders, Mdme. Monier, and Mr. H. Sarjeant were the vocalists. The orchestral portion of the performances was given by the members of Mr. Peck's band with great satisfaction to the audience; Mr. Wainwright in his performances on the English concertina being especially well received, as was also Mr. Joseph Gillott in his pianoforte selections. Mr. W. Race was leader of the band and Mr. J. Peck conductor.

SILVERTOWN, ESSEX.—The members of the Choral Society gave a very successful entertainment at the St. Mark's National Schools on the 5th ult. Mr. H. Pitt, organist of the church, conducted and accompanied. The principal singers were Mrs. Pitt, Mrs. Banks, Mr. Welham, and Mr. Adamson. Some part-songs were very creditably re-rendered by the choir, especially Rossini's "Carnovale." The Rev. H. J. Bodily presided.

SOUTHPORT.—The Subscription Concert given by Messrs. Sloan and Watson, in the Cambridge Hall, on Saturday night the 10th ult., was highly successful. The executants consisted of members of Mr. Mapleson's Opera Company, headed by the greatest living artist on the lyric stage, Mdle. Tiens, who created a great effect in "Ocean, thou mighty monster," her superb voice and magnificent vocalism being heard to the greatest possible advantage. Mdle. Titiens also took part with Mdle. Valleria in the ever welcome duet from Piavo "Sull' aria," in which it can only be said both ladies were simply perfect. The other vocalists were Mdle. Agnes Bonn, a promising contralto, Signor del Puente, Mr. Bentham, Signor Borella, and Signor Brocolini. Mr. Musin was the solo violinist; his tone is good, his execution marvellous, and he performs feats with his instrument that bring back recollections of Paganini. M. Cowen was the conductor, and accompanied with delicacy and skill.

WEYBRIDGE.—On Monday evening the 12th ult. the members of Mr. H. P. G. Brooke's Choral Class gave their second Concert, at the National Schools, before a large audience. The programme was selected from the works of Handel, Mozart, and Mendelssohn. All the choruses were very well sung. Miss Lampard gave the recit. and air "Behold! a Virgin" and "O Thou that tellest" with great spirit. The trio "Lift thine eyes," sung by Mrs. Granville Money, Misses Alice and Eva Wilks, was very well rendered, and Mr. A. Colbourne sang with great feeling the recit. and air "Comfort ye, My people" and "Every valley." Miss Kellock was heard to great advantage in the recit. and air "He was cut off" and "But Thou didst not leave." The opening solo to "I praise Thee, O Lord" was expressively rendered by Mr. W. F. Harrison, and Miss Alice Wilks sang "Pious orgies" with feeling and judgment. "I know that my Redeemer liveth" was sung by the Rev. W. B. Money with taste and feeling. Mr. H. P. G. Brooke was a most able accompanist.

WINDSOR.—Mr. J. S. Liddle, Mus. Bac., gave a "Chamber Concert" in the Town Hall on Thursday the 1st ult., when an excellent programme of classical music from the works of Beethoven, Schumann, Chopin, Geminiani, Benedict, Molique, Saint-Saëns, and Silas was performed. Mr. Liddle was assisted by Mrs. Richard Blagrove (piano), Miss Minnie Elwell (concertina), Messrs. Blagrove (viola) and Aylward (violinello). Mr. Liddle played some violin solos, accompanied on the piano by Sir George Elvey. The whole of the pieces set down in the programme were performed in a most masterly manner. Miss Helen Heath was the vocalist.—On the 7th ult. a Concert was given under the conductorship of Mr. J. H. Webster, in St. Mark's School. The first part consisted of a selection from W. S. Bennett's May Queen, the solo parts being taken by Mr. T. Ogilwy, Mr. G. McHutchin, and Mr. J. H. Webster. The choruses were performed by the boys attending the above school. The second part comprised a miscellaneous selection of vocal and instrumental pieces. The executants were Messrs. M. Clove and F. Webster (piano), Messrs. F. Ries and E. H. Donkin (violins), and a small but efficient band. The vocal music was performed by the Rev. R. Blythe, Messrs. Marriott, J. H. Webster, W. F. Hawtrey, E. Swain, McHutchin, Floyer, and Ogilwy.—On the 13th ult. the members of the Windsor and Eton Amateur Madrigal Society gave their second Concert in St. Mark's School. The Concert was an invitation one, chiefly restricted to the friends of the members, who compose the Society. There was a very large and fashionable audience present, including H.R.H. the Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein. The programme included selections from the works of Festa, Gibbons, Pearsall, Mendelssohn, Stevens, Elvey, Macfarren, Weelkes, Pinsuti, Bishop, and Edwards. In addition to the vocal music some instrumental pieces were given by Mr. Liddle, and Sir George Elvey (violins), Mr. Blagrove (viola), and Mr. Aylward (violinello).—A ballad Concert was given in the Theatre on the 19th ult., by Mr. Mellor, of Eton College Chapel Choir. A varied selection of ballads, glees, trios, and part-songs were well executed by Miss Lucy Lloyd, Messrs. Mellor, Smith, Christian (of Eton College), and W. T. Briggs (of St. George's Chapel, Windsor). Mr. Mellor was encored for his rendering of "The Death of Nelson," and Mr. Briggs gained a recall for his singing of Mendelssohn's "I'm a Roamer;" Messrs. Christian and Smith were also much applauded in two ballads, "Nancy Lee" and "Come, live with me." Two violin solos, Spohr's "Barcarolle in G" and Bach's "Gavotte in D" were played by Mr. Liddle, both of which were encored. Mr. W. Liddle accompanied on the pianoforte.

WORKINGHAM.—Mr. T. S. Brown gave his Annual Concert at the Town Hall on January 20th. The vocalists were Mdme. Worrell-Duval, Miss E. Brown, Mr. T. Hunt, Mr. O. Christian, and H. Leigh-Bennett, Esq. Mdle. B. Brouil was solo violinist, and Mr. W. E. Rogers and Mr. R. M. Brown presided at the pianoforte. The programme included a selection of vocal solos, duets, trios, and quartetts, all of which were excellently rendered, and elicited much applause. The violin performances of Mdle. B. Brouil, ably accompanied by Mr. W. G. Rogers, were received with great enthusiasm by an appreciative audience.

WOLVERHAMPTON.—The second evening Concert of the Festival Choral Society took place on the 7th ult., in the Agricultural Hall. The programme was a miscellaneous one, the instrumental portions being the leading feature. The artists were Mdle. Marie Krebs, Herr Joachim, and Signor Piatti, and Miss Anna Williams was the solo vocalist. The chorus of the society, numbering 200 voices, gave some part-songs in a very excellent manner. Great praise is due to Mr. Stockley for his training of the choir, and the admirable manner of his conducting on all occasions. Mr. F. H. Bradley accompanied with his accustomed ability.

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. John Bottomley, organist and choir-master to the Parish Church, Henley-on-Thames.—Mr. R. H. Williams, organist and choir-master to the Royal Victoria Hospital, Netley, Southampton.—Mr. Thomas E. Exley to the Parish Church, Kettering.—Mr. Henry Lister, Mus. Bac., Oxon., organist and choir-master to the new Parish Church of S. Mary, Whitechapel.—Dr. Sloman, organist and choir-master to the Parish Church, Lower Norwood.—Mr. A. J. Whitehouse, organist and choir-master to Belgrave Church, Halkin Street, W.—Mr. A. Dorey to St. Peter's, Great Windmill Street, W.

CHOIR APPOINTMENT.—Mr. A. Lawrence Fryer, principal tenor to the Foundling Chapel.

OBITUARY.

On the 25th January, at his residence in Paris, Henri Desplaces, of the Royal Italian Opera, in his 54th year.

On the 6th ult., at 37, Whitfield Street, Tottenham Court Road, George Lewis Panormo, Guitar Maker, aged 62 years.

On the 7th ult., of paralysis, M. Richault, Music Publisher, of Paris.

On the 12th ult., at his residence, Horkesley House, near Leominster, the Rev. Sir Henry William Baker, Bart., Vicar of All Saints', Monkland.

On the 21st ult., at 28, Trinity Square, Southwark, John Oxenford, aged 65 years.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

HANDEL.—Hercules. An Oratorio, Edited and the pianoforte accompaniment arranged from the German Handel Society's Full Score by Ebenezer Prout. Octavo paper cover, 3s.; scarlet cloth, 5s.

GADE, NIELS W.—Comala. A dramatic poem, after Ossian, for solo, chorus, and orchestra. The English version translated from the German of Dr. Klengel, by the Rev. J. Troutbeck, M.A. Octavo, paper cover, 2s.; scarlet cloth, 4s.

BIRCH, EDWARD H., Mus. Bac., Oxon.—The Creed of St. Athanasius, as sung at All Saints' Church, Kensington Park, W. 8vo., 4d.

BROOKSBANK, HUGH, Mus. Bac.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis; unison service in B flat. 8vo., 4d.

CARLING, W., Mus. Bac., Oxon.—Benedicite Omnia Opera, set to Chants. 8vo., 2d.

HUSBAND, REV. EDWARD.—A Cross Litany for Passiontide and for Penitential Use generally. The words by the Rev. G. Moultrie. 8vo., 4d.

JONES, WALTER OWEN.—Te Deum Laudamus, in F. 8vo., 1s.

BENEDICTUS, in F. 8vo., 1s.

MISERERE, THE, &c.—A simple setting for the use of Parish Choirs by a Minor Canon. Post 8vo., 2d.

BAXTER, ARTHUR.—O the Depth of the Riches. Anthem. 8vo., 3d.

GIBBS, A.—Lay down thy weary head. Anthem. 8vo., 6d.

GOWER, JOHN H.—When I survey the wondrous Cross. An Anthem for Lent. 5s.

FARMER, JOHN.—Who are these like stars appearing? Chorus. 8vo., 4d.

SOLDIERS OF CHRIST, ARISE. 8vo., 3d.

HARK! THE GLAD SOUND. Solo and chorus. 8vo., 6d.

AND THE PEOPLE STOOD BEHOLDING. Chorale. 8vo., 3d.

MOZART.—Who can comprehend Thee? (Quis te comprehendat?) Chorus. 8vo., 3d.

ROSSINI.—O Saving Victim (O Salutaris). Quartett or chorus. 8vo., 3d.

SANKEY, REV. R. B., M.A., Mus. Bac., Oxon. Hymn Tunes. Post 8vo., 6d.

LENZ, H. M.—The Bride. Part-Song. 8vo., 3d.

MARENZIO, LUCA.—See where with rapid bound. Madrigal. 8vo., 3d.

PALESTRINA.—O say what Nymph. Madrigal. 8vo., 3d.

ALLCHIN, W. HOWELL.—Prythee why so pale? Song for a Bass Voice. Words by Sir John Suckling. 1s. 6d.

HOWSON, FRANK A.—Why I love him. Song. Words written by Miss Nellie Hutchinson. 2s.

LORRAINE, J. F.—Maiden mine. Song. Words by F. E. Weatherly. 2s.

SIMON, CHARLES M.—I prythee send me back my heart. Song. The poetry by Sir John Suckling. 2s.

ALLEN, ALFRED.—Postlude in D for the Pianoforte. 1s.

DALE, R. F.—Four Album Leaves for the Pianoforte. 1s. 6d.

ELVEY, SIR GEORGE.—Festal March. Arranged for the Organ by Charles Hancock, Mus. Bac., Oxon. 1s. 6d.

WESLEY, DR. S. S.—An Air composed for Holsworthy Church Bells, and varied for the Organ. 3s.

To Choral Societies.

MR. CHARLES FRY

Recites the Lyrics in "ATHALIE," "ANTIGONE," &c.

"The Reader was Mr. Charles Fry, and his reading was exceedingly intelligent and good."—Morning Post.

"The lyrics were impressively rendered by Mr. Charles Fry."—Graphic.

"Mr. Charles Fry recited the lyrics in a manner which commends him to our most favourable notice."—Sunday Times.

Address 1, Berners Street, W. *

MADAME WHITAKER (Contralto).

For opinions of the London and Provincial Press, or terms, address 103, Bloomsbury, Birmingham.

MR. C. A. WHITE (Tenor).

(Of the Royal Academy of Music.)

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 39, St. Thomas's Road, South Hackney, or to Mr. Carte, Craig's Court, Charing Cross.

ALL SAINTS', Margaret Street.—An ALTO is REQUIRED for the Choir of this Church. A good reader indispensable. Duties, two services on Sundays, Christmas Day, and Good Friday, and a weekly Rehearsal. Salary £25, and 10s. 6d. extra for each special day's services. Address to Mr. W. S. Hoyte, 68, Boundary Road, N.W.

TENOR WANTED for St. Barnabas, Bell Street, Edgware Road. Two Sunday services; one practice. £10. Apply to the Vicar, 17, Blandford Square, N.W.

WANTED a GENERAL TUNER and REPAIRER, for the Country. State capabilities and wages required to "F & G," care of Novello & Co., 1 Berners Street, London.

ARTICLED PUPIL REQUIRED by the Organist and Director of the Choir of St. John the Divine, Kennington, S.

TO THE MUSIC TRADE.—A BANDMASTER WISHES for EMPLOYMENT in a Music Warehouse. Understands all wind instruments, and can tune pianos. Good references. Address "Musician," 13, Melton Street, Euston Square, London, N.W.

ORGAN LESSONS.—Two manuals, 19 stops, great 10, swell 5, open diapason pedals, three couplers. Practice by arrangement (in North of London) on moderate terms. Address A., 16, Essex Street, Strand.

TO AMATEUR ORGAN BUILDERS.—For SALE, a CHANCEL ORGAN. Case, with speaking metal front pipes, beautifully decorated, which includes Open Diapason, from lowest G to F above (11 pipes); Principal, from CC to F above (6 pipes); and 4 other metal pipes to fill up; also wind block for same, and bellows of organ double action, all in condition equal to new. Size, about 6 ft. wide, 4 ft. deep, 10 ft. 6 in. high, which includes the height of largest centre pipe. Photo. of above can be forwarded. Price £12. Address H. Abram. Deal.

ORGAN FOR SALE.—Two manuals, 16 stops. Great organ CC to F, 54 notes; clarabella, open diapason bass, dulciana, viol di gamba, principal, flute, fifteenth. Swell organ, CC to F, 54 notes; open diapason, stopped diapason, treble, viol d'amour, horn diapason, principal, twelfth, fifteenth, cornopean. Pedals, CC to E, 29 notes. Bourdon. Mahogany case. Apply Mr. F. A., 5, Brunswick Villas, Steven Street, Stretford, Manchester.

SEVERAL small ORGANS for SALE, suitable for small places of worship, of one, two, and three manuals. Apply to A. Hunter, Organ Builder, 379, Kennington Road.

FULL-TONED Alexandre HARMONIUM for SALE, in good condition; 13 stops; heel-swell. Price moderate. Apply, Rector, Kirk Smeaton, Pontefract.

"A supreme and perfect harmony of notes."

E. & W. SNELL'S IMPROVED HARMONIUMS, for tone, touch, articulation, and general excellence, are pronounced by the profession and public the best and cheapest extant. Prices, designs, &c., free of E. and W. Snell, 37, Kelly Street, London, N.W. Manufactory, Little King Street North, N.W. Trade supplied.

A. HENNES' METHOD FOR THE PIANO.

TRANSLATED FROM THE ORIGINAL 25TH GERMAN EDITION, BY H. MANNHEIMER.

COURSES I. and II., 5s. net each.

COURSE III. (containing 50 melodies on all the 12 MAJOR KEYS). Will be ready at the end of March. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

MOZART'S LITANIA DI VENERABILE SACRAMENTUM in B FLAT, as performed by the Sacred Harmonic Society, Exeter Hall, on Friday, February 23. Vocal score, 1s. 6d.; Chorus parts, with Latin words, 9d. each; ditto, with English words, 10d. each; Orchestral parts, 17s. 2d.

MOZART'S LITANIA DI VENERABILE ALTARIS in E FLAT. Vocal Score, 1s. 6d.; Chorus parts, Latin words, 7d. each.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

MR. HENRY LESLIE'S CHOIR.—Twenty-second Season, 1877.—FIRST SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT, Friday Evening next, March 2nd, St. James's Hall, 8 o'clock.—SACRED and SECULAR MUSIC, including Bach's Motett for Double Choir, "I will sing unto the Lord" (first time of performance in England). Soloists: Miss Robertson, Miss De Fonblanc (her first appearance in London), and Mr. Edward Lloyd. Pianoforte: Mr. J. G. Callcott. Organ: Mr. John C. Ward. Conductor: Mr. Henry Leslie. Tickets, 7s., 3s., 2s., 1s., at Austin's Office, St. James's Hall, and all music publishers.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.

INSTITUTED, 1872. INCORPORATED, 1875.

DEPARTMENT OF EVENING CLASSES.

The NEW TERM will commence MONDAY, March 19, when new Students can be received.

SUBJECTS.—Harmony; Counterpoint, Canon, and Fugue; Form in Composition; Training Class for Choirmasters; Singing; Organ; Instrumentation; Latin, Greek, French, German, Natural Science.

PROFESSORS.—Edward J. Hopkins; J. W. Hinton, M.A., Mus. Doc.; W. H. Sangster, Mus. Bac.; J. Gordon Saunders, Mus. Bac.; W. J. Jennings, B.A.; H. Ogle Moore, B.A.; E. Passawer, LL.D.; A. Motteau, &c.

There is a FREE Preparatory Class in Harmony, conducted by H. G. Bonavia Hunt, Mus. Bac.

Students prepared for the various Examinations and Scholarships.

Particulars can be obtained, per letter, of the undersigned, or by personal application at the Class Rooms, 17, Fidinghouse Street, Langham Place, W. (close to Oxford Circus), any Monday evening between 6.30 and 8.

HUMPHREY J. STARK, Mus. Bac., Hon. Registrar.

7, Thurlow Terrace, Lower Norwood, S.E.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.—The next ELECTION of HONORARY MEMBERS will take place March 12. Applications, with references, to be sent not later than March 10, to the undersigned, from whom particulars may be obtained on inclosure of stamped envelope.

JOHN W. HINTON, M.A., Mus. Doc., Hon. Sec.
40, Albany Street, London, N.W.

TRINITY COLLEGE HARMONY CLASS.

The Harmony Professor, W. H. SANGSTER, Mus. B., holds an EVENING CLASS every Monday, at 7.30. Fee, one guinea per term. Students can be received at the half-term. Application can be made at the Classrooms, 17, Ridinghouse Street, Langham Place, W., by letter, or personally between 6.30 and 8 on Monday evenings.

TRINITY COLLEGE COUNTERPOINT CLASS.

The Professor of Counterpoint and Fugue, J. GORDON SAUNDERS, Mus. B., holds his EVENING CLASS every Monday, at Eight o'clock. Fee, one guinea per term. Students received at the half-term. Apply at the Classrooms, 17, Ridinghouse Street, Langham Place, W., by letter, or personally between 6.30 and 8 on Mondays.

THE

ORGANIST'S QUARTERLY JOURNAL
OF ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS.

(PUBLISHED ON THE 1ST OF JANUARY, APRIL, JULY, AND OCTOBER.)

EDITED BY

WILLIAM SPARK, Mus. Doc.

The commencement of the Fifth Volume of this useful and valuable periodical presents a favourable opportunity for New Subscribers to send their names to the Editor or the Publishers. Twenty pages of beautifully engraved New Organ Compositions are supplied to subscribers, every quarter, for 2s. 6d.

Volumes I., II., III., and IV., each consisting of ONE HUNDRED and SIXTY PAGES of ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS for the ORGAN by the best living Organists and Composers (Foreign and English). Price, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges, 21s. each. Subscribers for not less than one year can commence at any period, and receive back numbers at the Subscription price. Annual Subscription, 10s.; Non-Subscribers, 5s. net each Part.

"The Organist's Quarterly has entered upon its ninth year, and still keeps its place as leader in the ranks of contemporary periodicals."—The Graphic.

"The issue of this Quarterly, containing music specially written for the organ, is quite unique in this country, and, we believe, in any other. The four volumes already published embrace movements for the 'king of instruments' of every variety of form suitable to it."—York Herald.

Editor's address, Springfield Villa, Leeds.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE INTERNATIONAL ORGANIST.

A QUARTERLY JOURNAL OF ORIGINAL ORGAN PIECES, BY EMINENT CONTEMPORARY ORGANISTS OF ALL NATIONS.

EDITED BY J. W. HINTON, Mus. Doc.

Annual Subscription (4 Nos. post free), 12s. (Single numbers can also be obtained, price 4s.) Subscriptions received by Dr. HINTON, 40, Albany St., Regent's Park. P.O.O. payable Osnaburgh St. N.W.

Among the contributors are Monsieur CÉSAR FRANCK, Professor of the Organ, &c., Conservatoire de Paris; Monsieur Ed. BATISTE, the late Professor of Harmony, do.; Monsieur A. ROUSSEAU, Prix de Rome, do.; Monsieur CLEMENT LORET; Dr. RÖHNER, author of "Röhner on Composition; Harmony; Fugue, &c.," Dr. HARTMANN; GEORG VERSCHNEIDER; H. MÜLLER; Dr. SWINNERTON HEAP; Dr. ROLAND ROGERS; Dr. J. W. HINTON (formerly of the Conservatoire, Paris); Dr. OSBORNE MARKS, HUMPHREY J. STARK, Mus. B.; A. CARNALL, Mus. B.; GORDON SAUNDERS, Mus. B.; H. G. BONAVIA HUNT, WALTER SPINNEY, Esq., Signor ALESSANDRO CELLINI, &c.

Each Number will contain 12 pages well printed upon 3 staves.

MESSRS.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

Beg to announce that they have purchased the copyrights of the following important works at the recent sale of

MR. LAMBORN COCK, 63, NEW BOND STREET.

SIR W. STERNDALE BENNETT'S
MAY QUEEN.

SIR W. STERNDALE BENNETT'S
TWELVE SONGS.

OP. 23.

- No. 1. Musing on the roaring Ocean.
2. May dew.
3. Forget-me-not.
4. To Chloe (in sickness).
5. The Past.
6. Gentle Zephyr.

OP. 35.

- No. 7. Indian love.
8. Winter's gone.
9. Dawn, gentle flower.
10. Castle Gordon.
11. As lonesome thro'
the woods.
12. Sing, maiden, sing.

CLASSICAL PRACTICE²
FOR PIANOFORTE STUDENTS

SELECTED FROM THE MOST CELEBRATED
COMPOSERS, ANCIENT AND MODERN,

EDITED BY

SIR W. STERNDALE BENNETT.

CIRO PINSUTI

SIX TWO-PART SONGS.

- | | |
|--------------------------------|----------------------|
| The voice of the waterfall. | I love all things. |
| Life is passing away. | Out in the sunshine. |
| I sing because I love to sing. | After the rain. |

FERDINAND HILLER

SIX TWO-PART SONGS FOR FEMALE VOICES.

- | | |
|-------------------------|---------------------|
| No. 1. Two roses. | No. 4. Springtime. |
| 2. Song of the swallow. | 3. Come, O night. |
| 3. The pine wood. | 6. Look heavenward. |

FERDINAND HILLER

EIGHT THREE-PART SONGS FOR FEMALE
VOICES. OP. 142.

- | | |
|------------------------|----------------------------------|
| No. 1. In the wood, | No. 6. The secret. |
| 2. Peace. | 7. Climb up. |
| 3. Bells in May. | 8. The wanderers' night-song. |
| 4. When does a maiden? | |
| 5. Hours of rest. | |

J. L. HATTON

FOUR TWO-PART SONGS FOR FEMALE VOICES.

- | | |
|------------------|------------------------|
| No. 1. In April. | No. 3. The water-lily, |
| 2. Past. | 4. Come, sister elves. |

J. L. HATTON

TWO TRIOS FOR FEMALE VOICES.

- No. 1. Where are the angels, mother?
2. Youth, joy, and hope.

HENRY SMART

EVENING.—Duetto.

" Trio for female voices.

THE WATER NYMPHS.—Trio for female voices.

Re D'ALMAINE, DECEASED.

PIANOFORTES BY D'ALMAINE.

Great Sale of 704 remaining Pianofortes
OF THIS EXCELLENT FIRM.

In consequence of the Death of the Proprietor, an IMMENSE STOCK

OF

All Descriptions of Musical Property,

PIANOFORTES, HARMONIUMS, SHEET MUSIC,

Lithographic Stones and Music Printing, Music
Stools, Insulators, Violins, Canterbury, Whatnots, Harmonium Chairs, Frets, Actions and parts various,
the chief item being

780 PIANOFORTES,

in course of construction at the Death of the late Proprietor.

MOST EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY to the Public, Trade, and Profession, such as does not offer in every lifetime.

NOTE.—It was attempted to clear the whole by auction
by a series of sales: the first sale proved that it would be wiser to make up the stock and

OFFER THE ADVANTAGE TO THE PUBLIC, who can now be supplied at less than the usual cost of making these high-class pianos; thus the following quotations:—

For 17 guineas can be had the 35 guineas Royal

25	"	"	46	"	"
34	"	"	60	"	"
45	"	"	85	"	"

9 to 15 guineas, various second-hand instruments.

These instruments have the

FAMED STEEL WREST PLANK PLATE;

are all 7 octaves, trichord for the most part, and actions of various models;

ELEGANT IN DESIGN, REFINED IN FINISH;

are very high class as pianofortes in touch, tone, and repetition.

ALL PARTICULARS, AND ON VIEW, AT

5, FINSBURY PAVEMENT,

BY MOORGATE STREET STATION

(Metropolitan Railway).

LETTERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, &c.

Just Published.

NEW PART-SONGS, MADRIGALS, &c.,

BY

R. L. PEARSALL.

COLLEGIATE SERIES.

No.
68.	Part-Song	... A lad and lassie.	S.A.T.B.	...	2d.
70.	Part-Song	... True love, to-day I must away	2d.
70.	Madrigal	... When old King Cole	3d.
64.	Madrigal	... My bonnie lass, she smileth	3d.
54.	Glee	... Glorious Apollo...	2d.
67.	Part-Song	... Was there not a look of fondness	2d.
73.	Part-Song	... Robin Hood...	3d.
55.	Glee	... King Charles	3d.
65.	Glee	... My mother loves me not	2d.
72.	Part-Song	... Spring brings flow'rets fair	2d.
69.	Part-Song	... 'Twas a trumpet's pealing sound...	3d.
71.	Part-Song	... Who kill'd Cock Robin?	3d.
52.	Ballad Dialogue	...	8th Edition	...	3d.
(Folio, illustrated, 3s.)
50.	Part-Song	... Brave Lord Willoughby...	5th	"	3d.
25.	Madrigal	... Here on the waters...	4th	"	4d.
53.	Part-Song	... Her eyes the glow-worm	3rd	"	3d.
53.	Student's Song	... The three friends.	S.A.T.B.	4th	"
5.	Student's Song	... " " " " " " " "	T.T.B.B.	4th	"
60.	Madrigal	... Down by a river straying	2nd	"	4d.
61.	Madrigal	... Hie away! o'er bank and brae	2nd	"	4d.
51.	Glee	... Flow, limpid stream.	A.T.B.B.	3d.	3d.
51.	Student's Song	... Gaudeamus igitur	3d.
74.	Part-Song	... Springs she not as light as air	2d.
63.	Part-Song	... My enemies they do increase	3d.
62.	Part-Song	... 'Tis raining!	3d.
59.	Part-Song	... The Poacher's Song	3d.
56.	Market Chorus	... The Villagers (with Pianoforte, Flute, or Violin Accompaniment), Chorus of Peasants, Market Women, Swiss Jodel, &c.	4d.

DR. S. S. WESLEY.

3.	Part-Song	... The Mermaid.	S.A.T.B.	...	3rd Edition	4d.
6.	Part-Song	... Arising from the deep.	S.A.T.B.	2nd	"	4d.
2.	Chorus	... The praise of music (Double Choir).	...	2nd	"	4d.
18.	Anthem	... O how amiable!	3rd	4d.
19.	Anthem	... Wherewithal shall a young man.	2nd	"	4d.	4d.
40.	Anthem	... The Lord is my Shepherd	2nd	"	4d.	4d.
14.	Anthem	... Let us now praise famous men.	4th	"	4d.	4d.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

8.	Part-Song	... Swift the shades of eve	6th	"	3d.
12.	Part-Song	... The Vikings and the north wind.	3rd	"	3d.	"	3d.
10.	Part-Song	... The eagle	2nd	"	3d.
42.	Anthem	... O praise the Lord	3d.
43.	Anthem	... I waited patiently	3d.

DULCIANA.

13.	National Anth.	...God save the Queen	20th Edition	2d.
		(With Organ Accompaniment.)
7.	Part-Song	...Auld lang syne	26th "	3d.

SCHUMANN.

26.	Solo and Chorus	... Sleep on, in visions	4th	"	3d.
11.	Solo and Chorus	... Vesture pure and scatheless	3rd	"	3d.	"	3d.
29.	Trio (S.S.A.)	... Magna peccatrix	3d.
30.	Trio (S.S.A.A.)	... The midnight hags	3d.

J. P. KNIGHT.

1.	Madrigal	... Canst thou say me nay?	3rd Edition	3d.
----	----------	----------------------------	-----	-----	-------------	-----

NEW BALLADS.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

THE CATHEDRAL CHOIR (with Chorus)	4s.
-----------------------------------	-----	-----	-----

R. L. PEARSALL.

DRUMMING AND FIFING	3s.
BRAVE LORD WILLOUGHBY	3s.
WHO KILL'D COCK ROBIN?	3s.

*Just Published.*CONSECUTIVE FIFTHS AND OCTAVES
IN COUNTERPOINT.

'AN ESSAY, BY R. L. PEARSALL.

Price 2s.; post free, 2s. 2d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.
Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street, W.

R. REDHEAD'S NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Now ready, New and Enlarged Edition.

THE ORDER FOR

MORNING & EVENING PRAYER,

WITH THE

Litany and Proper Psalms,

FROM THE

BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER,

WITH MUSICAL NOTATION,

EDITED BY

RICHARD REDHEAD.

Price:—Cloth Bound, 3s.; Extra Edition, thick paper, 4s.; Psalter only (with Proper Psalms), 2s.

THE CATHEDRAL and CHURCH CHOIR
BOOK. A Collection of Pieces, chiefly adaptations from the Latin works of the Great Masters. Arranged for use in the English Church.

EDITED BY RICHARD REDHEAD.

No. 1. Credo and Sanctus, from Haydn's Mass, No. 1.
No. 2. COMPLETE SERVICE FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION, with Organ Accompaniment, "Missa de Angelis" (partly from a French Arrangement), price 1s. each.

London: Metzler and Co., 37, Great Marlborough Street, W.

NEW ANTHEM.

"HEAR MY PRAYER, O LORD." Music by
C. GOUNOD. Adapted by R. REDHEAD. Price 3d.; post free, 3½ stamps.
London: Metzler and Co., 37, Great Marlborough Street, W.

S. S. WESLEY'S WORKS.

"LETTER B" CHANT SERVICE (New Edition),
adapted for use by all Choirs. Price 9d.; treble part, 3d.
CHANT SERVICE in G from the "European Psalmist."
Price 1s.

SONG.

"THERE BE NONE OF BEAUTY'S DAUGHTERS."
Price 4s.
"Has rarely been excelled in its intense expression of passion."
Programme Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts.

BALLAD.

"WERT THOU LIKE ME IN LIFE'S LOW VALE."
Price 4s.

NEW ORGAN WORK.

AN AIR, composed for Holsworthy Church Bells, and varied for the Organ by SAMUEL SEBASTIAN WESLEY.
Composed 1873. Price 3s. net.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY. Patriotic Song for March
17th. By JOSEPH SHORT. Price 3s."The children of Erin, wherever they roam,
Oh! fondly they cling to their sainted old home;
And whate'er be their lot, or wherever they stray,
Their hearts wander back on St. Patrick's Day."

Also, by the same Composer,

THE SINGERS. New Baritone Song. Price 3s.

Either of the above post free for 18 stamps from the Composer, 220,
Great Lister Street, Birmingham; or from Truslove and O'Neill,
Music Publishers, 36, Union Passage, Birmingham.

Now ready. Small 4to. Price 1s. Vocal parts, 12mo., price 6d. each, 1st and 2nd Series bound together, cloth, 2s. 9d. Vocal parts 1st and 2nd series, bound together in limp cloth, 1s. 4d. each.

SECOND SERIES.

THE CANTICLES and HYMNS of the CHURCH, pointed for Chanting, and set to appropriate Anglican Chants, Single and Double; together with Responses to the Commandments, edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. G. OUSELEY, Bart., etc., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK. This work contains a selection of Double (besides additional Single) Chants; together with special settings of "Benedicite," and a collection of Kyrie Eleisons, old and new.

This pointing of the Canticles is authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

VENI, CREATOR SPIRITUS. Set to Music by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., &c. For general or Festival use; for male voices and four-part Chorus, with Organ accompaniment, ad lib. Price 3d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE ANGLICAN CHORAL SERVICE BOOK. Edited By E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper, 1s.; cloth, 2s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co. Oxford: Parker.

Seventh Edition.

THE ANGLICAN CHANT-BOOK, edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper cover, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d. Large edition, cloth, 4s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

OUSELEY AND MONK'S PSALTER AND CANTICLES, pointed for Chanting. Second Edition. Authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York. 24mo., without chants, 9d.; with Proper Psalms, 1s.; Proper Psalms, separately, 3d.; small 4to., with chants, 4s.; each voice part, separately, 1s. 6d. Canticles, large, small 4to., 9d.; separate parts, 3d.; words only, 24mo., 1½d. Novello, Ewer and Co., and Parker and Co.

Preparing for the Press.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF WORDS OF ANTHEMS, new Edition, revised, corrected, and brought down to the present date.

Eleventh Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Price 5s. 6d., paper covers; 7s. limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation. Score 1s. 6d. The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-notes.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. ST. J. B. JOULE. (Large type), price 2s. 6d. This Psalter having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers. N.B.—A small Edition is in preparation.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo., price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Fourth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. Quarto, in cloth elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Fifth Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

A MORNING SERVICE, Te Deum, Jubilate, and Kyrie, by the Rev. EDWARD YOUNG. Tenth edition, abbreviated for Parochial use. Organ and Choir copies, 4d. each.

"Melodious, vocal, and nicely harmonised—that is, without pretence or straining at effect; and they declaim the words devoutly and emphatically."—Musical Times.

"Good points, and tuneful passages."—Musical Standard.

"The intelligent, devoted, and devotional spirit in which every note seems to have been composed, furnishes one of the best guarantees for excellence."—English Churchman.

"All competent criticism will be found in accordance with the verdict of a high professional authority as to 'abundant proof of imagination, poetical conception, and musical feeling.'"—Christian Observer.

"The strain is devotional, and harmonies full, solemn, and massive. He fairly claims to have dug a channel for the devout utterance of the words."—Bristol Times.

Also,

CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR, Organ or Choir Copies, 4d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in E flat, by ALFRED J. DYB. Small 8vo., 3d.; organ copy, 6d. "Easy, effective, and congregational."—"Supplies a want much felt by small choirs." London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CANTATE and DEUS, by R. TAYLOR. An easy Unison Service in F. Price 6d. To be had of Novello and Co., or of the Author, Brighton College.

Now ready, 8vo., price Threepence.

TWELVE OFFERTORY SENTENCES, set to Music by F. W. HIRD. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE APOSTLES' CREED, Set to Music (chiefly in Recitative) for Voices in Unison, with an Accompaniment for the Organ, by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Director of the Choir, York Minster.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

8vo., price Sixpence.

OFFERTORY SENTENCES COMPLETE, with Music in full for Organist and Choir. By HERBERT STEPHEN IRONS, late Organist of Southwell Minster.

One or more of these effective "Sentences" may be sung after the Offertory is said by the Priest, or at Matins or Evensong when the alms are collected.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CHURCH COMPOSITIONS by G. H. GREGORY, Mus. Bac., Oxon., suitable for choirs of moderate ability. MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS on a Rouennais Theme, Price 4d. SIX KYRIES, price 2d.

Shortly to be published.

EVENING SERVICE (full cathedral), in E flat, and WHITSUNTIDE ANTHEM, "God, Who as at this time."

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE OFFICE OF HOLY COMMUNION. Kyrie, Credo, Sanctus, Benedictus, Agnus Dei, Gloria in Excelsis. By H. E. HODSON.

"Admirably adapted for Festival occasions; thoroughly melodious, very effective and reverential, and by no means difficult."

Post free, 1s. 6d.

Simpson and Co., 33, Argyll Street, W.

PRECES, RESPONSES, and LITANY, Ferial and Festal. Edited by T. E. AYLWARD, Organist of Chichester Cathedral. Price 8d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

BENEDICITE in E^b (Chant form). By HAYDN KEETON, Mus. Bac., Oxon., Organist of Peterborough Cathedral. Price 2d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

BENEDICITE, with appropriate Chants. Three different Settings. By ALEX. S. COOPER. Price 3d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC BY ERNEST C. WINCHESTER.

Anthem, "I WILL GIVE THANKS," with Treble (or Tenor) Solo. 4d.

MORNING AND EVENING SERVICES IN CHANT FORM. 4d.

Te Deum and Benedictus. 4d.

Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis. 3d.

TEN OFFERTORY SENTENCES. 4d.

SIX KYRIES. 2d.

GREGORIAN ARRANGEMENTS. 1d.

Venite. 1d.

Te Deum. 1½d.

Benedictus. 1½d.

Deus Misereatur. 1d.

HYMN TUNES WITH FREE ORGAN ACCOMPANIMENT.

"Onward, Christian Soldiers" 1d.

"Hark! hark! my Soul" 1d.

The PRECES and RESPONSES, for Advent and Lent 1d.

London: F. Pitman, 20, Paternoster Row, E.C.; or of the Composer, 18, Wycliffe Grove, Lavender Hill, S.W.

A list of reduced rates for the clergy and musical profession, and specimen copies of Music, forwarded on application to E.C. Winchester.

4TH BOOK NOW READY. Collection of KYRIES, &c. Original Compositions by Dr. F. Hiller, Guilman, G. A. and W. Macfarren, Sir G. J. Elvey, Tours, Salaman, Francesco Berger, E. G. Monk, J. Baptist Calkin, Scotson Clark, Hamilton Clarke, &c. Books 1, 2, 3, 4, 1s. each. Separate Nos. (1 to 71), 1d.

SPOHR'S 24th PSALM, 8vo. (2nd thousand), 9d.; folio, 4s. net.

London: Novello and Co. Sheffield: W. T. Freemantle, High Street.

FIVE INTRODUCTORY VOLUNTARIES for the ORGAN. Composed by T. MEE PATTISON.

These Voluntaries, of medium difficulty, with Pedal Obligato, will be found eminently useful for the introduction of Divine Service, both as regards character and length. Price 3s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

EASTER ANTHEM.—IF WE BELIEVE. Price Fourpence.

EIGHT ORGAN PIECES, Original and Selected, in Four Numbers, 1s. 6d. and 1s. each net. Also, Chant Te Deum, 3d.; Benedictus and Jubilate Deo, 4d.; Cantate and Deus Misereatur, 4d.; Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, 3d. By EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus. Doc., Cantab. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Price 2s. each Part.

THE SOLO STOP. A Series of Songs for the Organ, expressly arranged for Amateurs and Pupils. Part 1 contains four Songs (being Nos. 42, 43, 44, and 45 of Vol. I. of "The Village Organist"), arranged by Mrs. MOUNSEY BARTHOLOMEW, with easy work for left hand and foot. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CAROL OF THE REAPERS. (s.a.t.b.) 3d. SIX EASY ANTHEMS FOR VILLAGE CHOIRS. 2d. each. MUSICAL LADDER. 1s. TONIC STAFF. 6d. Novello and Co., or of the Composer, W. H. Gill, Sidcup, Kent.

ANTHEMS FOR EASTER.

BARNBY, J.—AS WE HAVE BORNE THE IMAGE OF THE EARTHY	s. d.	0 1½
ELVEY, SIR GEO., Mus. Doc.—CHRIST IS RISEN FROM THE DEAD	0 1½	0 1½
— CHRIST BEING RAISED FROM THE DEAD	0 1½	0 1½
GADSBY, HENRY.—HE IS RISEN	0 1½	0 1½
GOSS, SIR JOHN.—CHRIST OUR PASSOVER	0 1½	0 1½
— IF WE BELIEVE THAT JESUS DIED	0 3	0 3
— O GIVE THANKS UNTO THE LORD	0 3	0 3
GOUNOD, CHARLES.—BLESSED IS HE WHO COMETH IN THE NAME OF THE LORD	0 1½	0 1½
HOPKINS, J. L.—LIFT UP YOUR HEADS	0 1½	0 1½
HOPKINS, E. J.—WHY SEEK YE THE LIVING AMONG THE DEAD?... ..	0 1½	0 1½
LAHEE, HENRY.—NOW UPON THE FIRST DAY OF THE WEEK	0 1½	0 1½
LOWE, ALBERT.—THE LORD IS MY STRENGTH	0 3	0 3
NOVELLO, V.—THE EASTER HYMN	0 1½	0 1½
— THE LORD IS MY STRENGTH	0 1½	0 1½
SULLIVAN, ARTHUR.—I WILL MENTION THE LOVING-KINDNESSES	0 6	0 6
STAINER, DR.—THEY HAVE TAKEN AWAY MY LORD... ..	0 1½	0 1½
THORNE, E. H.—CHRIST IS RISEN FROM THE DEAD... ..	0 1½	0 1½
— THE LORD THAT BROUGHT US	0 3	0 3
TRIMNELL, THOS. TALLIS.—THE LORD IS KING (9yth Psalm)	0 4	0 4
WESLEY, DR. S. S.—O GIVE THANKS UNTO THE LORD... ..	0 4	0 4
— BLESSED BE THE GOD AND FATHER	0 4	0 4

Most of the above can be had in folio vocal score and separate vocal parts.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NINE HYMNS WITH TUNES

FOR

EASTER,

SELECTED FROM

THE HYMNARY.

PRICE ONE PENNY.

CHRIST THE LORD IS RISEN TO-DAY	SIR GEORGE ELVEY.
FAR BE SORROW, TEARS, AND SIGHS	C. STEGGALL, Mus. D.
WELCOME, HAPPY MORNING	ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
COME, YE FAITHFUL, RAISE THE	Ditto.
STRAIN	GERMAN.
AT THE LAMB'S HIGH FEAST WE	HENRY SMART.
SING... ..	CH. GOUNOD.
THE DAY OF RESURRECTION	OLD MELODY.
JESUS CHRIST IS RISEN TO-DAY	Ditto.
Ditto	GERMAN.
O BLESSED TRINITY
SOON THE FIERY SUN ASCENDING

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

FOR LENT.

THE BENEDICTITE

SET TO MUSIC BY THE FOLLOWING
MODERN COMPOSERS.

(Octavo size.)

J. BARNBY	1½d.
W. T. BEST	3d.
A. S. COOPER (three settings)	3d.
JOHN FOSTER	1½d.
HOYTE, W. S.	2d.
Ditto (second setting)	2d.
MONTEY SMITH (two settings)	1½d.
J. TURLE (two settings)	1½d.
REV. C. A. WICKES (two settings)	1½d.
Arranged to Chants by Dr. STAINER, J. TURLE, and H. S. IRONS	2d.
Arranged to Chants by R. DE LACEY, A. GIBBS, J. STAINER, and
F. CHAMPNEYS	1½d.
Arranged to Chants by J. STAINER, W. WINN, and F. WALKER	1½d.

THE MISERERE, &c., as used at St. Paul's Cathedral at Special Lenten Services, arranged by JOHN STAINER ... 3d.

GREGORIAN CHANT, for the Miserere, arranged and harmonised by VINCENT NOVELLO. Latin words only ... 3d.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

FOR LENT.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD

(ACCORDING TO S. MATTHEW.)

Set to Music by

JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH.

Octavo, paper covers, 2s. Scarlet cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD

(ACCORDING TO S. JOHN.)

Set to Music by

JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH.

Octavo, paper covers, 2s. Scarlet cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD

(THE SEVEN WORDS OF OUR SAVIOUR ON THE CROSS.)

Set to Music by

J. HAYDN.

Octavo, paper covers, 2s. Scarlet cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD

(THE SEVEN WORDS OF OUR SAVIOUR ON THE CROSS.)

Set to Music by

CH. GOUNOD.

Octavo, paper covers, 1s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD

(DER TOD JESU.)

Set to Music by

C. H. GRAUN.

Octavo, paper covers, 2s. Scarlet cloth, gilt, 4s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

"WHEN I SURVEY THE WONDROUS

CROSS." An Anthem for Lent. By JOHN H. GOWER. 5s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

EASTER FESTIVAL HYMN.—RECITATIVE

and CHORUS: "Come, ye Nations; Christ is Risen."

Most effective. Suitable for small choirs, where anthems are not available. Price 2d. Novello and Co., and of the Composer, ALFRED J. CALDICOTT, Worcester.

THE LORD IS RISEN INDEED.—ANTHEM

for EASTER. By BENJAMIN CONGREVE. Price 2d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Third Edition, Price 3d.

EASTER ANTHEM. "Christ is risen from the dead." By THOMAS SMITH. Easy and effective.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Post free from the Composer, Angel Hill, Bury St. Edmunds.

CHURCH MUSIC

FOR THE PRESENT SEASON.

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

BENEDICTUS (composed for St. Paul's Cathedral Choir). Price 4d.

HEAR MY PRAYER (Lenten Anthem to be sung without accompaniment). Price 2d.

LIKE AS CHRIST WAS RAISED UP (Easter Anthem). Price 3d.

AND I WILL PRAY THE FATHER (Whitsuntide Anthem). Price 2d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

SUITABLE FOR EASTER.

THE OFFICE OF HOLY COMMUNION, with

"Benedictus," "O Salutaris" and "Agnus Dei." Set to music by G. ALSTON SARVENT. Price 9d.

Also, by the same,

TUNES for the PEOPLE'S HYMNAL, in sets, 3d., 4d., and 6d.

J. MASTERS AND SON, 78, New Bond Street, W.

DR. DEARLE'S two popular MARCHES of "Joy" and "Levites," and "ANDANTE PASTORALE" for Organ each 1s. 6d., and his new Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis in F, price 6d. May be had of Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street, W.

THREE PIECES for the ORGAN. Composed

by NIELS W. GADE: Op. 22. Price 2s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

In the Press, and will shortly be Published.

THE

CATHEDRAL PSALTER CHANTS

Prices and other Particulars will be duly announced.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.,
1, BERNERS STREET (W.), AND 80 & 81, QUEEN STREET (E.C.)

REDUCED PRICE.

BACH'S PASSION

(ST. MATTHEW)

EDITED BY
SIR W. STERNDALE BENNETT

THE ENGLISH WORDS BY

MISS M. F. H. JOHNSTON.

Paper Covers	-	-	-	-	2s.
Cloth gilt	-	-	-	-	4s.
Choruses only (for the use of Choral Societies)	-				1s.
Pianoforte Score, Folio, cloth	-			-	15s.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

DR. SPARK'S HANDY-BOOK FOR THE ORGAN,

CONTAINING

Complete Instructions for the Use of the Manuals and Pedals, with 150 various Examples by the best Composers for the Organ.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"Dr. Spark has supplied a real want. He has compiled an excellent Manual of Instruction for the Organ, by the use of which many of the faults of other bad systems may be avoided. Young Organists can have no better tutor than Dr. Spark."—Nottingham Guardian.

"Dr. Spark is the well-known Organist of Leeds, and his name alone is sufficient guarantee of the worth of the book."—Figaro.

"A more thorough and complete Organ Tutor than this we have never seen. Every point of difficulty in the study of the instrument is fully elucidated, and the treatment of all parts and peculiarities is exhaustively dealt with. Let every one who would learn to play the Organ well obtain and study Dr. Spark's Handy-Book. We can thoroughly and heartily recommend it."—Edinburgh Daily Review.

Price 7s. 6d., cloth.

Boosey & Co., 295, Regent Street, London.

"THE VILLAGE ORGANIST."

N.B.—These popular volumes may now be had from the publishers for

FIVE SHILLINGS EACH.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

EDITED BY DR. STAINER.

DR. W. HAYES.—Save, Lord, and hear us. Full Anthem for Five Voices. 8vo., 6d.

DR. CROFT.—Sing praises to the Lord. Full Anthem for Four Voices. 8vo., 4d.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

JOHN M. W. YOUNG'S NEW ANTHEM.

THE RETURN OF ISRAEL TO PALESTINE, price 2s. 6d.; and "Luther's Hymn," arranged for voices in various ways, with an independent organ part, price 6d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., where his easy Festival Services and Anthems and the Lincoln Psalter may be had.

Now ready, Vocal Score, price 3s.

JONAH. A Sacred Cantata, by J. V. ROBERTS, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Choirmaster of the Parish Church, Halifax.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

P.S.—Full Orchestral Parts to be had of the Composer.

THE REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S "SUPPLEMENTAL HYMN AND TUNE-BOOK" (4th Edition) may be had of the publishers, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. Quarto post, large type and beautifully bound in cloth, price 6s. 6d.; on toned paper, extra thick, 10s. 6d.

"MY SPIRIT LONGS FOR THEE." Hymn, set to Music by JOHN NAYLOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon., together with five other original Hymn Tunes, including "Rock of ages," for men's voices only. Price 4d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

HYMN TUNES, composed by ROBERT BROWN-BORTHWICK, Vicar of All Saints', Scarborough. Elegantly bound in scarlet cloth, price 2s. 6d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S SERIES OF MODERN HYMN TUNES, KYRIES, &c. This Series embraces original Tunes and Kyries by some of the best living composers of Church Music, and may be had in separate numbers from 3d. and 6d. each. Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE ENGLISH GRADUATE WHO SNUBBED THE FOREIGN ONE.—A Verbatim Report of what has been Written of both Graduates. Price 2d. Dr. Fowle, 20, Paternoster Row, London, E.C.—Treatise ("Musical Career") in preparation.

"DAUGHTERS OF JERUSALEM."—Passion Anthem (price 2d.) for all Choirs.—SPECIAL EASTER MUSIC List Free. "Easter Day March" (with brilliant Coda of Easter Hymn), 1s. 6d.; post free, 9d. The popular "Organist's March" and "Choir March," same price. Dr. Fowle, 20, Paternoster Row, London, E.C. Four Easter Anthems to select from, 1s.

DR. FOWLE (on whose behalf nearly 2000 persons have presented a Petition for a Civil Service Pension) is now resident in London, and may be consulted on all points relating to the REVISION, PRINTING, and PUBLISHING of Musical and Literary Compositions, Selection of Instruments, and all Music for Country Choirs, which has been his special study for nearly 20 years. 20, Paternoster Row, London, E.C.

THIS IS THE DAY.—FULL ANTHEM FOR EASTER.

By S. C. COOKE,

Organist and Choirmaster of S. Peter's, Caversham, Reading.
Price 3d. Copies post free from Composer.

"A good short Anthem for Easter. Though presenting nothing uncommon, it is sure to please by its pointed and direct treatment of the words and its melodious and vocal style, with an effective turn of modulation here and there, and a vigorous opening for all the voices in unison. . . . This Anthem can be recommended."—Choir.

"This is a fine and effective Anthem."—Reading Mercury.
London: Novello, Ewer & Co.

PSALM XXIII., for SOPRANO, TENOR, and CHORUS, by the Rev. ARTHUR SEWELL. Price 2s.

WITH ACCOMPANIMENT FOR THE PIANOFORTE AND HARMONIUM (pp. 71).

"Taken as a whole, a Choral Society may go further and not find a better composition for execution than this work."—Graphic.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW OCTAVO EDITIONS.

MOZART.—Who can comprehend Thee? (Quis te comprehendat.) Chorus. 8vo., 3d.

ROSSINI.—O Saving Victim (O Salutaris). Quartett or Chorus. 8vo., 3d.

PALESTRINA.—O say what Nymph. Madrigal. 8vo., 3d.

MARENZIO.—See where with rapid bound. Madrigal. 8vo., 3d.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

"Spirit song for baritone."—Graphic.

THE HIDALGO. Music by ALFRED J. DYE. Post free, 18 stamps. Forsyth Bros., Oxford Circus, London, and Cross Street, Manchester.

Just Published.

MAIDEN MINE. Song. Words written by F. E. WEATHERLEY. The Music composed by J. F. LORRAINE. Price 4s. Sung by Mr. VERNON RIGBY.

AGAINST THE STREAM. Song. Words by F. E. WEATHERLEY. The Music composed by J. F. LORRAINE. Price 4s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE ROSEBUD. Romanza for Voice and Piano-forte. Written by REYNOLDS ANDERSON; the Music composed by JULIAN EDWARDS. Price 4s.
London: E. C. Boosey and Co., 145, High Street, Notting Hill.

FOUR-PART SONGS BY GABRIEL DAVIS.

THE KNIGHT'S RETURN..... 2d.

GOD SAVE THE PRINCE..... 2d.

THE DISTANT SEA 2d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

VICTORIA. The New National Song. -Written by W. CLARK RUSSELL. Music by HENRY SMART. In two keys (G and B). 3s. each; free by post 18 stamps each. The Part-Song, four stamps. "A bold melody. The words are patriotic to a degree, and the music is adapted to the popular taste."—Vide Irish Times.

HE WILL REMEMBER THEE. New Sacred Song. Written by W. S. PASSMORE. Music by J. L. GILBERT. 3s.; post free 18 stamps.

WILLIAM HILL'S VOCAL TRIOS for EQUAL VOICES. 39 numbers, 2d. and 4d. each, or in 3 vols., cloth boards, 3s. each; and his 105 Rounds and Canons, 13 numbers, 2d. each, or in one vol., cloth boards, 3s.

THE BLACKSMITH. J. W. CHERRY. Vocal Quartett. Post free for 2 stamps. Promises to be as great a favourite as "The Village Chorists" and "Let the Hills Resound." A list of 43 cheap Vocal Quartetts post free.

DEAR ENGLAND. LOUIS DIEHL. Vocal Quartett. Post free for two stamps. The song made so popular by Signor Foli's effective singing at the Crystal Palace and elsewhere. 3s.; post free 18 stamps. N.B.—A list of 43 cheap Vocal Quartetts may be had post free of Messrs. Robert Cocks and Co.

THE SKYLARK. New Song. Written by JAMES HOGG. Music by HENRY F. LIMPUS. Also, by the same Composer, EVERMORE. New Song. 3s. each; post free at half-price.

JUST published, STEPHEN ADAMS'S newest Song, THE SONG OF THE SAILOR BOY. A very melodious and striking song, quite equal to his other effusions. 4s.; post free for 24 stamps.

LOVE NEVER DIES. New Song. Music by ALFRED SCOTT GATTY. Mr. Maybrick has selected this song for his coming concerts. 4s.; post free at half-price.
Publishers, Messrs. Robert Cocks and Co., New Burlington Street.

W. T. WRIGHTON'S LAST NEW SONGS.

THE WAGONER. Sung by Mr. SANTLEY.

"A lively, jovial song, full of melody and very easy—always encored—destined to rival in popularity 'The Vagabond' and 'The Yeoman's Wedding.'"

BRIGHT AS A SERAPH. Soprano or Mezzo-Soprano. "A most enchanting melody, and sure to become a great favourite."

NEW SONG, WITH FLUTE OBLIGATO,
By BENJAMIN WELLS, A.R.A.M.

THE MERRY MAID. By Composer of "The Lover and the Bird." Also, same for Voice and Piano in B♭ and C. Any of above, post free, 2s.

SIMPSON and CO., 33, ARGYLL STREET, W.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S CHORAL SONGS,
as sung by Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir, the Birmingham Festival Choral Society, &c.

No. 1. "THE SILENT LAND." Price 3d.
"Replete with melody. Some phrases are of remarkable beauty."—Musical Times.

No. 2. "THE BETTER LAND." Price 4d.
"Distinguished by beauty of melody and richness of harmony."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.
"Full of charming effects."—Birmingham Daily Post.

No. 3. "THE DAY IS DONE." Price 4d.
Composed expressly for Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

WILLIAM J. YOUNG'S POPULAR PART-SONGS for S.A.T.B.

OCTAVO.
No. 1. I love the merry springtime	...	16th edition	2d.
2. Gaily thro' the greenwood	...	25th "	2d.
3. Welcome, merry May	...	6th "	2d.
4. The mountain maid	...	6th "	2d.
5. Come o'er the mountain	...	8th "	2d.
6. Hail, merry Christmas	...	14th "	2d.
7. Songs of praise the angels sang	...	5th "	3d.
8. Blow, ye balmy breezes, blow	...	6th "	3d.
9. Fairy revels	...	8th "	3d.
10. Oh, peaceful vale of rest	...	5th "	1d.
11. The merry bird	...	5th "	3d.
12. Come, let us be merry and gay	...	4th "	3d.
13. Forest echoes	...	7th "	3d.
14. Haste, ye merry elves	...	5th "	3d.
15. The streamlet (with soprano solo)	...	2nd "	3d.
16. Sunshine and shadow	...	2nd "	2d.
17. Sunny rays (with soprano solo)	...	2nd "	3d.
18. A happy new year	...	2nd "	3d.
19. The coming of spring	...	2nd "	3d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W., or of the Composer, 6, Grove Terrace, Longsight, Manchester.

SOUTHWELL SCHOOL SONGS. First series,
1s. 6d. By the Rev. R. F. SMITH Minor Canon of Southwell.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

The Queen.—"Fourteen" (sixteen) "capital little songs in a cheap handy form. Quite new and withal pretty and neatly written."

The Schoolmaster.—"Easy, pleasing tunes, suitable to school use. The composer shows himself a true musician; each 'lay' has a separate tune, which is catching, appropriate, and quite in old ballad-song style."

The Musical Times.—"The sympathetic and musician-like manner in which he has wedded them to melodies which cannot fail to please the young vocalists for whom they are expressly designed."

By the same Composer,

TE DEUM in F, 3d. ANTHEM (S.A.T.B.), "The Lord is nigh," 6d.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW PART-SONGS.

WHO KNOWS WHAT THE BELLS SAY?

H. PARKER.

Gently blows the western gale H. Clarke.
The day hath spun its busy round H. Smart.
Evening Song G. B. Allen.

Post free 2d. each.

London: Metzler and Co., 37, Great Marlborough Street, W.

TO be SOLD, the COPYRIGHT of a new SET OF WALTZES for PIANO, already published, and about to enter the Third Edition. Considered by the Press to be "strikingly original," "time admirable for dancing," "sure to become a general favourite," &c. &c. Intending purchasers can satisfy themselves by sending for a copy on approval. Address O. T. C., "The Musical Times" Office.

Third Edition.

ALFRED ALLEN'S "GAVOTTE FESTIVALE."
"Decidedly pretty."—Queen. Played with remarkable success at the Crystal Palace Concerts, Mr. Kuhe's Brighton Festival, and at Mr. de Jong's Concerts, Manchester. 2s. net. Novello and Co.

MOZART'S FIRST MASS, arranged for Piano
Solo by VINCENT NOVELLO. Folio. 2s. 6d.

MOZART'S SECOND MASS, arranged for Piano
Solo by VINCENT NOVELLO. Folio. 3s.

MOZART'S SEVENTH MASS, arranged for
Piano Solo by VINCENT NOVELLO. Folio. 3s.

MOZART'S TWELFTH MASS, arranged for
Piano Solo by VINCENT NOVELLO. Folio. 3s.

MOZART'S REQUIEM MASS, arranged for Piano Solo by J. PITTMAN. Folio. 3s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

POPULAR PIANO PIECES.

EXCEEDINGLY LOW TERMS TO THE TRADE
AND PROFESSION.

1. QUICK MARCH	...	S. REUBENS.
2. THE STREAMLET	...	Do.
3. LA CACHUCHA	...	Do.
4. FAIRY DANCE	...	Do.
5. THE GIPSY CHORUS (Weber)	...	OSCAR DE VILLE.
6. IL TROVATORE	...	CARL GERN.
7. DON JUAN	...	Do.
8. BRITANNIA	...	J. ATTWOOD TAYLOR.
9. SCOTIA	...	Do.
10. HIBERNIA	...	Do.
11. CAMBERIA	...	Do.
12. SOUND THE LOUD TIMBREL	...	E. WILLERT.
13. EVENING PRAYER	...	Do.
14. WEBER'S LAST WALTZ	...	FR. ROCHE.
15. THURINGIA	...	H. S. COWEN.
16. OBERON (facile edition)	...	A. DE WINTER.
17. MAY FLOWERS (facile edition)	...	Do.
18. THE BRIDE WALTZ	...	J. W. MARESTON.
19. VALSE JOYEUSE	...	C. WEPFART.
20. HAYDN'S CELEBRATED ANDANTE, with Variations	...	A. DUPRE.

Accounts opened, and Parcels sent on approval, on receipt of satisfactory reference.

PATTISON & CO., Wholesale Music Publishers,
15, NORTH JOHN STREET, LIVERPOOL.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S ONLY COMPLETE AND UNIFORM EDITION OF

MENDELSSOHN'S

THIRTEEN TWO-PART SONGS.

With the German and W. BARTHOLOMEW's Original English Words.

Complete in One Volume, folio, 5s. net. Octavo, paper, 2s. net; cloth gilt, 4s. net; or singly, 2s. each. The separate Numbers are sold at half-price.

No. 1. I would that my love.	No. 7. My bark is bounding.
2. The passage bird.	8. Can I light-hearted be?
3. Greeting.	9. Evening song.
4. Autumn song.	10. Zuleika and Hassan.
5. O wert thou in the cold blast.	11. The Sabbath morn.
6. The Maybells and the flowers.	12. The harvest field.
	13. Song from Ruy Blas.

N.B.—The Quartett score to No. 13, 1s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Dedicated to the Members of the Dublin Glee and Madrigal Union.

THE CRUISEEN LAWN. (Song of the Battle Eve.) Irish Air. Words by Thomas Moore. Arranged for S.A.T.B.B. by Sir R. P. STEWART, Mus. D. Price Threepence.

THE WINE-CUP IS CIRCLING IN ALMHINN'S HALL. Irish Air. Words by Thomas Moore. Arranged for S.A.T.B.B. by Sir R. P. STEWART, Mus. D. Price Threepence.

THE BELLS OF ST. MICHAEL'S TOWER.
The subject from Knyvett's Glee for three Voices, re-written for S.A.T.B.B., with an Introduction, by Sir R. P. STEWART, Mus. D. Price Fourpence.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just published,

NEW COMPOSITIONS for the PIANOFORTE.
By OLIVER A. KING.

Legende	3s.
Impromptu Caprice	3s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NOVELLO'S ORIGINAL OCTAVO EDITION OF OPERAS,

Edited, Corrected according to the Original Scores, and Translated into English, by
NATALIA MACFARREN and BERTHOLD TOURS.
Price 2s. 6d. each; or in scarlet cloth, 4s.

NOW READY.

BEETHOVEN'S FIDELIO

(With German and English words).

With the two great Overtures as usually performed; being the only Piano Score that has been published agreeing with the Original Score as to the notes and signs for phrasing.

AUBER'S FRA DIAVOLO

(With French and English words).

Various portions of this Opera are now printed for the first time in England, making this the only English Pianoforte Score which agrees with the Composer's Original Score.

MOZART'S DON GIOVANNI

(With Italian and English words).

This Edition contains all the Recitatives, and is the only Pianoforte Score which agrees with the Author's MS., as to the notes, signs for phrasing and expression, and the stage directions; in every one of these particulars there are many new and important lights thrown upon the work.

BELLINI'S NORMA

(With Italian and English words).

VERDI'S IL TROVATORE

(With Italian and English words).

DONIZETTI'S LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR

(With Italian and English words).

WEBER'S OBERON

With the English words by J. R. PLANCHE, and Italian words as sung at Her Majesty's Opera.

ROSSINI'S IL BARBIERE

(With Italian and English words).

Containing the Music of the Recitatives, being the only complete Cheap Edition.

DONIZETTI'S LUCREZIA BORGIA

(With Italian and English words).

MOZART'S NOZZE DI FIGARO

(With Italian and English words).

Containing the Music of the Recitatives, being the only complete Cheap Edition.

VERDI'S RIGOLETTO

(With Italian and English words).

BELLINI'S LA SONNAMBULA

(With Italian and English words).

WEBER'S DER FREISCHÜTZ

(With German and English words).

WAGNER'S TANNHÄUSER

(With German and English words). Price 3s. 6d.; bound, 5s.

AUBER'S MASANIELLO

(With French and English words). Price 3s. 6d.; bound, 5s.

BELLINI'S I PURITANI

(With Italian and English words).

WAGNER'S LOHENGRIN

(With German and English words). Price 3s. 6d.; bound, 5s.

DONIZETTI'S LA FIGLIA DEL REGGIMENTO

(With Italian and English words).

ROSSINI'S GUILLAUME TELL

(With French and English words). Price 5s.; bound, 7s. 6d.

MOZART'S DIE ZAUBERFLÖTE

(With German and English words).

VERDI'S LA TRAVIATA

(With Italian and English words).

FLOTOW'S MARTHA

(With German and English words).

VERDI'S ERNANI

(With Italian and English Words.)

MOZART'S IL SERAGLIO

(With German and English Words.)

GLUCK'S IPHIGENIA IN TAURIS

(With French and English Words).

GLUCK'S IPHIGENIA IN AULIS

(With French and English words). Price 3s.; bound, 5s.

(To be continued.)

London: Novello and Co.

NOVELLO'S TONIC SOL-FA SERIES.

No.			s. d.
1.	O taste and see	Sir John Goss	0 1
2.	The Lord is my Shepherd	G. A. Macfarren	0 1
3.	Judge me, O God (Psalm xliii.)	Mendelssohn	0 1
4.	Ye nations, offer to the Lord (Hymn of Praise)	Mendelssohn	0 2
5.	I waited for the Lord (Hymn of Praise)	Mendelssohn	0 2
6.	The Lord be a Lamp (St. Peter)	Sir J. Benedict	0 1
7.	O who will o'er the downs	Pearsall	0 1
8.	Fairy Song	Agnes Zimmermann	0 1
9.	The Cuckoo sings in the Poplar Tree	G. A. Macfarren	0 1
10.	The dream of home	E. H. Thorne	0 1
11.	Blow, blow, thou winter wind... ..	G. A. Macfarren	0 1
12.	The Owl	E. Silas	0 1
13.	Sing Lullaby	C. E. Horsley	0 1
14.	The Sands of Dec... ..	G. A. Macfarren	0 1
15.	Summer Morning... ..	Henry Smart	0 1
16.	Great is the Lord... ..	Dr. Hayes	0 1
17.	Blessed is the man	Sir John Goss	0 1
18.	Te Deum Laudamus in F	Henry Smart	0 1
19.	O come let us worship	Himmel	0 1
20.	Blessed be the God and Father	S. S. Wesley	0 1
21.	Hosanna to the Son of David	G. A. Macfarren	0 1
22.	O how amiable	J. Barnby	0 1
23.	O give thanks	Sir Geo. Elvey	0 1
24.	Praise the Lord	Sir Geo. Elvey	0 1
25.	Rejoice greatly	Henry Gadsby	0 1
26.	If we believe that Jesus died	Sir John Goss	0 1
27.	I will magnify Thee	Sir John Goss	0 1
28.	O give thanks	Sir John Goss	0 1
29.	Stand up and bless the Lord	Sir John Goss	0 1
30.	Why rage fiercely the heathen	Mendelssohn	0 3
31.	What are these that are arrayed	J. Stainer	0 1
32.	O love the Lord	A. Sullivan	0 1
33.	The Wreath	Sir J. Benedict	0 1
34.	Daylight is fading... ..	H. Leslie	0 1
35.	Come away, Death	G. A. Macfarren	0 1
36.	When icicles hang	G. A. Macfarren	0 1
37.	Harvest song	W. Macfarren	0 1
38.	More life	W. Macfarren	0 1
39.	Ragged and torn	C. A. Macrone	0 1
40.	Hail, bright abode (Tannhäuser)	Wagner	0 1
41.	Faithful and True (Lohengrin)	Wagner	0 1
42.	Yet doth the Lord, and Cast thy burden (Elijah). Mendelssohn	Mendelssohn	0 1
43.	Blessed are the men (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0 1
44.	Baal, we cry to thee (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0 2
45.	Thanks be to God (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0 1
46.	Be not afraid (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0 1
47.	Lift thine eyes, He watching over Israel, and O rest in the Lord (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0 1
48.	He that shall endure (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0 1
49.	Behold, God the Lord (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0 1
50.	Holy, Holy is God the Lord (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0 1
51.	But the Lord from the North, and O come every one (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0 1
52.	And then shall your light (Elijah)	Mendelssohn	0 1
53.	All men, all things, and Praise thou the Lord (Lobgesang)	Mendelssohn	0 2
54.	All ye that cried (Lobgesang)	Mendelssohn	0 1
55.	The night is departing (Lobgesang)	Mendelssohn	0 2
56.	Let all men praise (Lobgesang)	Mendelssohn	0 1
57.	Heaven and the Earth display (Athalie)	Mendelssohn	0 3
58.	Promised joys, and Hearts feel that love thee (Athalie)	Mendelssohn	0 1
59.	Ave Maria [Female Voices] and A Vintage Song [Male Voices] (Loreley)	Mendelssohn	0 1
60.	Take, O take those lips away	G. A. Macfarren	0 1
61.	O mistress mine	G. A. Macfarren	0 1
62.	Hark! hark! the Lark	G. A. Macfarren	0 1
63.	Sigh no more, ladies	G. A. Macfarren	0 1
64.	Tell me where is fancy bred	G. A. Macfarren	0 1
65.	Chorus of Shepherds, "Forth to the meadows" Schubert	Schubert	0 1
66.	Lord, let me know mine end	Sir John Goss	0 1
67.	We give Thee thanks, O Lord... ..	G. A. Macfarren	0 1
68.	In Christ dwelleth	Sir John Goss	0 1
69.	Lift up thine eyes	Sir John Goss	0 3
70.	Glory be to God	S. S. Wesley	0 1
71.	I was glad when they said unto me	C. E. Horsley	0 2
72.	The Lord is my shepherd	Schubert	0 1
73.	The morning stars sang together	J. Stainer	0 2
74.	God said, Behold, I have given you every herb. G. A. Macfarren	G. A. Macfarren	0 3
75.	O God, Thou art worthy	Arthur Sullivan	0 1
76.	In tears of grief (The Passion—S. Matthew) J. S. Bach	J. S. Bach	0 1

(To be continued.)

ELIJAH	MENDELSSOHN	2 0
HEAR MY PRAYER	MENDELSSOHN	0 3
HYMN OF PRAISE (Lobgesang)	MENDELSSOHN	1 0
ATHALIE	MENDELSSOHN	1 0
LORELEY	MENDELSSOHN	0 6
LAUDA SION, "Praise Jehovah"	MENDELSSOHN	0 0
CHRISTUS	MENDELSSOHN	0 6

(To be continued.)

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NOVELLO'S OPERA CHORUSES,

EDITED BY

NATALIA MACFARREN AND BERTHOLD TOURS.

AUBER'S FRA DIAVOLO.

1. Comrades, fill your glasses ... 4d.
En bons militaires.
 2. Hail, festal morning ... 2d.
C'est grand fête.

AUBER'S MASANIELLO.

3. All hail the bright auspicious day ... 2d.
Du Prince objet de notre amour.
 4. All hail the bright auspicious day ... 1d.
Du Prince objet de notre amour.
 5. O holy Power—O Dieu puissant ... 1d
 6. Companions come. (Fishermen's chorus)—Amis, amis. ... 2d.
 7. Behold the morn in splendour ... 2d.
Amis la matinée est belle.
 8. Come hither all who wish to buy (Market chorus) ... 3d.
Au marché qui vient de s'ouvrir.
 9. We come, we will avenge thee ... 3d.
Courons à la vengeance.
 10. O Power benign—Saint bien heureux. (All hail, the noble victor. (March and chorus) ... 6d.
Honneur! honneur et gloire.

BEETHOVEN'S FIDELIO.

10. Oh what delight. (Prisoners' chorus) 3d.
O welche Lust.
 11. Farewell, thou warm and sunny beam 4d.
Leb' wohl, du warmes Sonnenlicht.

BELLINI'S I PURITANI.

12. When yonder bugle calls us ... 1d.
Quando la tromba squilla.
 13. Rejoice we!—A festa ... 1d.
 14. Noble Arthur, welcome ... 1d.
Ad Arturo onore.
 15. Once I sought thee—A te, o cara. ... 2d.
 16. Fatal day—Ahi! dolor ... 2d.

BELLINI'S NORMA.

17. Hasten, ye Druids, the heights ascend 2d.
Ite sul colle, O Druidi.
 18. Norma cometh—Norma viene ... 1d.
 19. Not yet gone? no, yet they linger ... 1d.
Non parti? finora è al campo.
 20. Vengeance, vengeance ... 1d.
Guerra, guerra!

BELLINI'S
LA SONNAMBULA.

21. Hail! Amina—Viva! viva Amina! 1d.
 22. Fairest flower of the mountains ... 1d.
In Elvezia non v'ha rosa.
 23. When dusky twilight—Ah fosco cielo ... 1d.
 24. Here a moment we'll shelter and rest us ... 2d.
Qui la selva è più folta ed ombrosa.

DONIZETTI'S LA FIGLIA.

25. What pleasure, what gladness ... 2d.
Cantiamo cantiamo.
 26. Hark, how the drums are rolling ... 1d.
Sprona il tamburo e incora.
 27. Rataplan, rataplan ... 1d.
Rataplan, rataplan.

DONIZETTI'S LUCIA.

28. Let us roam through these ruins deserted ... 1d.
Percorriamo le spiagge vicine.
 29. Hail, to the happy bridal day ... 1d.
Per te d'immenso giubilo.
 30. What from vengeance yet restrains me—Chi raffrena il mio furore ... 2d.
 31. With warlike minstrelsy ... 1d.
D'immenso giubilo.

DONIZETTI'S LUCREZIA BORGIA.

32. Not a word—Non far motto. ... 2d.
 33. From his window ... 1d.
Rischiata è la finestra.
 34. Would you know how to while away sorrow—Il segreto per esser felice. ... 1d.

FLOTOW'S MARTHA.

71. Bright and buxom lasses (Chorus of farmers)—Mädchen brav und treu. ... 3d.
 72. Finale. The fair begins with sound of bell—Der Markt beginnt ... 3d.

GLINKA'S
LIFE FOR THE CZAR.

66. Noble Chief! thee we hail (Polonaise with Chorus) ... 3d.

GLUCK'S
IPHIGENIA IN AULIS.

78. Why so long wilt thou try our patience ... 3d.
C'est trop faire de résistance.
 79. See what grace—Que d'attraits ... 2d.
 80. Paris never beheld ... 2d.
Non jamais aux regards.
 81. Be sad no more—Rassurez vous ... 2d.
 82. Come, sing to the praise ... 2d.
Chantez célebres.
 83. This altar never heard ... 1½d.
Jamais à tes autels.
 84. Up to the vault of heaven ... 3d.
Jusques aux voûtes éthérées.

GLUCK'S
IPHIGENIA IN TAURIS.

85. The Gods their anger turn away ... 2d.
Les dieux appaisent leur courroux.
 86. Heav'n's anger passes away ... 1½d.
Les dieux, longtemps en courroux.

MOZART'S DON GIOVANNI.

35. Let's enjoy while the season invites us ... 1d.
Giovinette, che fate all' amore.

MOZART'S
LE NOZZE DI FIGARO.

36. Come deck with flowers ... 1d.
Giovani liete.
 37. Noble Lady, fairest roses ... 1d.
Ricevete, o padroncina.
 38. Each voice now rejoices ... 1d.
Amanti, costanti.

MOZART'S
DIE ZAUBERFLÖTE.

67. Oh Isis and Osiris (Chorus of Priests) 1d.
 ROSSINI'S IL BARBIERE.

39. Sir, we humbly thank your honour ... 2d.
Mille grazie, mio signore.

ROSSINI'S
GUILLAUME TELL.

61. Brightly the rosy morn ... 1d.
Quel jour serén.
 62. Come, with flowers crown the bowers ... 2d.
Hyméne, ta journée.
 63. Hark, how the horns gaily sounding ... 2d.
Quelle sauvage harmonie.
 64. Hail to the mighty ruler ... 2d.
Gloire au pouvoir suprême.
 65. Swift as the bird in summer sky (Tyrolean) ... 1d.
Toi que l'Oiseau ne suivrait pas.

(To be continued.)

SCHUBERT'S ROSAMUNDE.

77. Forth to the meadows (Chorus of Shepherds) ... 3d.

VERDI'S IL TROVATORE.

40. See how the darkness of night dissolves. (Gipsy chorus) ... 1d.
Vedi! le fosche notturne.
 41. Now the dice invite our leisure! ... 1d.
Or co' dadi ma fra poco.
 42. Miserere Scene ... 2d.

VERDI'S RIGOLETTO.

43. Hush, in silence fulfil we our errand ... 2d.
Zitti, zitti, moviamo a vendetta.
 44. Unto a lonely abode directed. ... 1d.
Scorrendo uniti remota via.

VERDI'S LA TRAVIATA.

68. Where beauty and mirth are beckoning (Drinking song and Chorus) ... 2d.
Libiamo, ne lieti calici.
 69. We are brave Matadors (Chorus of Spanish Matadors) ... 2d.
Di Madrid noi siamo Matadori.
 70. Lo, where the pride of the people advances (Bacchanal chorus) ... 1d.
Largo al quadrupedo.

VERDI'S ERNANI.

73. Day of gladness (Introduction galop and chorus)—Exultiamo ... 1d.
 74. Rouse the long slumbering lion (Chorus of Conspirators) ... 1d.
Si redesti il Leon.
 75. We welcome, we hail thee (Chorus) 1d.
Oh, come felice.

VERDI'S NABUCO.

76. Borne by memory on bright golden pinions—Va pensiero sull'ali dorate 2d.

WAGNER'S LOHENGRIIN.

45. The call hath summoned us betimes 2d.
In Früh'n versammelt uns der Ruf
 46. We follow where he leads! ... 1d.
Zum Streite saumet nicht!
 47. May every joy attend thee ... 1d.
Gesegnet soll sie schreiten.
 48. Faithful and true we lead ye forth ... 1d.
Treulich geführt ziehet dahin.

WAGNER'S TANNHÆUSER.

49. Hail, bright abode (the March) ... 4d.
Freudig begrüßen
 50. Once more with joy. (Pilgrim's Chorus)—Beglückt darf nun dich 2d.

WEBER'S OBERON.

51. Light as fairy foot can fall ... 2d.
Lieve il piè colà volgram.
 52. Honour and joy—Gloria! omaggio 2d.
 53. Glory to the Caliph—Gloria al giusto 2d.
 54. Who would stay in her coral cave ... 4d.
Chi potria fra l'onde restar.
 55. For thee hath beauty (Women's voices)—Per te pomposa ... 3d.
 56. Do. do. (Mixed voices) 2d.

WEBER'S
DER FREYSCHUETZ.

57. Victoria, victoria—Victoria, Victoria 1d.
 58. The Bridal wreath for thee we bind... 1d.
Wir winden dir den Jungfernkranz.
 59. The joy of the Hunter. (Huntsman's chorus)—Was gleicht wohl an Erden 2d.

Nobello's Octavo Edition of Anthems.

VOLUME I.			VOLUME III.—Continued.			VOLUME V.—Continued.
No.	Bound in Cloth, gilt edges, price 7s.		No.	Price.		No.	Price.
1.	Come unto Him	Ch. Gounod 2d.	57.	What are these that	Dr. Stainer 3d.	107.	Thou wilt keep him	Dr. S. S. Wesley 3d.
2.	Glory be to God	Dr. S. S. Wesley 2d.	58.	are arrayed	John Naylor 3d.	108.	in perfect peace	Dr. S. S. Wesley 3d.
3.	O love the Lord	Arthur Sullivan 2d.	59.	If ye then be risen	John Naylor 3d.	109.	Make me a clean	J. Barnby 3d.
4.	This is the day	...J. Turle 3d.	60.	Praise the Lord, O my	Dr. S. S. Wesley 6d.	110.	heart, O God	... J. Barnby 3d.
5.	Blessing, glory	... B. Tours 4d.	61.	soul...	Dr. S. S. Wesley 6d.	111.	Ascribe unto the	Dr. S. S. Wesley 8d.
6.	I will wash my hands	E. J. Hopkins 3d.	62.	Rejoice greatly	...Henry Gadsby 3d.	112.	Lord	Dr. S. S. Wesley 8d.
7.	Judge me, O God	... Mendelssohn 4d.	63.	In Christ dwelleth	...Sir John Goss 3d.	113.	The Wilderness	Dr. S. S. Wesley 8d.
8.	O taste and see	...Sir John Goss 3d.	64.	Thou, O God, art	... S. Wesley 3d.	114.	Holy, Holy, Holy	Dr. Crotch 3d.
9.	All ye who weep	Ch. Gounod 3d.	65.	praised in Zion	... S. Wesley 3d.	115.	The Lord will com-	Dr. H. Hiles 6d.
10.	My God, my God	... Mendelssohn 6d.	66.	Praise the Lord, O my	... Dr. Garrett 6d.	116.	fort Zion	... Dr. H. Hiles 6d.
11.	O day of penitence	Ch. Gounod 6d.	67.	soul	... Dr. Garrett 6d.	117.	All they that trust in	Dr. Hiller 8d.
12.	O come near to the	Ch. Gounod 8d.	68.	Blessed is the man	...Sir John Goss 4d.	118.	Thee, Lord	... Dr. Hiller 8d.
13.	cross	... Ch. Gounod 8d.	69.	Behold now, praise ye	... J. B. Calkin 3d.	VOLUME VI.
14.	This is the day	John Sewell 2d.	70.	the Lord	Dr. S. S. Wesley 4d.	Bound in Cloth, gilt edges, price 7s.
15.	O praise the Lord	J. Barnby 4d.	71.	O give thanks	Dr. S. S. Wesley 4d.	119.	I was glad	T. Attwood 4d.
16.	Blessed be the God...	Dr. Wesley 4d.	72.	The Lord is my Shep-	... F. Schubert 4d.	120.	Who is this that cometh	Dr. Arnold 4d.
17.	O give thanks	Sir G. Elvey 3d.	73.	herd. Psalm xxiii.	... F. Schubert 4d.	121.	Call to remembrance	J. Battisill 6d.
18.	O give thanks	William Rea 3d.	74.	s.s.a.a	... F. Schubert 4d.	122.	I have set God	Dr. Blake 6d.
19.	Lift up your heads	Dr. J. L. Hopkins 1½d.	75.	Stand up and bless	...Sir John Goss 4d.	123.	Bow Thine ear	W. Bird 3d.
20.	Therefore with angels	V. Novello 2d.	76.	the Lord	...Sir John Goss 4d.	124.	I was in the spirit	Dr. Blow 6d.
21.	With angels and arch-	Dr. J. L. Hopkins 3d.	77.	Wherewithal shall a	... Sir G. Elvey 6d.	125.	I beheld, and lo	Dr. Blow 6d.
22.	angels	Dr. J. L. Hopkins 3d.	78.	young man...	... Sir G. Elvey 4d.	126.	By the waters	Dr. Boyce 4d.
23.	Praise the Lord, O	...Sir John Goss 6d.	79.	Praise the Lord	...Sir F. Ouseley 3d.	127.	I have surely	Dr. Boyce 4d.
24.	my soul	...Sir John Goss 6d.	80.	Thou wilt keep him	Dr. Gauntlett 3d.	128.	O where shall wisdom	Dr. Boyce 6d.
25.	Word of God incar-	Ch. Gounod 3d.	81.	I will cry unto God...	Dr. Steggall 3d.	129.	O praise God	Dr. Clarke 6d.
26.	nate...	Ch. Gounod 3d.	82.	We have heard with	... Arthur Sullivan 6d.	130.	Praise the Lord	J. Clark 3d.
27.	Why rage fiercely the	Mendelssohn 6d.	83.	our ears	Arthur Sullivan 6d.	131.	I will love Thee, O Lord	J. Clark 4d.
28.	heathen	Mendelssohn 6d.	84.	God said, Behold I	... G. A. Macfarren 6d.	132.	We will rejoice	Dr. Croft 4d.
29.	As the hart pants	Ch. Gounod 3d.	85.	have given you	... G. A. Macfarren 6d.	133.	God is gone up	Dr. Croft 4d.
30.	O Lord, our Govern-	Henry Gadsby 3d.	86.	every herb...	... G. A. Macfarren 6d.	134.	Hosanna	O. Gibbons 3d.
31.	our	Henry Gadsby 3d.	87.	We give Thee thanks,	... G. A. Macfarren 3d.	135.	I have set God	J. Goldwin 3d.
32.	Wherewithal shall a	Dr. H. Hiles 3d.	88.	O Lord	... G. A. Macfarren 3d.	136.	God is our hope	Dr. Greene 6d.
33.	young man	Dr. H. Hiles 3d.	89.	Blessed are they	W. H. Monk 3d.	VOLUME VII.
34.	I will magnify Thee	Sir John Goss 3d.	90.	I will magnify Thee	J. B. Calkin 4d.	Bound in Cloth, gilt edges, price 7s.
35.	Fear not, O land	...Sir John Goss 6d.	VOLUME IV.			137.	Let God arise	Dr. Greene 6d.
36.	I will give thanks	J. Barnby 4d.	Bound in Cloth, gilt edges, price 7s.			138.	O clap your hands	Dr. Greene 4d.
37.	All Thy works praise	... E. H. Thorne 3d.	79.	I was glad	C. E. Horsley 6d.	139.	I will sing	Dr. Greene 4d.
38.	Thee, O Lord	... E. H. Thorne 3d.	80.	Psalm Forty-seven,	... S.S.A. ... E. H. Thorne 6d.	140.	O worship the Lord	Dr. Hayes 6d.
39.	The wilderness	...Sir John Goss 6d.	81.	s.s.a.	... E. H. Thorne 6d.	141.	Great is the Lord	Dr. Hayes 4d.
40.	I was glad	... Sir G. Elvey 3d.	82.	Plead Thou my cause	Mozart 6d.	142.	Praise the Lord	Dr. Hayes 4d.
41.	In Thee, O Lord	B. Tours 3d.	83.	O clap your hands	Dr. Stainer 6d.	143.	Hear, O Heavens	P. Humphreys 3d.
42.	O God, Thou art wor-	Arthur Sullivan 4d.	84.	The Lord is King	...Henry Gadsby 6d.	144.	Hear, O Lord	C. King 2d.
43.	thy to be praised	Arthur Sullivan 4d.	85.	The Lord that made	J. Turle 2d.	145.	The souls of the	Dr. Nares 3d.
44.	O God, have mercy	J. Baptiste Calkin 4d.	86.	heaven and earth...	J. Turle 2d.	146.	O God, Thou art my God	H. Purcell 3d.
45.	Sing praises	Ch. Gounod 6d.	87.	When Jesus, our Lord	Mendelssohn 6d.	147.	O sing unto the Lord	H. Purcell 6d.
46.	Lead, kindly light	Dr. Stainer 4d.	88.	The morning stars	Dr. Stainer 6d.	148.	Be merciful	H. Purcell 6d.
47.	Remember now thy	Dr. Steggall 4d.	89.	O that I knew where	Sir W. S. 3d.	149.	O give thanks	H. Purcell 6d.
48.	Creator	Dr. Steggall 4d.	90.	I might find Him	Bennett 3d.	150.	Rejoice in the Lord	H. Purcell 3d.
49.	The Lord is loving	Dr. Garrett 3d.	91.	Give ear, O ye heavens	Dr. Armes 3d.	151.	Hear my prayer	C. Stroud 4d.
50.	O praise God	T. T. Trimmell 4d.	92.	Behold I bring you	J. Barnby 3d.	152.	Ascribe unto the Lord	J. Travers 6d.
51.	The Lord is King	T. T. Trimmell 4d.	93.	Distracted with care	Haydn 4d.	153.	In Thee, O Lord	J. Weldon 3d.
52.	O give thanks	...Sir John Goss 3d.	94.	and anguish	Haydn 4d.	154.	Awake, awake	M. Wise 4d.
53.	Hosanna to the Son	G. A. Macfarren 3d.	95.	It came even to pass	Sir F. Ouseley 4d.	155.	Awake up, my glory	M. Wise 3d.
54.	of David	G. A. Macfarren 3d.	96.	Break forth into joy	Ridley Prentice 6d.	156.	Prepare ye the way	M. Wise 3d.
55.	The Lord is great	W. T. Best 3d.	97.	These are they	Rev. J. B. Dykes 1s.	VOLUME VIII.
56.	Prepare ye the way	Dr. Garrett 3d.	98.	Hear, O Lord	...Sir John Goss 2d.	157.	The Lord is my	J. Shaw 3d.
57.	Father of Heaven	Dr. Walmisley 3d.	99.	Come and let us return	Wm. Jackson 3d.	158.	I will magnify Thee	J. Shaw 3d.
58.	Thy dwellings	J. Barnby 3d.	100.	Lift up thine eyes	...Sir John Goss 6d.	159.	I will mention	Arthur Sullivan 6d.
59.	O how amiable are	... J. Barnby 3d.	101.	Blow ye the trumpet	Henry Leslie 3d.	160.	The righteous shall	flourish
60.	Thy dwellings	J. Barnby 3d.	102.	Brother, thou art gone	...Sir John Goss 4d.	161.	I will give thanks	E. J. Hopkins 6d.
61.	goodness	T. M. Pattison 3d.	103.	before us	...Sir John Goss 4d.	162.	They that go down...	T. Attwood 4d.
62.	God be merciful	Dr. S. S. Wesley 3d.	104.	How lovely are Thy	Spohr 8d.	163.	O ye that love the Lord	Sir G. Elvey 4d.
63.	The Lord is my light	Dr. H. Hiles 3d.	105.	dwellings fair	Spohr 8d.	164.	Praise God in His holiness	B. Tours 3d.
64.	O Saving Victim (No. 2)	Ch. Gounod 4d.	106.	God came from	Dr. Steggall 4d.	165.	Unto Thee have I cried	S. G. Cooke 3d.
65.	Come, and let us return	Sir J. Goss 3d.	107.	Glory	Henry Smart 4d.	166.	This is the day...	... S. G. Cooke 3d.
66.			108.			167.	Hear, O Lord	... Sir F. Ouseley 4d.
67.			109.			168.	The Lord hath done great	things
68.			110.			169.	Rejoice in the Lord	F. R. Statham 4d.
69.			111.			170.	Lord, how are they	increased
70.			112.			171.	O pray for the peace	E. H. Thorne 4d.
71.			113.			172.	Sing to the Lord	H. Smart 1s.
72.			114.			173.	I desired wisdom	J. Stainer 6d.
73.			115.			(To be continued.)
74.			116.
75.			117.
76.			118.
77.			119.
78.			120.
79.			121.
80.			122.
81.			123.
82.			124.
83.			125.
84.			126.
85.			127.
86.			128.
87.			129.
88.			130.
89.			131.
90.			132.
91.			133.
92.			134.
93.			135.
94.			136.
95.			137.
96.			138.
97.			139.
98.			140.
99.			141.
100.			142.
101.			143.
102.			144.
103.			145.
104.			146.
105.			147.
106.			148.
107.			149.
108.			150.
109.			151.
110.			152.
111.			153.
112.			154.
113.			155.
114.			156.
115.			157.
116.			158.
117.			159.
118.			160.
119.			161.
120.			162.
121.			163.
122.			164.
123.			165.
124.			166.
125.			167.
126.			168.
127.			169.
128.			170.
129.			171.
130.			172.
131.			173.
132.			174.
133.			175.
134.			176.
135.			177.
136.			178.
137.			179.
138.			180.
139.			181.
140.			182.
141.			183.
142.			184.
143.			185.
144.			186.
145.			187.
146.			188.
147.			189.
148.			190.
149.			191.
150.			192.
151.			193.
152.			194.
153.			195.
154.			196.

MOZART'S SONATAS

(NEW AND COMPLETE EDITION)

EDITED AND FINGERED BY

AGNES ZIMMERMANN.

In One Volume, Folio, handsomely bound in cloth,
gilt edges, price Eighteen Shillings;

No.	OR, SINGLY—					s.	d.
1. C major	4	0
2. F major	4	0
3. B♭ major	4	0
4. E♭ major	3	0
5. G major	4	0
6. D major	6	0
7. C major	5	0
8. A minor	5	0
9. D major	5	0
10. C major	4	0
11. A major	4	0
12. F major	5	0
13. B♭ major	5	0
14. C minor (Fantasia)	3	0
14A. C minor (Sonata)	5	0
15. F major	6	0
16. C major	4	0
17. F major	4	0
18. B♭ major	5	0
19. D major	5	0
20. B♭ major	5	0

OCTAVO EDITION IN PREPARATION.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO.'S

COMPLETE EDITION OF

MENDELSSOHN'S

PIANOFORTE WORKS.

	s.	d.
VOLUME I., elegantly bound in cloth, folio..	12	0
Ditto ditto .. 8vo., 8s.; paper cover	6	0
VOLUME II., elegantly bound in cloth, folio ..	12	0
Ditto ditto .. 8vo., 8s.; paper cover	6	0
VOLUME III., elegantly bound in cloth, folio ..	12	0
Ditto ditto .. 8vo., 8s.; paper cover	6	0
VOLUME IV., Lieder ohne Worte, elegantly bound in cloth, folio ..	12	0
Ditto ditto .. 8vo., 6s.; paper cover	4	0

The only Edition containing the 7th and 8th Books.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

JUST PUBLISHED, EIGHTEEN TWO-PART SONGS

With Pianoforte Accompaniment,

COMPOSED BY

ANTON RUBINSTEIN.

Op. 48 and 67.

THE ENGLISH VERSION BY NATALIA MACFARREN.

Price Four Shillings.

CONTENTS.

- | | |
|---------------------------|---|
| 1. The Angel. | 10. The turtledove and the wanderer. |
| 2. Birdie. | 11. Twilight. |
| 3. The homestead. | 12. Autumn sadness. |
| 4. The merry maidens. | 13. Song of the summer birds. |
| 5. Wanderer's night song. | 14. In the wood. |
| 6. The hour of parting. | 15. Faith in spring. |
| 7. Night. | 16. Pass by. |
| 8. The cloud. | 17. Rest after storm. |
| 9. The happy birds. | 18. The lotos flower. |

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

FOURTEEN SONGS

SET TO

POEMS OF ROBERT BURNS,

BY ROBERT FRANZ.

Edited and Adapted by Natalia Macfarren.

Paper covers, 2s. 6d.

CONTENTS.

- | | |
|------------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| Twa sweet e'en. | Ye banks and braes. |
| My bonny Mary. | Altho' my bed were in yon moor. |
| Oh! wert thou in the frozen blast. | Thou hast left me ever, Jamie. |
| My heart is sair. | How can my heart be glad. |
| The Highland lassie. | So far away. |
| The lovely lass of Inverness. | My love is like a red, red rose. |
| Phillis the fair. | My heart's in the Highlands. |

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW PIANOFORTE PIECE BY LISZT.

ROSE, SOFTLY BLOOMING

ROMANCE

By L. SPOHR.

TRANSCRIBED FOR THE PIANOFORTE BY

FRANZ LISZT.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED, PIANOFORTE COMPOSITIONS BY LEFEBURE-WELY.

TITANIA. Fantasia de Concert, pour Piano. Solo, 4s.; Duet, 4s.
HOP. Caprice Brilliant pour Piano. Op. 186. Solo, 5s.; Duet, 5s.
SIX ROMANCES SANS PAROLES, pour Piano. Op. 160. 3s. each.

- No. 1. La Sesia (Italie). Réverie.
2. La Wartha (Allemagne). Mélodie.
3. La Neva (Russie). Caprice.
4. La Guadiana (Espagne). Sérénade.
5. La Lys (France). Réverie.
6. La Dyle (Belgique). Berceuse.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, &c.

OCTAVO EDITION OF CHORUS PARTS

To the following Oratorios are published, with the Music and Text, in very large type.

	s.	d.
HANDEL'S MESSIAH	each	0 8
" JUDAS MACCABÆUS	"	0 8
" ISRAEL IN EGYPT	"	1 0
" SAMSON	"	0 8
HAYDN'S CREATION	"	0 6
MENDELSSOHN'S ELIJAH	"	1 6
" ST. PAUL	"	1 0
" &c., &c.	"

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION

TWELVE SONGS

WITH

ENGLISH AND GERMAN WORDS

COMPOSED BY

SIR W. STERNDALE BENNETT

Op. 23. No. 1. MUSING ON THE ROARING OCEAN.

2. MAY DEW.

3. FORGET-ME-NOT.

4. TO CHLOE (IN SICKNESS).

5. THE PAST.

6. GENTLE ZEPHYR.

Op. 35. No. 7. INDIAN LOVE.

8. WINTER'S GONE.

9. DAWN, GENTLE FLOWER.

10. CASTLE GORDON.

11. AS LONESOME THROUGH THE WOODS.

12. SING, MAIDEN, SING.

Price, in paper covers, 4s.; cloth boards, 6s.

Also separately, folio size, price 1s. 6d. each net.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE STEINWAY PIANOFORTES

(STEINWAY HALL, NEW YORK).

It is pretty well known that the SUPREME POSITION among the Pianofortes of the world belongs to the STEINWAY PIANOFORTE, whatever test of excellence or measure of comparative values may be applied. But it should also be understood that it is simply impossible for any one to form an adequate conception of the artistic, scientific, and structural perfection to which the modern Pianoforte has attained without hearing and seeing the Steinway Instruments.

It should, moreover, be noticed that the Steinway Instruments are not merely the GREATEST PIANOFORTES IN THE WORLD, but are also the sources of every scientific improvement introduced into European Pianofortes within the past quarter of a century. Every maker without exception, whether in Europe or America, whose Pianofortes display any indications of progress within the period indicated has derived them from the Steinway Instruments; and, conversely, every maker who has not empirically copied the Steinway Pianofortes has made no important improvement in his instruments, but remains the mere reproducer of the imperfect types of pianoforte construction belonging to a past generation.

It may also be mentioned that the STEINWAY PIANOFORTES have been supplied to almost every Royal Family in Europe, from the Imperial and Grand Ducal Palaces at St. Petersburg to the Vatican; have received the eulogium of almost every contemporary Pianist, Composer, and other Musician of world-wide fame; the academic honours of the principal Art and Science corporations of Europe—Paris, Berlin, Stockholm, &c.; the eulogies of the greater authorities in the science of acoustics, such as Helmholtz and Lissajous; the highest awards of the four representative International Exhibitions—London (1862), Paris (1867), Vienna (1873), and Philadelphia (1876); and enjoy both the widest distribution and the largest annual sale of any pianofortes throughout the world.

TYPICAL EXTRACTS.

"Your unrivalled grand pianos are certainly the most perfect instruments I have met with, especially your latest achievement, the Centennial Grand Piano. Their volume of tone is simply marvellous, and at the same time of truly musical and poetic quality, which never changes its noble character under either the most delicate or the most powerful touch; with an action of the most unerring precision, power, elasticity, and unequalled durability under the severest trials."—Madame Arabella Goddard.

"Their tone is marvellously grand, of exquisite poetic and sympathetic quality, which was to me a perfect revelation when trying the Steinway Piano for the first time; and it is just this thoroughly musical quality of tone, invariably characterising your pianos, which grows both upon hearer and player, that a cultivated musical ear will prefer the tone of your pianos to all others. The touch is simply perfect—elastic, pliable, and promptly responding to all and every demand made by the pianist."—Miss Marie Krebs.

CENTRAL DEPÔT FOR GREAT BRITAIN:

28, BAKER STREET, PORTMAN SQUARE, LONDON, W.

THE

GEORGE WOODS & Co.'s AMERICAN ORGANS.

These Instruments are celebrated the world over for their remarkably pure and brilliant quality of tone; their great capacity for variety of effect (which is owing to the use of their famous

COMBINATION SOLO STOPS:

ÆOLINE,

VOX HUMANA—an additional Set of Reeds,
PIANO,

All of which are separate and additional sets of reeds and bars, so arranged as to admit of an almost endless variety of orchestral effects and beautiful combinations; and their extraordinary power, elegance of style, and thorough construction and finish. These are the only Instruments that have made their way without the publication of a single Testimonial or puff of any kind, or Exhibition for competition for awards. They stand upon their own merits.

S. G. DENNIS, Sole European Agent, 16, LUDGATE HILL, LONDON, E.C.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LISTS POST FREE.

JOHN BRINSMEAD AND SONS'

Patented 1862, 1868, 1871,
and 1875, in Great Britain,
France, Prussia, Austria,
Italy, Belgium, and America.

GOLD MEDAL PIANOS.

18, WIGMORE STREET, LONDON, W.

ON THE THREE YEARS' SYSTEM.

The Grand Prize Medal and Diploma of
Merit, Philadelphia, 1876.
The Grand Diploma of Honour, Paris, 1874.
The Gold Medal, Paris, 1870.
Le Diplôme de la Mention Extraordinaire,
Amsterdam, 1869.
La Médaille d'Honneur, Paris, 1867.
Prize Medal, London, 1862, etc., etc.

Gilbert L. Bauer's Prize Medal Drawing Room Organs, from 8 Guineas to 300 Guineas.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

SIR JULIUS BENEDICT. { "This most ingenious and valuable invention cannot fail to meet with success."
SYDNEY SMITH. { "The touch is absolute perfection."
BRINLEY RICHARDS. { "A very clever and useful invention, and likely to be extensively adopted."

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS. Six feet six inches in length, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action. Price, 90 to 100 Guineas.

"The tone of the Grand now referred to possessed all the qualities that a good piano ought to have, and in touch and action was perfect.
The sweet and silvery quality of the upper octaves was worthy of special admiration."—The Era.

"Sir Julius Benedict played his well-known composition, 'Where the Bee Sucks,' on one of Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons' Grand Pianos, with the recently patented improvements, which enabled him to produce the sustained tones with great variety of effect in the light and shade of tones, especially so when extreme delicacy of touch is required."—Court Journal.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS. Six feet six inches in length, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action. Price, 90 to 115 Guineas.

"Admirable repetition, perfect sostenuto, and luscious tone of the instrument fully justified the performer's choice."—Sunday Times.

"Magnificent, grand, the air telling out with almost vocal clearness and sweetness to the bell-like treble arpeggio accompaniment, which contrasted excellently with the extraordinary power produced in the forte passages."—Illustrated Sporting and Dramatic News.

"An immense improvement in arpeggios. The rapid passages in the upper register, the beautiful flute-like tone, and quick and perfect repetition, were very effective."—Figaro.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' CONCERT IRON GRAND PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Re- peater Action.

"Sir Julius Benedict, now seldom heard as a soloist, delighted the public once more by his arrangement of 'Where the Bee Sucks.' He played upon a new Patent Grand by Brinsmead, possessing a remarkably loud and clear tone."—Echo.

"The upright Iron Grand Piano, with sostenente sounding-board, the mechanism produces the obvious result of a fuller and richer tone."
—Morning Advertiser.

"Every means are adopted to ensure the production of perfect instruments."—The Orchestra.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON

GRAND PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

"Where all the pianos go to seems somewhat of a mystery, for a really good instrument will last a lifetime: and yet every year thousands are made by each of the great London manufacturers, while the numbers made by the 200 or more smaller firms must represent an enormous number in the course of each year. The improvements made in English pianos have caused this trade rapidly to increase, until one pianoforte manufactory after another has been built to supply the growing demand. One of the largest of these, lately erected by Messrs.
John Brinsmead and Sons, of Wigmore Street, covers nearly an acre of ground in the Grafton Road, Kentish Town, and is intended to accommodate 300 workmen. These works alone can supply 3,000 pianos annually, and there are at least three manufactories in London capable of making an equal number."—Illustrated London News.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

"A metal bridge of a peculiar form is used to produce the treble, and a much finer tone is produced than if a wooden bridge were used."—Morning Post.

"A perfect check, great power, and quick repetition."—Times of India.

"Produces a better quality of tone, greater durability, the new patent perfect repetition, with a check (never before attained), with the certainty of the instrument never blocking."—Land and Water.

"Beautiful, light, and elastic touch, and an instant repetition."—Globe.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

"The softest touch is sufficient to secure a reply, the touch and facility of repetition are really perfect."—Belgravia.

"The advantages fully justify the term 'Perfect' Check Repeater Action."—John Bull.

"The touch is very sure, light, and elastic."—Musical Times.

"This invention is simplicity itself."—The Queen.

"The latest and greatest improvements in the pianoforte."—City Press.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

On the Three Years' System.

"Receive the greatest approbation everywhere of musicians and manufacturers."—Standard.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL

PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action, from 31 to 500 Guineas. May be obtained of all the principal Musicsellers.

GUARANTEED FOR FIVE YEARS.

•• ILLUSTRATED PRICE LISTS AND DESCRIPTIONS, WITH OPINIONS OF THE LONDON PRESS AND MUSICAL PROFESSION, FORWARDED POST FREE UPON APPLICATION,

JOHN BRINSMEAD & SONS,

18, WIGMORE ST., LONDON, W.,

AND THE "BRINSMEAD PIANOFORTE WORKS," GRAFTON ROAD, KENTISH TOWN, N.W.

391

THE MUSICAL TIMES

Nº

410

217151-4

REDUCED PRICES, 1877.

Messrs. NOVELLO, EWER & Co. have the honour to announce that the undermentioned works have been reduced in price, and may now be had at the following rates.

MENDELSSOHN'S ELIJAH, Three Shillings.

MENDELSSOHN'S ELIJAH { Tonic Sol-fa } 1s. 6d.
Edition

BENNETT'S MAY QUEEN, Three Shillings.

BARNBY'S REBEKAH, Two Shillings.

BENEDICT'S ST. PETER, Three Shillings.

BACH'S PASSION (S. MATTHEW), Two Shillings.

Messrs. NOVELLO, EWER & Co. also beg to announce that the undermentioned works may now be had at a uniform rate of

ONE SHILLING EACH.

HANDEL'S MESSIAH

(Novello's Pocket Edition).

HANDEL'S

ACIS AND GALATEA.
DETTINGEN TE DEUM.

BEETHOVEN'S

ENGEDI (Mount of Olives).
MASS IN C.

CHERUBINI'S

REQUIEM MASS.

GOUNOD'S

MESSE SOLENNELLE.

WEBER'S

MASS IN E FLAT.
MASS IN G.

HAYDN'S

FIRST MASS.
THIRD MASS (Imperial).

MENDELSSOHN'S

HYMN OF PRAISE.
WALPURGIS-NIGHT.

MOZART'S

FIRST MASS.
TWELFTH MASS.
REQUIEM MASS.

SPOHR'S

LAST JUDGMENT.

AND

ROSSINI'S STABAT MATER.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

The Music Pages only are stereotyped; those persons who would possess the Musical Articles, Notices, Advertisements, &c., can only ensure doing so by taking the work as it appears.

No. 410.—Vol. 18.
Registered for transmission abroad.

APRIL 1, 1877.

Price 3d.; Post free, 4d.
Annual Subscription, Postage free, 4s.

PETERBOROUGH CATHEDRAL.—There will be a trial for a CHORISTER BOY (age 8½ to 10½) in April. Application to be made to Mr. H. Keeton, Minister Precincts, Peterborough. The Choristers receive a classical education at the Cathedral Grammar School. Head Master, Rev. W. D. Sweeting, M.A.

WANTED, BOYS' VOICES, Altos and Tenors. Liberal stipend, according to merit. Apply at St. Mary-at-Hill Church, Eastcheap, City, on Sundays or Thursdays about 8.30 p.m.

WANTED, immediately, for the Choir of S. John's, Torquay, four good LEADING BOYS (three Trebles and one Alto). They will receive a thorough musical education, a yearly stipend (according to ability), and will be boarded and lodged in the Organist's house. Address, Organist, S. John's, Torquay.

TWO LEADING TREBLES WANTED for the Surplised Choir of S. James's, Clapham Park. Salary £5 to £10, with good musical education. Also, two BASSES, salary £10. Apply to the Organist on Fridays, 8 to 9 p.m., at the Church.

SOPRANO WANTED, for a City Church. Good reader and fair voice. Duties twice on Sundays, and Wednesday practice. Salary to commence, £7 per annum. Apply by letter, Mr. Bicknell, 4, Primrose Street, Bishopsgate.

A SOPRANO, with sweet and powerful voice, good reader and finished style, desires a SUNDAY ENGAGEMENT. Address, C. C., care of Mr. Innes, 111, King Street, Hammersmith.

VOICES WANTED for a West End Church Choir. Apply to Musicus, 7, Sussex Place, S.W.

ALTO WANTED for a Church at Paddington (a Communicant). Choral Service; Surplised Choir. Two Services on Sunday; Rehearsal on week-day. Must be able to read music at sight. Address Mus. Bac., Messrs. Novello.

TENOR.—A good Soloist, and well experienced in Church and other Music. Has held present appointment 4 years. City church preferred, with full choral service. Address H. D. P., 134, Falmouth Road, New Kent Road, S.E.

SOUTHWELL MINSTER.—WANTED, a LAY CLERK. Bass. Daily services. Attendance at practice when required by the Organist. Salary for thoroughly efficient choirman £60. None but qualified singers need apply. Applications, stating age and inclosing testimonials as to character and musical efficiency, to be addressed to W. W. Ringrose, Mus. Bac., Oxon., Vicar's Court, Southwell, Notts.

WIMBORNE MINSTER.—WANTED a BASS SINGER. Salary £25 a year. Apply to J. Whitehead Smith, Organist.

ORGANIST WANTED for Belhaven United Presbyterian Church, Glasgow. Applications, in writing, to be lodged on or before 15th April with Mr. James Boyd, Writer, 95, Wellington Street, Glasgow.

WANTED, a CHOIRMASTER for St. James's Church, Clapton. Salary, 20 guineas. Address, the Rev. the Vicar of St. James's, Clapton, Kenninghall Hall Road, E.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—A Professional Gentleman requires a RE-ENGAGEMENT as above. Address H. J. Dean, 2, Blomfield Street, Finsbury, E.C.

RE-ENGAGEMENT desired (in or near London), by an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER of several years' experience. Communicant. Excellent testimonials and references. Good Organ and Choral Service preferred. Is a pupil of Dr. G. A. Macfarren, and during the last eighteen months has been in Berlin, studying the higher branches of composition under Prof. Kiel. Will return to England in April. Address Organist, care of Rev. R. Bellson, 109, Königgrätzer Strasse, Berlin.

ORGANIST.—A Lady, thoroughly qualified, desires a RE-ENGAGEMENT in or near Brighton. Address Organist, St. Andrew's House, St. Andrew's Terrace, Church Street, Hove, Brighton.

WANTED, immediately, for the Parish Church of Killarney, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Must be a good vocalist. Liberal salary to a competent man. Apply, stating terms, &c., to Rev. Gerald de C. Meade, Killarney, Ireland.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO., General Printers. Books, Newspapers, Illustrated Catalogues, Circulars, &c.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO., Typographical Music Printers. Hymnals, Books for Church Festivals, &c.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO., Lithographic Music Printers. Illustrated Titles, Engraving, &c.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO., Colour Printers. Show Cards, Labels, Almanacks, &c.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO., Lithographic Printers. Maps, Plans, Circulars, &c.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO. are prepared to forward estimates for the above or any other variety of printing. Works—69 & 70, Dean-street, Soho, W.

MUSICAL AGENCY.—WANTED, a GENTLEMAN, with £2,000 at command, to join the Advertiser (who has a large connection in the highest circles) in this business at the West End. Address "Cornet," at Horncastle's Central Advertisement Offices, 2, Queen Street, E.C.

WANTED, an ENGAGEMENT as ORGANIST, MUSIC and CHOIR MASTER in a high-class School or College. Address M. B., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MR. DONALD W. KING and Miss JANET KING beg to inform their pupils and friends that they have REMOVED from Woburn Place to Cumberland Villa, Cavendish Road, Kilburn, N.W.

THE ORGANIST of St. John's Church, Caterham, has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL. He will receive a thorough Musical Education, &c. For particulars apply to C. J. Tugwell, Organist, Caterham.

MR. C. J. TUGWELL, having resigned his present appointment, is desirous of an ENGAGEMENT as ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. London preferred. Address as above.

THE ORGANIST of the Parish Church, Dorking, has a VACANCY for a PROFESSIONAL PUPIL. Daily choral services. Large three-manual organ. Good advantages.

MRS. OSGOOD requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Oratorios and Miscellaneous Concerts may be addressed to Mr. N. Vert, 52, New Bond Street, W.

MR. FARLEY SINKINS (Basso), having relinquished his duties at Christ Church Cathedral, is now open to accept engagements for Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Address 9, Lyme Street, Camden Town, N.W., or St. Aldate's, Oxford.

MR. CHARLES JOSEPH FROST begs to inform his pupils and friends that he has REMOVED to 73, Farleigh Road, Stoke Newington, N. Red tram-cars direct from Moorgate Street. Nearest station, Rectory Road.

THE GUITAR.—MDME. SIDNEY PRATTEN, Teacher of this elegant instrument, is in Town for the Season. For Lessons and Concerts, address 22a, Dorset Street, Portman Square.

MUSICAL DEGREES and EXAMINATIONS.—J. W. HINTON, Mus. Doc., M.A., 40, Albany Street, N.W., prepares candidates for Mus. B. or Mus. D., of Oxford, Cambridge, or Dublin, in all branches they may require. Dr. H. continues to revise or orchestrate for composers. Harmony and Counterpoint by post if required.

DR. SLOMAN gives LESSONS to CANDIDATES preparing for Musical Degrees. Oakdene, Lower Norwood.

A GENTLEMAN is desirous of giving LESSONS by post in HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT. References from present pupils, if desired. Terms very moderate. Address Magister, Musical Times Office, 1, Berners Street, London, W.

MR. JOHN HILES, 41, Aldridge Road Villas, W. (Author of the "Catechism of Harmony, Thorough-bass, and Modulation," "Hiles' Short Voluntaries," "Catechism for the Pianoforte Student," and several other important musical works), gives Lessons in Harmony, &c., by post.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES

MISS ARTHUR (Soprano)

(Formerly Butterley House, Leeds).

For Oratorios and Concerts, address 22, Oak Villas, Watson Road, Broomhill, Sheffield.

MISS FLORENCE CLYDE (Soprano).

For Opera, Oratorio, and Concerts, 24, Walterton Road, W.

MRS. WARREN (Soprano).

Of Mr. C. Hallé's Concerts. For Oratorio or other Concerts, address 150, Radnor Street, Hulme, Manchester.

Lessons in Singing. References—C. Hallé, Esq., and E. Hecht, Esq.

MRS. ALFRED J. SUTTON (Soprano)

Is open to engagements for Concerts and Oratorios.

54, Duchess Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

MISS M. B. CRICHTON (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 2, Halfield Place, Bradford.

MISS RUTH HARLOW (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address Mr. E. Hermann, Athenæum, Manchester.

MISS LOUISA BOWMONT (Contralto)

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address 51, Mercer Street, Embden Street, Hulme.

MR. WELBYE WALLACE (Tenor)

(Of the Crystal Palace, and Gentlemen's Concerts, Manchester, &c. &c.). Having returned from abroad, is free to accept engagements for Concerts, Opera, or Oratorio. All communications to be addressed (care of) Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

MR. VERNEY BINNS (Tenor)

(Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Sig. Ciro Pinsuti). For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 6, New Bond Street, Halifax.

MR. DUNCAN FINLAY (Tenor).

Opera, Oratorio, and Concert Party, 24, Walterton Road, W.

MR. GREENHILL (Tenor).

For Concerts, Pupils, &c., 7, Alma Square, St. John's Wood.

MR. ADOLPHUS PHILLIPS (Basso)

(Of the Cathedral, Lincoln).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 92, Newland, Lincoln.

MR. HENRY POPE (Basso).

9, Malden Crescent, N.W.

MR. A. McCALL (Bass).

For Oratorios and Concerts, address Minster, York.

MR. RICKARD (Bass)

(Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Signor Ciro Pinsuti). For Oratorios and Concerts, address King Cross, Halifax, Yorkshire.

MR. THORNTON WOOD (Bass)

(Of the Royal Albert Hall Concerts). For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 2, Halfield Place, Bradford, Yorkshire.

MR. WILLIAM W. MEADOWS (Pianist).

Address 39, Thurloe Place, South Kensington, S.W.

ALBERT E. BISHOP

(Organ, Harmony, and Counterpoint).

Address 26, Wilson Street, E.C.

MR. J. SHARPE (Oboe Player).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 235, Lidgett Hill, Pudsey, nr. Leeds. Bandmasters and others supplied with Tricbert's and Morton's celebrated Oboes. Best Oboe Reeds, 2s. each; Staples Recaned, 1s. each.

MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS.—CANDIDATES TRAINED For Examinations, either personally or by correspondence. Dr. Holloway, F.C.O., 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.TO COMPOSERS.—Dr. HOLLOWAY continues to Revise and Arrange every description of Music for Publication. Students prepared for the profession or for examinations. If residing at a distance, lessons can be had by post. Faults pointed out, and every information given to the young aspirant. Dr. Holloway, F.C.O., 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.PIANOFORTE, ORGAN, HARMONIUM, SINGING, HARMONY, and COMPOSITION. LESSONS to Private Pupils or in Schools. Dr. Arthur S. Holloway, 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.MR. HUMPHREY J. STARK, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., S.C.F., undertakes to prepare candidates for Musical Examinations, and to give Lessons in Harmony and Composition by post. 7, Thurlow Terrace, Norwood Road, S.E.TO STUDENTS.—The Organist of Ripon Cathedral Teaches HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT by Correspondence. For terms, address Edwin J. Crow, Mus. Bac., Cantab., Organist of St. John's.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON,

INSTITUTED 1872; INCORPORATED 1875.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

THE EVENING CLASSES in Harmony, Counterpoint, and Fugue; Form, Instrumentation, Organ, Solo and Choral Singing; Classics, Mathematics, French, German, &c., and ALL other BUSINESS of the College, will henceforth be conducted in the New College House, 61, WEYMOUTH STREET, PORTLAND PLACE, W., Within five or six minutes' walk of Baker Street, Portland Road, or Oxford Circus, and within fifteen minutes of Charing Cross.

The Common Room and Library for the use of Members will be opened in a few days.

J. W. HINTON, M.A., Mus. D., Hon. Sec.

TRINITY COLLEGE HARMONY CLASS.

The Harmony Professor holds an EVENING CLASS every Monday, at 7.30. Fee, one guinea per term. Students can be received at the half-term. Application can be made at the Class Rooms, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W., by letter, or personally between 6.30 and 8 on Monday evenings.

TRINITY COLLEGE COUNTERPOINT CLASS.

The Professor of Counterpoint and Fugue holds his EVENING CLASS every Monday, at Eight o'clock. Fee, one guinea per term. Students received at the half-term. Apply at the Class Rooms, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W., by letter, or personally between 6.30 and 8 on Mondays.

TRINITY COLLEGE SPECIAL EVENINGCOURSE for SOLO-SINGING. Fee, One Guinea per term. Application to be made to Dr. Hinton, Hon. Sec., at the College, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W.HARMONY AND COUNTERPOINT EVENING*CLASS.—The above will be conducted by Mr. WALTER H. SANGSTER, Mus. Bac., Oxon., and Organist of St. Michael's, Paddington, at the St. Michael's Schools, Star Street, Edgware Road, commencing 10th April, at seven o'clock. Fee, One Guinea for the term. For further information address at Choir School, 76, Cambridge Terrace, Hyde Park.ORGAN LESSONS AND PRACTICE on a fine new Instrument, with 2 manuals, 15 stops, 24 octaves of pedals, with Bourdons throughout. Terms moderate. Allen's Musical Instrument Warehouse, 197, Percy Street, Bedford Square, W. Lessons and Practice on other Instruments also.

ORGAN PRACTICE or INSTRUCTION.—Three

Manuals, each of 56 notes, pedal organ, 30 notes, 17 effective stops, and blown by Lea's Automatic Hydraulic Engine. Terms, which are strictly inclusive, on application at Blennerhasset's Organ School and Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, Pentonville, W.C.

ORGAN STUDIO, 140 (late 166), STRAND

(opposite the Gaiety).—LESSONS or PRACTICE (and at St. Michael's, Stockwell, S.W.) on fine two-manual C ORGANS (Hill and Son).—Full pedal compass.—W. VENNING SOUTH-GATE (Organist, St. Michael's, Stockwell), "the Strand Organ Studio," W.C. Est. 1867.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Fine instrument; 2 manuals, with separate pedal organ. Terms very moderate. E. Entwisle, 1, Charles Street, Camberwell New Road.

ORGAN LESSONS.—Two manuals, 19 stops, great 10, swell 5, open diapason pedals, three couplers. Practice by arrangement (in North of London) on moderate terms. Address A., 16, Essex Street, Strand.

ESTABLISHED APRIL 1866.

THE ENGLISH GLEE UNION.

Mr. H. ASHTON,

Mr. F. H. COZENS,

Mr. FOUNTAIN MEEN, Mr. ALBERT HUBBARD,

ASSISTED BY

Madame ASHTON.

For terms, &c., address H. Ashton, Secretary, Ivy House, Stamford Hill, London, N.

MR. STEDMAN'S CONCERT PARTIES for

Oratorio and Miscellaneous Concerts, Institutions, Evening Parties, Soirées, &c., &c.

MADE UP FROM THE MOST EMINENT ARTISTS, AND INCLUDING: Miss Annie Sinclair, Miss Mary Davies, Miss Matilda Scott, M^{de}. Worrell-Duval, Miss Jessie Royd, M^{de}. Poole, Miss Annie Butterworth, Miss Dones, Miss Gill, M^{de}. Osborne Williams, Mr. Stedman, Mr. Alfred Kenningham, Mr. J. L. Wadmore, Mr. George Fox, Mr. Henry Pope, Mr. Thurlay Beale, Mr. King Hall, Mr. Henry Parker, &c., &c.THE STANDARD QUARTETT—Messrs. Hodges, Stedman, Charles Beckett, and Thurlay Beale. For terms and particulars, address Mr. STEDMAN, 1, Berners Street, W.ORATORIO AND CONCERT PARTY.

Soprano, Miss Tomlinson (Pupil of R. S. Burton, Esq.); Contralto, Miss Alice Arnold (Royal Academy, London); Tenor, Mr. Chas. Blagbrough (Parish Church, Leeds); Bass, Mr. Thornton Wood (Royal Albert Hall Concerts, London). Conductor and Accompanist, Mr. R. S. Burton (Leeds).—For terms, &c., apply to Mr. Thornton Wood, 2, Halfield Place, Bradford.

LONDON GREGORIAN CHORAL ASSOCIATION.

THE BAND.—PLAYERS on the Cornet, Flugel Horn, Euphonium, Trombone, or Bombardon WANTED. The Band practises on alternate Tuesday evenings at S. Laurence Jewry, Gresham Street. Names of Gentlemen willing to join the Band should be sent to Somers Clarke, jun., Esq. (Band Correspondent), 6, Delahay Street, S.W. ROBERT ALDERSON TURNER, Hon. Sec.

48, Tressilian Road, Upper Lewisham, S.E.

A LADY is desirous of giving LESSONS on the PIANOFORTE, either in families or schools. M. Bone's, Library, Peckham Rye.

EXPERIENCED PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED for a Music and Pianoforte Warehouse in Edinburgh. Apply, giving references and stating salary, to Edina, care of Novello, Ewer and Co., London.

TO PIANOFORTE TUNERS.—WANTED, in a large Music Establishment in the South of England, a respectable YOUNG MAN of good experience. Address, stating age, qualifications, reference, and salary required, W. M. W., care of Novello, Ewer, and Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

WANTED, as TUNER, REPAIRER, and SHOP-MAN, a good Performer on the Piano and Harmonium, and acquainted with the Sheet Music Trade. Address H. Nye, Tunbridge Wells.

TO ORGAN BUILDERS.—WANTED, first-class WORKMEN (inside hands). Apply to Mr. J. Porritt, Organ Builder, Leicester.

MUSIC TRADE ABROAD (Australia preferred). SITUATIONS WANTED by two Young Men; one as Tuner and Repairer and the other in the Music Department. First-class references given. Address A. B. C., 2, Wretham Road, Handsworth, Birmingham.

A PIANOFORTE TUNER, two years at Kirkman's, London, and five years since in a large provincial Pianoforte Warehouse, seeks a RE-ENGAGEMENT as Indoor or Outdoor Tuner. Apply, Unison, care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

REQUIRED, by a Young Lady, a SITUATION in a Music Shop. She is considered a brilliant player, and accustomed to the sale of music. F. W., Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, a RE-ENGAGEMENT in a Music Warehouse, by a young Lady who has had eight years' experience. Good references. A. T., Belvoir House, Walton Street, Oxford.

WANTED, by a Lady, a SITUATION as ASSISTANT in a Music Warehouse, town or country. Good Pianist, able to play at Evening Parties, and can undertake Pianoforte Silking. Address J. W., 121, Crawford Street, Marylebone.

EAST LONDON ORGAN WORKS, 9, Burdett Road, Mile End, E.—E. CARDER is prepared to send Specifications for building Organs of very superior materials and workmanship. Alterations, rebuilding, and repairs. First-class workmen sent to all parts on very moderate terms. Tuning, &c. Second-hand ORGANS for SALE.

ORGANS for Church or Chamber, full, rich tone, from 35 guineas. ORGAN HARMONIUMS, with 1 or 2 manuals, full compass of pedals, from 25 to 54 guineas, invaluable for Teaching or Organ Practice. SPRAGUE'S Celebrated ORGAN-TONE HARMONIUMS, 6 guineas; best in the trade.—William Sprague, 7, Finsbury Pavement, London.

A. MONK'S 100-Guinea ORGANS, 2 CC Manuals, Bourdon pedal pipes, 10 stops. 200-guinea Organs, 2 manuals, 16 stops. 300-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 21 stops. 400-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 27 stops. Organs built to any design. Old Organs rebuilt. Additions, Repairs, Tunings, &c. Specifications and Estimates free. Sussex Terrace, King's Road, Camden Town, London.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications made out for Organs. Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing, and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. Willis, 29, Minories, London.

STUTTGART HARMONION COMPANY.—LEOPOLD KAHN, Stuttgart, Germany. Price Lists on application to ALPHONSE CARY, Sole Representative, 26, Fortess Terrace, Kentish Town, N.W.; close to Kentish Town Station. Inspection solicited.

BRASS, REED, STRING, and DRUM and FIFE BANDS, PIANOFORTES and HARMONIUMS, supplied at wholesale prices, at J. Moore's, Buxton Road, Huddersfield. Prices, with drawings of every instrument, post free. Music for any kind of band. Patronised by the army, navy, and rifle corps.

T. R. WILLIS (established 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Music Strings, Wire, &c., Violins, Concertinas, &c. 29, Minories, London. List for stamp.

CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION.

NOTICE.

A PRIZE MEDAL of the FIRST RANK was awarded at Philadelphia, 1876, to

PELOUBET, PELTON & Co.,
NEW YORK,

FOR THE GENERAL EXCELLENCE OF THEIR

"STANDARD"

AMERICAN ORGANS.

PRICES, 12 TO 125 GUINEAS.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE to be had on application to

BARNETT SAMUEL & SON,

31, HOUNDSDITCH, E.C., & 32, WORSHIP STREET,
FINSBURY SQUARE,

Sole Agents for the United Kingdom and British Colonies.

A LIBERAL DISCOUNT ALLOWED TO THE TRADE.

"A supreme and perfect harmony of notes."

E. & W. SNELL'S

IMPROVED ENGLISH HARMONIUMS

AND

BROAD REED ORGANS

Are Pronounced by the Profession and Public

THE BEST AND CHEAPEST EXTANT.

MANUFACTORY—LITTLE KING STREET NORTH, CAMDEN TOWN, LONDON, N.W.

TRADE SUPPLIED.

From VINCENT SYKES, Esq., Organist and Professor of Music.

"Parsonstown, Ireland, Feb. 3, 1877.
"Gentlemen,—I received your instrument—'Drawing Room Model'—about three weeks ago. I have delayed writing because I wished to examine it carefully through. I think the mechanism is the best I have ever seen. It is really a first-class instrument for the low price of 24 guineas. I wish to make special mention of the 'pneumatic sordine,' which softens the bass gradually, and not so abrupt as others I have played on. The 'tirasse-tenuto' is a new stop to me, but when I began to extemporise on any given tonic or dominant I found it so effective that I could scarcely leave the instrument. I have shown it to several of my friends, and they are astonished at the marvellous low price you sell them at. I am yours truly,

"VINCENT SYKES

"Messrs. E. and W. Snell, London."

E. and W. SNELL beg to announce that, having just completed the Enlargement of their Premises, they are now enabled to execute any orders with which they may be favoured with promptitude and dispatch. Any kind of instrument of the free reed class to order.

RUSSELL'S MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

CONCERTINAS, Harmoniums, Organ Accordions, Flutinas, Drums, Fifes, Flutes, Violins, Cornets, Saxhorns, Clarionets, Flageolets, Guitars, Banjos, Musical Boxes, Strings, &c. Self-Instruction Books. Instruments repaired or exchanged. Price Lists free. J. Russell, 158, Goswell Road, Clerkenwell, London.

DEAN'S CHEAP MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

School Band Flutes from 3s. 6d.; 8-Key Concert Flutes, 25s.; Cornets in case, 30s.; Drums, Tambourines, Banjos, and every article in the trade. A good Violin, with Bow and Book, in case, 20s. English, Roman, and Acribelle Violin Strings—5 best firsts, warranted to stand at concert pitch, sent free for 13 stamps. Price Lists sent free. Joseph Dean, Music Warehouse, 77, City Road, E.C.

ACCURATE METRONOMES, 1s., post free. Rudiments of Singing, 1s. per dozen. Singing Class Tutor, 12th ed., 6d. each. D. Scholefield, Trinity Street, Huddersfield.

12 S. WORTH OF MUSIC for One Shilling, post free for fifteen stamps, soiled and surplus stock. James Smith and Son, 76, 74, and 72, Lord Street, Liverpool.

LONDON AGENTS,
MESSRS. MOUTRIE AND SON,
PIANOFORTE SALOON,
55, BAKER STREET, LONDON, W.

MR. J. HAMILTON begs to inform Organists, Organ Students, and others that the Pedals and Action for attachment to Pianofortes manufactured by him can be inspected and ordered at the above address.

A set of Straight Pedals 30 notes (C to F), with action and printed instructions, "How to Attach," price £4 4s. Or Radiating and Concave Pedal Board, with action, price £5 5s.

TESTIMONIAL.

"148, Finborough Road, South Kensington, London,

March 12th, 1877.

"Dear Sir,—After more than six months' test of the Pedals and Action I purchased of you, you will be glad to hear that they act admirably; their noiseless action and simple attachment being not their least recommendation.

"I am, dear Sir, yours faithfully,

"ALFRED J. WHITEHOUSE,

"Organist of Belgrave Church, Belgravia.

"To Mr. J. Hamilton, Bristol."

Orders accompanied with Cheque or P.O. Order will receive immediate attention. Send for prices to the Profession and Trade.

Address J. HAMILTON, 11, Brunswick Street, City Road, Bristol.

ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS.

W. HATTERSLEY & CO.'S

CELEBRATED

ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS

UNEQUALLED BY ANY OTHER MAKERS.

These ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS stand first among any such instruments for

QUALITY OF TONE, DURABILITY, RAPIDITY OF TOUCH, PREDOMINANCE OF THE TREBLE OVER THE BASS,

PERFECT ACTION,

BRILLIANCY OF THE SOLO STOPS, NEWLY-INVENTED DOUBLE ACTION, SOLID IMPROVED SOUND-BOARD, AND DOUBLE EFFECTIVE SWELLS.

List of Prices and Books of Designs, and upwards of 300 Testimonials from all parts of the globe, to be had post free.

W. HATTERSLEY & CO.,

10, 12, & 14, Bow Street, Sheffield.

N.B.—These Harmoniums are 20 per cent. cheaper than any other house, and a far superior tone.

GENTLEMEN,—The Harmonium gives the greatest satisfaction, and is really the best instrument I have fallen in with.—Yours truly,
W. P. M. SLATER.

39, Franklin Street, South Shields, May 6, 1876.

GENTLEMEN,—By a mistake in the address the Harmonium was left at a way-side station, so that I did not get it here till last night; however, it is uninjured and gives me every satisfaction. Its tone and workmanship are admirable, and in rapidity of touch it is quite equal to a large Alexandre Percussion instrument, on which I sometimes play. I shall always be glad to recommend your Harmoniums.—Believe me, faithfully yours,

W. F. ASHBRIDGE, M.A., Curate of Bessingby.

Bessingby Road, Bridlington, Dec. 15, 1876.

Mr J. M. Boulard, Manager of the Alleghanians, Vocalists and Bell Players.

DEAR SIR,—The Harmonium you made for me in travelling case answers our purpose exceedingly well, and my company are all delighted with it.—Yours truly,
Sept. 16, 1876. J. M. BOULARD.

GENTLEMEN,—Kindly find cheque for the Harmonium to hand. I may add that our people are very much pleased with the instrument. It is a little gem.—Yours faithfully,
Shirland and Higham School Board, Shirland, near Alfreton,
Feb. 2, 1877. J. W. H. WOOD.

DEAR SIR,—The Harmonium arrived here yesterday. I am much pleased with it, and it is a very pretty, nice-looking instrument.—Yours truly,
Merrington Vicarage, Terry Hill, Dec. 10, 1875. DAVID BRUCE.

GENTLEMEN,—The Harmonium arrived here in capital condition last week. I am very pleased with it. The tone is exceedingly sweet and pleasing. All who have seen it here like it very much.—Yours faithfully,
Montserrat, West Indies, Aug. 11, 1876. H. R. HOLME.

Re D'ALMAINE, DECEASED.

PIANOFORTES BY D'ALMAINE.

Great Sale of 704 remaining Pianofortes

OF THIS EXCELLENT FIRM.

In consequence of the Death of the Proprietor, an IMMENSE STOCK

OF

All Descriptions of Musical Property,
PIANOFORTES, HARMONIUMS,
SHEET MUSIC,

Lithographic Stones and Music Printing, Music Stools, Insulators, Violins, Canterbury, Whatnots, Harmonium Chairs, Frets, Actions, and parts various, the chief item being

780 PIANOFORTES,

in course of construction at the Death of the late Proprietor.

MOST EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY

to the Public, Trade, and Profession, such as does not offer in every lifetime.

NOTE.—It was attempted to clear the whole by auction by a series of sales: the first sale proved that it would be wiser to make up the stock and

OFFER THE ADVANTAGE TO THE PUBLIC,

who can now be supplied at less than the usual cost of making these high-class pianos; thus the following quotations:—

For 17 guineas can be had the 35 guineas Royal 25 " " " 46 " "
34 " " " 60 " "
45 " " " 85 " "
9 to 15 guineas, various second-hand instruments.

These instruments have the

FAMED STEEL WREST PLANK PLATE;

are all 7 octaves, trichord for the most part, and actions of various models;

ELEGANT IN DESIGN, REFINED IN FINISH;

are very high class as pianofortes in touch, tone, and repetition.

ALL PARTICULARS, AND ON VIEW, AT

5, FINSBURY PAVEMENT,

By MOORGATE STREET STATION

(Metropolitan Railway).

LETTERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.

VERTICAL IRON FRAME PIANOFORTES.— STRUNG UPON A SINGLE CASTING.

CHECK ACTION. Trichord to Covered Strings. Compensating for thermometric changes. Irreproachable stability of construction. Highly important to the Trade, especially in the Colonies.

Full particulars from the makers, PARKER & SMITH, Plymouth. Good Workmen Wanted. Constant employment. Expense of living 20 per cent. less than in London.

SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS.—New Model by Kaps, of Dresden.—This instrument is an improvement on the original Short Grand now so well known. The volume and brilliancy of tone is much increased; it has an unfailing repetition action, and will compare favourably with much larger and more costly instruments. May be purchased wholesale and retail or hired at the original Depot, 26, North Audley Street, W. Proprietor, C. E. FLAVELL.

TO SELL MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS of every description, also Libraries of Music, Music Plates and Copyrights, Stock-in-Trade, &c., SALE (devoted exclusively to this class of property) held every month. Single instruments inserted. Consignments received at any time. Puttick and Simpson, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C. [Established 1794.]

SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES.—150 by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, Allison, &c., from 4 guineas upwards. HARMONIUMS (New), from £5, in Walnut or Mahogany cases. Largest stock of Pianos and Harmoniums in London at Kelly and Co.'s, 11, Charles Street, Middlesex Hospital. Trade supplied.

QUARTERLY SALE OF MUSICAL PROPERTY, 11, CHARLES STREET, MIDDLESEX HOSPITAL.

125 PIANOFORTES by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, Allison, Kirkman, Oetzmann, Steinmann, Hermann, Ziegler, Johnson, Niedermeyer, Nutter, &c. 2 Magnificent Double Action Gothic Harps by Erard, and several others. ORGANS AND HARMONIUMS, by Alexandre, Christophe, &c.; Musical Boxes, Pianoforte Small work, Diamond Rings, and Watches, 400 gross of Screws, Ivories, &c.; together with a large quantity of Sheet Music, being the UNREDEEMED PLEDGES from Pawnbrokers, and Stocks consigned for immediate sale, which will be sold by MESSRS. KELLY AND CO., at their Great Repository and Mart, 11, Charles Street, Middlesex Hospital, on WEDNESDAY, 4th APRIL, 1877, commencing at 12 o'clock prompt. The goods may be viewed the day prior and morning of Sale. Catalogues on application (post free).

VIOLINS.—The New Joseph Guarini Violin, recommended by Sivioli, Leonard, and Remenji, is worthy the attention of all violinists seeking a violin made in accordance with the true art principles, as opposed to the vile imitative craft now so common. Price £7 10s. Sole agent, W. Hargreaves, 7, St. Ann Street, Manchester.

VIOLINS, TENORS, VIOLONCELLOS, and DOUBLE BASSES, by "Craske," equal to Stradivarius and Guarnerius.

Upwards of 500 of these splendid Instruments now on Sale at Edward Crompton's, 54, Barton Arcade, Deansgate, Manchester (3rd floor), many of which have been made 50 years.

Also a large collection of Italian Instruments.

VIOLINS, VIOLAS, VIOLONCELLOS, &c.—JOHNSON HICKS, Dealer in, and careful Repairer of, "CREMONA" and other Violins, &c.—Brunswick House, Torquay, Devon.

FIRST VIOLIN STRINGS.—Will not break if tuned up to G. Never tuning false, even from perspiration. One returned for four stamps. Send to Mr. Youens, Assembly Rooms, Newby Place, Poplar. Established 1840.

FOR HOME ORGAN PRACTICE.—Two-manualled GRAND PIANO, having pedals full compass, radiating, concave, each taking down unison and super octave. £35. Mr. Grimes, Sherborne, Dorset.

TO PROFESSORS OF MUSIC.—For SALE, £45, a modern, full compass, walnut, Horizontal Grand PIANO, by Hund and Son, in excellent condition. Apply by letter, Teacher, Queen Street, Hitchin.

FOR SALE, a Kaps' Short IRON GRAND PIANO, in splendid condition; walnut case. Price 50 guineas. Apply W. M., 108, Sherbourne Road, Birmingham.

FOR SALE, a Kirkman COTTAGE PIANO; ebonyed and gold case; nearly new; with two octaves of sounding foot pedals attached, and organ stool to fit. Price, to immediate purchaser, £35. Owner going abroad. Address W. D., Stanesby's Library, Sloane Street, S.W.

ORGAN FOR SALE.—A Bargain.—The Wesleyan Chapel, Northgate, Gloucester, being immediately to be rebuilt, the ORGAN must be SOLD by the end of this month. It has two manuals, 11 stops in great, 6 stops in swell, open pedal pipes, gilt speaking front, and will be sold for about half its estimated cost. Apply, for particulars and price, to Mr. H. B. Fluck, Northgate, Gloucester.

THE GUSTAVE MODEL LIBRARY REED ORGAN, unexcelled for purity of tone and brilliancy; 10 stops and improved knee swell; elegantly carved black walnut case, ebonyed mouldings, 30 guineas. Gustave and James, 8, Cyril Street, Camberwell Gate, London, S.E.

A CHURCH ORGAN for SALE.—Two manuals, 16 stops, tenor C swell; one and half octave pedals. Price 100 guineas. Apply R. H., W. H. Smith and Son, 33, Union Street, Birmingham.

ORGAN FOR SALE.—Eight effective stops, 2 manuals, bourdon pedals, front and side speaking pipes; mahogany case 10 feet high. Alpha, 75, High Street, Stoke Newington.

ORGAN.—Church Organ (rebuilt), with two complete manuals and separate pedal pipes, 14 stops and couplers. Price £150. J. Grover, 82, Norfolk Terrace, Westbourne Grove, London, W.

FOR SALE, a Sweet-toned ORGAN, with 6 stops, 244 pipes, open and stop diapason, principal, fifteenth, dulciana and octave dulciana. Price 30 guineas. Apply Mr. Charles Hillard, Ditcheat, near Evercreech, Somerset.

£30 ORGAN, in good order, suitable for Church or small Chapel; 8 stops, pedals. 170, Pentonville Road.

ORGAN for SALE—by Robson. One manual with pedals, six stops. Now in S. Paul's, Margate. No reasonable offer refused. Apply T. J. Chapman, 69, Dane Road, Margate.

CHURCH ORGAN for SALE.—The Dean and Chapter of Salisbury having offered the Organ at present in the Nave of the Cathedral to the Parish of S. Thomas, the Organ now in S. Thomas' Church is for Sale. Price £120. It has some very valuable Stops, and is suited to a large Church. Address Mr. G. Lloyd, Churchwarden of S. Thomas, Salisbury.

ORGAN for SALE.—A useful second-hand Organ, containing 5 Stops, suitable for a small church, &c. Price 20 guineas. Apply to A. C. Thacker, Organist, Thorney Abbey, Peterborough. N.B.—Mr. Thacker has a vacancy for an ARTICLED PUPIL; terms moderate.

FOR SALE, the ORGAN in the Parish Church, Market Harborough. One manual in general swell, handsome case. Stops—open diapason treble, ditto bass, double dulciana, st. diapason, principal, fifteenth, sesquialtera and cornet, trumpet, diaocton, pedal pipes. Apply to the Vicar or Churchwardens.

TWO-MANUAL PEDAL ORGAN. Fourteen stops. £110. Full particulars from M. C. F. Silver, Great Haywood, Stafford.

HARMONIUM for SALE, by Alexandre. Four complete rows of vibrators, 14 stops, oak case, excellent tone, and good condition. Apply to Mr. Bundy, Emsworth, Hants.

HARMONIUMS, all sizes, the lowest price for Cash. The Trade supplied. J. T. B., 6, Adair Road, Westbourne Park, London.

FOR SALE.—Three VIOLONCELLOS, one DOUBLE BASS, one TENOR, and two VIOLINS. Can be seen any evening, after six, at 45, Featherstone Street, City Road.

TO DISPOSE OF, one of Messrs. F. Besson and Co.'s POCKET CORNETS (Leader's model), silver-plated, inside of bell and mouthpiece gilt, in polished box complete; nearly new. Cost 15 guineas; will be sold at a reduction. Apply Messrs. Pohlmann and Son, Princess Street, Halifax, Yorkshire.

MUSIC PREPARED EQUAL TO AND CHEAPER THAN ENGRAVING.—For specimen and terms, with particulars, apply to F. C. Wood, 32, Vincent Square, Westminster.

W. G. HALLIFAX & CO., 315, Oxford Street, W., ENGRAVE and PRINT AUTHORS' WORKS, at the lowest possible cost, and introduce them. Estimates by return of post.

MUSIC ENGRAVED, PRINTED, AND PUBLISHED in the best style, and on moderate terms, a statement of which sent on application by B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest varied stock of Music in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day, or if in stock posted immediately if required. Terms highly advantageous. London: B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row.

THROAT IRRITATION.—The throat and wind-pipe are especially liable to inflammation, causing soreness and dryness, tickling and irritation, inducing cough and affecting the voice. For these symptoms use glycerine in the form of jujubes. Glycerine, in these agreeable confections, being in proximity to the glands at the moment they are excited by the act of sucking, becomes actively healing. Sold only in 6d. and 1s. boxes (by post for 14 stamps), labelled JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists, 48, Threadneedle Street, and 170, Piccadilly.

REDUCED PRICES OF HOUSELEY AND MONK'S POINTED PSALTER.

					s.	d.
4to Edition, with Chants in Short Score	4	0
12mo Edition. Vocal parts	Each	1	6
32mo Edition. Words only	0	9
Ditto ditto with Proper Psalms	1	0

This pointing of the Psalter is authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York.

London: NOVELLO, EWER & Co., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)

APRIL, 1877.

ALL THE YEAR ROUND

CONDUCTED BY

CHARLES DICKENS.

The new Monthly Part contains the following papers:—

The Analytical Laboratory of the Inland Revenue at Somerset House.

Portraits Worked in Tapestry. A Princess of the First Empire.

Shall London have another Bridge?

The History of London Bridge.

Under Russian Escort.

The Case of Captain Slade.

Lynch Law.

Tony Topsy Turvydom.

Juvenile Acrobats at Canterbury Hall.

Standing Armies.

Some of Fashion's Fools.

The History of Harlequin.

The Mysterious Muleteer: A Story.

At the Play in Japan.

From the States: News in American Papers.

What He Cost Her: A Serial Story, by James Payn.

Doubleday's Children: A Serial Story, by Dutton Cook.

Besides the above, the Monthly Part contains other interesting papers. To be obtained at all Railway Book-stalls and of all Booksellers.

Just Published,

PAUL ET VIRGINIE

OPERA, COMPOSED BY

VICTOR MASSÉ.

THE WORDS BY

JULES BARBIER AND MICHEL CARRÉ.

Vocal Score, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Second Edition, revised by the Composer.

PRICE TWENTY SHILLINGS.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION

OF

TRIOS, QUARTETTS, &c.,

FOR

FEMALE VOICES.

No. 1. The corall'd caves of } ocean }	3 voices, Henry Smart	4d.
2. Heaven do.	do.	4d.
3. Hope and memory .. do.	do.	4d.
4. Night sinks on the } wave }	do.	3d.
5. Oh! skylark, for thy } wing }	do.	4d.
6. The bird at sea .. do.	do.	4d.
7. The wood-nymphs .. do.	do.	3d.
8. The fay's song .. do.	do.	4d.
9. Evening do.	do.	3d.
10. The water-nymphs .. do.	do.	4d.
11. Where are the angels? do.	J. L. Hatton	3d.
12. Youth, joy, and hope do.	do.	4d.
13. Coronach do.	Schubert	3d.
14. The Lord is my Shep- } herd }	4 voices do.	4d.
15. God in nature .. do.	do.	4d.
16. Serenade, 4 voices, with solo	do.	4d.
17. Glory to the Lord } Almighty }	3 voices do.	3d.
18. O clap your hands. Psalm 47	E. H. Thorne	6d.
19. O sing to God (Noël) { 3 voices, with solī S. & A. }	Ch. Gounod	6d.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Third Edition.

THEORY OF MUSIC

(A FIRST BOOK ON THE)

By LOUISA GIBSON.

Dedicated, by permission, to

H.R.H. THE PRINCESS LOUISE, MARCHIONESS OF LORNE.
(Adopted in the South London Musical Training College, and in various High Schools in London and the Provinces.)

Price: Boards, 3s.; stiff paper, 2s.; postage, 2d.

London: Weekes and Co.; Novello and Co.; Whittaker and Co.; and of the Author, Seaton Terrace, Plymouth.

THE HYMNARY

A BOOK OF CHURCH SONG.

THE FOLLOWING EDITIONS ARE NOW READY:—

No.				s.	d.
1.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Bourgeois Antique. Cloth, red edges	1	0
2.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique. Double Columns. Cloth, red edges	0	6
"	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique. Double Columns. Limp cloth	0	4
"	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique. Double Columns. Paper covers	0	3
3.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth	4	0
4.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	5	0
5.	Tunes only.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth	3	0
6.	Tunes only.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	4	0
7.	Hymns with Tunes.	Treble part only.	Royal 24mo	1	6
"	Hymns with Tunes.	Treble part only.	Royal 24mo, cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	2	0
8.	Hymns with Tunes.	Small post 8vo, to bind with the Pearl 8vo Prayer Book.	Cloth	2	6
9.	Hymns with Tunes.	Ditto.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	3	0
10.	Hymns with Tunes.	Large type, Imperial 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	10	6

Selections of Hymns with Tunes for Advent, Christmas, Easter and Harvest, price One Penny each.

A Discount of 20 per Cent. will be allowed to the Clergy, for Cash, when not less than six copies of one edition are taken.

Applications for permission to print the Hymns and Tunes for Choral Festivals, should be addressed to the Publishers.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE NEW HYMNAL.

THE SONG OF PRAISE, By Lady VICTORIA EVANS-FREKE. Being a New and Enlarged Edition of the Rev. EDWARD HARLAND'S CHURCH PSALTER AND HYMNAL, including a large number of Original Tunes written by the most eminent Church musicians of the day expressly for this work. Prices as follow:—

	s.	d.
Large Organ Edition	8	6
Ditto, red edges, strongly bound, with blank music paper at the end, gilt lettered	10	6
Small Music Edition	3	6
Ditto, red edges, strongly bound, gilt lettered	4	6
Words only	1	2
Ditto, red edges, gilt	1	6

Liberal Terms to the Clergy.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS, THE BROADWAY, LUDGATE.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK, containing 258

Tunes and 85 Chants.
No 1. Limp cloth, turned in	2s. 6d.
" 2. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.
TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.
" 3. Limp cloth, turned in	2s. 6d.
" 4. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.

About 250,000 copies have already been sold.

Now Ready,

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK (Second Series) containing 298 Tunes and 74 Chants.

No. 5. Limp cloth	2s. 6d.
" 6. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.
TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.
" 7. Limp cloth	2s. 6d.
" 8. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	2s. 6d.

First and Second Series Bound together.

No. 9. Limp cloth	4s. 6d.
" 10. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	6s. 6d.
" 12. Tonic Sol-fa, cloth	3s. 6d.

Now Ready.

SMALL EDITION OF THE COMPLETE WORK.

715 Tunes and Chants, providing for nearly 200 Varieties of Metre.

No. 11. Cloth	3s. 6d.
---------------	---------

Each Edition may be had in Superior Binding.

Communications and inquiries as to Copyrights, and also as to supplies of this work at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Compilers, at Clare Street, Bristol.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.; Bristol: W. and F. Morgan; and all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

Now Ready.

THE LONDON TUNE-BOOK. A Companion for all Hymnals.

Cloth, 3s.; red edges, 3s. 6d.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE ANGLICAN HYMN-BOOK.

NEW EDITION, REVISED AND ENLARGED.

1. Words and Music, in short score, foolscap 4to, cloth, price 6s.
2. Words and Music, in short score, super-royal 18mo, cloth, 2s. 6d.
3. Words and Treble Part (Tune), square 16mo, cloth, 1s. 6d.
4. Words only, 16mo, cloth, 1s.
5. Words only, 32mo, paper cover, 6d.; cloth, 8d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); Simpkin, Marshall and Co. Oxford and London: James Parker and Co.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes, as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN; containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tunes; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now ready, in small quarto, 330 pages.

THE BURNLEY TUNE-BOOK, an entirely new Psalmody of 683 Tunes, Chants, Kyries, Glorias, Chant Te Deums, &c., nearly the whole of which are new and never before published. The collection of Chants and Kyries, as well as the Tunes, contains many beautiful compositions; and altogether the B. T. B. will be found one of the most useful, comprehensive, and interesting tune-books ever published.

Plain binding, 4s.; gilt lettered and red edges, 5s.

London: F. Pitman, Paternoster Row. Burnley: T. Simpson.

Eleventh Edition, Enlarged.

TUNES, NEW AND OLD; comprising all the Metres in the Wesleyan Hymn-Book. Also, Chants, Responses, and Doxologies. Compiled by JOHN DOBSON; and for the most part revised or re-arranged by HENRY JOHN GAUNTLETT, Mus. Doc.; JOHN FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., Oxon.; and SAMUEL REAY, Mus. Bac., Oxon. London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, and 80 and 81, Queen Street. Sold also at 66, Paternoster Row. Prices: plain cloth, 3s. 6d.; extra cloth, bevelled boards, red edges, 5s.

Sixth Edition, obl. 4to, cloth, 7s.

PARR'S CHURCH PSALMODY, containing 392 Tunes, in 100 Metres, 301 Chants, various Responses, &c., with Memoirs of the Composers and Histories of the Pieces, giving an amount of information nowhere else to be found.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now ready. Prices 2s. 6d. and 1s.

THE PAROCHIAL PSALTER

POINTED FOR CHANTING UPON A NEW

AND SIMPLE SYSTEM, WITH

DIRECTIONS FOR EXPRESSION, BREATH-MARKS, AND OTHER INDICATIONS TO FACILITATE CHANTING

BY ALEX. S. COOPER.

PRICES.

	s.	d.
8vo, for Clergy and Organists	2	6
32mo, for Choirs and Congregations	1	0

Canticles only, 3d. and 1d.

London: Weekes and Co., 26, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

Now Ready. (Dedicated to College of Organists.)

ON TUNING THE ORGAN. Illustrated APPENDIX, containing faults in action with remedies, price 2s. 6d. P.O.O. to A. Hemstock, Diss.

BAKER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR.

Easy and very plain instructions. Adapted for Schools and General Teaching Purposes. London: B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row; or, post free, 3s., of G. Baker, Stamp Office Place, Wakefield.

THE REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S

"SUPPLEMENTAL HYMN AND TUNE-BOOK" (4th Edition) may be had of the publishers, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. Quarto post, large type and beautifully bound in cloth, price 6s. 6d.; on toned paper, extra thick, 10s. 6d.

"MY SPIRIT LONGS FOR THEE." Hymn, set to Music by JOHN NAYLOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon., together with five other original Hymn Tunes, including "Rock of ages," for men's voices only. Price 4d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

HYMN TUNES, composed by ROBERT BROWN-BORTHWICK, Vicar of All Saints', Scarborough. Elegantly bound in scarlet cloth, price 2s. 6d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S SERIES of MODERN HYMN TUNES, KYRIES, &c. This Series embraces original Tunes and Kyries by some of the best living composers of Church Music, and may be had in separate numbers from 3d. and 6d. each. Novello, Ewer and Co.

THREE PIECES for the ORGAN. Composed

by NIELS W. GADE. Op. 22. Price 2s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

WAGNER FESTIVAL.

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

SIX GRAND CONCERTS ON

MONDAY EVENING, MAY 7; Wednesday Evening, May 9; Saturday Morning, May 12; Monday Evening, May 14; Wednesday evening, May 16; Saturday morning, May 19.

WAGNER, CONDUCTOR.

WILHELMJ, LEADER OF ORCHESTRA.

ORCHESTRA OF 200 INSTRUMENTALISTS.

VOCALISTS from the BAYREUTH FESTIVAL.

PRICES OF ADMISSION TO EACH CONCERT.

PRIVATE BOXES from 5 Guineas; Amphitheatre Stalls, 1 Guinea; Arena Stalls, 15s.; Balcony (first three Rows), 15s., other Rows, 10s. 6d.; Orchestra, 5s.; Organ Gallery, 5s.; Gallery, 2s. 6d.; which may be had at the Royal Albert Hall; of the usual Agents; every Music-seller in the United Kingdom; and of HODGE AND ESSEX, Directors.

CHIEF TICKET OFFICE, 6 & 7, Argyll Street, Regent Street, London, W.

FIFTH EDITION, REVISED, FOOLSCAP 8vo, 5s.

MUSIC,

By HENRY C. BANISTER,

Professor of Harmony and Composition at the Royal Academy of Music.

PART I.—Notation. PART II.—Rudiments of Theory, Harmony, and Counterpoint. PART III.—Elements of Composition; Glossary of Musical Terms; Exercises in Harmony and Counterpoint; Examination Papers.

THIS TEXT-BOOK IS DESIGNED BOTH FOR MUSICAL STUDENTS AND FOR GENERAL READERS.

"... Profound knowledge and deep thought. . . . Those alone who have drunk deep at the theoretical fountains of Germany, and have yearned for a master-mind to classify the recondite masses of erudition, that make the search for the threads of the discourse of the German sages a mental game at hide and seek, can thoroughly appreciate the learned simplicity with which Mr. Banister applies his test of absolute utility to musical science."—Musical World.

"... We are bound to accord the highest praise to the work, which is so logically arranged throughout that reference to any special portion of it can be readily made. . . . The complete manner in which every department of the science is explained is highly creditable to the author; for not only does the book include a treatise on Counterpoint, Canon, Fugue, and Imitation, but some very able remarks upon Form in Composition, and upon the various musical instruments."—Musical Times.

"... In every way admirably adapted to its purpose. . . . Always clear and to the point."—Monthly Musical Record.

"Mr. Banister has done much to smooth the stony path to fame, and probably for that reason was selected to compile a work upon the Theory of Music. . . . Thoroughly well has he fulfilled his task; beginning from the first step he leads his pupil on to compose double fugues almost unawares."—Graphic.

London: George Bell and Sons, York Street, Covent Garden.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

(PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EACH MONTH)

Price Threepence.

Annual subscription, including postage, 4s.

Subscriptions will also be received by all Book and Music Sellers (not including postage), 3s.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	2	3
For every additional Line	0	0	9
Half a Column	1	15	0
A Column	3	5	0
A Page	6	6	0

A discount of 10 per cent. is allowed for twelve consecutive insertions. It is respectfully requested that a remittance be sent with all Advertisements.

Advertisements for the May number should reach the Office not later than April 24. Those received after this date cannot be guaranteed insertion in their proper places, but will appear among the late Advertisements.

MUSICAL ASSOCIATION, 27, Harley Street, W.—On MONDAY, 2nd April, 1877, at five o'clock precisely, a PAPER will be Read by W. A. BARRETT, Esq., Mus. Bac., Oxon., on "Music in Cathedrals." Chair taken at 4.30 p.m.
CHARLES K. SALAMAN, Hon. Sec.
24, Sutherland Gardens, W.

LANGHAM HALL, 43, Great Portland Street.—IN AID OF MRS. WELDON'S ORPHANAGE.—MONDAY EVENING, 9th April, 1877, at 8 p.m., Mr. CHARLES K. SALAMAN in the Chair, Mrs. Weldon's Thirty-second Sociable Evening, "THE TWO PATHS," or "CONSERVATION" and "RESTORATION."* Mr. CHARLES LUNN will deliver a LECTURE on the above, illustrated by the Children from Mrs. Weldon's Orphanage. To be followed by free discussion. Reserved Seats, 5s.; Unreserved, 2s. 6d.; Admission, 1s.
* This Essay, of which Mr. Charles Lunn has presented the copy-right to the Orphanage, will be published, with additional remarks and an account of the Soirée, by the Music and Art Association, 39, Great Marlborough Street, Regent Street, London. Price 1s.

New Edition of Macfarren's Lectures on Harmony.

Now ready, in 8vo, price 12s. cloth.

SIX LECTURES ON HARMONY, delivered at the Royal Institution of Great Britain by G. A. MACFARREN. Second Edition, thoroughly revised, with numerous Engraved Musical Examples and Specimens.

London: LONGMANS and Co.

LIFE OF CHOPIN

BY F. LISZT

Translated by M. COOK.

"Franz Liszt has written a charming sketch of Chopin's Life and Art."—Encyc. Brit. (new edition).

Uniform with the above, LIFE OF MENDELSSOHN. By LAMPADIOUS. Price 5s.

HISTORY OF MUSIC. By F. L. RITTER. Price 7s. 6d.

LIFE OF CHERUBINI. By E. BELLASIS. Price 6s.

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS. By ROBERT SCHUMANN.

William Reeves, 185, Fleet Street, London.

New and Important Work for the Competitive Musical Examinations, &c.

Just Published, in crown 8vo, cloth, price 6s.

THE STUDENT'S TEXT-BOOK OF THE SCIENCE OF MUSIC

For Use in Schools and Colleges, and for purposes of self-instruction By JOHN TAYLOR, Author of "Manual of Vocal Music," &c., &c.
London: George Philip and Son, 32, Fleet Street; and 49 and 51, South Castle Street, Liverpool.

A. HENNES' METHOD FOR THE PIANO.

TRANSLATED FROM THE ORIGINAL 25TH GERMAN EDITION,

By H. MANNHEIMER.

COURSES I. and II., 5s. net each.

COURSE III., containing 50 melodious pieces on all the 12 MAJOR KEYS, accompanied by the most minute explanations HOW TO PLAY, with numerous FINGER EXERCISES and SCALE PRACTICES will be ready at the end of next month.

COURSE IV., (containing 50 melodious pieces on all the 12 MINOR KEYS, with minute explanations, &c.) in preparation.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

APRIL 1, 1877.

CHARLES COWDEN CLARKE.

IN his ninetieth year, and surrounded by those whose loving companionship has for so long brightened the autumn of his life, Mr. Charles Cowden Clarke, one of the last links with a golden age of letters, has passed quietly away. The Villa Novello at Genoa has been for many years the home of the family whose name it bears; and here, in constant intercourse with those whose sympathies were in the world of art, Mr. Clarke found a genial retreat after his busy life, dying only a year before he would have attained the honour of a "golden wedding" with one whose name has become so celebrated as Mary Cowden Clarke that many may have forgotten her as the eldest daughter of the late Vincent Novello, and sister of the renowned vocalist, Madame Clara Novello. Born at Enfield, where his father kept a school, the poet Keats became his pupil, and when they came to London together their kindred tastes led them to study with especial delight Spenser's "Faërie Queene;" and Homer, through Chapman's translation, so took possession of young Keats's mind that he wrote a Sonnet as a record of his impressions upon first perusing the work. Mr. Clarke also became the intimate friend of William Godwin, Charles Lamb and his sister, Hazlitt, Leigh Hunt, and indeed most of the literary celebrities of the time; the many happy days spent in their company being often recurred to in the later years of his life. He was associated for a long time in business with his brother-in-law, Mr. J. Alfred Novello; but his occupations did not prevent his cultivating literature, for he was the author of many works; and as a lecturer upon Shakespeare and the Elizabethan dramatists, the novelists and essayists, became celebrated in all the principal towns of the kingdom. Amongst his works may be mentioned "Tales from Chaucer in Prose," a book for the young called "Adam the Gardener," "Riches of Chaucer," a collection of poems entitled "Carmina Minima," "Shakespearean Characters, chiefly subordinate," "Molière Characters," "Shakespearean Jesters and Philosophers," and lately, in the Gentleman's Magazine, "Essays on the Comic Writers of England," and "Recollections of Writers Known to an Old Couple when Young;" the last-named series of articles containing many interesting reminiscences connected with well-known authors, and including some charmingly characteristic letters. With respect to the "Complete Concordance to Shakespeare," we have Mr. Clarke's own assurance that this labour of love was undertaken and carried to its completion solely by his wife; and indeed, in their edition of Shakespeare published by Messrs. Cassell, Petter and Galpin, his modesty has even impelled him to declare that he was merely a "literary hodman" to the real editor. But, as we have said, Mr. Clarke was not only an author. He was also a talker, in the best sense of the word; and those who can recall to mind his lectures will readily admit how much his success was owing to the power he possessed of placing his auditors and himself in perfect sympathy by a genial fund of humour, and a spontaneous eloquence peculiarly his own. This manner he retained to the end; and even within the last few years it was impossible, when listening to his keen and intelligent remarks upon the various movements of the day—whether in literature, art, or politics—to realise the fact of his having long passed his eightieth year. The kindly and affectionate nature of Mr. Clarke was evidenced in all he wrote, all he did, and all he said: those who knew him best loved him most, and it may truly be affirmed that no person who ever came in contact with him, either professionally or socially, can remember one word that he uttered which might wound the feelings—one action that he performed which might be deemed discourteous. His faith in the ultimate triumph of goodness and purity deepened as he became older, and his own happiness increased as he grew nearer to the end of his days. Fifty years ago, Leigh Hunt, who was ever one of his most attached companions, said of him, "My old friend, with his ever wise and young heart, possessed that thorough and rightly mixed earth-and-heavenly richness of poetical sympathy with Nature and all her lovers for which I know no man more remarkable, and hardly any one so much so:" even those who have within the last few months parted with him—scarcely indeed believing that it could be for the last time—declare that this eloquent reading of his nature is no less true after the lapse of half a century. That the grief which must linger in the happy home he has left will be lessened by the memory of the love he bore for all around him is a creed which we need not here enforce; for from the volume of poems we have already alluded to we quote the following, which speaks to the heart too powerfully to need a word of comment.

"HIC JACET."

"Let not a bell be toll'd, or tear be shed
 When I am dead :—
 Let no night-dog, with dreary howl,
 Or ghastly shriek of boding owl
 Make harsh a change so calm, so hallowed :—
 Lay not my bed
 'Mid yews, and never-blooming cypresses;
 But under trees
 Of simple flow'r and odorous breath,—
 The lime and dog-rose; and beneath
 Let primrose cups give up their honied lees
 To sucking bees;
 Who all the shining day, while labouring,
 Shall drink and sing
 A requiem o'er my peaceful grave.
 For I would cheerful quiet have;
 Or, no noise ruder than the linnet's wing;
 Or brook gurgling.
 In harmony I've liv'd;—so let me die,
 That while, 'mid gentler sounds this shell doth lie,
 The Spirit aloft may float in spherul harmony."

RICHARD WAGNER COMES.

AN advertisement in the public journals confirms rumour. Richard Wagner comes to London for the purpose of conducting a "Festival" at the Royal Albert Hall. Here we have that which may fairly be described as eventful. Results have flowed from its very announcement. The thick-and-thin partisans of the master, accustomed to lift up their voices in the midst of a perverse generation, and to pipe where few would dance, are jubilant. Wellington estimated the presence of Napoleon with the French army as equal to a reinforcement of 10,000 men. What must the advent of Wagner be worth to the little band who have preached amongst us the duty of accepting his gospel from its Alpha to its Omega? The day of his arrival will prove in their case something more than a Pentecostal feast, though nobody may accuse them of drunkenness, and fewer than three thousand be converted. On the other hand musical Tories of the purest fossil type are either frightened or truculent, not for themselves, but for the unthinking multitude who, like sheep, are in danger of following the bell-wether whose tintinnabulation makes the loudest noise. Wagner will make a very loud noise in London. Everybody will rush to see the famous man, and the cheers which an English crowd are ready to bestow upon any distinguished stranger are certain to salute him. In all this our Tories scent mischief, and those who do not look out on the immediate prospect with frightened eyes, are sharpening their swords—perhaps laying in a gross of pens. Between these two groups stands another and, let us hope, the largest, made up of men and women who know how to preserve a philosophic calmness, because sure that whatever is good in the cause which Wagner represents must ultimately triumph, as it ought to do, while whatever is bad will inevitably slough off and go to its appropriate limbo. The progress of long-lived art is practically beyond the influence for mischief of any short-lived man. You may make St. Paul's clock tell lies as to the time of day, but you cannot tamper with the sun. So reason the occupants of our musical cross-benches, and they are right—right, therefore, in saying, "Let Wagner come and welcome. He may do us good, and it is certain he can do us no permanent harm."

Twenty-two years have passed since Wagner was last in England, and, looking forward to his second advent, we instinctively begin to compare the reception he is likely to have now with that awarded him in 1855. The retrospect is far from a comfortable one because, to say the least, it convicts us not only of hasty judgment, but of a good many serious mistakes of temper and taste. "Let bygones be bygones," some placid reader may observe. Nay, that would be doubtful wisdom indeed, since it would gag the mouth of History, and shut up the school in which she teaches the best and most practical of lessons. We cannot afford to let bygones be bygones any more than a mariner can afford to overlook, in a dangerous channel, the Trinity House buoys which show where preceding craft have made a mistake and foundered. I propose, then, to take my reader back as far as 1855, when, as now, musical London expected Richard Wagner.

At the close of 1854 it became known that Mr. Costa had broken off from the Philharmonic Society, and many were the speculations as to what the seven directors would do to fill his place. Berlioz, Spohr, Lindpaintner, Benedict, Bennett, &c., &c. were talked of in connection with the post, and each had partisans to sing his praise. The question agitated the whole musical world of London save one journal, whose editor, in true Bedouin fashion, said, "I don't care whom you choose, but when the new conductor is appointed I can make ready, present, and fire at him." He kept his word, for as soon as it became known that the late Mr. Anderson had posted off to Zurich, in the snow, to bid for the services of Richard Wagner, a whole broadside was discharged at the elect of the "seven." Its thunder seems to echo in our ears as we read:—

It is well known that Richard Wagner has little respect for any music but his own; that he holds Beethoven to have been a child until he wrote the posthumous Quartetts and the Mass in D, which he (Wagner) regards as his own starting-points (!); that he entertains much the same opinion of Mendelssohn as Mendelssohn was wont to entertain of Wagner; and that, finally, he is earnestly bent on upsetting all the accepted forms and canons of art—forms and canons which Bach and Handel, Haydn and Mozart, Beethoven and Mendelssohn respected—in order the more surely to establish his doctrines that rhythm is superfluous, counterpoint a useless bore, and every musician, ancient or modern, himself excepted, either an impostor or a blockhead. Now such rhodomontade may pass muster in the dreary streets of Weimar, where Franz Liszt reigns like a musical King Death, and quaffs destruction to harmony and melody, or in the æsthetic purlieus of Leipzig, where, muddled with beer and metaphysics, the Teutonic dilettanti have allowed their wits to go astray, and become dupes of the grossest charlatanism; but in England, where Liszt was never much thought of, and where the beer and the philosophy are manufactured from more substantial and less deleterious stuff, it can hardly be. If the brilliant meteor, Berlioz, failed to entice the musical world of this country from its devotion to the bright and pure spheres of art into his own erratic and uncertain course, what chance can there be for the duller Richard with his interminable pamphlets? We have no objection to see "Lohengrin" or "Tannhäuser," without the music; and Mr. E. T. Smith, after the run of Meyerbeer's "Étoile du Nord," might venture with some effect into those unexplored territories. ("Tannhäuser" would look formidable in a transparency.) But we trust that Mr. Gye and Lord Ward will not be tempted into the Wagnerian waters; for if ever there was a veritable man-mermaid it is Richard, who looks fair enough above stream, but whose end is shrouded in a muddy quagmire of impenetrable sophistry.

Had this warning reached "the margin of fair Zurich's waters" before Mr. Anderson, it is possible that "Richard" would have heeded it. But Fate ordered otherwise; the ambassador of the seven directors returned in triumph, and Wagner was Philharmonic conductor for 1855, in consideration of the sum of £200—less than the amount now paid to Adelina Patti for a single night's work. "They have got Richard," exclaimed one journal after recording the news, "and must make the most of him." The matter settled, there was a lull till the great man's appearance. Then the storm burst afresh. But with no very definite howling; evidently the critics were somewhat fogged, and, though willing to wound, did not know exactly where to strike. "Leaving the Hanover Square Rooms on Monday night," wrote one, "we were very, very excited, and still more puzzled. We came away in a state of half-rhapsody; with no possibility of obtaining a clue to the thread of our perplexed sensations." Another remarked, "Altogether our impression of Herr Wagner as a conductor is confused. By-and-by we shall better be able to give something like a decided opinion; at present we are tongue-tied." The fact was that Wagner, with his "readings" of classical works, loomed out as a mysterious phenomenon, and his censors could only exclaim, "He beats up and down indiscriminately!" "He quickens and slackens the time!" "What immense dash!" "No delicacy!" "What a zig-zag performance, but wonderfully vigorous and animated!" So the comments ran upon the musician who had burst into the middle of a jog-trot musical community like a cracker among a flock of sheep. Nevertheless there was a determination to make him out, if possible, and one scribe formulated the problem to be solved as thus: "Whether he is a genius or only a dunce incog. must be discovered; whether, like an intellectual radical, he is endeavouring to create laws to exclude all music but his own idiosyncracies from the ears of the world, or whether a new mission has been revealed to him by heaven." At the second concert a selection from "Lohengrin" was given, including, according to one writer, "nearly all that was possible to disentangle from the dreary labyrinth of accompanied recitative that makes up the rest of the work." This seems to have disappointed the auditors for the reason that it was intelligible. "Except a slow instrumental movement, describing the descent of the Holy Graal, in which the composer hovers and flits for an indefinite space round and about the key of A . . . and which—though arranged for the orchestra with great felicity, somewhat in the manner of M. Hector Berlioz—has no definable phrase or rhythm, little else, in short, but a sort of dull continuity, there was nothing in the selection that might not have passed muster very well for music of the past or, at least, of the present." But Wagner as conductor remained a riddle, though the critics found fault with more courage than at first. One wrote, "For our own parts, the more closely we observe the less we can understand him. He seems to have no fixed basis upon which to found, no system to render intelligible, his manner of beating. . . . The expedient of slackening the time is used by Herr Wagner with singular capriciousness, and to an excess that passes the limits of ordinary exaggeration. In this respect he becomes at intervals rather a tormentor than a conductor of the band." Yet there were effects which extorted admiration. "Much of Herr Wagner's expression is poetical, nearly all of it is original and has a presumptive meaning." "The reading (of the scherzo in Beethoven's Choral Symphony) was the best we ever heard, and the execution almost perfect." "Herr Wagner gave glimpses of an elevated and intellectual perception," &c., &c. Per contra, the late Mr. Chorley avowed that "a case of more discreditable scrambling through well-known music—period and place considered—is not within our recollection." At the third concert Wagner offended still more seriously by conducting the Italian Symphony without vivacity, gesticulations, or ups and downs; in short, as who should say, "I don't care a bit about it. Get to the end as soon as possible." Wrote a critic, "A more coarse, monotonous, uniformly loud and, at the same time, rigorously frigid performance never left an audience unmoved in a concert-room. It was deplorable to witness the contemptuous unconcern with which the whole of this admirable work of genius was regarded by the representative of the future 'art drama.' . . . It was barbarous." With this strong opinion, however, all did not agree. The critic of a daily paper had "never heard the Symphony go so well;" and another reasonably pleaded for "that respectful attention which intellect and honesty of purpose should always command." Unhappily for the party of moderation two of Wagner's songs came under review about this time, and were at once assailed with a ferocity almost beyond precedent. "Either Richard Wagner," wrote one savage individual, "is a desperate charlatan, endowed with worldly skill and vigorous purpose enough to persuade a gaping crowd that the nauseous compound he manufactures has some precious inner virtue, or else he is a self-deceived enthusiast, too utterly destitute of any perception of musical beauty to recognise the worthlessness of his credentials. . . . And we are really to accept this wild, senseless dabbling about among chords, without form, without idea, invention, expression, as music! . . . Speaking of these two songs in particular, we do not hesitate to pronounce them not music at all. If a joke is intended in their publication, it is a bad one; but, if put forth seriously, their author must be either one of the most daring quacks or one of the most self-deluded beings in existence."

Marked by "alarums and excursions" such as these, the season went on to its penultimate concert, whereat the Queen and Prince Albert attended, and à propos to which the honour of royal countenance was balanced to some extent by more than usually severe criticism. One writer objected to Herr Wagner's "fantastic, old-maidish, and ultra-sentimental reading of Mozart's superb symphony, which, to speak in metaphor, was almost killed by his caresses." "Herr Wagner," he continued, "would not allow to a single melodious phrase its natural flow, or to a single vigorous forte its masculine and unimpeded force. The first allegro was murdered outright, with false accents, puling expression, and unmeaning retardations of the time; the andante was made ridiculous, and the minuetto was almost as slow as a funeral march." But, spite of all this, Wagner had reason to be and was satisfied, inasmuch as not only did Royalty listen to his music, but congratulated him with its own august lips. In proof, take this extract from a letter addressed by the master to a Dresden friend:—"It was in itself a very pleasant thing that the Queen overlooked my exceedingly compromised political position . . . and without fear attended a public performance which I directed; but her further conduct toward me infinitely compensated for all the disagreeable circumstances and coarse enmities which I had heretofore encountered. She and Prince Albert, who sat in front next the orchestra, applauded after the 'Tannhäuser' Overture with almost inviting warmth, so that the public broke forth into lively and sustained applause. During the intermission the Queen sent for me in the saloon, and received me in presence of her suite with these words: 'I am most happy to make your acquaintance. Your composition has charmed me.' She thereupon made further inquiries (in a long conversation in which Prince Albert took part) as to my other compositions, and asked me if it were not possible to translate my operas into Italian. I had, of course, to give the negative to this, and state that my stay here could only be temporary, as the only position open was the direction of a concert-institute, which was not properly my affair. At the close of the concert the Queen and Prince again in the most friendly manner applauded me."

But even this did not reconcile Wagner to life in England, and as soon as possible he shook the dust of our country off his feet. On the other hand, his critics sent anything but benedictions after him. Take the following as a sample: "This man, this Wagner, this author of 'Tannhäuser,' of 'Lohengrin,' and so many other hideous things—and, above all, the overture to 'Der Fliegende Holländer,' the most hideous and detestable of all—this preacher of the 'Future' was born to feed spiders with flies, not to make happy the heart of man with beautiful melody and harmony. What is music to him, or he to music? His rude attacks on melody may be symbolised as matricide. What sings to him in a soft low voice, and should pour oil into that stubborn heart of his, he smites and repels. He must be taught, however, when the hollowness of his doctrine is exposed, that 'Di tanti palpiti' is of more worth than his whole artistic life. Who are the men that go about as his apostles? Men like Liszt—madmen, enemies of music to the knife, who, not born for music, and conscious of their impotence, revenge themselves by endeavouring to annihilate it. . . . Turn your eyes, reader, to any one composition that bears the name of Liszt, if you are unlucky enough to have such a thing on your pianoforte, and answer frankly, when you have examined it, if it contains one bar of genuine music. Composition, indeed! decomposition is the proper word for such hateful fungi which choke up and poison the fertile plains of harmony, threatening the world with drought. . . . We are becoming as hyperbolic as Richard Wagner himself, but, really, the indignation we feel at the revelation of his impious theories is so great, that to give a tongue to it in ordinary language is beyond our means. No words can be strong enough to condemn them; no arraignment before the judgment-seat of truth too stern and summary, no verdict of condemnation too sweeping and severe. To compromise with such false preachers is a sin. To parley with them mildly would be sheer heathenism." Reading this even so long after as now, we must all marvel that Wagner did not take up his steeliest pen, dip it in verjuice and assail his critics with the biting sarcasm which, on so many other occasions, has penetrated the joints of his opponents' armour. But he seems to have refrained, for a reason incautiously stated in the Dresden letter, and founded, it is superfluous to add, upon an entire misconception. "Quite indifferent to me was the abuse of London critics," wrote Wagner, "who only proved by their attacks that I had omitted to bribe them. Indeed, it always amused me to observe how they still left a door open, in order, upon the slightest approach on my part, to change their tactics: a step, of course, which I never thought of making." When a man is assailed, he may be expected to hit out in return, but he should fight fairly. Wagner omitted to observe this simple rule. He brought against his opponents the gravest possible charge, without an iota of proof to back it; and, which is perhaps still more offensive, he arrogantly assumed that unfavourable criticism of himself and his music could not possibly be honest, while measured praise could be no other than a bid for a bribe. He is not likely to receive the same provocation now as then. Let us hope that a change has come over him also.

Retrospect ended, there is little more to add, the moral of it all being writ so large that he who runs may read. Twenty-two years have not passed without working great changes. On the one hand, Wagner appears now, even to those who assailed him in 1855, a very different personage. His genius has asserted itself like the sun at noon, and though opinions differ about the form of its manifestation, those who most oppose that form do so with respect. We are all twenty-two years older, and age has brought with it at least a certain store of wisdom. Anyhow, we are not disposed to howl down the man who takes upon himself the work of a musical backwoodsman, going forth into the wilderness to prospect new domains for civilisation. Nor, if he invite us to what seems a barren region of rock and sand, shall we demand his scalp, for the rocks may be quartz seamed with virgin gold. We are prepared rather, without laying aside the right of criticism, to judge with calmness and candour, more desiring to find that which is worthy of acceptance than of rejection. When Wagner comes a second time, therefore, he may meet with opponents, but will be able to speak of them as "my friend the enemy." And has not he also changed in twenty-two years? grown more tolerant, and acquired larger views? Those who, at Bayreuth, heard him mention, in the reverse of his old arrogant way, the lyric drama of Italy and France, may well believe that from the eminence of more than sixty years he discerns the fact that many men and many minds are necessary to make a world—even the little world of music.

ENGLISH OPERA

BY CHARLES K. SALAMAN.

(Continued from page 110.)

PROMINENT among the English dramatic composers of the eighteenth century stands William Shield. He was born at Durham in 1749, and six years later was taught by his father to play on the violin; he also received, when very young, some lessons in harmony from Avison. He subsequently became an orchestral violin performer, and the principal viola at the Italian Opera House under the leadership of William Cramer. In after years he was engaged at Covent Garden Theatre as musical director, and, upon the death of Sir William Parsons, the master of King George the Fourth's private band, he was appointed to that office.

Shield was a musician of genius. He did not, it is true, discover new paths in the domain of English Opera, neither did he go beyond the requirements of the musical age in which he flourished; but in its then recognised style he displayed very remarkable powers of composition. He was regarded by his musical contemporaries as "one of the greatest ornaments of the English school of music, equal to Arne, and inferior only to the unrivalled Henry Purcell." He enhanced the beauty of English verse by allying it to music in agreement with its expression and spirit—music so tender and pathetic, so vigorous and manly, so melodious and natural, and, moreover, so purely English, that even at the present time, accustomed as we have long been to music, both of native and foreign growth, cast in a higher mould, more richly endowed, and more elaborately constructed, we yet listen to it with satisfaction and pleasure. Shield studied the genius of his native tongue, and adapted his music to its particular accent; thus he illustrated in his vocal compositions the principle of music being "married to immortal verse."

Our gifted countryman travelled to Italy in 1791, and heard in her chief cities the then best specimens of operatic music and singing. He returned from Rome a year later, with his musical mind invigorated, and his taste more refined and cultivated, but with an undiminished love for the pure, unadulterated British school of music, the style to which he always adhered. Shield was fortunate in his singers. Braham, Incedon, Mrs. Billington, and other then famous vocalists, who exercised their wondrous powers of vocal expression and execution when interpreting the music of the admired English composer, doubtless stimulated him to higher efforts, and enabled him to realise his conception of the florid, as well as the pathetic school of vocalisation. An Aria di Bravura in his Opera of "Marian," composed to display the bird-like quality of Mrs. Billington's voice in its highest flights, its marvellous compass and brilliancy of execution, would tax the vocal powers of the most cultivated among modern prime donne. This song was accompanied on the oboe by Parke, the then most celebrated performer on that difficult instrument. In addition to almost innumerable single songs in every style, Shield composed for, and adapted to the English stage, about twenty Operas and Operettas, among which may be noted

"Rosina," "Marian," "The Woodman," "The Poor Soldier," "Robin Hood," "The Flitch of Bacon," "The Noble Peasant," "Fontainebleau," "Lock and Key," "The Crusade," "The Travellers in Switzerland," "Omai," "Lord Mayor's Day," and "Patrick in Prussia."

To the probable, and reasonable, inquiry whether these musical dramas are fairly entitled to be placed in the category of Operas and Operettas, it may be answered in the negative according to the Italian idea; and in the affirmative in accordance with the English impressions of Opera which then prevailed. They were English Operas, so called, composed in the fashion of the period. In the Italian Opera the dialogue was sung throughout in Recitative; but in the English the dialogue and monologue were spoken. In the former the airs, duets, and trios followed the musical declamation; in the latter, songs, duets, and glees, so called, succeeded to the spoken text. Concerted pieces, elaborated as in modern Operas, were then unknown. The English Opera, says Macfarren, was "a speaking drama with episodical songs, glees, and choruses," and not what it has since become, "a continuous lyrical work in which the entire action is illustrated by music." The following is Dryden's definition of an Opera. "An Opera," he says, "is a poetical tale or fiction represented by vocal and instrumental music, adorned with scenes, machines, and dancing." According to Dr. Burney and other critics of his time, "English Dramatic Opera" is a drama that is either declaimed or spoken, and in which songs and symphonies are introduced; "it differs from Italian Opera, in which there is no speaking, and in which the narrative part and dialogue are set to music." The Opera orchestra in Shield's time was limited to few instruments; viz. violins, violas, basses, and flutes or oboes. Clarionets were not included. The instrumental accompaniment to the voice was very slight, and the orchestral score was very meagre. Shield's Operas, printed in oblong form in two staves, the higher containing the voice part, and the lower the figured bass, may sometimes be met with, but they are scarce. Some of his most charming and enduring songs are occasionally reprinted in modern form, and may without difficulty be obtained.

A considerable advance towards the modern idea of English Opera is due to the musical genius of Stephen Storace, who contributed many successful dramatic compositions to the English stage, which, as regards increased dramatic effect and fuller orchestral instrumentation, far surpassed the English Operas of his predecessors. He was, moreover, the first native composer to introduce into Opera the "Finale," so called, in which concerted vocal music assists in the development of the scene. Storace's parentage was Italian, but England was both the land of his birth and of his adoption. He was born in 1763, and he died in 1796. "The Haunted Tower" was Storace's first Opera. It was produced in 1789. His "Siege of Belgrade," represented for the first time in 1791, attracted crowded audiences for sixty nights in succession. "The Pirates," was first performed in 1792. The "Finale" to the first act of this Opera was considered to be the composer's masterpiece. Colman's "Iron Chest," with Storace's music, appeared in 1796. There is a nearer approximation to the modern type of Opera in this dramatic work than in Storace's previous Operas, both in the overture and in the concerted vocal pieces, of which there are many excellent specimens.

On perusing the two latest Operas of Stephen Storace one cannot fail to notice that the composer was not insensible to the captivating, all-powerful influence of Mozart, yet retaining his own individuality of style and expression. The quartett, for soprano, contralto, tenor, and bass voices, "Five times by the taper's light," with which the "Iron Chest" commences, was for many years very popular. It was then regarded as a kind of novelty in English Opera, and was greatly admired. It is excellently, though simply composed. A very melodious and well-written quintett, "The sun has tipt the hills with red;" a charming duet of small proportions, "Sweet little Barbara;" a trio, "Listen," with chorus, and the finale to the second act, afford indisputable evidence that Storace possessed a very remarkable talent for stage-effect, which required only a longer life, accompanied by a larger amount of experience, to ripen into surpassing excellence. Storace ended his brilliant, though brief, professional career with his life, at the age of thirty-three, when his musical judgment had scarcely reached maturity. Had this estimable young composer lived to share the light of modern musical thought, he would no doubt have produced dramatic works of a yet higher stamp than those with which he delighted the critical audiences of his time. He caught cold, it is said, at a rehearsal of his "Iron Chest," and was carried from the theatre to his bed, from which he never again arose. Braham, the greatest tenor singer of his own time, and perhaps of any other, made his first appearance at Drury Lane Theatre in Storace's posthumous Opera, "Mahmoud; or, the Prince of Persia," on the 30th of April, 1796. He was supported by Signora Storace—the sister of the composer—Mrs. Bland, the most accomplished ballad-singer of her day, Michael Kelly, and Suett. In this very charming Opera, which, in consequence of his illness and untimely death, its composer left unfinished, we find a still further progress towards the modern style of Opera. A very florid air, in B flat, composed for and sung by Braham, remains to record the marvellous compass of his unparalleled voice and his unexampled execution. A lovely romance, "The shades of night," afforded him scope to display his touching pathos. Two "Finales" in this Opera, specially worthy of notice and admiration, should be highly interesting to musical students as demonstrating the rapid advance of native Opera towards the close of the eighteenth century. The style of Storace's melodies differs materially from that of Purcell, Arne, and Shield. Although they bear in some degree the impress of the Italian type of air, they possess the recognised features of unadulterated English tune. Storace, avoiding plagiarism, wisely availed himself, as all great musicians have done, of the accumulated experience of his predecessors and contemporaries famous in his own and in other countries. He often adapted Italian music to the English stage, and could hardly resist its fascinating influence; but he ever remained faithful to the English school of melody, founded on the tone and accent of the English language.

By the death of their lamented composer, Storace's once popular dramatic works were soon consigned to forgetfulness. The difficult vocal passages he had composed, to display the special powers of certain distinguished singers, were not even attempted by their successors of less merit. This alone would account for the speedy neglect which Storace's Operas experienced. Another cause, yet more powerful, may be traced to the rapid revolutions of fashion in musical taste. After the lapse of ten years or so music which had been lauded for its novelty and beauty was condemned for its staleness and vapidty. Quondam novelties in melody and harmony were, in turn, superseded by others more in accordance with the fashion of the day: these, again, were doomed to a similar condition. In like manner the contemporaneous music of the Continent has suffered neglect as remarkable as our own, and is, for any practical purpose, as dead.

John Braham on his return from Italy, after a succession of operatic triumphs unprecedented in the history of the lyric drama, produced between 1802 and 1812 many English Operas, whose success was as much, or perhaps more, attributable to the transcendent talent of the vocalists who took the principal parts in them as to the music, which, for the most part, was of the most ephemeral kind. Mrs. Billington, Signora Storace, Braham, and Incledon were the eminent vocalists who then delighted the large audiences who flocked to hear them. Mrs. Billington and Braham were unrivalled, and as great on the Italian as on the English Opera stage.

Incledon, a native of Cornwall, was a very remarkable singer. He was no musician, in the true sense of the term, his musical knowledge being very limited; but he was gifted with a "silver-toned" tenor voice of astonishing power; he was alternately tender and vigorous in his expression; and, when interpreting the pathetic or national songs of Charles Dibdin, he was irresistible and charming by his sentiment, his energy, and earnestness. The once celebrated duet, "All's well," from the "British Fleet," sung by Braham and Incledon, and by all the then amateur tenors of the British Empire, yet lives, and is even now occasionally sung.

Signora Storace's voice had been highly cultivated in Italy. She was very admirable in operatic parts that required fluency of voice and sprightliness of manner. A very florid duet in "Mahmoud," sung by Storace and Braham, remains as evidence of her brilliant voice and style. Domenico Corri, Reeve, and others, assisted, about the same period, to keep English dramatic music alive, despite the powerful attraction of the Italian Opera, supported, as it then was, by the most eminent Italian vocal talent which money could purchase, and, in addition, by the countenance, patronage, and encouragement of the nobility and gentry of England.

Henry Bishop, who was born in London in 1786, was a prolific contributor to the British lyric drama. He was a man of genius, and, when self-reliant, composed music in a style specially his own, which was thoroughly English in form and feature. "He is conspicuous in the musical history of this country," says Macfarren, "for having produced compositions of very high merit at the period when the art was less cultivated here, in comparison with the rest of Europe, than at any other time, and when his music alone gave consideration to the English name." "He combined," says the same excellent authority, "pure, expressive, and forcible English melody with the depth and solidity of the German school; and in every department of the art he has given the public some enduring specimen of beautiful music." After a few successful efforts in dramatic music, commencing in 1806, Bishop composed his first Opera, "The Circassian Bride," for the Theatre Royal, Drury Lane, which unfortunately was burnt down the night after its first performance, on the 23rd February, 1809. The "Maniac," which was produced in 1810, increased the composer's growing reputation. The "Chorus of Banditti," with which this Opera opens, is very fine and dramatic, as well as the Finale to Act I., "The tiger couches in the wood." In estimating the merits of Bishop's dramatic music it should be compared with the music which then existed, and not with that which has since been composed, although even with such music it may, in many respects, bear favourable comparison, especially as regards his finely composed and tuneful concerted vocal music for three, four, five and six voices, with and without the addition of a chorus. Among numerous splendid specimens of this style of music may be named the grand Finale to Act I., of the "Law of Java," produced in 1822; the sestett, "Stay, prythee stay;" the opening sestett, "Listen, he must be near;" the quintett, "Though he be now a grey friar," in the "Miller and his Men" (1813); the sestett, "Oh, bold Robin Hood," in "Maid Marian" (1822). In Bishop's numerous Operas, and other musical pieces for the stage of less proportions, composed, and produced at Covent Garden Theatre, between 1810 and 1824, will be found much fine concerted vocal music, the major part of which has outlived the Operas they once adorned. Bishop was appointed Musical Director and Composer of Covent Garden Theatre in 1810; and, during the fourteen years he held that important musical office, he proved by his industry that he was not insensible to the golden chances it afforded him to bring his works before the public. "The Knight of Snowdon," "The Virgin of the Sun," "The Ethiop," "The Renegade," "The Antiquary," "The Slave," were then produced. The influence of the German school of dramatic music was beginning to be felt in this country in the early part of the nineteenth century, and could not fail to affect so accomplished a musician as Henry Bishop. He has been charged with giving up "his personal identity" during his artistic career, and being infected, so to speak, with the more modern manner of Rossini and Weber. He could not possibly divest himself of his speciality of musical style, which was derived from his peculiarity of temperament and constitution; but he evidently agreed in opinion with Sir Joshua Reynolds, who, referring to a sister art, said that "the greatest natural genius cannot subsist on its own stock," and that "he who resolves never to ransack any mind but his own, will be soon reduced, from mere barrenness, to the poorest of all imitations: he will be obliged to imitate himself, and to repeat what he has so often repeated." "The mind," he adds, "is but a barren soil which is soon exhausted, and will produce no crop, or only one, unless it be continually fertilised and enriched with foreign matter." Handel, anticipating these views, did not hesitate to fertilise and enrich his transcendent powers by the attentive study of his great Italian predecessors and contemporaries. Musical ideas, it must be admitted, issue more richly and more copiously from the most cultivated musicians, who, possessing an extensive acquaintance with the finest works of the best masters of every age and country, have "the most materials" for composition, and therefore "the greatest means of invention." He nourishes his musical mind upon the food bequeathed by his predecessors in the art, and avails himself of the discoveries they have made, and the experiences they have acquired, and, in turn, he leaves to his successors the results of his own. In this manner art legitimately and surely progresses.

Bishop understood and recognised the musical spirit of the age, and appreciated the progressive condition of music at the early part of the present century, especially with regard to orchestral instrumentation. He fully estimated, in the Operas of Mozart, Weber, Spohr, Rossini, and Meyerbeer, and in the one Opera of Beethoven, a fuller development of dramatic effect, the introduction of richer harmonic combinations, the increased resources of the orchestra, the more frequent and effective use of the chorus, and dramatic scenes more amply elaborated, and he at once accepted these modern improvements, and applied them, in principle, to his own operatic compositions. "Every period of ten years," says Forkel, John Sebastian Bach's biographer, "has some forms or turns of melody which are peculiar to it, but which generally grow out of fashion before it expires. A composer who desires that his works should descend to posterity must take care to avoid them." Imitating the example of many great painters and musicians, Bishop modified, to some extent, his old manner in his later works. It must be confessed that these have not the charm which attaches to his earlier compositions.

Bishop retired from the Musical Directorship of Covent Garden Theatre in 1824, and then became the Composer and Director of the Music at Drury Lane Theatre. Carl Maria von Weber, the illustrious composer of "Der Freischütz," almost overwhelmed by his great reputation, was engaged to compose an English Opera for Covent Garden. As a counterpoise to "Oberon," Bishop was called upon to compose "Aladdin" for the rival theatre. Despite its charming music, and the great fame of its composer, "Oberon" achieved only a partial success. Bishop's Opera was a failure, and deservedly so, for it is certainly his worst Opera. On perusing it, very little can be found of a redeeming character. The subject was worn out, the text was of the most trivial kind, and the music was deficient in spontaneity, evidently written "to order"—and was totally devoid of spirit. It was a vain attempt to meet the requirements of modern ideas in dramatic music. Poor Weber, in the full blaze of triumphant celebrity, was already standing upon the threshold of eternity. Under such interesting and exceptional circumstances as then surrounded him, it was a crucial ordeal for any English composer, however famous he might be, and with all his powers in full vigour, to be placed in competition with such a composer as Weber. None might hope to pass with success so severe a test.

Bishop's Operas have not been heard on the Continent, and even their fame has hardly reached beyond the limits of English-speaking countries. The music of England, however pleasing to English ears, in the eighteenth and first quarter of the nineteenth centuries, was perhaps not calculated to satisfy foreign minds and ears. The form of English Opera, so different from that of Italy, France, and Germany, would be distasteful to the people of those countries, who are contented with their own music and consider none other its equal. Then, again, the English language is difficult of pronunciation; and to translate it would be to destroy its point and to sacrifice its music. These causes, added to an ignorant and unjust prejudice against the music and musicians of England, fostered and countenanced to a very considerable extent by the people of this country itself, have in earlier times delayed the introduction of English Opera into foreign countries. As a rule German music has met with but scant favour in Italy, while Italian music alone has been cosmopolitan. Bishop's Operas would not bear revival more than those of Handel, Hasse, Porpora, Jomelli, Scarlatti, Leonardo Leo, Paisiello, Pergolesi, Galuppi, or Sacchini. They are all dead and buried. But choice selections from them will always be welcomed with pleasure by all true lovers of music.

Henry Bishop contributed to the lyric stage of England between sixty and seventy Operas and lighter musical pieces. He received the honour of knighthood in 1842, from Queen Victoria's own hand, in recognition of his high artistic merits. Sir Henry Rowley Bishop, at the death of Dr. William Crotch, was elected to the Musical Professor's chair at Oxford in 1848, and died in 1855. From the year 1826 to 1834 there was an interregnum, so to speak, in the direct line of English dramatic composers. During this blank period for National Opera, English musicians and theatrical managers were engaged in producing foreign works translated for and adapted to the English stage to suit the modified taste of English audiences. It was a period devoted to Opera in English, in contradistinction to English Opera. Rossini's last and finest Opera, "Guillaume Tell," composed in 1829, which had not been a success at Paris, was presented to an English audience in a mutilated form, under the title of "Hofer, the Tell of the Tyrol." Auber's "Masaniello" and "Gustavus," Marschner's "Vampyre," Paer's "Freebooters," Ferdinand Ries's "Robbers," and other foreign Operas, besides "Der Freischütz" and "The Barber of Seville," were for the first time made known to the English-Opera-going public in an English dress. In 1832 the German Opera in its completeness was first brought to this country, and "Fidelio," with the gifted Schroeder-Devrient as the devoted Leonora, drew large audiences in that direction. The charming Malibran, in 1833, attracted admiring crowds to listen to her fine singing, and her impressive acting in a translated version of Bellini's "La Sonnambula." It was said by an esteemed authority that the introduction of foreign Operas, mutilated in some instances, and translated into English, "retarded the public taste in this country, and indisposed English audiences to listen to complete musical works, and thus induced the long delay in the manifestation of the loftiest dramatic pretensions by English composers." A new era in the history of English Opera was soon to be inaugurated, with brilliant prospects looming in the future. This new and hopeful revival commenced in 1834, under exceptionally favourable auspices.

(To be continued.)

OFFENBACH IN AMERICA.*

M. OFFENBACH, as all the world knows, went to America to fulfil a professional engagement at the time of the Centennial, and now would like all the world to know that he has published an account of his travels and experiences. We will help him to the utmost of our power, for his literary notes are not less lively than those of his operas, and he tells his story with a mixture of simplicity, shrewdness, harmless vanity, and humour that is most diverting.

The book contains a short dedication to Madame Offenbach so pretty and tender that it must preface our remarks as it does the author's. Our translation is as literal as possible:—

Dear Friend,—It is thou who hast desired that I should make a book of the letters written at random from memory, and scattered notes. This is the first grief thou hast caused me. I bear thee so little spite on its account, that I beg thee to allow me to dedicate to thee this volume, not for its own sake or for what it is worth, but because I love, above all, to write my esteem and affection for thee.

JACQUES OFFENBACH.

* "Notes d'un Musicien en Voyage." Par Jacques Offenbach. Paris: Lévy.

These few words put us at once on good terms with our author, and help us to understand the first chapter—"Avant le Départ"—which reveals M. Offenbach in the bosom of his family, sporting his oak against the whole world on the terrace of St. Germain. Nay, not against the whole world. He could not refuse Mlle. Schneider, of whom he says: "When I see her pass, it appears as though my success were taking a walk." But one day a stranger found admission within the guarded doors, and said, "Are you willing to go to America?" "Sir," answered Offenbach, "I declare to you that no money would, to-day, make me go as far as St. Cloud." The stranger repeated his question, and gave some explanations, chiefly with reference to pecuniary matters, which ended by Offenbach signing an engagement to do as he was wished. But sorrow came afterwards. Wife and family shed tears over the approaching separation; and, says our author, "I passed long nights without sleep, while in the morning I kept awake for fear of not having a smile ready on opening my eyes wherewith to reassure the dear beings who came sadly to greet me." One hope remained—that the entrepreneur would not deposit a stipulated sum by way of earnest on the appointed day. But the hope was illusory; and in due time Offenbach left Paris, attended as far as Havre by a little crowd of relatives and friends, of whom, as the boat quitted her moorings, he took an affectionate farewell.

Our author appears to have suffered horribly from fright on the voyage, so much so that when a storm came on he had a bed made up in the saloon rather than endure the solitude of his cabin. We are sorry to say that the captain "chaffed" him under these distressing circumstances. "Come on deck and see the waves; they are superb," exclaimed the cruel, if hardy, mariner; to which Offenbach feebly replied, "As spectator, to watch a tempest afar off is frightfully interesting; but I declare that, as one playing a rôle in that piece, I find its gaiety of a very limited sort." However, all got safe to their destination, and Offenbach had to endure the welcome which spirited New York managers deem essential by way of preliminary advertisement. In his notes on the great Republic, our maestro discusses many things after a fashion characteristically light-hearted and amusing; among them the streets, the restaurants, the ladies, liberty, advertisements, the press, Niagara, fire-engines, and travelling cars. About all these we must refer the reader to the book itself, our object being to notice only such passages as are interesting from a musical point of view. Strange to say, they are not many, and the task before us is, therefore, a light one.

Offenbach was well pleased with the orchestra provided for him at the Gilmore Garden. Two rehearsals sufficed for a brilliant performance, and as most of the artists accompanied him to the Offenbach Garden at Philadelphia he was equally fortunate there. The Press in both cities lauded him to the skies, and only once did a journal reproach him about a matter of which he says, "J'ai été très sensible." Describing his person, after the American manner, the writer in question complained of his wearing pearl-gray gloves. To this heinous offence Offenbach pleads guilty: "The observation was just. I must own, in all humility, that I have only worn white gloves four times in my life; once as groom's man, once at my own wedding, and twice at the marriage of my two daughters." But the glove question was not the only one that troubled our author at Philadelphia. His manager, having obtained leave to give a sacred concert on a certain Sunday, requested Offenbach to draw up a programme. He did so, and it appears in large type in M. Offenbach's book. It must appear here also, as an example of a musical joke natural, perhaps, to a German who had become "more French than the French," but which justly shocked the inhabitants of the Quaker City.

SUNDAY EVENING, JUNE 25,

AT 8 O'CLOCK P.M.,

GRAND SACRED CONCERT,

BY

M. OFFENBACH

AND THE GRAND ORCHESTRA, IN A CHOICE

SELECTION OF

SACRED AND CLASSICAL MUSIC.

PROGRAMME.

"Deo gratias"	"Domino Noir."
Ave Maria	Gounod.
Marche Religieuse	"La Haine."
Ave Maria	Schubert.
Litanie, "Dis-moi, Vénus"	"La Belle Hélène."
Hymne	"Orphée aux Enfers."
Prière, "Dites-lui"	"La Grande Duchesse."
Danse Sérapique	Polka Burlesque.
Angelus	"Mariage aux Lanternes."

M. Offenbach tells us, without a word of comment, that the authorisation for this concert was withdrawn at the last moment. The reason is, of course, obvious. Fortunate as regards his orchestra at New York and Philadelphia, Offenbach endured tortures elsewhere, notably at a place he declines to name, where a band of twenty-five players essayed "La Belle Parfumeuse." Of the twenty-five, six were moderately good, the rest absolutely bad. The two clarionets made couacs every instant, save in the comic march, when false notes were wanted and not forthcoming. The hautboy played from time to time what it thought fit. The bassoon was more often asleep than awake. The violoncello and double bass skipped whole bars, and the leader, a decent musician in his way, became so hot that he was always putting down his instrument to wipe his face. "If you leave me, we are lost," said Offenbach to his perspiring first fiddle, whereupon the good man laid aside his handkerchief and stuck to his work. In the second act there came a horrible moment. At the crisis of a modulation, the bassoon suddenly woke and dashed into the fray with a leading note a fifth too high. Up went the vocalist in unison, and remained there while the orchestra played on in the proper key. Offenbach "sweat great drops," but was equal to the emergency, against which he had, with the prudence of a good general, provided, by telling off a second fiddler and arming him with a side-drum. At a sign from the master the fiddler rolled his drum, and continued rolling to the end of the duet. "Ah! le beau roulement!" exclaims Offenbach; nevertheless, he cannot now think of that evening without a shudder. In his chapter on "Art in America" M. Offenbach shows that he can write seriously when he pleases. After dwelling upon the enormous resources and organised industry of the States, he goes on to say:—"America is to-day like a giant a hundred cubits high who has reached physical perfection, but wants one thing—a soul. The soul of nations is art, the expression of thought in its most elevated form." In proof of the need thus asserted Offenbach points to the state of American theatres. "In New York there is no permanent opera, no permanent opéra-comique, nor even an operetta house assured of two years' life. There does not exist a single stage for classic or modern dramatists which can guarantee an existence long enough to form a school. In America the theatre lives from day to day, the directors and their companies are all nomads, while the leading artists are, for the most part, birds of passage, come from the old world for a season, and bent upon going back again." Other arts, M. Offenbach contends, are in the same position. He recognises a certain number of eminent native professors, but, "where is the land in which one does not find a flower." There are flowers in America, but our author looks vainly round for a garden. This, he goes on to say, must be remedied. "A people so great should have all greatness—should add to industrial power the glory that the arts alone can bestow upon a nation." But how is this to be done? M. Offenbach answers, addressing the American people, to the following effect:—"You have all necessary means. Let your municipalities undertake the work by the subvention of theatres and the establishment of museums, as do those of France. If they will not, form private societies to the same end. Place permanent managers in your theatres, and assure them against loss. Form conservatoires in the principal cities, under the best European teachers, establish academies of painting and sculpture, and then let them work on for twenty years before you look for any substantial return." "What are twenty years!" exclaims our author, "twenty years to make your scholars into masters, twenty years to free you from dependence upon European art, or ten years to make the theatres of the Old World come to yours for artists, as now you go to them?" Coming in the midst of a light and chatty book, this serious discussion of an important subject has all the greater effect, and, coming anywhere, would be worth the consideration not only of Americans, but of people nearer to our own doors.

Here we must take leave of a delightful gossip, simply noting his last words as he tells us that, on seeing his family au grand complet on the Havre quay, his impulse was to plunge into the sea and swim ashore, thus sooner ending the torture of Tantalus, which showed him all he desired in the world without bestowing the power to clasp the treasure in his arms.

THE recent lecture of Professor Barrett on the affinity of sound and colour has drawn a considerable amount of attention to the subject; but we doubt whether any who listened to the Professor's interesting discourse imagined the possibility of carrying out the idea in so practical a form as to write down a melody in colours, and to recommend the substitution of this method of denoting sounds for that now in use. A book which has recently come into our possession, however, proves that years before Professor Barrett demonstrated that the rate of vibration in the colours of the spectrum showed a sequence analogous to the sequence of pitch in the gamut, an ingenious author had conceived the idea of noting and teaching "colour-music;" and the volume we refer to—written by D. D. Jameson, and dated as far back as 1844—gives plain directions to students of this system, and enforces its claims to notice by stating that "a child, eight years old, who could play the pianoforte, but was previously unacquainted with colour-music, was taught in two minutes to play new sound-music at sight by it." The order of colours, it is said, is that of the prism; and by means of an apparatus, which is described, on pressure of the keys of a pianoforte a colour is evolved corresponding with the note sounded, the duration and extension of the colour being greater or less according to the time and position of the note which it represents and accompanies. Several airs are given noted solely by colours, some of which, particularly the "Cachuca," are extremely dazzling to the eye. Every credit must be given to Mr. Jameson for the manner in which he has proved that a theory so poetical can be reduced to practice; but we can scarcely expect that "colour-music" will be ever regarded as more than a curiosity. Few will care to play on a pianoforte with papers of various colours pasted on the keys; and few, we think, will care to listen when they find that it must be in "a dark chamber lined with bright tin plates."

IN the pages of our musical contemporaries we are constantly reading letters respecting Doctors' Degrees; and as we were amongst the first to ventilate this subject, it would of course give us much pleasure to see so voluminous a correspondence lead to some practical result. But in most of these communications it appears to us that the very plain matter at issue is utterly obscured by the attempt to prove that some musicians who have obtained the degree of Doctor are not so talented as others who have not. Now, if it can be demonstrated that Mr. A., upon whom such a degree has been conferred, is inferior in every respect to Mr. B., who has never attained this honour, it might certainly throw discredit upon the distinction itself, but could not in the slightest manner affect the question whether Mr. B. has any right to assume a title which he has never legitimately gained. A carefully prepared list of those to whom degrees have been granted has been lately issued. Our readers may recollect that we have already called attention to this list, and although there is every reason to believe that it is perfectly correct, we are quite certain that should any name have been inadvertently omitted, the error would be at once rectified. Meanwhile, however, it can scarcely be wondered at that artists whose degrees are officially recorded should permit those unrecorded to pass without challenge; and the assumed holders of such titles must be thoroughly aware that either a refusal to declare how they were obtained, or an attack upon the artistic claims of those whose diplomas are duly recognised, can but weaken their own cause, and leave the real question precisely where it stood.

COULD we imagine the possibility of any one of the numerous audience at the Royal Westminster Aquarium being led to the true appreciation of Beethoven's "Pastoral Symphony" by its union with Mr. Julian Hicks's well-painted panorama, we should certainly qualify our condemnation of this experiment made during the past month; but feeling that, in a popular as well as an artistic point of view, it is an utter failure, no good purpose can be served by disguising the fact. It is true that the illustration may be for a time supported by the music, but to affirm that the music can be aided by the illustration would be the height of absurdity. The beautiful scenery passing before the spectator—unfortunately, however, representing classical ground, with ruined temples, instead of the pastoral country which Constable delighted to paint—is alone the subject of admiration, Beethoven's music gliding idly by as a mere graceful accompaniment to the picture. No doubt the promoters of this incongruous exhibition will say that it is necessary to present realities to those who cannot themselves idealise; but, from this point of view, we would say, "If so much, why not more?" Why not, in the "Scherzo," for instance, have a living group of dancers before the eye, witness their desire to seek shelter during the storm, see them one by one reappear when the clouds disperse, and join in a song of thanksgiving? Why not, in the "Scene by the Brook," have "property birds" twittering in the trees, so that the notes of the nightingale, quail, and cuckoo shall appear positively to issue from their throats? Indeed, who can say how far this idea might be carried out in other works? For example, as Beethoven has told us what he means by the subject in his C minor Symphony, could we not illustrate this composition by scenes representing the struggles of a human being with his destiny, a carefully got-up figure of Fate producing a thrilling sensation upon the auditor by perpetually "knocking at the door"?

ONLY a short time ago, when concert-givers in this country resolved to perform a choral work, what was, perhaps somewhat contemptuously, termed a "scratch choir" was engaged; vocalists who were good sight-singers and accustomed to the conventional method of rendering the standard compositions being selected from opera-houses, theatres, and churches, and trained with one rehearsal to make the choruses "go" as well as could be expected under the circumstances. Probably the German choirs occasionally heard in England stimulated Mr. Henry Leslie to make the first attempt at organising a choral body which, by constant practice under one Conductor, should be enabled to sing part-music not only with precision but with the most delicate shades of expression. Since the formation of this choir others have grown up, and are now so firmly established that the performance of choral music has become a feature of the musical season. When we listened last year to Bach's Mass in B minor, so finely given by the amateur vocalists under the direction of Mr. Otto Goldschmidt, we could not but indulge a hope that a choir so thoroughly competent to attack the enormous difficulties of this great work might be permanently held together. This hope, we are glad to say, has been realised, and, under the title of the "Bach Choir," a Society for the representation of the highest-class music is now one of the institutions of the metropolis. Two concerts—as before, directed by Mr. Otto Goldschmidt—are to be given at St. James's Hall, the first on the 11th inst., when Bach's Mass in B minor will be repeated; and the second on the 25th, the programme of which will consist of Bach's Cantata on Luther's Psalm, "Ein' feste Burg" (first time of performance); Handel's Coronation Anthem, "The King shall rejoice;" an eight-part Anthem by the late Sir Sterndale Bennett; Palestrina's "Sanctus," from the "Missa Papæ Marcelli;" and Niels Gade's Cantata, "Comala," for the first time in England. A scheme so powerfully appealing to the most cultivated musical taste cannot fail to be warmly supported.

THE musical contemporary with whom we found fault for bringing together the names of Purcell, Kent, and others as church composers has lashed itself into a leading article. We have misquoted, we have blundered; but, happily, we are forgiven. In truth, we had no intention whatever of quoting from our contemporary; but we shall be happy to do so now. Here are the exact words. "It will be a sad time for our cathedral music when the works of Purcell, Croft, or Kent are allowed to fall in desuetude." As far as Kent is concerned, it is to be devoutly wished that this sad time may be speedily consummated.

A SMALL but handsome memorial-stone has been erected by subscription in St. Paul's Cathedral to perpetuate the name of the "choristers' friend" Maria Hackett, who devoted much of her means and all her time in stirring up Deans and Chapters to properly educate and care for their singing boys. She annually visited in person nearly every cathedral town in England for many consecutive years; and ere she died, at the ripe age of ninety, lived to see choir school-houses rising on all sides. None ever deserved so well a few words of gratitude lastingly recorded.

OUR attention has been called by a correspondent to the fact that another organist is about to leave Sherborne, and he asks how far the post is a life-appointment, and in whom power of dismissal is, or ought to be, vested. These are hardly questions for us to enter into; but we cordially agree with our correspondent that anything approaching musical efficiency cannot possibly be expected while changes are not only rapidly made, but carried out in such a manner as to arouse much party-spirit and ill-feeling.

JOSEF JOACHIM, MUS. DOC., CANTAB.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

PURSuing the large and liberal policy adopted since Dr. Macfarren has occupied the Cambridge Chair of Music, the Senate opened up the prospect of a great day on the Cam when it invited Herr Brahms and Professor Joachim to accept the degree of Mus. Doc. Very naturally, the distinction thus offered, seeing that it involved no test of fitness, has been styled "honorary." In strict truth, however, the University has no power to confer an honorary musical degree. It may, by "special grace," dispense with an examination, but the step it confers in this manner is precisely the same as though no departure from the ordinary course had happened. So much it is necessary to state in order that a popular error may be set right, and notwithstanding that the difference between honorary and ordinary never troubled the head of any fanatico per la musica who looked forward to seeing the two illustrious Hungarians shake hands with and receive the congratulations of an English Vice Chancellor in full Congregation. Unhappily, Herr Brahms could not, or at all events did not, make it convenient to leave home, even for such an object. Various reasons have been assigned in explanation, but I am not sure that it is needful to discuss them. Had Herr Brahms come he would have been very welcome, and even as it was we had a representative of the best part of him in the form of the orchestral work which, after so long, brings him, for the first time, into direct comparison with the great masters of symphonic composition. It would therefore be ungracious to grumble, especially as Herr Brahms may have thought, with a good deal of justice, that his country and himself were well represented by Professor Joachim, the distinguished Hungarian who has done more than any other for Brahms in England by persevering through evil report into the good which he knew must ultimately follow.

The interest excited in musical circles by the ceremony of admitting Herr Joachim to his degree could not easily have been greater; for, not only did professors and critics in large numbers hasten to Cambridge on the 8th ult., but also a little crowd of amateurs who, at the Popular Concerts and elsewhere, had learned to entertain for the graduate-elect a feeling of strong personal friendship. No ordinary gathering took place, therefore, on the floor of the Senate House at the appointed time. Men of all shades of opinion met in perfect amity; the lion of Wagnerism sitting down with the lamb of orthodoxy, or vice versa, as the reader pleases, as though the one had never shown a disposition to make a meal of the other.

Orpheus with his lute made trees,
And the mountain tops that freeze,
Bow themselves when he did sing;

and Joachim with his fiddle yearly performs upon us a kindred marvel. Among the divers folk who came to honour him were Sir Julius Benedict, Signor Garcia, Signor Randegger, Herr Manns, Dr. Hueffer, Mr. George Grove, Mr. E. Dannreuther, Mr. J. W. Davison, Mr. Gadsby, Signor Piatti, Mr. W. E. Holmes, Mr. Henry Holmes, and Mr. Dorrell, cum multis aliis, whom to mention would take up more space than can be spared. Enough that their appearance was a flattering demonstration, which must have gratified Herr Joachim not less than the ceremony they had come to see. That ceremony, by-the-way, is not an imposing one, and appears less so from the fact that the undergraduates, who assert liberty of speech in the galleries, regard it as decidedly comic. They whistled popular melodies, made pertinent inquiries of conspicuous people on the floor, cheered their favourites, chaffed the officials, and generally behaved themselves as though the whole affair had been got up for the amusement of an idle hour. But the young fellows meant no harm. It is their way when they can have their way; and if anybody unused to such irreverence felt annoyed, all was surely forgiven as the appearance of Herr Joachim in the scarlet robe and white hood of his new degree evoked enthusiastic applause. The business of introduction to the Vice Chancellor might have been better managed than by permitting Herr Joachim to advance to the dais before taking his place with the Public Orator at the lower end of the Hall. As it was, the new graduate retraced his steps, and standing in front of the Vice Chancellor, though separated from him by the whole length of the benches on either hand, waited while Mr. Sandys held forth upon his worth in approved University Latin. Mr. Sandys is new to his post as Orator, and, though there was nothing to find fault with in his formal speech, he appeared ill at ease. Noting this, the sympathetic men above flung down a few coppers by way of encouragement. Then everybody laughed, and Mr. Sandys, brightening up, got safely to the end of his task. Though brief, the oration was comprehensive, and touched upon everything that fairly came within its scope. It referred to Herr Joachim as Orpheus, regretting that he had come without Eurydice—who, by the way, was not a contralto singer; it spoke of the new graduate as the friend of three Cambridge professors—Walmisley, Bennett, and Macfarren; it paid a graceful compliment to Herr Brahms, making a cautious allusion to the Symphony sent over as his representative; and it ended, amid loud applause, by presenting Joseph Joachim to the robed dignitary who, enthroned on the centre of the dais, gravely listened, while everybody else laughed at the humour of the gallery. The Public Orator then conducted Herr Joachim to the Vice Chancellor, who, rising from his seat, shook him warmly by the hand, amid renewed and general cheering. With this the special ceremony ended, and after some gentlemen, about whom nobody seemed to care, had received degrees, the Congregation broke up, the undergraduates taking the opportunity as it did so of groaning with much vigour at some obnoxious person—no doubt a proctor.

Cambridge is a hospitable University, and the London visitors found no reason to complain that the time between the Congregation and the Concert hung heavily on their hands. Nearly every College had its batch of guests, and the dons' tables in the old halls were graced by strangers in unwonted numbers. As may readily be credited, the forthcoming performance was a general topic of conversation; not without reason, even apart from Herr Joachim and the novelties in the programme, seeing that it was the 150th Concert of the C. U. Musical Society, of which Mr. C. Villiers Stanford, B.A. (Trinity) is now the Conductor. The Society has no mean history. Springing, in 1844, out of the St. Peter's Musical Society, it has always laboured with a high artistic purpose, and shown a commendable liberality of taste. In its early years it produced a large number of symphonies and overtures, as well as Mendelssohn's "Antigone," "Edipus," and "Lauda Sion," "Ruins of Athens," the Choral Fantasia, portions of "Tannhäuser," Schumann's Pianoforte Concerto (first time in England), "Samson," "Alexander's Feast," and other works of equal value and interest. Since 1872, when ladies were admitted as members, the Society has brought out Bach's Cantata, "My Spirit was in heaviness," Bennett's "Woman of Samaria," Brahms's "Requiem," and the third part of Schumann's "Faust," thus asserting an increase of the peculiar spirit which has always animated its counsels. No unworthy association, therefore, had the honour of being connected with the ceremony of the day, and of presenting the new Doctor's Overture and Brahms's representative Symphony.

The handsome and commodious Town Hall was, of course, well filled on an occasion so auspicious. Indeed the audience could boast of a very special character, for not only were the leading people of University and town present, but, besides the London critics and professors, a still greater number of metropolitan amateurs than attended the ceremony of the afternoon put in an appearance. The new works had, therefore, the honour and advantage of trial by a competent jury; and the hero of the day came upon the platform to meet—we will not say friends, because all men are his friends—a gathering of those who had learned to appreciate, in some degree, the length and breadth of his enormous talent. Neither money nor labour had been spared in getting ready for the concert. A capital London orchestra, with Mr. A. Burnett as leader, came down expressly, and the high average of merit shown throughout both by vocalists and instrumentalists was most creditable—sufficient, indeed, to shame not a few more pretentious doings in the metropolis. The programme may speak for itself.

PART I.

Overture...	"The Wood Nymphs"...	Bennett.
Concerto for Violin and Orchestra	...	Beethoven.
A Song of Destiny	...	Brahms.
Violin Solo	...	J. S. Bach.
Elegiac Overture in Commemoration of Kleist (MS.)	...	Joachim.

PART II.

Symphony in C minor (MS.)	...	Brahms.
---------------------------	-----	---------

I need not dwell upon the known works in this scheme longer than is necessary to say that they were well performed. In the very difficult "Song of Destiny" the Society's chorus was fairly on its metal, and passed a trying ordeal with great success. Mr. Stanford, having good material to work upon, had obviously worked upon it well—so well that the University, on the strength of this performance alone, may be proud of its musical representatives. The orchestra gave but trifling cause for complaint, while, in Beethoven's Concerto and Bach's Solo, Herr Joachim was heard to rare perfection. The welcome he received will not soon be forgotten by those who witnessed it. Applause, better described as frantic than enthusiastic, shook the Hall, and became so contagious that even the idlers in the street took it up, sending back answering "hurrahs." But it is time to speak of Herr Joachim's Overture, a work which commemorates a poet of high genius but most unhappy fortunes, a patriot whose ardent hopes Fate took a pleasure in crushing, and a man whom rarest intellectual gifts could not guard against despair and self-sought death. The music which a sympathetic master has laid, like an immortelle, upon Kleist's grave, is thoroughly en rapport with its inspiring cause. Masterly in point of subject and treatment, it is penetrated by a tenderness of sentiment and a dignity of purpose that at once predispose the hearer in its favour, because such qualities are at once felt. The Overture would well repay careful examination, which, however, must be reserved till its full score is available. Meanwhile let the opinion stand on record that, in his Cambridge composition, Herr Joachim has once more shown himself to be a creative musician of no mean order, and an artist who, in the loftiest region of his art, strives for the highest ends with the purest means. Conducted by its author, the work had an excellent performance and was much applauded. With regard to Brahms's Symphony, I shall say little, beyond an expression of opinion that it is worthy to rank among classic things. So great a work ought not to be judged with authority and definiteness, after a single hearing under exciting circumstances; and as it is announced for production in London on more than one occasion, there is everything to gain by the exercise of patience. Enough now that the Cambridge Symphony of the German master made an extraordinary sensation, and sent the audience away with a consciousness that they had just heard for the first time music which the world will not soon let die.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

At the second Concert, on the 8th ult., Mr. J. F. Barnett's Descriptive Piece for Orchestra, "The Lay of the Last Minstrel," commenced the programme, and was received with so much favour as to warrant us in hoping that in future a place may occasionally be found at the Society's performances for the compositions of our own countrymen. A special feature in the selection was Schumann's pianoforte Concerto in A minor, which was played with even more than her usual success by Madame Schumann. Miss Robertson received much applause for her rendering of a Recitative and Air by Mozart; and Herr Henschel created a genuine effect by his excellent vocalisation in Handel's air, "Revenge, Timotheus cries." The Concert, on the 22nd ult., introduced the third Part of Schumann's music to scenes from Goethe's "Faust," though why only the third Part we are somewhat at a loss to understand, seeing that the continuity of dramatic feeling so obviously a characteristic of the work is thus ruthlessly destroyed. For what was given, however, let us be thankful; as it is scarcely possible that so sympathetic a setting of a great poem will be allowed to slumber when once heard, even in fragments. On the whole the music was exceedingly well rendered, the delicate choral pieces being sung with much refinement, and the Finale, into which the composer has thrown his whole strength, being especially worthy of commendation, considering the intricate contrapuntal treatment of the themes. The solo parts were efficiently sung by Mrs. Osgood, Miss Mary Davies, Madame Worrell-Duval, Mrs. Irene Ware, Misses Bolingbroke, Kate Steel and Reimar, Messrs. Henry Guy, Wadmore, and Pope; but it need scarcely be said that a greater number of rehearsals than can be given to any choral work by the Philharmonic Society are positively essential for a public performance worthy of such a composition. The programme also contained Beethoven's Choral Fantasia (the pianoforte part of which was excellently played by Miss Agnes Zimmermann) and Wagner's Scena "Liebestod," from "Tristan und Isolde," finely sung by Mrs. Osgood, and encored. Mr. W. G. Cusins conducted with much ability the exceptionally difficult music of the evening.

SACRED HARMONIC SOCIETY.

THE Sacred Harmonic Society, having redeemed a pledge made more than twelve months since, may be congratulated on the result. Haydn's "Seasons" is so rarely performed that it is practically an unknown work; its reproduction was therefore eagerly anticipated by connoisseurs and musicians. The "Seasons" was the last composition of the dear old "papa" Haydn, a marvellous undertaking for a man of seventy-eight years. Fétis describes it as the "last sigh of Haydn's genius," and comparing it with the "Creation," written some years earlier, says, "it is less nervous and less energetic," but surely this judgment would have been reversed had he ever heard the work. The "Creation" is pre-eminently popular, perhaps because more terse, but it will not compare with the "Seasons" in musicianship, variety, and power. A limited clique of self-asserting musical censors who are wont to smile at Haydn as a writer of pretty tunes, should hear the "Seasons," and they would find perhaps, to their astonishment, that he not only led the way, but also largely built up the stupendous orchestral effects afterward so grandly developed by Beethoven and later writers. It is not too much to say that the orchestration of the "Seasons" has never been excelled. The work is far more difficult than the "Creation," and only when it is equally familiar will it receive ample justice. The performance by the Sacred Harmonic Society on the 23rd ult., under the skilful guidance of Sir Michael Costa, was, however, very good. The Hunting Chorus was excellently sung, and encored; but we thought the time of the well-known chorus, "Come, gentle spring," somewhat slow. The soprano solos were given by Miss Blanche Cole, who created a great impression in the recitative and air, "Here amid these calm recesses;" her final cadence, not Haydn's by the way, ascending to the tonic B flat, with a shake on the penultimate A, astonished and delighted the habitués of the society, all unused to operatic fireworks in their solemn assemblies. The solo tenor part is most exacting, ranging over two octaves from B to B, but was safe in the hands of Mr. W. H. Cummings, who, thoroughly familiar with the music, rendered it with great effect. We observed that the beautiful air, "Distressful nature," and the preceding recitative were judiciously transposed a third higher. Most of the bass music is well suited to Signor Foli's means and voice, but some of the florid passages seemed somewhat ungrateful to him. The concerted music was all admirably rendered, notably the charming duet for soprano and tenor, "Oh what varied forms." Abundance of orchestral work is provided for all the instrumentalists, who need to be constantly on the alert; and, notwithstanding one or two trifling slips, the Society's band must be praised for their share in the general endeavour to do justice to the composer's grand inspirations. We cannot but hope that the evident satisfaction the performance created will induce the Society to keep the "Seasons" as one of its stock Oratorios; the oftener it is performed the better will it be known and appreciated.

MONDAY POPULAR CONCERTS.

WITH the arrival of Mme. Schumann, the last of the special "events" of the season, looked forward to with eager interest on the part of the annually increasing frequenters of these concerts, has now taken place. The reception of that sterling artist on Monday, February 26, as well as on the previous Saturday (her first appearance) was, as usual, of the most enthusiastic kind. On the former occasion her performance of Beethoven's brilliant and imaginative "Programme-Sonata," inscribed by the composer with the suggestive title of "Les adieux, l'absence, et le retour," was again characterised by that poetic insight and depth of feeling, combined with a most marked clearness of exposition, which are the universally recognised artistic qualities of the lady. The same evening brought Spohr's deliciously melodious Nonetto in F major an earlier composition, in which the composer's general tendency to over-elaboration, and restiveness in harmonisation, is barely apparent. The work in question was splendidly executed by MM. Joachim, Zerbini, Svendsen, Lazarus, Dubrucq, Wotton, Wendtland, Piatti, and Reynolds. Herr Joachim played, in his usual grand style, Handel's Sonata in A major, and Herr Henschel, in songs by Handel, Brahms, and Rubinstein, again proved himself to be a most earnest and cultivated artist. At the first concert of last month Mr. Franklin Taylor was the pianist, the solo piece assigned to him being Beethoven's Sonata, Op. 7, in E flat, which he played with much refinement of style and great executive power. The same gentleman also took part in Mendelssohn's Pianoforte Quartett in B minor—a marvellous instance of the composer's early development—being assisted by MM. Joachim, Straus, and Piatti. Beethoven's Stringed Quartett in F, and a repetition of Brahms's Liebeslieder-Walzer, completed the programme of the evening. The second concert of the month included a Sextett in B flat by Brahms, a Trio in E flat (Op. 70) by Beethoven, and the Andante and Scherzo, for stringed quartett, by Mendelssohn. The Sextett, which has been repeatedly performed at these concerts, is one of Brahms's most admirable compositions, both as regards its unity of design and construction, and the originality which manifests itself in the different movements; characteristics, which are not so clearly apparent in some of the composer's later productions. It is hardly necessary to add that the Sextett was finely executed by MM. Joachim, Ries, Straus, Zerbini, Pezze, and Piatti. Besides the Trio by Beethoven, in which she was associated with MM. Joachim and Piatti, Mdme. Schumann gave a splendid reading of her late husband's grand and almost unique variations entitled Etudes symphoniques, which called forth a genuine burst of applause on the part of a closely packed audience. Mdme. Sophie Löwe sang with good taste a pleasing drawing-room song by Miss Agnes Zimmermann, entitled "Only a year ago," as well as two "Volkslieder," by Mendelssohn and C. V. Stanford respectively. At the following concert the performance commenced with a Quartett in A minor by Schubert, a work eminently characteristic of the genius of a composer whose ever-flowing stream of exquisite melody is manifest—occasionally to an embarrassing extent—throughout his numerous compositions. The Quartett in A minor, while being the first of its class which Schubert has written, is also one of the most compact in its construction, and its performance again demonstrated to the greatest possible advantage the eminent qualities as leader of chamber-music possessed by Herr Joachim. Schumann's Fantasia in C major for Pianoforte, which, like all compositions of that master, betrays a most marked and powerful individuality, received a first rendering at these concerts by Mdme. Schumann. Mr. Barton McGuckin was the vocalist of the evening. We have already had occasion to speak of the exceptional advantages, both in the quality and flexibility of his voice, possessed by this gentleman. We may now add that a somewhat more marked pronunciation and accentuation would greatly add to the general declamatory effect of his delivery. The closing concert of the season, being the Director's benefit, took place on the 26th ult., on which occasion the programme offered, as usual, special attractions. Among the pieces announced we may instance a Prelude and Fugue for Violin by Bach, Hungarian Dance by Brahms-Joachim, Schumann's Carnival, for Pianoforte, and the same master's "Stücke im Volkston," for Pianoforte and Violoncello, as well as a Quartett (Op. 74) by Beethoven, and various vocal pieces.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

At the Chamber Concert by the students of this Institution given on the 24th February, at the new Concert-Hall of the Academy, a cantata by Mr. Henry Smart, called "The Fishermidens," written for female voices, achieved a success which must have been highly gratifying to the composer, and reflected the utmost credit upon the young vocalists. The words, by Mr. F. E. Weatherly, tell a simple little story in appropriately simple but poetical language; the charmingly melodious and refined music of Mr. Smart proving with how much interest an accomplished artist can invest so unpretentious a trifle. The "Ballad of Lilian" (sung with unaffected expression by Miss Mary Davies) and the choral scena, "Hark, hark!" have sufficient dramatic merit to ensure due recognition in an opera; and although the instrumental accompaniment was represented solely by the pianoforte, under the skilful fingers of Mr. F. W. W. Bampfylde, a more elaborate colouring with orchestral resources was evidently constantly in the composer's mind. The other solo vocalists were Misses Kate Brand, Reimar, Ada Patterson and Orridge, and Mr. Walter Macfarren, under whose direction the work had been most carefully studied, conducted. The principal attraction at the Students' Orchestral Concert, which took place in St. James's Hall, on the 24th ult., was the performance of Schubert's fine Mass in E flat, for the first time in London. The production of so elaborate a work by pupils of an Academy may perhaps have been termed a bold experiment, but the result amply proved that confidence in the present resources of the Institution had not been misplaced. The religious fervour of the "Kyrie" was thoroughly realised by the choir, the charmingly fresh and carefully-trained voices of the soprani being especially worthy of remark. The "Gloria"—more particularly the "Miserere nobis" and the fugue, "Cum Sancto Spiritu"—also well deserved the warm applause which was bestowed upon them, although the somewhat "severe" writing in the last-named movement obviously taxed the patience of the less musical portion of the audience. The canonic "Et incarnatus" (for one soprano and two tenors), the "Benedictus" (which was admirably sung throughout), and the melodious "Dona nobis," were evidently the gems of the work to those who could not appreciate the more elaborate portions of the Mass; but as all tastes were thus powerfully appealed to, the example set by our national institution will no doubt be speedily followed, and Schubert's greatest choral composition may then become as popular in this country as the most ardent lovers of the composer's works could desire. The solo parts were well rendered by Mrs. Irene Ware, Miss Orridge, Messrs. Tower, Seligmann, and Theiler. In the selection which followed, mention must be made of the intelligent and refined performance of Sterndale Bennett's "Barcarole" and "Presto Agitato," from his Pianoforte Concerto in F minor, by Miss Alice Heathcote; of an excellent reading of Mendelssohn's "Ronde Brillante," in E flat, by Miss Lyons, and of the effective singing of Miss Marian Williams and Miss Albu, the former in "Angels ever bright and fair," and the latter in Mozart's "Deh vieni." The concert concluded with the overture to "Athalie," which was rendered with much precision under the careful conductorship of Mr. Walter Macfarren, who held the band and choir well under control in Schubert's difficult music.

MR. HENRY LESLIE'S CHOIR.

A POWERFUL attraction at the first of these Concerts for the present season, on the 2nd ult., was the production of J. S. Bach's Motett for double choir, "Sing ye to the Lord," a work never before heard in London. Considering the enormous difficulties of this composition—which is entirely unaccompanied—every credit is due to Mr. Leslie and his admirable choir for the manner in which the contrapuntal intricacies were vanquished. The first movement was remarkably well given, the independent parts in the two choirs being steadily preserved, especially where the fugue is sung by the second choir. The chorale in the second movement was well maintained against the contrasted counterpoint given to the other choir. The joyful movement, "Praise ye the Lord," and the stupendous four-part fugue which concludes the work—although the subject of the latter piece was given out somewhat nervously—were sung with a precision which astonished even the most critical listener; and the overwhelming applause at the termination of the performance was indeed a fitting reward to the executants for the labour they must have bestowed upon the preparation of such exacting music. Palestrina's Motett, "Exaltabo Te," and Mozart's "Ave verum" also afforded an opportunity for the display of the best qualities of the choir; and amongst the solos was a graceful song by the Conductor, well rendered by Mr. Lloyd. Mention must be made, too, of the singing of Miss de Fonblanque and Miss Robertson, both of whom produced a decided effect; the first-named lady in Rossini's "Fac ut portem," and the second in an air from Graun's "Der Tod Jesu," in which, however, the display of her exceptionally high register evoked a larger amount of applause than her best friends should have desired. At the second concert, on the 20th ult., Bach's Motett was repeated with even increased effect, the choir having evidently gained confidence by the warm reception of the work at the previous performance. Herr Henschel created quite a sensation by his fine singing of Handel's "Oh, ruddier than the cherry" (translated into German), and being encored, returned to the platform and gave Rubinstein's "Es blinkt der Thau," accompanying himself on the pianoforte. The other vocalists were Madame Patey (who was highly effective in a well-written song by Mr. Leslie, "Under the spreading oak"), Mr. Alfred Kenningham and Mr. Richard Drummond, Mr. Sims Reeves (who was announced) being too indisposed to appear. The Conductor's clever new part-song, "Resurgam," was enthusiastically encoresd, as was also that by Mr. J. G. Calcott, called "There is a garden in her face." The same compliment was awarded to Morley's Madrigal, "Now is the month of Maying;" and a good word must be given to Madame Varley-Liebe for her efficient violin-playing. Miss Bessie Stroud, Miss Orridge, R.A.M., Mr. G. Cosby, and Mr. F. A. Bridge were heard to much advantage in a quartett from Mr. Leslie's "Immanuel," and the Earl of Mornington's glee, "Here in cool groat." The room was very full.

MR. WALTER BACHE'S CONCERT.

EARNESTNESS in art is so abstractedly commendable that, much as we may differ from Mr. Walter Bache in his estimate of the compositions of Franz Liszt, we cannot but express our admiration of the manner in which he discharges his mission of pressing the claims of this remarkable, but eccentric genius, upon the attention of the English public. We certainly, however, should prefer his merely printing the programme of his performances, and allowing the music to speak for itself. We do not want to know the opinion of Wagner upon the art-work of his friend Liszt, nor to be told by Mr. Dannreuther what we ought to think when we hear a composer's work re-scored by somebody else; and at the concert of Mr. Bache at St. James's Hall on the 27th February, therefore, we could not but consider the little packet of letterpress with which so many of the audience were provided as rather an incumbrance than a guide to the due appreciation of the music. Chopin's second Pianoforte Concerto, which opened the concert, was finely played by Mr. Bache, who has evidently not only the will to bring forward the works of the special school to which he clings, but the ability to do them full justice. We quite believe that Chopin's weak point was his handling of the orchestra; but the effect of Herr Carl Klindworth's instrumentation patched on to the pianoforte part of one who originally thought out the work according to his own conception of what it should be was, to us, utterly detrimental to its enjoyment. To say nothing of the many changes in the score, the mere fact of occasionally hearing passages, originally written for pianoforte only, strengthened by the orchestra sufficiently proved that we were not listening to Chopin but to Klindworth; and not only, it may be added, was this important alteration unsanctioned by the composer, but it was made years after it was in his power to protest against it. The "Symphonic Poem," "Mazeppa," was so well played by the orchestra as to leave us but one regret—that so fine a body of instrumentalists should not be employed in rendering one of the great works in art. To say that Liszt's music is worthless would be absurd. Indications of real power exist throughout, but the eccentricity and even mannerism of the class of composition which now seems to rule "Young Germany" cannot be talked away by the most energetic disciples of the "music of the future," and the last note produced a feeling of relief amongst the hearers which few attempted to conceal. Liszt's second Pianoforte Concerto, in A major, again afforded Mr. Bache an opportunity of displaying his exceptionally fine powers of execution. The same composer's orchestral piece—also termed "Symphonic Poem"—"Les Préludes," was a welcome relief after the pretentious "Mazeppa." It is intended to illustrate a portion of Lamartine's "Méditations Poétiques," and has both grace and delicacy throughout, the treatment of the orchestra showing much originality, with an absence of that exaggeration which too often characterises the works of this composer. The same may be said of the "Loreley" ballad (also by Liszt), which was charmingly rendered by Mrs. Osgood, and warmly applauded. The concert was ably conducted by Mr. Manns.

EVERY credit is due to Mr. W. Lemare for the manner in which he conducts the Brixton Choral Society, and the desire he exhibits on all occasions to cultivate a love for the solid works both of the old and modern school of writing. The careful way in which the choruses are studied evidences that both the members and the Director have their hearts in the task before them, and we freely accord to them all the congratulations they so richly merit. But if the concert on the 26th February, when Mr. J. F. Barnett's Sacred Cantata, "The Good Shepherd," and Herr Gade's "Crusaders" were given—with the organ and a stringed quintett as an accompaniment—was presumed to be of sufficient importance to invite the members of the Press and to challenge criticism upon the performance of two works which every musician knows demand a full orchestra, then we beg to differ from him. The choruses in both compositions were admirably sung; but, to those who knew the beautiful effects of Gade's picturesque score, the "Crusaders" was as bald and colourless as the pencil sketch of a great picture would be to the eye of an artist; and all the very good solo singing of Madame Worrell-Duval, Miss Coyte Turner, Mr. Dudley Thomas and Mr. J. L. Wadmore could not elevate the concert into more than a well-conducted rehearsal. In the "Good Shepherd," the best specimen of choral singing was the hymn, "Gentle Shepherd," and praise must also be given for the efforts of the vocalists already mentioned in the principal parts. The room was very full, and applause was freely accorded during the evening; but if Mr. Lemare be really desirous of appealing to a general public, he must either engage a competent orchestra or limit his ambition to the performance of compositions which can be adequately rendered by the small means at his command.

THE Concert given at St. James's Hall on the 16th ult., in aid of the funds of the Royal Normal College and Academy of Music for the Blind, was, as regards the rendering of the compositions, everything that could be desired; but we cannot say as much for the selection of the programme. To place Beethoven's Symphony in A and the same composer's Violin Concerto side by side with a rambling piece of musical incoherence, termed a Pianoforte Concerto, by Tschaiakowsky, and Wagner's "Ride of the Walkyries," from "Die Walküre"—a piece only endurable in its place in the opera—was scarcely a judicious proceeding, not only from the incongruity of the materials chosen to form an attractive concert, but from the fact of the performance being connected with an institution for the training of musical students. Of the execution of the two solos mentioned—the former by Mr. Hartwigson, and the latter by Herr Joachim—we can speak in terms of the highest praise, and must also say that the fine orchestra played Beethoven's Symphony to perfection. Part-songs were well given by a select choir of the pupils, and Miss Maggie Reece created a favourable impression by her unaffected singing of Wallace's "Sweet and low." Mention too must be made of the violin-playing of Herr Joachim's pupil, Mr. Henri Petri, who joined his master in the Adagio and Presto from one of Spohr's Duets, and displayed both a fine tone and finished execution. Herr Henschel's singing of Handel's "Revenge, Timotheus cries," was also a feature in the concert. Mr. A. Manns was the conductor.

MR. GYE's prospectus of the Royal Italian Opera for the coming season offers but little opportunity for comment; for with the exception of Verdi's "Les Vêpres Siciliennes," "Santa Chiara," by the Duke of Saxe-Coburg Gotha, Rubinstein's "Nero," Nicolaï's "Le Vispe Comare di Windsor," and Wagner's "Il Vascello Fantasma" "three at least" of which (according to Mr. Gye's usual cautious phraseology) will be produced, the old works are to be played over and over again, the only fresh interest in which will be created by the principal characters being occasionally filled by new aspirants for fame, the names of whom are unknown save that of Signor Gayarre, who was announced in last year's prospectus, and Signor Tamagno, who has managed to make us believe that his services are valuable by refusing to come (although engaged by Mr. Gye), and appealing to the law for protection, so that his appearance is somewhat problematical. The orchestra remains "unrivalled" as well as the chorus; and the conductorship will be, as before, entrusted to Signori Vianesi and Bevnigani. The season commences on the 3rd inst.

Psalms xxvii. 11; xvi. 12;
Acts i. 11; Psalm lxxviii. 18.

ANTHEM FOR ASCENSION-TIDE.

J. STAINER.

London: NOVELLO, EWER & Co., 1, Berners St. (W.) and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.) New York: J. L. PETERS, 843, Broadway

TENOR
(Sve. lower).

BASS.

ORGAN.
♩ = 88.

Andante.

CHORUS.

p Leave us not, leave us

CHORUS. p Leave us

Andante.

p Sw. not, nei-ther for - sake us, O God of our sal - va - - soft Gt. not, nei-ther for - sake us, senza Ped.

p - tion. mf In Thy pre-sence is the p O God of our sal - va - - tion. f is the Gt. cres.

pp ful - ness of joy, . . . Leave us not, pp O God of pp ful - ness of joy, . . . Leave us not, O God of f pp

our sal - va - - tion.

our sal - va - - tion.

pp

Ped.

CHORUS. TREBLE. Allegretto.

accell. Allegretto. ♩ = 112.

Ye men of Ga - li - lee, cres. f

senza Ped.

why stand ye ga - zing, gazing up in-to heaven? why stand ye ga - zing?

pp f dim. pp

why stand ye ga - zing? this same Je - sus, which is ta - ken up from you, from

pp f dim. pp

cres. cres.

you in - to heaven, shall so come in like man - ner, shall so come in like man - ner,

cres. cres.

as ye have seen Him go in - to heaven, as ye have seen Him go in - to heaven.

Allegro.

Thou art gone up on high, Hal-le - lu-jah, Hal-le - lu-jah, Thou hast led cap-ti-vi-ty

Thou art gone up on high, Hal-le - lu-jah, Hal-le - lu-jah,

Thou art gone up on high, Hal-le - lu-jah, Hal-le - lu-jah,

Thou art gone up on high, Hal-le - lu-jah, Hal-le - lu-jah,

Allegro. ♩ = 120.

cap-tive, Hal-le - lu-jah, Hal-le - lu-jah, Hal-le - lu-jah,

Hal-le - lu-jah, Hal-le - lu-jah, Hal-le - lu-jah,

Hal-le - lu-jah, Hal-le - lu-jah, and re- ceiv - ed gifts for men, Hal-le - lu-jah,

Hal-le - lu-jah, Hal-le - lu-jah, Hal-le - lu-jah,

Ped.

Hal - le - lu - - jah; yea, e - ven for Thine e - ne - mies, yea, e - ven

Hal - le - lu - - jah; yea, e - ven for Thine e - ne - mies, yea, e - ven .

Hal - le - lu - - jah; yea, e - ven for Thine e - ne - mies, yea, e - ven

Hal - le - lu - - jah; yea, e - ven for Thine e - ne - mies, yea, e - ven

p Full Sw. cres. cres.

for Thine e - ne - mies, that the Lord God might dwell a - mong them.

for Thine e - ne - mies, that the Lord God might dwell a - mong them.

for Thine e - ne - mies, that the Lord God might dwell a - mong them.

for Thine e - ne - mies, that the Lord God might dwell a - mong them.

pp cres.

Thou art gone up on high, Hal - le - lu - jah, Hal - le - lu - jah, Thou art gone up on

Thou art gone up on high, Hal - le - lu - jah, Hal - le - lu - jah, Thou art gone up on

Thou art gone up on high, Hal - le - lu - jah, Hal - le - lu - jah, Thou art gone up on

Thou art gone up on high, Hal - le - lu - jah, Hal - le - lu - jah, Thou art gone up on

f

high, Thou art gone up on high, Hal-le - lu - jah, Hal - le - lu - jah, Hal-le - high, Thou art gone up on high, Hal-le - lu - jah, Hal - le - lu - jah, high, Thou art gone up on high, Hal-le - lu - jah, Hal - le - lu - jah, Hal-le - high, Thou art gone up on high, Hal-le - lu - jah, Hal - le - lu - jah,

- lu - jah, . . Hal - le - lu - jah, Hal-le - lu - jah, . . Hal-le - lu - jah.

Hal-le - lu - jah, Hal-le - lu - jah.

- lu - jah, . . Hal - le - lu - jah, Hal-le - lu - jah, Hal-le - lu - jah.

Hal-le - lu - jah, Hal - le - lu - jah.

Hal-le - lu - jah, Hal-le - lu - jah, Hal-le - lu - jah. A - - - men. . . .

Hal-le - lu - jah, Hal-le - lu - jah, Hal-le - lu - jah. A - - - men. . . .

Hal-le - lu - jah, Hal-le - lu - jah, Hal-le - lu - jah. A - - - men. . . .

Hal-le - lu - jah, Hal-le - lu - jah, Hal-le - lu - jah. A - - - men. . . .

$\text{♩} = 80.$

REDUCTION IN PRICE
OF NOVELLO'S
FOLIO EDITION
OF THE
ORATORIOS, &c.

Messrs. NOVELLO, EWER and CO. have the honour to announce that, simultaneously with the reduction of the prices of their Octavo Edition of the Oratorios, &c., and of the Orchestral parts, they have decided on issuing their Folio Edition of the Oratorios, &c., at a cheaper and uniform rate.

These works will, for the future, be only supplied bound.

			Cloth gilt.
		s.	d.
Bach's Passion (S. Matthew)	12	6
Benedict's S. Peter	12	6
Crotch's Palestine	12	6
Handel's Judas Maccabæus	12	6
Do. Israel in Egypt	12	6
Do. Samson	12	6
Do. Solomon	12	6
Do. Jephtha	12	6
Do. Joshua	12	6
Do. Deborah	12	6
Do. Saul	12	6
Hiller's Nala and Damayanti	12	6
Mendelssohn's S. Paul	12	6
Do. Elijah	12	6
Do. Hymn of Praise	10	6
Spohr's Fall of Babylon	12	6
Do. Calvary	12	6

The undermentioned works may also be had in the Folio Edition at similar prices :—

			Cloth gilt.
		s.	d.
Barnby's Rebekah	10	6
Haydn's Creation	10	0
Handel's Messiah	10	6
Do. Alexander's Feast	12	6
Do. Acis and Galatea	12	6
Mendelssohn's First Walpurgis Night	12	0
Do. Antigone	12	0
Do. Athalie	12	0
Rossini's Stabat Mater	10	0

LONDON:
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

WILL BE ISSUED IMMEDIATELY
THE CATHEDRAL PSALTER
CHANTS
OBLONG QUARTO, PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

LONDON:
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Now Ready, New and Revised Edition.

THE MAY QUEEN
A PASTORAL

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

HENRY F. CHORLEY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

SIR W. STERNDALE BENNETT.

PAPER COVER, 3s.; CLOTH GILT, 5s.

LONDON:
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION.
TWELVE SONGS

WITH ENGLISH AND GERMAN WORDS

COMPOSED BY

SIR W. STERNDALE BENNETT.

Op. 23.	Op. 35.
No. 1. Musing on the roaring ocean.	No. 7. Indian love.
2. May Dew.	8. Winter's gone.
3. Forget me not.	9. Dawn, gentle flower.
4. To Chloe (in sickness).	10. Castle Gordon.
5. The Past.	11. As lonesome through the woods.
6. Gentle Zephyr.	12. Sing, maiden, sing.

Price, in paper covers, 4s.; cloth boards, 6s.

Also separately, folio size, price 1s. 6d. each net.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

AN excellent performance of Bach's "Passion Music" (St. Matthew) was given by the Albert Hall Choral Society on the 15th ult., under the conductorship of Mr. Barnby. The solos were efficiently rendered by Miss Anna Williams, Madame Antoinette Sterling, Mr. Cummings, and Mr. Thurley Beale, Madame Sterling especially distinguishing herself in the air, "Have mercy upon me" (the violin obbligato finely played by Mr. Pollitzer), and Mr. Cummings delivering the whole of the tenor recitatives with that fervour and purity of style so positively essential for their due effect. The choruses went extremely well, the Choraes creating, as usual, a profound impression upon the audience, and the movement, "Have lightnings and thunders," evoking the warmest marks of approbation, which, of course, might have been construed into an encore. Mr. Parker accompanied the recitatives requiring such aid on the pianoforte, and Dr. Stainer presided at the organ.

THE sixth and last of a series of Concerts in aid of St. Mark's and St. Mary's Schools took place on the 13th ult. at the National School Rooms, Lewisham. The programme was well selected, the vocalists being Miss Pulham (who gave two songs with good effect and was loudly applauded), Mr. Booth (who sang two tenor songs with feeling), and Mr. F. Furze (who sang Blumenthal's "Message" with much taste). Two glees were also well sung by the ladies from "The Elms," Blackheath. The vocal portions of the programme were varied by two flute solos, well played by Mr. White; the overture to "Masaniello," ably rendered as a piano duet by Mr. S. Jarvis and Miss Dunstan, and a couple of violin solos, excellently performed by Mr. Gatehouse. Mr. S. Jarvis (to whose exertions in conjunction with F. Furze, Esq., the Hon. Sec., much of the success of these concerts is due) conducted, and also officiated as accompanist.

WE have received the programmes of the eight "Peabody Concerts" given by the Conservatory of Music, at Baltimore, with some details of the working of the establishment. It appears that Mr. Peabody endowed his Institute with two millions of dollars, the interest of which was to be used to sustain the musical as well as lecture departments. The Conservatory at the present moment has 120 students, and the professors are the most skilful to be procured. There is an orchestra of 50 performers, and daily rehearsals are given, so that there is every prospect of the most gratifying results. In looking over the selection of music performed at the concerts we find most countries tolerably well represented, with the exception of England, the only compositions by British-born subjects being a Suite in A major, by H. W. Nicholl, and Bishop's "Tell me, my heart."

THE sixty-first Monthly Concert of the Grosvenor Choral Society was held at the Grosvenor Hall on Friday the 16th ult., under the conductorship of Mr. J. G. Callcott. A Mendelssohn selection formed the first part of the programme, including "How lovely are the messengers," "I waited for the Lord," the 43rd psalm, ("Judge me O God,") and "Hear my prayer," the solo in which was well sung by Mrs. Alfred Dye. The choir gave an excellent rendering of the 43rd psalm unaccompanied. Miss Turner was encored for her singing of "O rest in the Lord," and Mr. Henry Baker gave "It is enough" with good effect. The other vocalists were Miss Annie Geary, Miss Hellier, the Misses Clark, Mr. A. Lawrence Fryer, Mr. W. Powell, Mr. Nettleship, and Mr. W. Lloyd. Mrs. Alfred Dye and Mr. J. G. Callcott played the overture to Auber's "Zanetta" as a pianoforte duet.

THE specimens of "Vibration-Curves" forwarded to us by Mr. Joseph Goold, of Nottingham, most exquisitely drawn in colours, will, if we mistake not, create much interest in a subject which has lately, by Professor Tyndall and others, been brought prominently before the public. The figure upon each card, representing the vibrations of sonorous molecules under the influence of two musical sounds, is produced by copying the vibrations of a compound pendulum moving in two directions at right angles simultaneously. Apart from the excessive beauty of these drawings, they may prove of much use in illustrating some of the principles of what may be termed "musical physics;" and we have much pleasure in aiding the inventor to give publicity to the result of his labours.

THE fourth and last concert of the series took place at the British Schools, Allen Street, Kensington, on Wednesday evening, the 21st ult. The first part consisted of the works of Rubinstein, the instrumental portion being capitally rendered by Mr. Shedlocke (piano), Herr Polonaski (violin), and Herr Lütgen (violinello), the Trio, Op. 52, in B flat, eliciting much applause. Mr. Stedman obtained encores for both his songs—"Thou'rt like unto a flower" (Rubinstein), and "I'll crown thee queen" (B. Tours); as did also Miss Jessie Royd for Brahms's "Lullaby." Mr. George Hooper was an efficient accompanist. These concerts are gradually obtaining the support they deserve, and the capital programmes issued reflect great credit upon the directors. Another series of four concerts is announced.

BACH'S Passion-music (St. John) has been given at St. Anne's Church, Soho, at the evening service on the Fridays in Lent. The deeply impressive music has been listened to by large congregations on each evening; and, while the general execution of the work has been thoroughly satisfactory, the rendering of the contralto solos by Miss Amy Gill has been most noteworthy, her singing having been marked by the highest devotional feeling and expression. Berthold Tours's setting of the Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis in F, specially instrumented by the composer, has been sung with excellent effect at each service. H.R.H. the Princess of Wales has been present at two of the services, and H.R.H. the Prince of Wales attended on the 16th ult.

THE St. George's Glee Union Concert of the 2nd ult. consisted entirely of music appropriate to the Lenten season, and commenced with the first part of Haydn's "Creation," in which the choir acquitted itself fairly well. The solos were sustained by Miss Denison, Mr. G. T. Carter, and Mr. Conrad King with good effect. In the second part, Mendelssohn's "Hear my Prayer," "O come let us worship," and "God is a Spirit" (W. S. Bennett), were excellent performances. The solo singers, besides those already named, were Miss Bessie Spear and Miss White. The accompaniments were admirably played by Mr. Corelli Bere (pianoforte) and Mr. C. P. Mann (harmonium). Mr. Garside conducted, assisted by Mr. Monday.

MR. GEORGE F. GEAR gave a Concert at St. George's Hall on the 20th ult., in the course of which he displayed much ability both as a composer and pianist, selecting for his solo performance his own well-written Sonata in C minor, and joining with MM. Wiener and Pettit in Mendelssohn's Trio in D minor. He also played with much effect Rubinstein's Valse Caprice; and songs of his composition were well rendered by Madame Wynne and Mr. E. Lloyd. The other vocalist was Madame Patey, who was encored in Gounod's "Quand tu chantes." The concert-giver was assisted by Mr. W. Ganz in the accompaniments to the vocal music.

THE South Norwood Musical Society gave its sixty-fifth concert on the 19th ult., when Weber's Mass in G formed the chief item in the programme. Miss Bessie Stroud and Mr. Albert James assisted the Society in the solo music, the quartet of voices being completed by Miss Bawtree and Mr. E. K. Fell. The performance was a good one, the choir singing with great spirit, and the principal vocalists with much taste and finish. The second part of the concert was miscellaneous, the most noteworthy feature being Bishop's "Daughter of Error," with Miss Bessie Stroud as soloist. Mr. W. J. Westbrook, Mus. B., Cantab., conducted, and Miss Wheeler accompanied.

IN the Caxton Commemoration and Printing Exhibition, which is to take place in June next, music printing is to form an important item. The collection of specimens and direction of this portion of the exhibition has been entrusted to a sub-committee, consisting of Messrs. W. A. Barrett, W. H. Cummings, and W. G. Cusins, Sir George Elvey, Messrs. W. Henderson, E. J. Hopkins, Alfred Littleton, Charles K. Salaman, and Dr. Stainer. Owners of rare examples of early printed music, who are willing to assist in the exhibition, can obtain the necessary particulars from any member of the committee.

A CONCERT was given on the 20th ult., by members of the vocal class of the Walworth Literary and Scientific Institute, assisted by Madame Adelina Moritz, Miss La Marchant and the Messrs. Pickering, Mullerhausen and others. The first part consisted of a Cantata by J. J. Haite, "Abraham's Sacrifice" which was very fairly given. Madame Adelina Moritz sang the music allotted her most charmingly. Miss La Marchant was encoired in "Within a mile of Edinbro' town" and Mr. Mullerhausen in "Once again." On the whole, the concert reflected great credit on Mr. Reeves, the conductor.

MANY inquiries having been made respecting the position of the Purcell Society, we are requested to state that it now numbers 149 members. The first work to be published, the "Yorkshire Feast Song," is in the hands of the engravers, and the "Timon of Athens" is also ready to print. It is hoped, therefore, that these two works will be issued in the course of a month or two. All interested in the object of this Society should lose no time in joining it; for it will be seen that the number of members already enrolled is not so large as could be wished.

ON the 15th ult. Mr. J. B. Balfour gave his first evening concert at the Horns Assembly Rooms, Kennington. The vocalists were Mdles. Agnes Drummond, Josephine Pulham, F. Wydford, A. Harold, and A. Leigh, Messrs. Delamere, Vitten, A. Booth, and W. Hardy, all of whom gave satisfaction. Encores were awarded to Miss Josephine Pulham and Mr. Balfour. Miss Adelaide Pulham and Mr. E. Phillips contributed pianoforte solos, and Mr. Kensett two violin solos. Mr. C. P. Mann presided at the pianoforte.

MISS MARTHA HARRIES gave a Concert at the Shore-ditch Town Hall, on Thursday evening, the 8th ult., before a large audience. The artists were Mdme. Edith Wynne, Miss Lizzie Evans, Miss Marian Williams, Miss Mary Davies, Mr. James Sauvage, Mr. Frank Ward and Mr. H. P. Matthews, vocalists; Mr. Brinley Richards, solo pianoforte; and Mr. John Thomas, harpist. An excellent programme of popular music was exceedingly well rendered. Mr. Arthur J. Barth was an efficient accompanist.

A MUSICAL performance by the pupils of the London Society for Teaching the Blind to Read was given at the Institution, Upper Avenue Road, Regent's Park, on the 9th ult., when a carefully selected programme, chiefly of classical music, was excellently rendered, under the able conductorship of the Society's instructor, Mr. Edwin Barnes. During the concert the Dead March in "Saul" was played, in memory of the late G. Avery, Esq., Honorary Superintendent of the Institution.

A VERY well-attended Concert was given on Friday, the 16th ult., in the Myddelton Hall, Islington, at which Madame Edith Wynne, Misses Mary Davies, M. Williams, L. Evans, Bolingbroke, and Messrs. Lewis Thomas, Gordon Gooch, and James Sauvage, were the vocalists. Monsieur Albert contributed a violoncello solo, and Herr Polonaski, a "Cavatina," by Raffi. Signor Randegger conducted with his usual ability, and was assisted by Mr. G. Hooper.

A CORRESPONDENT informs us, with reference to Mr. Henry Leslie's announcement of Bach's Motett, "Sing ye to the Lord," being performed by his choir "for the first time in England," that the work was given on the 12th May, 1870, by the "Windsor and Eton Amateur Madrigal Society," under the conductorship of Sir George Elvey. The production of so abstruse a composition by what may be termed a country Society is assuredly an event to be proud of, and we willingly give publicity to the fact.

THE third Annual Concert of the Holloway Choral and Orchestral Society was given at the Athenæum, Camden Road, on the 26th February. The programme comprised excerpts from Mendelssohn's "St. Paul," Haydn's "Surprise" Symphony, a Trio by Reissiger (Op. 58), admirably played by Mr. Bent (violin), Mr. T. Serjeant (violoncello), and Miss Bent (piano), and miscellaneous selections. Mr. H. Spencer, jun., conducted.

THE members of the St. Michael's Choral Society, Southwark, gave their first Sacred Concert, in St. Michael's Schools, on the 13th ult. The programme was admirably arranged, and well carried out. The principal vocalists were Miss A. Tapp, Miss E. Howgate, Miss A. Bear, Miss O'Bray, Messrs. Cooke, Nobbs, Winfield, Mott, and Irons. Mr. J. Fimister, organist of St. Michael's Church, ably accompanied throughout the evening.

THE following gentlemen were presented by Professor Macfarren on Thursday, the 22nd Feb., when the degree of Bachelor of Music was conferred upon them by the Vice Chancellor: Horton Claridge Allison (St. John's), John Morgan Bentley (Downing), Charles Joseph Frost (Sidney), Walter Edward Lawson (Queen's), George Oakey (St. John's), Edwin Charles Such (Trinity).

THE Southwark Choral Society gave its Annual Concert on the 20th ult., when a selection from Handel's "Joseph" was performed, and well received by a large audience. The second part of the Concert was miscellaneous. The vocalists were Mrs. J. West, Mrs. W. Shoveller, Mrs. Underwood, Miss Dear, and Mr. Bunker, and Mr. H. W. Harper (piano). Mr. Courtney conducted.

MISS MARION WOODS gave a Concert at Ladbroke Hall, Notting Hill, on Monday, the 26th February, assisted by Miss Kate Hardy, Madame Liebe Konss, Mdle. Alferri, Mr. Bayley, Mr. Newton Baylis, Mr. Barker, and Mr. Maisey. The programme was well selected and the songs excellently rendered, Miss Woods and Miss Hardy being especially well received.

WE regret to announce the death of Mr. James Frederick Hill, who was for twenty-five years Choral Master at the Norfolk and Norwich Musical Festivals, relinquishing this post only when failing health demanded a cessation of such arduous duties. Mr. Hill was well known and much respected both in London and provincial musical circles.

THE 139th anniversary Festival of the Royal Society of Musicians will take place at Willis's Rooms, on the 18th inst., under the presidency of the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale. As usual, many eminent members of the profession have already volunteered their services on the occasion.

It is proposed to publish by subscription a Set of Eighteen Organ Preludes and Fugues by the Rev. Sir F. A. Gore Ouseley, Bart. Subscribers' names will be received by the composer (St. Michael's College, Tenbury), or by the publishers, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

MR. MAPLESON merely announces that he will open Her Majesty's Theatre for his opera season on the 28th inst., reserving any details of the progress of his "Grand National" Lyrical establishment on the Thames Embankment, we presume, until the issue of his prospectus.

WE understand that the Alexandra Palace has been leased to Messrs. Bertram and Roberts, and will be reopened early in May.

AN International Exhibition, representing the historical development of music, is to take place at Bologna.

REVIEWS.

Paul et Virginie. Opéra en Trois Actes et Six Tableaux. Poème de Jules Barbier et Michel Carré; Musique de Victor Massé. [Paris: Theodore Michaelis.]

THE important work before us, the latest composition of one who occupies an important and prominent position among living French composers, was produced for the first time on the 15th of November last at the Opéra National-Lyrique in Paris. M. Massé is no novice at operatic composition; in the "Dictionnaire Lyrique" or M. Clément no less than eighteen works from his pen are enumerated. So far as we are aware, however, only two of these have made their way to this country, both of which, Les Noces de Jeannette and Galathée, were given by the French Opera company which visited London two years ago. These works, moreover, were written more than twenty years since; and it is not surprising to find that Paul et Virginie shows traces of the influence on the composer of more than one of his illustrious contemporaries. To this point we shall refer presently; but will first say a few words about the libretto.

The story of Paul and Virginia by Bernardin de Saint-Pierre is probably so well known to our readers that any sketch of it would be superfluous. The subject is pastoral or idyllic, rather than dramatic, and would hardly appear at first sight well adapted for transformation into an opera. Yet this is by no means the first time that the experiment has been tried. French operas founded upon the same work were produced by Rodolphe Kreutzer in 1791, and by Lesueur in 1794; and there also exists an English Paul and Virginia, by W. Reeve and Mazzinghi. MM. Barbier and Carré, two of the most experienced librettists in France, among the best known specimens of whose workmanship are the textbooks to Faust and Dinorah, have adhered as closely as they could to the outline of the original tale, though certain modifications have been inevitable in adapting it to the stage. The most important of these is the greater prominence given to the episode of the fugitive negress for whom Virginia intercedes with her master, a rich planter, who receives in the drama the name of Sainte-Croix. This episode occupies a large portion of the first act. The second act is chiefly taken up with the events leading to the departure of Virginia for Europe; while the third act, which is considerably the shortest of the three, presents the return of Virginia, the shipwreck, and her death.

The question has of late been often discussed how far the example and procedure of Richard Wagner was likely to exert an influence on the future of dramatic music. It is not probable that many composers would write a "music-drama" (to use Wagner's own term) on the plan of Tristan and Isolde, or the Ring des Nibelungen; but it is impossible for any unprejudiced observer not to perceive that indirectly the innovations he has introduced have been most important in their effects. It is not only in recent German operas (such as Goetz's Widerspänstigen Zähmung or Goldmark's Königin von Saba) that this is apparent; we see the Wagner influence even in Verdi's latest opera, Aida, and in the present work. This influence shows itself in the greater importance given to the connection of the music with the words, as well as in the care taken in the choice of a libretto. Formerly any verses were thought good enough to set to music, and many standard operas have weak, not to say absurd, libretti. Look, for instance, at Mozart's Zauberflöte or Così fan tutte, or at Weber's Euryanthe, the two latter of which may mainly thank their weak textbooks for the fact that they are almost banished from the stage. There is a growing tendency to attach more importance to this department of opera, and though, from its subject, we do not consider Paul et Virginie one of MM. Barbier and Carré's most successful libretti, it is yet far above the average of opera-books. But, further, the influence of Wagner appears in the music itself. The use of "Leitmotive"—leading themes, indicating situations or characters—which plays so important a part in Wagner's operas, is to some extent to be found in this work; while the orchestra is treated in the symphonic style rather than as a mere accompaniment to the voices. Moreover, though many detached numbers are to be met with in the work, we also find on the whole a closer connection between the different pieces than is mostly the case in operas not of recent date; while, lastly, the old-fashioned recitative (the so-called recitativo secco) is to a great extent discarded, the declamatory passages being in most cases accompanied by some characteristic design in the orchestra. All these points show progress of thought; they are all steps in the right direction; and in these respects M. Massé's latest opera contrasts favourably with such of his earlier works as have come under our notice.

It is very difficult by any mere verbal description to give a clear idea of any musical composition; nor would it be possible by any quotations in music-type short enough for insertion in these columns to do justice either to the ideas or to their treatment. Speaking in general terms, we should say that Paul et Virginie is an interesting production of a highly developed talent, rather than a work of positive genius. M. Massé possesses a genuine vein of melody; but, while free from plagiarisms, much of it produces the impression that something like it has been heard before, though we should be puzzled to say where. The music, too, is frequently very dramatic in feeling, and, so far as can be judged from reading the score, must, we should think, be very effective on the stage. It would take us too far to analyse separately each movement of the opera; and a bare catalogue of titles would be of little interest. It will suffice to refer to one or two of the more striking numbers. In the first act, the opening duet for the two mothers, Marguerite and Madame de la Tour, is very pretty, and characteristically French in its style; the chorus "Un navire entre dans le port," while familiar in its rhythm, produces a peculiar effect from the doubling of the soprano part by the instrumental basses two octaves lower throughout, while the other voices give full harmony, thus producing very curious "consecutive octaves." The duet between Paul and Virginia contains many charming passages, not unmingled with some commonplace cadences and embellishments. The whole finale of the first act is excellent.

The second act we consider on the whole the finest of the three. We may especially note the scene between Paul and his mother, in which the declamatory style of the music and the importance given to the accompaniments show perhaps more clearly than any other part of the work the influence of Wagner already referred to, and the great duet between Paul and Virginia, culminating in their mutual oath of fidelity, "Par le ciel qui m'entend," the theme of which has been already heard in the overture, and is met with again at the close of the opera. Virginia's air, "Bruits lointains," is a number written apparently as an opportunity of display for the prima donna; it is one of those pieces of florid vocalisation that may be found by dozens in Italian and French operas; and it seems like a concession made by the composer to public taste. In the third act we find but little that requires notice; the best number, we think, is Paul's air in which he reads Virginia's letter.

It is only needful to add in conclusion that from the reports of the musical critics the work appears to have met with very complete success; and it may, we think, be taken as a fairly representative work of the modern school of French opera.

Hercules. An Oratorio, composed in the year 1744, by George Frederick Handel. Edited, and the Pianoforte accompaniment revised from that of the German Handel Society, by Ebenezer Prout. [Novello, Ever & Co.]

Now that some of the lesser-known Oratorios of Handel are beginning to see the light, it may be hoped that "Hercules," the many beauties of which have been long revealed to those artistic treasure-hunters whose researches are uncontrolled by the fashion of the hour, will receive due recognition; for although some of the solos, and even choral pieces, are moulded too much according to the conventional pattern of the time, the work contains many numbers of surpassing grandeur, amongst which may be cited the chorus which closes the first Act, "Crown with festal pomp," the jubilant character of which would assuredly move the most apathetic audience to enthusiasm. It is well known that this Oratorio, or "Musical Drama," as it was announced in the General Advertiser of the 1st January, 1745, was relied upon, with "Belshazzar," which was composed just before it, to repair Handel's losses during the Lent of 1744, but the opposition of the nobility was too strong for him; and after frequently giving performances to almost empty houses, he was compelled to retire from the unequal contest. By means of the excellent Octavo Edition now issued, "Hercules" will no doubt speedily make its way to popular favour, and Handel-lovers will anxiously await the time when it shall be brought up for public judgment. It is almost needless to say that Mr. Prout's careful editorship is apparent in every page of the work, and that the pianoforte accompaniment is well considered throughout.

Comala. A Dramatic Poem, after Ossian; for Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra, set to music by Niels W. Gade. The English version, translated from the German of Dr. Klengel, by Rev. J. Troutbeck, M.A. [Novello, Ewer & Co.]

THE success of Herr Gade's "Crusaders" at the last Birmingham Festival will materially increase the interest in the production of "Comala," which is announced to be given during the coming season by the Bach Choir. This well-timed edition of the work, for which the metronome marks have been expressly added by the composer, will of course only give a faint idea of its effect in the concert-room; for in a dramatic composition like this so much depends upon the instrumental colouring, and Gade's mastery over the resources of the orchestra is too well known to need assertion. The composer has thoroughly caught the spirit of Ossian's poem, the martial character of which is faithfully reflected in the choruses for male voices, "Up, sound ye the horn," and "Far fled is the foe." Many of the calmer choral pieces, too, most of which are interwoven with soli for female voices, are full of beauty. Like all the works of this composer, "Comala" evidences an earnest sympathy with the text; and without any undue display of profundity, the touch of the artist is apparent throughout. The pianoforte part is well arranged, and the translation from the original German reflects the utmost credit upon the Rev. J. Troutbeck.

Songs; Composed and in part written by the late Rev. John Park, D.D., St. Andrew's, with introductory notice by Principal Sharp, LL.D., St. Andrew's. [London: Arthur Allison. Leeds: Archibald Ramsden.]

As it is possible that many of our readers may not know the name of the composer of this collection of songs, we must preface our remarks upon the volume by saying that he was a Presbyterian minister whose cultivated taste led him to spend his leisure time not only in acquiring skill as a pianist, but in setting poetry of the highest-class writers to music, and even in supplying words of his own. As he was entirely self-taught, it seems strange that looking critically through his music, we should light upon so few harmonies which seem to require revision, and that we should meet with scarcely any positive grammatical errors. There can be no doubt that melody was Dr. Park's especial gift; and had he been a more solid musician, the thinness occasionally apparent in the treatment of the instrumental portion of his compositions would have been replaced by more enduring and artistic workmanship; but as the songs stand, they will be acceptable to all who admire purity of style and unaffected expression. From so large a number it is impossible to do more than select a few for special praise; but amongst those which please us most are the "Fisher-wife's song," "Good night! ah no," "When the lamp is shatter'd" (which shows much musical feeling, although somewhat patchy in effect), and "When daisies pied." The volume is well got up, but there are some crotchets which should be quavers (as, for instance, the last note in the accompaniment, bar 3, of "When the lamp is shatter'd"), all of which could be easily altered.

The Ocean. Part-song. Poetry by Barry Cornwall.

Sweet Spring. Madrigal. Composed by W. W. Pearson. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

MUSICALLY considered, the first of these compositions is highly meritorious, but in many parts the words are scarcely well expressed. The line "Thou symbol of a drear immensity," for example, is set to a melodious strain by no means in keeping with the subject, and we cannot admire the bass voice rising a fourth on the syllable "ty," and afterwards singing a pretty little descending phrase to the word "immensity." There are many good points, however, in the song, which is well-voiced throughout. "Sweet Spring" has a somewhat conventional theme, that unfortunately obtrusive bird the cuckoo giving us his well-known major third (which, by the way, we never hear save in musical compositions), and also bringing some of his companions to aid him in the sylvan concert. To those who admire this species of composition, the song will no doubt be welcome.

Life of Chopin, by Franz Liszt. Translated from the French by M. Walker Cook. [William Reeves.]

As a rhapsodical criticism upon the genius and writings of Chopin this volume will be welcomed by all who believe that one who can so eloquently interpret the most abstruse compositions of the great Polish composer with his fingers is fully justified in also using his pen to spread still more widely a knowledge of his works in the great world of art. Considering that the book contains only eight chapters, and that the birth and early career of Chopin are not treated of until chapter vi., it is certainly a misnomer to call it a "Life" of the artist; but the masterly analysis of the inner meaning of his pianoforte works amply compensates us for any shortcoming in other respects. We are glad to find that so ardent an admirer of Chopin as the author of this treatise agrees with us that the composer was not at his best when he attempted to write in classical form. "His Concertos and Sonatas," he says, "are beautiful indeed, but we may discern in them more effort than inspiration." Precisely so; and let us also endorse every word of the sentence which follows:—"He was one of those original beings whose graces are only fully displayed when they have cut themselves adrift from all bondage, and float on at their own wild will, swayed only by the ever-undulating impulses of their own mobile natures." There can be no possible reason why this "wild will" should not have free play in the production of such exquisitely coloured sketches as Chopin has left us; but let us not run into the danger of believing that form should be set aside because such an erratic nature could not bend to its conditions. Not the least interesting part of this book is the graphic sketch of Poland; the remarks upon the Polonaise and Mazourka showing us how truly national are the specimens of these dances, which rank amongst the best of Chopin's smaller pianoforte works. We can also readily believe that the composer's style of playing his own music was perfectly unique; but lest our readers should believe that any cold words of ours can at all describe it, let us put upon record Liszt's own impression of its effect. "We could not hope to convey," he writes, "to those who have never heard him any just conception of that fascination so ineffably poetic, that charm, subtle and penetrating as the delicate perfume of the vervain or the Ethiopian calla, which, shrinking and exclusive, refuses to diffuse its exquisite aroma in the noisome breath of crowds, whose heavy air can only retain the stronger odour of the tuberose, the incense of burning resin." As we confess to be amongst "those who have never heard him," we have no right to question one word of this glowing eulogy.

Amongst the many portions of the volume which will arrest the attention of the artistic reader may be mentioned the account of the improvised evening with Chopin when he lived at the Chaussée d'Antin. His apartment was only lighted by some wax candles, "grouped round one of Pleyel's pianos, which he particularly liked for their slightly veiled yet silvery sonorousness and easy touch." And then amongst the guests assembled were Heine, Meyerbeer, Adolphe Nourrit, Hiller, and Madame Sand—a fit audience indeed for one whose poetical temperament was so nurtured by sympathetic surroundings.

No one knew better than Liszt the sensitive nature of Chopin; and it is impossible to avoid feeling a deep sense of gratitude to his biographer for so delicately touching those peculiarities of his character which might otherwise have been misinterpreted by the world. He cared not, indeed, for what is usually termed "society," yet many will be surprised to learn that "he spent whole evenings in playing blind man's buff with the young people, telling them little stories to make them break into the silvery laughs of youth, sweeter than the song of the nightingale." The story of his illness is indeed painful. From the year 1840 even motion became difficult, and at length he could scarcely ascend the staircase without experiencing a sense of suffocation. At Nohant, where he "suffered less," he composed many pieces, which he afterwards brought to Paris. In spite of the decline of his physical powers, however, he came to England, where the fame of his works had long preceded him. It is needless to record how he was received in London. "He was presented," it is said, "to the Queen by the Duchess of Sutherland, and the most distinguished society sought the pleasure of his acquaintance." His last public performance was at a concert given for the Poles, and then he returned to Paris, where his constitution, additionally shattered by his exertions in London, completely broke down, and on the 17th October, 1849, he peacefully passed away.

We have already said that the book before us is a rhapsody; but it must be remembered that its author is no dilettante admirer of Chopin, but an earnest fellow-worker in the art which he ennobled. Let us therefore contribute our good word to help it forward, as we would tend a flower which springs up spontaneously over the grave of one we loved.

Richard Wagner à Bayreuth. Par Frédéric Nietzsche. Traduit par Marie Baumgartner. [Schloss - Chemnitz, E. Schmeitzner. London: F. Wohlaue.]

THIS is a very able translation into French of a small volume originally written in German, wherein the author, a professor of the University of Basle, presents to his readers an enthusiastic study of the individuality, artistic and moral, of the poet-composer of the Nibelungen Tetralogy. The general tendency of the book may be gathered from sentences such as the following, which we quote in translation: "In the realms of Art, this"—viz., the artistic strivings of Herr Wagner, which terminated in the Tetralogy—"was like a first voyage round the world; a voyage at the end of which was discovered, as it appears, not merely a new art, but art itself." And again: "It is true, the isolated appearance of a great artist might be the result of chance; but the successive appearance of a long series of great artists, such as the history of modern music reveals, . . . points to the conclusion that the forces at work were not those of mere chance but of an absolute necessity. And this necessity is the problem of which Wagner gives us the solution." Fascinated as he is by the contemplation of his hero, the author does not escape that one-sidedness of judgment which characterises the school to which he belongs, neither does he, to our thinking, succeed in his attempt to establish the position which that remarkable genius will finally occupy in the great Republic of Arts. Nor is it advisable or indeed possible, as yet, to form a conclusive opinion in that direction. Hence, in this portion of the book its contents necessarily partake somewhat of the nature of a prophecy, while the language employed becomes occasionally raised into the sphere of poetic diction. Readers possessing already some knowledge of the works of Herr Wagner will, however, peruse this little volume with much interest. It is a thoughtfully written essay on a phase of modern artistic consciousness, the importance of which no one will affect to ignore, and the high tendency which pervades it throughout will retain for it the sympathies even of those who, after perusal of the first few pages, may find it impossible to keep pace with the writer's unbounded admiration for the poet-composer of whom he treats.

Second Sonata for Pianoforte and Violin. By Walter Macfarren. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

A CLOSE examination of this work—which so favourably impressed us at Mr. Macfarren's concert last season, when it was performed by the composer and M. Sainton—strongly confirms the opinion we then expressed of its merits. The flowing melodious theme commenced with the violin, which opens the first movement, is so charmingly harmonised—the full close being skilfully warded off until the entry of the pianoforte solo—that the attention is at once arrested. The second subject, in the relative minor of the dominant, forms a good contrast; and the return of the leading motive in the same key, in the dominant, and afterwards, preceded by brief modulations, in the original key, is extremely striking. The "Intermezzo" is full of character, the quaint theme, at first given out simply, deriving much effect from being accompanied with broken chords, the last few bars of this little Interlude being especially worthy of praise. The slow movement, in the dominant, although short, attracts by the tuneful character of the principal subject, and the effective manner in which the passages are written for both instruments. The final Rondo starts at once with a bold theme for the violin, repeated by the pianoforte, the original key being gained by a dominant seventh so fresh and unexpected, after the long repose upon the former seventh, as to convince us that Mr. Macfarren can work out of the conventional groove without degenerating into affectation or eccentricity. There is much musicianlike writing throughout this Finale, the modulations being especially happy, and the movement forms a worthy climax to a Sonata which will assuredly materially enhance its composer's reputation. We shall be glad if this recent addition to the limited store of English classical art should be selected for performance during the coming season by some of the many chamber concert-givers who do not systematically exclude the compositions of British writers.

Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, in G. By H. Walmsley Little. [Weckes and Co.]

THIS is an evening service which, while by no means too difficult for average choirs, will be found sufficiently interesting and effective to be worthy of their notice. The "Magnificat" of course furnishes more scope to the composer, but both pieces, though not of a character requiring any detailed analysis, can be safely recommended.

Twelve Offertory Sentences. Set to music by F. W. Hird. [Novello and Co.]

THOUGH we think somewhat unequal in merit, these sentences are simple and well adapted to their purpose. Among the best we consider No. 1a, "Let your light so shine before men," No. 5, "Zachæus stood forth," and No. 8, "To do good and to distribute." If some of the numbers are of no great interest, it is not a cause for surprise; as few things are more difficult than to say anything really worth listening to within the compass of from twelve to sixteen bars.

The Office of the Holy Communion, by H. E. Hodson (Simpson and Co.), is so extensive a work that it might almost be described as a short Mass in English. Indeed, in reading it through, we have once or twice been inclined to suspect from the rhythms that it was originally composed to a Latin text. Mr. Hodson's music flows on very agreeably, and has plenty of spirit, besides showing a good feeling for the sentiment of the words. We confess our inability, however, to understand whether the accompaniment is intended for organ or piano. If the former, the bass part is by no means well written, octaves for the left hand being (to say the least) undesirable, and notes being marked which are not on modern key-boards; if for the latter, chords are written which no two human hands can reach. Composers should be careful in such matters, as they often materially affect the success of their works.

Benedicite, in E flat, by Haydn Keeton (Novello and Co.), is a simple chant setting of the canticle which will be found useful for parochial choirs.

FOREIGN NOTES.

It is now definitely announced that the projected repetition of the Bayreuth "Festspiele" will not take place this year. Among the reasons which influenced Herr Wagner in thus departing from his original intention must, no doubt, be numbered the prevailing uncertainty in political affairs, as well as the continuance of the depressed condition of all branches of commerce and industry, both in Germany and elsewhere. If report may be credited, the state of the master's health, too, is such as would make a period of comparative rest very desirable to him. But even under far more favourable auspices it would be almost a matter of impossibility to constitute into anything like working order, within the space of a few months, the newly-formed "Society of Patrons," upon whom the material support of that national undertaking entirely devolves, and—unless the subvention asked for by Herr Wagner and his friends should eventually be granted by the German Parliament—will have to devolve in the future. The Model Performances of the Nibelungen Tetralogy, then, are postponed until next year. In the meantime more or less important fragments from the giant-work are preparing the way to its more general appreciation, and are preaching the doctrine of the new "Art-Work" in concert-rooms all over Germany. The Funeral March from "Götterdämmerung" and the Cavalcade from "Die Walküre," which were the first to be separately introduced to the general public, have since been followed by whole scenes from "Rheingold" and "Walküre," as well as by isolated pieces from these and the other two opera-dramas forming the Tetralogy. It was left to Vienna, however, to give the first complete representation, since the Bayreuth Festival, of "Die Walküre," which, after the most careful preparation, took place on the 6th of last month. The general mise-en-scène was in many respects a fac-simile of the Bayreuth original, the whole being under the direction of Herr Hans Richter, the excellent Conductor of the "orchestra of virtuosi" at Bayreuth, while Mdme. Materna again impersonated Brünnhilde and Mdme. Jaide one of the Amazon maidens. Decorations and costumes are executed from designs of Herren Hofmann and Döpler.

On the occasion of her recent second visit to the Austrian capital, Mdme. Christine Nilsson sang the part of Elsa, in "Lohengrin," for the first time in German, and, apart from a certain restraint which the use of a newly acquired language imposed upon her acting, delivered herself of her task to the universal admiration of the public.

That remarkable lusus naturæ which some thirty years ago first delighted and perplexed opera-goers with the marvellous range and flexibility of his voice, the tenor Theodor Wachtel, is just now engaged upon a series of performances at the Royal Opera of Berlin. According to the Allgemeine Deutsche Musik Zeitung the attractive powers of the great singer are still unabated, the house being overcrowded every night of his appearance, while his voice has lost none of the special qualities which have so long distinguished its fortunate possessor from all other tenors. His répertoire, on the other hand, remains equally unchanged, being confined to some half-dozen operatic parts; his general artistic tendencies too appear to have been little influenced by the progress of time. In short, tenors may come and go, but Wachtel goes on for ever.

A revival has recently taken place at the Berlin Opera of Spontini's once popular opera, "Fernando Cortez," with the tenor Niemann in the title rôle, previous to the retirement of that eminent artist from his permanent engagement at the Prussian capital. He retires upon a yearly pension of £225, and will in future appear at the above institution during three months of the season, receiving some £37 for every performance.

The Spanish violin-virtuoso Sarasate, who is at present engaged upon a concert-tour in Germany and Austria, continues to create a sensation wherever he goes. At Dresden, where he had the honour to play at a Court Concert before the King of Saxony, the latter presented him, at the end of the performances, with a valuable ring as a tribute of his admiration.

With reference to a Concert recently given at Dresden by the eminent pianist Paul von Schölzer, a critic of that town, Herr L. Hartmann, offers the following interesting remarks. After recording his due appreciation of the performer's exceptional technical powers and true artistic feeling, the writer dwells upon the marked contrast between Herr Schölzer's rendering of classical and of essentially modern music, and concludes as follows:—"This new virtuoso combines in himself both the advantages and the shortcomings which characterise our time. The gradual disappearance of the old social and political state of things, the removal of "authority" from its pedestal, and the establishment, in its stead, of "individualism," have affected all arts alike, and, while attaching undue importance to individual manifestation, have brought about the utter disregard of all form. In these facts must be sought the explanation of the phenomenon of an eminent virtuoso like Herr von Schölzer executing with marvellous perfection a most difficult Rhapsody by Liszt, whereas his exuberant powers are applied with no effect to a simple clear Sonata."

Miss Clara Meller, of London, the accomplished young pianiste, whose successful débüt at the Gewandhaus and other concert institutions of Leipzig we have recently had occasion to notice, has since appeared, in company with Mdme. Peschka-Leutner, in a series of concerts given in various parts of Germany and Holland, creating everywhere a most favourable impression upon the audience as to her high qualifications for the instrument of her choice. At a concert of the "Musical Society" of Cologne, under the direction of Herr Seiss, Miss Mary Dulcken, likewise of London, gave a most successful rendering on the pianoforte of pieces by Mendelssohn, Hiller, and Liszt. The local papers speak in the highest terms of the young lady's exceptional talent and excellent musical training. She is a pupil of Herr Seiss.

At Darmstadt, an interesting concert, vocal and instrumental, was given by the gifted composer Robert Emmerich, consisting chiefly of selections from his own numerous works, which certainly deserve to become more widely known. Overtures and several scenes appertaining to his two Operas, "Der Schwedensee" and "Van Dyck," as well as a movement from a Symphony, formed the chief attractions of the programme, the auditors being most enthusiastic in their appreciation of the modest master's talent. We hear it will not be long before the above-mentioned Operas will be represented on the stage of the Darmstadt Theatre.

The death is announced by the German papers of the well-known dramatic poet S. H. von Mosenthal, which took place at Vienna, on February 17th. Although his fame was first established by his popular dramas of "Deborah" and "Sonnenwendhof," which have remained on the répertoire of the German stage to this day, Mosenthal has subsequently become more widely known by his excellent libretti to operas by Rubinstein, Nicolai, Goldmark and many others, all of which are characterised by a rare dramatic insight and a thorough knowledge of stage requirements. Mosenthal was born in 1821 at Cassel.

The fiftieth anniversary of the death of Ludwig van Beethoven occurred on the 26th ult., on which occasion special performances in commemoration of the event were held at all the principal art institutions of Germany.

To the list of names, given in our last number, of composers whose memory is to be honoured by the erection of monuments must be added that of Spohr, whose statue will ere long grace the town of Cassel, where the composer of "Jessonda" spent the greater part of his active life.

Goldmark's much-talked-of opera, "Queen of Saba," was to have been performed last month at Hamburg under the direction of the composer.

Gounod's new operatic work, "Cinq-Mars," the first representation of which was announced to take place last month, will, according to the Revue et Gazette Musicale, not be produced until early in April. The same composer's Opera, "Phlémon et Baucis," was revived at the Opéra-Comique, and achieved a great success.

"Le Timbre d'Argent," fantastic Opera in four acts, by Camille Saint-Saëns, was performed for the first time at the Opéra-Lyrique of Paris on the 23rd of February last. The work, which was most brilliantly put on the stage in the way of decorations and costumes, was, however, received with but qualified approbation on the part of a most select audience. Paris expected something extraordinary from the rising talent of a composer who is looked upon as the representative of the "music of the future" of France, and is disappointed in finding something very like the old conventional Opera, with some good instrumentation and a few pleasing melodies. It must not be forgotten, however, that the Opera in question was written some ten years ago (although never performed in public until now), and that since then its gifted composer has made much progress in his art, as is abundantly proved by his later compositions. As it is, "Le Timbre d'Argent" will, in the opinion of Le Ménestrel, steadily gain ground with the musical public in proportion as the latter becomes more familiar with the work.

The Revue de la Musique of the 17th ult., in speaking of the periodical séances held by the Société Nationale de Musique of Paris, for the purpose chiefly of introducing to the public the unpublished works of young native composers, makes the following comment: "For some time past we have had reason to deplore the too exclusively and servilely German tendencies of the young French school of musicians. The last of these séances, far from diminishing our apprehensions with regard to the future of French music, has, on the contrary, demonstrated that contemporary German art is exercising more and more a tyrannic influence over a great number of composers of undoubted talent. We reverence and admire as much as any one the imperishable masterpieces which the school on the other side of the Rhine has produced; but we also hold that the genius of France, which has asserted itself with such robust originality in literature and painting, should not, where the art of music is concerned, surrender its peculiar character and distinctive qualities."

We read in the Guide Musical and other Belgian music journals most flattering accounts of the performances, at various concert institutions of the country, of the eminent pianist Herr Franz Rummel, of whom we have had already occasion to speak in these columns. While noticing the rendering of that artist, at a concert of the Association des Artistes de Bruxelles, of J. Raff's most difficult Suite for pianoforte and orchestra, L'Artiste remarks: "It is impossible to render with greater executive power and with more charm and grace of expression the various movements of which the work is composed, some of them—notably the Minuet, Gavotte, and Musette—fairly arousing the enthusiasm of the audience."

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE PRICE OF SONGS.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Can any of your readers inform me why part-music is so much cheaper than solo music? Why is it that you can buy an anthem or part-song by a first-rate composer for as many pence as it costs you shillings for a solo? I am old enough to remember when the highest marked price on a song was generally 2s., and for that you paid 1s. Now the marked price is generally 4s., and you pay 2s. But why should songs be so dear? I am quite sure that if they were reduced to the price of part-music they would be quite as profitable to the publisher, as the sale would be increased tenfold. Many amateur singers would write for a song, as advertised, and risk three or four pence upon it; but to pay, on chance, 2s. for a song that may prove utterly worthless is quite another matter.

I believe the high price of songs is a great hindrance to the cultivation of vocal music, and I hope, therefore, you will not consider me unreasonable in bringing this matter under the notice of the musical public through your columns.

I remain, Sir, your obedient servant,
MUSICUS.

"SMALL NOTES."

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—My first impulse was to answer seriatim "Allegro's" rejoinder; but second thoughts are best, and I hesitate to fill so much of your valuable space with the discussion of what, after all, is but a small question. A few last words, therefore, are all I will ask you to insert on this subject.

Seeing that we live in a free country, there is nothing that I know of to hinder "Allegro" from reading in his own way the passage in question from the C \sharp Sonata—or, for that matter, from reading it backwards if it so please him. But, whoever he may be, I am sure that "Allegro" is too sound a musician to avail himself of either privilege. If he will try this passage with the metronome, I think he will find that either (1) he unconsciously follows the practice which he condemns, or (2) that he relaxes the time where the inverted turn occurs. This latter proceeding certainly cuts the knot after a fashion, but it has the disadvantage of interrupting the flow of semiquavers in the bass, and of introducing a reading unwarranted by the text. The measure being always complete without the small notes, it is clear that the time these occupy must necessarily be taken from what precedes or from what follows. The first is the modern practice, the second the ancient rule laid down by C. P. E. Bach and others. There is not, so far as I know, a single passage in Haydn's or Mozart's pianoforte music to which the modern (I believe French) innovation is applicable. The case is different with Beethoven, whose practice appears to have been variable. At any rate, we know that he took no especial pains (except in his latest Sonatas) to indicate his intentions. I have read somewhere of a speech of his to the effect that those who required so many directions had better let his music alone.

An "original edition" of Beethoven is nearly as unattainable as the original text of Shakespeare's plays; and our only hope of approximating to the great master's intention would, therefore, appear to be through the labours of such men as Von Bülow (whose writings "Allegro" has clearly never seen, although he speaks of him so contemptuously)—of men, that is to say, who combine great critical insight with the utmost reverence for the master whom they endeavour to make us understand. "Allegro" is singularly unfortunate when he refers to Von Bülow as a "pianist à la mode, who dishes up Beethoven with his own sauce." Neither Von Bülow nor Lebert (who edits the three first volumes of the "Cotta Beethoven") has ventured to alter a single note or even mark of expression, unless in a smaller character, or in a foot-note. The same respect for Beethoven is shown by Agnes Zimmermann in her recent edition of the Sonatas. Previous editors have been far less conscientious. Czerny, for example, coolly alters into pure harmony the strange passage in the first movement of the "Adieux" Sonata. He knew better, but thought this concession necessary for the public of forty years ago—a period when even Dr. Crotch regretted that Beethoven should so often break the rules, "inasmuch as it does not appear that good has resulted therefrom in one single instance." I quote from memory, but I believe these were his very words.

I am, &c.,

Dover, March 3rd, 1877.

CLEVELAND WIGAN.

CONSECUTIVE FIFTHS, &c.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—I have been specially interested in your paragraph on consecutive fifths in the last number.

May not an equally patent reason for the avoidance of consecutive perfect fifths be added to that of Huygens, viz.: that in using them we are travelling in two distinct keys at the same time, which is quite as abhorrent in art as a vacuum in nature. Indeed, it seems to me that the same reason may be urged against the use of any moving perfect interval, not excepting the most agreeable of all, thirds and sixths. I scarcely need to illustrate this by taking the keys of C and G, C and E, and C and A, treating them diatonically at the same time, to make clear what must be patent to every musician. It is a question, however, whether for special reasons, and with a view to particular dramatic effects, the use of fifths in consecutive order is not purely warrantable, if we allow under such circumstances, as I think we should, the spirit to override the letter.

I am, Sir, yours faithfully,

W. S. LAMBERT.

109, Peckham Park Road, 9th March, 1877.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—It seems to be generally assumed that consecutive perfect fifths suggest to the mind consecutive unrelated keys. But is this really the case? Do { G { A { B { C { D { E always suggest change of key?

This passage, replete with parallel fifths, lies unquestionably in the key of C, and is not productive of a bad effect. If the existence of consecutive fifths in itself produced an unpleasant feeling, the above ought to be intolerable. Would it not be well in legislating on the subject to say, "When consecutive fifths disturb key-relationship their effect is bad, but when key-relationship is not disturbed they are not necessarily objectionable"? This seems fair and just, and can be supported by analogy; e.g.—

The above is ugly, because notion of key is disturbed; but let us work it up into a passage in the key of C and its relations, and the effect is totally different; e.g.—

X. Z.

TUNING AND VOICING ORGAN PIPES.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Can any of your numerous readers give me any information whether there is a work published on Tuning and Voicing Organ Pipes, and where it can be obtained. By inserting this you will greatly oblige,

W. L. W.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Possibly some of your artists who have visited this country may be interested to know what is going on in this Western World; and I venture, therefore, to give you some information, with an opinion as to future prospects, and with the hope that some of those who have favoured us in the past, and whose presence amongst us, notably the so-called Dolby company (who are remembered with pleasure as among those who contributed much to our enjoyment while here), may be induced to try their fortunes among us again at no distant day.

For several years we have had little worth referring to in this country in the line of opera that has not been furnished us by the Messrs. Strakosch, and those gentlemen have nearly abandoned the field; for during the heavy financial pressure which has existed here they could not feel secure in the engagement of first-class artists, and none else will now satisfy our cultured community. It is true we have English Opera known as the Kellogg company, and some good artists are included in it; but this season, in particular, it is decidedly weak as a company, and the patronage is in like proportion.

We are looking forward to the time when Carl Rosa will feel safe in bringing his excellent company here, and also when Mr. Mapleson will favour us with Italian Opera; though Mr. Strakosch may, perhaps, take the field again next season, as I feel that the times are more propitious, and that with the settlement of our great agitating political questions we may enter upon a season of prosperity.

Boston, the great musical centre of this country, with its Handel and Haydn Society, will have another festival, the fourth of the triennial meetings of the Society, in May next, and many novelties are announced. Here, in the Centennial City, there is very little to interest any one, and particularly one like the writer, who breathed the musical atmosphere of Boston, and was so intimately associated with all musical matters for many years. The Boston Festival promises to be the event of the year, and, if desired, I will give your readers some account of it after its close.

LORING B. BARNES.

Philadelphia, March 7, 1877.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

* Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will greatly oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all Subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music pages are always stereotyped, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

E. M. S.—A copy of the Purcell portrait can be obtained from Fawcett, 14, King Street, Covent Garden, price 5s.

J. A. H.—The air as it appears in Westbrook's arrangement is the earliest form, and is to be found in the Appendix to some of the old scores of "The Messiah." The present form superseded it.

ENQUIRER.—The composition mentioned has nothing whatever to do with Beethoven.

G. F. D.—Unless a competent professor of singing should pronounce your voice an exceptionally good one we should recommend you to stick to the law.

FORTE-PIANO.—An accidental only affects every note of the same name in the same bar, except when a note thus affected ends the bar, and one on the same line or space begins the next. It is not necessary that these two notes should be tied.

SENEX.—Your letter is noticed on p. 170.

C. F. WESTACOTT.—1. The best work we know is "De Sola on Hebrew Melodies;" but this is out of print, and can only be obtained second-hand. 2. Stainer's "Theory of Harmony."

A NOVICE.—It would be hardly safe to lay down a general law on the subject; but in the particular case you mention the conductor should have beaten four in a bar.

F. D.—"E la mi" is the note E. The name is formed by reading (as was customary) across the overlapping Hexachords of the Guidonian system. See Stainer and Barrett's Dictionary, Article Notation, p. 313, column 2.

MUSICUS.—Apply to the Professor at either University.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this Summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

ABERDEEN.—The second Annual Concert of the Aberdeen University Choral Society was given on Friday, the 9th ult., in the Music Hall, before a large audience. The programme included some choruses by Kreutzer, Abt, Weber, Zoellner, and Kücken, which were well rendered, reflecting great credit on Herr K. W. Meid, the Conductor. Of the solos, "Arm, arm ye brave" (Handel), "To the queen of my heart" (Schulthes), and "Fair is my love" (Hatton), were the gems of the evening. Some pianoforte solos were also well received.

ARBRATH.—Mr. T. Booth gave the first of his second series of Organ Recitals on Wednesday, the 14th ult., in the Public Hall, assisted by Miss E. Goodwin (from Edinburgh), vocalist; Mr. F. Booth, solo violinist; and the members of the Arbroath Musical Union, under the conductorship of Mr. T. Booth. The programme consisted of selections from Bach, Mendelssohn, Meyerbeer, Rossini, &c.

BARBADOS, W. I.—The first of a series of private Concerts took place at the residence of Mr. M. E. Doorly, Bridge Town, on Thursday, February 8. The programme was very well rendered, and it is worthy of notice that this concert was the first of an almost unmixed classical type ever held in the island. There are so few violinists of any ability in Barbados that the concerted music has to be produced with the aid of one violin, an American organ, and some wind instruments.

BIRMINGHAM.—The Philharmonic Union's first cheap concert series was brought to a close on Tuesday evening, Feb. 27, when a very attractive miscellaneous selection was performed. Dr. Heap's Third Psalm, a work of considerable merit, written for his Mus. Bac. degree, was well rendered, the composer taking the bass solos. Beethoven's Septet, Op. 20, performed for the first time in the Town Hall, was listened to with the greatest attention by the large audience, and thoroughly appreciated. Messrs. Lazarus, Manns, Trout, L. Ries, J. F. Ward, Van Biene, and Morton were the executants. Miss St. Clair-Taylor gained great applause by her excellent singing of "Auld Robin Gray," and the other artists distinguished themselves in various solos. Mr. Stimpson accompanied on the organ, and performed Bach's Fantasia in G minor. Mr. Robotham assisted at the piano-forte, and Dr. Heap, as usual, conducted. These concerts have been so successful that another series is projected, and a performance of Handel's Esther, for the first time in Birmingham, is promised. An excellent performance of Barnett's Cantata, The Ancient Mariner, and a selection from Handel, were given by the Festival Choral Society, on Thursday, the 1st ult. The principal artists were Madame Lemmens-Sherrington, Miss Enriquez, Mr. E. Lloyd, and Mr. Maybrick. The latter gentleman suffering from illness, his part, later in the programme, was ably filled by Mr. Lander. The Handel selection comprised solos and choruses from Samson, Solomon, and Israel in Egypt. Mr. Robinson played the trumpet obligato to "Let the bright seraphim," which was admirably sung by Madame Sherrington. The choruses were grandly rendered, and the orchestral accompaniments were well played. Mr. Stockley conducted. A concert of some interest was given in the Town Hall, on Monday, the 5th ult., under the management of Messrs. Rogers and Priestley. The artists were Herr Wilhelm, Mdle. Kecker, Miss Giulia Warwick, Mr. F. Wood, and Herr Niemann. The first part of the programme was devoted to Wagner, and included selections and arrangements from Der Fliegende Holländer, Tannhäuser, Lohengrin, and Der Meistersinger. The second part included the "Kreutzer" Andante, with variations, admirably played by Herren Wilhelm and Niemann. The concert was a great artistic treat. Mdle. Kecker and Miss Giulia Warwick gained much applause, and made most successful first appearances; but Herr Wilhelm was the hero of the evening, and received an ovation. Encores were numerous during the evening. Mr. John Cheshire, the eminent harpist, gave a harp recital at the Masonic Hall on Thursday, the 8th ult. The programme was of a varied character, and displayed the performer's powers in different styles. Mr. Alfred Baylis made his first appearance in Birmingham as a vocalist on this occasion. Thursday, the 13th ult., will be memorable in local annals as being the occasion of the first appearance of the famous Russian pianist, Anton Rubinstein. His Recital took place in the Town Hall before a large assemblage, the programme including pieces by Handel, Mozart, Beethoven, Field, Chopin, Schumann, Liszt, and Rubinstein. The transcription of Beethoven's Overture to Egmont was a marvel of skill, and the performance generally evoked applause such as rarely is accorded to any instrumentalist. At the conclusion of the recital a perfect storm of cheering greeted the artist. The concert was arranged by Messrs. Rogers and Priestley, and, owing to its success, another recital is promised on the 11th inst. Messrs. Harrison's last Popular Concert this season was given in the Town Hall on Thursday, the 22nd ult., to an overflowing audience. The programme was miscellaneous and calls for little notice, the most interesting items being Beethoven's Polonaise in C, Op. 89, and the Adagio from Spohr's 9th Concerto (violin). The vocalists were Mdle. Tiens, Mdme. Patey, Mr. E. Lloyd, and Sig. Campobello. Mdle. Marie Krebs was the solo pianist, and Herr Joachim appeared as violinist and was enthusiastically received. Sir Julius Benedict officiated as accompanist and conductor.

BIRSTALL, NEAR LEEDS.—The Philharmonic Society gave its second Concert of the season on the 27th February, the work chosen being Handel's Judas Maccabæus. The principal vocalists were Miss Johnson (soprano), and Miss Kershaw (contralto), both of Oldham, Mr. Verney Binns (tenor) of Halifax, and Mr. J. Clifton (bass) of Oldham, all of whom gave great satisfaction. The band and chorus also were thoroughly efficient. Mr. George Crawshaw conducted.

BOLTON.—The Annual Musical Service, in connection with Wesley Chapel, Bradshawgate, was given on Wednesday evening, the 21st ult., before a large and appreciative audience, when Mendelssohn's "O come, let us worship" (Psalm xciv.), "The marvellous work" (Creation), "Gloria" (Haydn's First Mass), "How lovely are the messengers" (St. Paul), "Cast thy burden" (Elijah), and the "Hallelujah" (Messiah) were successfully performed. The members of the Chapel Choir were assisted by Miss Fallows, who sang, with much expression, "Jerusalem" (St. Paul), and the solo in "The marvellous work" and Mr. H. Taylor, who gave "Why does the God of Israel sleep" (Samson) and "Be thou faithful unto death" (St. Paul). The organ pieces by Mr. J. T. Flitcroft—"Marche Religieuse" (Adam), Hymn Tune, "Rockingham," varied, and the Overture to Guillaume Tell (Rossini)—gave great satisfaction.

BRISTOL.—On the 22nd ult. Mr. F. M. Cox gave his Annual Evening Concert in the Lesser Colston Hall. There was a large and appreciative audience, and the programme gave much gratification to all present. The vocalists were Miss Kate Spary, Miss E. Allen, Miss Ada Cottell, Messrs. E. T. Morgan, Stuart Higgs (who conducted), and F. M. Cox.

CHELTENHAM.—A grand Cambrian Concert, in celebration of St. David's Day, was given at the Rotunda, on the 1st ult., when Welsh airs were rendered by national artists, under the management of Mr. H. G. Davies. The vocalists were Madame Edith Wynne, Madame Wynne Matthison, Mr. Lewis Thomas, and Mr. W. A. Howells. Mr. John Thomas delighted the audience by his brilliant execution of Welsh melodies on the harp.

CLIFTON.—On Monday, the 19th ult., two Concerts were given in the Victoria Rooms, under the management of Mr. James E. Daniel. In the morning Bach's Passion (St. Matthew) was performed, the soloists being Madame Lemmens-Sherrington, Miss Agnes Larkcom, Miss Emily Dones, Mr. Bernard Lane, and Signor Federici, with M. Gurickx (piano) and Chevalier Lemmens (Mistel organ). The choruses and chorales were sung by the principals, and naturally the result was weak and ineffective. In the evening the Stabat Mater was performed as the first part, and in the second part Miss Larkcom gained much applause for her excellent singing of "From mighty kings" and the solo in "Hear my prayer," the latter in place of Madame Sherrington, who was indisposed. Chevalier Lemmens' Mistel organ voluntary was very enjoyable. On each occasion the audiences were large and appreciative.

DUDLEY.—The Blackheath Choral Society gave a performance of Handel's Messiah, on the 20th ult., in the National School Room, which was crowded by an appreciative audience. The principal vocalists were Miss Woolley (soprano), Mr. Woodhall (tenor), Mr. Bickley (alto), all of Birmingham, and Mr. G. H. Mainwaring, of Dudley (bass), all of whom were much applauded for their rendering of the various soli entrusted to them. The band and chorus were fairly effective, Mr. Samuel Parkes conducting efficiently.

DULWICH.—A Vocal and Instrumental Concert was given at St. Peter's Hall, on Thursday, the 8th ult., under the direction of Mr. E. Downs. A very attractive and varied programme opened with Haydn's Quartett in D minor for two violins, viola, and violoncello, excellently performed by Messrs. Cobbett, Downs, Deane, and Serjeant. Miss Philippine Siedle, Miss Julia Siedle, Mr. T. W. Delamere, and Mr. G. H. Snazelle were the vocalists. Miss Jessie Morison performed a pianoforte solo, "Polacca brillante" (Weber), in a very artistic and brilliant manner, and was warmly applauded. A quartett, "Meditation," for harp and strings, and the overture to Masaniello, well played by Messrs. Deane, Downs, Cobbett, and Serjeant, concluded the programme.

EASTBOURNE.—On Thursday evening, the 22nd ult., the Choral Society (Conductor, Mr. Henry W. Hardy) gave a "Public Practice" in the Pavilion, Devonshire Park. The first part of the programme consisted of Rossini's Stabat Mater, which was very creditably performed. The principal parts were sustained by Miss Carlisle, Mrs. Easter, Mr. Campion Coles, senior, and Mr. Welch. In the second part the newly formed band of the society made their debut, and performed the Overture to Samson correctly, but without much finish. They also accompanied the Choruses, "Fixed in His everlasting seat" (Samson), Handel's "Coronation Anthem," and the "Hallelujah Chorus" (Messiah), which, with solos by Miss Carlisle and Mrs. Easter, and a trio, "Ti prego," completed the programme. Messrs. Cooper and Campion Coles, jun., were first violinists. Mr. Hardy conducted with his usual ability.

EDINBURGH.—The tenth Annual Concert of the University Musical Society, which took place on the 20th ult., in the Music Hall, was in most respects equal, if not superior, to the best of its predecessors. The orchestra comprised fifty instrumentalists, among whom were the best available professionals in Edinburgh and Glasgow, a few members of the Amateur Orchestral Society, and a contingent from Manchester, including Mr. Hall's principal contrabass, Mr. Neuwrith. The leader was Mr. A. C. Mackenzie, and the conductor Sir Herbert Oakeley. The programme was varied and appropriate; the opening number was, as usual, the Latin "Student's Song," Sir H. Oakeley's music to Professor MacLagan's words, sung by the choir and accompanied on the organ by Mr. Kirk, the third verse being for sake of variety given as a solo by Mr. Callander, and then repeated by the chorists. The other solo vocalists were Mr. Pringle, Mr. Sinclair, and Dr. Roxburgh.

GREENWICH.—An interesting Concert of Sacred Music, consisting of selections from the Oratorios, was given by the Maze Hill Choral Society at the Maze Hill Congregational Church, East Greenwich, on Wednesday evening, the 28th February, on behalf of the organ improvement fund. The soloists were Miss Kate Cartwright, the Misses M. and A. Owen, Miss Earle, Mr. Cockell, and Mr. A. Bunker. The choruses were, with one or two exceptions, well sung. Mr. J. E. Batchelor, organist of the Maze Hill Congregational Church, officiated at the organ, and played as solos, a "Postludium," by Lefébure-Wély, and Costa's "March of the Israelites," the latter being encored. Mr. Tucker conducted.

GUELPH, ONTARIO.—A Sacred Concert and Organ Recital was given by Mr. Philp in the Dublin Street Methodist Church, on Tuesday evening, February 27th. The Anthems "Praise thou the Lord" and "Send out Thy Light" were excellently rendered by the large and well-trained choir. The organ selections by Miss Sarah Cossitt were very finely played, and an organ and violin duet by this lady and Mr. Philp was also a feature of the concert. The vocalists were Mrs. Kefer and the Brothers Tandy, of Kingston.

HALIFAX.—On the 20th ult., a special Musical Service was held in the Parish Church, Halifax, when the sacred Cantata Zonah, composed by Dr. Roberts, organist and choirmaster of the Church, was sung by the choir. The Rev. F. Pigou, M.A., vicar, read the prayers, and gave a short address introductory to the Cantata. There was a crowded congregation, and the offertory produced more than £40, which was given towards the Endowment Fund of St. Stephen's Church, Copley, in the parish of Halifax. The Cantata was most effectively rendered throughout, Dr. Roberts presiding at the organ.

KILMARNOCK.—The second of a short series of Saturday afternoon Organ Recitals was given in the Corn Exchange Hall, on Saturday, the 3rd ult., when Mr. J. Butler Cowap, New Church, Ayr, was the organist. The programme, which consisted of selections from the great masters, was varied and well chosen, and the different numbers were performed in such a clear and finished style as to secure the admiration of all present; Bach's Gavotte from the Sixth Violoncello Sonata, and Batiste's "Pilgrim's song of hope," being especially worthy of praise.—The third of a short series of Organ Recitals was given on Saturday afternoon, the 19th ult., in the Corn Exchange Hall. Mr. D. F. Wilson, of St. Mark's, was the organist. The following numbers were included in the programme:—"Hailstone Chorus" (Israel in Egypt), transcription of Mendelssohn's "Lieder ohne Worte," Book II., No. 3, by Calkin, and Meyerbeer's March in commemoration of the centenary of the birth of Schiller, all of which were exceedingly well rendered.

KINGSBRIDGE.—The winter session of the Literary and Scientific Society was brought to a close on Friday evening, the 2nd ult., when a Vocal and Instrumental Concert was given by amateurs of the town. The programme was a well-arranged one, embracing selections from some of our best composers, the first and second parts commencing with pianoforte duets, well played by Messrs. Cranch and Harris. The vocalists were the Misses Luscombe, Drew, and Smart, Mr. W. Davies, Mr. F. Harris, and Mr. A. Hurrell. A feature of the concert was a violin solo admirably played by Mr. Squire, and ably accompanied by Mrs. Squire. At the conclusion, Mr. R. Hurrell, the President of the Institute, proposed a vote of thanks to those who had assisted.

LANGTON.—Mr. Matthew Dunn, of Gavington, gave a morning Concert of Vocal and Instrumental Music in Langton House Picture Gallery, on Thursday, the 1st ult., under the immediate patronage of Lady Pringle and Lady M. B. Harvey, of Langley Park, Slough. The artists were Miss Agnes Drechsler-Hamilton, violinist; Mr. Carl Drechsler-Hamilton, violoncellist; Mr. Matthew Dunn, tenor; the Langton Choral Choir; and Herr Albe, pianist. A feature of the concert was the playing of the Drechsler-Hamiltons, Miss Drechsler-Hamilton gaining a well-merited encore for her violin solo. The choir sang well in time and with great precision, reflecting much credit on their Conductor, Mr. Dunn. Mr. Dunn received an encore for his rendering of "Happy be thy dreams," and a violoncello fantasia, "Thème de Handel," displayed Mr. Carl Drechsler-Hamilton's clever manipulation to advantage. Herr Albe was very efficient as accompanist.

LEEDS.—On Thursday, the 8th ult., Dr. Spark delivered a lecture on "The Vocal Music of the Victorian Era," in St. Simon's School, Ventnor Street, Burley Road, before a large and appreciative audience. The Rev. Thomas Whitby (the Vicar of St. Simon's) occupied the chair. Dr. Spark, who was most enthusiastically received, said that, in dealing with the music of their own day, he would take up the principal composers who had made this a musical age. He referred to the beauty, grandeur, and sublimity of Mendelssohn's works; of Spohr, whose life he traced with much skill and minuteness, and treated very comprehensively of his great work, The Last Judgment; and of Meyerbeer, whom he regarded as one of the greatest of musical and dramatic writers. Auber, Gounod, Bishop, Wesley, Benedict, Wallace, Smart, Sullivan, and Balfe also formed interesting subjects for the lecturer to deal with. The illustrations were efficiently rendered by Miss Jeannie Taylor, Miss Kennedy, Mr. Nunn, and Mr. Dodds, accompanied by Dr. Spark on the piano.—On the 20th ult. a special Organ Recital was given in the Town Hall by Dr. Spark, at the request of Chief Justice Coleridge. The programme was a most interesting one. Cherubini's "Ave Maria" was rendered with great feeling, and Bach's grand Prelude and Fugue (B flat major) enabled the organist to show his perfect command over the resources of his fine instrument. The "Bells of Aberdovey," in which the organist used the carillon stop, so pleased the audience that an encore was imperatively demanded. Handel's Coronation Anthem, "Zadok, the Priest," brought a delightful musical evening to a close. Lord Coleridge was present during the whole of the Recital.

LIVERPOOL.—The second Concert of the Sacred Harmonic and Purcell Society, under the conductorship of Mr. Jude, took place on the 8th ult., in the Hall of the College, Shaw Street. The programme consisted entirely of Purcell's compositions—the "Te Deum" from the Service in B flat, and three anthems constituting the first part, and the opera of Dido and Eneas, the second part. The Society gave evidence of possessing many fine voices, and of being in admirable drill. The "Te Deum" of the B flat Service produced a most favourable effect. The music of Dido was sung with purity of style by Master James Evans, and the other solos were well rendered by Mr. J. L. Hughes, Mr. T. J. Hughes, Mr. John Isaacson, and Mr. Robinson. The chorus was admirable throughout. Mr. Jude played the Overture with much effect, and had to repeat the "Dance of mariners and nymphs."

MANCHESTER.—The Athenæum Musical Society concluded its tenth season by a very successful Concert on the 19th ult. The principal attraction was Smart's Cantata, The Bride of Dunkerron, which constituted the first part of the programme. This work, so rarely performed, was given in a manner which left little to be desired, the choruses especially being admirably sung. The second part consisted of choruses, part-songs, &c., including Gaul's "Silent land," Pinsuti's "Spring Song," and Handel's "Music spread" (Solomon), in the performance of which the reputation of the Society was fully sustained. Dr. Henry Hiles conducted and accompanied.—The production of Mr. Hecht's Symphony in F major at Mr. Hallé's Concert, on the 22nd February, was a highly interesting event. The local papers speak of the work in most flattering terms, the Andante, Scherzo, and final movement being warmly praised, both for their melodious character and the musicianlike manner in which the subjects are treated. There is every hope that the Symphony will shortly be heard in London.

MELBOURNE.—At the installation of the new bishop, the Right Rev. Dr. James Moorhouse, in the Cathedral Church of St. James, William Street, Mr. Summers presided at the organ, and played as the introductory voluntary Handel's "Coronation Anthem" and Vivian's "Silver Trumpet" March. The Te Deum and Benedictus by Hopkins, in F, were sung by the choir, and the Anthem was "Now we are ambassadors" and "How lovely are the messengers" (St. Paul). At the reception in the Town Hall a selection of sacred music was exceedingly well rendered by a choir of about three hundred voices. Mr. P. C. Plaisted presided at the organ, and Mr. J. Summers conducted.

NOTTINGHAM.—Mr. W. Pyatt's second Concert took place on the 1st ult. in the Albert Hall. The artists engaged for the occasion were Herr Joachim; second violin, Herr L. Ries; viola, Mr. Zerbin; violoncello, Signor Piatti; pianoforte, Mdle. Marie Krebs; vocalist, Miss Agnes Larkom; and conductor, Sir Julius Benedict. The performance of Herr Joachim was a very prominent feature in the programme, his playing being highly appreciated by the audience, as was also Mdle. Krebs. Signor Piatti maintained his unique position as a violoncellist, and received a very warm recognition of his powers. Mendelssohn's Trio in D minor was especially striking, and elicited marks of universal admiration and approbation. Miss Agnes Larkom sang the songs allotted to her with skill and success. Sir Julius Benedict accompanied with his usual skill and judgment. The hall was full, and the audience very appreciative.—On Friday, the 18th ult., the St. Cecilia Choral Society gave a performance of Mendelssohn's Athalie in the Mechanics' Large Hall. The choir, supplemented by a small orchestra, sang the dramatic choruses with considerable vigour and precision. The solos were well sung by Mrs. A. J. Sutton, Miss Honeybone, and Miss A. M. Clowes, the lyrics being effectively recited by Mr. Charles Fry. Valuable assistance was rendered at the organ by Mr. E. H. Turpin (who afterwards played a solo with much effect), and the performance was ably conducted by Mr. W. G. Taylor. A miscellaneous second part, in which was included the "Shepherd's Chorus" from Schubert's Rosamunde, and the Polonaise from Glinka's Vie pour le Czar, brought the concert to a successful termination.

PETERBOROUGH.—Mr. J. H. Mapleson's touring party—including Mdle. Titiens, Mdle. Valleria, Miss Agnes Bonn, Signori Del Puente, Borella, Brocolini, Mr. Bentham, Mons. Musin, the Belgian violinist, and Mr. F. H. Cowen, pianist—gave a Concert, in the Wentworth Room, on the 13th ult., under the auspices of Mr. Arthur C. Thacker, organist of Thorney Abbey. Mdle. Titiens was in splendid voice, and all the artists were most enthusiastically received by a distinguished and crowded audience.

PETERHEAD.—A successful performance of Elijah was given by the Members of the Choral Union on the 21st ult. The band and chorus numbered over one hundred performers, and the principal vocalists were Mrs. W. A. Alexander (soprano), Miss Elsie Clark (contralto), Mr. R. Cooper (tenor), and Mr. A. McCall, of York Minster (bass). Mr. J. Wood conducted and Mr. Justice led the band.

REIGATE.—The new Organ, built by Messrs. Halmshaw & Sons, of Birmingham, for the Congregational Church of this town, was opened on Thursday, the 15th ult., by Mr. N. M. Day (Organist of St. Mark's). The programme included Anthems by Barnby, Stainer, Smart, and Sullivan, and Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus," solos were sung by Mrs. Williams, Mr. Williams, Mr. Bennett, and Mr. E. H. George. Mr. Day's Voluntaries were "Inauguration March" (S. Clarke), "Prelude and Fugue," B flat major (Bach), "Offertoire" in D minor (Batiste), "Offertoire" in G major (Wély), and the "Coronation Anthem" (Handel). The organ and performance gave satisfaction to a large audience.

SCARBOROUGH.—A numerous congregation assembled in Westborough Chapel, on Wednesday evening, the 7th ult., when a popular lecture on "Handel and Handelian Music" was delivered by the Rev. F. W. Briggs, M.A. The lecture was illustrated by selections from the works of Handel, excellently rendered by a choir of upwards of fifty voices, under the able direction of Mr. Walter Mitchell, who presided at the organ. The solos were well sung by Miss Simpson, Miss Jefferson, Mr. James, and Mr. Bland.

SHEFFIELD.—The orchestral and vocal concerts given by Messrs. Peck and Wainwright on Saturday afternoons in the Albert Hall during the past month have met with most decided encouragement, the assistance of the Sheffield Choral Society having materially contributed towards their success, Miss Clara Linley and Mr. Crowther Alwyn (the latter conducting his own compositions, which were well received) giving valuable aid.—A series of five concerts, promoted by Miss Boaler, under the management of Mr. Charles Harvey, in aid of the medical charities of the town, commencing on February 28th, and continuing till the evening of the 2nd ult., at the Albert Hall, drew audiences scarcely commensurate with the excellent character of the concerts, or the object sought to be obtained. On the last night, however, Mr. Sims Reeves's name caused an immense audience to assemble, but unfortunately indisposition prevented him from appearing. Miss Anna Williams, Miss Giulia Warwick, Miss Penna, Mdle. Redeker, Mdme. Patey, Mr. W. Shakespeare, Mr. Hollins, Signor Poli, and Mr. Maybrick were the vocalists; the solo instrumentalists being Herr Wilhelm, Herr Niemann, Mr. F. Wood, Mr. King Hall, Mr. G. Clinton, Mr. J. Carodous, and Mr. F. Archer. Mr. S. Mayer and Mr. F. Archer were the Conductors.—On the 9th ult., Herr Rubinstein gave a Pianoforte Recital at the Albert Hall, when an excellent programme, including some of his own compositions, was executed in a manner which drew from the audience, amongst whom were the leading musicians of the district, enthusiastic applause. Herr Rubinstein was recalled at the conclusion of his Recital.

STRATFORD.—On Monday, the 19th ult., the members of the West Ham Philharmonic Society gave their third Concert this season in the Town Hall, the principal item in the programme being Van Bree's Cantata, St. Cecilia. Miss Jessie Royd sustained the soprano solos with great effect, and was most warmly applauded. Various members of the Society contributed ballads and songs, and the choruses in the Cantata were very creditably sung. Mr. Benjamin Wells contributed much, by his flute solos, to the general interest of the programme. Mr. J. S. Bates conducted as usual; Mr. F. C. Kitson presided at the piano, and Mr. Stephen Wilson at the harmonium.

TORONTO.—On February the 20th the Metropolitan Church was crowded, the occasion being a Concert of Sacred Music given by the choir of the church to Mr. F. H. Torrington, the organist, a compliment well earned by the ability and energy displayed by the recipient of this tribute since his connection with the city. The programme was well selected, and Mr. Torrington's organ solos were a prominent feature in the concert.

WOLVERHAMPTON.—On the 9th ult., at the annual Soirée of the Festival Choral Society, Mr. Stockley, the Conductor, was presented with a silver tea and coffee service by the past and present members of the Society, in recognition of his untiring energy and perseverance in directing the choir, and promoting a love for good music amongst its members. The presentation was made by the honorary Secretary, Mr. C. H. Jolly, and the compliment was acknowledged by the recipient in a suitable speech.

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. John Baker, to St. Peter's Church, Hackney Road. Miss Ada M. Boucher, to the Episcopal Church, St. Andrew's, Scotland. Mr. J. R. Griffiths, to Highgate Congregational Church, N.W.

CHOIR APPOINTMENT.—Mr. C. A. White, principal tenor to St. Thomas's, Regent Street.

OBITUARY.

On the 26th February, at View Island, Reading, of congestion of the lungs, in the 51st year of his age, MAJOR WARD SOANE BRAHAM, Royal Berks Militia, youngest son of the late John Braham, Esq.

On the 5th ult., at his residence, 23, Green Heys Road, Prince's Park, Liverpool, THOMAS JAMES BESWICK.

On the 9th ult., at Point Cottage, Ipswich Road, Norwich, JAMES FREDERICK HILL, Chorus-master of the Norwich Musical Festivals, in the 60th year of his age.

On the 13th ult., at Villa Novello, Genoa, CHARLES COWDEN CLARKE, in the 90th year of his age.

On the 15th ult., at the residence of his youngest daughter, Madame Rodda Pyne, Bonally, 87, Cambridge Gardens West, Notting Hill, GEORGE PYNE, in the 38th year of his age.

MISS ALICE BERTON (Contralto).

(Pupil of Signor Mazzoni.) 221, Jubilee Street, Mile End Road.

WANTED, two SOPRANOS for Lewisham Congregational Church. Two Services on Sunday and one week evening for rehearsal. Salary £15 each. Application by letter, with testimonials, to B. H. Moore, Moray House, Lee, S.E.

S. MATTHIAS'S CHURCH, South Kensington.—SOLO BOY WANTED; salary £25 per annum. Apply to J. Mallitt Jones, Esq., 192, Finborough Road, South Kensington, S.W.

TREBLE, Alto, Tenor, and Bass WANTED for Voluntary Church Choir, New Church College Chapel, Devonshire Street, Islington. Weekly practice, anthems, &c. Apply, Choirmaster, Wednesday evenings, 8 to 9 p.m.

ALTO WANTED immediately for a Church near the Marble Arch. Stipend, £10. Address E. R. T., Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street.

WANTED, two ALTOS, to complete the Choir of St. Andrew's Church, Stoke Newington. None but good readers need apply. Address, giving particulars, Mr. Walter Wrightson, Hillside, Woodberry Down, N.

WANTED, an ALTO (male), TENOR, and BASS for the Choir of St. James's, Clerkenwell. Salaries, £10 each per annum. (Anglican service.) Apply by letter, with testimonials, to T. Hastings Miller, Esq., 23, Highbury Grove, N. Applicants must be prepared to enter upon their duties at once.

SOLO TENOR WANTED for S. Patrick's (National) Cathedral, Dublin. Should be a full member of the Church of Ireland or England. Salary, to an experienced solo singer able to read music well, up to £120 a year, according to number of attendances in the week. Apply, stating reference, qualifications, &c., to Rev. Alfred T. Harvey, M.A., Succentor, S. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin.

SOLO TENOR and BASS (not Baritone) WANTED for S. Patrick's, Cromwell Road, South Kensington. Must possess good voices, and be able to undertake solos in the highest class of sacred music. Two services on Sundays; one (occasionally two) weekly rehearsals. Salary, £25 per annum each. Apply, by letter, to Rev. A. G. H. Harding, 104, Earl's Court Road, S.W.

VOICES WANTED for Church Choir in London; two leading boys, £8. TENOR and BASS, £10 per annum each. Apply to the Principal, South London Musical Training College, St. James's, Hatcham, S.E.

BASS and SOPRANO (Lady) WANTED, for church choir in Central London. £10 each. Two Sunday services and weekly practice. Address P. N., Messrs. Novello, Queen Street, Cheapside.

REQUIRED, at once, by the Organist and Choirmaster of the Parish and Holy Trinity Churches, Rugby, a gentlemanly YOUTH who wishes to make music his profession. He will receive a thorough musical training, and every advantage for study. For further particulars apply to F. K. Stroh, 40, Albert Street, Rugby.

WANTED, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER for Bibury Church. Salary £40. Must be a regular communicant. Hon. and Rev. F. Dutton, Bibury Vicarage, Fairford.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

GRAUN, C. H.—Te Deum laudamus. Edited, and the pianoforte accompaniment revised by Berthold Tours. 8vo, paper cover, 2s.; cloth, 4s.

STANFORD, C. VILLIERS.—God is our hope and strength (Psalm xlvii.) for soli, chorus, orchestra, and organ. Op. 8. 8vo, 4s.

CAPE, J. M.—An Essay on the growth of the Musical Scale and of Modern Harmony. Cloth.

THE EUCHARISTIC HYMNAL.—Hymns to be sung at the Celebration of Holy Communion. Imperial 32mo, cloth limp, 9d.; cloth boards, red edges, 1s.

ARNOLD, GEORGE B., Mus. Doc., Oxon.—A Communion Service, consisting of Sursum Corda, Sanctus, and Gloria in Excelsis. 8vo, 6d.

AYLWARD, T. E.—Preces, Responses, and Litany, Ferial and Festal. Post 8vo, paper cover, 8d.

HARVEY, E. G., B.A.—A Litany of the Holy Name, adapted for use at a children's service or on other occasions. 6d.

BENEDICT, SIR JULIUS.—Praise the Lord, call upon His Name. Anthem composed for the Festival of the Norfolk and Suffolk Church Choral Association, 1877. 8vo, 8d.

BIRKBECK, JOSEPH.—Now is Christ risen from the dead. Easter Anthem. Folio, 2s.; choir copy, 8vo, 3d.

LOCKWOOD, J. F.—Redeemed from guilt. Anthem, with quartett, treble and alto solos, and chorus. 8vo, 4d.

CORNWALL, CHANNON.—Songs of the Church. Favourite Hymns set to music chiefly by modern composers. Part I., 8vo, 4d.

CRUICKSHANK, W. A. C.—Waken, Lords and ladies gay. Four-part song. 8vo, 4d.

GLADSTONE, ROBERTSON, JUN.—Night, lovely night. Quartett. Words by Mr. H. R. Sandbach. 8vo, 3d.

THE GAY BIRDS ARE CAROLLING. Four-part Song. Words by Mrs. H. R. Sandbach, 8vo, 3d.

GARRETT, GEORGE, Mus. D.—Hope. Choruses in waltz form for male voices, with pianoforte accompaniment. 8vo, 6d.

HINE, GERTRUDE.—To Blossoms. Part-song, S.A.T.B. 8vo, 6d.

JONES, H. H.—The heaving of the lead. Part-song. The words written by Pearce. 8vo, 4d.

GAUL, ALFRED R.—Consider the lilies. Sacred Song. The words from the Sermon on the Mount. 2s.

LODARE, HELEN.—Let not your heart be troubled. Recitative and Air. 1s.

SALAMAN, CHARLES.—Zuleika. An Oriental Scena for a Tenor or Soprano Voice and Pianoforte. The Poetry by Arthur O'Shaughnessy. 2s.

WILLIS, T. A.—Love's Decree. Song. The Poetry written by T. Moore. 2s.

ELVEY, SIR GEORGE.—Gavotte à la mode ancienne. 1s. 6d.

SPARK, DR. W.—Organist's Quarterly Journal. Part XXXIV.

1. Melody in E minor E. Silas.
2. Andante Pastorale—A major D. Hemingway.
3. Offertory, or Communion—D major Hamilton Clarke.
4. Air Variée, B flat major G. B. Lissant.
5. Andante con moto—E flat E. Townshend Driffield.
6. Prelude in G minor Walter H. Sangster, Mus. B. Oxon.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

APPRENTICES WANTED for MUSIC ENGRAVING and TYPE-SETTING. Applicants should have had a fair education, and a knowledge of music will be an advantage. Apply to Novello, Ewer and Co., 69 & 70, Dean Street, Soho, W.

COPIES of the "MUSICAL TIMES" for JANUARY and FEBRUARY (Nos. 407 and 408) WANTED. For clean copies the full price will be paid. Address Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TO COMPOSERS wishing to PUBLISH.—Music Engraved, Printed, and Published in the best style at unusually low prices. Estimates free on receipt of manuscript. SIMPSON and Co., 33, Argyll Street, Regent Street, London, W.

S. PETER'S, Eaton Square.—There are VACANCIES in the CHOIR of this church for Three Professional Singers (Alto, Tenor, and Bass). Duties:—Attendance on Sundays and Holy-days, and at rehearsal once a week. Salary £15 a year. Application may be made by letter to The Precentor, S. Peter's Schools, Eaton Square, W.

S. PETER'S, Eaton Square.—There are VACANCIES for a few UNPAID SINGERS in the CHOIR of this church. Candidates may apply by letter to The Precentor, S. Peter's Schools, Eaton Square, W.

WANTED, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER for a church in a large town. Two Services on Sunday and one or two practices a week. Good character as well as efficiency essential. Two-manual organ with full compass pedals. Salary, £40 a year. Address Rev. W. R. Sharrock, North Ormesby, Middlesbrough.

WANTED, for Country Village, ORGANIST, and to Assist in School. Gregorian music. "Rector," Little Bardfield, Braintree.

WANTED, for the Parish Church of Addlestone, an experienced ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Salary £50 per annum. Modern two-manual organ, with pedals. Anglican Services. Address F. W. W., Churchwarden, Edgar Lodge, Addlestone, Surrey.

MR. CHARLES JOSEPH FROST having been requested to form a mixed HARMONY CLASS in the neighbourhood of Stoke Newington or Haggerston, has resolved to do so without delay. For particulars address 73, Farleigh Road, Stoke Newington, N.

MR. CHAS. MALCOLM (Pianist) will return to town on the 12th of April. Engagements for concerts, recitals, lessons, &c., address to care of S. Golbourn, Esq., 76, Princes Street, Leicester Square, or Messrs. Stanley Lucas, Weber and Co., 84, New Bond Street, Oxford Street. Mr. Malcolm has appeared at the Promenade Concerts, Theatre Royal Covent Garden; Crystal Palace; Royal Aquarium, Westminster; and also played in all the large towns in England and Ireland, and has always met with a most enthusiastic reception. Press notices sent on application. N.B.—Schools treated with, non-resident.

MR. T. HARPER, having relinquished his post as principal Trumpet and Cornet at the Royal Italian Opera, can accept engagements in town and country during the ensuing season. 25, Brecknock Crescent, N.W.

SOUTH LONDON MUSICAL TRAINING College.—Prospectus post free. Address, Principal, College House, S. James's, Hatcham, S.E.
Harmony and Composition by correspondence. Address, Principal, as above.

WANTED a Young Man as TUNER for a Music Warehouse. Must be able to tune pianofortes and harmoniums, and competent to give lessons on the organ. Apply, by letter only, to A.R., 24, Great George Street, Liverpool.

A FIRST-CLASS TUNER and REPAIRER REQUIRED in a large provincial town in the West of England. Good salary given to a thoroughly competent man. Address H. P. Sawday, 15 and 16, George Street, Plymouth.

PIANOFORTE TUNER.—WANTED, an experienced Young Man, as TUNER, &c. Apply (by letter only), stating age, salary required, and references as to character and ability, to William Slade, Pianoforte and Music Warehouse, Hastings.

AN APPRENTICE to PIANOFORTE TUNING WANTED. One who can play the Piano preferred.—Henry Ward, 100, Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED.—To a first-class Man a liberal salary will be given. Apply to Challen and Hodgson, 20, Oxford Street, W.

A GENTLEMAN, with a thorough knowledge of the Music Trade, both instrumental and sheet music, and with experience in opera, theatre, and concert business, good pianoforte tuner, WISHES for an ENGAGEMENT; aged 27. Address X., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TO FIRST-CLASS PIANOFORTE TUNERS.—A VACANCY will shortly occur in an old-established and leading Music Warehouse, in the West of England, for an experienced and thoroughly competent out-of-door Tuner, not under thirty years of age. One who has been regularly employed in Messrs. Broadwood's, or other large factory, preferred. The situation offers a favourable opportunity for a steady, middle-aged tuner, being a permanent one and the salary liberal. Address S. H. W., Messrs. Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TO PROFESSORS.—Advertiser would be glad to know of an OPENING for an experienced PIANOFORTE TUNER, Repairer, and Regulator. Tuner, 2, Askew Terrace, Shepherd's Bush.

ORGAN METAL-PIPE MAKER WANTED; young Man preferred. J. W. Barber, Organ Builder, 31, Park Street, Bristol.

SMALL ORGAN for SALE.—Two manuals, pedals, and 12 stops; handsome solid oak case. Suitable for church, chapel, chamber, or oratory. A bargain. To be seen at Simpson and Co.'s, 33, Argyll Street, Regent Street, W.

ORGANS.—Capital Second-hand INSTRUMENTS very cheap, Sale or Hire, in thorough order; £15 to £100. J. W. Barber, Organ Builder, 31, Park Street, Bristol.

ORGAN of 2 manuals, CC to G, 56 notes. New, with pedal bourdon, CCC to F, 30 notes with composition pedal 22 stops. A BARGAIN. A fine tone. Apply to Costloe and Son, Isleworth, Middlesex.

ORGAN for SALE, 4 stops, with 2 octaves of Pedals. S. Fowler, Organ Pipe Factory, 127, Pentonville Road.

AMERICAN ORGAN.—Fine-toned, powerful instrument, by Alexandre, Paris. Great variety of stops. Resonant walnut case. Recently cost 60 guineas. Bargain for cash. Apply to S., 183, Junction Road, Upper Holloway.

PIANOFORTE FOR SALE.—A very superior Drawing-room Grand. Nearly new; good touch; brilliant in tone, and one of the finest ever issued from the factory of Messrs. Broadwood and Sons. Apply to Mr. Frederick Lucas, 20, Great Marlborough Street, London, W.

COLLARD AND COLLARD GRAND PIANO, 7 octaves, trichord throughout, £45. Also short IRON GRAND, nearly new, by Broadwood, £48. Both in rosewood. Apply to Mr. Fieldwick, 7, Alexandra Terrace, Putney.

MUSIC PUPILS' REGISTER.—Specimen copy, twelve stamps. Address, Principal, South London Musical Training College, S. James's, Hatcham, S.E.

ORGAN METAL PIPES. Best quality Zinc Front Pipes; voicing and tuning. S. Fowler, 127, Pentonville Road.

Just published,

THE EUCHARISTIC HYMNAL, containing Hymns suited to the different Seasons, Holydays, and Commemorations of the Church, to be sung at the Celebration of the Holy Communion, to which are added Hymns to be sung at the devotion of the "Three Hours" on Good Friday, and a few Metrical Litanies and Processional Hymns, being an Appendix to other Hymnals in use in the Church of England. Price, limp cloth, 9d.; cloth boards, red edges, 1s.

The attention of the clergy is especially called to this Hymnal, which provides for use at Choral Celebrations a variety of Eucharistic Hymns, suited to different days and seasons.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE NEW ANTHEM FOR WHITSUNTIDE, "AND I WILL PRAY THE FATHER."

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

THIS Anthem has been adopted by the Choral Association for the Archdeaconry of Coventry, and is to be used at the five District Festivals held by them this season, and will be found sufficiently easy for the simplest of village choirs.

Price Twopence.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

DIES IRÆ and KYRIE ELEISON in F, with tunes for Easter and Whitsuntide, by FLUTE. Price 1s.; sold at 6d. Dr. Lloyd Fowle, 20, Paternoster Row, London, E.C.

ELEVEN OFFERTORY SENTENCES, in Groups, for convenient use, by C. SWAIN, 4d.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just published.

AN ESSAY on the GROWTH of the MUSICAL SCALE and of MODERN HARMONY, by J. M. CAPES, M.A.
Price .

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Octavo Edition,

FAUST. By ROBERT SCHUMANN. The English adaptation by Miss LOUISA VANCE. Paper cover, 3s.; cloth gilt, 5s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

OTTO BOOTH'S NEW SONGS.—Words by WILLIAM RAY SMEE.

1. THE SEA-GULL. Against the Senseless Destruction of Sea Birds.

2. HEALTH-GIVING SPRING. In Favour of Temperance and Moderation in Drink.

3. THE MERCHANT CAPTAIN. Against the Abuse of Power.

Price, net, 1s. 6d. each.

Weekes & Co., Hanover Street.

Re D'ALMAINE, DECEASED.

GREAT CLEARANCE OF HARMONIUMS

CONNECTED WITH THE STOCK OF THIS EMINENT MAKER.

A great variety, in number and description, being cleared at COST PRICE in consequence of the death of the Proprietor.

A fine Instrument for ... £5 5 0
And a limited number at 4 4 0

AS SOON AS COMPLETED.

ALL INFORMATION AT

D'ALMAINE AND CO.,
5, PAVEMENT; FINSBURY, E.C.

MUST BE CLEARED AT ONCE.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S ONLY COMPLETE AND UNIFORM EDITION OF

MENDELSSOHN'S

THIRTEEN TWO-PART SONGS.

With the German and W. BARTHOLOMEW'S Original English Words.

Complete in One Volume, folio, 5s. net. Octavo, paper, 2s. net; cloth gilt, 4s. net; or singly, 2s. each. The separate Numbers are sold at half-price.

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|-----------------------------|
| No. 1. I would that my love. | No. 7. My bark is bounding. |
| 2. The passage bird. | 8. Can I light-hearted be? |
| 3. Greeting. | 9. Evening song. |
| 4. Autumn song. | 10. Zuleika and Hassan. |
| 5. O wert thou in the cauld blast. | 11. The Sabbath morn. |
| 6. The Maybells and the nowers. | 12. The harvest field. |
| | 13. Song from Ruy Blas. |

N.B.—The Quartett score to No. 13, 1s.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just published,

FIVE CHORUSES

FOR

FEMALE VOICES,

COMPOSED BY

FRANZ SCHUBERT.

Price One Shilling,

OR, SINGLY,

- | | | |
|-----------------------------------|---------------------|-----|
| Coronach | 3 voices | 3d. |
| The Lord is my Shepherd | 4 voices | 4d. |
| God in nature | 4 voices | 4d. |
| Serenade | 4 voices, with solo | 4d. |
| Glory to the Lord Almighty | 3 voices | 3d. |

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CAROL OF THE REAPERS. (S.A.T.B.) 3d.
SIX EASY ANTHEMS FOR VILLAGE CHOIRS. 2d. each.
MUSICAL LADDER. 1s. TONIC STAFF. 6d.
Novello and Co.; or of the Composer, W. H. Gill, Sidcup, Kent.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, &c.

Just Published.

NEW PART-SONGS, MADRIGALS, &c.,

BY

R. L. PEARSALL.

COLLEGIATE SERIES.

- | | | | |
|-----|------------------------|--|-----------------|
| No. | | | |
| 68. | Part-Song | A lad and lassie. S.A.T.B. | 2d. |
| 70. | Part-Song | True love, to-day I must away | 2d. |
| 64. | Madrigal | When old King Cole | 3d. |
| 54. | Madrigal | My bonnie lass, she smileth | 3d. |
| 67. | Glee | Glorious Apollo | 2d. |
| 73. | Part-Song | Was there not a look of fondness | 2d. |
| 55. | Part-Song | Robin Hood | 3d. |
| 65. | Glee | King Charles | 3d. |
| 72. | Part-Song | My mother loves me not | 2d. |
| 69. | Part-Song | Spring brings flow'rets fair | 2d. |
| 71. | Part-Song | 'Twas a trumpet's pealing sound | 3d. |
| 52. | Ballad Dialogue | Who kill'd Cock Robin? ... 8th Edition | 3d. |
| | | (Folio, illustrated, 3s.) | |
| 50. | Part-Song | Brave Lord Willoughby | 5th " 3d. |
| 25. | Madrigal | Here on the waters | 4th " 4d. |
| 53. | Part-Song | Her eyes the glow-worm | 3rd " 3d. |
| 4. | Student's Song | The three friends. S.A.T.B. | 4th " 3d. |
| 5. | Student's Song | " " " " T.T.B.B. | 4th " 3d. |
| 60. | Madrigal | Down by a river straying | 2nd " 4d. |
| 61. | Madrigal | Hie away! o'er bank and brae | 2nd " 4d. |
| 58. | Glee | Flow, limpid stream. A.T.B.B. | 3d. |
| 51. | Student's Song | Gaudeamus igitur | 6th Edition 3d. |
| 74. | Part-Song | Springs she not as light as air | 2d. |
| 63. | Part-Song | My enemies they do increase | 3d. |
| 62. | Part-Song | 'Tis raining! | 3d. |
| 59. | Part-Song | The Poacher's Song | 3d. |
| 56. | Market Chorus | The Villagers (with Pianoforte, Flute, or Violin Accompaniment), Chorus of Peasants, Market
Women, Swiss Jodel, &c. | 4d. |

DR. S. S. WESLEY.

- | | | | |
|-----|------------------|---|-----------------|
| 3. | Part-Song | The Mermaid. S.A.T.B. | 3rd Edition 4d. |
| 6. | Part-Song | Arising from the deep. S.A.T.B. 2nd | " 4d. |
| 2. | Chorus | The praise of music (Double Choir). 2nd | " 4d. |
| 18. | Anthem | O how amiable! | 3rd " 4d. |
| 19. | Anthem | Wherewithal shall a young man. 2nd | " 4d. |
| 40. | Anthem | The Lord is my Shepherd | 2nd " 4d. |
| 14. | Anthem | Let us now praise famous men. 4th | " 4d. |

BERTHOLD TOURS.

- | | | | |
|-----|------------------|-------------------------------------|-----------|
| 8. | Part-Song | Swift the shades of eve | 6th " 3d. |
| 12. | Part-Song | The Vikings and the north wind. 3rd | " 3d. |
| 10. | Part-Song | The eagle | 2nd " 3d. |
| 42. | Anthem | O praise the Lord | 3d. |
| 43. | Anthem | I waited patiently | 3d. |

DULCIANA.

- | | | | |
|-----|-----------------------|-----------------------------|------------------|
| 13. | National Anth. | God save the Queen | 20th Edition 2d. |
| | | (With Organ Accompaniment.) | |
| 7. | Part-Song | Auld lang syne | 26th " 3d. |

SCHUMANN.

- | | | | |
|-----|------------------------|------------------------------------|-----------|
| 26. | Solo and Chorus | Sleep on, in visions | 4th " 3d. |
| 11. | Solo and Chorus | Vesture pure and scatheless | 3rd " 3d. |
| 29. | Trio (S.S.A.) | Magna peccatrix | 3d. |
| 30. | Trio (S.S.A.) | The midnight hags | 3d. |

J. P. KNIGHT.

- | | | | |
|----|-----------------|-------------------------------|-----------------|
| 1. | Madrigal | Canst thou say me nay? | 3rd Edition 3d. |
|----|-----------------|-------------------------------|-----------------|

NEW BALLADS.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

THE CATHEDRAL CHOIR (with Chorus) 4s.

R. L. PEARSALL.

- | | |
|-------------------------------|-----|
| DRUMMING AND FIFING | 3s. |
| BRAVE LORD WILLOUGHBY | 3s. |
| WHO KILL'D COCK ROBIN? | 3s. |

Just Published.

CONSECUTIVE FIFTHS AND OCTAVES
IN COUNTERPOINT.

AN ESSAY, BY R. L. PEARSALL.

Price 2s.; post free, 2s. 2d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.
Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street, W.

C. JEFFERYS, 67, BERNERS STREET.

THE CHORAL SOCIETY
A COLLECTION OF
PART-SONGS, GLEES,
CHORUSES, &c.,

EDITED BY
MICHAEL WATSON.

NEW NUMBERS.

Price 2d. each.

No.		Composer.
45	To the hills and the vales. (Chorus)	Henry Purcell.
44	The Primrose	Arthur Johnson.
43	An evening song	Owen Head.
42	Row gently here	F. Schira.
41	Hark! the swains are calling	James J. Monk.
40	May Morn	T. M. Pattison.
39	Oh, the gallant fisher's life (for male voices)	Theodore Distin.
38	Spring-time	W. G. Marshall.
37	Evening	Seymour Smith.
36	A poor soul sat sighing	J. Meredith Ball.
35	Ebbing and flowing	T. G. B. Halley.
34	The Spirit of Music	W. F. Taylor.
33	Welcome, lovely Spring	Arranged by Michael Watson.
32	The boatie rows	Michael Watson.
31	How beautiful is night	F. Schira.

(To be continued.)

COMPLETE LISTS ON APPLICATION.

SIX ORIGINAL PIECES FOR HARMONIUM OR AMERICAN ORGAN,

By MICHAEL WATSON.

	s.	d.
1 Village dance, in B flat	3	0
2 Mélodie, in G	3	0
3 Pas Redoublé, in G	3	0
4 Berceuse, in F	3	0
5 March, in C	3	0
6 Reverie, in G	3	0

FOR PIANOFORTE,

By MICHAEL WATSON.

Bourrée in F	3	0
Gavotte, in B flat	3	0
Passe-pied, in B flat	3	0
Polonaise, in C	3	0
Tarentelle, in B flat	3	0
Bolero, in A minor	3	0
Gigue, in G	3	0
Sarabande, in B flat	3	0
Minuet, in C	3	0

NEW NUMBERS.

THE LYRIC STAGE,

By MICHAEL WATSON.

(Brilliant Operatic Fantasias.)

10 Lohengrin	Wagner	4	0
11 La Vie pour le Czar	Glinka	4	0
12 Tannhäuser	Wagner	4	0
13 Flying Dutchman	Wagner	4	0

GRAND OPERATIC DUETS,

By J. RUMMEL.

1 Lohengrin	Wagner	5	0
2 Tannhäuser	Wagner	5	0
10 Rienzi	Wagner	5	0
11 Flying Dutchman	Wagner	5	0

THE TWO MOST SUCCESSFUL SONGS OF THE SEASON.

Diehl's "Jack's Yarn," sung by Signor Foli	4	0
Levey's "White Blossoms," sung by Miss Fannie Leslie	3	0

LONDON: C. JEFFERYS, 67, BERNERS STREET, W.

A LIST OF THE WORKS

OF

SIR W. STERNDALE BENNETT

PURCHASED AT THE RECENT SALE OF

MR. LAMBORN COCK,

BY

ASHDOWN & PARRY,

HANOVER SQUARE.

PIANOFORTE SOLOS.

First Concerto in D minor	8	0
Andante from the same	3	0
Second Concerto in E flat	9	0
Third Concerto in C minor	8	0
Romanza from the same	3	0
Fourth Concerto in F minor	8	0
Barcarolle from the same	4	0
Preludes and Lessons, composed for the use of Queen's College, London. Complete	10	6
The same work in two parts Each	6	0
Le Papillon (No. 5 of above)	3	0
Aria (No. 19 of above)	3	0
L'Allegro (No. 23 of above)	3	0
Zephyrus (No. 25 of above)	3	0
Il Penseroso (No. 26 of above)	3	0

PIANOFORTE DUETS.

Andante from the First Concerto	4	0
Scherzo from the First Concerto	4	0
Romanza from the Third Concerto	4	0
Barcarolle from the Fourth Concerto	4	0
Three diversions, Op. 17	6	0

Or, in separate numbers, No. 1, 2s.; No. 2, 2s.;

No. 3, 3s.

Twelve Melodies. Arranged by W. HUTCHINS CALLCOTT, in two books Each	6	0
---	---	---

ORGAN.

Barcarolle from the Fourth Concerto. Arranged by Dr. STEGGALL	4	0
Andante Cantabile from Op. 17. Arranged by Dr. STEGGALL	3	0
Andante Cantabile from Op. 17. Arranged by Dr. GARRETT	3	0

HARMONIUM.

Four Favourite Melodies. Arranged by W. HUTCHINS CALLCOTT	2	0
--	---	---

A MANUAL OF SINGING,FOR THE USE OF CHOIR TRAINERS & SCHOOLMASTERS, By RICHARD MANN.Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

This work offers to the clergy and other amateur choir trainers a systematic and simple course of instruction, by which they may teach their pupils to read music at sight, in a comparatively short time.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

FORTY-THIRD EDITION.

Price 1s. A specimen copy post free for 12 stamps.

THE COLLEGIATE AND SCHOOL SIGHT-SINGING MANUAL.

FOR CHOIRS.—The easiest system that can be obtained for training, improving, and learning to read music at sight.

FOR SCHOOLS.—Every requisite for learning Music, and reading at sight in a few lessons.

FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.—The exercises will be found invaluable, tending to produce musical effects seldom heard.

APPENDIX.

Containing Exercises, Solfeggi, Canons, Anthems, &c.

*Price One Shilling.*London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.;
Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

Third Edition, 2s. 6d. net.

(COMPANION WORK TO THE ABOVE.)

COLLEGIATE VOCAL TUTOR.

Containing Treatise on Voice and Vocal Art, with Anatomical Illustrations of the Vocal Instrument.

London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.;
Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

Eighth edition. Paper cover, 1s.; bound in cloth, 1s. 6d.

CATHEDRAL CHANT BOOK.

Containing nearly 200 Single and Double Chants; also the Gregorian Tones.

London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.;
Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

NEW EDITION OF

DR. BENNETT GILBERT'S POPULAR WORK SCHOOL HARMONY."From intervals to counterpoint."*

The Work is divided into 3 Parts, to suit the School Term, and concludes with a copious Examination Paper.

EVERY SUBJECT HAS ITS SPECIAL EXERCISES.

Price 1s. 6d. net.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.; and all Musicsellers.

NEW WORK FOR THE ORGAN.THE ORGAN

A THEORETICAL AND PRACTICAL TREATISE;

INTENDED TO ASSIST THE STUDENT IN ACQUIRING

A SOUND KNOWLEDGE OF THE INSTRUMENT AND
ITS PROPER MANIPULATION;

WITH A SERIES OF

ORIGINAL EXERCISES AND ILLUSTRATIVE
COMPOSITIONS

Written specially for this Work,

BY

FREDERIC ARCHER,Organist of the Alexandra Palace, Muswell Hill.

Price 10s. 6d.

LONDON:

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, BERNERS STREET (W.)
AND 80 & 81, QUEEN STREET, CHEAPSIDE (E.C.)

NEW YORK: J. L. PETERS, 843, BROADWAY.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S CHORAL SONGS,
as sung by Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir, the Birmingham Festival Choral Society, &c.

No. 1. "THE SILENT LAND." Price 3d.

"Replete with melody. Some phrases are of remarkable beauty."—Musical Times.

No. 2. "THE BETTER LAND." Price 4d.

"Distinguished by beauty of melody and richness of harmony."—Birmingham Daily Gazette."Full of charming effects."—Birmingham Daily Post.

No. 3. "THE DAY IS DONE." Price 4d.

Composed expressly for Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

WILLIAM J. YOUNG'SPOPULAR PART-SONGS for S.A.T.B.

OCTAVO.

No. 1. I love the merry springtime	...	19th edition	...	2d.
2. Gaily thro' the greenwood	...	25th	"	2d.
3. Welcome, merry May	...	6th	"	2d.
4. The mountain maid	...	6th	"	2d.
5. Come o'er the mountain	...	8th	"	2d.
6. Hail, merry Christmas	...	14th	"	2d.
7. Songs of praise the angels sang	...	5th	"	3d.
8. Blow, ye balmy breezes, blow	...	6th	"	3d.
9. Fairy revels	...	8th	"	3d.
10. Oh, peaceful vale of rest	...	5th	"	1d.
11. The merry bird	...	5th	"	3d.
12. Come, let us be merry and gay	...	4th	"	3d.
13. Forest echoes	...	7th	"	3d.
14. Haste, ye merry elves	...	5th	"	3d.
15. The streamlet (with soprano solo)	...	2nd	"	3d.
16. Sunshine and shadow	...	2nd	"	2d.
17. Sunny rays (with soprano solo)	...	2nd	"	3d.
18. A happy new year...	...	2nd	"	3d.
19. The coming of spring	...	2nd	"	3d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W., or of the Composer, 6, Grove Terrace, Longsight, Manchester.SOUTHWELL SCHOOL SONGS. First series,
1s. 6d. By the Rev. R. F. SMITH Minor Canon of Southwell.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

The Queen.—"Fourteen" (sixteen) "capital little songs in a cheap handy form. Quite new and withal pretty and neatly written."The Schoolmaster.—"Easy, pleasing tunes, suitable to school use. The composer shows himself a true musician; each 'lay' has a separate tune, which is catching, appropriate, and quite in old ballad-song style."The Musical Times.—"The sympathetic and musician-like manner in which he has wedded them to melodies which cannot fail to please the young vocalists for whom they are expressly designed."

By the same Composer.

TE DEUM in F, 3d. ANTHEM (S.A.T.B.), "The Lord is nigh," 6d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Second Edition.—Reduced Prices.

CHORAL SONGS FOR SCHOOL & HOME

FORTY-TWO ORIGINAL SONGS

FOR

ONE, TWO, OR FOUR VOICES

COMPOSED BY ROBERT JACKSON.

Cloth, complete, 3s.; Parts I. and II., paper cover, 1s. each; Single Numbers, 1d. Specimen copy with list, 1d., and estimates may be had from the Composer, 23, Barker Street, Oldham.

From Concordia."This little book is designed for singing-classes in schools, and the simplicity, tunefulness, and attractiveness of the small compositions it contains eminently adapt it for such a purpose."

From the above Work, One Penny each.

PART-SONGS FOR CHRISTMAS.THE DEATH OF THE OLD YEAR.
THE SKATER'S SONG.
BE MERRY, ALL.RING OUT, WILD BELLS.
A SONG OF THE SEASON.
THE HOLLY.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

ENDYMION.

A PASTORAL CANTATA.

By VINCENT AMCOTTS AND E. ASPA.

Vocal score, 4s.; Chorus parts, 1s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Third Edition, enlarged. Small 4to. Price 2s. 6d. paper covers, 3s. 9d. cloth lettered.

ANGLICAN PSALTER CHANTS, Single and Double, edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. G. OUSELEY, Bart., etc., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK.

This work contains nearly 400 Chants; which are appropriated to "Venite exultemus Domino," the Daily and Proper Psalms, &c.; those for each Service occupying a separate page and affording several Series suitable to each daily portion of the Psalter, from which choice may be made. The Chants have been selected with especial reference to the position of the Recting note.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

Now ready. Small 4to. Price 1s. Vocal parts, 12mo, price 6d. each, 1st and 2nd Series bound together, cloth, 2s. 9d. Vocal parts 1st and 2nd series, bound together in limp cloth, 1s. 4d. each.

SECOND SERIES.

THE CANTICLES and HYMNS of the CHURCH, pointed for Chanting, and set to appropriate Anglican Chants, Single and Double; together with Responses to the Commandments, edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. G. OUSELEY, Bart., etc., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK. This work contains a selection of Double (besides additional Single) Chants; together with special settings of "Benedicite," and a collection of Kyrie Eleisons, old and new.

This pointing of the Canticles is authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

VENI, CREATOR SPIRITUS. Set to Music by

EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., &c.
For general or Festival use; for male voices and four-part Chorus, with Organ accompaniment, ad lib. Price 3d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE ANGLICAN CHORAL SERVICE BOOK.

Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper, 1s.; cloth, 2s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co. Oxford: Parker.

Seventh Edition.

THE ANGLICAN CHANT-BOOK, edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon.

In paper cover, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d. Large edition, cloth, 4s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

OUSELEY and MONK'S PSALTER and CANTICLES, pointed for Chanting. Second Edition. Authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York.

24mo, without chants, 9d.; with Proper Psalms, 1s.; Proper Psalms, separately, 3d.; small 4to, with chants, 4s.; each voice part, separately, 1s. 6d. Canticles, score, small 4to, 9d.; separate parts, 3d.; words only, 24mo, 1½d. Novello, Ewer and Co., and Parker and Co.

Preparing for the Press.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF WORDS OF ANTHEMS, new Edition, revised, corrected, and brought down to the present date.

Twelfth Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Price 5s. 6d., paper covers; 7s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation. Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Recting-note.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. Sr. J. B. JOULE.

(Large type), price 2s. 6d. This Psalter having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers. N.B.—A small Edition is in preparation.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIO CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Fourth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIO CHORI ANGLICANUM. Quarto, in cloth elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Fifth Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION.

Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. Sr. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

A MORNING SERVICE, Te Deum, Jubilate, and Kyrie, by the Rev. EDWARD YOUNG. Tenth edition, abbreviated for Parochial use. Organ and Choir copies, 4d. each.

"Melodious, vocal, and nicely harmonised—that is, without pretence or straining at effect; and they declaim the words devoutly and emphatically."—Musical Times.

"Good points, and tuneful passages."—Musical Standard.

"The intelligent, devoted, and devotional spirit in which every note seems to have been composed, furnishes one of the best guarantees for excellence."—English Churchman.

"All competent criticism will be found in accordance with the verdict of a high professional authority as to 'abundant proof of imagination, poetical conception, and musical feeling.'"—Christian Observer.

"The strain is devotional, and harmonies full, solemn, and massive. He fairly claims to have dug a channel for the devout utterance of the words."—Bristol Times.

Also,

VENITE, Organ or Choir Copies, 4d.
CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR, Organ or Choir Copies, 4d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

A MORNING, COMMUNION, and EVENING SERVICE. Set to music in an easy form. By C. LAWRENCE. Price 1s. 6d. octavo.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC BY ERNEST C. WINCHESTER.

Anthem, "I WILL GIVE THANKS." With Treble or Tenor Solo. 4d.

MORNING and EVENING SERVICES, in Chant Form.

Te Deum and Benedictus. 4d. Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis. 3d.

TEN OFFERTORY SENTENCES. 4d.

SIX KYRIES. 2d.

GREGORIAN ARRANGEMENTS.

Venite. 1d. Te Deum. 1½d. Benedictus. 1½d. Deus Misereatur. 1d.

HYMN TUNES, with Free Organ Accompaniment.

Onward, Christian Soldiers. 1d. Hark! hark, my soul. 1d.

London: F. Pitman, 20, Paternoster Row, E.C.; or of Ernest C. Winchester, 18, Wycliffe Grove, Lavender Hill, S.W.

Specimens and lists of rates for Choirs, &c., from the Composer.

CANTATE and DEUS, by R. TAYLOR. An easy Unison Service in F. Price 6d. To be had of Novello and Co., or of the Author, Brighton College.

Just Published, price 2s., 8vo.

TWELVE OFFERTORY SENTENCES, set to Music by F. W. HIRD. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now ready, 8vo, price Threepence.

THE APOSTLES' CREED, Set to Music (chiefly in Recitative) for Voices in Unison, with an Accompaniment for the Organ, by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Director of the Choir, York Minster.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

8vo, price Sixpence.

OFFERTORY SENTENCES COMPLETE, with Music in full for Organist and Choir. By HERBERT STEPHEN IRONS, late Organist of Southwell Minster.

One or more of these effective "Sentences" may be sung after the Offertory is said by the Priest, or at Matins or Evensong when the alms are collected.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CHURCH COMPOSITIONS by G. H. GREGORY, Mus. Bac., Oxon., suitable for choirs of moderate ability.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS on a Rouennais Theme, Price 4d. SIX KYRIES, price 2d.

Shortly to be published,

EVENING SERVICE (full cathedral), in E flat, and

WHITSUNTIDE ANTHEM, "God, Who as at this time."

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

PRECES, RESPONSES, and LITANY, Ferial and Festal. Edited by T. E. AYLWARD, Organist of Chichester Cathedral. Price 8d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

4TH BOOK NOW READY. Collection of KYRIES, &c. Original Compositions by Dr. F. Hiller, Guilman, G. A. and W. Macfarren, Sir G. J. Elvey, Tours, Salaman, Francesco Berger, E. G. Monk, J. Baptiste Calkin, Scotson Clark, Hamilton Clarke, &c. Books 1, 2, 3, 4, 1s. each. Separate Nos. (1 to 71), 1d.

SPOHR'S 24th PSALM, 8vo (2nd thousand), 9d.; folio, 4s. net.

London: Novello and Co. Sheffield: W. T. Freemantle, High Street.

Just Published.

THE "VENITE EXULTEMUS DOMINO."—Two Settings, in Chant form, with Organ Accompaniment. No. 1 in G. No. 2 in A. Price Twopence each. By E. BUNNETT, Mus. D.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TWO-PART SONGS. By the same Composer. "BEWARE." Price One Penny. "SPRING." Price Twopence.

To be had of the Composer, The Close, Norwich; or through Messrs. Novello and Co.

FIVE INTRODUCTORY VOLUNTARIES for the ORGAN. Composed by T. MEE PATTISON.

These Voluntaries, of medium difficulty, with Pedal Obligato, will be found eminently useful for the introduction of Divine Service, both as regards character and length. Price 3s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Price 2s. each Part.

THE SOLO STOP. A Series of Songs for the Organ, expressly arranged for Amateurs and Pupils. Part 1 contains four Songs (being Nos. 42, 43, 44, and 45 of Vol. I. of "The Village Organist"), arranged by Mrs. MOUNSEY BARTHOLOMEW, with easy work for left hand and foot. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

"THE VILLAGE ORGANIST."

N.B.—These popular volumes may now be had from the publishers for

FIVE SHILLINGS EACH.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Second Edition.

COMMUNION SERVICE

FOR

MEN'S VOICES ONLY,

By WALTER H. SANGSTER, Mus. Bac., OXON.

Price Two Shillings.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

JOHN M. W. YOUNG'S NEW ANTHEM.

THE RETURN OF ISRAEL TO PALESTINE, price 2s. 6d.; and "Luther's Hymn," arranged for voices in various ways, with an independent organ part, price 6d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., where his easy Festival Services and Anthems and the Lincoln Psalter may be had.

Now ready, Vocal Score, price 3s.

JONAH. A Sacred Cantata, by J. V. ROBERTS, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Choirmaster of the Parish Church, Halifax.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

P.S.—Full Orchestral Parts to be had of the Composer.

PSALM XXIII., for SOPRANO, TENOR, and CHORUS, by the Rev. ARTHUR SEWELL. Price 2s. WITH ACCOMPANIMENT FOR THE PIANOFORTE AND HARMONIUM (pp. 71).

"Taken as a whole, a Choral Society may go further and not find a better composition for execution than this work."—Graphic.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE LORD IS MY STRENGTH. 8vo size, 4d. GREAT IS THE LORD, 8vo size, 4d.

SING UNTO GOD, 8vo size, 4d.

By WILLIAM PATTEN.

Huddersfield: George Horsfall, Arcade.

"LET NOT YOUR HEART BE TROUBLED." Anthem for Whitsuntide, by REES, rearranged by C. SWAIN, 4d.

"THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD." Anthem, by C. SWAIN. 4d.

"Out of usual run—very nicely written."—Choir.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

One Shilling and Sixpence. 3rd Edition.

INGLIS BERVON'S 32 HYMN TUNES (Principal Measures), 7 Kyries, Chants for the Canticles, and Offertory Sentences. To be had of the Composer, Organist and Choirmaster of the Parish Church, Stafford.

THE NEW MONTHLY HYMNAL.—Part I. Price 4d. (post free 4½d.)

London: Novello, Ewer and Co. Manchester: Hime and Addison. Glasgow: Swan and Pentland. Liverpool: Hime and Son.

CHURCH ANTHEMS, &c.

EDITED BY HENRY ALLON, D.D.

Containing 115 Anthems for Congregational Use.

Crown 8vo, cloth	...	s. d.	Cheap Edition, limp cloth	...	s. d.
"	roan	3 0	"	stiff cloth	1 8

"Dr. Allon has done so much to promote an intelligent use of sacred music in divine worship that we gladly call attention to his last and, as we think, most wise effort in the same direction. Having issued in the 'Congregational Psalmist' a valuable series of hymn tunes, chants, kyries, &c., he has now published in a little pocket volume a collection of anthems intended for the use of the congregation, and not simply for the choir. The pieces, as a rule, require, in singing, a degree of musical culture somewhat greater than that required by chorales and chants, but they are on the whole within the reach of persons possessing a practical acquaintance with the art of sight-singing."—Choir.

New and Enlarged Editions, containing 117 Additional Tunes.

THE CONGREGATIONAL PSALMIST.

Edited by HENRY ALLON, D.D., and H. J. GAUNTLETT, Mus. Doc. Providing Tunes, Chants, and Anthems by the best Composers, Ancient and Modern. List of Editions on application.

London: Hodder and Stoughton, 27, Paternoster Row.

SIX SELECTED MOVEMENTS from MENDELSSOHN'S SONATAS for the ORGAN. Edited, fingered, and stop indications by JAMES LOWE. Complete, 3s. 6d. net; or singly. Nos. 1, 3, 4, 6, 9d. each net; Nos. 2 and 5, 1s. each net. London: Jefferys and Co., 67, Berners Street, W. Manchester: Hime and Addison, 3, Victoria Street.

TO be SOLD, the COPYRIGHT of a new SET OF WALTZES for PIANO, already published, and about to enter the Third Edition. Considered by the Press to be "strikingly original," "time admirable for dancing," "sure to become a general favourite," &c., &c. Intending purchasers can satisfy themselves by sending for a copy on approval. Address O. T. C., "The Musical Times" Office.

Re D'ALMAINE, Deceased

(LATE NEW BOND STREET AND SOHO SQUARE).

REALISING THE ESTATE

WITHOUT RESERVE.

At time of decease of late Proprietor there were in hand

780 PIANOFORTES

OF THESE

704 ARE STILL ON HAND

UNDER CAREFUL FINISH, AND ARE NOW OFFERED AT

UNDER THE USUAL COST PRICE

(See other column).

Sheet Music almost at the price of Waste Paper

AND EQUAL TO NEW

ALL FULL SIZE AND OF HIGHEST CLASS.

Various other Musical Property,

A NUMBER OF

HARMONIUMS, ORGANS, VIOLINS, &c., &c.

ON VIEW AND FOR SALE AT

5, FINSBURY PAVEMENT,

BY MOORGATE STREET STATION.

WONDERFUL MUSICAL CURVES

REPRESENTING

The beautiful vibration-forms of all the diatonic intervals within the octave, excepting 32:27, 45:32, and 64:45.

Also a large number of elegant Rhythmographic Novelties.

Prices from 1s. to 6s. per dozen, according to excellence.

EXPLANATORY NOTES GRATIS.

Address—JOSEPH GOOLD, 13, Mansfield Grove, Nottingham.

POPULAR PIANO PIECES.

EXCEEDINGLY LOW TERMS TO THE TRADE AND PROFESSION.

1. QUICK MARCH	...	S. REUBENS.
2. THE STREAMLET	...	Do.
3. LA CACHUCHA	...	Do.
4. FAIRY DANCE	...	Do.
5. THE GIPSY CHORUS (Weber)	...	OSCAR DE VILLE.
6. IL TROVATORE	...	CARL GERN.
7. DON JUAN	...	Do.
8. BRITANNIA	...	J. ATTWOOD TAYLOR.
9. SCOTIA	...	Do.
10. HIBERNIA	...	Do.
11. CAMBRIA	...	Do.
12. SOUND THE LOUD TIMBREL	...	E. WILLERT.
13. EVENING PRAYER	...	Do.
14. WEBER'S LAST WALTZ	...	FR. ROCHE.
15. THURINGIA	...	H. S. COWEN.
16. OBERON (facile edition)	...	A. DE WINTER.
17. MAY FLOWERS (facile edition)	...	Do.
18. THE BRIDE WALTZ	...	J. W. MARESTON
19. VALSE JOYEUSE	...	C. WEPPART.
20. HAYDN'S CELEBRATED ANDANTE, with Variations	...	A. DUPRE.

Accounts opened, and Parcels sent on approval, on receipt of satisfactory reference.

PATTISON & CO., Wholesale Music Publishers,

15, NORTH JOHN STREET, LIVERPOOL.

CHARLES SALAMAN'S NEW SONGS

ZULEIKA. Oriental Scena. Tenor or Soprano. 2s. net.
EVA TUAL. Irish Song, in F and A flat. 2s. net.
WHAT SHALL I SEND TO THEE, SWEET? Contralto or Baritone. 2s. net.

CHARLES SALAMAN'S ANCIENT LYRICS.

- π. HORACE'S ODE, "AD CHLOEN." Song. In Latin and English. 2s. net.
2. HORACE'S ODE, "DONEC GRATUS." Duet. In Latin and English. 2s. net.
3. ANACREON'S ODE, "PARA TEN SKIEN." } Duet. In Greek and English. 2s. net.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

REDUCED TO SIX SHILLINGS.

NATIONAL AIRS OF ALL COUNTRIES

WORDS BY

THOMAS MOORE

EDITED BY CHARLES W. GLOVER.

This Collection comprises English, Scotch, French, German, Italian, Spanish, Swedish, and many other National Airs; and includes the well-known Songs, "Oft in the stilly night," "Flow on, thou shining river," "Oh, come to me when daylight sets," "Hark! the vesper hymn is stealing," &c.

Quarto, cloth, gilt edges, Six Shillings.

An Edition, on large paper, handsomely bound, cloth, gilt edges, 10s. 6d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TEN TRIOS FOR FEMALE VOICES, composed by CARL REINECKE. (Op. 100.) Octavo, 1s. 6d.; or singly—

- No. 1. The Dreaming Lake, 2d.
2. Praise of Spring, 3d.
3. Of Oak thy mournful bier's prepared, 3d.
4. Sunbeams in Winter, 2d.
5. The Awakening of Morn, 3d.
6. The Winter hath not a blossom, 3d.
7. Thou that thyself with death hath striven, 2d.
8. The Evening Wind, 3d.
9. As in a field goodly fruit will grow, 3d.
10. The Elves, 3d.

SIX TRIOS FOR FEMALE VOICES, composed by FRANZ ABT. The Words translated by H. W. DULCKEN, Ph.D. Price 1s. octavo; or singly 2d. each.

- No. 1. Ave Maria.
2. The Wanderer's greeting.
3. Where deepest shadows hover.
4. Parting beam of daylight.
5. Once again the day hath flown.
6. Thou Heaven, blue and bright.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 and 81, Queen Street (E.C.)

Just Published.

SIX PART-SONGS

FOR FOUR AND FIVE VOICES, BY

JACQUES BLUMENTHAL.

Dedicated to Henry Leslie, Esq. Octavo, 2s.; or singly:—

- No. 1. Evening Hymn. S.A.T.B. ... 4d.
2. What care I how fair she be? T.T.B.B. ... 6d.
3. A Shadow. S.A.T.B.B. ... 4d.
4. Gather ye rosebuds. S.A.T.B. ... 6d.
5. The loyal Lover. S.A.T.B.B. ... 4d.
6. The Butterfly. S.A.T.B. ... 6d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

HUMOROUS GLEES.—Just published, "There was a little man." Composed by WARE. "Johnny Schmoker." Composed by RX. Post free, six stamps each. These are very amusing, and suitable for Schools and Penny Readings.

Published by J. F. Jones and Co., 44, Corporation Street, Manchester. London: C. Jeffreys, 67, Berners Street, W.

HENRY PURCELL, England's Greatest Musician.—ZOBEL'S FINE PORTRAIT is now ready. Price 5s. net. H. Fawcett, 14, King Street, Covent Garden.
N.B.—This is from the Last and Best Portrait, now in the possession of the Royal Society of Musicians.

ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S NEW SONGS and BALLADS.

Old and Grey. O. Barri. 3s.
Golden Sunshine. F. Abt. 3s.
The Skylark. H. F. Limpus. 3s.
Love Never Dies. A. S. Gatty. 4s.
The Sailor Boy. S. Adams. 4s.
Spring Morning. F. Abt. 3s.
The Knight's Shield. C. Pinsuti. 4s.
Still is the Night, in B flat and F. F. Abt. 3s. each.
Slumber Song. H. F. Limpus. 3s.
Fly Away, White Dove. O. Barri. 3s.

All post free at half-price in stamps.

FRANZ ABT'S NEW PART-SONGS. Issued this day. Words by Dr. CARPENTER. Post free for two stamps each, i.e., The Night is Peaceful, The Alpine Horn is Sounding, On the Mountain, and The Flowrets Close at Eve, My Love (serenade); also, Dear England (Diehl), and The Blacksmith (J. W. Cherry). Post free two stamps each.

NEW VOCAL DUETS, for Soprano and Contralto, each post free at Half-price:—

Harp of the Winds. Abt. 4s.	Sunset. Pinsuti. 4s.
Hark! the Goat-Bells Ringing. H. Smart. 4s.	Where I would be. Miss M. Lindsay. 4s.
The Time of Youth. Pinsuti. 4s.	Far Away. Miss M. Lindsay. 4s.
When the last Sunbeams are Dying. Rev. E. D. Jackson. 4s.	A Rose in Heaven. Abt. 4s.
Kathleen Aroon. Abt. 3s.	When Life is Brightest. Pinsuti. 4s.
Oh! Ye Tears. Abt. 3s.	The Twilight Hour is Come. H. Smart. 4s.
The Hills of Light. Abt. 4s.	Excelsior. Miss M. Lindsay. 4s.
Sunrise. Pinsuti. 4s.

Oh that We Two were Maying. Alfred Scott Gatty. 4s.

London: Sole Publishers, Robert Cocks and Co., New Burlington St.

POPULAR FOUR-PART SONGS BY GABRIEL DAVIS.

THE KNIGHT'S RETURN 2d.
GOD SAVE THE PRINCE 2d.
THE DISTANT SEA 2d.
TO THE WOODS 2d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Dedicated to the Members of the Dublin Glee and Madrigal Union.

THE CRUISKEEN LAWN. (Song of the Battle Eve.) Irish Air. Words by Thomas Moore. Arranged for S.A.T.B.B. by Sir R. P. STEWART, Mus. D. Price Threepence.

THE WINE-CUP IS CIRCLING IN ALMHIN'S HALL. Irish Air. Words by Thomas Moore. Arranged for S.A.T.B.B. by Sir R. P. STEWART, Mus. D. Price Threepence.

THE BELLS OF ST. MICHAEL'S TOWER. The subject from Knyvett's Glee for three Voices, re-written for S.A.T.B.B., with an Introduction, by Sir R. P. STEWART, Mus. D. Price Fourpence.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just published,

NEW COMPOSITIONS for the PIANOFORTE.

By OLIVER A. KING.

Légende 3s.
Impromptu Caprice 3s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published

FOR THE PIANOFORTE.

"Valse Caprice" 3s.
"GAVOTTE" (decidedly pretty) 3s.
"Valse Brillante" 4s.

Composed by ALFRED J. DYE.

Specially adapted for teaching, being carefully fingered throughout.

Post free, half-price.

London: Simpson and Co., 33, Argyll Street, W.

MOZART'S FIRST MASS, arranged for Piano Solo by VINCENT NOVELLO. Folio. 2s. 6d.

MOZART'S SECOND MASS, arranged for Piano Solo by VINCENT NOVELLO. Folio. 3s.

MOZART'S SEVENTH MASS, arranged for Piano Solo by VINCENT NOVELLO. Folio. 3s.

MOZART'S TWELFTH MASS, arranged for Piano Solo by VINCENT NOVELLO. Folio. 3s.

MOZART'S REQUIEM MASS, arranged for Piano Solo by J. PITTMAN. Folio. 3s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

MOZART'S SONATAS

(NEW AND COMPLETE EDITION)

EDITED AND FINGERED BY

AGNES ZIMMERMANN.

In One Volume, Folio, handsomely bound in cloth,
gilt edges, price Eighteen Shillings;

OR, SINGLY—

No.		s.	d.
1.	C major	4	0
2.	F major	4	0
3.	B \flat major	4	0
4.	E \flat major	3	0
5.	G major	4	0
6.	D major	6	0
7.	C major	5	0
8.	A minor	5	0
9.	D major	5	0
10.	C major	4	0
11.	A major	4	0
12.	F major	5	0
13.	B \flat major	5	0
14.	C minor (Fantasia)	3	0
14A.	C minor (Sonata)	5	0
15.	F major	6	0
16.	C major	4	0
17.	F major	4	0
18.	B \flat major	5	0
19.	D major	5	0
20.	B \flat major	5	0

OCTAVO EDITION IN PREPARATION.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

JUST PUBLISHED,

PIANOFORTE COMPOSITIONS

BY LEFEBURE-WELY.

TITANIA. Fantasie de Concert, pour Piano. Solo, 4s.; Duet, 4s.
HOP. Caprice Brilliant pour Piano. Op. 186. Solo, 5s.; Duet, 5s.
SIX ROMANCES SANS PAROLES, pour Piano. Op. 160. 3s. each.
No. 1. La Sesia (Italie). Réverie.
2. La Wartha (Allemagne). Mélodie.
3. La Neva (Russie). Caprice.
4. La Guadiana (Espagne). Sérénade.
5. La Lys (France). Réverie.
6. La Dyle (Belgique). Berceuse.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, &c.

OCTAVO EDITIONS OF CHORUS PARTS

To the following Oratorios are published, with the Music and Text, in very large type.

	s.	d.
HANDEL'S MESSIAH each	0	8
" JUDAS MACCABÆUS	0	8
" ISRAEL IN EGYPT	1	0
" SAMSON	0	8
HAYDN'S CREATION	0	6
MENDELSSOHN'S ELIJAH	1	6
" ST. PAUL	1	0
" &c., &c.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

MUSICAL DEGREES.—ALL SHOULD READ THE

SILENCE EXPLAINED, by Dr. FOWLE, as to the attack made on him in this journal. Price 3d. Dr. Fowle, 20, Paternoster Row, London, E.C. "The English Graduate who Snubbed the Foreign One," 2d.

DR. FOWLE (on whose behalf nearly 2000 persons have presented a Petition for a Civil Service Pension) is now resident in London, and may be consulted on all points relating to the REVISION, PRINTING, and PUBLISHING of Musical and Literary Compositions, Selection of Instruments, and all Music for Country Choirs, which has been his special study for nearly 20 years.
20, Paternoster Row, London, E.C. The popular "Organist's March," second edition, 1s. 6d.; 9d. post free.

NOVELLO'S
TONIC SOL-FA SERIES.

No.		s.	d.
1.	O taste and see
2.	The Lord is my Shepherd
3.	Judge me, O God (Psalm xliii.)
4.	Ye nations, offer to the Lord (Hymn of Praise)
5.	I waited for the Lord (Hymn of Praise)
6.	The Lord be a Lamp (St. Peter)
7.	O who will o'er the downs
8.	Fairy Song
9.	The Cuckoo sings in the Poplar Tree
10.	The dream of home
11.	Blow, blow, thou winter wind...
12.	The Owl
13.	Sing Lullaby
14.	The Sands of Dee...
15.	Summer Morning...
16.	Great is the Lord...
17.	Blessed is the man
18.	Te Deum Laudamus in F
19.	O come let us worship
20.	Blessed be the God and Father
21.	Hosanna to the Son of David
22.	O how amiable
23.	O give thanks
24.	Praise the Lord
25.	Rejoice greatly
26.	If we believe that Jesus died
27.	I will magnify Thee
28.	O give thanks
29.	Stand up and bless the Lord
30.	Why rage fiercely the heathen...
31.	What are these that are arrayed
32.	O love the Lord
33.	The Wreath
34.	Daylight is fading...
35.	Come away, Death
36.	When icicles hang
37.	Harvest song
38.	More life
39.	Ragged and torn
40.	Hail, bright abode (Tannhäuser)
41.	Faithful and True (Lohengrin)
42.	Yet doth the Lord, and Cast thy burden (Elijah)
43.	Blessed are the men (Elijah)
44.	Baal, we cry to thee (Elijah)
45.	Thanks be to God (Elijah)
46.	Be not afraid (Elijah)
47.	Lift thine eyes, He watching over Israel, and O rest in the Lord (Elijah)
48.	He that shall endure (Elijah)
49.	Behold, God the Lord (Elijah)
50.	Holy, Holy is God the Lord (Elijah)
51.	But the Lord from the North, and O come every one (Elijah)
52.	And then shall your light (Elijah)
53.	All men, all things, and Praise thou the Lord (Lobgesang)
54.	All ye that cried (Lobgesang)
55.	The night is departing (Lobgesang)
56.	Let all men praise (Lobgesang)
57.	Heaven and the Earth display (Athalie)
58.	Promised joys, and Hearts feel that love thee (Athalie)
59.	Ave Maria [Female Voices] and A Vintage Song [Male Voices] (Loreley)
60.	Take, O take those lips away
61.	O mistress mine
62.	Hark! hark! the Lark
63.	Sigh no more, ladies
64.	Tell me where is fancy bred
65.	Chorus of Shepherds, "Forth to the meadows"
66.	Lord, let me know mine end
67.	We give Thee thanks, O Lord...
68.	In Christ dwelleth
69.	Lift up thine eyes...
70.	Glory be to God
71.	I was glad when they said unto me
72.	The Lord is my shepherd
73.	The morning stars sang together
74.	God said, Behold, I have given you every herb, O God, Thou art worthy
75.	In tears of grief (The Passion—S. Matthew) 76.

(To be continued.)

ELIJAH	MENDELSSOHN	1	6
HEAR MY PRAYER	MENDELSSOHN	0	3
HYMN OF PRAISE (Lobgesang)	MENDELSSOHN	1	0
ATHALIE	MENDELSSOHN	1	0
LORELEY	MENDELSSOHN	0	6
LAUDA SION, "Praise Jehovah"	MENDELSSOHN	0	9
CHRISTUS	MENDELSSOHN	0	6

(To be continued.)

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW CANTATA FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES, DRAWING-ROOM ENTERTAINMENTS, PENNY READINGS, ETC., ETC.

THE JACKDAW OF RHEIMS.

Words from the "Ingoldsby Legends." Music by GEORGE FOX. Performed for the first time on Thursday evening, June 29, at St. George's Hall, with enormous success. Price 2s. 6d. net. Harmonium Accompaniment, 1s. The Band Parts may be hired on very reasonable terms.

"Ingoldsby's humorous poem has been 'set to music' in appropriate style by Mr. Fox, and in this new form will obtain additional admirers. The music is dramatic, tuneful, and spirited, showing not only a fine appreciation of the wit of the story, but also a capability of giving musical expression to it. The solos and choruses are characteristic and good; and the cantata will be found useful both in the concert-room and private parties in affording pleasing entertainment."—News of the World.

"The Jackdaw of Rheims," a cantata, music composed by George Fox. Choral societies, who begin now to complain that they 'have used up everything,' will find an agreeable novelty in this spirited little work by Mr. Fox. The words are, of course, those well-known verses in the 'Ingoldsby Legends,' which have been recited ad nauseam at penny readings and 'conversazioni.' There are frequent choruses of a lively character, interspersed by solos, chiefly for a bass or baritone voice. Mr. Fox has fully entered into the humour of the poem, and here and there are little musical touches calculated to 'bring down the house'—as, for instance, the irresistible imitation of one of the Gregorian tones upon the words, 'At matins and vespers he never was out.' We cannot pass over the 'Dead March' of the poor jackdaw without a word of special commendation. Notwithstanding the 'lightness' of this composition it gives a strong indication of Mr. Fox's ability to write in a higher strain."—Musical Standard.

"Mr. Fox has made a decided success in a task of no slight difficulty, and his musical setting of the 'Jackdaw of Rheims' is marked by strong originality, great resources of expression, and a nice discrimination between comedy and vulgarity."—Illustrated Sporting and Dramatic News.

"There is much liveliness of treatment and comic spirit throughout the work."—Illustrated London News.

"The Jackdaw of Rheims," set to very charming music by Mr. George Fox."—Figaro.

A NEW WORK FOR AMATEUR ORGANISTS.

FAVOURITE SONGS from the ORATORIOS, arranged for the ORGAN (with Pedal Obbligato), chiefly for the use of Amateurs, by GEORGE R. GRIFFITHS.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS EACH; POST FREE, 1s. 6d.

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1. HE SHALL FEED HIS FLOCK. Handel. | 9. WHAT THOUGH I TRACE; and PIOUS ORGIES. } Handel. |
| 2. HE WAS DESPISED. do. | 10. THY REBUKE HATH BROKEN HIS HEART; and BEHOLD AND SEE. } do. |
| 3. ANGELS, EVER BRIGHT AND FAIR. do. | 11. HE WAS CUT OFF; and BUT THOU DIDST NOT LEAVE HIS SOUL IN HELL. } do. |
| 4. HOW BEAUTIFUL ARE THE FEET. do. | 12. I KNOW THAT MY REDEEMER LIVETH. do. |
| 5. IF GOD BE FOR US. do. | |
| 6. TYRANNIC LOVE. do. | |
| 7. LORD, REMEMBER DAVID; and HOLY, HOLY. Handel. | |
| 8. WISE MEN FLATTERING. Handel. | |

To be continued.

The words being printed upon the top line will be found of great service to the performer in giving proper expression to the songs.

NEW WORK FOR SINGING CLASSES. CHAPPELL'S PENNY OPERATIC PART-SONGS.

For Soprano, Alto, Tenor, and Bass.

The present collection of Part-Songs is entirely new, being selected and adapted from the most striking and popular Choruses in the Favourite Foreign Operas. The Arrangement is purely Vocal, such Choruses only being chosen as can be sung without the aid of an Instrumental Accompaniment. The Words have been expressly written for the work, and the harmonies arranged in four parts, as likely to be most useful in small classes.

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. Hymn of the Fisherman's Children | Adapted to a Melody from Herold's "ZAMPA." |
| 2. Fays and Elves (In mia fe) | From Flotow's "MARTA." |
| 3. Spring's Bright Glances (In Elvesia non v'ha) | From Bellini's "LA SONNAMBULA." |
| 4. From Yonder Vale and Hill (D'immenso giubilo) | From Donizetti's "LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR." |
| 5. Here we Rest (Qui la selva) | From Bellini's "LA SONNAMBULA." |
| 6. Onward to Battle (Squilli echeggi) | From Verdi's "TROVATORE." |
| 7. Rataplan (Rataplan) | From Donizetti's "LA FIGLIA DEL REGGIMENTO." |
| 8. The Gipsy's Star (Vedi! le fosche) | From Verdi's "IL TROVATORE." |
| 9. War Song of the Druids (Dell'aura tua profetica) | From Bellini's "NORMA." |
| 10. In Mercy, hear us! (Cielo clemente) | From Donizetti's "LA FIGLIA DEL REGGIMENTO." |
| 11. Come to the Fair! (Accorrete, giovinette) | From Flotow's "MARTA." |
| 12. Friendship (Per te d'immenso giubilo) | From Donizetti's "LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR." |
| 13. Away, the Morning freshly breaking (The Chorus of Fishermen) | From Auber's "MASANIELLO." |
| 14. Pretty Village Maiden (Peasants' Serenade Chorus) | From Gounod's "FAUST." |
| 15. The soft Winds around us (The Gipsy Chorus) | From Weber's "PRECIOUSA." |
| 16. See how lightly on the blue sea (Senti la danza invitaci) | From Donizetti's "LUCREZIA BORGIA." |
| 17. See the Moonlight Beam (Non fav Motto) | |
| 18. On yonder rocks reclining | From Auber's "FRA DIAVOLO." |
| 19. Happy and light | From Balfe's "BOHEMIAN GIRL." |
| 20. Come, come away (Ah! que de moins) | From Donizetti's "LA FAVORITA." |
| 21. Hymen's torch (Il destin) | From Meyerbeer's "LES HUGUENOTS." |
| 22. Come on, Comrade (The Celebrated Chorus of Old Men) | From Gounod's "FAUST." |
| 23. 'Gainst the Powers of Evil (The Chorale of the Cross) | |
| 24. O Balmy night (Com è gentil) | From Donizetti's "DON PASQUALE." |
| 25. Haste o'er the hills (Introductory Chorus) | From Rossini's "GUGLIELMO TELL." |
| 26. Come, sing the Song (Opening Chorus) | From Meyerbeer's "ROBERT LE DIABLE." |
| 27. With fair Ceres (The March Chorus) | From Bellini's "NORMA." |
| 28. The Tuneful Song of Robin's Horn (Tyrollese Chorus) | From Rossini's "GUGLIELMO TELL." |
| 29. The Chorus of Huntsmen | From Weber's "DER FREISCHUTZ." |
| 30. Hark! the distant hills (Hunting Chorus) | From Flotow's "MARTA." |
| 31. Hence! away with care | From Meyerbeer's "GLI UGONOTTI." |
| 32. Hail to the Bride | From Wagner's "LOHENGRIN." |
| 33. Hark! music stealing! (subject from Overture) | From Rossini's "SEMIRAMIDE." |
| 34. A bridal wreath we twined (Chorus of Bridesmaids) | From Weber's "DER FREISCHUTZ." |
| 35. Behold, how brightly breaks the morning! (The Barcarole) | From Auber's "MASANIELLO." |
| 36. From hill to hill resounding (subject from Overture) | From Auber's "FRA DIAVOLO." |

Postage free, 1½d. each; or 3 for 3½d.
(To be continued.)

ANTOINE COURTOIS' CORNETS,

Adopted by LEVY, REYNOLDS, and all the principal Cornet Players in Great Britain, United States, France, and Russia.
SOLE AGENT: S. ARTHUR CHAPPELL, 52, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON.

CHAPPELL & CO., 50, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON.

ORCHESTRAL PARTS.

REDUCTION IN PRICE.

Since the reduction in the price of music in 1849, by Mr. F. A. Novello, Choral Societies have so rapidly grown up and developed that works requiring full orchestral accompaniments are now, rather as a rule than an exception, included in their public performances. Hitherto, however, the price of band parts has been so high that, instead of purchasing, it has been the custom to hire them whenever a composition demanding such aid has been given. In order to obviate the necessity of this, Messrs. Novello, Ewer & Co. have decided that in future all Orchestral Parts shall be marked at the uniform rate of

SIXPENCE PER SHEET,

thus enabling Institutions to form a permanent library for the orchestra, as well as for the choir, at a small additional outlay.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

“By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast-tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly-nourished frame.”—The Civil Service Gazette.

“MANUFACTURE OF COCOA.—We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Epps and Co., manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Euston Road, London.”—See Article in Cassell's Household Guide.

MADE SIMPLY WITH BOILING WATER OR MILK.

SOLD IN PACKETS (TINS FOR ABROAD), LABELLED

JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists,
48, THREADNEEDLE STREET, AND 170, PICCADILLY.

WORKS: EUSTON ROAD AND CAMDEN TOWN, LONDON.

Makers of EPPS'S GLYCERINE JUJUBES, for Throat Irritation.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

No

411

Price
Three Pence

(STEINWAY HALL, NEW YORK).

It is pretty well known that the SUPREME POSITION among the Pianofortes of the world belongs to the STEINWAY PIANOFORTE, whatever test of excellence or measure of comparative values may be applied. But it should also be understood that it is simply impossible for any one to form an adequate conception of the artistic, scientific, and structural perfection to which the modern Pianoforte has attained without hearing and seeing the Steinway Instruments.

It should, moreover, be noticed that the Steinway Instruments are not merely the GREATEST PIANOFORTES IN THE WORLD, but are also the sources of every scientific improvement introduced into European Pianofortes within the past quarter of a century. Every maker without exception, whether in Europe or America, whose Pianofortes display any indications of progress within the period indicated has derived them from the Steinway Instruments; and, conversely, every maker who has not empirically copied the Steinway Pianofortes has made no important improvement in his instruments, but remains the mere reproducer of the imperfect types of pianoforte construction belonging to a past generation.

It may also be mentioned that the STEINWAY PIANOFORTES have been supplied to almost every Royal Family in Europe, from the Imperial and Grand Ducal Palaces at St. Petersburg to the Vatican; have received the eulogium of almost every contemporary Pianist, Composer, and other Musician of world-wide fame; the academic honours of the principal Art and Science corporations of Europe—Paris, Berlin, Stockholm, &c.; the eulogies of the greater authorities in the science of acoustics, such as Helmholtz and Lissajous; the highest awards of the four representative International Exhibitions—London (1862), Paris (1867), Vienna (1873), and Philadelphia (1876); and enjoy both the widest distribution and the largest annual sale of any pianofortes throughout the world.

TYPICAL EXTRACTS.

"Your unrivalled grand pianos are certainly the most perfect instruments I have met with, especially your latest achievement, the Centennial Grand Piano. Their volume of tone is simply marvellous, and at the same time of truly musical and poetic quality, which never changes its noble character under either the most delicate or the most powerful touch; with an action of the most unerring precision, power, elasticity, and unequalled durability under the severest trials."—Madame Arabella Goddard.

"Their tone is marvellously grand, of exquisite poetic and sympathetic quality, which was to me a perfect revelation when trying the Steinway Piano for the first time; and it is just this thoroughly musical quality of tone, invariably characterising your pianos, which grows both upon hearer and player, that a cultivated musical ear will prefer the tone of your pianos to all others. The touch is simply perfect—elastic, pliable, and promptly responding to all and every demand made by the pianist."—Miss Marie Krebs.

CENTRAL DEPÔT FOR GREAT BRITAIN:

28, BAKER STREET, PORTMAN SQUARE, LONDON, W.

ARTHUR ALLISON & CO.,
PIANOFORTE & HARMONIUM MANUFACTURERS,
110, WARDOUR STREET, W.

Arthur Allison & Co's Pianettes	-	-	-	From 27 Gs. upwards.
"	"	Pianos	-	-	" 35 " "
<hr/>
Arthur Allison & Co's Broad Reed Organs	-			From 8 Gs. upwards.
"	"	Harmoniums	-	-	" £10 upwards.
"	"	Anglo-American Organs			" 10 Gs. upwards.
"	"	Pedal Harmoniums, with One, Two, and			Three Manuals.

ARTHUR ALLISON & CO., SOLE LONDON AGENTS FOR DAWES & RAMSDEN'S PATENT MELODY & PEDAL-SUBSTITUTE ORGANS, FROM 25 GUINEAS.

JOHN PARK'S SONGS, with Introductory Notice by PRINCIPAL SHAIRP, LL.D
64 Songs, in One Volume, One Guinea.

Illustrated Price List on application to 110, Wardour Street.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

The Music Pages only are stereotyped; those persons who would possess the Musical Articles, Notices, Advertisements, &c., can only ensure doing so by taking the work as it appears.

No. 411.—Vol. 18.

Registered for transmission abroad.

MAY 1, 1877.

Price 3d.; Post-free, 4d.

Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 4s

TWO TREBLE BOYS WANTED for the surpliced choir of St. James's, Clapham Park; salary £5 to £10, with good musical education. Also two ALTOS and two BASSES; salary £10. Apply to the Organist, at the Church, on Wednesday or Friday evenings, at nine p.m.

WANTED, BOYS' VOICES, Sopranos and Alto. Liberal stipend, according to merit. Apply at St. Mary-at-Hill Church, Eastcheap, City, on Sundays or Thursdays, about 8.30 p.m.

WANTED, immediately, for the Choir of S. John's, Torquay, a SOLO BOY. He will receive a thorough musical education, a yearly stipend (according to ability), and will be boarded and lodged in the Organist's house. Address, Organist, S. John's, Torquay.

LINCOLN CATHEDRAL.—WANTED, an ALTO SINGER. He must be a communicant of the Church of England, not above 30 years of age, and conversant with Cathedral Music. Salary £80. The usual duties. Apply, with testimonials as to voice and character, to the Rev. the Precentor, Lincoln.

ALTO WANTED, for a Catholic Church. Apply by letter to Mr. Cassidy, St. Joseph's Retreat, Highgate.

CITY CHURCH CHOIR.—There is a VACANCY for a TENOR VOICE in the Choir of St. Alphege, London Wall. The duties comprise two services on Sunday and a rehearsal on Thursday evening. Service full choral. Salary £10 per annum. Candidates must be well up in Church music, and be able to read fairly at sight. Address, with testimonials or references, Organist, care of Messrs. Knight and Co., 3, Abchurch Lane, E.C.

TENOR WANTED in City Church (choir surpliced). Salary £8. Apply A. K., 49, Lavender Grove, Dalston, E.

RIPON CATHEDRAL.—There will shortly be a VACANCY for a TENOR VOICE. One fully qualified to take the solo and verse parts in the daily services required. Stipend £85 per annum. Applications with testimonials to be sent without delay to J. F. A. Coppin, Esq., Chapter Clerk, Ripon, from whom any further particulars may be obtained.

HEREFORD CATHEDRAL.—ASSISTANT VICAR CHORAL WANTED (clerical or lay), with a strong Tenor voice; stipend, £100. Apply to Messrs. Knight and Underwood, Chapter Clerk's Office, Castle Street, Hereford.

TENOR WANTED for a Church in the south-west district. Salary, £12 to £15. Also ALTO, TENOR, and BASS, unpaid. Address, "Organist," care of Messrs. Ashdown and Parry, Hanover Square.

A TENOR WANTED, for Christ Church, Mayfair. Salary, £15. Also boys' voices. Maximum salary, £10. Apply to Mr. R. Stokoe, F.C.O., at the Church, Down Street, Piccadilly; Tuesday at 9, Wednesday after 8.

ALTO, TENOR, and BASS SOLOIST, and CHOIRMEN WANTED for voluntary surpliced choir of St. James's, Hampstead Road. Cathedral service. Write, F. Fountaine, 3, Mornington Street, Hampstead Road.

BASSES WANTED for Christ Church, Blackfriars Road. Salary, £12. Choral Services, with Anthems. Apply (bringing a solo) to Ernest Winchester, Choirmaster, at the Church, on any Monday evening at 8.

BASS WANTED, for a Church in Kensington. Two services on Sundays and four chief Holy Days; one weekly rehearsal. Good reader indispensable. Salary £10 10s. Apply "Organist," 163, Piccadilly, W.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH, LYDNEY.—WANTED, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER for the above Church. Salary 40 guineas per annum. He must be a good choir-teacher, and will be expected to attend all Sunday services, one week-day service, and all Holy Days, and to train the choir once, at least, in the week. Unexceptionable references as to moral character and capabilities indispensable. Apply to the Vicar, Lydney, Gloucestershire.

WANTED, immediately, an ORGANIST for the Parish Church of Tetbury, Gloucestershire. Salary £40. Apply to the Churchwardens.

WANTED, a CHOIRMASTER for St. James's Church, Clapton. Salary, 20 guineas. Address, the Rev. the Vicar of St. James's, Clapton, Kenninghall Hall Road, E.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO., General Printers. Books, Newspapers, Illustrated Catalogues, Circulars, &c.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO., Typographical Music Printers. Hymnals, Books for Church Festivals, &c.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO., Lithographic Music Printers. Illustrated Titles, Engraving, &c.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO., Colour Printers. Show Cards, Labels, Almanacks, &c.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO., Lithographic Printers. Maps, Plans, Circulars, &c.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO. are prepared to forward estimates for the above or any other variety of printing. Works—69 & 70, Dean-street, Soho, W.

WANTED, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, for S. James the Great, Devonport. Must be a communicant. Salary £40 per annum. Apply, inclosing testimonials, to the Vicar.

ORGANIST WANTED, for All Saints Church, Belvedere. Services plain. Duties confined to Sundays and week-day practising with the choir. Salary £40. Apply to A. P. B., Heathlands, Belvedere, Kent.

TO ORGANISTS.—An ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for St. John's Church, Yeovil. The office is now vacant. Salary £50 per annum. Applications and testimonials to be sent, before May 10th, to Mr. F. W. Raymonds, Ilex House, Yeovil.

WANTED, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER for St. John's Church, Selkirk, N.B. Salary, £50 per annum. Apply, with references and testimonials, to Rev. E. Lane, D.C.L., Broomhill, Selkirk, N.B.

ORGANIST WANTED, for Oakham Church, Rutland. Duties: Three services on Sunday, one or two on Festivals, and one each Thursday evening, and training of the choir. Beautiful organ (Brindley and Foster's), with three manuals and full pedal scale. Salary, to a thoroughly efficient choirmaster and organist, £40 (about). No music-master resident in the town. Applications, with references and testimonials of ability and character, to be made not later than the end of April, to the Vicar, Oakham.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—A Professional Gentleman requires a RE-ENGAGEMENT as above. Address, H. J. Dean, 2, Blomfield Street, Finsbury, E.C.

RE-ENGAGEMENT desired (in or near London), by an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER of several years experience. Communicant. Excellent testimonials and references Good Organ and Choral Service preferred. Is a pupil of Dr. G. A. Macfarren, and during the last eighteen months has been in Berlin studying the higher branches of composition under Prof. Kiel. Address, Organist, care of Novello, Ewer and Co.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (late Assistant-Organist of Holy Trinity Church, Marylebone) wishes a RE-ENGAGEMENT. Good testimonials. Address, C. H., 26, Gilbert Street, Duke Street, W.

WANTED, an ENGAGEMENT as ORGANIST, MUSIC and CHOIR MASTER in a high-class School or College. Address, M. B., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST.—A Lady, first-rate Organist and Choir Trainer, SEEKS ENGAGEMENT in or within ten miles of London. Willing to give her services on trial. Good references. Address, Rev. M. A., Messrs. Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, a SITUATION as ORGANIST, with something to fill up spare time. Good musician and singer. Address, A. B. C., Post Office, Hitchin, Herts.

ORGANIST.—A Lady, thoroughly qualified, DESIRES a RE-ENGAGEMENT. Excellent testimonials. Address, Organist, 2, Radnor Street King's Road, Chelsea, London, S.W.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS AMY EMPALL (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 17, Cliffe Terrace, Bradford.

MISS ARTHUR (Soprano)

(Formerly Butterley House, Leeds).

For Oratorios and Concerts, address 22, Oak Villas, Watson Road, Broomhill, Sheffield.

MISS FLORENCE CLYDE (Soprano).

For Opera, Oratorio, and Concerts, 24, Waltherton Road, W.

MRS. WARREN (Soprano).

Of Mr. C. Hallé's Concerts. For Oratorio or other Concerts, address 150, Radnor Street, Hulme, Manchester.
Lessons in Singing. References—C. Hallé, Esq., and E. Hecht, Esq.

MRS. ALFRED J. SUTTON (Soprano)

Is open to engagements for Concerts and Oratorios.
54, Duchess Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

MISS M. B. CRICHTON (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 2, Hallfield Place, Bradford.

MISS RUTH HARLOW (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address Mr. E. Hermann, Athenæum, Manchester.

MISS LOUISA BOWMONT (Contralto)

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address 51, Mercer Street, Embden Street, Hulme.

MISS EMILY EMPALL (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 16, High Street, Halifax.

MRS. HAMILTON ROE (Contralto)

(Pupil of Signor Garcia) is open to engagements for Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 38, Whitehead's Grove, Chelsea.

JAMES SEARLE (Tenor).

321, Liverpool Road, N.

MR. C. A. WHITE (Tenor)

(Of the Royal Academy of Music).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 39, St. Thomas's Road, South Hackney, or to Mr. Carte, Craig's Court, Charing Cross.

MR. WELBYE WALLACE (Tenor)

(Of the Crystal Palace, and Gentlemen's Concerts, Manchester, &c. &c.), having returned from abroad, is free to accept engagements for Concerts, Opera, or Oratorio. All communications to be addressed (care of) Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

MR. VERNEY BINNS (Tenor)

(Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Sig. Ciro Pinsuti).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 6, New Bond Street, Halifax.

MR. DUNCAN FINLAY (Tenor).

Opera, Oratorio, and Concert Party, 24, Waltherton Road, W.

MR. GREENHILL (Tenor).

For Concerts, Pupils, &c., 7, Alma Square, St. John's Wood.

MR. J. B. BALFOUR (Baritone).

For Oratorios, Concerts, and Lessons, 28, Brunswick Terrace, Camberwell, S.E.

S. HOUSTON-FLINT (Bass).

For Oratorios, and other engagements, address The Cathedral, Hereford.

MR. ADOLPHUS PHILLIPS (Basso).

For Oratorios, &c., address Cathedral, Lincoln.

MR. HENRY POPE (Basso).

9, Malden Crescent, N.W.

MR. A. MCCALL (Bass).

For Oratorios and Concerts, address Minster, York.

MR. RICKARD (Bass)

Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Signor Ciro Pinsuti).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address King Cross, Halifax, Yorkshire.

MR. THORNTON WOOD (Bass)

(Of the Royal Albert Hall Concerts). For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 2, Hallfield Place, Bradford, Yorkshire.

MR. WILLIAM W. MEADOWS (Pianist).

Address 39, Thurlow Place, South Kensington, S.W.

ALBERT E. BISHOP

(Organ, Harmony, and Counterpoint).
Address 26, Wilson Street, E.C.

MR. J. SHARPE (Oboe Player).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address 235, Lidgett Hill, Pudsey, nr. Leeds.
Bandmasters and others supplied with Triebert's and Morton's celebrated Oboes. Best Oboe Reeds, 2s. each; Staples Recaned, 1s. each.

ORGANIST DESIRES RE-ENGAGEMENT.—Good references. Salary required. H. M. W., 397, Bethnal Green Road.

ORGANIST AND CHOIRMASTER.—An experienced Organist and late Choirmaster of a large Deanery DESIRES a RE-ENGAGEMENT; either Anglican or Gregorian; in or near London preferred. Address, 65, Netherwood Street, Kilburn Rise, N.W.

TO ORGANISTS, CLERGYMEN, &c.—A Gentleman is OPEN to ENGAGEMENTS as DEPUTY. Town or Country. Organist, care of Wensley and Wensley, 181, Fleet Street.

APPOINTMENT as ORGANIST or DEPUTY. WANTED, by a Young Man, who will study the singing of the congregation. Address, A. B., 149, Cheapside.

TO ORGANISTS.—An Amateur WISHES to DEPUTISE on Sundays. Address, J. W. R., 9, Lidlington Place, Oakley Square, N.W.

HOLIDAY ENGAGEMENT.—A German gentleman, organist, pianist, professor of singing and the French and German languages, DESIRES a remunerative ENGAGEMENT in England for July, August, and September. Address, C. O. H., Ennis, County Clare, Ireland.

ORGANIST.—A Lady DESIRES an ENGAGEMENT in or near Brighton or Worthing. Address, E. M., care of Mr. Loveday, South Street, Worthing, Sussex.

MR. WILLIAM ARTHUR BLAKELEY (Editor of the Canticle Chantbook, and composer of church music, &c.) will be at liberty next Midsummer to accept an ENGAGEMENT as ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER of a church within 30 miles of Sheffield. Fifteen years' experience. First-class testimonials and reference. Good organ and choral service preferred. Liberal salary a sine qua non. Address, Elgin Villa, Oxford Street, Sheffield.

THE ORGANIST of St. John's Church, Caterham, has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL. He will receive a thorough Musical Education, &c. For particulars apply to C. J. Tugwell, Organist, Caterham.

MRS. OSGOOD requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Oratorios and Miscellaneous Concerts may be addressed to Mr. N. Vert, 52, New Bond Street, W.

MDME. LIEBE KONSS (Mrs. NEWTON BAYLIS) and Mr. NEWTON BAYLIS request that all communications respecting engagements and lessons be addressed to 17, Grittleton Road, Westbourne Park, W.

MR. FARLEY SINKINS (Basso), having relinquished his duties at Christ Church Cathedral, is now open to accept engagements for Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Address, 9, Lyme Street, Camden Town, N.W., or 1, Summerland Buildings, Exeter.

MR. CHARLES JOSEPH FROST begs to inform his pupils and friends that he has REMOVED to 73, Farleigh Road, Stoke Newington, N. Red tram-cars direct from Moorgate Street. Nearest station, Rectory Road.

MUSICAL DEGREES AND EXAMINATIONS.—J. W. HINTON, Mus. Doc., M.A., Trinity College, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W., prepares candidates for Mus. B. or Mus. D., of Oxford, Cambridge, or Dublin, in all branches they may require. Dr. H. continues to revise or orchestrate for composers. Harmony and Counterpoint by post if required.

DR. SLOMAN gives LESSONS to CANDIDATES preparing for Musical Degrees. Grassendale, West Dulwich, E.

A GENTLEMAN is desirous of giving LESSONS by post in HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT. References from present pupils, if desired. Terms very moderate. Address Magister, Musical Times Office, 1, Berners Street, London, W.

MR. JOHN HILES, 41, Aldridge Road Villas, W. (Author of the "Catechism of Harmony, Thorough-bass, and Modulation," "Hiles' Short Voluntaries," "Catechism for the Piano-forte Student," and several other important musical works), gives Lessons in Harmony, &c., by post.

MR. HUMPHREY J. STARK, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., S.C.F., undertakes to prepare candidates for Musical Examinations, and to give Lessons in Harmony and Composition by post. 7, Thurlow Terrace, Norwood Road, S.E.

TO STUDENTS.—The Organist of Ripon Cathedral Teaches HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT by Correspondence. For terms, address, Edwin J. Crow, Mus. Bac., Cantab., Organist of St. John's.

REQUIRED, at once, by the Organist and Choirmaster of the Parish and Holy Trinity Churches, Rugby, a gentlemanly YOUTH who wishes to make music his profession. He will receive a thorough musical training, and every advantage for study. For further particulars apply to F. K. Stroh, 40, Albert Street, Rugby.

MR. E. W. TAYLOR, Mus. Bac., Oxon, &c., PREPARES CANDIDATES for Musical Examinations; also gives lessons in Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., by post. Talbot Road, Stafford.

TO MUSICAL PUBLISHERS, AMATEURS, &c.

A Musician of experience would make ARRANGEMENTS, from full score or otherwise, for following instruments, either solo or in concert:—Pianoforte, organ, harmonium, harp, concertina, and guitar. Compositions revised and harmonised. Accompaniments to songs, &c., arranged for any of the above instruments, obligato or ad libitum. Terms moderate. Apply to M. A. B., care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

AUSTRALIA.—Mr. R. S. SMYTHE, Australian Concert Manager, will be happy to arrange with first-class Vocalists. Address, 50, Hereford Road, Bayswater.

TRINITY COLLEGE HARMONY CLASS.—

The Harmony Professor holds an EVENING CLASS every Monday, at 7.30. Fee, one guinea per term. Students can be received at the half-term. Application can be made at the Class Rooms, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W., by letter, or personally between 6.30 and 8 on Monday evenings.

TRINITY COLLEGE COUNTERPOINT CLASS.

The Professor of Counterpoint and Fugue holds his EVENING CLASS every Monday, at Eight o'clock. Fee, one guinea per term. Students received at the half-term. Apply at the Class Rooms, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W., by letter, or personally between 6.30 and 8 on Mondays.

ORGAN LESSONS AND PRACTICE on a fine new Instrument, with 2 manuals, 15 stops, 2½ octaves of pedals, with Bourdons throughout. Terms moderate. Allen's Musical Instrument Warehouse, 17, Percy Street, Bedford Square, W. Lessons and Practice on other Instruments also.

ORGAN PRACTICE OR INSTRUCTION.—Three

Manuals, each of 56 notes, pedal organ, 30 notes, 17 effective stops, and blown by Lea's Automatic Hydraulic Engine. Terms, which are strictly inclusive, on application at Blennerhasset's Organ School and Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, Pentonville, W.C.

ORGAN STUDIO, 140 (late 166), STRAND

(opposite the Gaiety).—LESSONS OR PRACTICE (and at St. Michael's, Stockwell, S.W.) on fine two-manual C ORGANS (Hill and Son).—Full pedal compass.—W. VENNING SOUTHGATE (Organist, St. Michael's, Stockwell), "the Strand Organ Studio," W.C. Established, 1867.

MR. STEDMAN'S CONCERT PARTIES for

Oratorio and Miscellaneous Concerts, Institutions, Evening Parties, Soirées, &c., &c.

MADE UP FROM THE MOST EMINENT ARTISTS, AND INCLUDING: Miss Annie Sinclair, Miss Mary Davies, Miss Matilda Scott, Mdme. Worrell-Duval, Miss Jessie Royd, Mdme. Hugo, Mdme. Poole, Miss Annie Butterworth, Miss Helen Arnim, Miss Dones, Miss Gill, Mdme. Osborne Williams, Mr. Stedman, Mr. Alfred Kenningham, Mr. J. L. Wadmore, Mr. George Fox, Mr. Henry Pope, Mr. Thurley Beale, Mr. King Hall, Mr. Henry Parker, &c., &c.

THE STANDARD QUARTETT.—Messrs. Hodges, Stedman, Charles Beckett, and Thurley Beale. For terms and particulars, address, Mr. STEDMAN, 1, Berners Street, W.

ESTABLISHED APRIL 1866.

THE ENGLISH GLEE UNION.

Mr. H. ASHTON, Mr. F. H. COZENS,
Mr. FOUNTAIN MEEN, Mr. ALBERT HUBBARD,

ASSISTED BY

MADAME ASHTON.

For terms, &c., address, H. Ashton, Secretary, Ivy House, Stamford Hill, London, N.

THE LONDON GLEE AND MADRIGAL

UNION.—ESTABLISHED 1859.

MISS JANE WELLS, MR. BAXTER, MR. COATES,
MR. MONTEM SMITH, MR. WINN.

Communications respecting Concerts, Conversations, Evening Parties, &c., &c., addressed to the Secretary, Mr. William Coates, 6, Shaftesbury Road, Hammersmith; Messrs. Mitchell, Royal Library, 33, Old Bond Street; or Mr. Austin, St. James's Hall, will receive immediate attention. A series of Morning Concerts will be given in the months of May and June.

TO ORGAN BUILDERS.—WANTED, first-class WORKMEN (inside hands). Apply to Mr. J. Porritt, Organ Builder, Leicester.

ORGAN BUILDER'S FOREMAN.—WANTED,

a SITUATION as above. Competent to make designs and working drawings, &c.; also voicing and tuning, having been several years in London. Address, C. R., Post-office, Manchester.

HARMONIUM TUNER WANTED.—Must be a thoroughly competent man. Apply to Barnett Samuel and Son, 32, Worship Street, Finsbury Square.

HARMONIUM TRADE.—WANTED, a Practical Person as FOREMAN in a London factory. Apply by letter, No. 1, care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, a good PIANOFORTE TUNER and REGULATOR or a first-class business in the North of England. Permanent employment and liberal salary to a first-class man. Address, W. M., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

OUTDOOR TUNER WANTED.—West Riding, Yorkshire. Applications, with testimonials and salary required, P. H. A., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TO PIANOFORTE TUNERS.—A skilful and experienced Hand WANTED, as indoor Tuner and Toner. Salary according to ability, from 40s. to 60s. per week. Apply to Challin and Hodgson, 20, Oxford Street.

WANTED, a PIANOFORTE REPAIRER and REGULATOR. To a thoroughly competent and steady man a good and permanent situation is offered in a healthy town just out of London. Preference will be given to one that can tune. Apply to A. H. B., care of Messrs. Novello.

PIANOFORTE TUNER, REGULATOR, and REPAIRER, with knowledge of Harmonium tuning and Organ work preferred. Apply, stating terms, age, and experience, to M. H., Mr. Shaw, Queen Street, Victoria Street, Nottingham.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED, able to tune well and to play. If well up in Organ work also, extra wages given. J. H., 12 and 13, Lombard Street, Newark.

TUNER and REPAIRER WANTED. Apply to Mr. Archibald Ramsden, 12, Park Row, Leeds.

WANTED, a thoroughly good TUNER and REPAIRER of PIANOS, American Organs, and Harmoniums. Permanent situation to a suitable man. Apply, inclosing carte, stating references and wages required, to Attwells' Music Warehouse, Reading.

A PIANOFORTE REPAIRER and TUNER

WISHES an ENGAGEMENT in town or country. Has a thorough knowledge of American Organs and Harmoniums. Address, M. W., care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, Oxford Street, W.

WANTED, a SITUATION as TUNER and Trier of Instruments in a Pianoforte Warehouse. Apply to H. Roberts, Music Warehouse, Lincoln.

WANTED, by a Young Man, aged 24, a SITUATION as IMPROVER in Pianoforte Tuning. Small salary. Factory experience. Address, A. J. H., 49, Charlotte Street, Caledonian Road.

PIANOFORTE TUNER (Cadby and Co.) WISHES to meet with an ENGAGEMENT. Good pianist. W. H. H., care of Mr. Turvey, 65, Bedford Road, Reading.

WANTED by a Music-seller near Manchester, a MAN to Repair Military Band Instruments, Harmoniums, and Concertinas. An excellent opportunity for a handy, steady, and good workman. Applicants apply, B., care of Messrs. Novello and Co., stating salary, abilities, age, and all particulars.

WANTED, by a young Lady (good pianist and reader at sight), a RE-ENGAGEMENT in a PIANOFORTE and MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Has had experience, and can give excellent references. E. W. M., 1, Berners Street, London.

AN ASSISTANT WANTED in the General Music and Pianoforte Business—a respectable young man who can play the pianoforte fairly well. Address, with particulars of age, salary, and experience, Edward J. Spark, Worcester.

WANTED, by the Advertiser (a man of good address and thorough knowledge of the musical profession) an ENGAGEMENT as SALESMAN or TRAVELLER. Has had many years' experience in both departments of the business, besides having a practical knowledge of pianoforte making. Address to "Pianoforte," Mr. Waters, 97, Westbourne Grove, Bayswater, W. London.

WANTED, by a Young Man (late Chorister at St. Paul's Cathedral), SITUATION in Music Warehouse. Plays Piano and Organ. Address, B. A., Messrs. Novello and Co., 80 and 81, Queen Street, E.C.

FOR HOME ORGAN PRACTICE.—Two-manualled GRAND PIANO, having pedals full compass, radiating concave, each taking down unison and super octave. £35. Mr. Grimes, Sherborne, Dorset.

12S. WORTH OF MUSIC for One Shilling, post free for fifteen stamps, soiled and surplus stock. James Smith and Son, 76, 74, and 72, Lord Street, Liverpool.

ACCURATE METRONOMES, 1s., post free. Rudiments of Singing, 1s. per dozen. Singing Class Tutor, 12th ed., 6d. each. D. Scholfield, Trinity Street, Huddersfield.

WANTED, the SECOND VOLUME of J. S. BACH'S ORGAN WORKS, Peters's original edition, with preface. Wm. Bowman, 166 Hope Street, Glasgow

CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION.

NOTICE.

A PRIZE MEDAL of the FIRST RANK was awarded at Philadelphia, 1876, to

PELOUBET, PELTON & Co.,
NEW YORK,

FOR THE GENERAL EXCELLENCE OF THEIR

“STANDARD”
AMERICAN ORGANS.

PRICES, 12 TO 125 GUINEAS.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE to be had on application to

BARNETT SAMUEL & SON,

31, HOUNDSDITCH, E.C., & 32, WORSHIP STREET,
FINSBURY SQUARE,

Sole Agents for the United Kingdom and British Colonies.

A LIBERAL DISCOUNT ALLOWED TO THE TRADE.

“A supreme and perfect harmony of notes.”

E. & W. SNELL'S
IMPROVED ENGLISH HARMONIUMS
AND REED ORGANS

Are pronounced by the Profession and Public

THE BEST AND CHEAPEST EXTANT.

MANUFACTORY—LITTLE KING STREET NORTH, CAMDEN
TOWN, LONDON, N.W.

Trade supplied.

STEINWAY & SONS' PIANOFORTES,
NEW YORK.

MR. ARCHIBALD RAMSDEN,

12, PARK ROW, LEEDS.

Has been appointed the Sole Wholesale Agent for the sale of these instruments in the Northern Counties. The trade and the public are requested to address all communications to Mr. Ramsden.

Illustrated lists sent on application.

LONDON AGENTS,
MESSRS. MOUTRIE AND SON,

PIANOFORTE SALOON,

55, BAKER STREET, LONDON, W.

MR. J. HAMILTON begs to inform Organists, Organ Students, and others that the Pedals and Action for attachment to Pianofortes manufactured by him can be inspected and ordered at the above address.

A set of Straight Pedals 30 notes (C to F), with action and printed instructions, “How to Attach,” price £4 4s. Or Radiating and Concave Pedal Board, with action, price £5 5s.

TESTIMONIAL.

“148, Finborough Road, South Kensington, London,
“March 12th, 1877.”

“Dear Sir,—After more than six months' test of the Pedals and Action I purchased of you, you will be glad to hear that they act admirably; their noiseless action and simple attachment being not their least recommendation.

“I am, dear Sir, yours faithfully,

“ALFRED J. WHITEHOUSE,

“Organist of Belgrave Church, Belgravia.

“To Mr. J. Hamilton, Bristol.”

Orders accompanied with Cheque or P.O. Order will receive immediate attention. Send for prices to the Profession and Trade.
Address, J. HAMILTON, 11, Brunswick Street, City Road, Bristol.

SEVERAL small ORGANS for SALE, of one, two, and three manuals. Suitable for small places of worship. All to be seen at A. Hunter's Organ Factory, 379, Kennington Road, S.E.

ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS.

W. HATTERSLEY & CO.'S

CELEBRATED

ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS

UNEQUALLED BY ANY OTHER MAKERS.

These ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS stand first among any such instruments for

QUALITY OF TONE, DURABILITY, RAPIDITY OF TOUCH, PREDOMINANCE OF THE TREBLE OVER THE BASS, PERFECT ACTION, BRILLIANCY OF THE SOLO STOPS, NEWLY-INVENTED DOUBLE ACTION, SOLID IMPROVED SOUND-BOARD, AND DOUBLE EFFECTIVE SWELLS.

List of Prices and Books of Designs, and upwards of 300 Testimonials from all parts of the globe, to be had post free.

W. HATTERSLEY & CO.,

10, 12, & 14, Bow Street, Sheffield.

N.B.—These Harmoniums are 20 per cent. cheaper than any other house, and a far superior tone.

GENTLEMEN,—The Harmonium gives the greatest satisfaction, and is really the best instrument I have fallen in with.—Yours truly,
W. P. M. SLATER.
39, Franklin Street, South Shields, May 6, 1876.

GENTLEMEN,—By a mistake in the address the Harmonium was left at a way-side station, so that I did not get it here till last night; however, it is uninjured and gives me every satisfaction. Its tone and workmanship are admirable, and in rapidity of touch it is quite equal to a large Alexandre Percussion instrument, on which I sometimes play. I shall always be glad to recommend your Harmoniums.—Believe me, faithfully yours,
W. F. ASHBRIDGE, M.A., Curate of Bessingby.
Bessingby Road, Bridlington, Dec. 15, 1876.

Mr J. M. Boulard, Manager of the Alleghanians, Vocalists and Bell Players.

DEAR SIR,—The Harmonium you made for me in travelling case answers our purpose exceedingly well, and my company are all delighted with it.—Yours truly,
J. M. BOULARD.
Sept. 16, 1876.

GENTLEMEN,—Kindly find cheque for the Harmonium to hand. I may add that our people are very much pleased with the instrument. It is a little gem.—Yours faithfully,
J. W. H. WOOD.
Shirland and Higham School Board, Shirland, near Alfreton,
Feb. 2, 1877.

DEAR SIR,—The Harmonium arrived here yesterday. I am much pleased with it, and it is a very pretty, nice-looking instrument.—Yours truly,
DAVID BRUCE.
Merrington Vicarage, Terry Hill, Dec. 10, 1875.

GENTLEMEN,—The Harmonium arrived here in capital condition last week. I am very pleased with it. The tone is exceedingly sweet and pleasing. All who have seen it here like it very much.—Yours faithfully,
H. R. HOLME.
Montserrat, West Indies, Aug. 11, 1876.

EAST LONDON ORGAN WORKS,

9, Burdett Road, Mile End, E.—E. CARDER is prepared to send Specifications for building Organs of very superior materials and workmanship. Alterations, rebuilding, and repairs. First-class workmen sent to all parts on very moderate terms. Tuning, &c. Second-hand ORGANS for SALE.

ORGANS for Church or Chamber, full, rich tone, from 35 guineas. ORGAN HARMONIUMS, with 1 or 2 manuals, full compass of pedals, from 25 to 54 guineas, invaluable for Teaching or Organ Practice. SPRAGUE'S Celebrated ORGAN-TONE HARMONIUMS, 6 guineas; best in the trade.—William Sprague, 7, Finsbury Pavement, London.

A. MONK'S 100-Guinea ORGANS, 2 CC Manuals, Boudon pedal pipes, 10 stops. 200-guinea Organs, 2 manuals, 16 stops. 300-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 21 stops. 400-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 27 stops. Organs built to any design. Old Organs rebuilt. Additions, Repairs, Tunings, &c. Specifications and Estimates free. Sussex Terrace, King's Road, Camden Town, London.

“TOWER” ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications made out for Organs. Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing, and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. Willis, 29, Minories, London.

STUTTGART HARMONIUM COMPANY.—
LEOPOLD KAHN, Stuttgart, Germany.

Price Lists on application to ALPHONSE CARY, Sole Representative, 26, Fortress Terrace, Kentish Town, N.W.; close to Kentish Town Station. Inspection solicited.

BRASS, REED, STRING, and DRUM and FIFE BANDS, PIANOFORTES AND HARMONIUMS, supplied at wholesale prices, at J. MOORE'S, Buxton Road, Huddersfield. Prices, with drawings of every instrument, post free. Music for any kind of band. Patronised by the army, navy, and rifle corps.

T. R. WILLIS (established 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Music Strings, Wire, &c., Violins, Concertinas, &c. 29, Minorities, London. List for stamp.

RUSSELL'S MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

CONCERTINAS, Harmoniums, Organ Accordions, Flutinas, Drums, Fifes, Flutes, Violins, Cornets, Saxhorns, Clarionets, Flageolets, Guitars, Banjos, Musical Boxes, Strings, &c. Self-Instruction Books. Instruments repaired or exchanged. Price Lists free. J. Russell, 158, Goswell Road, Clerkenwell, London.

DEAN'S CHEAP MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

School Band Flutes from 3s. 6d.; 8-Key Concert Flutes, 25s.; Cornets in case, 30s.; Drums, Tambourines, Banjos, and every article in the trade. A good Violin, with Bow and Book, in case, 20s. English, Roman, and Acribelle Violin Strings—5 best firsts, warranted to stand at concert pitch, sent free for 13 stamps. Price Lists sent free. Joseph Dean, Music Warehouse, 77, City Road, E.C.

MR. DAWKINS, Manufacturer and Importer of Musical Instruments desires to inform the Trade and the Profession that his business will be carried on at No. 18, CHARTERHOUSE STREET, HOLBORN CIRCUS, CITY, LONDON, on and after the 1st of May, where will be found an increased stock of every kind of musical instruments, strings, and fittings, suitable for the manufacturing or repairing musical instruments. Repairs of instruments effected by first-class workmen in all their respective branches at the lowest trade rates. Catalogues to the trade only on application. Factory, 7 and 8, Little Warner Street, London.

VERTICAL IRON FRAME PIANOFORTES.—

STRUNG UPON A SINGLE CASTING.

CHECK ACTION. Trichord to Covered Strings. Compensating for thermometric changes. Irreproachable stability of construction. Highly important to the Trade, especially in the Colonies.

Full particulars from the makers, PARKER & SMITH, Plymouth. Good Workmen Wanted. Constant employment. Expense of living 20 per cent. less than in London.

SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS.—New Model

by Kaps, of Dresden.—This instrument is an improvement on the original Short Grand now so well known. The volume and brilliancy of tone is much increased; it has an unfailling repetition action, and will compare favourably with much larger and more costly instruments. May be purchased wholesale and retail or hired at the original Depot, 26, North Audley Street, W. Proprietor, C. E. FLAVELL.

TO SELL MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS of every description, also Libraries of Music, Music Plates and Copyrights, Stock-in-Trade, &c., SALE (devoted exclusively to this class of property) held every month. Single instruments inserted. Consignments received at any time. Puttick and Simpson, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C. [Established 1794.]

SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES.—150 by

Broadwood, Collard, Erard, Allison, &c., from 4 guineas upwards. HARMONIUMS (New), from £5, in Walnut or Mahogany cases. Largest stock of Pianos and Harmoniums in London at Kelly and Co.'s, 11, Charles Street, Middlesex Hospital. Trade supplied.

IMPORTANT SALE OF MUSICAL PROPERTY.—

125 PIANOFORTES, by all the leading European makers, consisting of Grands, Semi-Grands, Cottages, Obliques, Squares, &c., by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, Kirkman, Allison, Hermann, Cramer, Squire, Wornum, Johnson, Newell, &c.; a capital barrel Organ, by Bryceon, playing 33 sacred tunes, 11 operatic ditto, and one other barrel, playing "The Lancers" and "Wedding March;" also Violins, Pianoforte small-work, and sundries, about 15 dozen Skins, suitable for Piano-work; and quantity of Sheet Music, being the Unredeemed Pledges from Pawnbrokers, and goods removed for convenience of Sale, which will be SOLD BY AUCTION by Messrs. KELLY and CO., at their Great Repository and Mart, 11, Charles Street, Middlesex Hospital, on Wednesday, May 16th. The goods may be viewed, and Catalogues had (post free), the day prior and morning of sale.

OLD ITALIAN VIOLINS, TENORS, AND VIOLONCELLOS COLLECTED BY AN AMATEUR.

MESSRS. PHILLIPS and SON are instructed to sell by Auction, at their Great Rooms, 73, New Bond Street, on Saturday, the 26th of May, 1877, at One o'clock precisely, Valuable VIOLINS by Nicholas Amate, Balisteri, Bergonzi, Ceruti, Gagliano, Gragnani, Grancino, Guadagnini, Mariani, Joseph Guarnerius, Rugerius, Storioni, Antonius Straduarius, Techler, Testori, Tonoini, and others. TENORS and VIOLONCELLOS by Amate, Carcassi, Gagliano, Guadagnini, Peter Guarnerius, Landolphus, Rugerius, and others. The instruments may be viewed three days preceding the sale, and Catalogues then had at Messrs. Phillips and Son's Great Rooms, 73, New Bond Street, W.

Re D'ALMAINE, DECEASED.

PIANOFORTES BY D'ALMAINE.

Great Sale of 633 remaining Pianofortes OF THIS EXCELLENT FIRM.

In consequence of the Death of the Proprietor, an

IMMENSE STOCK

OF

All Descriptions of Musical Property, PIANOFORTES, HARMONIUMS, SHEET MUSIC,

Lithographic Stones and Music Printing, Music Stools, Insulators, Violins, Canterbury's, Whatnots, Harmonium Chairs, Frets, Actions, and parts various, the chief item being

780 PIANOFORTES,

in course of construction at the Death of the late Proprietor.

MOST EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY

to the Public, Trade, and Profession, such as does not offer in every lifetime.

NOTE.—It was attempted to clear the whole by auction by a series of sales: the first sale proved that it would be wiser to make up the stock and

OFFER THE ADVANTAGE TO THE PUBLIC,

who can now be supplied at less than the usual cost of making these high-class pianos; thus the following quotations:—

For 17 guineas can be had the	35 guineas Royal
25 " "	46 " "
34 " "	60 " "
45 " "	85 " "
9 to 15 guineas, various second-hand instruments.

These instruments have the

FAMED STEEL WREST PLANK PLATE;

are all 7 octaves, trichord for the most part, and actions of various models;

ELEGANT IN DESIGN, REFINED IN FINISH;

are very high class as pianofortes in touch, tone, and repetition.

ALL PARTICULARS, AND ON VIEW, AT

5, FINSBURY PAVEMENT,

By MOORGATE STREET STATION

(Metropolitan Railway).

LETTERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

TO LOVERS of OLD VIOLINS.—Mr. E. S. ROSE, of Lincoln, wishes to inform all connoisseurs of genuine old Violins of character that he is OFFERING for SALE the very valuable and extensive Collection of his late father, comprising genuine specimens of ALBANI, Steiner, Klotz, Amati, Tononi, Gagliano, Pamphillon, Feudt, Guadagni, two very fine John Barratt's, Banks, Furber, Betts, Panormo, Chanoit, &c., &c.; also two very fine tenors. This is an opportunity seldom to be met with, as they are all in excellent preservation and will be sold very much below their value. All communications to be made to Mr. E. S. Rose, Music Warehouse, Lincoln.

Pall Mall.—The Collection of fine old Cremona Violins; also Violoncellos and Bows of John Wallace Joyce, Esq., of Manor House, Beckington, near Bath.

MESSRS. FOSTER respectfully announce for SALE by AUCTION, at the Gallery, 54, Pall Mall, on Thursday, the 10th May, at 1 for 2 o'clock precisely, the valuable COLLECTION of CREMONA VIOLINS, &c., of John W. Joyce, Esq., including fine examples of Antonius Stradivarius, Joseph and Andreas Guarnerius, Nicolaus Amati, Montagnana, Guadagnini, &c. Some of these instruments were purchased at the Gillott sales, and others procured from Italy. May be viewed three days preceding and morning of sale. Catalogues forwarded on application to Messrs. Foster, 54, Pall Mall.

VIOLIN, "Laurentius Storioni," £16, or with cash for better instrument. F., 10, Clifton Road, Camden Town.

VIOLINS, TENORS, VIOLONCELLOS, and DOUBLE BASSES, by "Craske," equal to Stradivarius and Guarnerius.

Upwards of 500 of these splendid Instruments now on Sale at Edward Crompton's, 54, Barton Arcade, Deansgate, Manchester (3rd floor), many of which have been made 50 years. Also a large collection of Italian Instruments.

VIOLINS, VIOLAS, VIOLONCELLOS, &c.—JOHNSON HICKS, Dealer in, and careful Repairer of, "CREMONA" and other Violins, &c.—Brunswick House, Torquay, Devon.

FOR SALE, a VIOLONCELLO (fine tone), and a Tenor by DODD. Price 20 guineas and 10 guineas. To be seen any day, after twelve, at 37, Merton Road, Islington.

FOR SALE, Three Violoncellos, one Double Bass, one Tenor, and two Violins; can be seen at W. Browett's, 45, Featherstone Street, City Road.

WANTED, CHAMBER ORGAN, with 2 manuals and pedal. Must be cheap for cash. By letter, giving all particulars as to number and compass of stops, dimensions, &c., to Musicus, care of Miss Broughton, 22, Kenninghall Road, Clapton, E.

FOR SALE, ORGAN, with 6 stops, suitable for small Church, Chapel, or Chamber; in splendid mahogany case, French polished; front pipes diapered; 1½ octave German pedals; hand and foot blower. Apply, Wm. Hudson, Bromley Place, Nottingham.

ORGAN for SALE (by Bevington); 17 stops, 8 great, 6 swell; bourdon pedals. Now in Wesleyan Chapel, Maidenhead. J. W. Walker, Maidenhead.

ORGAN for SALE.—To be SOLD, an ORGAN, in good condition, containing seven stops and a nice case; price £50. Apply to Alfred Kirkland, Organ Builder, Wakefield.

CHAMBER ORGAN for SALE. 2 manuals, 12 stops, pedals, foot and hand blower, mahogany case. Also large one partly finished. Must be sold on account of death. Address or apply, Mrs. Astwell, 9, Edward Lane, Church Street, Stoke Newington, N.

ORGAN.—CHURCH ORGAN, consisting of two complete manuals, with separate pedal pipes, 14 stops, and handsomely diapered speaking front pipes. Price £158. J. Grover, 82, Norfolk Terrace, Westbourne Grove, London, W.

ORGAN to be SOLD. In a mahogany case, 7 rows of keys, 7 feet high, 3 feet 6 inches in front, 2 feet deep. Has keys suited for practice at home. Inquire at No. 10, Lillieshall Road, Clapham, Surrey.

ORGAN.—Suit Church or Chapel. Any easy terms. Through moving. Warranted, 176, College Street, London, N.W.

ORGAN of 2 manuals, CC to G, 56 notes. New, with pedal bourdon, CCC to F, 30 notes with composition pedal, 22 stops. A BARGAIN. A fine tone. Apply to Costloe and Son, Isleworth, Middlesex.

ORGAN METAL PIPES.—Best quality Zinc Front Pipes. Voicing and Tuning. G. Fowler, 127, Pentonville Road, N.

A BARGAIN.—To be SOLD cheap, a sweet-toned HARMONIUM, by Alexandre. Handsome polished walnut case; 9 rows of reeds; two manuals; 31 stops; 2½ octaves of pedals, and foot and hand blower. Suitable for church, chapel, or mansion. Original price 200 guineas. May be seen at Benjamin Scott and Son's Pianoforte Warehouse, 18 and 20, Devonshire Street, Carlisle.

PEDAL HARMONIUM, by G. L. BAUER. Full scale, with back and front blowers, stool, &c. Complete for £16. Never been used. A great bargain. Apply to B., 39, Osney Crescent, Camden Road, N.W.

FOR SALE, a rosewood 7-octave concert GRAND PIANOFORTE, by WORMUM, in splendid condition, new within the last two years and a half. Apply to W. P., 16, Colville Square, Bayswater, where it can be seen.

PIANOFORTE VAN for SALE; nearly new; very light, running Hand Van, Collins's patent axles, three springs, carrying the instruments in an upright position, fitted with sliding floor for loading and unloading. Can for trifling expense be altered to go by horse, having been built with that end in view.—Price and further particulars of M. B. Clift, Eastbourne.

TO be SOLD, the COPYRIGHT of a new SET OF WALTZES for PIANO, already published, and about to enter the Third Edition. Considered by the Press to be "strikingly original," "time admirable for dancing," "sure to become a general favourite," &c., &c. Intending purchasers can satisfy themselves by sending for a copy on approval. Address O. T. C., "The Musical Times" Office.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Fine instrument; 2 manuals, with separate pedal organ. Terms very moderate. E. Entwistle, 1, Charles Street, Camberwell New Road.

A SOLID IVORY BATON, 18 inches long, silver gilt mountings, velvet band, morocco case, equal to new. Price 30s. H., 82, York Road, Lambeth.

W. G. HALLIFAX & CO., 315, Oxford Street, W., ENGRAVE and PRINT AUTHORS' WORKS, at the lowest possible cost, and introduce them. Estimates by return of post.

MUSIC ENGRAVED, PRINTED, AND PUBLISHED in the best style, and on moderate terms, a statement of which sent on application by B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest varied stock of Music in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day, or if in stock posted immediately if required. Terms highly advantageous. London: B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row.

THROAT IRRITATION.—The throat and windpipe are especially liable to inflammation, causing soreness and dryness, tickling and irritation, inducing cough and affecting the voice. For these symptoms use glycerine in the form of jubes. Glycerine, in these agreeable confections, being in proximity to the glands at the moment they are excited by the act of sucking, becomes actively healing. Sold only in 6d. and 1s. boxes (by post for 14 stamps), labelled JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, 43, Threadneedle Street, and 170, Piccadilly.

SIX TRIOS for FEMALE VOICES, composed by FRANZ ABT. The Words translated by H. W. DULCKEN, Ph.D. Price 1s. octavo; or singly 2d. each.

- No. 1. Ave Maria.
2. The Wanderer's greeting.
3. Where deepest shadows hover.
4. Parting beam of daylight.
5. Once again the day hath flown.
6. Thou Heaven, blue and bright.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 and 81, Queen Street (E.C.)

HUMOROUS GLEES.—Just published, "There was a little man." Composed by WARE. "Johnny Schmoker." Composed by RIX. Post-free, six stamps each. These are very amusing, and suitable for Schools and Penny Readings. Published by J. F. Jones and Co., 44, Corporation Street, Manchester. London: C. Jeffreys, 67, Berners Street, W.

POPULAR FOUR-PART SONGS BY GABRIEL DAVIS.

THE KNIGHT'S RETURN	2d.
GOD SAVE THE PRINCE. (12th Edition)	2d.
THE DISTANT SEA	2d.
TO THE WOODS	2d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Dedicated to the Members of the Dublin Glee and Madrigal Union.
THE CRUISKEEN LAWN. (Song of the Battle Eve.) Irish Air. Words by Thomas Moore. Arranged for S.A.T.B.B. by Sir R. P. STEWART, Mus. D. Price Threepence.

THE WINE-CUP is CIRCLING IN ALMHIN'S HALL. Irish Air. Words by Thomas Moore. Arranged for S.A.T.B.B. by Sir R. P. STEWART, Mus. D. Price Threepence.

THE BELLS of ST. MICHAEL'S TOWER. The subject from Knyvett's Glee for three Voices, re-written for S.A.T.B.B., with an Introduction, by Sir R. P. STEWART, Mus. D. Price Fourpence.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now Ready. Small 4to, price 1s. Vocal Parts, 12mo, price 6d. each. 1st and 2nd Series, bound together, cloth, 2s. 9d. Vocal Parts, 1st and 2nd Series, bound together in limp cloth, 1s. 4d. each.

SECOND SERIES.

THE

CANTICLES AND HYMNS
OF THE CHURCH,

POINTED FOR CHANTING, AND SET TO APPROPRIATE ANGELICAN CHANTS, SINGLE AND DOUBLE

TOGETHER WITH

Responses to the Commandments,

EDITED BY THE

REV. SIR F. A. GORE OUSELEY, BART., ETC.,

AND

EDWIN GEORGE MONK

This Work contains a Selection of Double (besides additional Single) Chants; together with special settings of "Benedicite," and a collection of Kyrie Eleisons, old and new.

This pointing of the Canticles is authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street, and 8o & 8r, Queen Street, Cheapside.

MAY 1877.

ALL THE YEAR ROUND

CONDUCTED BY

CHARLES DICKENS.

The new Monthly Part contains the following papers:—

HARRIET MARTINEAU.

PORTRAITS IN TAPESTRY.

The Last of the Valois.

THE STORY OF A BANK-NOTE.

The Manufacturing of Bank-Note Paper.

The Printing of Bank-Notes, &c., &c.

FIRES AT THEATRES.

A Pretty Blow-up.

Jottings for Bookworms.

Old French Actors—Préville.

Early Workers at Sacks.

Evading the Law.

Soldiers' Dress.

Round the World.

A Japanese Newspaper.

Poems, &c., &c.

Doubleday's Children: A Serial Story, by Dutton Cook.

What He Cost Her: A Serial Story, by James Payn.

To be obtained at all Railway Bookstalls and of all Booksellers.

WILL BE ISSUED IMMEDIATELY
THECATHEDRAL PSALTER
CHANTS

OBLONG QUARTO, PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION

OF

TRIOS, QUARTETTS. &c.,

FOR

FEMALE VOICES.

No. 1. The corall'd caves of ocean	3 voices, Henry Smart	4d.
2. Heaven	do. do.	4d.
3. Hope and memory ..	do. do.	4d.
4. Night sinks on the wave	do. do.	3d.
5. Oh! skylark, for thy wing	do. do.	4d.
6. The bird at sea	do. do.	4d.
7. The wood-nymphs ..	do. do.	3d.
8. The fay's song	do. do.	4d.
9. Evening	do. do.	3d.
10. The water-nymphs ..	do. do.	4d.
11. Where are the angels?	do. J. L. Hatton	3d.
12. Youth, joy, and hope	do. do.	4d.
13. Coronach	do. Schubert	3d.
14. The Lord is my Shep- herd	4 voices do.	4d.
15. God in nature	do. do.	4d.
16. Serenade, 4 voices, with solo	do. do.	4d.
17. Glory to the Lord Almighty	3 voices do.	3d.
18. O clap your hands. Psalm 47	E. H. Thorne	6d.
19. O sing to God (Noël)	{ 3 voices, with soli S. & A. } Ch. Gounod	6d.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just published.

FIVE CHORUSES

FOR

FEMALE VOICES

COMPOSED BY

FRANZ SCHUBERT.

Price One Shilling.

OR, SINGLY,

Coronach	3 voices	3d.
The Lord is my Shepherd	4 voices	4d.
God in nature	4 voices	4d.
Serenade	4 voices, with solo	4d.
Glory to the Lord Almighty	3 voices	3d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

WAGNER FESTIVAL.

ROYAL ALBERT HALL, MAY 7, 9, 12, 14, 16, 19.

WAGNER, CONDUCTOR.

WILHELMJ, LEADER OF ORCHESTRA.
DANNREUTHER and RICHTER, Conductors of Rehearsals.MATERNA, UNGER, HILL and other Singers from Bayreuth.PRICES of ADMISSION to EACH CONCERT:
Private Boxes, from 5 guineas; Amphitheatre Stalls, 1 Guinea;
Arena Stalls, 15s.; Balcony (first three Rows), 15s., other Rows, 10s. 6d.; Orchestra, 5s.; Organ Gallery, 5s.; Gallery, 2s. 6d. Tickets, Programmes, and all information may now be had at the Royal Albert Hall; of the usual Agents; and of

HODGE AND ESSEX, Directors.

CHIEF TICKET OFFICE, 6 & 7, Argyll Street,
Regent Street, London, W.

LEEDS TRIENNIAL MUSICAL FESTIVAL,

1877.
Patron, HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
Conductor, SIR MICHAEL COSTA.

SEPTEMBER 19TH, 20TH, 21ST, AND 22ND.

Early particulars may be obtained from the Honorary Secretaries,
Festival Committee Rooms, Great George Street, near the Town Hall,
Leeds.JOHN WM. ATKINSON, } Hon. Secs.
FRED. R. SPARK, }ST. JAMES'S HALL.—Miss ELLEN HORNE begs to announce her EVENING CONCERT, Wednesday, May 2, at Eight o'clock. Artists—Mesdames Poole, A. Butterworth, Kate Baxter, and Ellen Horne; Messrs. Edward Lloyd, H.
Guy, Chaplin Henry, A. Caink, and Thurlay Beale. Solo Violin, Mlle. C. Brousil. Conductors, Sir Julius Benedict, A. Gilbert, C. E.
Tinney, and T. G. B. Halley. The Band of her Majesty's Royal Horse Guards will perform under the direction of Mr. C. E. Godfrey. Numbered Stalls, 6s.; Family Ticket (four), 21s.; Balcony, 3s.; Area, 2s.;
Admission, 1s. Tickets at Austin's, 28, Piccadilly; the usual Concert
Agents; and of Miss Ellen Horne, 11 Pemberton Terrace, Upper Holloway, N.MUSICAL ASSOCIATION, 27, Harley Street, W.
—Third Session, 1876-77.—SIXTH MONTHLY MEETING, MONDAY, 7th May, 1877, at 5 p.m. precisely, a Paper "On the Gymnastic Training of the Hand for performing on Keyed Instruments," will be read by STEPHEN S. STRATTON, Esq., of Birmingham.
CHARLES K. SALAMAN, Hon. Sec.
24, Sutherland Gardens, Westbourne Park, W., 1st May.

S. MARY, NEWINGTON.

DEDICATION FESTIVAL and OPENING OF NEW ORGAN. The following Organists will play during the octave:—

1st May	... Mr. E. J. HOPKINS	... at 4.30 p.m.
2nd May	... Mr. W. REA	... at 8.0 p.m.
3rd May	... Mr. W. S. HOYTE	... at 8.0 p.m.
4th May	... Mr. W. JORDAN	... at 8.0 p.m.
5th May	... Mr. E. H. TURPIN	... at 8.0 p.m.
6th May	... Mr. W. LEMARE	... at 11.0 and 6.30 p.m.
7th May	... Mr. H. STARK	... at 8.0 p.m.
8th May	... Dr. BRIDGE	... at 8.0 p.m.

HOLY TRINITY CHURCH, Tulse Hill, S.W.—
A FESTIVAL SERVICE will be held on Tuesday, May 15th, at 7.30 p.m. Service, Stark in D. Anthem, "God is gone up," Croft.
Purcell's Grand Te Deum in D after Evensong. Humphrey J. Stark, Mus. Bac., Oxon., Conductor.

RICHARD WAGNER'S

DER RING DES NIBELUNGEN." Sole

Editions of Vocal scores in 4to.

"Das Rheingold" net 16s.
"Die Walküre" " 20s.
"Siegfried" " 24s.
"Götterdämmerung" " 28s.

Original German Text, 1 vol. 12mo, paper, net 4s.; cloth, net 5s.
English Translation, by ALFRED FORMAN, paper, net 4s.; cloth, net 5s."DIE MEISTERSINGER VON NURNBERG." Vocal score, net 28s.Original German Text, 1 vol. 12mo, net 1s.
Catalogues of all Richard Wagner's Original Works, also detached Vocal and Instrumental Pieces, Transcriptions, Arrangements, &c., post free on application to

SCHOTT and CO., 159, Regent Street, London, W.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

(PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EACH MONTH)

Price Threepence.

Annual subscription, including postage, 4s.

Subscriptions will also be received by all Book and Music Sellers (not including postage), 3s.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	2	3
For every additional Line	0	0	9
Half a Column	1	15	0
A Column	3	5	0
A Page	6	6	0

A discount of 10 per cent. is allowed for twelve consecutive insertions.
It is respectfully requested that a remittance be sent with all Advertisements.Advertisements for the June number should reach the Office not later than May 24. Those received after this date cannot be guaranteed insertion in their proper places, but will appear among the late Advertisements.

CHARLES GOUNOD'S

"CINO-MARS." Opéra en quatre actes. Poème de Paul Poirson et Louis Gallet.

Vocal Score, in 8vo net 20s.

Piano Solo, in 8vo " 12s.

SCHOTT and CO., 159, Regent Street, London, W.

Lists of the usual detached Vocal and Instrumental Pieces, Arrangements, &c. post free on application.

Recently published in 8vo, price 6s.

MUSICAL INTERVALS & TEMPERAMENT:
AN ELEMENTARY TREATISE.With an account of an Enharmonic Harmonium, exhibited in the Loan Collection of Scientific Instruments, South Kensington, 1876; also an Enharmonic Organ, exhibited to the Musical Association of London,
May 1875.By R. H. M. BOSANQUET, Fellow of St. John's College, Oxford.
Macmillan and Co., London.New and Important Work for the Competitive
Musical Examinations, &c.

Just Published, in crown 8vo, cloth, price 6s.

THE STUDENT'S TEXT-BOOK

OF THE

SCIENCE OF MUSIC

For Use in Schools and Colleges, and for purposes of self-instruction.
By JOHN TAYLOR, Author of "Manual of Vocal Music," &c., &c.
London: George Philip and Son, 32, Fleet Street; and 49 and 51,
South Castle Street, Liverpool.

Just published.

AN ESSAY on the GROWTH of the MUSICAL
SCALE and of MODERN HARMONY, by J. M. CAPES, M.A.
Price 5s., cloth.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Price 7s. 6d., originally 12s. 6d.

FLAGELLATION and THE FLAGELLANTS.
A History of the Rod in All Countries, from the Earliest Period to the Present Time. By Rev. W. COOPER. 20 Plates.

Thick crown 8vo, 8s. 6d., at all the Libraries.

MUSIC and MUSICIANS, ESSAYS AND CRITICISMS. By ROBERT SCHUMANN. Translated, Edited, and Annotated by FANNY RAYMOND RITTER. Portrait.

WOMAN AS A MUSICIAN By F. R. RITTER. 1s.

LIFE OF CHOPIN. By FRANZ LISZT. Edited by M. W. COOK. 6s.LIFE OF MENDELSSOHN. By LAMPADIUS.
Edited by W. L. GAGE. Portrait. Second Edition Revised, 5s.HISTORY OF MUSIC. By F. L. RITTER.
Portrait. 7s. 6d.LIFE OF CHERUBINI. By E. BELLASIS.
Portrait. 6s.

BIBLE MUSIC. By F. JACOB. Crown 8vo, 3s. 6d.

William Reeves, 185, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

CONTENTS.

Is Mendelssohn in danger?	209
English Opera (continued)	211
The Law of Musical Copyright	214
Children's Music	216
Occasional Notes	217
Death of Mr. Charles Neate	218
Crystal Palace	219
The Bach Choir	220
Royal Italian Opera	221
Philharmonic Society	221
New Philharmonic Concerts	222
Paragraphs	222
Reviews	224
Gipsy Life. Chorus by R. Schumann	225
Foreign Notes	237
Correspondence	238
Brief Summary of Country News	240
Organ Appointments, &c., &c.	245

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

MAY 1, 1877.

IS MENDELSSOHN IN DANGER?

At a time when all avenues to the recognised fields of labour are choked with eager travellers, it is natural to expect that some bold, impatient, or ambitious spirits, as well as not a few who are morbidly anxious for notoriety at any cost, will strike out a path for themselves. In another column we have shown the large downward scope of this operation by reference to the case of Mr. Harry Wall; and we now wish it to appear how a kindred ingenuity in search of profit, or the advantages of being talked about, works in higher ways. If a man wishes for notoriety he has more than Mr. Gladstone's proverbial "three courses" before him; but there are two so broad and straight that he cannot well refuse taking one or other. Thus, he may attack the pocket or the belief of the community, and attain his end by the directest possible means. If he can entangle an unsuspecting class of persons in the meshes of a broken Act of Parliament and make them pay to be set free—good. Good, also, if he set up as an iconoclast, and go about smashing or throwing mud at popular idols. The second branch of these forms of industry is much in vogue just now, thanks to an almost universal disintegration of belief, under cover of which it is possible to operate with the minimum of ridicule and the maximum of success. We are well aware that sometimes the very spirit that leads to image-breaking manifests itself in efforts to make a god out of that which everybody rejects as belonging to the devil. Nearly all the monsters of history, for example, have been whitewashed at some time or other, and shown to a wondering world as angels of light. But this sort of enterprise is, by comparison, unprofitable. It is easier to make a man think worse of his fellows than better, and hence the number of active operators who distinguish themselves by treating the memory of great men as certain gifted Cockneys once treated the unfortunate Leicester Square statue. There have been signs lately that Mendelssohn is becoming the favourite object of mud-throwing. Years ago the game, as far as concerned him, was carried on timidly. Like Mr. Punch's Johnny Russell, who chalked up "No Popery" and ran away, Mendelssohn's earlier assailants, with one exception, flung stones at him in the dark and sneaked off. But they are more courageous now, perhaps because the exception referred to has acquired influence enough to make him a potent backer. In neither capacity is it possible to admire them as—for his boldness, at any rate—we admire their leader. Herr Wagner never flung stones at Mendelssohn in the dark. On the contrary, he took his stand, so to speak, in the marketplace, and told all men that their idol was a poor creature, who, "having nothing to say, said it in a gentlemanly manner." Fair fighting this, and we are glad whenever those who think with the champion imitate his example.

At the same time, Mendelssohn is not quite in such bad case as some, who would be pleased to see him in worse, try to make us believe. The gentleman (or lady) who reports Crystal Palace concerts for the Musical Standard informed the world not long ago that "among the rising generation . . . it is impossible not to notice that an immense majority hold Mendelssohn in no very high esteem. Many, probably sickened by the mannerisms of his myriad imitators, never can mention his name without a sneer; others deny him his due meed of respect because they believe him to be an overrated man;" while others "bear him an unnatural and undeserved hate" because they cannot forgive a man who so long kept his betters in the background. All this may be real enough to the writer, but we fancy that he has mistaken a coterie for the great world. At any rate, our experience is very different. Allowing for the fact that his popularity has lost whatever it derived from a personal fascination without a parallel in the history of art, Mendelssohn is as much beloved as ever he was by the mass of those to whom music appeals. No concert-goer will deny this, unless prejudice has warped his judgment and extinguished his powers of observation; indeed, were the fact otherwise, most of us would see cause for alarm. Mendelssohn was pre-eminently an illustrator of art in its most refined and cultured form, and in its association with a mode of thought and expression that appeals directly and clearly to the masses. Any falling away from him therefore would have a grave significance, as showing, in our judgment, a diminution of regard for the principles which are the very breath of music's life. Happily there is no fear of such a catastrophe. Other composers may share our notice and admiration, but while art remains art no power can drag from his pedestal of honour the man who wrote "St. Paul" and "Elijah," who gave us the Scotch and Italian Symphonies, who enriched music with the Hebrides Overture, who charms us with the delicacy, tenderness, and grace of his works for the chamber, and who will for all time make our homes beautiful with his wordless songs.

But let us look a little closely into the charges now brought against Mendelssohn. Some reader may meet this proposal with a decided Cui bono? and go on to urge, "If what you have just said be true, the iconoclasts can do the object of their hatred no real harm. Compared with Mendelssohn and Mendelssohn's influence, they and their power are not worth notice, so let them alone." We answer that the subject should be discussed not so much on account of the master as out of regard for the "weak brethren" who are liable to be led away by every wind of doctrine. In the musical world, as in all others, there are a surprising number of people ready to dance to any man's piping; and, like the children of Hamelin, to follow whithersoever he leads. The very helplessness of such folk argues on their behalf, and it shall not be our fault, at any rate, if they are deceived by the special pleading or floundering rhetoric of men who, mounted on the stilts of fancied superiority, or anxious to get talked about, pretend to look down upon a composer of whom even Richard Wagner was once good enough to speak as possessing "refined intelligence and extraordinary musical capabilities."

Judging by recent criticisms of Mendelssohn, he was unfortunate in having been born of rich parents and brought up with refined and delicate tastes. Many others have suffered in the same way and for the same reason. Years ago Punch represented two ragged street-boys contemplating a smartly dressed tailor's dummy, and saying one to the other, "'Ere's a swell; let's punch 'is 'ed.'" The unconscious lay figure may be taken as representing nearly every man who possesses something which another lacks, and, in the estimation of those typified by the street-boys, Mendelssohn had no business to be born a gentleman, to have plenty of money, to carry pocket-books "with gay gilt covers," to write elegant letters about poetry, painting, and sculpture, and to be one of the most refined in a refined society. "Let's punch 'is 'ed.'" This is done by assuming that because Haydn, Mozart, and Beethoven graduated in the school of adversity the process is essential to great musicianship. Nay, we are even told by the Musical Standard critic that Mendelssohn was not necessarily a musician at all. What other meaning can be attached to such words as these: "Had he been born under an unlucky star he would probably—unlike his contemporaries, Schumann, Chopin, and Weber, to whom their art was as the air they breathed—have never been a composer"? There was nothing in him for adversity to educate, it seems; and he wrote music simply because "art was to him a luxury," which easy circumstances enabled him to enjoy. Mendelssohn, the banker's son, composed the overture to "A Midsummer Night's Dream" as he might have indulged in a daily glass of Schloss Johannisberg; while Mendelssohn, the cobbler's son, would have been a cobbler like his father, unknown in the next street! Our readers, if not moved to Homeric laughter at this statement, will probably accuse us of making experiments upon their credulity. But, in very truth, the words quoted have appeared in the columns of a serious journal, where also we are told that "these men (Schumann, Chopin, and Weber) Mendelssohn, from his self-conscious height, kindly condescended to notice and admire, when, all the time, he was but ornamenting a long-standing and well-covered wall in the Temple of Art with some elegant and tasteful figures, while they (Schumann, Chopin [!], and Weber) were doing a life-work every stroke of which strengthened its foundation, or prepared the ground for the building by their immediate successors of new and yet untouched wings of the edifice." We have made this additional extract simply pour rire, and not to dwell upon it, reserving notice for the extraordinary statement that to Mendelssohn "art was a luxury, and not a necessity." Turning to Webster, we see "luxury" defined as "that which gratifies a nice and fastidious appetite," while "necessity" is "indispensableness; the state of being requisite." Art, then, according to our present instructor, was something which gratified Mendelssohn's taste, without being one of the needs of his nature. Admitting this, for argument's sake, we have before us a most astonishing psychological riddle. Children are not usually credited with artifice; and it is supposed that when they devote themselves to a particular pursuit they do no more than follow the bent of a natural inclination. So, at all events, one might have said of the boy Mendelssohn, who, in the Berlin home, "used to stand on a stool before his music-desk, and look amongst the sedate musicians, especially near the giant double-bass, a wonder-child indeed, in his boy's suit, shaking back his long curls, and looking over the heads of the musicians like a little general; then, stoutly waving his bâton, firmly and quietly conducting his piece to the end, meanwhile noting and listening to every little detail as it passed." Then, as he went on writing operettas, quartetts, and symphonies, or labouring for a whole year, between lesson-hours, at the "Midsummer Night's Dream" Overture, it became obvious to all around him that music was part of his life. But we know better now. The young reprobate was simply indulging in a luxury, as he might have found a duplicate key to his mother's jam-pantry. But that he was a phenomenal sensualist even the Musical Standard must admit. Never did an appetite for a non-requisite grow so unappeasable, and continue from birth to death in such force; and never, we may add, were the productions of a mere amateur, who worked simply because it pleased him, more promptly mistaken for the outpouring of a really musical soul. This is the reductio ad absurdum of a proposition which, we are happy to say, did not find universal acceptance even among our contemporary readers, one of whom, Mr. Alexander Teetgen—who puts "Ana Capri" after his name—discusses it in the style which the school he belongs to has made familiar if not intelligible. Mr. Teetgen falls back upon that truly British resource—a compromise, and suggests that music was to Mendelssohn "a necessary luxury." With shame we confess our powerlessness to understand the distinction any more than we can grasp the idea of a non-essential requisite. But Mr. Teetgen says many other curious things in his desire to let Mendelssohn down gently. For example, "it is a nice point, worthy of all discussion, whether Mendelssohn had genius or only talent." Mr. Teetgen proceeds to argue this point accordingly; but, inasmuch as there are many more definitions of genius than letters in the word, he thinks it necessary to give us his own: "Genius is inspired talent, especially distinguished by stroke of 'curious felicity;' talent is admirable ability, at its highest brilliant ability, leaving us doubtful whether it is genius or not, and quite uncertain itself how far it consciously copies or not." We are asked then to resolve whether Mendelssohn was a man of inspired talent, making strokes of curious felicity; or one of such admirable ability that we, on our part, cannot distinguish it from genius, while he himself could not decide how far he "consciously copied or not." Mr. Teetgen opines, still steering a middle course, that the master "had both;" in other words, that he had inspired talent, and the power of making curiously felicitous strokes, that he had, also, admirable ability, and the uncertainty of how far he was a conscious copyist. Readers will hardly expect us to take up a discussion which, in the character of its theme and the utter barrenness of its possible results, suggests the wrangles of the old theologians upon such questions as—"How many angels can stand on the point of a needle?" We simply draw attention to it as showing what absurd lengths men may reach when the wish fathers the thought. Why do not those who, for some reason or other, want to pull down Mendelssohn from his place among the masters recognise that an artist should be judged by his works, not by his possession of something nobody can define, nor by his personal surroundings, nor by his fondness for pretty gilt pocket-books? Wagner is none the worse as a musician because he has covered the front of his Bayreuth villa with frescoes and mottoes, and those who assail him must take up stronger ground if they mean to succeed. So with Mendelssohn's adversaries, who, if they are able to do him any harm at all, can only gratify their desire by opening the volume of his compositions and giving us chapter and verse for their objections. Vague talk will do nothing outside the ignorance which may be impressed by hollow-sounding emptiness. How, for example, can any sensible man be influenced by such stuff as this: "Schumann's is a wild starry nature, seen in its lone stillness and infinite depth; Mendelssohn more a cultivated landscape, a 'milord's' park. [Where are the points of comparison between a starry nature and a nobleman's park?] Who, with a soul for music, does not feel that in Schumann he gets 'glances into the deepest beauty,' as it were, into mystical flower-cups tearful with opaline dew, which he is never conscious of in Mendelssohn? The soul of twilight was in Schumann as it never could be in Mendelssohn; and the latter, too, with his feverish brain (seen in the hectic complexion of his music) had certainly also the potentiality of going mad, but from a different set of causes, in a different way, to poor dear Schumann, to the romantic-souled Weber, to the unfathomable Beethoven?" The writer then tells us that Goethe and Shakespeare differed from all these men in the impossibility of going mad, but we need not follow him further into the domain of Erasmus Wilson and Forbes Winslow, out of which he presently emerges not altogether unaffected by his visit, if we may judge from the following amazing sentence: "There is (in Mendelssohn's music) marked fire and passion (hectic? Jewish?), but it is that of a limited-, not world-soul; the concentration does not go on with, is not the inevitable outcome or pre-implied core of universality and depth." When the reader has a mind to perplex himself he may consider how a concentration "going on with" universality and depth can also be, at one and the same time, their outcome and pre-implied core, whatever that may mean. But for the present let him take heart for Mendelssohn, past whom all such language goes like the idle wind; and take warning for himself, so as not to be captured by inflated sentiments and dragged into rhetorical quagmires.

The critic of the Musical Standard seems to have been delighted at the fact that anybody noticed his report, and seized the first opportunity of stating that he had read Mr. Teetgen's article "with great pleasure." He seized the opportunity also of flinging another stone at Mendelssohn. Our instructor told us, in this instance, that acknowledged artists may be divided into three classes: "first, those who look upon art as something apart from themselves, and tangible, a thing of beauty that they must create; second, those who live in art, and to whom it is the expression of their inmost thoughts—when these two classes are united, then, and then only, we have genius" (another definition!); "and, third, those who talk pleasantly in art-language and are caressed and flattered by their contemporary artists." Here, first of all, because it plunges us into perplexity, we ask how a man who looks upon music as one regards a piece of sculpture, "apart from himself, and tangible," which he feels he must reproduce, can also "live in" music? and how the phenomenon of a man being outside and inside of a given thing at the same time can be the sine quâ non of genius? Of a truth, the detractors of Mendelssohn should look well to their course:

The slack sail shifts from side to side,
The boat, untrimmed, admits the tide—
Borne down adrift, at random tossed,
The oar breaks short, the rudder's lost.

But that is their business, happily, not ours, and we go on to observe that the writer in question asserts, "Mendelssohn belonged too much to the last of these roughly and hastily sketched classes to be a 'genius,' though he had too much of the first class in him to be a 'dilettante;' but as the qualities of the second class were entirely wanting in him, he will fail to appeal to the sympathies of humanity of all ages, and his work, if not his name, will die an early death." Alas, poor Mendelssohn! why didst thou talk pleasantly in art-language? Why be caressed and flattered by thy contemporaries? Hadst thou talked unpleasantly and persuaded all men to abuse thee, then perhaps, as well as looking at music from the outside, thou mightest have lived in it, and made it the vehicle for thy inmost thoughts. But, seriously, shall we answer the charge that Mendelssohn and music were not joined together as one soul? As soon take up the challenge of the eccentric gentleman who persists that the earth is flat. Shall we fear for the master's fame because he whom Ferdinand Hiller describes as "one of the brightest and most beautiful stars in the firmament of German art" is experiencing "the attacks of envy, of want of comprehension and judgment." No. Such attacks "can only bring dishonour on those from whom they come, for they will never succeed in detracting from the glory which surrounds his name."

ENGLISH OPERA

By CHARLES K. SALAMAN.

(Continued from page 167.)

BUT for the discouraging distrust, and chilling indifference to native musical talent, which, with rare exceptions, have been perseveringly maintained by our own countrymen, as well as by foreigners, and of which our illustrious musical ancestors, Lawes, Purcell, and others have so bitterly and justly complained, it is more than probable that, with fair opportunities to display their powers of composition, our eminent musicians, who have at all times shown themselves equal to their Continental brethren in musical erudition, would have become as conspicuous for excellence in music for the stage as for the church. Encouragement is essential to the attainment of success. To aspiring genius it is as morning dew to vegetation: without its refreshing influence art droops and withers. It is undeniable that a baleful and unjust prejudice against our native music and musicians has been oftentimes engendered and sustained by the musicians of this country themselves. Instead of boldly asserting and maintaining for native musical talent a fair claim to prominence and acknowledgment, they have, in too many instances, yielded a precedence to inferior foreign musical compositions and performances, and acknowledged in them a super-excellence, which, in numberless cases, has had no real existence. British musicians have also delayed the universal recognition of merit in English music, and done injury to the cause of native talent, by their assumption of foreign names and titles, in order, as it would appear, to conceal their nationality. This evil, so detrimental to our national character as musicians, should receive every possible discouragement, and the severest condemnation. We know that a long-nurtured prejudice against the native musical productions of this country exists: if we would remove it, we must inspire confidence in others by displaying it ourselves.

In the preceding chapters English Opera has been viewed in its infancy, its youth, and in its progress towards manhood. It has now to be regarded under another aspect—in its approach to maturity, and in its ripeness.

However admirable and popular had been, in their day, Bishop's Operas, and those of his countrymen, of his own and an earlier period, it began to be tacitly admitted, before the first quarter of the present century had been reached, that they had grown out of date, that foreign Operas had superseded them, and that, for native Opera again to invite with success the nation's regard, it must be presented under new conditions. It was acknowledged that modern English Opera must conform, more or less, to modern ideas, and be constructed upon principles adopted by the musicians of the Continent, and, moreover, in accord with the increasing general cultivation of the musical art in all countries, without surrendering such special qualities as might be deemed essentially national.

That British composers, with no near prospect of witnessing the representation of their Operas, should occupy themselves in their composition was not to be expected. Not having in England, as in France, Italy, and Germany, national theatres—wholly or partially supported by Government—for the performance of national Opera, the musicians of England have had to await favourable opportunities for producing their dramatic compositions. As none appeared in view when the operatic reign of Henry Bishop was over, legitimate English Opera then closed her eyes, and slumbered.

In the summer of 1834, otherwise musically memorable, appeared the prospect of a bright present, and a brilliant and hopeful future, for native Opera. At this period the new "English Opera House," in the Strand, which had been rebuilt to replace its unfortunate predecessor, destroyed by fire, was completed. With this consummation the hopes of English musicians revived. The old English Opera House, so called, had been erected by the famous Dr. Samuel Arnold, the composer of many English Operas and Oratorios, towards the close of the last, or the commencement of the present century, as a home for native Opera, and with the design to connect with it a National School of Music. This desirable plan was, however, frustrated by the proprietors of the Theatres Royal, Drury Lane and Covent Garden, who obstinately opposed the grant of the Lord Chamberlain's license. It was subsequently obtained, and many English Operas, and Operas in English, were performed there. The proprietor of the theatre was Mr. S. J. Arnold, the dramatist, a son of the late Dr. Arnold. Following the laudable example of his father, he desired to encourage and uphold national Opera at his new establishment, and, with the trumpet of faith and hope, he summoned the composers of England to enter the lists in honourable competition. The first to respond was Edward John Loder of Bath—then about twenty-three years of age. He had been studying music at Frankfort under Ferdinand Ries, and, returning home towards the completion of the new building, received from Arnold a libretto of his own writing, with a commission to set it to music. The book, entitled "Nourjahad," was devoid of interest, and presented no scope to the ambitious young aspirant for operatic fame to introduce into his Opera dramatic situations which might suggest effective concerted music. The songs, duets, trios, and choruses were charmingly composed, and displayed considerable talent for dramatic music, but they were to some extent independent of the plot, and, on that account, perhaps of more commercial value to the publisher, a desideratum too often taken into consideration by English composers, to the injury of dramatic consistency. The success of "Nourjahad" was so qualified as almost to amount to a failure. Loder's ability was acknowledged by musicians, but his Opera failed to attract the public. After several performances, to audiences which "grew small by degrees and beautifully less," to the evident discomfiture of the establishment's treasury, the piece was withdrawn. Despite the non-success of Loder's first Opera, it opened a new field of operation for the dramatic composers of Great Britain. "Nourjahad" was followed, in 1835, by Loder's "Dice of Death." His "Francis I." is an Opera made up of independent, unconnected songs, duets, and trios, which the composer had supplied to D'Almaine and Co. by contract, and which had already been published. It met with no success.

"The Night Dancers," Loder's best and most charming Opera, was successful at the Princess's Theatre in 1846, and again in 1850; and on its revival at Covent Garden, under the Pyne and Harrison management, in 1860. "Raymond and Agnes" (1853) is another Opera of considerable merit, which it is hoped may, at no distant period, be resuscitated. But for his erratic life, and his inattention to professional engagements, Edward Loder would, no doubt, have made a more impressive and enduring mark upon the history of English music.

We now come to a very distinguished name, that of John Barnett, who is remarkable as being the first British musician who composed an English Opera constructed upon modern principles. He was born at Bedford, in 1802. His musical disposition was manifested almost in infancy. When a boy, he attained celebrity as a theatrical contralto singer. He was soon before the public as a composer of songs, many of which became rapidly popular. Barnett was successful in his first essay at dramatic music in 1825, and, in consequence, he received a commission to compose "The Carnival of Naples," for Covent Garden Theatre, in 1830. A small comic Opera, written by Buckstone for Mrs. Fitzwilliam, called the "Pet of the Petticoats," composed by Barnett for Sadler's Wells Theatre, in 1832, attracted to that out-of-the-way establishment all the professional and non-professional world of harmony, to hear music then novel in character, and charming as it was novel. At the urgent request of Braham, Barnett set to music an operatic arrangement of the fine old comedy, "A Bold Stroke for a Wife." Through no defect in the music, but because the piece was ill suited to musical purposes, it failed on its first appearance. The composer had no time for the composition of an Overture, and borrowed for the occasion Weber's brilliant Overture, "The Ruler of the Spirits," then comparatively unknown. The critics were severe upon the Opera, and the Post pronounced the Overture to be the "worst part" of it. Having, by diligent study, patient perseverance, and practice, acquired considerable experience in the technical arrangement of dramatic music, Barnett, with ardent ambition, and high aims, awaited his opportunity to exhibit the results of his ripened powers in the composition of an Opera of greater pretensions than he had as yet attempted. The opportunity was forthcoming in 1834.

It had been arranged by Arnold that Loder's "Nourjahad" should be immediately succeeded by an Opera by John Thompson, of Edinburgh, called "Hermann; or, the Broken Spear," the parts of which were already copied; but, through the irresistible influence of Henry Phillips, Arnold consented to lay it aside for John Barnett's "Mountain Sylph," which was in process of completion, and in which Phillips desired to sing. This charming Opera, the production of which marks an epoch in the lyric history of England, had, in its inception, assumed the miniature proportions of an Operetta. It was founded upon the subject of the Ballet, "La Sylphide," which was rendered famous, first in Paris, and afterwards in London, by the exquisite dancing of Mdle. Taglioni. With the growing expectations of the composer, and the prospect of its early appearance on the stage, the work increased in dimensions and importance, and the Operetta became an Opera. The Overture, which has since been entirely re-written, was completed only two days before its performance. The Opera, ably supported by Miss Romer as the Sylph, Wilson, the Scotch tenor, as Donald, and Henry Phillips as the Wizard, gained an immense success. The several scenes in which the dramatic interest of the plot is developed are enriched by characteristic and effective music; and in like manner is the entire action of the Opera supported. Macfarren describes the "Mountain Sylph" as "an Opera in the modern form, in which the music throughout illustrates the action; in which an extensive technical design embodies a continuous dramatic expression." The name of the composer, already distinguished as one of England's most able musicians, was rendered yet more renowned by the successful production of this, his first important Opera. The hundredth night of its performance was celebrated by a grand banquet, given by the manager to the composer, author, singers, and all the other principal persons who were engaged in its representation. Barnett's German proclivities, and the influence which the dramatic music of Beethoven, Mozart, Weber, and Spohr had exercised upon his imagination, are clearly discernible in the construction of this Opera, the arrangement of its concerted vocal music, and his rich instrumental score. In availing himself of the experiences of the great foreign masters of his own time, as well as those of an earlier period, Barnett manifested a true comprehension of his vocation, while he exhibited a firm reliance on his own genius by adhering to a speciality of style, as transparent in his new, as it had been in his earlier compositions.

"Fair Rosamond" was Barnett's next great Opera, and it was also the first English Opera upon an English historical subject. It was composed in 1835, and produced at Drury Lane Theatre, under Bunn's management in 1837. It had a run of fifty nights. Many causes combined to deprive this able work of the complete success which its high merits should have secured. The composer, by skilfully interweaving with his own original music melodies and snatches of melody of the Old English national type, as in his "Mountain Sylph" he had combined ancient Scotch tunes—the scene of that Opera being laid among the Highlands of Scotland—had aimed at imparting a national tone to his national subjects. This intention was, in "Fair Rosamond," not justly apprehended. A Ballet, of nearly an hour's duration, introduced by the despotism of Bunn, for the sole purpose, as it appeared, of engaging the services of a numerous and expensive corps de ballet, wearied the audience. The nightly encore of a Madrigal, composed in imitation of the music of the sixteenth century, proved that, while the excellence of the composition was appreciated, the national love for the English part-music of olden times had not died out. Barnett produced his "Farinelli" at Drury Lane Theatre in 1839. The hero of the Opera, who was born in 1702, and died in 1782, was the most renowned male soprano singer of his time. By an apparently strange inconsistency, the part of "Farinelli" was given to Henry Phillips, the then best baritone. A quarrel between Bunn and Phillips occasioned the retirement of the latter from the theatrical establishment, and the representation of "Farinelli" was entrusted to Michael Balfe, composer, singer, and lyric actor. By an unaccountable fit of nervousness and over-anxiety to succeed, he broke down on the first night of his appearance. This untoward event dimmed the Opera's success. It was, nevertheless, performed fifty or sixty times. Barnett's last Opera, "Kathleen," has never been performed, although it was rehearsed for performance at the St. James's Theatre, of which its composer was for a short period the proprietor. Barnett, from some unexplained cause, withdrew from the perilous position of theatrical manager a wiser, although a poorer man, having lost the savings of many years of unremitting professional labour. At the same time, retiring altogether from the metropolis, he established himself as a provincial teacher of singing at Cheltenham. Success having crowned his many years of persevering industry in his vocation, the now venerable composer and esteemed musician is, at the age of seventy-five years, enjoying his otium cum dignitate, yet not wholly unemployed, at his charming country residence near Cheltenham. For many years Barnett has preserved a kind of sullen musical silence. That his Operas should have been overlooked by those who have professed to uphold English Opera must seem as unaccountable to his countrymen and to strangers as it is discreditable to us as a musical nation.

George Alexander Macfarren has perhaps done more than any other composer to sustain the native Opera of England. He is not only an English composer, but a composer of English music. This is evidenced by his selection of subjects for some of his most important works: "Charles II." (1849), "Robin Hood" (1860), "She Stoops to Conquer" (1864), "Helvellyn" (1866), "May Day," and "Christmas." In the four Operas and two Cantatas above named, Macfarren has given to his music a local colouring, so to speak, suggestive of the Old English national associations he has desired to revive. The sports and pastimes of the middle ages in England, which the composer has dramatically introduced to the accompaniment of characteristic music in imitation of the ancient national festive dance-tunes of the period, have powerfully assisted to impress a special English character upon his national Operas. Macfarren's intimate acquaintance with every style of music of every country and period, his practical experience in every department of the musical art, and moreover his profound knowledge of all that relates to the national music of Great Britain and Ireland, have specially qualified this accomplished English musician to possess the musical belt of England as champion of her music and as the unflinching maintainer of its rights.

Macfarren was born in London in 1813, and received his musical training at the Royal Academy of Music, of which he is now the honoured Principal. He was first brought to public notice as a dramatic composer in 1838, by the production of his "Devil's Opera." His next Opera, "Don Quixote," performed under the management of Bunn at Drury Lane Theatre in 1846, exhibited even higher musical and dramatic qualities than its predecessor, but, strange to relate, it did not obtain an equal popularity. An eminent musical critic, referring to the production of Macfarren's "Charles II.," remarks: "This was his first genuine English Opera, or, more strictly speaking, his first Opera built upon an English subject, and thus admitting a certain approximation to the English style of melody. That style, it must be understood, was essentially the old style; the influence of foreign dramatic music, German, French, and Italian, upon our composers, during a long series of years, having almost totally annihilated the legitimate English school which Bishop had been the last to enrich, and the first in his 'Aladdin' to repudiate, 'Charles II.' was a successful exemplification of how much could be effected by the aid of this national element, without in any way compromising the higher requisites of operatic forms." It must be admitted that there exists no recognised modern English school of music, and that neither is there any modern foreign school worthy of admiration or adoption. No composer of any pretension to eminence in any country is now-a-days the follower of any particular school of music. He works now independently of all schools—he follows only the instincts of his nature, and the natural bent of his genius. Conventionalism in music has burst its bonds. Music has become cosmopolitan. Nevertheless, by a moderate adherence to the style of our national English music, founded originally, no doubt, upon the tone, accent, and rhythm of our language, and by occasional reference to the acknowledged Old English school of music, a distinctive, special character may be given to our native compositions, when desirable, which may fairly claim to be genuine English music. Although it may be sensibly affected by a variety of influences, its national character may be thus not only preserved, but strengthened.

The English language is an aggregate of many foreign languages, in connection with the aboriginal. "There is, perhaps," says MaxMüller, "no language so full of words evidently derived from the most distant sources, as English. Every country of the globe seems to have brought some of its verbal manufactures to the intellectual market of England. Latin, Greek, Hebrew, Celtic, Saxon, Danish, French, Spanish, Italian, German—nay, even Hindustani, Malay, and Chinese words, lie mixed together in the English language." It is not the less English on that account. Our language is enriched by the combination. In like manner our music, not being a servile imitation of any particular style, but, on the contrary, an amalgamation of all styles, may claim the wide privilege of our language, and be nevertheless essentially English. The thoughtful musician of every country, bee-like, should extract musical honey from the exotics of foreign lands, as well as from his native fruits and flowers. Thus he may form a style of his own; and, avoiding mannerism, impress an unmistakable individuality upon his works, as Gounod, Meyerbeer, Gluck, and others have done.

Macfarren's charming Opera, "Helvellyn," offers a perfect and practical illustration of the foregoing reflections. It is an Opera of the highest rank, which has too long been permitted to "waste its sweetness on the desert air." This genial work, as elegantly melodious as it is musically and dramatically classical, embodies with a large amount of passionately effective music, an undercurrent of pure English tune which imparts a national tone to its scene and subject. Limited space precludes the possibility of entering minutely into the merits of Macfarren's other Operas—which can only be briefly mentioned. The following are amongst the more important: "Robin Hood" (1860); "The Sleeper Awakened." This Opera, composed under promise of performance, which, however, did not take place, was produced as a Serenata, in 1850, at the National Concerts, held at Her Majesty's Theatre. Macfarren's smaller and earlier dramatic pieces are, "The Maid of Switzerland" (1832); "Genevieve" (1834); "I and my Double" (1835); "The Old Oak-tree" (1835)—the three latter Operas were represented at the English Opera House—"Love among the Roses" (1839), at the St. James's Theatre; "Agnes Bernauer," at Covent Garden Theatre (1839); "Emblematical Tribute," a Masque for Her Majesty Queen Victoria's Wedding, at Drury Lane Theatre; and "Freya's Gift," a Masque for the Prince of Wales's Wedding, at Covent Garden Theatre.

William Sterndale Bennett was not a composer of Operas. It is said that George Linley offered to write a libretto for him. "But I must have no drinking chorus," said Bennett. He received the book, which began thus: "Act I. Scene I. Soldiers discovered singing and drinking." The composer read no further, and closed the book. Only some of the most prominent workers in the domain of English Opera have been mentioned in the foregoing account of its history. In the next, and concluding chapter, other British Opera-composers and their productions will be noticed.

(To be continued.)

THE LAW OF MUSICAL COPYRIGHT.

IN so far as we are able to comprehend Nature's operations, we are impressed not only by a sense of her wisdom but of her economy. So much that once seemed useless is now known to have an important mission, that everybody accepts as an axiom the statement, "nothing exists in vain." Therefore, Mr. Harry Wall, Secretary of the "Authors, Composers, and Artists' Copyright and Performing Right Protection Society," is not, as one might suppose, simply and solely a nuisance. It is astonishing how the existence and acts of objectionable persons come to be overruled by a beneficent Providence for the common good. Thus an important change in the Law of Judicature, operating entirely for the benefit of innocence suspected of crime, may be traced to a gentleman of Rugeley, named Palmer, who died on the roof of Stafford jail. In like fashion, an alteration in the Law of Copyright, operating entirely for the peace and comfort of the musical world, may arise from the behaviour of Mr. Harry Wall. Mr. Wall—a contemporary styles him "the man Wall," but on consideration we will drop the qualifying substantive—seems admirably fitted by nature to act as the means of so good an end. Whoever is destined to bring a bad law into prominence, or to show the need of mending an imperfect one, should have no scruples and we are bound to say that Mr. Harry Wall fulfils the condition. He has no scruples, and he will ultimately succeed in establishing a necessity for the reform we now propose to advocate in a different way. Let our readers remember this as they peruse the next paragraph. The reflection may temper their anger, and induce them to tolerate Mr. Wall so long as he serves a purpose.

We have already (see "Musical Times," March 1, 1876) adverted to the character of Mr. Wall's operations, and the mode in which he conducts the not very honourable, though it may be perfectly legal, business on which, in the absence of anything better or the capacity for anything better, he has embarked. We have also given certain instances wherein Mr. Wall greatly distinguished himself. By this time, however, the person to whom we refer has acquired whatever in his particular sphere may be equivalent to heroic proportions. In order to snatch forty-shilling penalties or obtain ten-guinea subscriptions for the "Society" he has literally stuck at nothing. Last month—we are indebted to Figaro for all these particulars—he called upon Messrs. Chappell to pay smart-money for the performance at one of their own concerts, of a song "which they themselves published and claim to own." Next he demanded a penalty of Mr. Kuhe because, at the Brighton Festival, Miss Giulia Warwick sang "I dreamt that I dwelt in marble halls," whereas, as we are personally able to testify, she did nothing of the kind; the young lady, as sharp as Mr. Wall, using other words than those protected by the "Society." Next he came down upon an amateur of Harlesden for singing "Sweet spirit, hear my prayer," and this we look upon as his master-stroke. The concert was given for the benefit of a rheumatic railway porter, or rather of his helpless wife and family, and therefore presented just such a case as might induce any man with "bowels of mercies" to refrain from putting the law in action. But pathetic circumstances have no effect upon him whom we will not style "the man Wall." A demand for compensation was made in the name of Frank Bodda, owner of the performing right, and a sovereign, we are told, was actually paid and received. In his "One of the Thirty," Mr. Hargrave Jennings traced the malevolent history of a coin that had passed through the hands of Judas. The Hargrave Jennings of the future, it is to be feared, will discover materials for another such a volume. Mr. Wall could not, of course, surpass his Harlesden achievement but he has come very near it once or twice. At a concert given in the village of Milton an amateur sang "Who's that tapping at the garden-gate?" and soon found out that it was Mr. Wall with his stereotyped demand for penalties. Once more, at a Penny Reading in the village of Sutton a child of fifteen sang "When other lips," and subjected the managers of the entertainment to a requisition for forty shillings at forty-eight hours' notice, "having paid which," Mr. Wall might have said, "then you'll remember me." These are no doubt but a few cases out of many not yet before the public, and they represent an amount of annoyance, perhaps actual suffering, such as might well evoke the question—Can Mr. Wall be justified by the law in acting as he does? We regret to say that there is nothing in the state of the law which makes his justification impossible, and it is to this fact that we now ask the careful attention of our readers.

The Act 3 and 4 Will. IV., c. 15, gave to the author, or his assignee, of any printed and unpublished tragedy, comedy, play, opera, farce, or other dramatic piece or entertainment, the sole right of having it represented in any part of the British dominions; and further enacted that "if any person should represent, or cause to be represented, without the consent in writing of the author or other proprietor, at any place of dramatic entertainment, any such production, or any part thereof, every such offender should be liable for each and every such representation to the payment of an amount not less than 40s.," &c. All these provisions were, by the 5 and 6 Vict., c. 45, extended to musical compositions, so that in law no copyright song can be publicly sung nor tune publicly played without the permission of the composer or his assigns. So far no hardship was entailed and no difficulty created; the law simply and justly recognised a right of property in the public performance of musical works. But let us look a little further. In the case of Cumberland v. Planché the Court of Queen's Bench held that the transfer of the copyright of a play involved a transfer of the right of representation also, and this was felt to be such a grievance that the 22nd sec. of 5 and 6 Vict., c. 45, specially enacted the contrary. The law thus created declares that no assignment of the copyright of any book, consisting of or containing a dramatic piece or musical composition, shall be holden to convey to the assignee the right of representing or performing such dramatic piece or musical composition, unless an entry in the registry book at Stationers' Hall shall be made of such assignment, wherein shall be expressed the intention of such parties that such right should pass by such assignment. Here again the law is but just. It recognises two distinct properties in a musical composition—first, the right of publication; second, the right of performance; and it seeks to have them clearly defined. But though in the theory so created there was a right of property in the public performance of a song, in practice that right was altogether ignored. And for obvious reasons. When A, a composer, sold a song to B, a publisher, neither A nor B gave a thought to the performing right, which if enforced must act as a tax upon the publicity, and therefore upon the popularity of the work. A's reservation of it, moreover, would lower the value of the piece to B, and B's acquisition of it, since it could not be asserted without damage to the proprietor, did not entitle A to raise his terms on its account. Practically, therefore, the performing right was treated as though it had no existence. But in law it existed all the same, and the consequence was, and is, that a double proprietorship obtains. B can publish the song, but A, if he pleases, can say, "Whoever sings it in public without my written consent shall pay a fine of forty shillings and costs of process." Music publishers, like all other Englishmen, are expected to know the laws under which they live, and to regulate themselves accordingly. But surely, if ever a body of Englishmen may plead excuse for negligence it is in this case. They could not imagine that the performing right which they omitted to take over would be used against them. As well, looking at the honourable character of the musical profession, could they foresee the existence of Mr. Harry Wall? But this is just the flaw upon which Mr. Harry Wall laid his finger, and we can imagine that the moment of its discovery was a thrilling one. Provided he could get the authors of the words and music of popular songs to claim what virtually did not belong to them, the vista of 40s. fines before his eyes stretched out indefinitely. New songs, of course, would not be interfered with, because, even if the authors did not want publicity, performers would quietly score them out of their repertoire. But such favourites as "When other lips" and "I dreamt that I dwelt" the public demand. "Then," said Mr. Wall, "let the artists pay for the right of performance or sing them at their peril." But how as to the poor publishers, thus suddenly confronted with a tax upon the use of property bought as absolutely unencumbered? "As to them," Mr. Wall might have observed, had he known the meaning of the term, "caveat emptor." At any rate their hardship has not been permitted to influence the protective "Society's" action, and they have to endure as best they may a state of things which, though within the letter of the law, is outside the pale of justice. But we regret most of all that any persons connected with the musical profession should have been found willing to become Mr. Wall's clients, and take advantage of a legal power the use of which was never contemplated when the right of publication was sold. Nothing meaner can well be imagined. But money will entice through dirty ways—though no accumulation of it can ever wash off the contracted stain—and all we can do in this case is to assure the offenders that they have the contempt of right-thinking men.

So far the fault does not exist in the law itself, but we shall now see that it is capable of a simple reform which, if carried out, will remove all cause of difficulty and reason of complaint. The grievance felt by artists and amateurs is not that a right of property exists in performance, but that there are no ready means of discovering in whom that right is vested. This constitutes Mr. Harry Wall's strong point. If you ask the "Society" for information as to the performing right of a given song, the precious "secretary" declines to supply it except for a consideration. He leaves you to work in the dark, and if the property he guards be touched, swoops down for penalties. The possibility of this should not be. It is too much to suppose that every artist and amateur who sings in public can be always searching the register at Stationers' Hall for the names and addresses of those who own performing rights. No such difficulty exists in connection with the publishing right. The owner's name appears on every sheet, and those who wish to transact business with him know exactly where to go. Why not assimilate the practice in the one case to that in the other, and since two properties exist in the same thing inform the public by the same means who are the holders? We earnestly commend this easy way out of a perplexing situation to the Copyright Commission now sitting. If it be enacted that every musical composition shall bear on its title-page not only the name and address of the holder of the copyright, as virtually is the case now, but also the name and address of the holder of the performing right, all cause for complaint will disappear, especially as it would be found that in most cases the latter would renounce his claim. Moreover, the simple measure we advocate would make Mr. Harry Wall's game scarcely worth the candle. He flourishes upon the necessary ignorance of his victims. Acquaint all men when they are in danger of infringing the rights of his clients, and the office-boy—who for aught we know is Mr. Wall himself—will soon be seen closing for good the shutters of the "Authors, Composers, and Artists' Copyright and Performing Right Protection Society."

CHILDREN'S MUSIC

SOME time ago I recollect that a method of teaching languages, called the "Hamiltonian System," obtained a certain degree of patronage, and an Institution, I think, was established for the purpose of spreading a knowledge of its merits to the public. It was based upon the fact that, as a child does not learn its mother tongue grammatically at first, but merely picks up words with which to express its wants, and leaves all study of the scientific construction of sentences until a later period, every person, of whatever age, who desires to acquire a foreign language, being precisely in the condition of a child, should proceed in the same manner, and begin in fact by speaking, instead of by learning rules and endeavouring to translate exercises founded upon them. I do not know whether this system is still in existence, but there is unquestionably a large amount of truth in it; and I have little doubt that, as teachers shake themselves free from the pedantry which has so obscured many subjects for years that the clear beauty of them could be revealed only to the chosen few, we may learn to look leniently upon a theory which, although regarded by many professors of the time as unworthy of serious attention, was nevertheless grounded upon a thoroughly rational notion. It is certainly obvious that, not usually hearing the foreign language we are studying spoken constantly around us, as we do that of our native country, the parallel advanced by the inventor of this system would scarcely hold; but it must be remembered that in adopting this method we are only pursuing that with which we commence our ordinary infantile lessons, for, in most of these, we learn to make our bricks before we are taught to build with them. A pen, for example, is placed in the hand of a child and he is told to write in certain given forms until, almost unconsciously, he finds that he has letters under his hand, and by putting these letters together, that he can construct words. In learning to draw we do not begin by poring over the rules of perspective, nor even by attempting roughly to represent a house or a tree, but by making straight lines, curves, varied kinds of shading, and other preliminaries which are afterwards to be applied in their proper places.

Now it has often occurred to me that if this principle were adopted in teaching the pianoforte we should in every instance have much more satisfactory results. How many young persons are utterly wearied with what is termed "music," before they can play even a simple piece correctly, merely because they are made to perform a daily drudgery with the fingers, whilst the mind remains perfectly inactive? What gratification, I would ask, can a child derive from playing six even notes in a bar, whilst a teacher thumps six times with a pencil upon the pianoforte, and occasionally, where any trip is made, upon the knuckles of the pupil? Why, the poor victim is never told that the observance of the swing, or rhythm, of the little piece is the magic that transforms this painful noise into pleasurable music; it never occurs to him that the mechanical and uninteresting succession of notes can be made to sing under his fingers with an eloquence not to be resisted, because he is made to fag at the hard and dry rules of the language, instead of attempting to catch its meaning. If a child is to derive any pleasure from music he must be trained to listen, not to the notes separately, but in connection with each other. Counting is very good for quantity; but the eternal "one, two, three," &c., must be put into shape from the first, or it will assuredly drive all sense of rhythm from the mind. Scales, too, should, like everything else, be acquired very gradually, for there can be no reason why any more difficulties should be presented than those which are absolutely necessary to be surmounted before the little lessons of the day can be played. I have myself seen a juvenile pupil made to attempt the scale of D flat major—the keys plentifully watered with her tears—although her portfolio contained not a single piece that was not in C or G.

In singing I would even more strenuously advocate something like the "Hamiltonian System," for here, at least, we have natural music. Let children, I say, sing first, and be taught to sing afterwards. The ear should be tuned before the voice is touched, or the interest in music itself is never awakened, and "learning to sing," like what is too often called "learning to play," becomes a task in which a love of what is beautiful in the art is carefully held back. I have examples within my recollection where the desire to sing has been crushed by books in which not only the most difficult intervals are exhibited, but grim drawings of the "glottis," accompanied with learned essays upon voice-production and the correct management of the breath. I have nothing whatever to say against these works, if they are only brought forward at the right time; but young people want to sing, and not to see coloured representations of their throats turned inside out: it is like keeping a child from the sight and odour of lovely flowers, whilst you dissect them upon a table to exhibit and explain their anatomy.

Again, it may be asked why a young player should not be permitted to pick up as much knowledge as he can of the theory of music in his usual practice? Is he not gathering up chords under his fingers every day, either together or in arpeggio? and would it not be very easy for him to learn that a bass note with a third and fifth is a "common chord"—nay, further, that although he may turn these about in any manner, if he add any note he produces a discord? Here an interest is at once created, for a pupil will certainly feel a pride in being able to know a concord from a discord by such simple means, and may begin to believe that the rudiments of that dreadful study called "Harmony" cannot be so very difficult after all. Children are tractable enough when a subject is made agreeable to them; and many, for instance, will even consider it an amusement to find out what key they are playing in if they are told that they start from their home when they embark on a musical journey, and come back to it when their journey is over. "Why this piece seems to be in the key of C," said a young child to me a short time since; "but not the C I knew before, because the E is flat, and the A too." Here, indeed, is the truth, expressed in most truthful language—a rough method of saying that the piece was in C minor; but then this little student had been allowed to think for herself, and had her "Instruction book"—which informed her that three flats at the signature determined the key of E flat major—carefully removed.

I cannot but think that the time is not far distant when music shall cease to be made unattractive to young pupils; for of all the studies in the nursery school-room it should be regarded as that which most brings forth the fresh and joyous feelings of childhood. If, as I believe, there is something in the teaching which stands in the way of this result, then let us do our utmost to reform it. The "Hamiltonian System" may not be applicable in all its integrity to the study of music, but the principle is right in the main. A child should not see at first a vision of all that he has to learn. As well might he be constantly told of the struggles and difficulties he will have to encounter in life. He will know them all quite soon enough—no occasion to cloud his sunny days with the shadow of miseries to come. H. C. LUNN.

REALLY the cuckoo gives more trouble to musicians than any other bird with whose song we are familiar. It is true that we often see in books the notes said to be emitted by the various feathered little warblers who greet us in a country walk; but unfortunately we do not hear these sounds as they are written down. The blackbird, for instance, is credited with singing the major common chord, the nightingale is said to give us at least a portion of a diatonic scale; yet even the advocates of tempered intervals would scarcely, we think, like to have their pianofortes tuned according to this natural music. But, as we have said, the cuckoo is the bird which evidently takes delight in worrying us; for composers never can agree as to the pitch of the two notes which form so prominent a portion of our sylvan concerts in the Spring. Beethoven, in his Pastoral Symphony, writes a major third, but Dr. Ferdinand Hiller, in one of his beautiful Chamber Trios, writes a minor third; and, although we do not know any instance of a musician being bold enough to note it, we have certainly heard this perverse bird sing almost a major second. In proof of the interest taken in this matter, we have now received a letter, signed "Mus. Bac.," in which the truth of an observation in our review upon Mr. Pearson's Madrigal, "Spring," in the last number, that "we never hear the cuckoo sing a major third save in musical compositions," is boldly questioned. The writer says, "In this country, at least, the major third is well known as the cuckoo's first song," although he admits that he afterwards hears it sing a minor third, and even a major second. Well, we are sorry to question the accuracy of ear in a "Mus. Bac.," but there can be no doubt that if these birds will insist upon so varying their song, composers will continue to differ in indicating it upon paper; and when we find such authorities as Beethoven and Dr. Hiller disagree upon the subject, we feel still inclined to cling to our belief that as the two notes do not perfectly express any recognised musical interval, we can only get an approximation to the truth with our present system of notation.

CONSIDERING the status of the professors at the Royal Academy of Music, it would be difficult to imagine that a more competent jury for the examination of students and the adjudication of rewards of merit could be found than one selected from the staff of the Institution itself. As it has frequently, however, been said that, whatever the reputation of a teacher, he should not form one of a board when pupils of his own are amongst the candidates for honours, we are glad to find that at the recent competition for a gold medal given by Dr. Llewelyn Thomas for the best declamatory and expressional singing, the examiners were artists entirely unconnected with the Academy. It will be unnecessary to enlarge upon the qualifications of Mr. W. H. Cummings, the Chevalier Lemmens, and Mr. Sims Reeves, for the performance of the duties they undertook; and as it is probable that few of the names of the students who sang on the occasion were known to them, not even the most incorrigible cynic could imagine that there was the slightest favouritism shown. But although three eminent members of the profession can be found to give their valuable services during a short trial of this kind, it becomes a question whether the same principle, however desirable it may be, can be carried out at the annual examination of the students. It is a comparatively trifling matter to listen to the singing of fifteen candidates for a prize; but to examine and report upon the progress of three hundred and forty pupils in every branch of study is another matter. There may, however, be professors out of the Academy who would voluntarily bind themselves day after day to a task undertaken every year by the teachers in the Institution; and although we cannot believe that the late experiment at all proves this, we should be glad if the question were tested; for, even if unsuccessful, the Committee of Management would at least convince the public that every method had been tried to ensure on all occasions a thoroughly impartial verdict.

MR. MAPLESON'S reticence upon the subject of his "Grand National Opera House" on the Thames Embankment, since he has secured Her Majesty's Theatre, seems somewhat singular when we call to recollection his glowing speech upon laying the "first brick" and the "first stone" of an establishment which was to combine schools for instruction in music as well as in dancing, with a theatre for the performance of the lyrical drama. The truth is that, as there was nothing "national" about the undertaking, the nation did not respond to the call for aid; and the lessee, being wise enough to see this in time, merely takes a building suitable for his purpose, and acting on the principle of the old proverb, "The least said the soonest mended," issues his prospectus without a word of explanation upon the virtual abandonment of a project so gigantic in proportion as to have excited universal attention, and even to have caused an animated debate in the House of Commons. As we have never wavered in the belief that the patronage of Opera in Italian is a mere fashion in this country, and that the fashion is rapidly on the decline, we are, of course, by no means astonished at the collapse of this undertaking. As a "winter of very great severity," however, cannot have helped to retard building operations, as it was stated to have done when Mr. Mapleson published his prospectus last year, we cannot but think that, were any cause now assigned for the non-completion of the new edifice, the lessee would be driven to acknowledge that it is for want of funds. Would not, then, the moral be forced upon us that until a sufficient pecuniary guarantee could be secured, it would have been better to withhold the promises so confidently put forth; and, above all things, not to run up a structure and then trust to fate whether it shall be roofed in or pulled down?

ALTHOUGH, as our readers must be aware, we are at all times ready to invite discussion upon matters of general interest connected with the art to which our journal is devoted, we desire it to be distinctly understood that we do not wish to draw forth correspondence either for or against the opinions expressed in our reviews. An announcement of this kind would not, of course, be necessary were we merely to consign letters containing criticisms upon our own criticisms to that essential portion of the furniture of an editor's office, the waste-paper basket; but the fact is, that communications of this kind have latterly so grown that, in common courtesy to the many writers who may consider themselves aggrieved by no notice of their voluminous effusions having appeared, we beg to assure them that their letters have been duly received, but that when, once our judgment upon a work has been recorded, it is not likely that we shall reverse it because one or two of our readers do not agree with it, nor that we shall feel inclined to print a kindly testimony to the justice of our verdict. Of course, it is almost needless to say that when composers who have been reviewed write themselves, it is only to say that any faults we may have found with their works can be logically proved to be no faults at all. Favourable notices are always considered by authors to be just, when on their own productions, a fact which has been immortalised in Sheridan's "Critic," where Sir Fretful Plagiary writhes in agony during some disparaging remark upon his play; but when Mrs. Dangle declares that she can find no fault with it, bursts forth with the naïve assertion that "the women are the best judges after all."

A CORRESPONDENT of the Guardian, owing to the fact that a certain curate has announced himself as a Doctor of Divinity of New England University, U.S. of America, has made inquiries as to the real existence of such a seat of learning, and writes from Newhaven, Connecticut, to say that such a University was incorporated by the New Hampshire Legislature in July 1875. But he adds, "discreditable facts soon came to light, and the Act to incorporate the University was absolutely repealed at the next Session of the Legislature, July 18, 1876." It also appears that the University never had a Dean, Professor, or Student! The respected young curate to whom we have alluded has shown himself to have been sinned against by his frank avowal of the source of his degree. No profession has anything to fear when its members openly declare the University by which they have been honoured; but a real mischief is done by men who decline indignantly to give any account of how or where they have been dubbed with titles.

THE Saturday Organ Recitals at the Albert Hall must have been welcomed by a large section of the public. Already several well-known organists have given interesting programmes, and we hear that the result is so far satisfactory that the performances will be continued every Saturday afternoon during the present season.

In reference to our paragraph on the subject of the Sherborne organistship, we are pleased to be able to state that the present holder of that post is not going to leave it. Our correspondent cannot have had any mala fides in making the statement, inasmuch as he regretted the supposed change.

DEATH OF MR. CHARLES NEATE.

So many years have elapsed since the name of Charles Neate has been heard in the musical profession, of which he was the oldest living member, that to the younger generation of musicians his name may be wholly unknown, while to those who remember him in former years it may be a surprise to learn that he was yet among the living up to the 30th day of March last, when, at the advanced age of ninety-three, he departed this life at his residence, St. George's Place, Brighton.

Charles Neate in his day was one of England's most respected musicians, and was prominent among the following eminent pianists, who were then residents in or visitors to this country, viz., Clementi, Dussek, Steibelt, John Field, Ferdinand Ries, Woelfl, Potter, Cramer, Kalkbrenner, Madame Duicken, Mrs. Anderson, and Moscheles. Neate was born in 1784, on the 28th of March. This famous musical year was the hundredth anniversary of Handel's birth, the year of the first great Handel Festival held in Westminster Abbey; it also witnessed the birth of Paganini, Sir George Smart, and Spohr. It is interesting to contemplate the long array of distinguished musicians who have flourished since Neate was born. The catalogue includes Haydn, Cimarosa, Mozart, Attwood, Shield, Steibelt, Beethoven, Schubert, Hummel, Rossini, Mercadante, Cherubini, Spontini, Auber, Bellini, Bishop, Donizetti, Meyerbeer, Liszt, Thalberg, Herz, Czerny, Mendelssohn, Cipriani Potter, Sterndale Bennett, Dr. Crotch, Mayseder, Balfe, John Barnett, Braham, Wallace, Macfarren, Joachim, Verdi, Wagner, Gounod, Schumann, Brahms, Raff, &c.

Charles Neate was an admirable pianist of the genuine Cramer-Field-Hummel school. His touch was refined and delicate, and his execution, though occasionally wanting in spirit and energy, was clear and accurate. His public performances were frequent for many years: first at the so-called "Lent Oratorios," and, later, at his own benefit concerts, and also at the concerts of the Philharmonic Society, which, in conjunction with the most eminent resident musical professors of the period he assisted to establish in 1813. Of this once famous Society Neate was frequently a Director, and he also took his turn at the pianoforte to inspect the score in the capacity of "Conductor," waving his hand gently to indicate the time, which, as in the case of other Conductors similarly placed, was oftentimes at variance with the "beat" of the "Leader." Neate was the first pianist who performed in this country Weber's "Concert-Stück," Beethoven's Concertos in E flat and C minor, and Hummel's Concerto in E and Septuor in D minor, works which until then were comparatively unknown, and only partially esteemed.

Soon after the battle of Waterloo, when the peace of Europe was assured, Neate put into execution a plan he had long contemplated. He made a journey to Vienna, in those days an undertaking more important than at the present time of easy travelling, in order to make the personal acquaintance of Beethoven. He reached the Austrian capital in 1816, and was received with great kindness and consideration by the illustrious composer. During a residence of several months at Vienna, Neate enjoyed his intimate friendship, and benefited by his musical counsel. On his way home Neate visited Munich, in which city he remained five months to improve his knowledge of counterpoint under Winter's instruction. After an absence of two years he returned to London with an increased professional prestige of inestimable value. Neate having been long recognised as one of the best, as he was one of the foremost, teachers of the pianoforte in England, pupils flocked to him. He was as good a violoncellist as a pianist; but, although ambitious to acquire a reputation also as a composer, his success in this capacity was but partial, for, notwithstanding his thorough technical knowledge of the art of composition, Neate was deficient both in inspiration and invention, and his works were consequently laboured and devoid of interest. In 1808 he published a Sonata in C minor, built upon the classical model, and of much merit. His second Sonata in D minor was published many years after, and this was followed at intervals by two Trios for the Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello, and by Pianoforte Solos, of more or less ability, in the form of Variations, Fantasias, Capriccios, &c.

In social as in professional life Mr. Charles Neate held a high position. For some years previously to his decease music had failed to interest him, and he found his amusement and pleasure in microscopic investigations and in reading. By Mr. Neate's death is severed the last link of the chain which connected the musical present with the musical past.

CRYSTAL PALACE.

THE present series of Saturday Concerts is now concluded; there only remains to be given Mr. Manns's benefit, which takes place on Saturday next, the 5th inst., after which we presume that nothing of special musical importance will be given till the Handel Festival, which takes place during the latter half of next month.

Two performances during the past month have thrown all the others so completely into the shade that we must speak chiefly of these, contenting ourselves with a few lines only concerning the others. These have been the first production at the Crystal Palace of Brahms's new symphony, and the concert given on the 21st ult. consisting entirely of compositions by Rubinstein.

Brahms's symphony was given at the concert of March 31, for the second time in England, its first hearing (as recorded in our last month's issue) having been at Cambridge on the 8th of March. The individuality of Brahms, especially in his more recent compositions, is so strongly marked, and the originality of his style so decided, that it is more than ordinarily difficult to attempt, after only a few hearings, any description of a work so elaborate as his new symphony; and as the score is not at present published, no opportunity for a thorough study and analysis of the work has yet presented itself. Our remarks must therefore be considered simply a record of impressions, and in no degree as a final verdict upon the composition.

The key which Brahms has chosen for his symphony is C minor, and the opening allegro is certainly the most difficult portion of the whole work to understand without careful study of the score. Its general character is agitated, even stormy, though with a true artist's feeling for contrast the composer gives at intervals more tranquil phrases. The whole movement produces an impression of great power, somewhat analogous (though, be it expressly said, without the slightest resemblance in the themes) to that made upon us by the first allegro of Beethoven's "Sonata Appassionata." In adopting the very remote key of E major for his slow movement, Brahms has followed the example set by Beethoven in his C minor Concerto. This andante sostenuto, though not the greatest, is the most charming movement of the whole symphony. Here one exquisite melody follows another without interruption; at times the spirit of Schubert seems to breathe in the music, though Brahms has a far more complete mastery of the technique of composition than his illustrious predecessor. The beauties of this movement, unlike those of some other parts of the symphony, are such as can be immediately felt. The following intermezzo, which takes the place of a Scherzo, is simple and quiet in its character, and exquisitely scored, especially for the wood instruments. The finale in C major, preceded by a long introduction in C minor, is, perhaps, on the whole, the finest portion of the work. The introduction is wild, almost tragic, in tone till near its close, when a sudden change of character occurs, and a tranquil melody for the horn, accompanied by pianissimo chords for the trombones, and tremolos for muted strings is introduced with most beautiful effect. The broad subject of the finale allegro is not without affinity with the theme of the finale of Beethoven's Choral Symphony; it is admirably treated, working up at last to a most brilliant climax, which ends what is unmistakably one of the greatest symphonic works of modern times. We need only add that the performance of the whole work under Mr. Manns was superb; finer playing has never been heard even at the Crystal Palace. At the same concert, Miss Dora Schirmacher, a young pianist from Liverpool, made her first appearance at the Crystal Palace with Mendelssohn's D minor Concerto; the young lady has great talent and very good execution, and will doubtless be heard again.

At the following concert (the 7th ult.) a new work, Raff's Suite in E flat (Op. 200), for piano and orchestra, and a new player, Mr. Franz Rummel, the exponent of the same, were heard for the first time at Sydenham. Raff's work, though in parts somewhat dry, is extremely clever, and very brilliant and difficult for the piano. Mr. Rummel's playing was of remarkable excellence. The perfect ease with which the most difficult passages were given, the absolute certainty of his execution in rapid octaves and double notes, and the equality of his touch in scale-playing, were alike noticeable. Of his expression and musical feeling we must defer an opinion till we hear him in some other work, for Raff's music gave scope merely for great execution. Mendelssohn's comparatively uninteresting Symphony in C minor, and a pretty, but rather trivial, "Dance of Pirates" by Henri Reber, were given at the same concert.

Of the concert on the 14th we can only afford space to say that it included Verdi's Quartett in E minor, played, by all the strings of the orchestra (by permission of the composer), and Hummel's Concerto in A flat, performed by Herr Pauer, besides various less important works. Verdi's Quartett produced no very great effect; though interesting as a step in a new direction by the great Italian master, it is not of any special musical value.

The appearance of Herr Rubinstein in the triple capacity of composer, conductor, and pianist gave great interest to the concert of the 21st, when the programme was entirely selected from his works, all of which (except those for piano) he himself conducted. First came the "Ocean" symphony, in its new and enlarged form of six movements. This is certainly one of the most interesting and best sustained of the very unequal composer's works. It contains two movements and two Scherzos; why the established form for a symphony should have been altered we are not able to say. The third movement (a Scherzo in G major, $\frac{3}{4}$ time), and the finale, are not, we think, equal to the rest of the work; but the magnificent allegro maestoso which opens the symphony, the two slow movements, and the second Scherzo (in F), are most excellent. Herr Rubinstein is a conductor of the first rank; his beat is firm and clear, and he has the precious (and not too common) faculty of imparting his own feeling of the music to the forces under his control. The rendering of the entire work by the Crystal Palace band was perfect; and, though the performance lasted nearly an hour, no signs of weariness were exhibited, the applause at the end of each movement, and especially at the close of the symphony, being enthusiastic.

We cannot but think that the composer was well advised in selecting his earlier rather than his later works for presentation at this concert; for the "Ocean," which is the second of Rubinstein's four symphonies (not five, as stated in the programme of the concert) is far superior in musical value to the more recent "Dramatic" symphony, produced last year at the Philharmonic Concerts. The same remark may be made as to the Concerto (No. 2, in F), given on this occasion. This is a most interesting work, of enormous difficulty for the piano, and it was played by the composer as probably no one but himself could have played it. The overture to "Dimitri Donskoi," with which the concert concluded, is also an early work of Rubinstein's, the Opera having been composed in 1849. This interesting and attractive piece had been previously heard at the Crystal Palace, having been given at the Saturday Concerts in January 1875. Besides three short pianoforte solos, the programme included two vocal numbers—the second finale from the opera of "Die Mac-cabæer," sung by Mdle. Friedländer and Miss Helene Arnim, and a song "Tragödie" by Mdle. Friedländer; these pieces were less striking than the instrumental portion of the concert.

The programme for the 28th included Beethoven's symphony in D, Schubert's "Miriam's Song of Triumph," two movements from J. F. Barnett's "Raising of Lazarus," Liszt's scena "Loreley," and two movements of Molique's Violoncello Concerto (Herr Hausmann). As the concert took place after our going to press, we can only record the fact.

THE BACH CHOIR.

ON Wednesday the 11th ult. the first of the two Concerts advertised for the present season was given by this excellently trained Choir at St. James's Hall, when Bach's Mass in B minor was repeated with perhaps even an increase of effect over the two performances of the composition last year by the same body of executants. It is always a question whether it is advisable to give a title to any musical Institution which binds it specifically to the performance of the works of one composer, or even to any defined line of action in the arrangement of its concerts; and we cannot but think, therefore, that before many seasons are over the "Bach Choir" will find its name an incumbrance, unless, like the Fortnightly Review—which is published monthly—it ignores the matter altogether and devotes its energies simply to the rendering of any high-class choral works. In the solo parts of the Mass, Madame Sherrington, Madame Patey, and Mr. W. H. Cummings were, as on the two former representations, everything that could be desired; and Signor Foli, who sang the bass part, allotted last year to Signor Federici, gave an excellent reading of the "Quoniam." The choruses were finely sung under the direction of Mr. Otto Goldschmidt, who is deserving of every encouragement in his efforts to establish his choir firmly in the estimation of the London public.

The second concert took place on Wednesday the 25th ult. and attracted a very large and distinguished audience, many of whom perhaps attended out of consideration for the peculiar character of the choir, made up, as it chiefly is, of amateurs high in social standing. To this form of class-sympathy there can be no objection at all. Those who are anxious for the general progress of music amongst us are not likely to cavil at any sort of help that comes to the cause, and if aristocratic people, who would not be drawn within the influence of the masters by that influence alone, choose to yield when the performers are more or less of their own "set," it is clear that Bach Choirs have a double value. The programme was a very mixed one, ranging from Palestrina, through Bach and Handel, down to Sterndale Bennett and Gade; and yet, leaving the Danish composer's secular music out of the question, there was hardly a proportionate variety. All the examples of sacred art in the scheme were written for church use, and the effect, as one after another came under notice, went to prove that, difference of era and personal style notwithstanding, the true church music of all ages has common characteristics. First in the list came Handel's Coronation Anthem "The King shall rejoice," one of the four written to be used at the enthronement of George II. in Westminster Abbey; the others being the well-known "Zadok the priest," "Let thy hand be strengthened," and "My heart is inditing." Although "The King shall rejoice" can never hope to rival the tumultuous work which we know as the Coronation Anthem par excellence, the grandest popular utterance in music that the world can boast, it is, nevertheless, a fine example of Handel in his exalted and impressive vein. The opening chorus, which appears in "Deborah" as "The great King of kings," and the final movement, also transferred in great part to the same Oratorio, may especially be cited as realising the very ideal of a jubilation that, because sacred, can never afford to lose sight of dignity and self-restraint. Little fault could be found with the performance, and it was most grateful to hear Handel's music without painfully having to notice the intrusion of overwhelming "brass." Next came a Motett for eight voices and organ, "In Thee, O Lord," the work of Sir Sterndale Bennett, as yet unpublished, and performed on this occasion for the first time. The composer originally intended this as the opening portion of an Anthem in four movements, only two of which he completed, although the MS. of the first bears date 1856. Alas! that the exercise of such great talent as was Bennett's should have been restricted by dilatoriness, fastidiousness, or any other cause. Arguing from this movement alone, which we do not hesitate to describe as one of the most beautiful in the whole range of Church music, the loss to art is enormous, and like the premature death of a Purcell, a Mozart, or a Schubert, must be a source of unending regret. In the work under notice Bennett happily solved the problem of uniting to the contrapuntal style, which has always been recognised as in keeping with the dignity of sacred music, the grace of manner and warmth of expression demanded by modern taste. It is not likely that the freedom permitted to Italian and French composers when writing for the Church will ever be conceded by our more staid and sober notions of what is fitting. On the other hand, the mere contrapuntal exercise, without sentiment or necessary connection with its verbal text, has become distasteful, and we require the happy mean between the two. So far Bennett's work is a model that cannot be too closely followed. Its part-writing is that of a scholar, clear, flowing, and correct, but in every passage, and above all towards the close, where the prayer "Incline Thine ear and save me" becomes intense, the emotions are addressed as well as the intellect, and the effect is therefore complete. The Motett was received with great favour, a portion of the audience persisting in a demand for its repetition, which, however, Mr. Goldschmidt, exercising a wise discretion, did not think proper to grant. The "Sanctus" from Palestrina's "Missa Pape Marcelli" followed, and reminded the audience that "there were giants" before Bach, who contributed the next piece—his Cantata on "Ein feste Burg," as adapted for modern use by Messrs. Otto Goldschmidt and Crowther-Alwyn, the English text by the Rev. J. Troutbeck, M.A. It may be necessary to say at once that the adapters discharged their task with commendable reticence, touching the orchestration of the work but lightly, their boldest step being to accompany the final enunciation of the Chorale with the full band. As an example of Bach's skill in dealing with the Chorale, this Cantata stands almost without a rival. In the opening chorus every phrase is treated fugally with extraordinary elaboration. In No. 2 a variation of the tune is given to a soprano semi-chorus united to a florid bass solo after a fashion which Bach rather favoured. In No. 5 the Chorale is given out in octaves by the voices, the full orchestra having a complicated and ingeniously constructed accompaniment; while in No. 8 it appears, by way of climax, in all its native grandeur. As may be imagined, the work is far from easy, but it was well performed, Madame Sherrington, Mr. Cummings, and Herr Henschel doing the solos as much justice as their character made possible.

The second part was devoted to Gade's Cantata "Comala," a work which, there is reason to believe, had never previously been heard in England, although written years ago. Its subject is taken from the Ossian poem of the same name, and the "argument" shows how Fingal, King of Morven, set out for the battle-field followed by Comala, the daughter of Sarno, King of Inistore, disguised as a warrior. The lovers, for such they are, take leave of each other before the fight, and the excited imagination of the maiden sees in a storm the spirits of her ancestors, which she accepts as a sign that Fingal has fallen. She dies of grief just before Fingal returns a conqueror. Overwhelmed with sorrow, he calls upon the bards to praise her constancy and love in their songs. Those who know the affinity of Gade's taste with the traditions and spirit of the Northern lands—an affinity which his overture "Im Hochland" proclaims to all time—will at once assume that he has set music to this wild story of love and death such as is in close harmony with it. The assumption cannot be denied. Gade has caught the peculiar colour of the legend and transferred it to his music, throwing over all an impression of the romantic beauty and deep tenderness, combined with much that is vague and mysterious, so distinctive of the Northern legend. He is most successful just where the emotions to be expressed are deepest. Take, for example, the farewell duet of the lovers, Comala's lament over Fingal's supposed death, and the expression of his grief at finding that she has perished through the very strength of her affection. In all these parts of the work Gade appears at his best—full of tenderness, melodic charm, and a certain distinctiveness of expression as characteristic as the swell of Ossian's verse. In the more jubilant or martial numbers, on the other hand, we notice a lack, perhaps intentional, of brilliancy. A sombre hue pervades the music, as though no sun could break through the mist of the mountains, and this, it must be confessed, becomes a trifle monotonous. But the work, which we cannot now examine in detail, is one of great interest, and deserves a recognised place in the repertory of English choral Societies. Its performance was excellent, band and chorus acquitting themselves well, and the artists already named, assisted by Mdlles. Riego and Gowa, singing their very best. That, under these circumstances, "Comala" was a success we need not attempt further to prove.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA.

THIS establishment opened for the season on the 3rd ult., with Verdi's Opera, "Un Ballo in Maschera." Mdlle.

D'Angeri as Amelia; Mdme. Scalchi as Ulrica; Mdlle. Bianchi as the page Oscar; Signor Pavani as the Duke; and Signor Graziani as Renato—a cast in every respect satisfactory, and perhaps even beyond what we have been accustomed to during the dull nights before the "stars" make their appearance. With the exception of "Fra Diavolo"—in which Mdlle. Bianchi was a very fair Zerlina, and M. Capoul a passable Brigand Chief—although the part rather brings forth his worst qualities and conceals his best—there has been scarcely anything worth mentioning until the appearance of the new tenor, Signor Gayarré, who made his début on the 7th ult. as Fernando in "La Favorita." We have no particular sympathy with the music which Donizetti has wedded to the somewhat unpleasant story upon which this Opera is founded; but unquestionably the tenor part is well written for display, and when we say that Signor Gayarré fell immeasurably short of the requirements of the character, both as an actor and a singer, we are by no means inclined to believe that he may not achieve a more genuine success in music more congenial with his nature. He has a voice of considerable compass, but when singing the quiet cantabile passages with which pure tenors hold their hearers in breathless admiration, the tone is lost. Conscious of this apparently, he escapes as soon as possible into the higher register, where, with an exaggerated emphasis, amounting almost to vocal ranting, he attempts to attain by declamatory power a climax which will compel his auditors to condone his previous incapacity. We are told that in parts requiring the display of powerful passion Signor Gayarré is great; but in what Opera does a tenor exhibit nothing but "powerful passion" throughout the whole work? Surely, to judge of a singer we must know whether he can vocally depict every phase of human feeling, and not whether he can anathematise or defy through a long scene with the high chest-voice, throwing out an ut de poitrine at the end as a proof of his mere power of physical endurance. In spite of his defects, however, with the house the new tenor was an undoubted success, the Romanza "Spirto gentil" having been unanimously encored, and the warmest approbation rewarding his constant bursts of violent contrast. His appearance as Raoul, in the "Huguenots," scarcely perhaps advanced him in the estimation of dispassionate listeners; but it certainly proved that, with a more artistic control over his natural gifts, he might prove a welcome addition to the meagre list of tenors now on the lyrical stage. In many parts of the Opera his earnestness, his correctness of phrasing, and even his pure style of vocalisation, made a highly favourable impression; and, had he not been tempted into his usual exaggeration of style in the great duet with Valentine, a fine dramatic climax might have been reached at the fall of the curtain.

It would be unjust to close our notice without a record of Mdlle. Smeroschi's excellent singing as Norina, in "Don Pasquale," and also of the performance of "Guillaume Tell," with Signor Cotogni as the hero, and Signor Marini as Arnoldo, both of whom produced a marked impression in the exacting music of these characters.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

THERE were two powerful attractions at the Concert on the 16th ult.—the first performance in London of Brahms's Symphony in C minor, and the début of M. Paul Viardot as a violinist. Our remarks upon Brahms's new work at the Crystal Palace Concert of the 31st March will absolve us from the necessity of enlarging here upon the merits of this important contribution to modern art; but we may say that, although its rendering fell short of that at Sydenham, the evident desire to do justice to the composer, both on the part of the conductor and executants, was on the whole highly successful. We cannot say that the reception of the composition was by any means enthusiastic; but then the English people are difficult to move, and the comparatively moderate display of audible approbation must not therefore be accepted as a proof of want of appreciation. The musical antecedents of the new violinist—a son of Madame Viardot-Garcia—raised high expectations of his success; and we are bound to record that in no respect were these hopes disappointed. Although selecting Mendelssohn's Concerto for the display of his abilities, he fully proved that, with the exception of the absence of that ripeness which only age and experience can give, he was fully competent not only to vanquish the executive difficulties of the work, but to realise the full intention of the composer. His tone, for so young a player, is exceedingly full, and his execution—especially observable in the cadenza of the first movement—remarkably free and legitimate, the "Andante" showing to much advantage the delicacy of his phrasing and command over cantabile passages. The vocalists were Mdle. Thelkla Friedländer and Mr. Shakespeare (the former of whom gave with much effect two of Brahms's "Lieder"), and the concert was ably conducted by Mr. W. G. Cusins.

NEW PHILHARMONIC CONCERTS.

THE twenty-sixth season of the series of concerts under the above title opened at St. James's Hall on the 14th ult., the novelty being the "Ode au Printemps," of Joachim Raff, for pianoforte and orchestra. In this, as well as in all the works of this composer, we have that extraordinary mixture of good, bad, and indifferent so carefully knitted into a compact whole as to satisfy the many who, having been weaned from the form of the standard writers, are prepared to travel in loving company with those who, like themselves, have fixed their point of departure but not the goal they would reach. The pianoforte part was ably sustained by Mrs. Beesley, who received well-deserved applause for her exertions in a somewhat thankless cause. The programme also contained the Prelude to the first act of Wagner's Opera, "Die Meistersinger von Nürnberg," and the same composer's "Huldigungs Marsch;" a refreshing relief being presented to the lovers of the pure, unsensational style by the performance of Beethoven's "Pastoral Symphony." Mdle. Chiomi proved by her excellent singing of Liszt's "Jeanne d'Arc au bûcher" that she was worthy of rendering better music; a fact which was also evidenced in Mrs. Beesley's case by her artistic performance of Schumann's Concerto in A minor, which formed a striking contrast with Raff's rambling "Ode." The conductors were Dr. Wylde and Mr. Ganz.

UNDER the title of "A Year's Music in St. Paul's Cathedral, Easter, 1876—Easter, 1877," the Rev. Dr. Simpson, Succentor to the Cathedral has issued a most interesting and complete report to the Dean and Chapter, giving an account of what has been done for music during the past twelve months. After explaining the principles which have guided the arrangement of the programmes, Dr. Simpson gives complete lists of all the music sung in the Cathedral during the past year. This includes 120 services by forty-three different composers, and 310 anthems by sixty-six composers, besides nine services and twenty anthems for male voices only. This truly remarkable catalogue includes works of all schools, from Purcell to Wesley and Goss, and from Bach to Gounod. As to the wisdom of the course which has been adopted—that of making selection from all classes of good sacred music, instead of adhering exclusively to the old cathedral style—there will hardly be two opinions. The Succentor also gives complete lists of the services and anthems sung on the Sundays throughout the year. He further makes special reference to the services occasionally given with orchestra, as well as to the various Festivals held during the year by other bodies not connected with the Cathedral, such as the London Gregorian Association, the London Church Choir Association, and others. He acknowledges in the handsomest terms the invaluable co-operation of Dr. Stainer, the organist of the Cathedral, to whom is so largely due the credit for the marked improvement in the character of the music during the last few years, as well as of Mr. G. C. Martin, the assistant-organist and choirmaster, and of all the members of the choir. We warmly commend Dr. Simpson's report to the notice of other caputular bodies, by whom the example set at St. Paul's is worthy of imitation. It would be well if some other of our precentors would also furnish reports of their yearly proceedings. From Westminster Abbey, for instance, we might perhaps receive a report second only in interest to that now under our notice.

THE 139th Anniversary Festival of the Royal Society of Musicians was held at the Freemasons' Hall on the 18th ult., the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale occupying the chair. The principal toast of the evening, "Prosperity to the Royal Society of Musicians," was proposed by the President in an unassuming but appropriate manner, and speeches by the Earl of Dudley, Lord Hampton, Professor Macfarren, Sir Julius Benedict, and Mr. H. S. Marks, were most warmly received. The musical portion of the entertainment was contributed by Miss Robertson, Misses Roby, Samuel, and Orridge (students of the Royal Academy of Music), and Mr. W. H. Cummings, vocalists; Mrs. Beesley (pianoforte), Mr. Carrodus (violin), and Mr. Svendsen (flute). The London Vocal Union, under the direction of Mr. Fred. Walker, also lent valuable assistance, and Signor Randegger, Mr. Sydney Smith, and Mr. H. R. Evers, were able accompanists at the pianoforte. The subscriptions and donations announced by Mr. W. H. Cummings (who was most enthusiastically greeted on his first appearance in the capacity of Treasurer to the Society), amounted to about £1,400, including a legacy of £1,000 from the late Edward Schulz.

MR. MAPLESON'S prospectus of the season of Italian Opera at Her Majesty's Theatre merely announces his list of singers, with a catalogue of the works to be produced and of those from which a "selection" will be made. Amongst the tenors advertised to make a "first appearance in England" we find the name of Signor Gayarré, who, as it is known, has already appeared at the rival establishment. Signor Tamberlik will, no doubt, be warmly welcomed, especially as he is to be heard in Rossini's "Otello," Madame Christine Nilsson playing Desdemona. Cherubini's "Medea" is once more promised, and also Gluck's "Armida," Mdle. Titiens sustaining the principal character in each. When we have named the "Flying Dutchman"—with Madame Nilsson as Senta, and M. Faure as Vanderdecken—every item of special interest has been mentioned; but a few of the well-known twenty-six Operas given will doubtless satisfy the not very exacting subscribers during a season of thirty nights. We are glad to find that Sir Michael Costa retains his post as conductor. The prospectus names the 28th ult. as the opening night.

A VERY successful Concert took place on the 23rd ult. in the Opera Theatre of the Crystal Palace, to aid the establishment of a benevolent fund in connection with the Upper Norwood Lodge of Freemasons. Two numbers of special interest were Selection from Quintett in D for flute, oboe, clarinet, horn, and bassoon, by A. Reicha, and Beethoven's Quintett in E♭ (Op. 16), admirably performed by Messrs. H. Gadsby, A. Wells, Dubrucq, Clinton, Wendtland, and Wotton. Among the vocal pieces Gounod's "O that we two were maying" by Madame Worrell-Duval, "Tell me, my heart" by Madame Frances Brooke, "Mary of Argyle" by Mr. George Perren, Serenade, "Hiawatha" (H. Gadsby), by Mr. McGuckin, "The garland" (Mendelssohn) by Mr. Stedman, and "Tom Tough" by Mr. Geo. Fox, were much appreciated. Some part-music was effectively rendered by members of the South London Choral Association. Mr. J. Coward and Mr. L. C. Venables acted as conductors; the musical arrangements generally being under the able direction of Mr. August Manns.

THE Leeds Triennial Musical Festival is now fixed to take place in the Town Hall on the 19th, 20th, 21st, and 22nd of September next. Her Majesty the Queen has consented to become the patron, and Sir Michael Costa has accepted the conductorship. A committee, with the Mayor of Leeds as chairman, is in active operation; the choir has been carefully selected, and the engagement of several eminent vocalists has been concluded. Mr. Broughton, the chorus-master, expresses much satisfaction at the tone of his choral body, the rehearsals having already commenced. The new works to be performed include an Oratorio, "Joseph," by Professor Macfarren, and a secular Cantata, "The Fire-King," by Mr. Walter Austin, a native of Leeds. The programme is not yet completed, but it has been decided to produce Mendelssohn's "Elijah," Handel's "Solomon," Mozart's "Requiem," and a composition by Bach.

A MOST successful Concert was given in the Victoria Place School Room, Union Street, Borough, on the 18th ult., in aid of the choir fund of St. Saviour's, Southwark. The band and chorus numbered about a hundred, and the programme consisted of selections from Mozart's Twelfth Mass, with solos, songs, and part-songs. Miss Alice Sugden was very efficient in "With verdure clad" and the solo part of the Benedictus. The other vocalists were Miss Annie Cockburn, Mr. Braham Nolan, and Mr. G. Whillier. Mr. J. Beckwith gave an excellent performance on the violin, which was encored. The band and chorus went well together; Mr. R. Stokoe, F.C.O., accompanied very efficiently, and Mr. Orbel Hinchcliff (choirmaster of the church) and Mr. Robert Mackie (conductor of the South London Musical Society) conducted.

AN interesting and, in England, novel competition, took place on the 27th March, at the Royal Academy of Music. The prize competed for was a gold medal, presented by Dr. Llewelyn Thomas, physician to the Academy, for declamatory and expressional singing, the contest being confined to sopranos and contraltos. A new feature was introduced in the selection of the judges, who in this instance were not chosen from the ranks of the Academy Professors. The committee were fortunate in obtaining the services of the following gentlemen as judges: Mr. W. H. Cummings, the Chevalier Lemmens, and Mr. Sims Reeves. There were sixteen competitors, and the medal was awarded to Miss Ellen Orridge; Miss Mary Davis and Miss Marian Williams commended.

THE announcement of a performance of Handel's Oratorio "Hercules," under the direction of Mr. Henry Leslie, will be received by musicians and amateurs with considerable interest. This work, which has not, it is believed, been performed in England since its composer's death, contains several fine choral numbers, amongst others the well-known chorus "Jealousy," and the equally fine one "Crown with festal pomp the day," while some of the solo music is exceedingly dramatic in character. The part of Hercules has been assigned to Mr. Santley. The Concert is to take place on the 8th of June, and the proceeds will be given to the Royal Society of Musicians and the Royal Academy of Music. The choir is to consist of members of the Guild of Amateur Musicians and of Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir.

AN interesting wedding was solemnised at Holy Trinity Church, Paddington, on the 19th ult., between Frederic Pagden, Esq., and Miss Ferrari, the well-known vocalist. The ceremony was performed by the Vicar of the parish, assisted by the Rev. Canons Duckworth and Troutbeck. A remarkably efficient choir of gentlemen and boys was brought together by Mr. James Greenhill, choirmaster of St. James's, Marylebone, and, under his conductorship, performed in a most effective manner the various choral portions of the service, concluding with Sullivan's Anthem "O God, Thou art worthy to be praised." Mr. Barnes presided very ably at the organ, and as the bridal party left the church the Wedding March was played in a masterly style by Mr. W. G. Cusins.

ON Good Friday Handel's "Messiah" was performed in the Victoria Park Congregational Church, by the members of the North London Choral Association, at Hackney. The band and choir, numbering over 500 performers, were under the able conductorship of Mr. M. R. Bassett. The principal vocalists were Miss Annie Brandon, Madame Poole, Mr. Lawrence Fryer, and Mr. De Lacy. Mr. Gursion led the band, and Mr. George Hedges officiated at the organ. Mr. Dearden, of H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh's Band, played the principal trumpet parts. The choruses were given with much precision, reflecting the highest credit upon the conductor and members of the association.

A CAPITAL performance of Handel's "Messiah" was given on Good Friday in the Trinity Presbyterian Church, Kentish Town Road. The executants were the Misses Cattermole, Wrenn, and Slater, Messrs. W. H. Monk, Smith, and Bridge, with a chorus of above a hundred voices, selected from the Sacred Harmonic Society, Mr. W. Carter's choir, &c. The accompaniments were entrusted to Mrs. Stirling (organist of St. Andrew's, Under-shaft) and Mr. Edwin Bending. Miss Cattermole in "Rejoice greatly" and Mr. Bridge in "Why do the nations" were much applauded. Mr. E. Cympton conducted with energy and care.

THE ninth trial of new compositions by the Musical Artists' Society took place at the concert-room of the Royal Academy of Music on the 14th ult. We are scarcely called upon to criticise in detail the various compositions submitted on the occasion, but may mention as especially successful with the audience a String Quartett in G minor by Mr. G. F. Gear, and a Part-song, "The Forest Hunters," by Mr. C. E. Stephens, which was encored. Works by Messrs. Charles Gardner, E. Fiori, J. Lea Summers, &c. also elicited well-deserved applause; and in every respect the trial was one of the most interesting yet given by the Society.

THE "Creation" was performed in St. Thomas's Church, Portman Square, on the 11th ult. The solo parts were sustained by Mrs. Levy, Mr. J. Mellor (Eton College Chapel), and Mr. Ramsbottom (St. George's, Windsor). Mr. E. H. Birch, Mus. Bac., Oxon., presided at the organ, and Mr. Edmund Rogers, organist of the church, conducted. The "Creation" was preceded by the shortened form of service, and a sermon was preached by the Rev. Henry Geary. The choruses were rendered with admirable precision by a choir of a hundred voices, under the careful training of Mr. Rogers.

WE read that a singular demonstration, of significance at the present juncture, was recently made at Plymouth Guildhall, which was crowded by an audience of 2,000 persons, on the occasion of a charity concert. The last item on the programme was the Russian National Anthem, played by the band and sung by the chorus. Prior to its performance a Conservative peer and his family rose and left, followed by several others. The great bulk of the audience, however, remained and rose in honour of the anthem, and a few who kept their seats were loudly hissed. The scene caused much excitement.

MISS ALISON LEIGH gave her first Concert at the Seymour Hall, Lower Seymour Street, on the 10th ult. Herr Schubert, Mr. J. B. Balfour, Mr. C. J. Bishenden, and other artists assisted. Miss Leigh gave an efficient rendering of "But the Lord is mindful" (St. Paul), and Barnby's song, "When the tide comes in," and Mr. Bishenden was encored for his singing of the "Village Blacksmith." The Trio, "Lift thine eyes," was well given by Miss Amy Harold, Miss Barton, and Miss Leigh, as was also the Duet, "The Lord is a man of war," by Messrs. Balfour and Bishenden.

AT the six Wagner Concerts, to be given during the present month at the Albert Hall, large extracts from all the masters' works, especially from each part of the Tetralogy, "Der Ring des Nibelungen," and "Tristan und Isolde," are to be produced. Also "Eine Faust-ouverture," and the new scenes from "Tannhäuser," the Hill of Venus, and the scene between Tannhäuser and Venus, which was written for the Grand Opéra, at Paris. The programme for each concert will be different. Mr. Dannreuther will conduct the rehearsals.

THE Triennial Handel Festival at the Crystal Palace will take place on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday the 25th, 27th, and 29th June, the general rehearsal being given on the Friday in the preceding week. As before, the "Messiah" will occupy the first day, and "Israel in Egypt" the third, the second being devoted to a Selection. In every respect the general arrangements will be on the same scale as at former Festivals; Sir Michael Costa, as a matter of course, occupying the post of Conductor. We are informed that the tickets are already selling rapidly.

At one of the recent Wednesday Concerts at the Crystal Palace, a young pianist, Fräulein Therese Hennes, made a most successful début in Mendelssohn's G minor Concerto. Fräulein Hennes, who is, we understand, only fourteen years of age, is a pupil of Professor Kullak, of Berlin. In addition to a very excellent touch and great finish of execution, she possesses much genuine feeling, and an amount of musical intelligence rare in one so young. Her further appearances will be waited for with interest.

THE St. George's Glee Union's ninety-ninth Monthly Concert was given at the Pimlico Rooms on the 6th ult., when a Cantata by Mr. W. H. Birch, entitled "Eveleen," was performed, and received with marked approval, several of the numbers being redemanded, and at its termination the composer responded to a unanimous call. The solos were well sustained by Miss Spear, Mr. D. Strong, and Mr. Roberts. Pianoforte, Miss Secretan; harmonium, Mr. C. P. Mann. The second part was miscellaneous. Mr. Garside conducted, assisted by Mr. Monday.

THE Grosvenor Choral Society gave its sixty-second Monthly Concert on Friday, the 20th ult., the programme consisting of a miscellaneous selection of madrigals, part-songs, &c., some of which received well-merited encores. Miss Kate Reed's, and Messrs. Henry Baker and Powell's songs, were also redemanded. The other vocalists were the Misses Turner, Miss Annie Geary, and Miss Hellier. Mr. W. Scadding contributed a violoncello solo, and Mr. J. G. Callcott conducted, and played two pianoforte pieces.

THE annual performance of Bach's "Passion" (St. Matthew) took place at St. Paul's Cathedral on the evening of Tuesday in Holy Week. The band numbered fifty and the chorus nearly four hundred. The solo parts were admirably given by members of the choir, whose abilities are well known; and the choruses were rendered with an attack and precision worthy of all praise. A finer performance of the Miserere, as arranged by Dr. Stainer, has never been heard in the Cathedral.

THE second concert of the City Temple Choral Society was given on Friday evening, the 13th ult., under the direction of Mr. Minshall, who accompanied throughout. The members of the Society, mustering about seventy, sang the glees, part-songs, and choruses with considerable effect. The solo vocalists were Miss Mary Davis, Miss Lizzie Evans, Mr. Gordon Gooch, Mr. Duncan James, and Mr. Burden. The Society may be congratulated on its success.

A FESTIVAL Service will take place at Holy Trinity Church, Tulse Hill, on the 15th inst., when the music will include Purcell's Te Deum in D, Croft's Anthem "God is gone up," and an Evening Service in D by H. J. Stark. The solos will be taken by Messrs. Frost, Stedman, and Horscroft; Mr. E. H. Birch and Mr. A. Carnall will preside at the organ, and Mr. H. J. Stark will be the conductor. The choir will number eighty voices.

A CONCERT was given on the 18th ult. at the Birkbeck Institution under the direction of Mr. Stedman, the vocalists being Miss Annie Sinclair, Madame Osborne Williams, Miss Jessie Royd, Mr. Stedman, and Mr. Thurley Beale, all of whom gave great satisfaction in their various solos. Miss Emma Barnett met with an enthusiastic reception for her admirable pianoforte playing, and Mr. Henry Parker accompanied the vocal music with his usual ability.

On the 17th ult. a Complimentary Concert to Mr. Stephen Jarvis was given at the National School Rooms, Lewisham. Miss Ellen Horne, Miss Orridge, Mr. Albert James, Mr. Gerard Henry, Mr. Thurley Beale, and other vocalists contributed songs and concerted pieces, an attractive and popular programme being presented. Mr. Jarvis conducted, and also presided at the pianoforte.

THE local papers speak in the most glowing terms of the efforts of Mr. Brinley Richards to cultivate a taste for the higher class of music during his recent tour in South Wales. He has everywhere been received most enthusiastically, and his Lectures on National Music have been attended by most of the leading families of the towns he has visited.

ON Easter Sunday evening at Christ Church, Westminster Road (Rev. Newman Hall's), the service was fully choral, and included Tallis's Festival responses, Bayley's Cantate and Deus, and Beethoven's "Hallelujah Chorus," from "Engedi," the whole of which were well rendered by the choir of the Church, under the direction of Mr. F. G. Edwards, who presided at the organ.

MR. R. S. SMYTHE, well known in Australia as a concert manager, and who was business agent for Madame Arabella Goddard during her tour in the southern colonies, is at present in London in quest of musical talent. Mr. Smythe is said to have travelled more than any manager living.

WE understand that Mr. Arthur Allison, the well-known harmonium manufacturer, has purchased the premises and stock of an established pianoforte factory in Camden Town, and is about to commence business as a pianoforte maker.

WE are informed that the late Dr. Rimbault left at his death an unpublished Cantata, which will shortly be issued by Messrs. Curwen and Sons. The words, selected from various poets, relate the incidents of country life during the seasons of the year.

THE Gresham Lectures on Music will be delivered by Dr. Wylde, in the Theatre of Gresham College, Basinghall Street, on the 29th, 30th, and 31st inst., and June 1.

REVIEWS.

Johann Sebastian Bach. Von Philipp Spitta. Erster Band. [Leipzig: Breitkopf und Härtel.]

WITHIN comparatively but a few years the study of musical history and biography has, at least in Germany, assumed an importance previously unknown in the art. Thirty years since, details of the lives and works of even the greatest composers were for the most part very incomplete, and frequently difficult to be met with; now, thanks to the labours of such eminent men as Jahn, Chrysander, Thayer, Pohl, and the author of the present volume, we stand in a very different position. As a model biography may be cited Otto Jahn's "Mozart,"—a work familiar by name at least to all our readers; while the lives of Handel by Chrysander, of Beethoven by Thayer, and of Haydn by C. F. Pohl, though all are at present unfinished, promise when completed to be of equal value to the musical student.

It will be noticed that Herr Spitta has not called his book a life of Bach, but has given as his title simply the name of the composer. In his preface he explains why he has done so. His work is not a mere biography: in order justly to estimate the influence of Bach on the development and subsequent history of musical art, it is necessary to know not merely what he did, but what had been previously done—in a word what was the state of the art at the time at which he lived, what were his models, and how he enlarged and improved upon them. Feeling this necessity, Herr Spitta devotes considerable space to analytical notices of the works of Bach's predecessors. He has carefully examined the valuable collections of manuscripts in the large musical libraries of Berlin and Leipzig; and by no means the least interesting part of the present volume is that which treats of the compositions of the numerous ancestors of the great John Sebastian, and of Telemann, Hammerschmied, Pachelbel, Buxtehude, and others.

The English Words by JOHN OXENFORD.

R. SCHUMANN. (Op. 29.)

London: NOVELLO, EWER & Co., 1, Berners St. (W.) and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)
Con allegrezza.

TRIPLE.

ALTO.

TENOR
(See, lower).

BASS.

PIANO.

♩ = 72.

Con allegrezza.

p Ped. p*

Where yonder dark forest the sunlight shuts out, There's Where yonder dark forest the sunlight shuts out, There's There's

rustling, there's whisp'ring, there's bust-ling a-bout; The fire is a-blaze, and its strange light is thrown On rustling, there's whisp'ring, there's bust-ling a-bout; The fire is a-blaze, and its strange light is thrown On rustling, there's whisp'ring, there's bust-ling a-bout; The fire is a-blaze, and its strange light is thrown On The fire is a-blaze, and its strange light is thrown On fi-gures fantas-tic, on leaf and on stone: A troop of the va-gabond Gip-sies is there, With fi-gures fantas-tic, on leaf and on stone: A troop of the va-gabond Gip-sies is there, With fi-gures fantas-tic, on leaf and on stone: A troop of the va-gabond Gip-sies is there, With fi-gures fantas-tic, on leaf and on stone: A troop of the va-gabond Gip-sies is there, With eyes bright-ly flash-ing, and black wa-vy hair; From Nile's ho-ly wa-terstheir eyes bright-ly flash-ing, and black wa-vy hair; From Nile's ho-ly wa-terstheir eyes bright-ly flash-ing, and black wa-vy hair; From Nile's ho-ly wa-terstheir eyes bright-ly flash-ing, and black wa-vy hair; From Nile's ho-ly wa-terstheir first life they drew, By Spain were they ting'd with that brown sun-ny hue.

first life they drew, By Spain were they ting'd with that brown sun-ny hue.

first life they drew, By Spain were they ting'd with that brown sun-ny hue.

first life they drew, By Spain were they ting'd with that brown sun-ny hue. A -

By fire - light,

A - bout the bright fire, . . .

A - bout the bright fire on the green, Re - cli - ning the - bout the bright fire on their cush-ion of green, . . The men wild and fear-less re - mf By fire - light, The wo - men cow'r round to pre - pare the rude meal, Well

- bout the bright fire, . . The wo - men cow'r round to pre - pare the rude meal, Well men . . are seen, The wo - men cow'r round to pre - pare the rude meal, Well

- cli - ning are seen, . . The wo - men cow'r round to pre - pare the rude meal, Well scen pleas'd the old gob - let with do. li - quor to fill.

scen pleas'd the old gob - let with do. li - quor to fill.

scen pleas'd the old gob - let with do. li - quor to fill.

scen pleas'd the old gob - let with do. li - quor to fill.

scen - do. Ped.

f Now right mer - ry songs and good sto - ries go round, The

f Now right mer - ry songs and good sto - ries go round, The

f Now right mer - ry songs and good sto - ries go round, The

f Now right mer - ry songs and good sto - ries go round, The gar - dens of Spain seem to rise at the sound; While some grave-ly

gar - dens of Spain seem to rise at the sound; While some grave-ly

gar - dens of Spain seem to rise at the sound; While some grave-ly gar - dens of Spain seem to rise at the sound; While some grave-ly

p lis - ten, the old wo - man tells Of charms a - gainst dan - ger and ri - tar - lis - ten, the old wo - man tells Of charms a - gainst dan - ger and rit.

lis - ten, the old wo - man tells Of charms a - gainst dan - ger and ri - tar - lis - ten, the old wo - man tells Of charms a - gainst dan - ger and pp rit.

lis - ten, the old wo - man tells Of charms a - gainst dan - ger and ri - tar -

p pp rit.

dan - do. a tempo.

ma - gi - cal spells. a tempo.

ma - gi - cal spells.

dan - do. a tempo.

ma - gi - cal spells. a tempo.

ma - gi - cal spells. a tempo.

dan - do. a tempo.

mf

Now

TREBLE SOLO.

ALTO SOLO. mf

black-eyed young dam - sels are dancing away, While

p

TENOR SOLO. mf

tor - ches are fling - ing their bright ruddy ray; As

p

BASS SOLO. mf

claugs the loud cym - bal and sounds the guitar, How

p

TREBLES. p ri - tar wild with joy all the re - vellers are! Worn out with the dance now in p ri tar

TENORS. p dan - do. ri - tar - dan - do.

slum - ber they lie, While bran - ches are rust - ling a soft lul - la - by; And p dan - do. ri - tar - dan - do.

TREBLE SOLO. p

those who are driv'n from their dear na-tive shore, Be-hold the sweet South in their vi-sions once more; And those who are driv'n from their dear na-tive shore, Be-

And those who are driv'n from their dear na-tive shore, Be-

And those who are driv'n from their dear na-tive shore, Be-

And those who are driv'n from their dear na-tive shore, Beri - - - tar - - - dan - - - do.

- hold the sweet South in their vi-sions once more. But ri - - - tar - - - dan - - - do.

- hold the sweet South in their vi-sions once more. But ri - - - tar - - - dan - - - do.

- hold the sweet South in their vi-sions once more. But ri - - - tar - - - dan - - - do.

now in the east has a - woke morn-ing's light, And scat - ter'd are all the fair

now in the east has a - woke morn-ing's light, And scat - ter'd are all the fair

now in the east has a - woke morn-ing's light, And scat - ter'd are all the fair

now in the east has a - woke morn-ing's light, And scat - ter'd are all the fair

vi - sions of night; The mule is in mo - tion be - fore heat of day, And

vi - sions of night; The mule is in mo - tion be - fore heat of day, And

vi - sions of night; The mule is in mo - tion be - fore heat of day, And

vi - sions of night; The mule is in mo - tion be - fore heat of day, And gone are the Gipsies, but where, who can say? And gone are the Gipsies, but where, who can say? And gone are the Gipsies, but where, who can say? And gone are the Gipsies, but where, who can say? And gone are the Gipsies, but where, who can say? And gone are the Gip-sies, but where, who can say? pp And pp

gone are the Gip-sies, but where, who can say? pp And pp

gone are the Gip-sies, but where, who can say? pp And pp gone are the Gip-sies, but where, who can say? pp And gone are the Gip - sies, but where, who can say? but where, who can gone are the Gip - sies, but where, who can say? but where, who can gone are the Gip - sies, but where, who can say? but where, who can gone are the Gip - sies, but where, who can say? but where, who can say?

say?

say?

say?

Ped. p p

Some idea of the extent and completeness of Herr Spitta's work may be formed from the fact that he describes this instalment as the "first half," and that it contains no fewer than 890 pages of large octavo. It will be obvious therefore that it is altogether beyond our power to enter into a detailed criticism, which, to do justice to the subject, would require the greater part of a whole number of this journal. All that is possible is to summarise the contents of the volume, referring readers for further particulars to the work itself.

It is well known that for more than a century before the birth of John Sebastian, the Bachs had been distinguished as musicians; and in the first book, which occupies about one-fifth of the volume, the biographer gives all the obtainable information respecting the various branches of the family and its most illustrious members. Much of the information contained in this section of the work is of value chiefly from a historical or antiquarian point of view; the most interesting portions are those in which the compositions of the different members of the family are described. The chapter on Johann Christoph and Johann Michael Bach gives a detailed analysis, with extracts in music-type, of their chief works, which we have read with great pleasure. We see here, especially in the motetts of Christoph, whom Spitta calls "the most distinguished motett-composer of the century," the germs, so to speak, of the style of Sebastian; and the points of resemblance and difference are clearly and ably set forth by the biographer.

Coming now to the life of the great composer himself, the present volume takes us throughout the whole period of his early struggles down to his final settlement at Leipzig. We see him first at Eisenach; thence we follow him to Lüneburg, Weimar, Arnstadt, Mühlhausen and Cöthen. Not merely are the fullest biographical details given, but nearly the whole of the compositions named are noticed in detail. Thus the remark (p. 392) that "Bach's nine years' residence in Weimar is the time of his most brilliant activity as organ-player and organ-composer" appropriately introduces a very complete and interesting analysis of his organ works, which organists will read both with pleasure and profit. Quite new to us are the remarks upon Bach's method of registering. On this, unfortunately but little is known; our author, however, tells us of one manuscript—that of the arrangement of the choral "Ein feste Burg"—in which Bach has indicated the stops; the indications are unfortunately not given in Griepenkerl's edition of the piece in question. Herr Spitta further points out which of the organ works are written in the style of Bach's predecessors; thus it is interesting to learn that the well-known prelude and fugue in D major is after the manner of Buxtehude, while the Allabreve in the same key is in the style of Frescobaldi. Most of our readers will be aware that Bach arranged several of Vivaldi's violin concertos for harpsichord, and four for the organ. Herr Spitta has been fortunate enough to find one of Vivaldi's original manuscripts at Dresden; and now that the question of the arrangement by one composer of the works of another is being so warmly discussed, the comparison of this original with Bach's transcription, which the author gives at considerable length, is of much value. What will the purists say when they learn that Bach not only added harmony in many places to passages for the solo violin which in the original were unaccompanied, but substituted semiquaver runs for quavers, &c., while the slow movement was so changed that, in our author's words, "it became almost a new piece"?

No less admirable are the notices of the works for harpsichord, violin, &c., while the analyses of the various Church Cantatas, many of which are still unpublished, are of the greatest interest. We must forego the pleasure of making extracts, because all is so good that it is difficult to know what to take and what to leave. Herr Spitta, though an enthusiastic admirer of Bach—as who, indeed, will not be that knows him?—is no blind partisan; and his criticisms are the more valuable inasmuch as they are not only appreciative but discriminating.

In our notice of this truly monumental book we have dwelt chiefly upon its more strictly musical aspect. We might speak at length on the personal character of Bach, the simple-minded piety which exerted so large an influence on the style of his sacred works; or we might enlarge on his pre-eminence as a performer. To both these points his biographer does full justice; but for them we must refer readers to the book itself, and will conclude by recommending it most warmly, and expressing our best wishes for its speedy completion.

La Vestale. Opera in Trè Atti. Musica di Gaspare Spontini. Partitura d'orchestra, con ritratto dell'autore e illustrazione di B. Gamucci. [Firenze: Presso G. G. Guidi.]

So little is known of Spontini in this country that we are glad to draw attention to the publication of this clear and portable edition of the full score of his best Opera. A work so full of vigour, tenderness, and varied dramatic power in the vocal parts, and scored with such a master-hand for the orchestra, can scarcely be allowed to die, especially when the reforms instituted in the lyrical drama by Gluck, of whom Spontini was so earnest a disciple, are now more than ever occupying the public mind. Let us hope that the issue of this score is a proof of the demand for some of the Operas which, although at one time holding high rank, have so long remained in obscurity. There may be but little chance of any important revivals at our old-world Italian Opera Houses; but at other establishments which will doubtless be called into existence by the wants of the day, we may shortly have the pleasure of hearing even the hitherto neglected works of Spontini.

The Song of Praise; or, Psalm and Hymn Tunes. Collected and arranged by Victoria Evans-Freke for "A Church Psalter and Hymnal," edited by Edward Harland, M.A. The music revised and corrected by George Prior, Mus. Doc., Oxon. [London: George Routledge and Sons.]

The Hymnal Companion to the Book of Common Prayer, with Accompanying Tunes. Under the musical editorship of Joseph Thomas Cooper. Revised and enlarged edition. [London: Sampson Low, Marston and Co.]

OF making many books, especially many tune-books, there would certainly appear to be no end. Nor perhaps, when the frequent changes in public taste as to psalmody are taken into consideration, is this much to be wondered at. Within the memory of most of us the character of the tunes to be heard in our churches has undergone a surprising improvement. It would take us too far to enter in detail into the causes which have effected so great ameliorations; but it is no more than justice to refer to the labours of such men as the late Dr. Gauntlett and Canon Havergal, who may be looked upon as in a great degree the pioneers of the movement. Nor should the great influence be ignored of the "Hymns Ancient and Modern," a book not only very widely adopted in our churches, but which has to a greater or less extent served as the model on which most of the tune-books published since have been formed.

A strong family likeness may be observed between most modern collections of psalmody. There is the same simple character in the melodies, the general avoidance of repeats, and the absence of old-fashioned "divisions" and passages of imitation, and even of "fugato," which are to be met with in many of the tunes of the last century. The harmony also is for the most part no less simple. In some books we find a few specimens of German chorals harmonised by Bach, but for the most part a plain counterpoint, either note against note, or at most two notes against one, is what will be met with. Moreover, a large portion of the actual contents of the books themselves are in the most cases identical. It is only natural that this should be so; for there are many of the most popular tunes in common use which must of necessity be included in every collection having any claim to completeness, or which hopes for any chance of acceptance. Take, for example, such tunes as the "Old Hundredth," "Tallis's Canon," "St. Ann's," "London New," or a dozen others which might be named; there is probably hardly a tune-book in existence which does not contain these. So again with some of the more modern tunes. Many of the compositions of the late Dr. Gauntlett, Dr. Dykes, Mr. W. H. Monk, Mr. Redhead, and other musicians have attained so great a degree of popularity that they are to be found almost as a matter of course in each new book. The chief points of difference are generally to be sought in the new contributions which form the distinctive features of, and which are frequently composed specially for, the various works; and of these it is surprising how small a proportion really become popular favourites. Take, for instance, those of Dr. Gauntlett, whom we mention as one of the most prolific composers of psalmody that ever lived. We know of no one who composed a larger number of really fine tunes; yet out of the hundreds from his pen which may be found in the various collections he edited, or to which he contributed, there are probably not above twenty at most which can be said to have become universally popular. The fact is that the composing of a really first-rate psalm-tune is one of the most difficult tasks which a musician can set himself; hence we find countless tunes which, though very good, unexceptionable both in melody and harmony, yet fail to make any mark on the history of psalmody.

We have been led into these remarks by an examination of the two works the titles of which appear at the head of this article, and which we have classed together because they are, to use a common expression, "as like as two peas." Of the two, the "Song of Praise" is the larger, containing about 720 different tunes and chants, as many as three tunes being sometimes given for the same hymn. Mr. Cooper's book contains about half this number. Both books include hymns as well as tunes, Lady Evans-Freke's giving 584 hymns, besides 47 metrical versions of psalms, while the "Hymnal Companion" contains 550 hymns. In both works too, as might be expected, it has been found advisable to reprint the same tune (in some cases three or four times) for different hymns. The style of harmony in both is almost identical; indeed, excepting the difference in size, there is hardly anything to distinguish the one book from the other. How far they are likely to be generally adopted in churches it is difficult to say. They are both good books; but whether there is such a demand for them as to render their publication advisable is altogether another question.

An Essay on the Growth of the Musical Scale and of Modern Harmony. By J. M. Capes, M.A. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

This little book, modestly termed an essay, will amply repay careful reading. If some musicians happen here and there to disagree with its author, they will nevertheless on every page find matter suggestive of important considerations. The broad and sound views which it exhibits, especially when touching on any historical point, might well be adopted with advantage by many who seem to find more pleasure in narrowing and confining their ideas than in hearing what can be advanced in opposition to them. Perhaps it may be said that the subject has been treated in a rather discursive style; but it must be remembered that the author has not attempted to give us a text-book, but merely a readable account of the opinions he has formed, and it must in justice be said that it is not only readable but interesting.

The New Graduated Method for the Pianoforte. By Joseph Goddard. [Goddard and Co.]

Of course, as every instruction-book is presumed to be "graduated," Mr. Goddard can claim no more for his "Method" than can any other author who has put forth a similar work. The only question is whether the "graduation" has been successfully carried out; and in looking through this new contribution to the store of Pianoforte Guides—all of which we see advertised as the very best ever written—we are certainly bound to accord it high praise. It is true that we cannot find anything particularly new in the explanations of the elements of music—in proof of which we may cite the adherence to the absurd term "Common" as opposed to "Triple" measure—but the Exercises are particularly good, and the little Duets for Master and Pupil will be found very useful. All the basses to the lessons are carefully written, and we are pleased to see that the passages are not over-fingered; for although a young player should be treated as a child, there is no occasion to treat him as an idiot, and it certainly does not require a genius to see that when he takes C with the thumb the first finger lies over D and the second over E. The plan of marking only the leading fingers is one which compels juvenile students to think for themselves; and this habit cannot be too early inculcated. In the remarks upon counting, we observe some very salutary directions, as, for instance, where the pupil is told, after counting and playing steadily four groups of semiquavers, to count without playing, and "endeavour to hear inwardly the notes succeeding one another, just at the rate they do when they are played." The method of altering the exercise by leaving out a semiquaver in each group is also an exceedingly good one for compelling a young player to feel a rest, for all teachers know that the non-observance of a rest is one of the many weak points of most amateur performers. As the minor scale is given in its correct form—with the minor sixth and major seventh, both in ascending and descending—we should have been glad to see a further reform carried out by placing the tonic major by the side of the tonic minor, instead of its relative minor, the last-named system (which we find adopted in most English Instruction-books) leading, in our opinion, to nearly all the false impressions regarding the minor key. Respecting the appoggiatura and acciaccatura, we cannot by any means agree with our author's explanation. Unquestionably an appoggiatura is a note dwelt upon before the principal note, and an acciaccatura one passing rapidly—or crushed, literally—on to the principal note, which latter receives the emphasis. Mr. Goddard calls both these notes appoggiaturas, showing, however, the correct method of playing each, and even drawing a line through the shortened, or unemphasised, note. Strangely enough, too, he terms the mordente an acciaccatura, giving an example of the generally received manner of performing it. In a book so carefully considered, too, it seems strange to light on some glaring errors, as for example where the last exercise on page 74, moving in eight quavers in the bar, is headed "Triple Time," and at page 58, where, at the commencement of the second lesson, not the slightest indication of a change of time is given.

Biographical Sketches and Anecdotes of Celebrated Violinists. By Dr. T. L. Phipson. [Richard Bentley and Son.]

DR. PHIPSON is evidently an enthusiast upon the subject he has selected for his pleasant volume of gossip; and although perhaps most of the anecdotes of eminent violinists he has related are well known, desultory readers may be obliged to him for bringing the result of his researches into the history of this special department of music within so small a compass. Bookmaking, however, is an art; and when we say that this collection of Biographical Sketches and Anecdotes shows that the compiler of the work has but little talent for arrangement, we may, perhaps, be criticising him by a higher standard than he aspired to reach. We quite agree with him that a "violinist cannot be set up as the most perfect type of humanity," but who, in the name of wonder, ever affirmed that he was so? and, again, if the book is said to be confined to incidents in the lives of "celebrated violinists," why dwell upon those who were better known as composers, and pass over many whose fame was solely gained by their public performances? Lulli, for instance, with whose life the volume may be said to commence, was certainly a violinist; but his reputation has been made by his operas; and although Dr. Phipson may think it interesting to relate how he became a great favourite in the kitchen of Mademoiselle de Montpensier, where by his performance on the violin he so fascinated his fellow-servants that they neglected their work, he should remember that this was in the very early part of his career, and that when he was made Director of the French Opéra, his lyrical works, and not his violin playing, absorbed his whole attention. The sketch of Corelli, which follows, although slight, contains some facts worth remembering. It is stated, for example, that he was the first leader who directed that the bowing of the performers in an orchestra should be perfectly uniform; indeed so resolved was he to enforce this system that he would invariably stop the band at a rehearsal if he saw an irregular bow. Of Tartini, we have some interesting anecdotes, including, of course, the alleged origin of his "Sonata del Diavolo," although it is affirmed by the composer that in his dream the solo played by his Satanic Majesty was so infinitely superior to what he could write down when he awoke that he would have broken his instrument and abandoned music altogether had he possessed any other means of subsistence. Viotti's eventful life is graphically sketched. There can be little doubt that his haughty demeanour—especially shown in the concert at the court of Versailles, where in consequence of the Count d'Artois fidgeting about whilst he was playing, he walked out of the room with his violin under his arm—was most obnoxious to the French aristocracy; and his strong political opinions, which he took little pains to conceal, will fully account for his sudden departure from Paris just before the Revolution, and also for his expulsion from London. When at liberty to return to England he in 1801 came to the metropolis and established himself as a wine merchant, he did not neglect the art of which he was so brilliant an ornament, for Garat, the French singer, relates that after a dinner given by him when the business of the day was over, he "played one of his last concertos, and never was his bow more gifted or more sublime." As might be anticipated, a large portion of the volume is devoted to Paganini. His father, it appears, was a ship-broker, who was passionately fond of music, and perceiving the extraordinary talent of his child, caused him to study so early and so severely as materially to affect his naturally delicate constitution. At six years of age he was a tolerable violin-player; and when only nine years old he appeared at a public concert and met with a most enthusiastic reception. Some good anecdotes are told of this eccentric artist, amongst which may be mentioned his taking the violin and bow from an itinerant little performer in Vienna, playing in his inimitable style before a large crowd, and, after collecting a considerable number of silver coins in the boy's hat, handing him the sum, with a request that he should take it to his mother, for whose support he was informed the lad had been toiling. Strange stories were told of Paganini during his visit to this country, but no doubt most of them were pure inventions, founded upon his strange and wild appearance, which he evidently endeavoured rather to heighten when before the public. But that he was a kind-hearted man is affirmed by all who knew him. He was very fond of his little son Achilles, and "it was rather amusing," says one of his intimate friends, "to see Paganini, in his slippers, doing battle with his child, who came about up to his knees. The little one advanced boldly with his wooden sword, whilst the father retired, crying out, 'Enough! enough! I'm already wounded!' But it was not enough; the young Achilles was never satisfied until his father, completely vanquished, fell heavily upon the bed." After Paganini, De Beriot, Ole Bull, and many living performers are mentioned; but mixed up with much that is interesting concerning these artists we have a great deal of matter entirely unconnected with either violins or violinists; indeed, the latter part of the volume appears hastily put together, as if the author had become somewhat weary of his task.

The Return of Israel to Palestine. An Anthem, by John M. W. Young.

Luther's Hymn; arranged for Voices in various ways, with an independent Accompaniment for the Organ, by John M. W. Young. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THOUGH not so announced on the title-page, we are inclined to surmise that Mr. Young's anthem must have been written for some special musical service in Lincoln Cathedral, where the composer is organist. We form this opinion partly from the elaborate character of the music, and partly from its very unusual length—twenty-five pages.

It would be far too long for an ordinary cathedral service; and Mr. Young has therefore divided it into two parts, either of which may be used separately. The anthem is a very interesting example of the emancipation from old tradition which we have more than once had occasion to remark upon in reviewing church music. There is nothing secular in its style; but it differs as widely as possible from music of the school of Gibbons, Croft, or Boyce. There is, however, no more reason why composers for the church should write in the forms of two centuries ago, than there is that writers of instrumental music should give us nothing more modern than imitations of Bach, Handel, or Lulli. We therefore heartily welcome any attempts to imbue sacred music with the tone and feeling of the music of the present day—always provided that, as in Mr. Young's work, the boundary line dividing the sacred from the secular (a line so difficult to define, yet so easy to feel) be not overstepped.

The anthem commences with some recitatives for treble and tenor solos, "Sing with gladness for Jacob," &c., shortly leading to a bold unison passage for tenor and bass chorus, "Declare it in the isles afar off," with harmonised accompaniment for the organ. Here we may remark in passing that Mr. Young's treatment of the organ is very happy throughout. Without seeking to obtain from it effects which are beyond its reach, he has, by skilful registering and judicious alternations of tone-colour, produced a quasi-orchestral effect, which, while perfectly legitimate, is much more varied in character than the average of organ accompaniments. The unison passage just mentioned is followed by a full chorus, "Behold He that keepeth Israel," fugally treated, and with free accompaniments almost throughout. The fugue, which is well worked, is interrupted by a new subject for solo voices, "O pray for the peace of Jerusalem;" and near the close of the movement these two independent themes are heard together, with a very happy effect. With this chorus the first part of the anthem concludes; and, as the whole of this portion is only eight pages in length, and is quite complete in itself, we recommend Mr. Young to publish it separately, as it will be available on occasions when the entire work could not be used.

The second and considerably longer part of the work opens with a bass solo alternating with a quartett for two trebles, alto, and tenor, to the words, "The wilderness and the solitary place," &c., which, though well written, is not one of the most striking movements of the work. A short recitative for tenor, "Then shall the eyes of the blind," leads to a very charming chorus, "For in the wilderness shall waters break out," which is full of graceful melody. A choral recitative for tenors and basses, "And a highway shall be there," connects the preceding movement with the final chorus, "And the ransomed of the Lord shall return," which is full of spirit, and forms a worthy close to a very excellent composition. It may be as well to mention that a \sharp has been omitted before the F in the alto—the first note on p. 21.

The arrangement of Luther's Hymn we like less. The harmonies are skilfully varied, but we think Mr. Young has made a mistake in judgment in introducing several pauses in the melody. For example, the last line of the first verse is given thus: "Prepare, (pause) my soul, (pause) to meet Him." However defensible this setting may be as regards the words, it is destructive to the feeling of the rhythm. Similar pauses are introduced in other places. We think, too, that the organ part on the first line of page 3, where there are full chords in the highest octave of the treble, would, if played as indicated, "Full Choir and Swell; No Double," have a harsh and screaming effect by no means agreeable; and the same may be said of the similar full chords for the great organ in the accompaniment of the last verse. In other respects this clever arrangement of the hymn may be recommended.

The Lord is my Shepherd. Psalm xxiii. (Bible version). Composed by the Rev. Arthur Sewell, M.A. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE present work is one of those about which a conscientious reviewer finds it difficult to speak, because he hardly knows whether on the whole to praise or to blame it.

On the one hand there is so much evidence of earnest intention in the music that it would be harsh to condemn it altogether; while, on the other, there is so much that is faulty in it that it is impossible to express unqualified approval. The work consists of three long movements; there is first a soprano solo and chorus (verses 1 to 3), then a tenor solo (verses 4 and 5), and, lastly, a chorus (verse 6), with duet passages for soprano and tenor. The first movement suffers terribly from diffuseness; it contains no fewer than 304 bars, mostly in rather slow time; the principal subjects are pleasing, but the developments are carried on to such a length as to become very tiresome. The music, moreover, wanders too far away from the original key. For instance, immediately after the first entry of the chorus in F, that key is quitted, and a series of modulations, some of them very remote, follows for 158 bars before the original key is returned to. Thus all feeling of the tonality of the movement is lost entirely; and though it is true that we in one place find some sixteen bars in C, the dominant of the key in which the piece begins, Mr. Sewell almost immediately flies off again at a tangent. The tenor solo which follows is better as regards its construction, but less interesting in its themes; while the final chorus, with duet, "Surely goodness and mercy," is, in our opinion, the least satisfactory part of the music. Its chief subject has a strong resemblance to the opening of Mendelssohn's "Cornelius" March; and there is a general triviality of character about it which seems very unsuited to the feeling of the words. Mr. Sewell's harmony is for the most part correct; and yet, side by side with passages which seem to indicate considerable facility in part-writing, we find unpardonable errors—such, for instance, as the unresolved chord of $\frac{3}{4}$ on the sixth bar of the second page, or the consecutive octaves between extreme parts from bar 1 to bar 2 on page 49. The accompaniment is laid out for piano and harmonium throughout the work; and in this point again we meet with the most curious inconsistencies. It is quite evident that the composer has some practical knowledge of the harmonium: this appears clearly enough in the directions for registering; such a combination as that indicated in the harmonium part of page 36 shows not only an acquaintance with the resources of the instrument, but a good feeling for contrast of tone-colour. Yet we should have supposed that any one with half Mr. Sewell's knowledge of the harmonium must have been aware that with the Grand Jeu of a large instrument drawn, the full chords for the left hand at the bottom of page 35 would be most ineffective. The whole work is full of anomalies of this kind; and we have thought it best to mention some few of them in detail, in order to justify our opening statement that we were in doubt whether to praise the composition or not.

A Lament for the Summer. Duet. Words by A. A. Procter.

The Pride of Youth. Duet. Words by Sir Walter Scott.

Morning Song. Duet. English words translated from the German of G. Th. Stricker, by Rev. J. Troutbeck, M.A.

Life. Duet. Words by A. L. Barbauld.

Composed by Edward Hecht. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

ALL these duets are intended for two sopranos, or soprano and alto, and so carefully considered as to be equally available for either pair of voices named. Mr. Hecht has evidently much talent for vocal writing; and if his duets strike us as being occasionally more restless in tonality than seems to be warranted by the simplicity of the verses to which he has wedded his music, we can at least affirm that this is partially atoned for by the masterly manner in which he handles his harmonies. "A Lament for the Summer" has a placid theme, in A minor, with a flowing quaver accompaniment, occasionally broken by some effective syncopations. The conclusion of this duet is extremely beautiful, a good point being gained by the lingering upon the dominant, and afterwards upon the key-note, harmony at the conclusion. "The Pride of Youth" is, in our opinion, the gem of the set. The text is expressed throughout with a fidelity which cannot be over-praised, the quaintness both of melody and harmony—especially observable in the treatment of the phrase, "When six brave gentlemen kirkward shall carry ye"—being admirably in keeping, not only with the words, but with the spirit of Scott's verses. The "Morning Song" is extremely melodious, and much character is given to the duet by the second repeating the words in answer to the first voice, the two occasionally uniting with excellent effect. In the fourth piece upon our list we have in parts that excess of modulation to which we have already alluded, and which, to us, somewhat detracts from the sympathy which should exist between a composer and his audience. In every other respect, however, the duet is worthy of its companions; and we feel assured that, whether Mr. Hecht agree with us in our observations or not, he will believe that the qualification of our praise in reviewing his clever works is as sincere as the praise itself.

Zuleika. An Oriental Scena, for a Tenor or Soprano voice and Pianoforte. Poetry by Arthur O'Shaughnessy. Music by Charles Salaman. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

As a drawing-room Scena, for voice and pianoforte, this latest effusion from Mr. Salaman's prolific pen is entitled to take high rank. The words are expressed throughout with a felicity reminding us of the same composer's "I arise from dreams of thee," in many parts, indeed, strongly resembling this excellent setting of Shelley's Serenade. The verses of Mr. O'Shaughnessy are extremely good, and well adapted for musical treatment. Were we inclined to be over-critical upon the result of Mr. Salaman's labours, we might say that the ear becomes somewhat weary, in so long a piece, of the almost unceasing triplet accompaniment; but much is done to lessen the effect of monotony by the everchanging harmonies, which are always most happily sympathetic with the text. By the manner in which the vocal part is written, we should imagine the Scena more suited for a mezzo-soprano than for either a tenor or soprano; but vocalists are perhaps bound to respect the composer's intention expressed upon the title-page.

The Sweetest Song. Words by E. S. Righton. [Chappell and Co.]

I'll Sing of Thee. Words by Mrs. Jane C. Simpson. [C. Jefferys.]

Composed by Robert Sloman.

MR. RIGHTON'S musical verses have suggested a melody which happily reflects the feeling of the poet; and, aided by most unexceptionable harmonies, and unobtrusive, but thoroughly appropriate, accompaniments, "The Sweetest Song" may be accepted as a welcome contribution to our fast increasing store of music for English singers by English composers. The second song has a melodious theme, the simplicity of which is in no way interfered with by the accompaniment, which chiefly moves in arpeggios. We cannot, however, reconcile ourselves to the G rising to A flat in both hands (between bars 4 and 5, page 2), not from any pedantic notion that consecutive octaves must never occur, but because we really dislike the effect.

Ballo in A major, and Bourrée in A minor. By Gluck. Transcribed for the Pianoforte by Charles Hallé.

On the Lake. Barcarolle. Composed for the Pianoforte by Cotsford Dick.

[Forsyth Brothers.]

MR. CHARLES HALLÉ has conferred a real boon upon classical pianists by his transcription of Gluck's melodious "Ballo" and "Bourrée." The effective manner in which these two pieces are placed under the hands is deserving of warm praise; for although the arranger acknowledges no such things as difficulties himself, he has a tender care for those which less experienced players may encounter, and the marking of many important notes with an "L. H." will be accepted as a most kindly hint by amateurs. Mr. Cotsford Dick's piece is more original, and fresher in treatment than his well-worn title would lead us to expect. The placid and tuneful theme with which it commences is much aided by the figure for the left hand; and the delicate subject, in A minor, which follows is not only effective as a contrast, but sufficiently attractive in itself. Like many other compositions which come before us, we find that the author has fingered several passages which do not require it, and left unfingered several which do. For example, the third bar could scarcely be played in any other manner than that indicated, but the second half of the first bar cannot be linked to the commencement of the next bar without great care. We sincerely hope that "On the Lake" may attain the popularity it well deserves.

Tunes set to some Favourite Church Hymns, by E. H. A. (Weekes and Co.), are melodious, but (like nine-tenths of so-called "new tunes" published now-a-days) by no means remarkable for originality. The harmonies are for the most part correct, though some very bad fifths between extreme parts may be found in No. 13.

FOREIGN NOTES.

THE annual special performances during Passion Week of sacred music in all the more important towns of Germany presented this year some features of unusual interest. The performance on Good Friday of Johann Sebastian Bach's grand interpretation of the "Passion" according to the evangelists St. John and St. Matthew respectively has—thanks in a great measure to the impetus given in that direction by Mendelssohn—become so much a matter of course with German choirs that in order to particularise we should have to furnish a list of more than half the towns comprised in the German empire. We will content ourselves by stating the fact that at St. Thomas's church in Leipzig, for the services of which the work was originally composed, the St. Matthew "Passion" received, as usual, a splendid rendering under the direction of Herr Reinecke. There are, however, among the old masters of church-music not a few whose claims to a revival, if not equally great with that of Sebastian Bach, are at least considerable, and become the more pronounced the greater the dearth among the productions of the present day of works bearing the stamp of original genius. Modern music is still under the immediate influence of the resuscitated masterpieces of Bach, which have come to us endowed at once with the freshness of youth and the solidity of mature age—an influence the importance of which, for the future development of the art, it would be difficult to over-estimate. Nor is there such an abundance even of works of secondary importance among the religious compositions of the day, that similar beneficial results might not be anticipated from the reproduction of the works of masters belonging to a grand period of the art, when musical inspiration was mainly derived from the intense religious feeling of the composer and the devout contemplation of his chosen subject. It is a healthy sign of the time, therefore, to notice among the Passion-performances in Germany this year the names of Heinrich Schütz (born in 1585, the immediate precursor both of Bach and Handel), Melchior Franck, Joh. Gottfr. Schicht, Graun, as well as those of the Italian masters—Durante, Jomelli, Lotti, and others. Schütz's "Passion Oratorio" was performed in church on Good Friday both at Cologne and Darmstadt, and created a deep impression upon the audience. On the same day Graun's Passion Cantata "Der Tod Jesu" was given at St. Peter's church, in Berlin, while at other German towns Bach's great Mass in B minor was produced during Passion Week. Among religious works of recent date may be mentioned the performance at Berlin, Zürich, and elsewhere, of Kiel's Oratorio "Christus," of which mention has already been made in these columns, a work which seems to attract greater attention at every hearing, and which, we trust, will not be long withheld from an English audience.

On the occasion of the recent fiftieth anniversary of the death of Beethoven—which in every German town was marked by special performances, consisting entirely of selections from the works of that great master—his Opera "Fidelio" was performed at the court theatres both of Berlin and Munich. At the latter place the Opera was preceded by a spoken prologue, succeeded by the march and chorus from the "Ruins of Athens," and the crowning with wreaths of flowers of a colossal bust of the immortal master.

The ceremony of uncovering the tablet in memory of Joseph Haydn—which has been affixed, at the expense of the Vienna Gesangverein "Arion," to the house at the small town of Rohrau wherein the composer of the "Creation" first saw the light of the world—took place on Easter Sunday. Deputations from various musical societies of Vienna were present on the occasion, and after the customary speeches the ceremony was appropriately brought to a close by a numerously attended concert in the evening.

At Leipzig the last of the Subscription Concerts of the season at the Gewandhaus took place on March 22. The soloist of the evening was the violin-virtuoso, Herr Leopold Auer, from St. Petersburg, whose playing—according to the opinion expressed by the Leipzig journals—though not entirely free from mannerism, and a certain feminine quality of tone, was yet deservedly admired on the part of a numerous and critical audience. The excellent "Euterpe" Concerts have likewise come to a close with the tenth concert of the season; Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony (without the aid of realistic scenic effects!) and Weber's "Euryanthe" Overture having been the prominent features. The usual examinations for the admission of pupils to the Royal Conservatorium of Leipzig were held on the 5th of last month, the new term of instruction at that institution having commenced on the 9th ult.; foreign pupils are, however, admitted for some time after that date.

We read in the Neue Zeitschrift für Musik that the recent first performance at Hamburg of Goldmark's Opera "Queen of Saba" resulted in a complete success of the new work. The composer, who was present, had the satisfaction of being repeatedly summoned before the curtain, to receive the enthusiastic plaudits of the numerous audience. The Opera is highly spoken of by the local Press, and has since received repeated representations on the Hamburg stage.

Saint-Saëns's Opera in three acts, entitled "Dalila," will, according to the Neue Berliner Musik Zeitung, be performed during this month at the court theatre of Weimar.

Herr Nachbaur, the Munich tenor, is, we hear, about to proceed to Genoa and Rome, for the purpose of interpreting the titre-rôle in Wagner's "Rienzi" at the opera houses of those towns.

Both at Leipzig and Vienna, Wagner's Opera "Die Meistersänger" has recently been represented before crowded houses.

The appearance of Franz Liszt at concerts recently given at Vienna and Pesth was made the occasion of a most unmistakable display of enthusiastic admiration, on the part of the public, for the genius of the veteran pianist and tone-poet. At a concert given at Vienna, in aid of the projected Beethoven memorial to be erected in the Austrian capital, both the room and the instrument on which he played were most profusely and tastefully decorated with flowers, while his performance of the Concerto in E flat major, and of the Pianoforte Fantasia, with Chorus and Orchestra (Beethoven), called forth quite an ovation from those present. At Pesth, where the maestro had played at a charitable concert, he was presented with a laurel wreath, most artistically wrought in silver and gold, bearing the following inscription in Hungarian: "To the world-famed artist and generous benefactor of the poor, Franz Liszt," added to which are the names of various charitable institutions.

Verdi's "Aida" achieved a great success at its first performance in March last at the principal theatre at Antwerp.

At a Court Concert, held in honour of Richard Wagner during his recent stay at Meiningen, the poet-composer conducted a new orchestral composition of his, to which he has given the name of "Siegfried-Idyl."

The chief event during last month in matters musical at Paris has been the long-delayed and impatiently expected first performance of M. Gounod's new opera "Cinq-Mars" which took place at the Opéra-Comique, on the 5th ult. The subject of the work—the libretto of which emanates from MM. Paul Poirson and Louis Gallet—is essentially tragic, having for its foreground the conspiracy, known to history, of Cinq-Mars against Cardinal Richelieu, which culminates in the execution of the former and his accomplices. These broad historical facts are interwoven by romance in the shape of a love intrigue carried on between the hero and the Princess Marie de Gonzague, wherein the authors of the libretto have followed pretty closely the well-known novel by Alfred de Vigny. The action is, however, said to drag too much, and the piece is pronounced wanting in dramatic effects, and to be too sombre in its colouring. To these defects, no doubt, may be partly owing the fact that this new work of the most popular composer of France met, on the whole, with but qualified success on the occasion of its first representation. The majority of the Paris journals—while scrupulously avoiding to draw close comparisons between this and the previous productions of the composer of “Faust”—agree in the opinion that “Cinq Mars” falls decidedly short of their expectations. Among the numbers most admired in the opera are mentioned the Introduction, a love duet in the first act, the ballet music in the style of Louis XIII., and a funeral march. In a critique of the work contained in the Revue et Gazette Musicale, the writer says: “Into a badly jointed framework the composer has found means of weaving, here and there, some pretty details, clothing the whole in music of a dreamy melodiousness of which he so entirely possesses the secret. What is wanting most, throughout the whole of his score, is that element of grandeur which ought to be inherent in the subject itself. There are traces, too, of the hurry in which the work was written. And here we may be permitted to ask where was the need of composing ‘Cinq-Mars’ in but three weeks—a fact which the journals have been authorised to affirm? Was it an act of wisdom to imitate the kind of race against time of which Rossini set the example in his ‘Barbiere’? ‘Time,’ says a proverb, of which Rossini, too, fully understood the application when required, ‘Time has little regard for that which has been accomplished without it.’ Let us, however, hasten to add that in spite of all this there is much of the graceful and the charming in the midst of these failings, which, to be just, ought to be attributed as much to the compilers of the drama as to the efforts of the musician.”

Mendelssohn’s “St. Paul” (the first part only) was performed by the Société des Concerts of Paris on Easter Sunday, without however finding a very appreciative audience. L’Art Musical, in deploring the fact, adds by way of explanation that “perhaps the work is too truly and too profoundly religious in order to be understood in the present day.” The works of Haydn, too, seem to be out of date with a portion of the French public, if we may accept as representative the opinion expressed by a writer in the journal just quoted, with reference to a performance at the Châtelet of “The Creation,” who says: “The musical beauties of the work are undisputed; but we must not shut our eyes to the fact that the treatment is on the whole, too frigid for the subject, so that one almost feels tempted to infuse into it some warmth by artificial means.”

Mdlle. Albani, on taking leave of her numerous admirers at the Théâtre-Italien, on the 12th of last month, was once more the recipient of the most flattering tokens of admiration on the part of the élite of Parisian society. The diva, who sang in selections from “I Puritani,” “Norma” and “Rigoletto,” received, to quote the expression of a French journal, “not an ovation, but a long series of ovations,” and as many bouquets as on the night of her benefit, which, our authority adds, “is saying not a little.”

M. Ambroise Thomas has, we hear, withdrawn his new Opera “Françoise de Rimini” from the Paris Grand-Opéra, and has transferred it to the Théâtre-Italien, where Madame Nilsson will sing the titre-rôle during the forthcoming International Exhibition. M. Gounod has also withdrawn his opera “Polieucte” from the above establishment, and, if rumour may be trusted, the new work will now be represented for the first time at the Royal Italian Opera, Covent Garden.

At a recent first performance of “Lohengrin” at the Royal Theatre of Turin, this specifically German work achieved what may be called a succès d’estime, which, emanating from the “land of melody,” must be considered a very favourable prognostic.

Politics appear to be at a discount just now at Florence. We notice that a local political paper, the Figaro, is about to be converted into a music journal, possibly with a view of thereby withdrawing into a more serene and contemplative sphere of existence. Whilst wishing our Italian contemporary every success under its new auspices, we may remind it that, although the word “music” implies harmony, there is, unfortunately, just as much of intrigue and party strife being carried on under that device as in the field of politics.

The once famous singer Madame Ungher-Sabatier died on March 23 at her villa near Florence. She was born at Vienna in the year 1800. We have also to record the death, at the age of sixty, of M. Sainte-Foy, for many years one of the most popular bass singers in comic opera in Paris.

CORRESPONDENCE.

KENT’S ANTHEMS, &c.

TO THE EDITOR OF “THE MUSICAL TIMES.”

SIR,—Will you kindly allow me a few remarks in your influential journal in partial vindication of those musical conservatives who seem to have given you so much offence by eulogising the anthems of James Kent. True, it was, I must admit, rather injudicious of them to couple the name of that composer with those of Purcell and Croft; the first indisputably our greatest national composer, and the other one of his worthiest successors—especially in sacred music—but I have yet to learn that it is a wise proceeding to denounce everything, however good in itself, which does not stand absolutely in the very first rank, i.e., that is not unsurpassable. Granting, as I may readily do, that Kent was immeasurably inferior to Purcell and even to Croft, he may yet have written some anthems that are good, and, if so, upon what principle are we to be forbidden to use them? Is it merely because Purcell and Croft have produced some that are better?

Surely that can hardly be, for in that case we must also, in common fairness, exclude every one who falls below that high standard; and in such a case even the warmest admirers of Purcell and Croft (of whom I declare myself one, although no bigot) might tire of their favourite composers if they never heard any other strains. Were we to apply a similar rule in other matters, what would be the result? Suppose we were to sing no Oratorios save those of the mighty Handel, and to restrict ourselves to the operas of the glorious Mozart! He would be a tolerably bold man who would say that we could get better than those musical giants could furnish us with; yet, who talks of confining us to them. It seems to me that some, at least, of Kent’s anthems possess merit enough to disarm hostile criticism. Of his “When the Son of Man shall come in His glory,” I would say that it contains, in my judgment, some very fine passages; and I am at a loss to understand what objection can be taken to it which will not equally apply to any verse anthem. My idea is that, just as we now perform the oratorios of Haydn, Mendelssohn, &c., as well as those of Handel, and many operas in addition to those of Mozart, we ought also, occasionally, to use the much abused anthems of Kent, Boyce and Nares. While speaking on this subject I may also say that I consider William Jackson, of Exeter, to be another ill-used man. Dr. G. A. Macfarren (a gentleman for whom I beg to say I entertain a most profound respect, and from whom I differ with regret) was pleased several years ago, in this journal, to say that in Jackson the Te Deum had found its “culminating point” as regarding weakness and vulgarity. I don’t say these were the exact words, but I think that was the substance of his statement, to which I can hardly subscribe. I don’t say Jackson’s Te Deum (in F) is his best composition or a model for study, but I do say that dozens of worse Te Deums have been published—both before and since—ay, even in our own day; and therefore I object to making a scapegoat of William Jackson. It may be news to some to be told that he wrote a large number of songs, canzonets, trios, elegies, &c., not a few of which were very beautiful. He excelled in melody, of a tasteful, flowing character, and his harmonies are, in general, effective and musicianlike. He was also a littérateur of no mean ability. He published his "Thirty Letters on Various Subjects," 2 vols.; and also a larger volume containing a long article upon (I think) "The Four Ages," along with some short papers. In these works he displays much boldness, originality, and shrewdness; and it is evident that he was a highly cultured man and thoroughly independent in his views. I have, however, far exceeded my space, and at present beg to subscribe myself,

Yours very truly, D. BAPTIE.
Glasgow, April 11, 1877.

CONSECUTIVE FIFTHS.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Kindly allow me space to say that I think "X. Z." has not fully dealt with the vexed question of the use and abuse of consecutive perfect fifths in his letter to you. His first illustration is a sequence of chords of the ♯ in octave, and the fifths are so hidden, or rather buried, by the completing chords as to be practically unheard, and therefore inoffensive. His example of thirds exactly realises the view I expressed in my letter, which you were good enough to insert in your last number, but he converts these thirds into a passage of four-part harmony, which completely changes the character of the progression. I would suggest that he take a series of perfect fifths, and if he wishes to assuage the feeling of utter desolation, which they always convey to my mind when moving diatonically, employ a third between them; he will still realise the objection which all sensitive musical minds have to their use ordinarily. What I have said before I would, with your permission, now repeat: that when great or special dramatic effects are desired, such intervals should not be objected to; in fact I would strongly advocate and indulge in the use of these, and any tabooed intervals, if the realisation of an idea should demand them, on the ground that a musician should be allowed perfect freedom to express his thoughts, however eccentric they may appear to be.

I am, Sir, yours faithfully,
W. S. LAMBERT.

109, Peckham Park Road, April 9, 1877.

TUNING AND VOICING ORGAN-PIPES.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—In your last issue I observe an inquiry for a work on tuning and voicing metal organ-pipes. Your correspondent may be referred to the modern edition of the "Facteur d'orgues," by M. Hamel, issued as one of the "Manuels Roret" by the publishing house of that name in Paris. My copy bears date 1849, and is in three volumes 12mo, with an atlas of large plates. The work is founded upon that of Dom Bédos, now scarce, and it enters into the whole subject of organ-building with the minuteness and extreme accuracy in which our ingenious neighbours have no rivals, and to which their language lends itself admirably. I am acquainted with no English translation of the treatise, and I doubt if any translation would do justice to it.

I am, Sir, faithfully yours,
W. E. DICKSON.

College, Ely, April 14, 1877.

THE CUCKOO'S NOTE.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Your reviewer, in kindly noticing my Madrigal "Sweet Spring" in your last issue, says: "The cuckoo giving us his well-known major third (which, by-the-way, we never hear save in musical compositions), and also bringing some of his companions to aid him in the sylvan concert." Now, as I perfectly agree with the opinion expressed in parenthesis, and in conformity therewith have in the Madrigal in question given E and C♯, the fifth and third of the major common chord of A, as the cuckoo notes, I thought it right to draw your attention to the little inaccuracy in the review.

I remain, Sir, yours faithfully,
W. W. PEARSON.

[Mr. Pearson will see by a paragraph in our present number that we have received a letter respecting the cuckoo's note, and have commented upon it. In justice to the composer of the Madrigal which has given rise to this discussion, let us at once tender our apology for misstating the interval he has written, and hasten to range Mr. Pearson on the side of Dr. Hiller, instead of that of Beethoven. —THE WRITER OF THE NOTICE.]

"SMALL NOTES."

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Having moved the question first, will you kindly allow me to say a few concluding words on the matter? Mr. Cleveland Wigan evidently has no recollection of what I stated previously, as his answers to my last letter contain not only several errors, but also insinuations of questionable taste. I neither unconsciously follow the practice which I condemn, nor do I relax the time when the turn occurs. Mr. C. W., in trying to teach me, rolls from the main line of argument into a ditch of confusion, and the manner he arranges—or rather disarranges—the accent in the passage referred to is singularly unfortunate. At all events he has not been able to refute what I proved from Beethoven's own writing (vide Rondo in C in my first letter). The question at issue is not what individual opinion may be, but what the composer meant. Mr. C. W. seems to have very little experience in the knowledge of editions, or he would have perceived that I did not allude only to Bülow, but to several others, including some French editors, who have inserted the most sensational nonsense between the text of the Sonatas. According to Mr. C. W., his friend Bülow has reverence for Beethoven; if so, why does he not leave the master entirely untouched? Bülow himself confesses in his Scarlatti edition, which I possess, that he altered some of the passages. So much for Mr. C. Wigan's logic!

I do not wish to turn a subject which I stirred up in the interest of the science of notation into a personal discussion with a correspondent unknown to me; but I cannot allow it to be mutilated in the way my antagonist has done. As Mr. C. W. assumes so much authority and pretends to know Beethoven's intentions better than Beethoven himself, it is a pity that he thought not of writing on the matter before I did.

I am, Sir, yours truly,
ALLEGRO.

March 31, 1877.

AIR DE LOUIS XIII.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—It is not perhaps generally known that the "Air composé par Louis XIII, transcrit par H. Ghys," which has become so popular in this country during the last few years, is founded on—one might almost say, as far as the first phrase is concerned, copied from—a French tune of the sixteenth century. It occurs in the "Balet comique de la Royne," which was written by Balthazarini, called Beaujoyeux, in 1582, on the occasion of the nuptials of Mdlle. de Vaudemont, sister of the Queen, with the Duc de Joyeuse, the music being supplied by Messrs. Beaulieu and Salmon. The air is called "Son de la Clochette auquel Circe sortit de son jardin," and is as follows:—

MADAME BILLINIE PORTER gave an artistic rendering of "I will extol Thee" (Costa); Miss Harries was very successful in Dr. Rogers's song, "Autumn Days," and Sullivan's "Lost Chord." Canon Walters was well-received in "If with all your hearts" (Elijah); as was also Mr. E. M. Jones in "Every valley" (Messiah); Mr. Thomas, who has just returned from Italy, made his débüt at this concert. He possesses a fine, powerful voice, and his rendering of "Why do the nations" and other solos made a very favourable impression upon the audience.

BATH.—The members of the Bath Choral Union gave their first Concert on Wednesday the 18th ult. A selection of choruses and part-songs were very fairly executed by the choir, numbering about seventy voices. Miss Bolingbroke, notwithstanding that she was suffering from most severe hoarseness, created a very favourable impression by her rendering of "O rest in the Lord" (Elijah), and the "Evening Prayer" (Elis). Herr Sondermann conducted, and Mr. Brownell presided at the pianoforte.

BATLEY.—The Batley Choral Society gave its twenty-seventh Concert in the Town Hall on Monday the 26th March. The first part consisted of F. H. Cowen's Cantata, The Rose Maiden, which was done full justice to by the band and chorus; Mr. Nuttall, of Hallé's band, being the leader, and Mr. Bowling conductor. The second part contained glees, songs, &c. The concert was a decided success.

BEDFORD.—At the Bedford Amateur Musical Society's Concert in the Corn Exchange, on the 10th ult., Rossini's Stabat Mater, Mendelssohn's Thirteenth Psalm, and a selection from Handel and Gounod were most effectively given. The solo vocalists were Madame Clara Suter, Miss Annie Butterworth, Mr. E. Lloyd, and Mr. Pyatt, all of whom were thoroughly successful. The choruses were excellently given; and Mr. Diemer, who conducted, deserves every credit for the care with which he trains the choir and prepares the works for public performance.

BELFAST.—The second annual Concert of National Music was given by the Choral Association in the Ulster Hall, on the 9th ult., under the conductorship of Mr. Newport. Irish national music was the foundation of the concert, but the selections included English, Welsh, and Scottish native melodies, together with a few miscellaneous pieces. Miss Meenan was the solo vocalist. The plaintive "Aileen Aroon," was sung in an unequalled manner by the members of the Association, and the large band of harps performed Bochs's Grand March, arranged by Mr. John Cheshire, who also led the band. Mr. Penry Williams performed his harp solo, "O dolce concerto," with taste and spirit. Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was splendidly performed by the band of harps and by Dr. Marks on the grand organ.

BERWICK-UPON-TWEED.—A performance of Mendelssohn's Elijah was given on Tuesday the 17th ult., by the Choral Union, assisted by professional soloists, and a good orchestra, among whom were several members of the Drechsler-Hamilton family. The soloists were Miss Tomlinson, soprano; Miss Arnolds, alto; Mr. T. Richardson, tenor; and Mr. Thornton Wood, bass; all of whom were highly successful. The performance of the choir was also especially commendable for precision; and the accompaniments by the orchestra were all that could be desired. Miss Cuthbertson presided at the harmonium, and Mr. Barker conducted.

BIRMINGHAM.—The Festival Choral Society gave a grand Miscellaneous Concert on Easter Tuesday. Mr. Sims Reeves was engaged, but unfortunately failed to appear. Mrs. Osgood increased the good opinion she has already gained in Birmingham, and Signor Foli was most applauded. Mr. E. Lloyd has taken a firm hold on local public favour, and was enthusiastically encored. Mr. Gaul's new part-song "The day is done" was well rendered by the chorus. Mr. Stimpson presided at the organ; Mr. T. M. Abbot played the last two movements of Mendelssohn's Vio' in Concerto; Mr. Sidney Naylor accompanied on the pianoforte, and Mr. Stockley conducted. A grand Military Concert, under distinguished patronage, was given in the Town Hall on the 6th ult., in support of the Soldiers' Daughters' Home. Miss Colin Campbell, Mr. F. Watkins, and Lieut. E. M. Flint, R.A., were the vocalists; the band of the King's Dragoon Guards, and Her Majesty's Royal Highland Pipers gave instrumental selections, and Herr Orton and Dr. Heap conducted. There was not a large attendance. Herr Rubinstein's second Recital took place in the Town Hall on the 11th ult. There was a very large and brilliant assemblage to greet the great artist on his second visit, and he was received with even more enthusiasm than at first. The programme was an improvement upon the former one, and comprised, in addition to some pieces of his own, Beethoven's Sonata in F minor (Op. 57); Chopin's Sonata in B flat minor (Op. 35); J. S. Bach's Preludes and Fugues, Nos. 2 and 5 of the "Forty-eight"; Schubert's "Moments Musicaux," Nos. 2 and 3; Schumann's Carnaval, and Mendelssohn's Scherzo e Capriccio in F sharp minor. His new reading of some movements was at times felt to be a true inspiration; and the ovation accorded him at the close of the recital was most enthusiastic. Mendelssohn's St. Paul was performed by the Handsworth Choral Society on the 12th ult. This was the Society's first Concert with orchestra, and the band and chorus numbered eighty. The solos were taken by Miss St. Clair Taylor, Miss Bailey, Mr. Bywater, and Mr. Pountney, and Mr. Blakeman Welch conducted. The performance was creditable to the young Society. Mr. John Cheshire gave a Harp Recital at the Masonic Hall on the 19th ult. Miss Augusta Roche and Mr. Alfred Baylis were the vocalists, and Mrs. John Cheshire appeared here for the first time as a pianist. The programme was of a miscellaneous description, but varied and interesting. The Carl Rosa Opera Company commenced a season of twelve nights on the 16th ult. at the Theatre Royal. The opening work was Balfe's Siege of Rochelle, heard on this occasion for the first time in Birmingham; it, however, made little impression and failed to "draw." Wagner's Flying Dutchman met with much success, and was twice repeated during the week, attracting large audiences. The other works given were the Bohemian Girl and Maritana. Beethoven's Fidelio, never yet performed in Birmingham, is promised.

BISHOP AUCKLAND.—The members of the Auckland Musical Society, under the conductorship of Mr. Kilburn, gave their first Concert of the season on Friday the 6th ult., assisted by Miss Terry and Mr. T. Burgin, of Darlington. The instrumentalists were the Brousil family, who made, on this occasion, their first combined appearance for some years past. Their performance of Mendelssohn's Quartet (No. 1, Op. 44) was a great feature in the programme. Mr. J. H. Brotherton, and Mr. J. W. Marshall, of Darlington, rendered able assistance as accompanists, and the Society's Chorus, numbering about ninety voices, sang a selection of part-songs in good style.

BRIGHTON.—Mr. Worsley Staniforth gave his annual Easter Concert in the Dome on the 5th ult. The principal singers were Miss Catherine Penna, Mr. Wilford Morgan, and Mr. Frank Elmore. The Band of the 20th Hussars, under the direction of their bandmaster, Mr. Lees, in addition to a string band of local musicians, under the conductorship of Mr. Reyloff, took part in the concert. Several favourite part-songs were well sung by a large choir. Mr. Staniforth played as organ solos a Marziale in G, his own composition; a Praeludium et fuga in D, by Bach; and, with the orchestra, two movements from Handel's Seventh and Twelfth Concertos. Mr. Staniforth also played his Rondino in F, a pianoforte solo; and, in response to the encore which it elicited, gave an improvisation. Mr. Charles Robey, of St. Paul's, and Mr. Wm. Roe were efficient accompanists. Herr Rubinstein gave two Pianoforte Recitals on the 14th and 19th ult., both of which attracted large audiences.

BRISBANE.—The report of the Brisbane Musical Union shows that the Society is now in a most flourishing condition. Many works of much interest have already been performed at the public concerts; and during the present season Romberg's Lay of the Bell, Rossini's Stabat Mater, and the operas Maritana and Ernani, are to be given. The thanks of the Society are tendered to Mr. Jefferies for the ability and energy displayed by him in bringing the Union to its present state of efficiency, and also to Madame Mallalieu for her services at the practice meetings and concerts.

BRISTOL.—On Monday evening the 26th of March a performance of Bach's Passion Music (St. Matthew), was given in the Colston Hall by the Bristol Musical Festival Society. The audience was a thoroughly appreciative one, and the sublime music was listened to with much attention. The solos were very satisfactorily rendered by Miss Llewellyn Bagnall, Miss Bolingbroke, Mr. Harper Kearton, Mr. Henry Pope, and Mr. Dyer. The chorales were most impressively sung by the Festival Choir, and the choruses were also given in the most effective manner; the final chorus, "In tears of grief," being particularly well rendered. The whole performance reflected the greatest credit on the able conductor and chorus-master, Mr. Alfred Stone. The accompaniments were excellently played on the grand organ by Mr. George Riseley, organist of the Cathedral, and of the Colston Hall Choir. The preparatory classes for the Festival Choir, conducted by Mr. Stone, have just closed their course of lessons. The elementary class has been studying the Tonic Sol-fa system, practising the ordinary staff notation in the later lessons. The advanced class, singing altogether from the staff notation, had systematic practice in sight-singing, using Mr. Sullivan's Church Tunes, which have been taken in the order of difficulty. The new choir of Christ Church, Clifton, sang for the first time on Easter Day. Mr. Stone, the organist, had been engaged for some time in training the boys on the Tonic Sol-fa system, and the result was excellent. On the 9th ult. the second and last Subscription Concert for the present season of the Bristol and Clifton Orchestral Society, was given at the Colston Hall, when the audience was larger and more enthusiastic than on any previous occasion. This Society has now closed its fourth season, and nothing but music of the highest class has been admitted into its programmes, and much has been given which has never before obtained a hearing in Bristol. The programme was as follows:—Overtures, Semiramide (Rossini) and Rienzi (Wagner); Mendelssohn's Reformation Symphony; Ballet Music from Gounod's Faust; Gavotte, Mignon (A. Thomas); Boccherini's Minuetto in A major for muted string orchestra; and Gounod's Marche Cortège, Reine de Saba. A Largo by Handel, arranged for violin, strings, harp, and organ by Helmsberger, of Vienna, was also performed for the first time in the provinces, and well received. The vocalists were Miss Llewellyn Bagnall and Mr. Lawford Huxtable, who gave effective renderings of the pieces allotted to them. The band consisted of sixty performers, Mr. A. W. Waite being leader, and Mr. George Riseley conductor. On the 12th ult. a Concert was given in the Colston Hall by Mr. James Greenwood's Choir in aid of the funds of the Church Schoolmasters' and Schoolmistresses' Benevolent Institution and Orphan Fund. The large hall was full, and the whole of the programme was rendered in a manner which gave the greatest satisfaction. The vocalists were Miss Jessie Royd, Mr. T. W. Hanson (of St. Paul's Cathedral), and Mr. J. F. Hallowell (of New College, Oxford). Part-songs and glees, including Pierson's naval chorus "Ye Marines of England" with organ accompaniment, were sung by the choir. Mr. George Riseley presided at the organ and played Freyer's "Russian National Air" with variations, and Corelli's Sonata in A (No. 9), with his usual skill. Weber's "Rondo Brillante" was played as a pianoforte solo by a lady amateur (a pupil of Mr. James Greenwood). Mr. C. Greenwood presided at the pianoforte, and Mr. J. Greenwood conducted. A Concert was given in the Colston Hall on the 16th ult. in aid of the Bristol Sugar Operatives' Relief Fund. The artists (who gave their services) being Miss Rosa Bailey, Miss Pattie Keate, Miss Annie Toole, Miss Kate Spary, Mr. T. R. Clements, Mr. Wooldridge, Mr. Stuart Higgs, Mr. F. Crowe (co net), Mr. A. Simmons (piano), and the Bristol Vocal Quartet. Miss Allen gave a Concert at the Athenæum Hall on the 16th ult., when she was assisted by Miss Cottelle, Mr. E. T. Morgan, Mr. F. M. Cox, and Mr. W. F. Dyer. Miss Annie Toole's annual Concert took place on the 19th ult. at the Athenæum Hall, Miss Madoline Clements, Mrs. Grieve, Mr. Wooldridge, and Mr. Stuart Higgs being the vocalists; Mr. A. Simmons accompanied.

BURY ST. EDMUNDS.—Two Concerts were given in St. Peter's School Room on the 3rd and 6th ult. by the members of St. Mary's Choir, kindly assisted by Miss Snape, Miss Farquhar, R.A.M., and Miss Bartie as solo vocalists, and Miss Salman, Miss Ida Richardson, and the Rev. R. S. Fox, as solo instrumentalists. The room was crowded on each occasion, and the concerts were most successful. Mr. T. B. Richardson (organist of St. Mary's) conducted. Previous to the commencement of the first concert a most magnificent ivory bâton with tip, handle, and centre band of pure gold, was presented to Mr. Richardson by the Vicar (the Rev. A. W. Snape). The bâton bore the following inscription: "Presented to Mr. T. B. Richardson by the clergy and members of St. Mary's Choir, as a mark of respect and esteem for his valuable services as organist, and for his uniform kindness to members of the above choir. April 3, 1877."

CANTERBURY.—A Morning Concert was given on the 14th ult. in the Music Hall, which was crowded with the élite of the town and neighbourhood. The chief attraction was Mdme. Titiens, whose singing was a display of extraordinary vocal power. Mdles. Valleria and Bonn, Mr. Bentham, and Signori Del Puente and Brocolini were also highly appreciated. The accompaniments were played by Mr. F. H. Cowen, and Mr. Gough carried out the various details with entire success.

CLAYTON.—The Choir of the Parish Church gave the last Concert of the present season in the National School on Tuesday evening the 10th ult. The programme consisted of part-songs, duets, and songs, well rendered by the Misses Wilman, Spencer, Armitage, and Watmuff, and Messrs. Hirst, Mitchell, and Watmuff. Mr. J. Sharp (a pupil of the conductor) gave two solos on the pianoforte, and joined his master in several duets for pianoforte and harmonium, a solo on the latter instrument also being contributed by the conductor. The concert was a very successful one. Mr. W. M. Gaite, organist and choirmaster of the parish church, conducted with much ability.

CLIFTON.—Mr. Alfred Baynon's annual Concert was given at the Blind Asylum Music Hall on the 16th ult. The audience was large and the artists included Miss Ada Jackson, the Rev. H. D. Rawnsley, Mr. D. N. Rootham, Mrs. Viner Pomeroy, and Mr. T. Pomeroy. On the 17th ult. Herr Rubinstein gave a Pianoforte Recital in the large Victoria Rooms to a numerous and withal appreciative audience. The following was the programme:—1. Overture, Egmont (Beethoven); Rondo (Mozart); Gigue, air et variations (Handel); 2. Nocturne (Field); Erlkönig (Schubert); Barcarolle (Liszt); Polonaise, Nocturne (Chopin); Marche des Ruines d'Athènes (Beethoven); 3. "Narum," Vogel als Prophet, Etudes Symphoniques (Schumann); 4. Mélodie, Etude, Barcarolle, Valse Caprice (A. Rubinstein). The applause was frequent, and the performance was evidently much enjoyed.

CORK.—The third Concert of the Cork Orchestral Union for the present season took place in the Assembly Rooms, South Mall, on the 4th ult., before a large and appreciative audience. All the orchestral pieces were well played by the fine band of the Society, numbering over forty executants, conducted by Mr. W. Ringrose Atkins, who has held the bâton since the formation of the Society. The first part opened with the Overture to Guillaume Tell, and concluded with a MS. Concerto for pianoforte and orchestra, the composition of Mr. Michael Quarry, of Dublin, the solo part being excellently rendered by the composer, who also performed Chopin's Ballade in G minor (Op. 23). The programme likewise included Beethoven's Symphony in C major (No. 1, Op. 21), and two movements from his Septet in E flat (Op. 20) for violin (Mr. Howard), viola (Mr. Sidney Jones), violoncello (Mr. Jack), contrabasso (Mr. Howcroft), clarinet (Mr. Wilkinson), bassoon (Mr. Muir), and horn (Mr. McClelland); the execution of both these compositions being highly satisfactory. Mr. J. P. Smith was very successful in the Andante from Molique's Flute Concerto in F; and Mrs. Lyons, Mrs. Hogan, Mrs. Uppington, and Messrs. W. Harvey and G. Waters contributed some effective vocal music. This Society is doing a great deal towards the advancement of high-class music in the South of Ireland. A new organ has recently been erected in St. Peter's Church, by the eminent firm of Bryceson Brothers and Morten, of London. The instrument is a very fine one in every respect, the stops being of beautiful quality, and very carefully voiced. It is inclosed in a handsome carved case of Grecian design, with front pipes richly decorated in gold and colours. Dr. Marks, organist of the Cathedral, presided at both services on Sunday, and after Evening Service played with much effect a number of pieces, the congregation remaining in the church during the performance.

COTTINGHAM.—The grand organ in Cottingham Church, having been closed for repairs and improvements, was reopened on the 17th ult. The service was fully choral, the special preacher being the Rev. George Everard, M.A., vicar of St. Mark's, Wolverhampton. The Vicar, the Rev. C. Overton, read the lessons and the prayers. Mr. Charles Goulding, F.C.O., organist of the church, presided at the instrument, and successfully displayed its various improvements in quality of tone. The organ was originally built by Messrs. Foster and Andrews, of Hull, who have carried out the desired improvements in the most skillful and artistic manner. The service commenced with an opening voluntary. The Psalms for the evening were given to music from Crotch, Russell, and P. Humphrey; the "Magnificat" and "Nunc Dimittis" were sung to music by Dr. Clark-Whitfield; the Anthem was Dr. Bunnett's "If we believe;" and the Hymns were 249, "Iona," and 180, followed by one verse of the "Old Hundredth." At the close of the service, Mr. Goulding gave an excellent performance of several organ pieces.

DERBY.—On Tuesday evening the 10th ult. a Miscellaneous Concert was given in the Drill Hall by the choir of Trent College. In addition to the College choir, Madame Varley-Liebe, the celebrated violinist, appeared; and Messrs. T. Smith, principal alto of Eton College, Mr. J. Mellor, principal tenor of the Institution, and Mr. O. Christian, principal bass of Eton College, took part in the choruses and sang several songs with marked effect. Mr. John H. Gower, Professor of Music at Trent College, acted with great efficiency as conductor and pianist.

DEVIZES.—The members of the Amateur Vocal Society gave the second open Rehearsal for the season in the Town Hall on Monday evening the 9th ult. The programme was selected from the works of Mendelssohn, Handel, Gounod, Mozart, Haydn, Wagner, Weber, &c. All the numbers were exceedingly well rendered. At the close of the performance the Mayor (John Marsh, Esq.) proposed a vote of thanks to the performers, and Mr. Clarke, the conductor, returned thanks.

EDINBURGH.—Herr Schweizer gave a Concert at the Freemasons' Hall on the 2nd ult., the programme of which was exclusively devoted to the compositions of Schumann and Brahms. The most important pieces in the selection were Schumann's Fantasiestücke (Op. 88), for violin, violoncello, and pianoforte, and Brahms's Quartett in G minor (Op. 25), for violin, viola, violoncello, and pianoforte, both of which were well played and warmly received by a highly appreciative audience. The concert-giver was assisted by Messrs. Daly (violin), Brousil (viola), and Hamilton (violoncello). Herr Schweizer's solos, and also his duets with Mr. Townsend, were excellently calculated to display the varied powers of a pianist, and the applause at the conclusion of each was as enthusiastic as it was well deserved. The vocalists were Misses Laing and Grey, Messrs. Rooney and Millar-Craig. The third annual Recital of the Nicolson Street Church Musical Association took place on the 12th ult. in the church, when Handel's Oratorio, Althaliah, was performed for the first time in Edinburgh. The accompaniments were played on a piano and harmonium, and the overture was given with as much effect as Messrs. Anderson and Head could be expected to produce on these two instruments. The chorus numbered about seventy singers, who rendered their share of the work with great and decided success. The solo parts were, with two exceptions, taken by members of the church. Mr. Shaw deserves recognition for the high state of efficiency to which he has trained the chorus.

EDMONTON.—On Monday evening the 16th ult. the members of the Parish Church Choir, assisted by Madame Denham-Mori, Miss Blanche Grosvenor, and the Rev. T. Rivington, gave a highly successful Concert under the direction of the organist, Mr. Goddard Plowman. The programme was well arranged; the numbers especially calling for commendation being an Offertorium, "Alma Virgo," excellently rendered by Madame Denham-Mori; "When the tide comes in," Miss Blanche Grosvenor; "Arm, arm, ye brave," Rev. T. Rivington; "Jack's Yarn," Mr. E. D. Judd; Mr. Plowman's pianoforte solos, and the choruses, "Ave Maria" and "Send out Thy light," by the choir. Mr. Plowman accompanied and conducted, assisted by Mr. Harman Judd.

EXETER.—Miss Florence Ashe gave a Pianoforte Recital on Saturday the 7th ult. in the Royal Public Room, when an excellent programme of high-class music was provided. Miss Ashe, who is a native of Exeter, was cordially greeted on presenting herself to play Beethoven's "Moonlight" Sonata. The manner in which she interpreted the introductory Adagio proved at once the advance she had made since she appeared in Exeter three years ago. Her rendering of Schubert's "Posthumous" Sonata was also highly appreciated, and at its close she was summoned back to the platform to receive well-earned congratulations. Miss Ashe, in addition to her solos, played all the accompaniments. The vocalists were Mdle. Thekla Friedländer and Mdle. Redeker, who more than fulfilled the expectations raised by the warm encomiums bestowed upon them by metropolitan critics as earnest and accomplished interpreters of the German Lied. On Thursday the 19th ult. a new organ for the Church of Countess Wear, Exeter, built by Messrs. Halmshaw and Son, of Birmingham, was opened by Dr. Roberts, organist and choirmaster of the parish church, Halifax. The organ was the gift of John Dawson, Esq., Northbroke, Exeter.

FALKIRK, N.B.—On Easter Day the services in Christ Church were unusually good. With a little extraneous aid the Anthem "Now is Christ risen" (Allen) was well sung, some of the boys from Blair Lodge School (under the able conductorship of Mr. Turner, music-master) being permitted to help. The usual Easter hymns were sung, and the Psalms chanted to Haverghal and Marks in E. Mr. J. Watson Lee skillfully presided at the organ, and played Bach's Prelude and Fugue in F as a concluding voluntary.

FINCHLEY.—The Finchley Choral Society gave its second Concert on the 9th ult., when Mozart's Twelfth Mass and Sir W. Sterndale Bennett's May Queen were performed before a large and appreciative audience. The solos were taken by Madame Ernst, Mr. A. Lawrence Fryer (of the Foundling Hospital Choir), and Mr. Lawler. The band and chorus, numbering upwards of seventy, were led by Mr. G. R. Fletcher, the organist of Whetstone Church, who has devoted much time to the training of this Society, and, as was proved by this performance, with the most satisfactory results. On the 21st ult. the members of the Society at a private musical soirée presented Mr. G. R. Fletcher with an ivory bâton and a pair of magnificent vases in recognition of his perseverance and courtesy as conductor. The presentation was made by Mr. Williams, the chairman of the committee, in a few suitable words, and the gift was briefly acknowledged by Mr. Fletcher.

FOLKESTONE.—On Easter Sunday Orchestral Services took place at the Church of St. Michael and All Angels. In the morning a Communion Service was sung adapted most admirably by the Rev. E. Husband, the Vicar, from Spohr's Last Judgment. The orchestra (consisting of members of the London Amateur Orchestral Society, who gave their services) rendered the Overture and Symphony remarkably well, and the solos were effectively sung by Master Wright and Mr. Stedman of London, and Mr. Rhodes of Canterbury. In the evening Dr. Garrett's Service in F and Handel's Dettingen Te Deum were well rendered, Mr. Stedman's singing of "When Thou tookest upon Thee" being exceptionally good. The Service closed with the "Occasional Overture" by the orchestra. Mr. H. M. Higgs presided at the organ at the morning and evening Services. On the following evening (Easter Monday) a performance of the Messiah took place at the Town Hall under the joint direction of the Rev. E. Husband and the Rev. C. J. Ridsdale. The choruses were well sung by the Folkestone Choral Society. The principal vocalists were Miss Matilda Scott, Master Wright, Madame Poole, Mr. Stedman, and Mr. Rhodes. Madame Poole and Mr. Stedman respectively in "He was despised" and the "Passion Music" were thoroughly successful. Mr. H. M. Higgs presided at the harmonium. There was a good attendance on both days.

GLASGOW.—The members of the St. George's Choral Union gave a performance in the City Hall on the 30th March of Herr Gade's Cantata The Crusaders. The principal singers were Miss Giulia Warwick, Mr. Henry Guy, and Mr. James Allan. There was a small orchestra of local players conducted by Mr. Wm. Moodie. Miss Warwick and the lady members of the choir were heard to great advantage in the second portion of the work, but the music was somewhat too low for Miss Warwick, whose voice is a light soprano of good quality. Mr. Henry Guy sustained the tenor part with spirit, and Mr. Allan acquitted himself well in the part of Peter the Hermit. The choir was excellent throughout, and the orchestra, led by Mr. W. D. Davis, was fairly efficient. The second part of the programme was miscellaneous. —Handel's Oratorio Athaliah was performed by the Glasgow Tonic Sol-fa Choral Society at the City Hall on the 7th ult. The members, under the skilful leadership of their conductor, Mr. W. M. Miller, sang the choruses remarkably well. The soloists were Misses Anna Williams and Jane K. Stephen, soprano; Miss Emily Dones, contralto; Mr. Charles Abercrombie, tenor; and Mr. Thurlay Beale, bass. Dr. A. L. Peace presided with his usual efficiency at the organ.

GREASBRO'.—The members of the church choir gave their seventeenth Annual Concert in the Church School Room on Monday evening the 2nd ult. under the able leadership of Mr. I. Warburton, of Rotherham, the choirmaster and organist. The part-singing was especially good, "A Choral Waltz," by Taylor, being encored, and the same compliment was paid to Miss Rhoadhouse for her solo, "Tell me, my heart," and to Mrs. Rawlin in "Should he upbraid." Misses Swift, Bailey, and Murphy, and Messrs. Myers, Mellards, Harrison, Oxley, Whittington, and Woodward were also highly successful in the music allotted to them.

GREENOCK.—The work selected by the members of the Choral Union for performance at their annual concert at the termination of the season on the 6th ult. was Mendelssohn's Oratorio St. Paul. The soloists were Miss Anna Williams, Miss Dones, Mr. Abercrombie, and Mr. Thurlay Beale. Mr. W. H. Cole was principal violin and leader. Mr. Poulter presided at the organ, and Mr. Paterson Cross conducted.

GREENWICH.—The members of the Greenwich Choral Society gave their Annual Concert on Good Friday evening in the South Street Chapel, when selections from Handel's Messiah, Judas Maccabæus, Mendelssohn's St. Paul, and other works, were included in the programme. Amongst the most notable solos were "Tis liberty," and "Total eclipse," well rendered by Mr. H. E. Cockell, and Mr. Stanley Owen's "Why do the nations," which was warmly received. Miss Ada Beacham was heard to great advantage in V. Novello's sacred song, "The infant's prayer." The choruses were exceptionally good, "Lift up your heads" and "The Hallelujah" being especially effective—the latter encored. There was an efficient band, led by Mr. G. Sly, and Mr. Dyball conducted with his usual care and precision.

GRIMSBY.—A performance of Samson was given by Mr. Brammer's Choir in the Town Hall on Thursday evening the 12th ult. Several of the solos were assigned to members of the Choir, who accomplished the tasks allotted to them to the satisfaction of their auditors. Fräulein Blume, from the Leipzig Conservatorium, rendered able assistance in the soprano solos. The trumpet obbligato was played by Mr. Robinson. An able band, led by Mr. Coverdale of Hull, accompanied, assisted by Mr. W. Bennett at the pianoforte and Miss Booth at the harmonium, and Mr. Brammer conducted.

HARROGATE.—A Concert was given in the Congregational School Room on the 6th ult. The first part consisted of a miscellaneous selection, including Weber's "Invitation to the waltz," "When winds breathe soft," a violin Sonata of Mozart's, &c.; and the second part of a new Cantata by Mr. J. Allanson Benson, entitled Forest Scenes, with solos for soprano and baritone and choruses. The solo parts were taken by Mrs. J. A. Benson and Mr. Parker. Miss Raworth accompanied on the pianoforte, and Mr. Benson conducted.

HASTINGS.—The first Musical Festival ever held in Hastings was given in the Pier Pavilion on the 11th ult., both the afternoon and evening performances being conducted by Dr. Abram. Mendelssohn's St. Paul and Handel's Messiah were the two Oratorios selected for the occasion. The solo vocalists were Miss Jessie Royd, Miss Margaret Hancock, Mr. Alfred Kenningham, and Mr. Thurlay Beale, who were all highly effective in the music allotted to them. On the whole, the Festival was a decided success, and Dr. Abram and the members of the Choral Union may fairly be congratulated on the result.

HAVERHILL.—A performance of Handel's Samson was given by the Choral Society on the 11th ult. John T. Frye, Esq., of Saffron Walden, presided at the organ and the soloists were Miss Lyne, soprano; Miss E. Lyne, alto; Mr. W. B. Ling, tenor; and Mr. A. Butcher, bass. Mr. C. Widdows, of Norwich, rendered good service with the trumpet. The band and chorus numbered 130 performers. D. Gurteen, jun., Esq., conducted.

HEREFORD.—The first Concert of the fifteenth season of the Philharmonic Society was given on Friday the 6th ult., at the Shire Hall. The audience was very large, and the rendering of the programme brilliantly successful. Mr. Henry Leslie conducted. The soloists were Miss Ada Byron, Miss Andrew, Miss Vevers, Miss Edwards, Miss G. Unett, Mrs. S. Walker, Rev. T. M. Everett, Mr. A. H. Morris, and Mr. Charlesworth.

HOUNSLOW.—On Wednesday the 11th ult. a Concert of Sacred Music was given by the Colnbrook Choral Class. The first part consisted of selections from the Woman of Samaria, and the second of Anthems by Kent and Mozart, and several pieces by Dr. Rimbault and Dr. Whitfield. The accompaniments were played by Mr. R. Ratcliff.

LEICESTER.—The New Choral Society's last Concert for the present season took place on Monday the 26th March at the Temperance Hall, and proved in every respect a success. The first part consisted of Madame Sainton-Dolby's sacred Cantata The Legend of St. Dorothea, conducted by M. Sainton, the principal singers in which were Miss Julia Wigan, the representative of Dorothea; Miss Cummings, an Angel; Mr. E. Lloyd, Theophilus; and Mr. Thurlay Beale, Fabricius, the Roman Governor. Miss Wigan in her songs displayed an agreeable and powerful soprano voice; Miss Cummings made a very excellent impression in the songs of her part; Mr. Lloyd won an enthusiastic encore by his tasteful singing of the air, "Sweet Saint! forgive me now;" and Mr. Thurlay Beale gave much satisfaction by the mastery style in which he sang the music allotted to him. The second part of the programme was Beethoven's Engedi (Mount of Olives), which was ably conducted by Mr. C. Hancock, Mus. Bac., Conductor of the Society. Miss Wigan, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Thurlay Beale were again thoroughly successful in the solo music, and received much applause. The band included the majority of the local players, strengthened by the Anemoic Union, and gentlemen from the metropolises and other towns. The audience was numerous, the hall being well filled in every part.

LEITH.—A Concert was given by the Choral Union in Junction Street Hall, under the patronage of Provost Henderson and several members of the Town Council, on the 29th March. There was an orchestra of twenty performers, with a chorus of 100 voices; and the music, which was both sacred and secular, was on the whole admirably rendered. Among the artists deserving of notice were Mr. Davidson and Miss Nicholson. Mr. G. M. Davidson conducted.

LINCOLN.—The members of the Choral Society gave their first Concert of the twenty-second season at the Corn Exchange on the 10th ult., when Romberg's Lay of the Bell and a miscellaneous selection were performed before a crowded audience. The orchestra and chorus numbered 100 performers. The principal singers were Miss Agnes Larkcom, Mr. Dunkerton, and Mr. Adolphus Phillips (of Lincoln Cathedral). Miss Larkcom's greatest triumph of the evening was in Bellini's "Casta Diva;" Mr. Dunkerton was encored in Hatten's "Good-bye, sweet heart," as was Mr. Phillips for his rendering of Herold's Cavatina, "None can fly my law supreme." Mr. W. Mason conducted with much ability.

LIVERPOOL.—St. George's Hall was overcrowded on Easter Tuesday at the first Children's Festival of Sacred Song, in connection with the Liverpool Church of England Sunday School Institute. This organisation, which is somewhat new to Liverpool, is a branch of a long-established Society in London, whose object is the extension and improvement of Church of England Sunday schools, and last night's festival brought into prominence the remarkable success which within a period of about eighteen months has been attained. A practical result of the work which has been for some time in progress was manifested in the composition of the orchestra and the admirable performances of about thirteen hundred persons by whom it was occupied. These consisted of quite a thousand and fifty children drawn from the associated Church Sunday schools, and about one hundred and seventy teachers. Fifty schools are said to have been represented, and although these do not comprise the whole of the Liverpool Church schools, they show how heartily the object of the Association has been taken up in Liverpool and the suburbs. The programme was of a sacred character throughout, and the introduction of Easter carols formed a very pleasing feature appropriate to the season. They were ancient pieces, taken, by permission, from Helmore's "Carols for Eastertide." One of them, "The foe behind, the deep before," was so enthusiastically received that a repetition was given; and an encore of Dr. Stainer's Easter Anthem, "They have taken away my Lord," was also demanded. The rendering of both compositions exhibited the greatest nicety of training, and the old carol, "Give ear, good Christian men," was also a very excellent performance. The hymn, "Jesus lives" (Dr. Gauntlett) was likewise very effectively sung. The other pieces included the anthems, "Lift up your heads, O ye gates" (J. L. Hopkins), and "Teach me, O Lord" (Thos. Attwood). It is understood that the festival will be annual, and the éclat of the first will have so well established the musical resources of the Church of England Sunday School Institute in the public favour that its future arrangements will be anticipated with interest.—The Eighth Anniversary Dinner of the Apollo Glee Club took place on the 5th ult. Mr. Joseph Sheaf, President of the club, occupied the chair, and Messrs. William Laidlaw and Thomas Armstrong were Vice-Presidents. A selection of glees from the works of Paxton, Davy, Bishop, Calcott, &c., were well rendered by the performing members.—The afternoon and evening Concerts given on Good Friday by the Liverpool Quartet, at the Hope Hall, were thoroughly successful. The programmes, which were selected exclusively from the standard Oratorios, gave the utmost satisfaction to the large audiences assembled, and a pianoforte and harmonium duet, composed by M. Saint-Saëns, was introduced at each concert with much effect, the executants being Mr. J. J. Monk and Mr. Martin Schneider.

MAIDSTONE.—On Tuesday evening the 10th ult. the members of the St. Paul's Choral Society gave their second Concert at the Concert Hall, Corn Exchange. Mendelssohn's Christus, which was selected as the principal piece, was rendered with a precision and accuracy reflecting great credit on the conductor, Mr. J. B. Groom. Madame Worrell-Duval was the principal vocalist, and met with a warm reception, eliciting hearty encores for her songs. The other vocalists were Mrs. Johnson, Miss F. Wallis, Mr. W. J. Crowe, and Mr. G. D. Hadler. A duet for two clarionets was played by Messrs. Byford and Hennessey, and encored. Mr. H. Woolley accompanied.

MALDON, ESSEX.—On the 17th ult. the organ in the Congregational Church was reopened by O. D. Belsham, Esq., after being rebuilt and enlarged by Alfred Kirkland, organ-builder, of Wakefield. The instrument has now three rows of keys, pedal organ, and twenty-five stops. Mr. Belsham displayed the instrument to much advantage, playing, after morning and evening service, a selection of music which was much appreciated by the large congregations.

MELBOURNE, DERBYSHIRE.—On the 11th ult. a Concert was given by the Glee and Madrigal Society. The first part consisted of a selection from Handel's Acis and Galatea, the choruses in which were sung with correctness and precision. Mr. Field Baldwin fully sustained his reputation in the recitative and air "O ruddier than the cherry," and Mrs. Wilson was highly successful in "Would you gain the tender creature." The second part included Mozart's Overture Die Zauberflöte, well played by the band, and Hummel's Trio in E flat, which received a most artistic rendering by Mr. Hay Gordon (violin), Mr. J. Davenport (violinello), and Mrs. Wilson (pianoforte). Mr. W. G. Parkinson presided at the pianoforte and Mr. Wilson conducted.

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE.—The members of the Newcastle Amateur Vocal Society gave their annual Concert in the Town Hall on Friday evening the 13th ult., to a brilliant and appreciative audience. The chief item in the programme was Niels Gade's Cantata, The Crusaders, performed for the first time in Newcastle. Every chorus was given with the greatest precision and effect, the voices being perfectly in tune and completely under the command of the conductor. The part of Armida was rendered by Miss Cummings (a pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby), whose execution left nothing to be desired. Mr. Mace sang the trying part of Rinaldo in excellent style, and Peter the Hermit was represented by Mr. A. Louis Oswald (of the Royal Academy of Music), whose rendering of the music was highly satisfactory. The second part of the Concert was opened by a masterly performance on the grand organ by Mr. W. Rea, of the overture to Guillaume Tell (which was so highly appreciated that its repetition was enthusiastically called for), followed by a selection of songs and part-songs. The whole of the accompaniments were rendered by Mr. T. Albion Alderson with his usual ability, and Mr. William Rea was a skilful conductor.

NORBURY.—An Organ Recital was given at Norbury Church on the 4th ult., by Mr. T. Radcliffe (of Liverpool), for the purpose of displaying the qualifications of the instrument just finished by Messrs. Gray and Davison. The programme was well selected, and the performance warmly received by a large audience.

NORTH BERWICK, N.B.—On Thursday the 5th ult. the members of the Musical Society gave their last Concert of the season. The choruses in the first part were sacred, and those in the second part principally taken from well-known operas. The solo vocalists were Miss Effie Goodwin, of Edinburgh (soprano), and Mr. O. Sinclair (tenor). The choir numbered about fifty voices; Mr. Frank Bates conducted. At the close of the concert Sir Henry Dalrymple, Bart. (the president of the Society), proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Bates.

NORTH ELMHAM, NORFOLK.—A very successful Vocal and Instrumental Concert was given in the School Room, on Thursday evening the 5th ult.; the principal features being the excellent playing of the Dereham Quintett Party, under the skilful leadership of Mr. J. U. Martin, organist of the Parish Church, Dereham, and the singing of the Elmham Choir, under their conductor, Mr. W. W. Pearson. The soloists were Miss Sewell, of Swaffham; Miss Mayhew, of Dereham, and Messrs. Wright and Orton. Mr. W. Edwards contributed pianoforte solos, including a selection from Mendelssohn's "Lieder ohne Worte."

OLDHAM.—The members of the Vocal Society gave their second dress Concert of the season in the Town Hall on the 12th ult., under the direction of their conductor, Mr. Joseph Clifton. The principal work in the second part was F. H. Cowen's Cantata The Rose Maiden. The first part consisted of Haydn's "Come, gentle Spring," De Beriot's Ninth Concerto for the violin, and part-songs by Hatton, Hiles, &c. The proceeds of the Concert, after deducting expenses, will be given to the fund now being raised for the benefit of the wife and children of Mr. Cannon, late superintendent of the Alexandra Park, Oldham.

PHILADELPHIA.—At the second Concert of the Handel and Haydn Society, given at the Academy of Music, Mendelssohn's Reformation Symphony was very finely rendered, reflecting great credit upon Mr. Carl Sentz, the conductor, and the resident musicians. The performance, which evidenced the utmost care in the preparation and rehearsal, was highly appreciated by a large audience.

PIETERMARITZBURG, NATAL.—On the 27th February a fine new organ, built by Messrs. R. Postill and Sons, Monkgate, York, for the Wesleyan Chapel, was opened by the organist, Mr. C. T. Varley, formerly of Chapelton, near Leeds. The voluntaries were Pastorale (Boyton Smith), and Gloria (Haydn's First Mass); and in the evening an excellent selection of pieces was given. The tone of the instrument is remarkably fine, especially the gamba stop.

READING.—At the close of a Musical Entertainment given by Dr. Sloman, in St. Giles' Hall, on the 3rd ult., a testimonial was presented to him, consisting of a handsome and massive pair of silver candlesticks, as a token of esteem from the members of the choir on his leaving the post of organist of St. Giles' Church, to accept a similar position at St. Luke's, Norwood. The presentation was made by the Vicar, and acknowledged in an appropriate speech by Dr. Sloman.—Mr. Frank Attwells gave a grand Easter Ballad Concert at the Town Hall on the 10th ult., the artists being Miss Annie Sinclair, Miss Dones, Mr. Stedman, Mr. Thurley Beale, Herr Wiener, and Mr. Henry Parker. The capital programme was much appreciated by the audience. Although Mr. Attwells was not supported to the extent he deserved, the fact of his so well keeping his engagements will doubtless be the means of his reaping some benefit in his future endeavours to amuse his townsmen.

RYDE, ISLE OF WIGHT.—The third Concert of the Ryde Philharmonic Society was given on Monday evening the 9th ult., at the Town Hall, when Costa's Oratorio Naaman was performed by a full orchestra and chorus of 100 voices. The principal vocalists were Mr. Edward Turner, Miss Annie Butterworth, Mr. Harper Kearton, and Mr. Wadmore. The orchestra, which numbers thirty-six performers, was led by Mr. Fletcher, and Mr. F. H. Simms, organist of the parish church, conducted.

SARUM.—Haydn's Oratorio The Creation was selected for performance by the members of the Choral Society on Tuesday evening the 10th ult. at the Assembly Rooms, as the inaugural Concert of the twenty-ninth season. The band, with Messrs. C. J. Read and C. Fletcher (Southampton) as principal violins, was a very efficient one, and the introduction to the Oratorio, Representation of Chaos, was excellently rendered. The solo vocalists were Miss Amy Aylward, R.A.M., and Messrs. H. Kearton and Wadmore. Mr. Aylward was a most efficient conductor.

SHANKLIN, ISLE OF WIGHT.—A Concert was given on the 11th ult. by the members of the St. Saviour's Church Choral Association, numbering seventy voices. The first part consisted of selections from the Messiah, and the second was secular and miscellaneous. Miss Kate Levett accompanied, and Mr. Fred. G. Baker, organist of St. Saviour's Church, conducted.

SHEFFIELD.—The institution of a Choral Society in an important town like Sheffield is in itself a matter of interest, but as it is hoped that the new Albert Choral Society will become the foundation stone for a Sheffield Triennial Musical Festival, it is entitled to additional consideration. At the inaugural concert on the 17th ult., Sullivan's Light of the World was performed before a large audience. The solo singers were Madame Edith Wynne, Miss Bolingbroke (for whom an apology was offered on the score of a severe cold), Mr. W. H. Cummings, and Mr. Wadmore. Madame Wynne was in very good voice and gave evident satisfaction; of Miss Bolingbroke it would be unfair to give an opinion; Mr. Cummings was very successful with the tenor music, especially the air "Refrain thy voice from weeping," which was redemanded by the audience, but the singer merely bowed his acknowledgments. In the baritone music Mr. Wadmore exerted himself with considerable effect. The choruses were excellently given and the conductor, Mr. T. Tallis Trimmell, deserves the utmost credit for the successful result attained by the Society at its first public venture. Mr. Brittain ably presided at the organ.—Herr Wilhelmj gave two Concerts in the Theatre Royal, on March 30 and 31, the artists, in addition to the famous violinist, comprised Miss Giulia Warwick, Madame Matilde Zimeri, Mdle. Redeker, and Mr. Frederick Wood (vocalists), and Herr Rudolf Niemann, solo pianist and conductor. The solos of Herr Wilhelmj, chief amongst which was Ernst's Fantasia on Hungarian airs, elicited the hearty applause of the audience, and the excellent playing of Herr Niemann both as soloist and accompanist was deservedly recognised. The vocal pieces were given with good taste, and in several instances encored.—Messrs. Peck and Wainwright's concluding Concert of the sixth series of Saturday Orchestral and Vocal Concerts took place in the Albert Hall on the 21st ult. Messrs. Peck, Race, Herbert Parkin, and Whitehead executed two movements from Beethoven's Quartett, Adagio Cantabile and Allegro Molto quasi Presto, No. 2 in G major (Op. 18), in a highly satisfactory manner. Miss Chalders was the vocalist, and in her two songs, "Should he upbraid" and "Oh! how delightful," was well received. Mr. Sinclair was the accompanist.

SHERBORNE.—The two performances of the Messiah given at the Town Hall on the 4th and 5th ult. by the Sherborne Musical Union, under the direction of Mr. Louis N. Parker, were in the highest degree successful. The principal vocalists, Mrs. R. Ensor, Mrs. F. Ensor, Mrs. Carr Glyn, Messrs. Dudley Thomas, G. Minifie, and H. Goldsmith, were thoroughly satisfactory in the solos allotted to them, and the rendering of the choruses reflected the utmost credit upon Mr. Parker, who must have worked zealously indeed to achieve so excellent a result. Miss R. Curme and the Rev. E. Gardener presided with much skill at the pianoforte and harmonium respectively, and the small orchestra was highly efficient.

SHREWSBURY.—A Vocal and Instrumental Concert was given on April 5 in the Music Hall by the members of the Abbey Choir, assisted by amateurs of the town and neighbourhood. The first and third parts of the Concert consisted of miscellaneous selections of sacred and secular music respectively, in which Miss Needham and Miss Greves distinguished themselves as solo singers, and Mr. Probert gained great applause for his clever singing of the tenor air "If with all your hearts" from Elijah, and of Bishop's "Pilgrim of Love." The second part of the concert was devoted exclusively to a new work unpublished and previously unheard. This was a Requiem Anthem by Mr. Arthur Haden, a composition of such great beauty and originality of idea and such novelty of treatment as to claim special notice. It is written for a chorus of five parts with organ accompaniment, and an obligato part for a soprano voice, and may be said to consist of three movements. The first is a tender and subdued strain of melody in the key of A minor, sung first by the alti in unison and afterwards in harmony by the full choir pp, the solo soprano singing answering phrases. The next movement is a broad choral theme, pianissimo, the obligato voice frequently sustaining long upper pedal notes, while closely written and somewhat perilous sequences of harmony are gradually unfolded by the chorus. This movement concludes in A flat, and a short but very beautiful organ interlude leads back to the original key of A minor, when the first theme is resumed, but this time by the male voices of the chorus, the answering phrases being given to the soprani and alti. Starting from these, the solo voice sings a new part altogether, combining the melodious character of the first part with the long-sustained notes of the second. The end is most striking. During a lingering choral cadence (in the key of C) the solo soprano holds the upper G as a pedal note; finally ascending from it pianissimo to C in alto, the choir also sustaining C, the tonic in octaves; the harmony meanwhile shifting from the chord of C to the first inversion of the tonic ninth—E being in the bass—proceeding thence to the chord of F, an 'all concluding with a plagal cadence. The effect of all this is as beautiful as it is new and startling. Among modern compositions of the kind Mr. Haden's Requiem Anthem seems to us to stand alone. In design it is simple and clearly defined; the flow of rhythmical melody is spontaneous and unbroken, while the daring unconventionality of the harmony is tempered throughout by a keen sense of beauty and the nicest adjustment of means to ends. We are informed that this is a very early work of its author's. If this be so, we can only say that of a composer gifted with such ideas, while possessing also that self-control which marks the highest mastery in their expression, we have a right to expect great things. Noblesse oblige; and all who heard the Requiem Anthem must look out anxiously for more and greater works from the same hand. The difficulties of the composition, which are considerable, were fairly overcome by the choir, while the very exacting solo soprano part was well and artistically sung by Miss Annie Francis. Mr. Hay conducted with much ability and energy, and the performance was loudly applauded by the audience.

SILEBY, LEICESTER.—On the 4th ult. an Evening Concert was given by the Concert party selected from the Leicester New Harmonic Society, under the direction of Miss Hodgkins, in aid of the Sibley Church Restoration Fund. Mr. Weston led the band, and Miss Hodgkins and Miss Emma Hodgkins accompanied. The soloists were Mr. L. Hodgkins, Miss Wood, Mr. Hodgkins, and Mr. Wood. A violin solo by Miss Foster, and violin duets by Mr. Gray and Master Gray were features of the programme.

SILVERTOWN, ESSEX.—The concluding Concert of the season was given by the members of the Choral Society on Monday the 16th ult. under the direction of Mr. H. Pitt, organist of St. Mark's Church. The programme was of an interesting and attractive character. The various part-songs and choruses given by the Society reflected great credit upon all concerned. The solos were generally well rendered, praise being due to Mrs. Pitt, Mrs. and Miss Banks, Miss Bowman, and Messrs. Wilson, Welham, Bentley, and Macintyre. Mrs. Foulger is also deserving of commendation for her pianoforte recitals. Mr. Pitt accompanied during the evening.

SOUTHGATE.—The annual Dedication Festival Services were held in St. Michael's, Bowes Manor, on Sunday the 22nd ult. The Morning and Evening Services were fully choral; the anthem in the morning was Sir G. Elvey's "O give thanks," and in the evening Handel's Twelfth Chandos Anthem, "O praise the Lord, ye angels," which was finely rendered, the choir being strengthened by members of Lincoln's Inn Chapel, the Temple, and other London choirs. The alto solos were sung by Mr. H. Ball, of Lincoln's Inn, and the bass solos by Mr. H. J. Baker, organist of the church. The "Magnificat" and "Nunc Dimittis" were Nares's in F, and the service concluded with the Hallelujah Chorus from the Messiah. Mr. C. W. Pearce, the organist of St. Luke's, Old Street, accompanied the service and played afterwards a selection of classical music in a masterly style. The offertories were for choir and organ funds.

STOKE-ON-TRENT.—The first Concert of the newly-formed Philharmonic Society took place in the Town Hall on the 17th ult. under the conductorship of Dr. Swinnerton Heap. The band (consisting of twenty instrumentalists from Birmingham, assisted by a few local amateurs) and chorus numbered 150 performers. The programme included Gade's Cantata Zion, Mendelssohn's Hear my Prayer, a selection from Mendelssohn's Part-songs, Weber's Concert-Stück (solo pianoforte Dr. Heap), a violoncello solo by M. Van Biene, the Introduction to the Lobgesang, the Overtures to Le Nozze di Figaro and Mireille, and the Ballet Music from Schubert's Rosamunde. The Concert was most successful.

STREET.—The Choral Society, conducted by Mr. Hemsley, of Wells Cathedral, gave its first Concert on the 17th ult. The Society was formed about a year ago, and considering that music has been utterly neglected for years in the place, has made great progress.

TAUNTON.—The first Concert of the present season in connection with the Taunton Philharmonic Society was given at the London Hotel Assembly Rooms, on Thursday evening the 19th ult. The Concert consisted of Haydn's Oratorio The Creation, given in its entirety. Mr. Comer conducted, and the solos were all sung by members of his music-class. The choruses were rendered with much steadiness and confidence. The band was small but well chosen, and included some of the best local performers.

UNBRIDGE.—The last Concert of the Choral Society for the season was given in the Public Rooms on the 5th ult. before an enthusiastic audience. The artists were Mrs. Osgood, Mr. Barton McGuckin, Signor Federici (who supplied the place of Mr. Maybrick, absent through indisposition), M. L. Szecepanowski (violin), Mr. T. Mountain (harmonium), and Mr. J. Walsh (pianoforte). The choir, consisting of 120 voices, sang with great precision several of Handel's choruses; and in the second part various madrigals, choruses, and part-songs; Leslie's "Lullaby of life," Schumann's "Gipsy life," and Smart's "Stars of the summer night," being particularly well rendered. The solo vocalists were all very successful. M. Szecepanowski created quite a sensation in the Andante and Finale of Mendelssohn's Concerto. Messrs. Mountain and Walsh were the accompanists, and Mr. A. D. Myles conducted.

VENTNOR.—A Concert was given by the members of the Choral Society on the 13th ult., when Spohr's God Thou art Great and Mendelssohn's 42nd Psalm were performed. The solo vocalists were Miss Helen Horne and Mr. R. Roche, both of whom were warmly received. Mr. Fletcher was the solo violinist, and was highly successful in De Beriot's Seventh Concerto with orchestral accompaniment. Master Edwin Lemare accompanied, and Mr. E. Lemare conducted.

WARWICK.—An able and interesting lecture on C. M. von Weber and his works was delivered by Arthur Duke Coleridge, Esq., on the 23rd March. The illustrations comprised selections from Sylvana, Preciosa, Der Freischütz, Euryanthe, and Oberon; some songs but little known, and for pianoforte the March from Oberon, Act 3, and the Moto perpetuo from the Sonata in C. The lecture was highly appreciated by a large and influential audience, which included the two Judges of the Midland Circuit. The proceeds go to the Mendelssohn Scholarship Fund.

WELLINGTON.—On Friday the 13th ult. Handel's Messiah was produced by the Wellington Harmonic Society with much success. The solo parts were sustained by the following amateurs:—Miss Portman daughter of the Rev. F. Portman, of Staple Fitzpaine, soprano; Miss Aglio, of Taunton, contralto; Mr. Trenchard, of Waterslade, Taunton, bass; and Mr. Cox, of Exeter, tenor. Miss Portman's singing of the air "I know that my Redeemer liveth" was exceedingly good; Miss Aglio in "Oh! Thou that tellest" and "He was despised" was not less admirable, and Mr. Cox fully sustained his reputation in "Every valley shall be exalted" and "Thou shalt break them in pieces," but the heartiest applause was accorded to Mr. Trenchard's rendering of "The trumpet shall sound," the trumpet part being finely played by Mr. Crowe. The choruses were throughout taken with an accuracy and unflinching precision which reflected much credit upon the careful training bestowed upon the members of the choir by Mr. Manley. The hall was densely filled, and a handsome balance will go to the funds of the Taunton Hospital.

WHISTON.—On Wednesday evening the 4th ult. the members of the Choral Society gave their last Concert of the present season in the National School Room, under the leadership of Mr. I. Warburton, of Rotherham. Part-songs were given by the members of the Society and were all well received. Miss Styling and Mr. W. Watson were highly successful in their songs, and a pianoforte solo by Miss Bilbrough, was well rendered and encored. Miss Street also sustained her part with great ability.

WOLVERHAMPTON.—The last of the Festival Choral Society's Subscription Concerts for the present season took place at the Agricultural Hall on Wednesday evening the 4th ult. The principal artists engaged were Mrs. Osgood, Miss Annie Bolingbroke, Mr. Edward Lloyd, and Mr. J. L. Wadmore. The music consisted of Spohr's Last Judgment and Mendelssohn's Lobgesang (Hymn of Praise), both works being excellently rendered. The overture to Spohr's Oratorio was finely played, and the chorus, "Praise His awful name," and quartet, "Yes, every tear and every sorrow," were especially effective. The duet, "Forsake me not," by Mrs. Osgood and Mr. Lloyd, was rendered with much grace of expression, and the beautiful number, "Blest are the departed" for soli and chorus, was listened to with much attention and vigorously applauded. The opening Symphony of the Lobgesang was splendidly played by the band, and the favourite duet and chorus, "I waited for the Lord," was charmingly sung by Mrs. Osgood and Miss Bolingbroke. The chorus singing throughout was highly creditable. The band was led by Mr. Henry Hayward and Mr. T. M. Abbott. Mr. F. H. Bradley acted as accompanist, and Mr. W. C. Stockley conducted with his customary ability.

WORLE, WESTON-SUPER-MARE.—The organ at St. Martin's Church having been enlarged and repaired by Mr. W. G. Vowles, of Bristol, was opened at a special afternoon service on the 5th ult. by Mr. Arthur E. Crook, of the parish church, Weston-super-Mare, who also gave an Organ Recital in the evening.

WORTHING.—The Worthing Sacred Harmonic Society gave an excellent performance of Mendelssohn's Athalie on Wednesday the 18th ult., at Montague Hall. The soloists were Mrs. Irene Ware, Miss Saldie Singleton and Miss Butterworth. Mr. Charles Fry was the reader, and gave the verses with a degree of intelligence and colour rarely met with. A choice orchestra, under the leadership of Herr Ludvig Straus, left nothing to be desired; Mr. Ch. Oberthür was solo harpist, and Mr. Carnell organist. Praise is due to the members of the choir who sang with vigour and spirit throughout the work. Mr. L. S. Palmer conducted.

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. T. N. Bladon, to the Parish Church, Leamington.—Mr. Hugh Ford, jun., Organist and Choirmaster to Christ Church, Macclesfield.—Mr. J. Batchelder, Organist and Choirmaster to the Parish Church, Turton, near Bolton, Lancashire.—Mr. J. J. Simpson, Organist and Choir master to St. Augustine's Parish Church, Bristol.—Mr. Andrew Morris, to Wesleyan Chapel, Fletcher Street, Bolton.—Mr. John Towers, organist and choirmaster to St. Stephen's, Chorlton-on-Medlock, Manchester.

CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. Charles Bishop, bass, to St. Peter's, Eaton Square.—Mr. W. G. Hazelgrove, bass, to St. Peter's, Eaton Square.—Mr. Henri Stringer, solo alto, of Lincoln Cathedral, to Carlisle Cathedral.

OBITUARY.

On the 10th March, at his residence, Leeds, J. W. SYKES.
On the 26th March, at The Close, Salisbury, ROBERT TURLE, Esq., aged 73.
On March 30th (Good Friday), at 5, St. George's Place, Brighton, CHARLES NEATE, Esq., aged 93.
On the 1st ult., at 27, Portland Road, Notting Hill, MARY ANN, the beloved wife of CHARLES H. PURDAY, in her 79th year.
On the 6th ult., at Kidlington, near Oxford, ALEXANDER ROBERT REINAGLE, in his 78th year.
On the 21st ult., Mrs. T. R. ROBERTS (Miss REBECCA ISAACS).

Just Published,

PAUL ET VIRGINIE

OPERA, COMPOSED BY

VICTOR MASSÉ.

THE WORDS BY

JULES BARBIER AND MICHEL CARRÉ.

Vocal Score, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Second Edition, revised by the Composer.

PRICE TWENTY SHILLINGS.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

HANDEL.—Athaliah. An Oratorio, composed in the year 1733. Edited and the Pianoforte Accompaniment revised from that of the German Handel Society, by EBENEZER PROUT. 8vo, paper covers, 3s.; paper boards, 3s. 6d. cloth, gilt, 5s.

— HERCULES. An Oratorio. Choruses only. 8vo, paper covers, 1s.

BENNETT, SIR W. STERNDALE.—The May Queen. A Pastoral. The words by HENRY F. CHORLEY. New and Revised Edition. 8vo, paper covers, 3s.; paper boards 3s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 5s. Sol-fa Edition, translated by W. G. McNAUGHT, 1s.

GADE, NIELS W.—The Crusaders. A Cantata. Op. 50. Tonic Sol-fa Edition, translated by W. G. McNAUGHT, 1s.

MENDELSSOHN.—Christus. An unfinished Oratorio. Op. 97. Tonic Sol-fa Edition, translated by W. G. McNAUGHT, 6d.

— LAUDA SION (Praise Jehovah). A Sacred Cantata. Op. 73. Tonic Sol-fa Edition, translated by W. G. McNAUGHT. 9d.

SCHUBERT, FRANZ.—The Song of Miriam. For Soprano Solo, and Chorus. Op. 136. The English Version adapted from the German of Grillparzer and Exodus, chap. xv., by the Rev. W. H. MILMAN, M.A. 8vo, paper covers, 1s.

BRIDGE, DR. J. F.—Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis. *Set to Music in the key of G. 8vo, price 4d.

BUNNETT, DR. E., Mus. Doc., Cantab.—Venite exultemus Domino. Two Settings in the Chant Form, with Organ Accompaniment.

No. 1, in G, 8vo... .. 2d.
No. 2, in A, 8vo... .. 2d.

BURTON, T. ARTHUR.—Evening Service in C. 8vo, 6d.

COOKE, S. C.—Te Deum Laudamus. Set to Music in Chant Form to Original Chants. 8vo, 4d.

GLADSTONE, FRANCIS EDWARD, Mus. Bac., Cantab.—The Nicene Creed set to Ancient Chant Music (the Eighth Gregorian Tone and "Tonus peregrinus") for the use of Parish Choirs. 8vo, 3d.

— MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS. 8vo, 6d.

SHEPPARD, THE REV. H. FLEETWOOD.—Magnificat, First Tone. 8vo, 3d.

SWAIN, CHARLES.—Offertory Sentences. 8vo, 4d.

ADCOCK, H.—Anthem, The Lord is my Light. Psalm xxvii. 8vo, 4d.

GREGORY, G. H., Mus. Bac., Oxon.—God Who as at this time. Short Full Anthem for Whitsuntide. 8vo, 3d.

HEATH, R. H.—Help me, O Lord my God. Anthem. 8vo, 6d.

MONK, DR. E. G.—My soul truly waiteth still upon God. Short Anthem for Voices and Organ. 1s. 6d.; 8vo, 6d.

HUSBAND, THE REV. EDWARD.—Only a Baby small. Part-song. The words by MATTHIAS BARR. 8vo, 6d.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION of TRIOS, QUARTETTS, &c., for FEMALE VOICES. For list, see p. 207.

SHEPPARD, THE REV. H. FLEETWOOD.—The Farmer's Boy. A Rustic Song of 150 years ago. 8vo, 3d.

SCHUBERT, FRANZ.—Five Choruses for Female Voices. 8vo, paper covers, 1s.; or separately—

Coronach 3d.
The Lord is my Shepherd 4d.
God in Nature 4d.
Serenade 4d.
Glory to the Lord Almighty 3d.

DAMS, J.—Spare us, good Lord. Sacred Song, Folio, 1s. 6d. net.

COENEN, WILLEM. Yes. Song. Words by MARY WALROND CLARKE. 2s.

TAYLOR, ROBERT.—Terzetto for Violin, Violoncello, and Pianoforte, with Harmonium (ad lib.). 2s. Parts—Violin, 4d.; Violoncello, 4d.; Harmonium, 4d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

MR. JAMES BELLAMY (Accompanist).

Address, Novello, Ewer and Co., 80 and 81, Queen Street, E.C.

MR. CHAS. MALCOLM will PLAY his own FANTASIA from "Zampa," and Wehl's "Home, sweet home," for the left hand alone, on his Tour.—Address, care of S. Golbourn, Esq., 76, Princes Street, Coventry Street, W.

"RITA" (Serenata), by Signor TITO MATTEI, will be sung for the first time by Mr. Welby-Wallace at the Great Hall, Tunbridge Wells, on Thursday, May 24th.

THE NEW ORGAN, built by Hill, for St. Mary's, Whitechapel, Parish Church, will be OPENED on TUESDAY, May 29th, when a Recital will be given by Mr. Henry Lister, Mus. Bac., Oxon. To commence at eight o'clock.

ROLLS CHAPEL, CHANCERY LANE.—ALTO and BASS WANTED. Voluntary choir. Morning service only. Address, Mr. F. J. Sharland, 38, Sandbrook Road, Stoke Newington, N.

LESSONS GIVEN for the PIANOFORTE, Organ, and Singing. Address, W. G. Hammond, Messrs. R. Cocks and Co., 6, New Burlington Street, W.

EXPERIENCED PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED for a Music and Pianoforte Warehouse in Edinburgh. Apply, giving references and stating salary, to Edina, care of Novello, Ewer and Co., London.

WANTED, a PIANOFORTE TUNER. Apply, with references, to A. B. C., care of Messrs. Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, to PURCHASE, a good TUNING CONNECTION. Southern counties preferred. Address, E. E., 12, Hanover Park, Peckham Rye, London, S.E.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, CONDUCTORS, MUSICSELLERS.—For SALE, first reasonable offer, about 1000 copies of PART-SONGS, &c., little used, and a MUSIC STAND with iron foot. S., 9, Percival Street, Clerkenwell, E.C.

ORGAN for SALE.—A useful second-hand Organ, containing 5 Stops, suitable for a small church, &c. Price 20 guineas. Apply to A. C. Thacker, Organist, Thorney Abbey, Peterborough. N.B.—Mr. Thacker has a vacancy for an ARTICLED PUPIL; terms moderate.

TO COMPOSERS wishing to PUBLISH.—Music Engraved, Printed, and Published in the best style at unusually low prices. Estimates free on receipt of MS. Simpson and Co., 33, Argyll Street, Regent Street, London, W.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in E flat, by ALFRED J. DYE. Small 8vo, 3d.; organ copy, 6d. "Easy, effective, and congregational."—"Supplies a want much felt by small choirs." London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

A MORNING, COMMUNION, and EVENING SERVICE. Set in an easy form. By C. LAWRENCE. 1s. 6d. net. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

COMMUNION SERVICE (complete) in B flat for Four Voices, with Organ Accompaniment (8vo), by H. E. HODSON. Price 1s. 6d.

"Admirably adapted for festal occasions, thoroughly melodious, very effective and reverential, and by no means difficult. We strongly recommend it to the notice of choirmasters."—Church Times. London: Simpson and Co., 33, Argyll Street, Regent Street.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS. Set to Music in the key of G. By J. FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., Oxon. Price 4d. Orchestral parts, for festival use, may be obtained by application to the composer. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

THE "VENITE EXULTEMUS DOMINO."—Two Settings, in Chant form, with Organ Accompaniment. No. 1 in G. No. 2 in A. Price Twopence each. By E. BUNNETT, Mus. D. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TWO PART-SONGS. By the same Composer. "BEWARE," Price One Penny. "SPRING," Price Twopence. To be had of the Composer, The Close, Norwich; or through Messrs. Novello and Co.

CAROL OF THE REAPERS. (S.A.T.B.) 3d. SIX EASY ANTHEMS FOR VILLAGE CHOIRS 2d. each. Novello and Co.; or of the Composer, W. H. Gill, Sidcup, Kent.

NEW SERIAL FOR CHURCH CHOIRS AND THE HOME CIRCLE.

SONGS OF THE CHURCH. Favourite Hymns, set to Music chiefly by Modern Composers. PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

Yearly subscribers' names received by the Editor, C. CORNWALL, 3, Ashfield Place, Hillhead, Glasgow. 4s. 6d. per annum, post-free.

THE INTERNATIONAL ORGANIST.

A QUARTERLY JOURNAL OF ORIGINAL ORGAN MUSIC, BY EMINENT LIVING COMPOSERS OF ALL NATIONS.

EDITED BY J. W. HINTON, Mus. Doc.

Book I. will be sent to subscribers June the 1st, and the publication continued Quarterly. Subscription, 12s.; separate book, 4s. net. Subscriptions received and particulars given by the Publishers, Messrs: Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street; or by the Editor, 61, Weymouth Street, W.

For a list of contributors see Musical Times, March 1877.

Subscriptions should be sent in by May 20.

PORTRAITS OF HANDEL AND COSTA.

TO MEMBERS OF THE HANDEL FESTIVAL CHOIR AND OTHERS.
Now ready price 1s.; post-free, 1s. 2d.

LIFE OF HANDEL, for the Million, with Portrait. The volume also contains an excellent portrait of Sir Michael Costa, to whom the work is dedicated by special permission. Members of the choir and others required to sell the work on commission. Apply to the Editor, care of F. Pitman, 20, Paternoster Row.

THE WAGONER. Sung by Mr. Santley. Music by W. T. WRIGHTON.

"Words and music in happy accord. Just such a vivacious composition as the title suggests."—Hornet.

"Very catching. Likely to be heard everywhere."—News of the World.

"A more excellent song could not be wished for."—Sheffield Post.

Post-free, 24 stamps.

London: Simpson and Co., 33, Argyll Street, Regent Street.

"THE RECRUIT."—New Song for Bass or Baritone. By LOUISA F. ESSINGTON.
Messrs. C. Lonsdale, 26, Old Bond Street.

GLUCK'S OPERAS.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION.

IPHIGENIA IN TAURIS ... Paper covers, 2s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 4s.

IPHIGENIA IN AULIS ... " 3s. 6d.; " 5s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TEN TRIOS for FEMALE VOICES, composed by CARL REINECKE. (Op. 100.) Octavo, 1s. 6d.; or singly—

- No. 1. The Dreaming Lake, 2d.
2. Praise of Spring, 3d.
3. Of Oak thy mournful bier's prepared, 3d.
4. Sunbeams in Winter, 2d.
5. The Awakening of Morn, 3d.
6. The Winter hath not a blossom, 3d.
7. Thou that thyself with death hath striven, 2d.
8. The Evening Wind, 3d.
9. As in a field goodly fruit will grow, 3d.
10. The Elves, 3d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

EIGHTEEN TWO-PART SONGS

With Pianoforte Accompaniment,

COMPOSED BY

ANTON RUBINSTEIN.

OP. 48 and 67.

THE ENGLISH VERSION BY NATALIA MACFARREN.

Price Four Shillings.

CONTENTS.

- | | |
|---------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| 1. The Angel. | 10. The turtle dove and the wanderer. |
| 2. Birdie. | 11. Twilight. |
| 3. The homestead. | 12. Autumn sadness. |
| 4. The merry maidens. | 13. Song of the summer birds. |
| 5. Wanderer's night song. | 14. In the wood. |
| 6. The hour of parting. | 15. Faith in spring. |
| 7. Night. | 16. Pass by. |
| 8. The cloud. | 17. Rest after storm. |
| 9. The happy birds. | 18. The lotos flower. |

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE ONLY COMPLETE EDITION.

MENDELSSOHN'S

LIEDER OHNE WORTE.

Octavo, paper covers 4s.

Do. cloth gilt 6s.

Folio, elegantly bound in cloth gilt.. .. 12s.

THE ONLY EDITION CONTAINING THE
7TH AND 8TH BOOKS.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

BEETHOVEN'S SONATAS

(NEW AND COMPLETE EDITION)

EDITED AND FINGERED BY

AGNES ZIMMERMANN.

In One Volume, Folio, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges, price One Guinea.

Octavo Edition: Paper cover, 5s.; cloth gilt, 7s. 6d.

Each Sonata is published separately.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

MOZART'S SONATAS

(NEW AND COMPLETE EDITION)

EDITED AND FINGERED BY

AGNES ZIMMERMANN.

In One Volume, Folio, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges, price Eighteen Shillings.

OCTAVO EDITION IN PREPARATION.

Each Sonata is published separately.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS.

A SCHOOL

FOR THE

HARMONIUM

BY

KING HALL.

Containing a Description of the Instrument, a Diagram of the Stops, full Directions for Blowing, Fingering, &c., Twenty Original Progressive Studies, carefully fingered, and a Collection of Sacred and Secular Pieces by the best Composers, arranged for Instruments of various sizes.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO'S TONIC SOL-FA SERIES,

TRANSLATED AND EDITED BY
W. G. McNAUGHT.

ANTHEMS, CHORUSES, PART-SONGS, &c.

Nos. 1 to 76 now ready.

ELIJAH (Translated by J. W. Powell) ...	MENDELSSOHN	1 0
HEAR MY PRAYER ...	MENDELSSOHN	0 3
HYMN OF PRAISE (Lobgesang) ...	MENDELSSOHN	1 0
ATHALIE ...	MENDELSSOHN	1 0
LORELEY ...	MENDELSSOHN	0 6
LAUDA SION (Praise Jehovah) ...	MENDELSSOHN	0 9
CHRISTUS ...	MENDELSSOHN	0 6
THE CRUSADERS ...	NIELS W. GADE	1 0
THE MAY QUEEN ...	SIR W. S. BENNETT	1 0

Complete Lists sent free on application.

LONDON:
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

COMPOSITIONS

BY EDWARD HECHT.

SONGS.

A FAREWELL. Sung by Miss Palmer ...	3 0
AN OLD SONG. Sung by Mr. Santley ...	3 0
THE FOUNTAIN. Sung by Mr. Sims Reeves ...	3 0
ELEANORE ...	3 0
GIVE. Sung by Mdmie. Titiens ...	3 0
A LILY THOU WAST. Sung by Mr. Sims Reeves ...	3 0
THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD. Sung by Miss Palmer ...	3 0

DUETS. S.S. OR S.A.

LIFE. Op. 18, No. 1 ...	3 0
A LAMENT FOR THE SUMMER. Op. 18, No. 2 ...	3 0
THE PRIDE OF YOUTH. Op. 18, No. 3 ...	3 0
MORNING SONG (Morgenlied). Op. 18, No. 4 ...	4 0

TRIO.

BE STRONG TO HOPE, O HEART. Op. 7. S.S.A. ...	3 0
---	-----

FOUR-PART SONG.

THE CHARGE OF THE LIGHT BRIGADE. 8vo ...	0 4
--	-----

QUARTETTS.

FLOWERS. S.A.T.B. ...	3 0
WHAT IS THAT WE TAKE FROM EARTH? S.A.T.B. ...	2 6

PIANO SOLO.

POLONAISE. Op. 17 ...	4 0
-----------------------	-----

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, &c.

OCTAVO EDITIONS OF CHORUS PARTS

To the following Oratorios are published, with the Music and Text, in very large type.

HANDEL'S MESSIAH ... each	0 8
" JUDAS MACCABÆUS ...	0 8
" ISRAEL IN EGYPT ...	1 0
" SAMSON ...	0 8
HAYDN'S CREATION ...	0 6
MENDELSSOHN'S ELIJAH ...	1 6
" ST. PAUL ...	1 0

&c., &c.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW WORK FOR THE ORGAN.

THE ORGAN

A THEORETICAL AND PRACTICAL TREATISE;

INTENDED TO ASSIST THE STUDENT IN ACQUIRING

A SOUND KNOWLEDGE OF THE INSTRUMENT AND
ITS PROPER MANIPULATION;

WITH A SERIES OF

ORIGINAL EXERCISES AND ILLUSTRATIVE
COMPOSITIONS

Written specially for this Work.

BY

FREDERIC ARCHER,

Organist of the Alexandra Palace, Muswell Hill.

Price 10s. 6d.

LONDON:

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, BERNERS STREET (W.)
AND 80 & 81, QUEEN STREET, CHEAPSIDE (E.C.)

FOURTEEN SONGS

SET TO

POEMS OF ROBERT BURNS,

By ROBERT FRANZ.

EDITED AND ADAPTED BY NATALIA MACFARREN.

Paper covers, 2s. 6d.

CONTENTS.

Twa sweet e'en.	Ye banks and braes.
My bonny Mary.	Altho' my bed were in yon moor.
Oh! wert thou in the frozen blast.	Thou hast left me ever, Jamie.
My heart is sair.	How can my heart be glad.
The Highland lassie.	So far away.
The lovely lass of Inverness.	My love is like a red, red rose.
Phillis the fair.	My heart's in the Highlands.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION

OF WORKS BY

NIELS W. GADE.

COMALA ...	2 0
THE CRUSADERS ...	2 0
ZION ...	1 0
THE ERL-KING'S DAUGHTER ...	1 0
SPRING'S MESSAGE ...	0 8

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW AND CHEAP EDITION.

SWEDISH MELODIES

AS SUNG BY

THE SWEDISH MINSTRELS.

THE WORDS by THOMAS OLIPHANT, Esq.

Come away, come away ...	Schäfer	1½d.
Onward roaming, never weary ...	Müller	1½d.
Hark! the merry Drum (the Drum March) ...	Krugh	3d.
Vermeland. Old Swedish National Melody ...		1½d.
Dear land of my fathers do. ...		1½d.
Still amid old Sweden's youth. Dalecarlian Song ...		1½d.

London: Novello and Co.

CHAMBER TRIOS,

FOR TREBLE VOICES,

THE MUSIC BY THE MOST EMINENT ENGLISH & FOREIGN COMPOSERS.

(FORMERLY PUBLISHED BY MR. LAMBORN COCK.)

	COMPOSER.	s.	d.		COMPOSER.	s.	d.
1. Swift from our fairy home descending	Mozart	...	2 0	58. We meet again	Mrs. Ames	...	2 6
2. Ye powers guarding o'er us	Rossini	...	2 0	59. Amid the mazy dance	Blangini	...	2 6
3. Yon bark like a bird on the ocean	De Glimes	...	3 0	60. The silent moon is beaming	Rossini	...	2 6
4. Gentle pity soothe our anguish	Martini	...	2 0	61. See the star of queenly beauty	Flotow	...	2 6
5. Welcome to our fairy dwelling	Winter	...	2 6	62. Come away	Lahee	...	2 6
6. Murr'ring o'er the silent waves	Meyerbeer	...	2 6	63. Lovely May	Mrs. Ames	...	2 0
7. Away to the West	C. Horn	...	2 6	64. Here in cool grot	Earl of Mornington	...	2 6
8. Blessings on our absent friends	Frank Romer	...	2 6	65. Friends, good night	Flotow	...	2 0
9. Hark! the solemn music pealing	Donizetti	...	2 6	66. The Butterfly	H. Smart	...	2 6
10. Soft voices blending	Weigl	...	2 6	67. It is not always May	Pinsuti	...	3 0
11. Sister spirits, haste away	Brinley Richards	...	2 6	68. There is a reaper	Pinsuti	...	3 0
12. It is summer, it is summer	John Barnett	...	2 6	69. Star of the silent eve	Sterkel	...	2 6
13. Bend down from thy chariot	John Barnett	...	2 6	70. The glow-worm	H. Smart	...	2 6
14. O peace of mind! thou lovely guest	Mrs. Ames	...	2 0	71. Thou'rt lovely, oh night	Paer	...	2 6
15. Come, gentle sleep	Mendelssohn	...	2 6	72. To a nightingale at mid-day	W. S. Bennett	...	3 0
16. We'll wreathe the fairest flowers	Bellini	...	2 6	73. The coming of May	Walter Macfarren	...	3 0
17. The parting hour	Bellini	...	2 6	74. Sweet repose is reigning now	Benedict	...	2 6
18. Light and laughing summer sky	G. A. Macfarren	...	2 6	75. The golden ray of morning	Winter	...	2 6
19. Golden summer	Frank Romer	...	2 6	76. May morning	Flotow	...	2 6
20. Beautiful streamlet	Donizetti	...	2 6	77. So merrily over the ocean spray	Brinley Richards	...	3 0
21. The fairy revel	Rossini	...	2 6	78. The minstrel maidens	Weber	...	2 6
22. Night!	Rossini	...	2 6	79. Lull'd by the motion of the heaving billow	Verdi	...	3 0
23. We'll row thee o'er the waters...	Méhul	...	2 0	80. A morning in May	H. C. Banister	...	2 6
24. Haste, gentle shepherd	Rossini	...	2 6	81. Hither! fairies trip	J. H. Tully	...	3 0
25. The red sun is sinking	Rossini	...	2 6	82. Wake the lay	J. Coward	...	2 6
26. It is the hour	Rossini	...	2 6	83. Homeward bound	Benedict	...	3 0
27. Swiftly winging on bright golden pinions	Verdi	...	2 6	84. Down by the silv'ry stream	Ferrari	...	2 6
28. All hail to the greenwood	Donizetti	...	2 0	85. Happy flow'rets freshly wreathing	Winter	...	2 6
29. Brightly glows the morning star	Mercadante	...	2 6	86. The bright stars are beaming...	Paer	...	2 6
30. Now the twilight's softly stealing	Mercadante	...	2 6	87. May...	Benedict	...	3 0
31. Thy flowery banks, O lovely river	Meyerbeer	...	2 0	88. Gently, gently, wood and meadow	Weber	...	3 0
32. The Savoyard's return	J. L. Hatton	...	2 6	89. Let us twine the clust'ring roses	H. R. Bishop	...	3 0
33. Come, follow, follow me	J. L. Hatton	...	2 6	90. Hark to the voices	H. R. Bishop	...	3 0
34. Sweet is the sound of charity's voice	Rossini	...	2 6	91. Wake not, dreaming maiden	H. R. Bishop	...	3 0
35. The rose-gatherers	Weber	...	2 6	92. Where art thou, beam of light	H. R. Bishop	...	2 6
36. Summer bringeth buds and flowers	Spohr	...	2 0	93. Where the sweet rose	H. R. Bishop	...	3 0
37. Sisters, trip lightly	Verdi	...	2 6	94. A summer song	J. Barnby	...	3 0
38. Softly the echo	Rossini	...	2 6	95. The moon just peeps from out the sea	H. R. Bishop	...	3 0
39. Come, gentle harmony	Rossini	...	2 6	96. The voice of moonlight	Allen...	...	2 6
40. Who will to the greenwood hie?	J. L. Hatton	...	2 6	97. See the jocund spring advancing	G. A. Macfarren	...	2 6
41. Sweet convent bells	J. L. Hatton	...	2 6	98. Good-night	G. A. Macfarren	...	3 0
42. Calmly the hour of twilight is glowing	Rossini	...	2 6	99. Song for twilight...	F. Berger	...	3 0
43. Wake, gentle Zephyr, your softest spell	Rossini	...	2 6	100. Cradle song	W. J. Westbrook	...	3 0
44. The Wood-thrush	J. L. Hatton	...	2 6	101. Sunrise	H. Smart	...	3 0
45. What say the clouds on hill and plain?	J. L. Hatton	...	2 6	102. Dear peaceful valley	J. Barnett	...	3 0
46. O'er the starlit waters gliding	Campana	...	3 0	103. Go where the water glideth	Alex. Rowland	...	3 0
47. In liquid notes	T. Attwood...	...	2 0	104. Borne on the night breeze	Cherubini	...	2 6
48. The nightingale to home returns	Mendelssohn	...	2 0	105. Come down into the meadow	Cherubini	...	3 0
49. O vales with sunlight smiling	Mendelssohn	...	2 6	106. Fair daffodils	Violet	...	2 6
50. Rest, weary pilgrim	Donizetti	...	2 0	107. Kind words	Ciro Pinsuti	...	3 0
51. O joyful day	Sacchini	...	2 6	108. Three charms of life	Ciro Pinsuti	...	3 0
52. Nymphs of air and ancient sea...	H. Smart	...	2 0	109. Sing, merrily all	W. J. Westbrook	...	2 6
53. Rest thee on this mossy pillow...	H. Smart	...	2 6	110. The primrose	Mrs. H. Ames	...	2 6
54. Farewell to the flowers	John Barnett	...	3 0	111. Spinning-wheel chorus...	Wagner	...	3 0
55. The dawn of spring	Mendelssohn	...	2 0	112. First gift of spring	H. Smart	...	3 0
56. Now the golden morn is breaking	Verdi	...	2 0	113. The cuckoo	F. Hiller	...	3 0
57. While time is swiftly winging	Cimarosa	...	3 0	114. Return, O brooklet	Blangini	...	3 0

LONDON: ASHDOWN & PARRY, HANOVER SQUARE.

C. JEFFERYS, 67, BERNERS STREET.

THE CHORAL SOCIETY

A COLLECTION OF

PART-SONGS, GLEES,

CHORUSES, &c.,

EDITED BY

MICHAEL WATSON.

NEW NUMBERS,

Price 2d. each.

No.		Composer.
45	To the hills and the vales. (Chorus)	Henry Purcell.
44	The Primrose	Arthur Johnson.
43	An evening song	Owen Head.
42	Row gently here	F. Schira.
41	Hark! the swains are calling	James J. Monk.
40	May Morn'	T. M. Pattison.
39	Oh, the gallant fisher's life (for male voices)	Theodore Distin.
38	Spring-time	W. G. Marshall.
37	Evening	Seymour Smith.
36	A poor soul sat sighing	J. Meredith Ball.
35	Ebbing and flowing	T. G. B. Halley.
34	The Spirit of Music	W. F. Taylor.
33	Welcome, lovely Spring	Arranged by Michael Watson.
32	The boatie rows	Michael Watson.
31	How beautiful is night	F. Schira.

(To be continued.)

COMPLETE LISTS ON APPLICATION.

SIX ORIGINAL PIECES FOR HARMONIUM OR AMERICAN ORGAN,

By MICHAEL WATSON.

	s.	d.
1 Village dance, in B flat	3	0
2 Melodie, in G	3	0
3 Pas Redoublé, in G	3	0
4 Berceuse, in F	3	0
5 March, in C	3	0
6 Reverie, in G	3	0

FOR PIANOFORTE,

By MICHAEL WATSON.

Bourrée in F	3	0
Gavotte, in B flat	3	0
Passe-pied, in B flat	3	0
Polonaise, in C	3	0
Tarantelle, in B flat	3	0
Bolero, in A minor	3	0
Gigue, in G	3	0
Sarabande, in B flat	3	0
Minuet, in C	3	0

NEW NUMBERS.

THE LYRIC STAGE,

By MICHAEL WATSON.

(Brilliant Operatic Fantasias.)

10 Lohengrin	Wagner	4	0
11 La Vie pour le Czar	Glinka	4	0
12 Tannhäuser	Wagner	4	0
13 Flying Dutchman	Wagner	4	0

GRAND OPERATIC DUETS,

By J. RUMMEL.

1 Lohengrin	Wagner	5	0
2 Tannhäuser	Wagner	5	0
10 Rienzi	Wagner	5	0
11 Flying Dutchman	Wagner	5	0

THE TWO MOST SUCCESSFUL SONGS OF THE SEASON.

Diehl's "Jack's Yarn," sung by Signor Foli	4	0
Levey's "White Blossoms," sung by Miss Fannie Leslie	3	0

LONDON: C. JEFFERYS, 67, BERNERS STREET, W.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, &c.

Just Published.

NEW PART-SONGS, MADRIGALS, &c.,

BY

R. L. PEARSALL.

COLLEGIATE SERIES.

No.
68.	Part-Song	A lad and lassie. S.A.T.B.	2d.
70.	Part-Song	True love, to-day I must away	2d.
64.	Madrigal	When old King Cole	3d.
54.	Madrigal	My bonnie lass, she smileth	3d.
67.	Glee	Glorious Apollo... ..	2d.
73.	Part-Song	Was there not a look of fondness	2d.
55.	Part-Song	Robin Hood... ..	3d.
65.	Glee	King Charles	3d.
72.	Part-Song	My mother loves me not	2d.
69.	Part-Song	Spring brings flow'rets fair	2d.
71.	Part-Song	'Twas a trumpet's pealing sound... ..	3d.
52.	Ballad Dialogue... ..	Who kill'd Cock Robin?	8th Edition 3d.
(Folio, illustrated, 3s.)
50.	Part-Song	Brave Lord Willoughby... ..	5th " 3d.
25.	Madrigal	Here on the waters... ..	4th " 4d.
53.	Part-Song	Her eyes the glow-worm	3rd " 3d.
4.	Student's Song	The three friends. S.A.T.B.	4th " 3d.
5.	Student's Song	T.T.B.B.	4th " 3d.
60.	Madrigal	Down by a river straying	2nd " 4d.
61.	Madrigal	Hie away! o'er bank and brae,	2nd " 4d.
58.	Glee	Flow, limpid stream. A.T.B.B.	3d.
51.	Student's Song	Gaudeamus igitur	6th Edition 3d.
74.	Part-Song	Springs she not as light as air	2d.
63.	Part-Song	My enemies they do increase	3d.
62.	Part-Song	'Tis raining!	3d.
59.	Part-Song	The Poacher's Song	3d.
56.	Market Chorus	The Villagers (with Pianoforte, Flute, or Violin Accompaniment), Chorus of Peasants, Market Women, Swiss Jodel, &c.	4d.

DR. S. S. WESLEY.

3.	Part-Song	The Mermaid. S.A.T.B.	3rd Edition 4d.
6.	Part-Song	Arising from the deep. S.A.T.B.	2nd " 4d.
2.	Chorus	The praise of music (Double Choir).	2nd " 4d.
18.	Anthem	O how amiable!	3rd " 4d.
19.	Anthem	Wherewithal shall a young man.	2nd " 4d.
40.	Anthem	The Lord is my Shepherd	2nd " 4d.
14.	Anthem	Let us now praise famous men.	4th " 4d.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

8.	Part-Song	Swift the shades of eve	6th " 3d.
12.	Part-Song	The Vikings and the north wind.	3rd " 3d.
10.	Part-Song	The eagle	2nd " 3d.
42.	Anthem	O praise the Lord	3d.
43.	Anthem	I waited patiently	3d.

DULCIANA.

13.	National Anth.	God save the Queen	20th Edition 2d.
(With Organ Accompaniment.)
7.	Part-Song	Auld lang syne	26th " 3d.

SCHUMANN.

26.	Solo and Chorus... ..	Sleep on, in visions	4th " 3d.
11.	Solo and Chorus... ..	Vesture pure and scatheless	3rd " 3d.
29.	Trio (s.s.a.)... ..	Magna peccatrix	3d.
30.	Trio (s.s.a.)... ..	The midnight hags	3d.

J. P. KNIGHT.

1.	Madrigal	Canst thou say me nay?	3rd Edition 3d.
----	-----------------	-------------------------------	-----------------

NEW BALLADS.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

THE CATHEDRAL CHOIR (with Chorus) 4s.

R. L. PEARSALL.

DRUMMING AND FIRING	3s.
BRAVE LORD WILLOUGHBY	3s.
WHO KILL'D COCK ROBIN?	3s.

Just Published.

CONSECUTIVE FIFTHS AND OCTAVES IN COUNTERPOINT

AN ESSAY, BY R. L. PEARSALL.

Price 2s.; post-free, 2s. 2d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.
Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street, W.

THE HYMNARY

A BOOK OF CHURCH SONG.

THE FOLLOWING EDITIONS ARE NOW READY:—

No.			s.	d.
1.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo. Bourgeois Antique. Cloth, red edges	1	0
2.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo. Nonpareil Antique. Double Columns. Cloth, red edges	0	6
3.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo. Nonpareil Antique. Double Columns. Limp cloth	0	4
4.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo. Nonpareil Antique. Double Columns. Paper covers	0	3
5.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo. Cloth	4	0
6.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	5	0
7.	Hymns only.	Demy 8vo. Cloth	3	0
8.	Hymns only.	Demy 8vo. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	4	0
9.	Hymns with Tunes.	Treble part only. Royal 24mo	1	6
10.	Hymns with Tunes.	Treble part only. Royal 24mo, cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	2	0
11.	Hymns with Tunes.	Small post 8vo, to bind with the Pearl 8vo Prayer Book. Cloth	2	6
12.	Hymns with Tunes.	Ditto. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	3	0
13.	Hymns with Tunes.	Large type, Imperial 8vo. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	10	6

Selections of Hymns with Tunes for Advent, Christmas, Easter and Harvest, price One Penny each.

A Discount of 20 per Cent. will be allowed to the Clergy, for Cash, when not less than six copies of one edition are taken.

Applications for permission to print the Hymns and Tunes for Choral Festivals, should be addressed to the Publishers.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE NEW HYMNAL.

THE SONG OF PRAISE, By Lady VICTORIA EVANS-FREKE. Being a New and Enlarged Edition of the Rev. EDWARD HARLAND'S CHURCH PSALTER AND HYMNAL, including a large number of Original Tunes written by the most eminent Church musicians of the day expressly for this work. Prices as follow:—

	s.	d.
Large Organ Edition	8	6
Ditto, red edges, strongly bound, with blank music paper at the end, gilt lettered	10	6
Small Music Edition	3	6
Ditto, red edges, strongly bound, gilt lettered	4	6
Words only	1	2
Ditto, red edges, gilt	1	6

Liberal Terms to the Clergy.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS, THE BROADWAY, LUDGATE.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK, containing 258

Tunes and 85 Chants.
No 1. Limp cloth, turned in	2s. 6d.
" 2. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.
TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.
" 3. Limp cloth, turned in	2s. 6d.
" 4. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.

About 250,000 copies have already been sold.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK (Second Series)

containing 298 Tunes and 74 Chants.
No. 5. Limp cloth	2s. 6d.
" 6. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.
TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.
" 7. Limp cloth	2s. 6d.
" 8. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.

First and Second Series Bound together.

No. 9. Limp cloth	4s. 6d.
" 10. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	6s. 0d.
" 12. Tonic Sol-fa, cloth	3s. 0d.

Now Ready.

SMALL EDITION OF THE COMPLETE WORK.

715 Tunes and Chants, providing for nearly 200 Varieties of Metre.

No. 11. Cloth	3s. 0d.
---------------	---------

Each Edition may be had in Superior Binding.

Communications and inquiries as to Copyrights, and also as to supplies of this work at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Compilers, at Clare Street, Bristol.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.; Bristol: W. and F. Morgan; and all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

THE LONDON TUNE-BOOK. A Companion

for all Hymnals. Cloth, 3s.; red edges, 3s. 6d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE ANGLICAN HYMN-BOOK.

NEW EDITION, REVISED AND ENLARGED.

1. Words and Music, in short score, foolscap 4to, cloth, price 6s.
2. Words and Music, in short score, super-royal 18mo, cloth, 2s. 6d.
3. Words and Treble Part (Tune), square 16mo, cloth, 1s. 6d.
4. Words only, 16mo, cloth, 1s.
5. Words only, 32mo, paper cover, 6d.; cloth, 8d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); Simpkin, Marshall and Co. Oxford and London: James Parker and Co.

Just published,

THE EUCHARISTIC HYMNAL, containing Hymns suited to the different Seasons, Holydays, and Commemorations of the Church, to be sung at the Celebration of the Holy Communion, to which are added Hymns to be sung at the devotion of the "Three Hours" on Good Friday, and a few Metrical Litanies and Processional Hymns, being an Appendix to other Hymnals in use in the Church of England. Price, limp cloth, 9d.; cloth boards, red edges, 1s.

The attention of the clergy is especially called to this Hymnal, which provides for use at Choral Celebrations a variety of Eucharistic Hymns, suited to different days and seasons.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes, as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN; containing nearly 250 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now ready, in small quarto, 330 pages.

THE BURNLEY TUNE-BOOK, an entirely new Psalmody of 683 Tunes, Chants, Kyries, Glorias, Chant Te Deums, &c., nearly the whole of which are new and never before published. The collection of Chants and Kyries, as well as the Tunes, contains many beautiful compositions; and altogether the B. T. B. will be found one of the most useful, comprehensive, and interesting tune-books ever published.

Plain binding, 4s.; gilt lettered and red edges, 5s.

London: F. Pitman, Paternoster Row. Burnley: T. Simpson.

Eleventh Edition, Enlarged.

TUNES, NEW AND OLD; comprising all the Metres in the Wesleyan Hymn-Book. Also, Chants, Responses, and Doxologies. Compiled by JOHN DOBSON; and for the most part revised or re-arranged by HENRY JOHN GAUNTLETT, Mus. Doc.; JOHN FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., Oxon.; and SAMUEL REAY, Mus. Bac., Oxon. London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, and 80 and 81, Queen Street. Sold also at 66, Paternoster Row. Prices: plain cloth, 3s. 6d.; extra cloth, bevelled boards, red edges, 5s.

Sixth Edition, obl. 4to, cloth, 7s.

PARR'S CHURCH PSALMODY, containing 392 Tunes, in 100 Metres, 301 Chants, various Responses, &c., with Memoirs of the Composers and Histories of the Pieces, giving an amount of information nowhere else to be found.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE MISSIONARY MANUAL TUNE BOOK.

Compiled and Edited by Sir JAMES ERASMUS PHILLIPS, Bart., M.A., Prebendary of Sarum, Vicar of Warminster, and Proctor in Convocation, and WILLIAM VINCENT, M.A., Rector of Postwick, Norfolk. Paper covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, 2s.

THE MISSIONARY MANUAL OF HYMNS AND PRAYERS. Price 2d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S

"SUPPLEMENTAL HYMN AND TUNE-BOOK" (4th Edition) may be had of the publishers, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. Quarto post, large type and beautifully bound in cloth, price 6s. 6d.; on toned paper, extra thick, 10s. 6d.

"MY SPIRIT LONGS FOR THEE." Hymn, set to Music by JOHN NAYLOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon., together with five other original Hymn Tunes, including "Rock of ages," for men's voices only. Price 4d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

HYMN TUNES, composed by ROBERT BROWN-BORTHWICK, Vicar of All Saints', Scarborough. Elegantly bound in scarlet cloth, price 2s. 6d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S SERIES OF MODERN HYMN TUNES, KYRIES, &c. This Series embraces original Tunes and Kyries by some of the best living composers of Church Music, and may be had in separate numbers from 3d. and 6d. each. Novello, Ewer and Co.

THREE PIECES for the ORGAN. Composed

by NIELS W. GADE. Op. 22. Price 2s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

One Shilling and Sixpence net. 3rd Edition.

INGLIS BERVON'S 32 HYMN TUNES (Principal Measures), 7 Kyries, Chants for the Canticles, and Offertory Sentences. To be had of the Composer, Organist and Choir-master of the Parish Church, Stafford.

A MANUAL OF SINGING, FOR THE USE OF CHOIR TRAINERS & SCHOOLMASTERS,

By RICHARD MANN.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

This work offers to the clergy and other amateur choir trainers a systematic and simple course of instruction, by which they may teach their pupils to read music at sight, in a comparatively short time.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

FORTY-THIRD EDITION.

Price 1s. A specimen copy post free for 12 stamps.

THE COLLEGIATE AND SCHOOL SIGHT-SINGING MANUAL.

FOR CHOIRS.—The easiest system that can be obtained for training, improving, and learning to read music at sight.

FOR SCHOOLS.—Every requisite for learning Music, and reading at sight in a few lessons.

FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.—The exercises will be found invaluable, tending to produce musical effects seldom heard.

APPENDIX.

Containing Exercises, Solfeggi, Canons, Anthems, &c.

Price One Shilling.

London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.;
Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

Third Edition, 2s. 6d. net.

(COMPANION WORK TO THE ABOVE.)

COLLEGIATE VOCAL TUTOR.

Containing Treatise on Voice and Vocal Art, with Anatomical Illustrations of the Vocal Instrument.

London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.;
Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

Eighth edition. Paper cover, 1s.; bound in cloth, 1s. 6d.

CATHEDRAL CHANT BOOK.

Containing nearly 200 Single and Double Chants; also the Gregorian Tones.

London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.;
Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

NEW EDITION OF

DR. BENNETT GILBERT'S POPULAR WORK SCHOOL HARMONY.

"From intervals to counterpoint."

The Work is divided into 3 Parts, to suit the School Term, and concludes with a copious Examination Paper.

EVERY SUBJECT HAS ITS SPECIAL EXERCISES.

Price 1s. 6d. net.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.; and all Musicsellers.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S CHORAL SONGS, as sung by Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir, the Birmingham Festival Choral Society, &c.

No. 1. "THE SILENT LAND." Price 3d.

"Replete with melody. Some phrases are of remarkable beauty."—Musical Times.

No. 2. "THE BETTER LAND." Price 4d.

"Distinguished by beauty of melody and richness of harmony."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

"Full of charming effects."—Birmingham Daily Post.

No. 3. "THE DAY IS DONE." Price 4d.

Composed expressly for Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

WILLIAM J. YOUNG'S POPULAR PART-SONGS for S.A.T.B.

OCTAVO.

- | | | | | |
|---------------------------------------|-----|--------------|-----|-----|
| No. 1. I love the merry springtime | ... | 19th edition | ... | 2d. |
| 2. Gaily thro' the greenwood | ... | 25th " | ... | 2d. |
| 3. Welcome, merry May | ... | 6th " | ... | 2d. |
| 4. The mountain maid | ... | 6th " | ... | 2d. |
| 5. Come o'er the mountain | ... | 8th " | ... | 2d. |
| 6. Hail, merry Christmas | ... | 14th " | ... | 2d. |
| 7. Songs of praise the angels sang | ... | 5th " | ... | 3d. |
| 8. Blow, ye balmy breezes, blow | ... | 6th " | ... | 3d. |
| 9. Fairy revels | ... | 8th " | ... | 3d. |
| 10. Oh, peaceful vale of rest | ... | 5th " | ... | 1d. |
| 11. The merry bird | ... | 5th " | ... | 3d. |
| 12. Come, let us be merry and gay | ... | 4th " | ... | 3d. |
| 13. Forest echoes | ... | 7th " | ... | 3d. |
| 14. Haste, ye merry elves | ... | 5th " | ... | 3d. |
| 15. The streamlet (with soprano solo) | ... | 2nd " | ... | 3d. |
| 16. Sunshine and shadow | ... | 2nd " | ... | 2d. |
| 17. Sunny rays (with soprano solo) | ... | 2nd " | ... | 3d. |
| 18. A happy new year | ... | 2nd " | ... | 3d. |
| 19. The coming of spring | ... | 2nd " | ... | 3d. |

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W., or of the Composer, 6, Grove Terrace, Longsight, Manchester.

SOUTHWELL SCHOOL SONGS. First series, 1s. 6d. By the Rev. R. F. SMITH Minor Canon of Southwell.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

The Queen.—"Fourteen" (sixteen) "capital little songs in a cheap handy form. Quite new and withal pretty and neatly written."

The Schoolmaster.—"Easy, pleasing tunes, suitable to school use. The composer shows himself a true musician; each 'lay' has a separate tune, which is catching, appropriate, and quite in old ballad-song style."

The Musical Times.—"The sympathetic and musician-like manner in which he has wedded them to melodies which cannot fail to please the young vocalists for whom they are expressly designed."

By the same Composer,

TE DEUM in F, 3d. ANTHEM (S.A.T.B.), "The Lord is nigh," 6d.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Second Edition.—Reduced Prices.

CHORAL SONGS FOR SCHOOL & HOME FORTY-TWO ORIGINAL SONGS

FOR

ONE, TWO, OR FOUR VOICES

COMPOSED BY ROBERT JACKSON.

Cloth, complete, 3s.; Parts I. and II., paper cover, 1s. each; Single Numbers, 1d.

From Concordia.

"This little book is designed for singing-classes in schools, and the simplicity, tunefulness, and attractiveness of the small compositions it contains eminently adapt it for such a purpose."

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

POPULAR AND CELEBRATED CHORUSES FOR LADIES' VOICES.

No.			Net.
*1	SCHUMANN	Chorus of Hours	4d.
*2	WAGNER, R.	Spinning maidens	4d.
*3	"	Wedding Ring ("Lohengrin")	4d.
*4	"	Pilgrims' Chorus ("Tannhäuser")	4d.
5	WESTBROOK	Pilgrims of the night	4d.
6	METRA, O.	Summer fancies (Valse)	4d.
7	ERGMANN	Night	4d.
8	FILBY	To an infant sleeping	4d.
9	MENDELSSOHN	When comes sweet May	4d.
10	BURNAP	In May	4d.
11	CHERUBINI	Cradle Song	4d.
12	RAMEAU	To our peaceful valley	4d.
13	TAYLOR	Church Bells	4d.
14	SCHUMANN	O welcome, lovely Spring	4d.
15	CONCONE	Hail! welcome day	4d.
16	FABIANI	Young hearts	4d.
17	WEKERLIN	Stars, the night adorning	4d.
18	FAURE	O come to Him (Crucifix)	4d.
19	BONOLDI	Joys bloom like roses	4d.
20	WEKERLIN	Vilanelle	4d.
21	CONCONE	Fond hearts	4d.
22	"	The festive day	4d.
23	OBERTHUR	Tyrolese mountaineers	4d.
24	WAGNER, R.	Prayer ("Tannhäuser")	4d.
25	ABT, FRANZ	In young May	4d.
26	WEKERLIN	In early Spring	4d.

* All are for three voices excepting Nos. 1 to 4, which are for four.

Published by WILLIAM CZERNY, 349, Oxford Street, W.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S ONLY COMPLETE AND UNIFORM EDITION OF

MENDELSSOHN'S THIRTEEN TWO-PART SONGS.

With the German and W. BARTHOLOMEW'S Original English Words.

Complete in One Volume, folio, 5s. net. Octavo, paper, 2s. net; cloth gilt, 4s. net; or singly, 2s. each. The separate Numbers are sold at half-price.

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|-----------------------------|
| No. 1. I would that my love. | No. 7. My bark is bounding. |
| 2. The passage bird. | 8. Can I light-hearted be? |
| 3. Greeting. | 9. Evening song. |
| 4. Autumn song. | 10. Zuleika and Hassan. |
| 5. O wert thou in the cauld blast. | 11. The Sabbath morn. |
| 6. The Maybells and the flowers. | 12. The harvest field. |
| | 13. Song from Ruy Blas. |

N.B.—The Quartett score to No. 13, 1s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

WHIPPOORWILL and other BIRDS; Rondo-
(Facile), Piano; illustrated title; eighteen stamps. By R.
Andrews. Also Glee, three voices, "Our Queen and our Country,"
4d. net. Historical Song of all the Kings and Queens of England;
12 stamps. Andrews's Music Academy, 14, Park Avenue, Manchester.

FULL ORCHESTRAL SCORES,
ONE GUINEA EACH.

HANDEL'S MESSIAH

(With Mozart's Accompaniments),

HANDEL'S ISRAEL IN EGYPT,

HAYDN'S CREATION.

Large Paper; bound in cloth.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

WAGNER'S OPERAS.
NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION.

LOHENGRIN ... Paper cover, 3s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 5s.
TANNHAUSER ... " " 3s. 6d. " 5s.
FLYING DUTCHMAN (In the Press).

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION.

MOORE'S
IRISH MELODIES.

EDITED BY

M. W. BALFE.

Paper covers, 2s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 4s.

A Selection from the above, arranged for Two Voices,
paper cover, 1s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now Ready, New and Revised Edition.

THE MAY QUEEN
A PASTORAL

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

HENRY F. CHORLEY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

SIR W. STERNDALE BENNETT.

PAPER COVER, 3s.; PAPER BOARDS, 3s. 6d.; CLOTH GILT, 5s.
SOL-FA EDITION, 1s.

LONDON:
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION.
TWELVE SONGS

WITH ENGLISH AND GERMAN WORDS

COMPOSED BY

SIR W. STERNDALE BENNETT.

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| Op. 23. | Op. 35. |
| No. 1. Musing on the roaring ocean. | No. 7. Indian love. |
| 2. May Dew. | 8. Winter's gone. |
| 3. Forget me not. | 9. Dawn, gentle flower. |
| 4. To Chloe (in sickness). | 10. Castle Gordon. |
| 5. The Past. | 11. As lonesome through the woods. |
| 6. Gentle Zephyr. | 12. Sing, maiden, sing. |

Price, in paper covers, 4s.; cloth boards, 6s.

Also separately, folio size, price 1s. 6d. each net.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Re D'ALMAINE, Deceased

(LATE NEW BOND STREET AND SOHO SQUARE).

REALISING THE ESTATE
WITHOUT RESERVE.

At time of decease of late Proprietor there were in hand

780 PIANOFORTES

OF THESE

633 ARE STILL ON HAND

UNDER CAREFUL FINISH, AND ARE NOW OFFERED AT

UNDER THE USUAL COST PRICE

(See other column).

Sheet Music almost at the price of Waste Paper

AND EQUAL TO NEW,

ALL FULL SIZE AND OF HIGHEST CLASS.

Various other Musical Property,

A NUMBER OF

HARMONIUMS, ORGANS, VIOLINS, &c., &c.

ON VIEW AND FOR SALE AT

5, FINSBURY PAVEMENT,

BY MOORGATE STREET STATION.

POPULAR PIANO PIECES.

EXCEEDINGLY LOW TERMS TO THE TRADE
AND PROFESSION.

- | | |
|---|--------------------|
| 1. QUICK MARCH | S. REUBENS. |
| 2. THE STREAMLET | Do. |
| 3. LA CACHUCHA | Do. |
| 4. FAIRY DANCE | Do. |
| 5. THE GIPSY CHORUS (Weber) | OSCAR DE VILLE. |
| 6. IL TROVATORE | CARL GERN. |
| 7. DON JUAN | Do. |
| 8. BRITANNIA | J. ATTWOOD TAYLOR. |
| 9. SCOTIA | Do. |
| 10. HIBERNIA | Do. |
| 11. CAMBRIA | Do. |
| 12. SOUND THE LOUD TIMBREL | E. WILLERT. |
| 13. EVENING PRAYER | Do. |
| 14. WEBER'S LAST WALTZ | FR. ROCHE. |
| 15. THURINGIA | H. S. COWEN. |
| 16. OBERON (facile edition) | A. DE WINTER. |
| 17. MAY FLOWERS (facile edition) | Do. |
| 18. THE BRIDE WALTZ | J. W. MARESTON |
| 19. VALSE JOYEUSE | C. WEPPART. |
| 20. HAYDN'S CELEBRATED ANDANTE, with Variations | A. DUPRÉ. |

Accounts opened, and Parcels sent on approval, on receipt of satisfactory reference.

PATTISON & CO., Wholesale Music Publishers,
15, NORTH JOHN STREET, LIVERPOOL.

ALEX. GUILMANT'S NEW COMPOSITIONS
for the ORGAN:—

Pièces de différents styles, pour Orgue. Books 10, 11, 12 ... each 9s
L'Organiste Pratique, Collection de Pièces pour Orgue ou
Harmonium. Books 3, 4, 5 ... each 9s
Première Sonate pour Orgue ... 15s

Catalogues post-free on application.

Schott & Co., 159, Regent Street, London, W.

NEW SONG, BY MARGUERITE.

"I'LL STEEL MY HEART!" 4s.
London: Lamborn Cock, 63, New Bond Street, W.

Third Edition, enlarged. Small 4to. Price 2s. 6d. paper covers, 3s. 9d. cloth lettered.

ANGLICAN PSALTER CHANTS, Single and Double, edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. G. OUSELEY, Bart., etc., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK.

This work contains nearly 400 Chants; which are appropriated to "Venite exultemus Domino," the Daily and Proper Psalms, &c.; those for each Service occupying a separate page and affording several Series suitable to each daily portion of the Psalter, from which choice may be made. The Chants have been selected with especial reference to the position of the Reciting note.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

VENI, CREATOR SPIRITUS. Set to Music by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., &c.

For general or Festival use; for male voices and four-part Chorus, with Organ accompaniment, ad lib. Price 3d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE ANGLICAN CHORAL SERVICE BOOK.

Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper, 1s.; cloth, 2s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co. Oxford: Parker.

Seventh Edition.

THE ANGLICAN CHANT-BOOK, edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon.

In paper cover, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d. Large edition, cloth, 4s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

OUSELEY AND MONK'S PSALTER AND CANTICLES, pointed for Chanting. Second Edition. Authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York.

24mo, without chants, 9d.; with Proper Psalms, 1s.; Proper Psalms, separately, 3d.; small 4to, with chants, 4s.; each voice part, separately, 1s. 6d. Canticles, score, small 4to, 9d.; separate parts, 3d.; words only, 24mo, 1½d. Novello, Ewer and Co., and Parker and Co.

Preparing for the Press.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF WORDS OF ANTHEMS, New Edition, revised, corrected, and brought down to the present date.

Twelfth Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Price 5s. 6d., paper covers; 7s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation. Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-notes.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. St. J. B. JOULE.

(Large type), price 2s. 6d. This Psalter having been collated with the Sealed Books is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers. N.B.—A small Edition is in preparation.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Fourth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. Quarto, in cloth elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Fifth Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION.

Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. St. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

A MORNING SERVICE, Te Deum, Jubilate, and Kyrie, by the Rev. EDWARD YOUNG. Tenth edition, abbreviated for Parochial use. Organ and Choir copies, 4d. each.

"Melodious, vocal, and nicely harmonised—that is, without pretence or straining at effect; and they declaim the words devoutly and emphatically."—Musical Times.

"Good points, and tuneful passages."—Musical Standard.

"The intelligent, devoted, and devotional spirit in which every note seems to have been composed, furnishes one of the best guarantees for excellence."—English Churchman.

"All competent criticism will be found in accordance with the verdict of a high professional authority as to 'abundant proof of imagination, poetical conception, and musical feeling.'"—Christian Observer.

"The strain is devotional, and harmonies full, solemn, and massive. . . . He fairly claims to have dug a channel for the devout utterance of the words."—Bristol Times.

Also,

CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR, Organ or Choir Copies, 4d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

8vo, price 6d.

OFFERTORY SENTENCES COMPLETE (20), with Music in full for Organist and Choir. By HERBERT STEPHEN IRONS, late Organist of Southwell Minster.

One or more of these beautiful and effective sentences may be sung after the Priest has said the Offertory, or after the hymns at Matins or Evensong, whilst the alms are being collected.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

ELEVEN OFFERTORY SENTENCES, in Groups, for convenient use, by C. SWAIN, 4d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC BY ERNEST C. WINCHESTER.

Anthem, "I WILL GIVE THANKS." With Treble or Tenor Solo. 4d.

MORNING AND EVENING SERVICES, in Chant Form.

Te Deum and Benedictus. 4d. Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis. 3d.

TEN OFFERTORY SENTENCES. 4d.

SIX KYRIES. 2d.

GREGORIAN ARRANGEMENTS.

Venite. 1d. Te Deum. 1½d. Benedictus. 1½d. Deus Misereatur. 1d.

HYMN TUNES, with Free Organ Accompaniment.

Onward, Christian Soldiers. 1d. Hark! hark, my soul. 1d.

London: F. Pitman, 20, Paternoster Row, E.C.; or of Ernest C. Winchester, 18, Wycliffe Grove, Lavender Hill, S.W.

Specimens and lists of rates for Choirs, &c., from the Composer.

CHURCH MUSIC,

BY

ALEX. S. COOPER.

THE ATHANASIAN CREED, newly pointed for Chanting. With special Chants. Price 3d.

BENEDICTUS and AGNUS DEI, to complete Communion Service. Price 3d.

UNISON CHANTS, with varied accompaniments. Second series. Price 6d.

TE DEUM. Easily arranged for Parochial use. With twenty different sets of Chants. Sixth Edition, enlarged. Price 6d.

London: Novello and Co., and Weekes and Co.

Just published,

A MORNING SERVICE IN F. Te Deum and Benedictus, 1s. each. By W. O. JONES, Organist, All Saints', Lynn.

Novello, Ewer & Co.; or of the Composer, Athenæum Chambers, King's Lynn.

CANTATE and DEUS, by R. TAYLOR. An easy Unison Service in F. Price 6d. To be had of Novello and Co., or of the Author, Brighton College.

Now ready, 8vo, price Threepence.

THE APOSTLES' CREED, Set to Music (chiefly in Recitative) for Voices in Unison, with an Accompaniment for the Organ, by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Director of the Choir, York Minster.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

"GOD, WHO AS AT THIS TIME." Short

full Whitsuntide Anthem. By G. H. GREGORY, Mus. Bac.,

Oxon. Price 3d. Also, by the same Composer,

SIX KYRIES, price 2d.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS on a Rouennais Theme.

Price 4d.

These compositions are suitable for choirs of moderate ability.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Second Edition.

COMMUNION SERVICE

FOR

MEN'S VOICES ONLY,

By WALTER H. SANGSTER, Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Price Two Shillings.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS.

Set to Music in Chant Form to original Chants, by

S. C. COOKE,

Organist and Choirmaster, S. Peter's, Caversham, Reading.

Price 3d. Post-free from Composer.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

4TH BOOK NOW READY. Collection of KYRIES,

&c. Original Compositions by Dr. F. Hiller, Guillemant, G. A. and

W. Macfarren, Sir G. J. Elvey, Tours, Salaman, Francesco Berger,

E. G. Monk, J. Baptiste Calkin, Scotson Clark, Hamilton Clarke, &c.

Books 1, 2, 3, 4, 1s. each. Separate Nos. (1 to 71), 1d.

SPOHR'S 24th PSALM, 8vo (2nd thousand), 9d.; folio, 4s. net.

London: Novello and Co. Sheffield: W. T. Freemantle, High Street.

"LET NOT YOUR HEART BE TROUBLED."

Anthem for Whitsuntide, by REES, rearranged by C. SWAIN, 4d.

"THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD." Anthem,

by C. SWAIN. 4d.

"Out of usual run—very nicely written."—Choir.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

"I WILL GREATLY REJOICE IN THE LORD."

Anthem for Whitsuntide, by BENJAMIN CONGREVE. Price 3d.

Also,

"ALL NATURE NOW IS SMILING." May

Song. Price 1½d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

ANTHEMS FOR WHIT SUNDAY.

ATTWOOD, T.—COME, HOLY GHOST	0	1½
BARTHOLOMEW, R.—COME, HOLY SPIRIT, COME.	0	2
A new translation of King Robert's Pentecost Hymn, by
M.C. 8vo. ...	0	2
HAYES.—GREAT IS THE LORD	0	4
MACFARREN, G. A.—O HOLY GHOST, INTO OUR	0	1½
MINDS	0	2
— THE SPIRIT OF THE LORD	0	2
MONK, DR. E. G.—VENI, CREATOR SPIRITUS	0	3
REAY, S.—THE LOVE OF GOD	0	3
STEGGALL, DR.—GOD CAME FROM TEMAN	0	4

TRINITY SUNDAY.

BISHOP, JOHN.—HOLY, HOLY, HOLY	0	1½
BLOW, DR.—I WAS IN THE SPIRIT	0	6
GARRETT, DR. G. M.—IN HUMBLE FAITH AND	0	1½
HOLY LOVE	0	3
HOPKINS, J.—HOLY, HOLY, HOLY	0	6
LAHEE, HENRY.—AND BEHOLD A THRONE	0	3
MACFARREN, G. A.—WE GIVE THEE THANKS	0	2
— HOLY, HOLY, HOLY	0	2
— THEY THAT PUT THEIR TRUST, and O HOW	0	2
AMIALE	0	2
— O TASTE AND SEE, and KEEP INNOCENCY	0	2
— ONE THING HAVE I DESIRED, and NOT UNTO	0	2
US	0	2
— O MAGNIFY THE LORD, and LET US NOT BE	0	2
WEARY	0	2
— SING UNTO THE LORD, O YE SAINTS	0	2
— O WORSHIP THE LORD	0	2
— O SING UNTO THE LORD A NEW SONG	0	2
— REMEMBER ME	0	2

Most of the above can be had in folio vocal score and vocal parts.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE NEW ANTHEM FOR WHITSUNTIDE,
"AND I WILL PRAY THE FATHER."

COMPOSED BY
CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

THIS Anthem has been adopted by the Choral Association for the Archdeaconry of Coventry, and is to be used at the five District Festivals held by them this season, and will be found sufficiently easy for the simplest of village choirs.

"The short and easy full anthem for Whitsunday is a melodious and simple composition, the parts generally moving together in diatonic harmonies. Such an anthem ought to be sung well by any choir worthy of the name; while it is at the same time not beneath the notice of the most cultivated singers, and we hope it may find its way into the libraries of many churches in the course of this year."—Musical Standard, Jan. 27, 1877.

Price Twopence.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TWELVE SHORT AND EASY
FULL ANTHEMS

FOR PARISH CHOIRS.

THE WORDS TAKEN FROM THE PSALMS, THE MUSIC COMPOSED AND DEDICATED TO THE

REV. SIR F. A. G. OUSELEY, M.A., MUS. DOC., OXON.

BY

FREDERICK ILIFFE, MUS. BAC., OXON.

No.		Price
1.	LORD I CALL UPON THEE	2d.
2.	I LOOK FOR THE LORD	3d.
3.	† PRAISE THE LORD, FOR HE IS GOOD	3d.
4.	† O WORSHIP THE LORD IN THE BEAUTY OF HOLINESS	3d.
5.	† THOU THAT SITTEST BETWEEN THE CHERUBIMS	3d.
6.	† I WILL MAGNIFY THEE, O GOD MY KING	4d.
7.	MY SONG SHALL BE OF MERCY AND JUDGMENT	2d.
8.	† THE LORD IS KING, HE SITTETH BETWEEN THE CHERUBIMS	3d.
9.	FRET NOT THYSELF BECAUSE OF THE UNGODLY	3d.
10.	† AWAKE UP, MY GLORY; AWAKE, LUTE AND HARP	3d.
11.	† BLOW UP THE TRUMPET IN THE NEW MOON	3d.
12.	† BEHOLD, NOW PRAISE THE LORD, ALL YE SERVANTS OF THE LORD	4d.

Those numbers marked * consist of two movements; each of these movements may be used separately as short Anthems.

Those numbers marked † may appropriately be used on Festivals.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

PSALM XXIII., for SOPRANO, TENOR, and
CHORUS, by the Rev. ARTHUR SEWELL. Price 2s.

WITH ACCOMPANIMENT FOR THE PIANOFORTE AND HARMONIUM
(pp. 71).

"Taken as a whole, a Choral Society may go further and not find a better composition for execution than this work."—Graphic.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Third Edition.

THEORY OF MUSIC

(A FIRST BOOK ON THE)

By LOUISA GIBSON.

Dedicated, by permission, to

H.R.H. THE PRINCESS LOUISE, MARCHESS OF LORNE.

(Adopted in the South London Musical Training College, and in various High Schools in London and the Provinces.)

Price: Boards, 3s.; stiff paper, 2s.; postage, 2d.

London: Weekes and Co.; Novello and Co.; Whittaker and Co.; and of the Author, Seaton Terrace, Plymouth.

CHARLES SALAMAN'S NEW SONGS

ZULEIKA. Oriental Scena. Tenor or Soprano. 2s. net.

EVA TUAL. Irish Song, in F and A flat. 2s. net.

WHAT SHALL I SEND TO THEE, SWEET? Contralto or Baritone. 2s. net.

CHARLES SALAMAN'S ANCIENT LYRICS.

1. HORACE'S ODE, "AD CHLOEN." Song. In Latin and English. 2s. net.

2. HORACE'S ODE, "DONEC GRATUS." Duet. In Latin and English. 2s. net.

3. ANACREON'S ODE, "PARA TEN SKIEN." } Duet. In Greek and English. 2s. net.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now ready, Vocal Score, price 3s.

JONAH. A Sacred Cantata, by J. V. ROBERTS, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Choirmaster of the Parish Church, Halifax.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

P.S.—Full Orchestral Parts to be had of the Composer.

"THE VILLAGE ORGANIST."

N.B.—These popular volumes may now be had from the publishers for

FIVE SHILLINGS EACH.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE

ORGANISTS' QUARTERLY JOURNAL.

TWENTY Beautifully-engraved Pages of NEW

ORGAN PIECES, by the best Composers, every quarter, for

2s. 6d. Subscribers for one year can commence at any time, and receive back numbers, as may be required, by sending their names, with Post-office Order for 10s. 6d. (which includes postage) to the Editor, Dr. SPARK, Springfield Villa, Leeds, or to Novello and Co.

"An invaluable work; no organist should be without it."—Review.

FIVE INTRODUCTORY VOLUNTARIES for the ORGAN. Composed by T. MEE PATTISON.

These Voluntaries, of medium difficulty, with Pedal Obligato, will be found eminently useful for the introduction of Divine Service, both as regards character and length. Price 3s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

RECESSIONAL MARCH. J. FINCH THORNE.

Organ, Harmonium, or Pianoforte.—"There is vigour and character in this march."—Choir. Fifth edition. 2s. net.

CHURCH MUSIC.—Part I., containing Six Kyries, Single and Double Chants, &c. (originally composed for the choir of S. Mary's, Ramsgate). J. FINCH THORNE. 1s. 6d. net.

THE RUDIMENTS OF SINGING: for Chorists and Classes. J. FINCH THORNE. Second edition. 1s. net.

"A very plain and comprehensive little book."

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

"THE COLLEGE MARCH," for Organ and Pianoforte. Second Edition. Specimen copy (post-free, 1s. 6d.), direct from the composer, E. W. Taylor, Mus. Bac., &c., Organist, Stafford.

FESTIVE MARCH for the ORGAN. Composed by E. H. THORNE. Price 2s. Arranged as a Pianoforte Duet, price 4s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now Ready. (Dedicated to College of Organists.)

ON TUNING THE ORGAN. Illustrated

APPENDIX, containing faults in action with remedies, price 2s. 6d. P.O.O. to A. Hemstock, Diss.

BAKER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR.

Easy and very plain instructions. Adapted for Schools and General Teaching Purposes. London: B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row; or, post-free, 3s., of G. Baker, Stamp Office Place, Wakefield.

"SALVA PATRIAM."—Latin Chorus, from Tennyson's "Harold." By LOUISA F. ESSINGTON.

Messrs. C. Lonsdale, 26, Old Bond Street.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

REDUCED PRICES.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION.

Bennett's May Queen	3	0	Benedict's St. Peter	3	0
Barnby's Rebekah	2	0	Bach's Passion (S. Matthew)	2	0

The undermentioned works may now be had at a uniform rate of

ONE SHILLING EACH.

Handel's Acis and Galatea.	Weber's Mass in E Flat.	Mozart's Requiem Mass.
Do. Dettingen Te Deum.	Do. Mass in G.	Cherubini's Requiem Mass.
Beethoven's Engedi (Mount of Olives).	Haydn's First Mass.	Gounod's Messe Solennelle.
Do. Mass in C.	Do. Third Mass (Imperial).	Spohr's Last Judgment.
Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise).	Mozart's First Mass.	Rossini's Stabat Mater.
Do. Walpurgis-Night.	Do. Twelfth Mass.

and Handel's Messiah (Novello's Pocket Edition).

NOVELLO'S FOLIO EDITION.

The following works have also been reduced in price, and will, for the future, be only supplied bound.

Bach's Passion (S. Matthew)	12	6	Handel's Saul	12	6
Benedict's S. Peter	12	6	Do. Alexander's Feast	12	6
Crotch's Palestine	12	6	Do. Acis and Galatea	12	6
Handel's Judas Maccabæus	12	6	Hiller's Nala and Damayanti	12	6
Do. Israel in Egypt	12	6	Mendelssohn's S. Paul	12	6
Do. Samson	12	6	Do. Elijah	12	6
Do. Solomon	12	6	Do. Hymn of Praise	10	6
Do. Jephtha	12	6	Spohr's Fall of Babylon	12	6
Do. Joshua	12	6	Do. Calvary	12	6
Do. Deborah	12	6	Do. Last Judgment	12	6

The undermentioned works may also be had in the Folio Edition at similar prices:—

Barnby's Rebekah	10	6	Mendelssohn's First Walpurgis-Night	..	12	0
Haydn's Creation	10	0	Do. Antigone	..	12	0
Handel's Messiah	10	6	Do. Athalie	..	12	0
Rossini's Stabat Mater	10	0

ORCHESTRAL PARTS.

Since the reduction in the price of music in 1849, by Mr. J. A. NOVELLO, Choral Societies have so rapidly grown up and developed that works requiring full orchestral accompaniments are now, rather as a rule than an exception, included in their public performances. Hitherto, however, the price of band parts has been so high that, instead of purchasing, it has been the custom to hire them whenever a composition demanding such aid has been given. In order to obviate the necessity of this, Messrs. NOVELLO, EWER & Co. have decided that in future all Orchestral Parts shall be marked at the uniform rate of

SIXPENCE PER SHEET,

thus enabling Institutions to form a permanent library for the orchestra, as well as for the choir, at a small additional outlay.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION

OF THE

ORATORIOS, MASSES, CANTATAS, &c.

IN PAPER BOARDS.

With the view of increasing the durability and usefulness of the above works to Choral Societies, an Edition in Paper Boards will in future be published. The price, in each case, will be sixpence above that of the Edition in Paper Covers.

IN PREPARATION.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO.'S
MUSIC PRIMERS,

EDITED BY

DR. STAINER.

- | | | | | | | |
|-----|----------------------------------|---|---|---|---|----------------------------|
| 1. | The Pianoforte | - | - | - | - | E. Pauer. |
| 2. | The Rudiments of Music | - | | | | W. II. Cummings. |
| 3. | The Organ | - | - | - | - | Dr. Stainer. |
| 4. | Singing | - | - | - | - | A. Randegger. |
| 5. | Pronunciation in Singing | - | | | | A. J. Ellis, F.R.S. |
| 6. | Forms in Music | - | - | - | - | E. Pauer. |
| 7. | Harmony | - | - | - | - | Dr. Stainer. |
| 8. | Scientific Basis of Music | - | | | | Dr. Stone. |
| 9. | History of Music | - | - | - | - | E. Pauer. |
| 10. | Church Choir Training | - | | | | Rev. J. Troutbeck. |

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LISTS POST FREE.

JOHN BRINSMEAD AND SONS'

Patented 1862, 1868, 1871,
and 1875, in Great Britain,
France, Prussia, Austria,
Italy, Belgium, and America.

GOLD MEDAL PIANOS.

18, WIGMORE STREET, LONDON, W.

ON THE THREE YEARS' SYSTEM.

The Grand Prize Medal and Diploma of
Merit, Philadelphia, 1876.
The Grand Diploma of Honour, Paris, 1874.
The Gold Medal, Paris, 1870.
Le Diplôme de la Mention Extraordinaire,
Amsterdam, 1869.
La Médaille d'Honneur, Paris, 1867.
Prize Medal, London, 1862, etc., etc

Gilbert L. Bauer's Prize Medal Drawing Room Organs, from 8 Guineas to 300 Guineas.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

SIR JULIUS BENEDICT. { "This most ingenious and valuable invention cannot fail to meet with success."
SYDNEY SMITH. { "The touch is absolute perfection."
BRINLEY RICHARDS. { "A very clever and useful invention, and likely to be extensively adopted."

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS. Six feet six inches in length, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action. Price, 90 to 100 Guineas.

"The tone of the Grand now referred to possessed all the qualities that a good piano ought to have, and in touch and action was perfect.
The sweet and silvery quality of the upper octaves was worthy of special admiration."—The Era.

"Sir Julius Benedict played his well-known composition, 'Where the Bee Sucks,' on one of Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons' Grand Pianos, with the recently patented improvements, which enabled him to produce the sustained tones with great variety of effect in the light and shade of tones, especially so when extreme delicacy of touch is required."—Court Journal.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS. Six feet six inches in length, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action. Price, 90 to 115 Guineas.

"Admirable repetition, perfect sostenuto, and luscious tone of the instrument fully justified the performer's choice."—Sunday Times.

"Magnificent, grand, the air telling out with almost vocal clearness and sweetness to the bell-like treble arpeggio accompaniment, which contrasted excellently with the extraordinary power produced in the forte passages."—Illustrated Sporting and Dramatic News.

"An immense improvement in arpeggios. The rapid passages in the upper register, the beautiful flute-like tone, and quick and perfect repetition, were very effective."—Figaro.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' CONCERT IRON GRAND PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Re- peater Action.

"Sir Julius Benedict, now seldom heard as a soloist, delighted the public once more by his arrangement of 'Where the Bee Sucks.' He played upon a new Patent Grand by Brinsmead, possessing a remarkably loud and clear tone."—Echo.

"The upright Iron Grand Piano, with sostenente sounding-board, the mechanism produces the obvious result of a fuller and richer tone."
—Morning Advertiser.

"Every means are adopted to ensure the production of perfect instruments."—The Orchestra.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON

GRAND PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
"Where all the pianos go to seems somewhat of a mystery, for a really good instrument will last a lifetime: and yet every year thousands are made by each of the great London manufacturers, while the numbers made by the 200 or more smaller firms must represent an enormous number in the course of each year. The improvements made in English pianos have caused this trade rapidly to increase, until one pianoforte manufactory after another has been built to supply the growing demand. One of the largest of these, lately erected by Messrs.
John Brinsmead and Sons, of Wigmore Street, covers nearly an acre of ground in the Grafton Road, Kentish Town, and is intended to accommodate 300 workmen. These works alone can supply 3,000 pianos annually, and there are at least three manufactories in London capable of making an equal number."—Illustrated London News.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

"A metal bridge of a peculiar form is used to produce the treble, and a much finer tone is produced than if a wooden bridge were used."—Morning Post.

"A perfect check, great power, and quick repetition."—Times of India.

"Produces a better quality of tone, greater durability, the new patent perfect repetition, with a check (never before attained), with the certainty of the instrument never blocking."—Land and Water.

"Beautiful, light, and elastic touch, and an instant repetition."—Globe.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

"The softest touch is sufficient to secure a reply, the touch and facility of repetition are really perfect."—Belgravia.

"The advantages fully justify the term 'Perfect' Check Repeater Action."—John Bull.

"The touch is very sure, light, and elastic."—Musical Times.

"This invention is simplicity itself."—The Queen.

"The latest and greatest improvements in the pianoforte."—City Press.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

On the Three Years' System.
"Receive the greatest approbation everywhere of musicians and manufacturers."—Standard.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action, from 31 to 500 Guineas. May be obtained of all the principal Musicsellers.

GUARANTEED FOR FIVE YEARS.

*• ILLUSTRATED PRICE LISTS AND DESCRIPTIONS, WITH OPINIONS OF THE LONDON PRESS AND MUSICAL PROFESSION, FORWARDED POST FREE UPON APPLICATION.

JOHN BRINSMEAD & SONS,

18, WIGMORE ST., LONDON, W.,

AND THE "BRINSMEAD PIANOFORTE WORKS," GRAFTON ROAD, KENTISH TOWN, N.W.

541
THE MUSICAL
24 TIMES

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

REDUCED PRICES.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION.

Bennett's May Queen	3 0	Benedict's St. Peter	3 0
Barnby's Rebekah	2 0	Bach's Passion (S. Matthew)	2 0
Mendelssohn's Elijah	3 0

The undermentioned works may now be had at a uniform rate of

ONE SHILLING EACH.

Handel's Acis and Galatea.	Weber's Mass in E Flat.	Mozart's Requiem Mass.
Do. Dettingen Te Deum.	Do. Mass in G.	Cherubini's Requiem Mass.
Beethoven's Engedi (Mount of Olives).	Haydn's First Mass.	Gounod's Messe Solennelle.
Do. Mass in C.	Do. Third Mass (Imperial).	Spohr's Last Judgment.
Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise).	Mozart's First Mass.	Rossini's Stabat Mater.
Do. Walpurgis-Night.	Do. Twelfth Mass.

and Handel's Messiah (Novello's Pocket Edition).

NOVELLO'S FOLIO EDITION.

The following works have also been reduced in price, and will, for the future, be only supplied bound.

Bach's Passion (S. Matthew)	12 6	Handel's Saul	12 6
Benedict's S. Peter	12 6	Do. Alexander's Feast	12 6
Crotch's Palestine	12 6	Do. Acis and Galatea	12 6
Handel's Judas Maccabæus	12 6	Hiller's Nala and Damayanti	12 6
Do. Israel in Egypt	12 6	Mendelssohn's S. Paul	12 6
Do. Samson	12 6	Do. Elijah	12 6
Do. Solomon	12 6	Do. Hymn of Praise	10 6
Do. Jephtha	12 6	Spohr's Fall of Babylon	12 6
Do. Joshua	12 6	Do. Calvary	12 6
Do. Deborah	12 6	Do. Last Judgment	12 6

The undermentioned works may also be had in the Folio Edition at similar prices:—

Barnby's Rebekah	10 6	Mendelssohn's First Walpurgis-Night	7 6
Haydn's Creation	10 0	Do. Antigone	7 6
Handel's Messiah	10 6	Do. Athalie	12 0
Rossini's Stabat Mater	10 0

ORCHESTRAL PARTS.

Since the reduction in the price of music in 1849, by Mr. J. A. NOVELLO, Choral Societies have so rapidly grown up and developed that works requiring full orchestral accompaniments are now, rather as a rule than an exception, included in their public performances. Hitherto, however, the price of band parts has been so high that, instead of purchasing, it has been the custom to hire them whenever a composition demanding such aid has been given. In order to obviate the necessity of this, Messrs. NOVELLO, EWER & Co. have decided that in future all Orchestral Parts shall be marked at the uniform rate of

SIXPENCE PER SHEET,

thus enabling Institutions to form a permanent library for the orchestra, as well as for the choir, at a small additional outlay.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION OF THE ORATORIOS, MASSES, CANTATAS, &c. IN PAPER BOARDS.

With the view of increasing the durability and usefulness of the above works to Choral Societies, an Edition in Paper Boards will in future be published. The price, in each case, will be sixpence above that of the Edition in Paper Covers.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

The Music Pages only are stereotyped; those persons who would possess the Musical Articles, Notices, Advertisements, &c., can only ensure doing so by taking the work as it appears.

No. 412.—Vol. 18.
Registered for transmission abroad.

JUNE 1, 1877.

Price 3d.; Post-free, 4d.
Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 4s.

MESSRS.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Have the honour to announce that, in consequence of the retirement from business of their late American Agent, Mr. J. L. PETERS, the Sole Agency for the sale of their Publications in the UNITED STATES has been transferred to MESSRS. DITSON & CO.

All of Messrs. NOVELLO's Publications will in future be kept in stock by—

Messrs. OLIVER DITSON and Co. ... Boston.
„ C. H. DITSON and Co. ... New York.
„ J. E. DITSON and Co. ... Philadelphia.
„ LYON and HEALY ... Chicago.
„ DOBMEYER and NEWHALL Cincinnati.
„ MCCURRIE, WEBER and Co. San Francisco.

ALL ORDERS SHOULD STATE

NOVELLO'S EDITIONS.

ST. EDMUND THE KING, Lombard Street.—Two LEADING BOYS, also a TENOR and BASS, REQUIRED. Full Anglican services. Remuneration—Boys, £6; Gentlemen, £5 per annum. Address, Choirmaster, 21, Oldfield Road, South Hornsey.

LEADING TREBLE BOY WANTED for a Church, N.E. of London. Good voice and knowledge of music indispensable. Apply by letter, stating salary expected, to Mr. W. Langman, 71, Mildmay Park, Stoke Newington.

FOUR BOYS with LEADING TREBLE VOICES are REQUIRED for the Surplined Choir of St. Paul's, Beckenham. A very liberal stipend offered for suitable voices. If coming from a distance railway fare would be paid and maintenance from Saturday evening until Monday morning provided. Address, with full particulars, to Organist, 6, St. George's Villas, Beckenham.

WANTED a Lady with good full SOPRANO VOICE, to lead choir and congregation. North part of London. Sunday, two services. Salary, £16 to £20. Address, with particulars, to Mr. James, care of Mrs. Addington, 28, Falcon Square, E.C.

ALTO (£12) and TREBLE SOLOIST (£10) WANTED immediately for the surplined choir of Christ Church, Southwark (Blackfriars Road). Apply to Ernest C. Winchester, Choirmaster, at the Church, on any Monday evening, at eight. N.B.—All the Bass appointments are now made.

ALTO (Male) WANTED for St. John's Church, Paddington. Salary, £10. Morning and evening services Sundays, and weekly practice. Apply after either the 11 a.m. or 7 p.m. services, or to Mr. J. T. Goodban, 30, Formosa Street, Maida Hill.

CONTRALTO WANTED for the Choir of St. Mary's, Seymour Street, Euston Square. Address, stating qualifications, Organist, 15, Harrington Square.

ALTO, TENOR, BASS, and BOYS' VOICES WANTED; must be able to read. Cathedral Service, surplined paid choir. Apply at St. Mary-at-Hill Church, Eastcheap, City, on Sunday evenings after service, or by letter to A. B., Burlington Lodge, Whifton, Middlesex.

GREAT TRIENNIAL HANDEL FESTIVAL, CRYSTAL PALACE, 1877.

MESSRS. NOVELLO, EWER AND CO. have much pleasure in announcing that they have been again appointed by the Directors to the exclusive right of supplying their Editions of the Oratorios and Selection of Music, for sale to the visitors at the Crystal Palace during the Festival.

MONDAY, JUNE 25.

THE MESSIAH.

Pocket Edition, in paper cover	1s. od.
„ „ bound in scarlet cloth	2s. od.
Super-royal octavo, in paper cover	2s. od.
„ „ bound in scarlet cloth	4s. od.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 27.

THE SELECTION.

Super-royal octavo, in paper cover	2s. 6d.
------------------------------------	-----	-----	---------

FRIDAY, JUNE 29.

ISRAEL IN EGYPT.

Pocket Edition, in paper cover	1s. od.
„ „ bound in scarlet cloth	2s. od.
Super-royal octavo, in paper cover	2s. od.
„ „ bound in scarlet cloth	4s. od.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

TENOR WANTED for St. Peter's, Lordship Lane (L. C. and D. Railway). Two Services on Sunday, and Friday evening practice. Services and Anthems. Salary, £15 per annum. Apply by letter only to R. D., care of Messrs. Ashdown and Parry, 19, Hanover Square, W.

TENOR WANTED.—Duties, two services on Sunday and rehearsal on Wednesday evening. Candidates must be able to read fairly and be qualified to take solo and verse parts in services and anthems. Stipend, £12. Apply to Rev. W. G. Martin, Asylum Road, Old Kent Road.

WANTED, for a City Church, TWO TENORS and TWO BASSES. Services, Sunday morning and evening. Rehearsal, Thursday evening. Music, Anglican. Salary, £10 each. Also a good ALTO. Apply to Mr. G. J. Entwistle, 4, St. Anne's Lane, E.C.

WANTED for the Choir of St. Stephen's, Avenue Road, Regent's Park, a TENOR; salary, £12. Also two leading TREBLES who can read music well; salary, £5. Send full particulars to Churchwarden, 35, Regent's Park Road, N.W.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS AMY EMPSALL (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 17, Cliffe Terrace, Bradford.

MISS FLORENCE CLYDE (Soprano).

For Opera, Oratorio, and Concerts, 24, Watterton Road, W.

MRS. WARREN (Soprano).

Of Mr. C. Hallé's Concerts. For Oratorio or other Concerts, address, 150, Radnor Street, Hulme, Manchester.
Lessons in Singing. References—C. Hallé, Esq., and E. Hecht, Esq.

MRS. ALFRED J. SUTTON (Soprano)

Is open to engagements for Concerts and Oratorios.
54, Duchess Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

MISS M. B. CRICHTON (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 2, Hallfield Place, Bradford.

MISS RUTH HARLOW (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Mr. E. Hermann, Athenæum, Manchester.

MISS LOUISA BOWMONT (Contralto)

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 51, Mercer Street, Embden Street, Hulme.

MISS EMILY EMPSALL (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 16, High Street, Halifax.

MR. WELBYE WALLACE (Tenor)

(Of the Crystal Palace, and Gentlemen's Concerts, Manchester, &c. &c.), having returned from abroad, is free to accept engagements for Concerts, Opera, or Oratorio. All communications to be addressed (care of) Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

MR. VERNEY BINNS (Tenor)

(Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Sig. Ciro Pinsuti).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 6, New Bond Street, Halifax.

MR. DUNCAN FINLAY (Tenor).

Opera, Oratorio, and Concert Party, 24, Watterton Road, W.

MR. GREENHILL (Tenor).

For Concerts, Pupils, &c., 7, Alma Square, St. John's Wood.

MR. HENRY POPE (Basso).

9, Malden Crescent, N.W.

MR. A. McCALL (Bass).

For Oratorios and Concerts, address, Minster, York.

MR. RICKARD (Bass)

(Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Signor Ciro Pinsuti).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address, King Cross, Halifax, Yorkshire.

MR. THORNTON WOOD (Bass)

(Of the Royal Albert Hall Concerts). For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 2, Hallfield Place, Bradford, Yorkshire.

MR. ADOLPHUS PHILLIPS (Basso)

(Of the Cathedral, Lincoln).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 92, Newland, Lincoln.

MR. CHARLES SEYMOUR (Bass)

(Pupil of T. A. Wallworth, Esq.).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Snells Park, Edmonton.

ALBERT E. BISHOP

(Organ, Harmony, and Counterpoint).
Address, 26, Wilson Street, E.C.

MR. CH. J. BISHENDEN

(Author of "How to Sing," &c.).

For Concerts and Pupils, 4, Mortimer Street, Cavendish Square, London, W.

ALL SAINTS', MARGARET STREET.—There is a VACANCY in the Choir of this Church for a BASS VOICE (Baritone preferred); good reader indispensable; salary, £25. Duties, two services on Sundays, Christmas Day, and Good Friday, and a weekly rehearsal; ros. 6d. allowed for each special day's services. Address, Mr. W. S. Hoyte, 68, Boundary Road, St. John's Wood, N.W.

SOLO BASS.—WANTED an APPOINTMENT in a Choir or Professional Quartett. First-class testimonials. Not less than £20 per annum. Address, Mr. Fredericks, 21, Blenheim Crescent, Notting Hill, W.

HOLY TRINITY CHURCH, TULSE HILL, S.W.—Additional VOICES are required for the Voluntary Surpliced Choir of this Church. Two services on Sundays and one weekly rehearsal. Cathedral service. Apply to the Director of the Choir, Humphrey J. Stark, Mus. B., Oxon., 7, Thurlow Terrace, Lower Norwood, S.E.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—A Professional Gentleman requires a RE-ENGAGEMENT as above. Address, H. J. Dean, 2, Blomfield Street, Finsbury, E.C.

ORGANIST.—WANTED, for the Church of SS. Philip and James, Booterstown, Co. Dublin, a thoroughly qualified ORGANIST, and competent to instruct a Choir. Booterstown is situate three miles, or fifteen minutes by rail, from Dublin. Answer, stating terms, qualifications, and references, to the Incumbent, Booterstown Parsonage, Blackrock, Co. Dublin.

ORGANIST WANTED for St. Saviour's, Dalston Lane, N.E. Duties, two Sunday services and a weekly choir practice. Salary, £30. Apply, in the first instance, by letter to Mr. R. La Thangue, 60, Colveston Crescent, St. Mark's Square, Dalston.

ORGANIST REQUIRED to Co-operate with a Minister in Congregational Psalmody. Free use of an excellent instrument. Apply to Rev. W. Sanders, 5, Percy Road, Shepherd's Bush, W.

WANTED an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER for the Parish Church of Tavistock. To commence duty early in August. Salary, £60. Fine church; large organ. Excellent opening for a good musician. Applications, with testimonials, to be addressed not later than June 20, to The Vicar of Tavistock.

GLOUCESTER COUNTY ASYLUM, near Gloucester.—WANTED an ATTENDANT to act as ORGANIST and SCHOOLMASTER. Wages, £30 per annum. Must be able to take a plain service in the chapel, also to teach to read and write a few of the imbeciles.

MALE ATTENDANTS also required. Musicians preferred. Wages commence at £24 per annum, with board, lodging, washing, and uniform in either case.

Applications, stating age, whether married or single, with testimonials, to be sent to Mr. E. Toller, Superintendent, at the Asylum. May 1877. BENJAMIN SHADGETT, Clerk.

ORGANIST WANTED at Hastings. Choral Services. Gregorians. Salary small, but fair position for private tuition. Incumbent, Whiteman's Library, Hastings.

ORGANIST WANTED for S. Peter's, Bedford. Good opening for a man of ability with some means. Apply to the Rector.

ASSISTANT ORGANIST.—WANTED, by a German Gentleman, a SITUATION as above. Centre or North of London preferred. Address, B, 13, Tysoe Street, Clerkenwell, W.C.

AS ORGANIST or ASSISTANT ORGANIST in London.—SITUATION as above WANTED by a YOUNG GENTLEMAN accustomed to choral service. Three years' experience. Apply, G. B., 20, Blenheim Terrace, St. John's Wood, N.W.

MR. F. W. PARTRIDGE having resigned the appointment of Organist of St. Andrew's, Tavistock Place, is at liberty to ACCEPT another ENGAGEMENT in town or suburbs. Address, 63, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square.

AN ORGANIST SEEKS an ENGAGEMENT. Testimonials for 20 years. Address, G. Pritchard, 20, Manchester Walk, Cheltenham.

CHOIRMASTER and ORGANIST, of many years' Cathedral experience, is OPEN to ENGAGEMENT. High testimonials as to efficiency, with references. Address, Organo, 41, Millbrook Road, Brixton, S.W.

ORGANIST.—The Advertiser would take a PERMANENT APPOINTMENT, or act as deputy. Address, Delta, Novello's, Queen Street, E.C.

MR. C. J. TUGWELL having resigned his present appointment at Caterham is desirous of an ENGAGEMENT as ORGANIST. Address, The Valley, Caterham.

AN ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER of some years' experience, who has had great success in Choir-training, will shortly be OPEN to an ENGAGEMENT in or near London. The highest testimonials and references. A choral service and good organ desired. Address, A. C., care of Messrs. Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

A CLERGYMAN'S SON wishing to enter the Musical Profession requires a post as ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER in a neighbourhood where there would be good opportunities for teaching; is accustomed to full choral service, and could train a choir if necessary. Good salary indispensable; the south preferred; excellent testimonials. Address "Organist," care of Mr. R. Swainston, 12 and 14, Corporation Street, Manchester.

ORGANIST.—A first-class ORGANIST and popular COMPOSER will shortly be at liberty to accept an appointment in or near London. Accustomed to Anglican or Gregorian Service, and has had large experience in teaching choirs and solo singing. Apply to J. S., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street.

AN ORGANIST of a London church seeks an APPOINTMENT in the country. Fifteen years' experience, and possesses high testimonials. Address, E. W., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE ASSISTANT ORGANIST, Christchurch, Westminster, DESIRES RE-ENGAGEMENT. A. B., 41, Tachbrook Street, S.W.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.

Incorporated by Special Charter.

DEPARTMENT OF EVENING CLASSES.

A NEW TERM will be commenced on MONDAY, MAY 28. New Students can be received on that day, or on the following Monday, June 4.

The Classes embrace the following subjects: Harmony, Counterpoint and Fugue, Musical Form, Instrumentation, Musical History, Singing (Solo and Class), Organ. Also Latin, Greek, French, German, Mathematics, and Natural Science.

Further particulars may be had on application to the undersigned, at the College, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W. (a few minutes from Oxford Circus and the Metropolitan Railway).

J. W. HINTON, M.A., Mus. D., Hon. Sec.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.—The EXAMINATIONS for the higher DIPLOMAS IN MUSIC will be held simultaneously in London, Manchester, and Dublin, on Thursday and Friday, July 5 and 6. The usual HARMONY PRIZE of Two Guineas will be offered. Candidates for Licentiatehip must send in their Exercises by June 11, and the Names and Entrance Fees of all Candidates must be sent by June 30, to the Registrar, at the College, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, London, W.

The LOCAL EXAMINATIONS in Elementary Musical Knowledge will be held on Friday, June 15. Names of intending Candidates should be sent in immediately.

HUMPHREY J. STARK, Mus. B., Hon. Registrar.

TRINITY COLLEGE HARMONY CLASS.—

The Professor of Harmony conducts his class on Monday Evenings at 7. Students received at any time. Fee, One Guinea per Term.—Apply at the College, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W.

TRINITY COLLEGE COUNTERPOINT CLASS.

—The Professor of Counterpoint and Fugue, J. GORDON SAUNDERS, Mus. B., will resume the above Class on Monday Evening, May 28, and every succeeding Monday at 8 p.m. Fee, One Guinea per Term.—Apply at the College, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W.

TRINITY COLLEGE CLASS FOR MUSICAL

FORM, &c.—A Class will be commenced with the new Term in the above subject, and in INSTRUMENTATION, by the Professor of Form, EDWIN M. LOTT, L. Mus., &c. Fee, One Guinea per Term.—Apply at the College, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place.

TRINITY COLLEGE CLASSES FOR SOLO

SINGERS.—The Professor of Singing, J. W. HINTON, M.A., Mus. D., will resume his Classes on May 28.—Apply at the College, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.—A CLASS for the STUDY OF REFINEMENT AND FINISH IN PIANOFORTE PLAYING will shortly be formed under the direction of BRADBURY TURNER, Mus. B., Mem. Roy. Acad. Mus., &c. Fee, One Guinea to Students in Theory Classes; Non-Students, Two Guineas.—Apply at the College, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.—A HARMONY CLASS for LADIES will be conducted by HUMPHREY

J. STARK, Mus. B. Fee, One Guinea per Term.—Apply at the College, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.—MANCHESTER BRANCH.—The Classes at this Branch are continued

under the direction of the following Professors: Harmony, J. KENDRICK PYNE, Organist of Manchester Cathedral; Counterpoint and Fugue, J. M. BENTLEY, Mus. B.—For particulars apply to the Secretary, the Rev. J. CATER, at the Branch, 18, St. Ann's Street, Manchester.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.—HONORARY

MEMBERSHIP.—The Printed Regulations of Hon. Membership of the College are now ready, and may be had of the Assistant Secretary, at the College, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W.

MR. HUMPHREY J. STARK, Mus. B., Oxon.,

F.C.O., L. Mus., and Hon. Registrar of Trinity College, London, undertakes to prepare candidates for Musical Examinations, and to give Lessons in Harmony and Composition by post. 7, Thurlow Terrace, Lower Norwood, S.E.; or 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W.

MR. HUMPHREY J. STARK receives PUPILS for HARMONY and COMPOSITION at 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W. For information as to days of attendance, terms, &c., address as above, or 7, Thurlow Terrace, S.E.

MR. E. W. TAYLOR, Mus. Bac., Oxon, &c.,

PREPARES CANDIDATES for Musical Examinations; also gives lessons in Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., by post. Talbot Road, Stafford.

MUSICAL DEGREES and EXAMINATIONS.—

J. W. HINTON, Mus. Doc., M.A., Trinity College, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W., prepares candidates for Mus. B. or Mus. D., of Oxford, Cambridge, or Dublin, in all branches they may require. Dr. H. continues to revise or orchestrate for composers. Harmony and Counterpoint by post if required.

TO ORGANISTS, CLERGYMEN, &c.—A Gentleman is OPEN to ENGAGEMENTS as DEPUTY. Town or Country. Organist, care of Wensley and Wensley, 181, Fleet Street.

AN ORGANIST (Mus. B., Cantab.) DESIRES RE-ENGAGEMENT in London, where the duty does not exceed one weekly practice in addition to services on Sundays, Christmas Day, Ascension Day, &c. Liberal salary required. Highest references, including Sir George Elvey, &c. Address, L. J., care of Messrs. Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

A COMMUNICANT desires an APPOINTMENT as ORGANIST. Address, C. H. V., 42, Lambeth Walk, S.E.

ORGANIST.—A Gentleman, twenty-nine, who is a brilliant player and thoroughly experienced as a choir-master and teacher, with energy, tact, and excellent testimonials, is OPEN to ENGAGEMENT, either in England or the Colonies. A. B. C. D., John Beal and Co., 55, East Street, Brighton.

ORGANIST.—An experienced Organist, with excellent testimonials, DESIRES a RE-ENGAGEMENT, permanent or to deputise. Anglican service. In or near London. Organist, 9, Western Road, Brixton, S.W.

AN Experienced CHOIRMASTER DESIRES an additional ENGAGEMENT. Salary, £20. Address, W. D. L., care of Messrs. Davis, stationers, 270, Fulham Road, S.W.

A PROFESSIONAL LADY (Pianist), highly recommended, is OPEN to any ENGAGEMENTS, Morning or Evening. Address, Madame Marie Angelo, 24, Sloane Street, Lowndes Square, S.W.

MUSIC-MASTER, Experienced, WANTED for LADIES' BOARDING SCHOOL (Scotland) in August. Requirements: First-class piano, singing, and harmony. Organist preferred. Applications, with testimonials and references, addressed to B. P., Cocks and Co., New Burlington Street, Regent Street, W.

WANTED, for the Kaffrarian Collegiate Girls' School, King William's Town, South Africa, a LADY, competent to give thorough instruction in Vocal and Pianoforte Music. Salary, £80 per annum, with board, lodging, and washing. Passage paid. Further particulars may be obtained from the Rev. G. O. Bate, Training College, Westminster, S.W., to whom applications (stating age), with testimonials as to qualifications, Christian character, &c., may be addressed.

A ROYAL ACADEMICIAN, possessing a first-class voice (Soprano) and considerable musical talent, is OPEN to ENGAGEMENTS. For cards, &c., address Soprano, Mr. Cockhead, Bookseller, 94, Norfolk Terrace, Bayswater, W.

SECRETARY.—Advertiser, possessed of fair musical and business capabilities, having much spare time, wishes for an opportunity of making himself generally useful to a member of the profession. S. B., 13, Elliott Road, Stockwell, S.W.

TO ORGAN-BUILDERS.—WANTED, a SITUATION as CLERK or otherwise. Age 18. Z., George Young, 6, Harp Lane, E.C.

DR. SLOMAN gives LESSONS to CANDIDATES preparing for Musical Degrees. Grassendale, West Dulwich, S.E.

A GENTLEMAN is desirous of giving LESSONS by post in HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT. References from present pupils, if desired. Terms very moderate. Address Magister, Musical Times Office, 1, Berners Street, London, W.

MR. JOHN HILES, 41, Aldridge Road Villas, W. (Author of the "Catechism of Harmony, Thorough-bass, and Modulation," "Hiles' Short Voluntaries," "Catechism for the Pianoforte Student," and several other important musical works), gives Lessons in Harmony, &c., by post.

TO STUDENTS.—The Organist of Ripon Cathedral teaches HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT by Correspondence. For terms, address, Edwin J. Crow, Mus. Bac., Cantab., Organist of St. John's.

MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS.—CANDIDATES TRAINED for Examinations, either personally or by correspondence. Dr. Holloway, F.C.O., 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

TO COMPOSERS.—Dr. HOLLOWAY continues to Revise and Arrange every description of Music for Publication. Students prepared for the profession or for examinations. If residing at a distance, lessons can be had by post. Faults pointed out, and every information given to the young aspirant. Dr. Holloway, 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

MR. DONALD W. KING and Miss JANET KING beg to inform their pupils and friends that they have REMOVED from Woburn Place to Cumberland Villa, Cavendish Road, Kilburn, N.W.

MR. CHARLES JOSEPH FROST begs to inform his pupils and friends that he has REMOVED to 73, Farleigh Road, Stoke Newington, N. Red trams direct from Moorgate Street. Nearest station, Rectory Road.

COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.—No Composition having been deemed worthy of the Prize at the recent Competition for the Meadowcroft Memorial Prize, the Competition will be immediately REOPENED. MSS., distinguished in each case by a motto or device, and accompanied by a sealed letter similarly endorsed containing the real name and address of the composer, must be sent in on or before July 31st. Conditions may be had on application.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

41, Queen Square, Bloomsbury.

LADIES' SCHOOL, KETTERING, NORTHAMPTONSHIRE.

MISS BLUNT (assisted by Resident Governesses and Visiting Masters) RECEIVES YOUNG LADIES to BOARD and EDUCATE on moderate terms. Piano, Harmonium, and Singing, Mr. Brook Sampson, Mus. Bacc., Oxon.—An Articled Pupil required after the Midsummer vacation.

LONDON ORGAN SCHOOL and INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC. (Established, 1865.) Central offices, 13, Vigo Street, Regent Street. Pianoforte and Harmony lessons (elementary and advanced) by Messrs. G. S. Löhr, Brownlow-Baker, Antoine, and Scotson Clark. Violin, Herr Kummer; Singing, Signor Zuccardi and Madame Serings; Cello, Herr Lutjen; Flute, H. Tuddenham. German, Dr. Fischardt; French, Monsieur Mattieu. Fee, £2 2s. per course. Prospectus for one stamp.

SCOTSON CLARK, Mus. B., Principal.

PROFESSIONAL STUDENTS of SINGING may obtain GRATUITOUS INSTRUCTION in return for Assistance at Popular Concerts. Apply to X. Q., Beeching's Library, Upper Baker Street.

TO LADY PROFESSORS of MUSIC.—A Lady well known in the musical world is about to retire from the profession, and WISHES to INTRODUCE a well-educated Gentlewoman to her pupils. Successor must be certificated, and thoroughly competent to teach Advanced Pianoforte pupils and Theory classes. (Singing advisable.) Small premium required. Harmonia, Messrs. Novello, Ewer, and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

A GENTLEMAN (30) who is a brilliant player upon the organ and piano, a sound musician, and an experienced teacher and conductor, DESIRES an INTRODUCTION, by purchase or otherwise, to a high-class connection, either in London or a good provincial town. Very highest recommendations will be given. Graduate, Messrs. Cramer and Co., West Street, Brighton.

TO COMPOSERS.—The Advertiser, knowing from experience that Composers have considerable difficulty in finding suitable verses for their music, will be glad to WRITE WORDS for any MS. Songs. Address, A., Vicarage, Twickenham.

TO AMATEUR COMPOSERS.—MSS. REVISED for PUBLICATION, and Lessons in Composition, by post, by W. H. GILL, Sidcup, Kent.

ORGAN PRACTICE (with or without Lessons) on an excellent instrument of three manuals and pedals by Messrs. Jardine and Co., at Mr. E. Hilton's Studio, Royal Exchange, Manchester. (Top of staircase, corner of Cross Street and Bank Street.) Organ, Pianoforte, and Singing Lessons.

ORGAN LESSONS and PRACTICE on a fine new Instrument, with 2 manuals, 15 stops, 24 octaves of pedals, with bourdons throughout. Terms moderate. Allen's Musical Instrument Warehouse, 17, Percy Street, Bedford Square, W. Lessons and Practice on other Instruments also.

ORGAN PRACTICE or INSTRUCTION.—Three Manuals, each of 56 notes, pedal organ, 30 notes, 17 effective stops, and blown by Lea's Automatic Hydraulic Engine. Terms, which are strictly inclusive, on application at Blennerhasset's Organ School and Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, Pentonville, W.C.

ORGAN STUDIO, 140 (late 166), STRAND (opposite the Gaiety).—LESSONS or PRACTICE (and at St. Michael's, Stockwell, S.W.) on fine two-manual C ORGANS (HILL and Son).—Full pedal compass.—W. VENNING SOUTHGATE (Organist, St. Michael's, Stockwell), "The Strand Organ Studio," W.C. Established, 1867.

MRS. OSGOOD requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Oratorios and Miscellaneous Concerts may be addressed to Mr. N. Vert, 52, New Bond Street, W.

TO be LET, a capital Corner HOUSE and SHOP, five miles from London Bridge. Forty-nine feet frontage. Length of shop, 30 feet; width, 13. Now occupied as a Pianoforte and Harmonium Warehouse. An excellent opening for a teacher and tuner. The house contains seven rooms, kitchen, &c., with private entrance. Rent, £55; private part now let for £44. Further particulars of M. D. L., care of Mr. Turner, 1A, Leadenhall Street, City.

WANTED, by a young Lady (good pianist and reader at sight), a RE-ENGAGEMENT in a PIANOFORTE and MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Has had experience, and can give excellent references. E. W. M., 1, Berners Street, London.

MR. STEDMAN'S CONCERT PARTIES for Oratorio and Miscellaneous Concerts, Institutions, Evening Parties, Soirées, &c. &c.

MADE UP FROM THE MOST EMINENT ARTISTS, AND INCLUDING: Miss Annie Sinclair, Miss Anna Williams, Miss Mary Davies, Miss Matilda Scott, M^{me}. Worrell-Duval, Miss Jessie Royd, M^{me}. Hugo, M^{me}. Poole, Miss Helen D'Alton, Miss Annie Butterworth, Miss Helen Arnim, Miss Dones, Miss Gill, M^{me}. Osborne Williams, Mr. Stedman, Mr. Kenningham, Mr. J. L. Wadmore, Mr. George Fox, Mr. Thurley Beale, Mr. King Hall, Mr. Russell Lochner, Mr. Henry Parker, &c. &c.

THE STANDARD QUARTETT—Messrs. Hodges, Stedman, Charles Beckett, and Thurley Beale. For terms and particulars address, Mr. STEDMAN, 1, Berners Street, W.

ESTABLISHED, APRIL 1866.

THE ENGLISH GLEE UNION.

Mr. H. ASHTON, Mr. F. H. COZENS,

Mr. FOUNTAIN MEEN, Mr. ALBERT HUBBARD,

ASSISTED BY

Madame ASHTON.

For terms, &c., address, H. Ashton, Secretary, Ivy House, Stamford Hill, London, N.

TO ORGAN-BUILDERS.—WANTED first-class WORKMEN (inside hands). Apply to Mr. J. Porritt, Organ-Builders, Leicester.

TO PIANOFORTE TUNERS.—A skilful and experienced Hand WANTED, as indoor Tuner and Toner. Salary according to ability, from 40s. to 60s. per week. Apply to Challen and Hodgson, 20, Oxford Street.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED for a Music Warehouse in Edinburgh. Must be thoroughly experienced and about 30 years of age. He will have to tune in town and country as required. State salary, with references, K., care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED a YOUNG MAN skilful in General Repairs of Pianofortes, Harmoniums, American Organs, and some knowledge of Tuning. Apply, stating particulars of age, experience, and wages required, to W. Hickie, County Music Warehouse, Reading, Berks.

TUNER WANTED with a knowledge of repairing and harmonium work. Good references indispensable. Thompson and Shackell, 14, High Street, Swansea.

WANTED an ASSISTANT for the SHEET MUSIC DEPARTMENT in a Music Warehouse in the country. Address, Mr. Binney, care of Messrs. Forsyth Brothers, 272A, Regent Circus, Oxford Street, London.

WANTED, ASSISTANT and TUNER for Music Warehouse in the North. A moderate pianist preferred. Advantages offered for the study and practice of the organ. F. G., MUSICAL TIMES Office.

TO BOOKSELLERS' ASSISTANTS.—WANTED a thoroughly competent ASSISTANT in the Sheet Music Department. Address, with full particulars, to John Heywood, 143, Deansgate, Manchester.

PIANOFORTE TUNER and REGULATOR is OPEN to a RE-ENGAGEMENT; capable of undertaking any repair. M. W., 125, Bath Row, Birmingham.

WANTED a SITUATION as good ROUGH PIANOFORTE TUNER. Factory experience; small salary; good reference. A. J. H., 49, Charlotte Street, Caledonian Road.

WANTED a SITUATION as PIANOFORTE TUNER and REPAIRER where he could improve on the piano and violin. Has had some experience in a London factory in the tuning and repairing. Address, J. C. P., 9, Bridge Street, Wisbeach, Cambridgeshire.

A PIANOFORTE TUNER, and Repairer also of American Organs and Harmoniums, WISHES an ENGAGEMENT. Address, R. H., care of Messrs. Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER.—A First-class Man is OPEN to ENGAGEMENTS three or four days per week. Excellent references. Address, Tuner, 46, Chalk Farm Road, London, N.W.

WANTED by a Young Man a SITUATION in a PIANOFORTE and MUSIC WAREHOUSE, where he can improve himself in tuning. Address, C. I. L., 132, Armagh Road, Bow.

ADVERTISER (19) SEEKS SITUATION in a MUSIC BUSINESS or Organ or Instrument Factory, where he would have good chance to learn. 24, Lord Street, Wolverhampton.

REQUIRED by a Young Lady a SITUATION in a MUSIC ESTABLISHMENT. She is a good player, and accustomed to the sale of music. Address, F. W., 10, Abbey Mead, Tavistock, Devonshire.

ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS.

W. HATTERSLEY & CO.'S

CELEBRATED

ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS

UNEQUALLED BY ANY OTHER MAKERS.

These ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS stand FIRST among any such instruments for

QUALITY OF TONE, DURABILITY, RAPIDITY OF TOUCH, PREDOMINANCE OF THE TREBLE OVER THE BASS,
PERFECT ACTION,
BRILLIANCY OF THE SOLO STOPS, NEWLY INVENTED
DOUBLE ACTION, SOLID IMPROVED SOUND-BOARD, AND DOUBLE EFFECTIVE SWELLS.

List of Prices and Books of Designs, and upwards of 300 Testimonials from all parts of the globe, to be had post-free.

W. HATTERSLEY & CO.,

10, 12, & 14, Bow Street, Sheffield.

N.B.—These Harmoniums are 20 per cent. cheaper than any other house, and a far superior tone.

GENTLEMEN,—The Harmonium gives the greatest satisfaction, and is really the best instrument I have fallen in with.—Yours truly,
W. P. M. SLATER.
39, Franklin Street, South Shields, May 6, 1876.

GENTLEMEN,—By a mistake in the address the Harmonium was left at a wayside station, so that I did not get it here till last night; however, it is uninjured and gives me every satisfaction. Its tone and workmanship are admirable, and in rapidity of touch it is quite equal to a large Alexandre Percussion instrument, on which I sometimes play. I shall always be glad to recommend your Harmoniums.—Believe me, faithfully yours,

W. F. ASHBRIDGE, M.A., Curate of Bessingby.

Bessingby Road, Bridlington, Dec. 15, 1876.

Mr. J. M. Boulard, Manager of the Alleghenians, Vocalists and Bell Players.

DEAR SIR,—The Harmonium you made for me in travelling case answers our purpose exceedingly well, and my company are all delighted with it.—Yours truly,
J. M. BOULARD.
Sept. 16, 1876.

GENTLEMEN,—Kindly find cheque for the Harmonium to hand. I may add that our people are very much pleased with the instrument. It is a little gem.—Yours faithfully,
J. W. H. WOOD.
Shirland and Higham School Board, Shirland, near Alfreton,
Feb. 2, 1877.

DEAR SIR,—The Harmonium arrived here yesterday. I am much pleased with it, and it is a very pretty, nice-looking instrument.—Yours truly,
DAVID BRUCE.
Merrington Vicarage, Terry Hill, Dec. 10, 1875.

GENTLEMEN,—The Harmonium arrived here in capital condition last week. I am very pleased with it. The tone is exceedingly sweet and pleasing. All who have seen it here like it very much.—Yours faithfully,
H. K. HOLME.
Montserrat, West Indies, Aug. 11, 1876.

LONDON AGENTS,

MESSRS. MOUTRIE AND SON,

PIANOFORTE SALOON,

55, BAKER STREET, LONDON, W.

MR. J. HAMILTON begs to inform Organists, Organ Students, and others that the Pedals and Action for attachment to Pianofortes manufactured by him can be inspected and ordered at the above address.

A set of Straight Pedals 30 notes (C to F), with action and printed instructions, "How to Attach," price £4 4s. Or Radiating and Concave Pedal Board, with action, price £5 5s.

TESTIMONIAL.

"148, Finborough Road, South Kensington, London,

"March 12th, 1877.

"Dear Sir,—After more than six months' test of the Pedals and Action I purchased of you, you will be glad to hear that they act admirably; their noiseless action and simple attachment being not their least recommendation.

"I am, dear Sir, yours faithfully,

"ALFRED J. WHITEHOUSE,

"Organist of Belgrave Church, Belgravia.

"To Mr. J. Hamilton, Bristol."

Orders accompanied with Cheque or P.O. Order will receive immediate attention. Send for prices to the Profession and Trade.
Address, J. HAMILTON, 11, Brunswick Street, City Road, Bristol.

CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION.

NOTICE.

A PRIZE MEDAL of the FIRST RANK was awarded at Philadelphia, 1876, to

PELOUBET, PELTON & Co.,
NEW YORK,

FOR THE GENERAL EXCELLENCE OF THEIR

"STANDARD"

AMERICAN ORGANS.

PRICES, 12 TO 125 GUINEAS.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE to be had on application to

BARNETT SAMUEL & SON,

31, HOUNDSDITCH, E.C., & 32, WORSHIP STREET,
FINSBURY SQUARE,

Sole Agents for the United Kingdom and British Colonies.

A LIBERAL DISCOUNT ALLOWED TO THE TRADE.

"A supreme and perfect harmony of notes."

E. & W. SNELL'S
IMPROVED ENGLISH HARMONIUMS
AND REED ORGANS

Are pronounced by the Profession and Public

THE BEST AND CHEAPEST EXTANT.

MANUFACTORY—LITTLE KING STREET NORTH, CAMDEN
TOWN, LONDON, N.W.

Trade supplied.

HIGHEST CLASS OF EXCELLENCE.

MILLEREAU'S BAND INSTRUMENTS
FOR ARTISTS.BOEHM AND ENGLISH CLARINETS, CONSERVATOIRE AND BOEHM OBOES, CORNET-A-PISTONS, CYLINDRICAL BOEHM FLUTES, &c.

Priced Catalogue and Designs free to any part of the world.

PARIS. 29, RUE DES TROIS BORNES. FRANCE.

THE GUSTAVE MODEL LIBRARY REED
ORGAN. Unexcelled for purity of tone and brilliancy; 10 stops and improved knee swell; elegantly carved black walnut case, ebonised mouldings. 30 guineas. Sole Proprietor, S. ANGUS COWDY, 13, Lorrimer Square, London, S.E. Agents wanted.

EAST LONDON ORGAN WORKS,
9, Burdett Road, Mile End, E.—E. CORDER is prepared to send Specifications for building Organs of very superior materials and workmanship. Alterations, rebuilding, and repairs. First-class workmen sent to all parts on very moderate terms. Tuning, &c. Second-hand ORGANS for SALE.

ORGANS for Church or Chamber, full, rich tone, from 35 guineas. ORGAN HARMONIUMS, with 1 or 2 manuals, full compass of pedals, from 25 to 54 guineas, invaluable for Teaching or Organ Practice. SPRAGUE'S Celebrated ORGAN-TONE HARMONIUMS, 6 guineas; best in the trade.—William Sprague, 7, Finsbury Pavement, London.

A. MONK'S 100-Guinea ORGANS, 2 CC Manuals, 16 stops. Bourdon pedal pipes, 10 stops. 200-guinea Organs, 2 manuals, 16 stops. 300-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 21 stops. 400-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 27 stops. Organs built to any design. Old Organs rebuilt. Additions, Repairs, Tunings, &c. Specifications and Estimates free. Sussex Terrace, King's Road, Camden Town, London.

DEAN'S CHEAP MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.
School Band Flutes from 3s. 6d.; 8-Key Concert Flutes, 25s.; Cornets in case, 30s.; Drums, Tambourines, Banjos, and every article in the trade. A good Violin, with Bow and Book, in case, 20s. English, Roman, and Acrobatic Violin Strings—5 best frsts, warranted to stand at concert pitch, sent free for 13 stamps. Price Lists sent free. Joseph Dean, Music Warehouse, 77, City Road, E.C.

DEBAIN'S HARMONIUMS, ORGANO-PHONES, PIANOS, &c. &c. New lists are now ready, and will be forwarded, post-free, on receipt of card. Debain & Co., 357, Oxford Street, London, W.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications made out for Organs. Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing, and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. Willis, 29, Minories, London.

ORGAN METAL PIPES.—ORGAN METAL PIPES.—J. Gildersleeve is PREPARED to SUPPLY, in any quantity, the ABOVE at prices to be obtained on application to the Malvern Organ Works, 7, Exeter Street, Kentish Town Road, N.W.

STUTTGART HARMONIUM COMPANY.—LEOPOLD KAHN, Stuttgart, Germany. Price Lists on application to ALPHONSE CARY, Sole Representative, 26, Fortess Terrace, Kentish Town, N.W.; close to Kentish Town Station. Inspection solicited.

BRASS, REED, STRING, and DRUM and FIFE BANDS, PIANOFORTES and HARMONIUMS, supplied at wholesale prices, at J. Moore's, Buxton Road, Huddersfield. Prices, with drawings of every instrument, post-free. Music for any kind of band. Patronised by the army, navy, and rifle corps.

T. R. WILLIS (established, 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Music Strings, Wire, &c., Violins, Concertinas, &c. 29, Minories, London. List for stamp.

RUSSELL'S MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS. CONCERTINAS, Harmoniums, Organ Accordions, Flutinas, Drums, Fifes, Flutes, Violins, Cornets, Saxhorns, Clarionets, Flageolets, Guitars, Banjos, Musical Boxes, Strings, &c. Self-instruction Books. Instruments repaired or exchanged. Price Lists free. J. Russell, 158, Goswell Road, Clerkenwell, London.

VERTICAL IRON FRAME PIANOFORTES.—STRUNG UPON A SINGLE CASTING.

CHECK ACTION. Trichord to Covered Strings. Compensating for thermometric changes. Irreproachable stability of construction. Highly important to the Trade, especially in the Colonies. Full particulars from the makers, PARKER & SMITH, Plymouth. Good Workmen Wanted. Constant employment. Expense of living 20 per cent. less than in London.

SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS.—New Model by Kaps, of Dresden.—This instrument is an improvement on the original Short Grand now so well known. The volume and brilliancy of tone is much increased; it has an unflinching repetition action, and will compare favourably with much larger and more costly instruments. May be purchased wholesale and retail or hired at the original Depot, 26, North Audley Street, W. Proprietor, C. E. FLAVELL.

TO SELL MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS of every description, also Libraries of Music, Music Plates and Copyrights, Stock-in-Trade, &c., SALE (devoted exclusively to this class of property) held every month. Single instruments inserted. Consignments received at any time. Puttick and Simpson, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C. [Established, 1794.]

SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES.—150 by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, Allison, &c., from 4 guineas upwards. HARMONIUMS (New), from £5, in Walnut or Mahogany cases. Largest stock of Pianos and Harmoniums in London at Kelly and Co.'s, 11, Charles Street, Middlesex Hospital. Trade supplied.

SECOND-HAND AND NEW PIANOFORTES, &c. ABOUT 130, by the most eminent LONDON and EUROPEAN MANUFACTURERS; also, sundry Goods and Articles connected with the Music Trade, being the UNREDEEMED PLEDGES and SURPLUS STOCKS consigned for immediate Sale, to be SOLD by Messrs. KELLY and CO., 11, Charles Street, Berners Street, London, W. Catalogues post-free on application.

12s. WORTH of MUSIC for One Shilling, post free for fifteen stamps, soiled and surplus stock. James Smith and Son, 76, 74, and 72, Lord Street, Liverpool.

ACCURATE METRONOMES, 1s., post-free. Rudiments of Singing, 1s. per dozen. Singing Class Tutor, 12th ed., 6d. each. D. Scholefield, Trinity Street, Huddersfield.

THROAT IRRITATION.—The throat and wind-pipe are especially liable to inflammation, causing soreness and dryness, tickling and irritation, inducing cough and affecting the voice. For these symptoms use glycerine in the form of jujubes. Glycerine, in these agreeable confections, being in proximity to the glands at the moment they are excited by the act of sucking, becomes actively healing. Sold only in 6d. and 1s. boxes (by post for 14 stamps), labelled JAMES EPPS & Co., Homoeopathic Chemists, 43, Thread-needle Street, and 170, Piccadilly.

VIOLINS, TENORS, VIOLONCELLOS, and DOUBLE BASSES, by "Craske," equal to Stradivarius and Guarnerius.

Upwards of 500 of these splendid Instruments now on Sale at Edward Crompton's, 54, Barton Arcade, Deansgate, Manchester (3rd floor), many of which have been made 50 years. Also a large collection of Italian Instruments.

VIOLINS, VIOLAS, VIOLONCELLOS, &c.—JOHNSON HICKS, Dealer in, and careful Repairer of, "CREMONA" and other Violins, &c.—Brunswick House, Torquay, Devon.

TO VIOLINISTS.—The COLLIN-MEZIN ARTISTS' MODEL (pronounced by the leading Continental Violinists and the Professors at the Paris Conservatoire to be the finest modern violin made) can be obtained through any music-seller, or direct from the Sole Agent,

ALPHONSE CARY,
Manufacturer and Importer of Pianofortes, Harmoniums, Violin Strings, &c.,

26, Fortess Terrace, Kentish Town, N.W.
Three first violin strings E (finest Roman imported) sent as sample, post-free, for 13 stamps.

TO be SOLD, the COPYRIGHT of a new SET OF WALTZES for PIANO, already published, and about to enter the Third Edition. Considered by the Press to be "strikingly original," "time admirable for dancing," "sure to become a general favourite," &c. &c. Intending purchasers can satisfy themselves by sending for a copy on approval. Address O. T. C., "The Musical Times" Office.

W. G. HALLIFAX & CO., 315, Oxford Street, W. W., ENGRAVE and PRINT AUTHORS' WORKS, at the lowest possible cost, and introduce them. Estimates by return of post.

MUSIC ENGRAVED, PRINTED, and PUBLISHED in the best style, and on moderate terms, a statement of which sent on application by B. Williams, 60, Paternoster Row.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest varied stock of Music in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day, or if in stock posted immediately if required. Terms highly advantageous.
London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

ORCHESTRA FITTINGS.—A SET of 12 cast-iron ORCHESTRA STANDS and 45 STOOLS, cane bottomed, with other fittings for an orchestra, to be SOLD. Apply to Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

SEVERAL small ORGANS for SALE, of one, two, and three manuals. Suitable for small places of worship. All to be seen at A. Hunter's Organ Factory, 379, Kennington Road, S.E.

ORGAN for SALE. Sweet toned, with swell, 10 stops. Suitable for church or chapel. Now in Old Wesleyan Chapel, Upper Norwood. To be had a great bargain. Price £40. Address, Mr. Hoare, 1, Westow Terrace, Upper Norwood.

FOR SALE, an ORGAN, by WALKER.—Two manuals, 17 stops, C pedals; in richly carved oak case. This instrument is known to be one of the most exquisitely voiced organs in London. Suitable either for drawing-room or church. The owner (a private gentleman) is compelled to part with it owing to his giving up his house. Price 300 guineas. Apply to J. Day, 52, Gloucester Street, Piccadilly; or Mr. Jones, organ-builder, 136, Fulham Road.

ORGAN for SALE.—A Bargain.—Two manuals, great CC to H; 12 stops, swell tenor, C to F; 6 stops, 2 octaves, pedals 16 ft. open pipes; gilt speaking front, all in good condition and suitable for a large church or chapel. Price, if sold at once, £125. H. B. Huck, Northgate, Gloucester.

ON SALE, a sweet-toned ORGAN, suitable for a small place of worship or private house, with 2 manuals containing 14 stops, including couplers and two octaves and a third of pedals. Address, George Daniels, 35, Russell Street, Eccles, near Manchester.

ORGAN for SALE (two manuals, CC to G). Fine tone, handsome case, large variety of stops, independent pedal organ, full compass. Apply E. C., 9, Burdett Road, Mile End, London, E.

ORGAN for SALE, CC to G.—Two manuals, bourdon pedals, full compass, handsome case. Apply E. C., 9, Burdett Road, Mile End, London, E.

ORGAN.—TO be SOLD, for £20, a CHAMBER ORGAN in beautiful mahogany case, with six stops, suitable for a small church or chapel. Apply to the Churchwardens, St. Mark's, Scarisbrick, near Ormskirk, Lancashire.

ORGAN FOR SALE.—Two manuals, and pedal throughout. Price £160. Apply to W. Statham, Esq., St. Mary's House, Bedford.

ORGAN for SALE, suitable for a small church, built by Bryceson, with two manuals, two octaves of foot pedals, two composition pedals, a 16-foot bourdon, several stops on both manuals. Full particulars given on application to Mrs. Rawnley, Raithby Hall, Spilsby, Lincolnshire.

ORGAN HARMONIUM for SALE. 2 manuals, 5 rows of vibrators, knee swell, stops, &c. Nearly new; superior tone; perfect condition. 21 guineas. 4, Holly Mount, Hampstead, N.W.

FOR SALE, ORGAN HARMONIUM.—Eight rows of reeds; two manuals, CC to C; Pedals, CCC to F; great, 9 stops; swell, 8 stops; 2 couplers; bourdon pedal; pipes quite new. Must be sold. Apply, stating time, to G. K., 73, Knapp Road, Campbell Road, Bow, E.

FOR SALE, ALEXANDRE HARMONIUM. 13 stops, 5 octaves, heel swell. Price £20. Rector, Kirksmeaton, Pontefract.

PIANOFORTE, with full compass, organ pedal action, and stool, complete. Price £15. 1, Canonbury Square, Islington, N.

FOR SALE, HARP, double action, by J. Schwiess, late foreman to S. Erard, in excellent condition. Apply, T. B. Birch, Music-seller, 32, Middle Hillgate, Stockport.

FOR SALE, an old-established MUSIC BUSINESS, with Tuning and Hiring connection. Rising town. Capital opening for good tuner. Scope for teaching. Apply "Ego," Messrs. Novello, 1, Berners Street, London.

WANTED to PURCHASE a good TUNING CONNECTION. Southern counties preferred. Address, F. E., 12, Hanover Park, Peckham Rye, London, S.E.

THE ONLY COMPLETE EDITION.

MENDELSSOHN'S LIEDER OHNE WORTE.

Octavo, paper covers	4s.
Do. cloth gilt	6s.
Folio, elegantly bound in cloth gilt.. ..	12s.

THE ONLY EDITION CONTAINING THE
7TH AND 8TH BOOKS.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

BEETHOVEN'S SONATAS

(NEW AND COMPLETE EDITION)

EDITED AND FINGERED BY

AGNES ZIMMERMANN.

In One Volume, Folio, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges, price One Guinea.

Octavo Edition: Paper cover, 5s.; cloth gilt, 7s. 6d.

Each Sonata is published separately.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

MOZART'S SONATAS

(NEW AND COMPLETE EDITION)

EDITED AND FINGERED BY

AGNES ZIMMERMANN.

In One Volume, Folio, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges, price Eighteen Shillings.

OCTAVO EDITION IN PREPARATION.

Each Sonata is published separately.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Re D'ALMAINE,

DECEASED.

PIANOFORTES BY D'ALMAINE.

GREAT SALE OF 588 REMAINING PIANOFORTES
OF THIS EXCELLENT FIRM.

In consequence of the Death of the Proprietor an

IMMENSE STOCK

OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS OF

MUSICAL PROPERTY, PIANOFORTES, HARMONIUMS, SHEET MUSIC,

Lithographic Stones and Music Printing, Music Stools, Insulators, Violins, Canterbury, Whatnots, Harmonium Chairs, Frets, Actions, and parts various, the chief item being

780 PIANOFORTES,

in course of construction at the Death of the late Proprietor.

MOST EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY

to the Public, Trade, and Profession, such as does not offer in every lifetime.

NOTE.—It was attempted to clear the whole by auction by a series of sales: the first sale proved that it would be wiser to make up the stock and

OFFER THE ADVANTAGE TO THE PUBLIC, who can now be supplied at less than the usual cost of making these high-class pianos; thus the following quotations:—

For 17 guineas can be had the	35 guineas Royal
25 " "	46 " "
34 " "	60 " "
45 " "	85 " "

9 to 15 guineas, various second-hand instruments.

These instruments have the

FAMED STEEL WREST PLANK PLATE;

are all 7 octaves, trichord for the most part, and actions of various models;

ELEGANT IN DESIGN, REFINED IN FINISH; are very high class as pianofortes in touch, tone, and repetition.

ALL PARTICULARS, AND ON VIEW, AT

5, FINSBURY PAVEMENT,

By MOORGATE STREET STATION

(Metropolitan Railway).

LETTERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.

MUSICAL ASSOCIATION, 27, Harley Street, W.
Third Session, 1876-77.—SEVENTH MONTHLY MEETING, MONDAY, 4th June, 1877, at 5 p.m. precisely, a Paper "On the English Language, as a Language for Music," will be read by CHARLES K. SALAMAN, Hon. Mem. Acad. St. Cecilia, Rome, &c.

CHARLES K. SALAMAN, Hon. Sec.
24, Sutherland Gardens, Westbourne Park, W., June 1, 1877.

MR. CHARLES GARDNER begs to announce that his TWELFTH ANNUAL MORNING CONCERT will take place at Willis's Rooms, King Street, St. James's, on Friday, June 23, at 3 o'clock, when his new Trio in D minor for Pianoforte, Concertina, and Violoncello, and other works of interest, will be performed. Tickets, Half-a-Guinea, of Mr. Charles Gardner, 3, Chilworth Street, Westbourne Terrace, W., and at the principal music-shops.

Recently published in 8vo, price 6s.

MUSICAL INTERVALS & TEMPERAMENT: AN ELEMENTARY TREATISE.

With an account of an Enharmonic Harmonium, exhibited in the Loan
Collection of Scientific Instruments, South Kensington, 1876; also an Enharmonic Organ, exhibited to the Musical Association of London,
May 1875.

By R. H. M. BOSANQUET, Fellow of St. John's College, Oxford.
Macmillan and Co., London.

New and Important Work for the Competitive Musical Examinations, &c.

Just published, in crown 8vo, cloth, price 6s.

THE STUDENT'S TEXT-BOOK

OF THE

SCIENCE OF MUSIC

For Use in Schools and Colleges, and for purposes of self-instruction.
By JOHN TAYLOR, Author of "Manual of Vocal Music," &c. &c.

London: George Philip and Son, 32, Fleet Street; and 49 and 51,
South Castle Street, Liverpool.

Just published.

AN ESSAY on the GROWTH of the MUSICAL
SCALE and of MODERN HARMONY, by J. M. CAPEZ, M.A.
Price 5s., cloth.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

LETTERS FROM BAYREUTH

DESCRIPTIVE AND CRITICAL

OF WAGNER'S

"DER RING DES NIBELUNGEN."

WITH AN APPENDIX.

BY

JOSEPH BENNETT,

Special Correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph."

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WAGNER'S OPERAS.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION.

LOHENGGRIN ... Paper cover, 3s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 5s.

TANNHAEUSER... " 3s. 6d. " 5s.

FLYING DUTCHMAN (In the Press).

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

GLUCK'S OPERAS.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION.

IPHIGENIA IN TAURIS ... Paper covers, 2s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 4s.

IPHIGENIA IN AULIS ... " 3s. 6d. " 5s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THREE PIECES for the ORGAN. Composed

by NIELS W. GADE. Op. 22. Price 2s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

(PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EACH MONTH)

Price Threepence.

Annual subscription, including postage, 48s.

Subscriptions will also be received by all Book and Music Sellers (not including postage), 3s.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	2	3
For every additional Line	0	0	9
Half a Column	1	15	0
A Column	3	5	0
A Page	6	6	0

A discount of 10 per cent. is allowed for twelve consecutive insertions.

It is respectfully requested that a remittance be sent with all Advertisements.

Advertisements for the July number should reach the Office not later than June 23. Those received after this date cannot be guaranteed insertion in their proper places, but will appear among the late Advertisements.

READY, JULY 1.

THE

CATHEDRAL PSALTER CHANTS

OBLONG QUARTO, PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Now Ready, New and Revised Edition.

THE

MAY QUEEN

A PASTORAL

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

HENRY F. CHORLEY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

SIR W. STERNDALE BENNETT.

PAPER COVER, 3s.; PAPER BOARDS, 3s. 6d.; CLOTH GILT, 5s.
SOL-FA EDITION, 1s.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION.

TWELVE SONGS

WITH

ENGLISH AND GERMAN WORDS

COMPOSED BY

SIR W. STERNDALE BENNETT.

OP. 23.	OP. 35.
No. 1. Musing on the roaring ocean.	No. 7. Indian love.
2. May Dew.	8. Winter's gone.
3. Forget me not.	9. Dawn, gentle flower.
4. To Chloe (in sickness).	10. Castle Gordon.
5. The Past.	11. As lonesome through the woods.
6. Gentle Zephyr.	12. Sing, maiden, sing.

Price, in paper covers, 4s.; cloth boards, 6s.

Also separately, folio size, price 1s. 6d. each net.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

JUNE 1, 1877.

A SKETCH OF THE HISTORY OF MUSIC-PRINTING, FROM THE FIFTEENTH TO THE NINETEENTH CENTURY

BY FRIEDRICH CHRYSANDER.

PRINTING with movable types was invented for the purpose of noting down language, not music. But it soon became evident that books with musical notes would form a profitable business to the printer. The Church was glad to have her great Missals and Antiphonaries printed; and she was rich and paid well. She was the first power of the age, so that labour undertaken for her procured for the printer advantages in the form of recommendations which he could present in all quarters.

However, to print music with the means supplied by Gutenberg's invention was a work of peculiar difficulty. The music-writing, which had its origin in Italy in the early centuries of our era, and has been further improved from the Middle Ages to the present day, occupies a middle point between ordinary writing and picture. In regard to its established signs for the various values of the time of the sounds it is writing; but in regard to its visible presentation of the height of the sounds, and the combination of various voices, it is delineation. It is this union of writing and picture that makes our music-writing so valuable that nothing else can supplant it; but this is also what makes it so particularly difficult to print with movable types. This difficulty consists in one single point—the intersection of horizontal and vertical lines. A music-writer employs straight lines in a horizontal position, and inserts vertically on these the signs for notes. Parallel lines by themselves can be printed easily and elegantly, and so can signs of notes by themselves; but a combination of the two, such as the hand of the copyist could produce with the utmost facility, presented difficulties with which the first inventors of printing found themselves unable to contend. Several decades passed, consequently, before they ventured on this problem.

Still, it is a very curious fact that no attempt was made to evade the existing difficulty. It would have been a suitable occasion to invent a new system of music-writing, or to hunt up again one of the earlier modes of designating musical sounds. There was an ancient mode of writing music which seemed to offer itself as if ready-made for the purpose of the printer; viz. by the use of letters of the alphabet. It had, moreover, in its favour an authority to which in musical matters every one generally bowed: the Greeks had used it, and in a very fully developed form, using upright letters for singing and inverted ones for instrumental music. Had it been possible to employ this system for the music of the Western Church it would have been done then. But it was not possible. The newly acquired notation, which had grown up gradually, was as firmly fixed as the edifice of the new music itself. We can infer from this that the mischievous influence of Greek theories on the growth of Western music, of which so much complaint is made in modern histories of music, is really based on pure imagination, since Music herself understood very well how to keep to the path which was the best for her. We further see, reasoning from the same experience, that even in the midst of the greatest embarrassments it was not found possible to arrive at any other musical notation but that which had been worked out in the course of centuries, going hand in hand with the development of musical forms. Consequently all the attempts to substitute a new notation for the old, which have been especially frequent in recent times, are idle experiments, and will never have any higher importance than that of private amusement. Musical notation is fixed; and the printer has to take it as it is, and to direct all his ingenuity to the one problem of overcoming the difficulties of its mechanical reproduction.

The various attempts made with this aim, and the results attained by them for the extension of the art, produce a division of the history of music-printing into various modes and periods. Even when several of the modes of printing music were practised simultaneously, still, taken in connection with the development of the art, they are found to have arisen one after the other, and on different musical territories. This is the ground on which we are justified in speaking of an actual History of music-printing in a far higher degree than we can in relation to book-printing. We must accordingly divide it into five periods.

The FIRST PERIOD is the time of the origin of printing, and is filled up by various experiments in multiplying music by a mechanical process, chiefly employing engraving on wooden blocks (block-printing, or xylography). The age comprising these attempts may be set down as the century from 1460 to 1560.

The SECOND PERIOD begins about 1500 with the invention of movable types for music by Petrucci; its proper age is the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, but in its consequences it will last through all time.

The THIRD PERIOD is that of Tablature. It runs parallel with the second, but belongs to a completely distinct department of the art. It begins in 1509 and disappears in the seventeenth century, and is no more likely ever again to come into use than the block-printing of the first period.

The FOURTH PERIOD, comprising music-engraving on copper plates, was developed out of the third towards the end of the sixteenth century, and set aside at the beginning of the eighteenth, through the invention of the fifth period, though maintained in use in some countries down to about the year 1800.

The FIFTH and last PERIOD begins early in the eighteenth century, but is very slow in attaining perfection. In this period pewter is employed instead of copper, at first in mere imitation of the process of copper-engraving, but soon with the introduction of punches (steel stamps), through which music-engraving first attained that degree of practical and mechanical perfection which secures to it a pre-eminence above all other methods. For the development of music-printing the invention of this last period is the most important of all.

Thus, in the five different periods we make acquaintance with five different processes. Of these, only those of the second and the fifth periods possess any permanent value for the art, the three others have an antiquarian interest only.

FIRST PERIOD: XYLOGRAPHY.

Block-Printing.—Lines printed and notes inserted by hand.

Pattern-Printing (Patronendruck).—Lines and music printed with movable types in Church books (Missals, &c.).

The above headings indicate the two paths which were taken in this earliest period in printing music.

The second was the more correct; but the more obvious and the more important in this age was the first, printing from wooden blocks. This period may therefore be simply designated by the term Xylography, which is well known in Germany and France, and is more convenient than its English equivalent Block-printing.

To understand the works of this earliest stage of music-printing we must go back to the history of the beginning of book-printing. In it also Xylography, as at the beginning of the fifteenth century. The progress from "Xylography" to "Typography" was therefore made by music in perfect analogy to that made by language, only later.

The oldest book known with notes printed from wooden blocks was produced at Augsburg by Hans Froschauer in 1473. It was, however, probably preceded by others. Froschauer printed Gregorian notes. For these, however, blocks are only a very miserable makeshift, because the words to the one-or printing from large tablets of wood, was the commencement, or more properly the precursor. In most cases the text was accompanied by pictures; and indeed this very union of words and pictures encouraged the preparation of such tablets. And as all signs of human language were originally only pictures of the objects designated, it may be said that the art of printing, in starting from the pictures—i.e. from these engraved blocks—in a certain manner went back to the earliest signification of the letters. There were Bilderschneider (picture-cutters) as early as the beginning of the fifteenth century. The progress from "Xylography" to "Typography" was therefore made by music in perfect analogy to that made by language, only later. The oldest book known with notes printed from wooden blocks was produced at Augsburg by Hans Froschauer in 1473. It was, however, probably preceded by others. Froschauer printed Gregorian notes. For these, however, blocks are only a very miserable makeshift, because the words to the one-voiced melodies take as much space as the notes, and a better way of printing them was soon discovered. But block-printing remained in that age the only possible method for Figurative music; i.e. artificial counterpoint, or music in several parts. So for this purpose wood-engraving was employed for several decades before Petrucci's invention offered a perfect compensation for its abandonment. Ugone de Rugeris, of Bologna, published in 1487 the first work that contains a piece of printed figurative music. Niccolo Burzio (Burtius), a native of Parma, Professor of Music, wrote a work on his art, incited by the attacks which a Spaniard had directed against the unassailable Guido of Arezzo. This book contains sixty-seven leaves in quarto, and commences, "Nicolai Burtii, Parmensis musices professoris, ac juris pontificii studiosissimi, musices opusculum incipit: cum defensione Guidonis Aretini," &c.; and concludes with the remark that Ugone de Rugeris finished printing it "in Bononia anno domini MCCCCLXXXVII die ultima aprilis" (on the last day of April 1487).*

Of the three tracts of which this small work consists, the first contains three specimens of one-voice music: the old melody, "Ut queant laxis," on five lines; seven ascending hexachords on eleven lines; twenty-one ascending tetrachords on eleven lines. There are also some explanations of musical terms; all are printed on blocks.

The "Tractatus Secundus," treating of the rules of the Cantus commixti seu contrapuncti, contains on page 76 a specimen of music in three parts for Discantus, Tenor, and Contratenor, cut in a block of wood, of which an exact facsimile will be found on the preceding page.

Burtius' third tract, dealing with the Cantus Figuratus, has on page 90 a similar example of notes of different value and of ligatures.

As may be seen from our facsimile, the first attempt to multiply figurative music by mechanical means was very crude and awkward. It was considerably improved in time, but never became fully satisfactory. For theoretical works, in which only a few examples were required, which had to be inserted in the midst of letterpress, such woodblocks were available, and even more convenient than the movable types then in use. Blocks are therefore found to have been employed in Franchinus Gaforius' Practica Musica (Milan, 1496), and thence onwards till after the middle of the sixteenth century.

Another species of books with music was in use, for which the printing from small wooden blocks came very opportunely. These were the hymn-books of Luther and his community. The first of these appeared in the year 1523, with the title Etlich Cristlich lider Lobgesang und Psalm (Wittenberg, 1523); it was a very modest little tract of twelve leaves, containing eight hymns, to which five tunes are appended.† All successive hymn-books were similarly accompanied by notes cut in wood. At Wittenberg (and other German towns also) a long time seems to have elapsed before Petrucci's types were imitated; for even in Johann Walther's Chorgesangbüchlein, which was published there in 1524 in four part-books, all the music was cut in wood, and the skill required for this process was there developed into real neatness and elegance.

Yet woodblocks were rarely employed for extensive pieces of music in several parts which were intended for singing. In the few instances in which they are found they must be regarded as a makeshift. This is the case in a tract printed at Antwerp by Jan de Gheet in April 1515, in honour of the Emperor Maximilian, which contains several four-part songs by the otherwise unknown composer Benedictus de Opitiis, the four concurrent voices being printed on a single block of wood, and arranged so as to occupy the whole of the two pages facing one another.‡

In all the Lutheran hymn-books the figurative notes were employed, never the Gregorian. This was the immediate reason why wooden blocks came to be employed to the exclusion of types. It would lead us too far to give the musical reasons which led to this use of the figurative notes. If the Lutherans had used in their hymn-books the Gregorian notes which existed in the Latin Missals, Antiphonaries, and Psalters, they would from the first have employed movable types in printing the notes. This brings us to the second part of our history, which will treat of the question how the Choral or Gregorian Notes came to be printed in this first period. Four stages must be distinguished.

In the earliest printed Church-books which contained music the words were printed and then the notes inserted by hand. Such a procedure was very natural, because the first printed books were sold not as impressions but as manuscripts.

It was an advance when people began to print the lines, in which the notes were afterwards inserted by hand. The lines in these Missals, &c. are red, and were printed simultaneously with the red initials, words, and lines contained in the letterpress.

Apart from other drawbacks to writing in the notes, it was very inconvenient from the fact that writing-ink and paper which has to undergo the process of printing do not agree well together; and the irregularity of the written notes contrasted disagreeably with the mechanical regularity of the letterpress. So they then made signs of notes in the form of types or punches, covered them with printer's ink, and then pressed them one by one with the hand upon or between the four red lines. This process was called in German Patronendruck (pattern-printing). On account of the clumsiness of the signs and the imperfectness of the whole process, it is difficult to determine in particular cases when this pattern-printing and when real mechanical printing was employed.

From the pattern-printing there was only a single step that led to printing with movable types. In what year, at what place, and by what printer this step was taken cannot at present be demonstrated. At least it was before the end of the fifteenth century, and probably by various printers at different places, working independently of each other. We infer this from the fact that such specimens of printing are found coming from places far distant, and that the two kinds of choral notes, the Italian and the German, which differ widely from each other, are both employed in them. Besides, the printers moved from one place to another, and spread abroad everywhere the seeds of their art. Thus Erhard Ratdolt says in the Missal for the use of the diocese of Constance, which he printed at Augsburg in 1504 and 1505, that he had first exercised his art at Venice ("Liber Missalis . . . per Erhardum Ratdolt mira imprimendi arte qua nuper Venetiis: nunc Auguste Vindelicorum excellit nominatissimus").

It cannot, however, be supposed that this printing of the choral notes was produced in imitation of the process which Petrucci discovered at Venice, of which we shall afterwards give some account. It may be assumed much more correctly that Petrucci received a stimulus to his invention from these very printed Missals and other choral books. Ratdolt had previously printed at Venice, consequently at the same time as Petrucci; he did not imitate him, simply because he could not. The aim and the means of this sort of music were quite distinct, and the method had been worked out step by step, as has been shown. The requirements were four red lines, which were provided in types of the length of from a third of an inch to an inch, attached to one another, and Italian or German choral notes. Impressions of this kind were in existence about ten years before Petrucci began.* If Petrucci had never lived, the music of the Missals, Antiphonaries, and other Church song-books would still have been printed exactly as we now have them; his method had not the slightest influence upon them. The little book published by John Merbecke in 1550, The booke of common praier noted. . . . Imprinted by Richard Grafton, is a very fitting example for English readers. Compared with earlier impressions of the same kind—e.g. the Spanish Missal, the printing of which was finished by Johannes Belon, January 9, 1504—Grafton's performance presents no doubt an extremely miserable appearance. But the manner or school of printing, the technical method, was one and the same in both.

* In the British Museum and the Public Library of Hanover.

† In the Royal Library of Berlin and the City Library of Hamburg.

‡ In the British Museum and the City Library of Hamburg.

This was the origin of printing with movable types, for the limited domain of ecclesiastical one-part choral song. We shall now see how a similar process was invented for the spread of music written artistically in several parts.

(To be continued.)

ENGLISH OPERA

By CHARLES K. SALAMAN.

(Concluded from page 214.)

MICHAEL WILLIAM BALFE was, of modern times, the most prolific contributor to the operatic stage of England. He possessed the rare gift of melody, composed with facility and rapidity, and his technical resources were ample. It concerned him little whether or not his compositions were original, and whether they were perfectly in accord with the text he was engaged in setting to music. Balfe's chief aim, as it would appear by his works, was to catch the ear of the public, and to become a popular composer. His music, however hurriedly or carelessly written, ever manifests the work of an accomplished master. An able musical critic, concluding a flattering estimate of Balfe's many excellent artistic qualifications, says, "Against these great advantages is balanced the want of conscientiousness which makes him contented with the first idea which presents itself, regardless of dramatic truth, and considerate of momentary effect rather than artistic excellence; and this it is that, with all his well-merited success with the million, will for ever prevent his works from ranking among the classics of the art. On the other hand, it must be owned that the volatility and spontaneous character of his music would evaporate through elaboration, either ideal or technical; and that the element which makes it evanescent is that which also makes it universally popular."

"I must agree with you," says Melmoth, in one of his famous FitzOsborne letters (1740), "that works of the most permanent kind are not the effect of a lucky moment, nor struck out at a single heat. The best performances, indeed, have generally cost the most labour; and that ease which is so essential to fine writing has seldom been attained without repeated and severe criticism." "Questo facile," said Paiesiello, "quanto difficile!"

Balfe's rapidity in the preparation of some of his English Operas, composed to order and to time, was really astonishing; for the mere mechanical labour of writing the score of a modern grand Opera, setting aside the consideration of its composition, is a task of magnitude such as can be appreciated only by a musician well experienced in the craft. Young Balfe left Dublin, his native city, for London, a lad of sixteen years of age, already a musician of much promise. With the kindness for which he was well known, Tom Cooke, the director of the music at Drury Lane Theatre, admitted his youthful countryman into his excellent orchestra as a violinist; and occasionally afforded him the opportunity to acquire experience as a "Leader," when his own services were required upon the stage as lyric actor. Balfe was certainly born under a lucky star. In 1825 he had the good-fortune to attract the notice of an Italian nobleman, an amateur composer, by his musical talents and agreeable manners. He was invited to accompany him to Italy, free of expense, and to become his guest at Rome, in which city he determined to go through a severe course of counterpoint under Federici. Subsequently at Milan he continued his studies in composition, singing, and lyric acting; at the same time that he was laying up a valuable store of practical dramatic experiences, and gaining facility and fluency in operatic writing both for voices and instruments.

Native Opera in England was still in the ascendant in 1835, when Balfe returned to this country fully fledged, and with expanded wings ready for immediate flight into the operatic regions. He composed for Arnold his first English Opera, "The Siege of Rochelle." It was rehearsed, but before it could be performed the enterprise came to an untimely end, and the English Opera House was closed. Bunn, of Drury Lane Theatre, was at that moment in search of an English Opera to fill an unexpected vacancy. Balfe's Opera, in complete readiness for representation, was offered and accepted. In the autumn of 1835 it was brought out, and its success was so marked that it kept the stage uninterruptedly for three months, and the fame of its composer was at once assured. Balfe had hit the public taste, and was immediately recognised as the most popular composer of the day. The songs and choruses of the Opera were sung, hummed, and whistled by all classes of society. The airs were arranged as waltzes, marches, and quadrilles, to the satisfaction no doubt of music publishers; and the same were deranged into every conceivable form, easy and difficult, for the edification of pupils and the torture of their respective teachers. To peruse this Opera now after an interval of more than forty years is an interesting study. It is not surprising that it should have received almost universal acceptance. It is replete with catching melodies and excellent pleasing music. It includes some well-written and effective choruses and concerted vocal music dramatically developed. It is noticeable, however, that much of the music appears to have been originally composed to Italian words, and subsequently adapted to the English text with scant regard to the correct accentuation of the English language. The composer's predilection for the Italian school of music, in which he had been mainly educated, is conspicuous in this Opera, as it is more or less in its successors; at the same time a certain individuality of manner, which may be characterised as Balfian, is recognisable in some of the songs and duets, in which English accent is too often made subservient to the exigencies of the music, which, in many instances, appears to have been composed before the words. Balfe was a genial Irishman, and his geniality is reflected in his compositions, in which a national raciness of style, pleasing but ephemeral, is easily discoverable.

* A specimen of this method, "Agenda Parochialium Ecclesiarum," printed at Basle, in 1488, will be shown at the forthcoming Caxton Exhibition.

The gifted Malibran, for whom Balfe composed the "Maid of Artois" in 1836—the year of her untimely and lamented death—was so much identified with that effective Opera that it has been rarely heard since her death. Her charming singing, acting, and fascinating manner yet live in the memory of those who witnessed her performance of it. Balfe's "Catherine Grey" was produced in the autumn of 1836; "Joan of Arc" appeared in 1837; "Diadeste" in 1839; "The Bohemian Girl," the most continuously favourite and widest known of Balfe's Operas, was played for the first time in 1840. This Opera has been translated into the languages of many foreign countries, where it has been successfully presented. Balfe's other performed Operas are "The Castle of Aymon," originally produced as a French Opera, "The Daughter of St. Mark" (1845), "The Enchantress," "The Bondman" (1846), "The Maid of Honour" (1849), "The Sicilian Bride," "Keolanthé," "The Armourer of Nantes," "Blanche de Nevers," "The Rose of Castile," "The Puritan's Daughter," and "Satanella."

That any of these Operas will be enduring can scarcely be expected. Although of merit, and displaying considerable ability in their composition, they are yet deficient in those higher qualities of musical genius without which no work can be lasting.

William Michael Rooke, originally O'Rourke, a native of Dublin, made an excellent impression on producing his first Opera, "Amelie; or, the Love Test," at Covent Garden Theatre, on the 2nd of December, 1837. The name of the composer was then unknown out of Dublin. His Opera was brought out under favourable auspices, but it was not ushered into public notice by any of the usual preliminary anticipatory announcements. It was well performed by Miss Shirreff, Miss P. Horton (now Mrs. German Reed), John Wilson and Manvers, tenors, and Henry Phillips and Stretton, basses, was warmly welcomed, and favourably commented upon by the musical critics of the day. George Hogarth wrote that of Rooke's music "it would be difficult to speak too highly." He found "genius, learning, taste, and a rich vein of melody, flowing, graceful, and expressive," prevail throughout the work. He pronounced the concerted pieces "ingenious, highly wrought, and full of dramatic effect, while his choral harmonies were rich and resonant, and his orchestral writing was skilful and beautiful." The Opera was for a time attractive, and then, as usual, it gave place to more modern attractions.

"Henrique," another Opera by Rooke, introduced the late William Harrison to the lyric stage in May 1839. This work was withdrawn in consequence of a disagreement between its composer and Macready, the manager of the theatre. William Michael Rooke claimed the honour of being Michael William Balfe's first instructor on the violin, when the latter was an infant of the age of six. Rooke, who had become an esteemed resident professor in London, died in the fifty-third year of his age, on the 20th of October, 1853.

"Maritana" was the Opera which introduced Vincent Wallace, another Irish musician, to the British public as a dramatic composer. He had been an extensive traveller, and had sojourned and exercised the musical profession in almost every part of the world. He appeared in London without any note of preparation, about the year 1845, as a pianist and pianoforte composer. He was soon occupied in composing his first Opera for Bunn's theatre. It proved a great success, and its popularity has lasted to the present time. It was acknowledged that the composer of "Maritana" was no ordinary musician, that he had studied profoundly, and had turned his studies and varied operatic experience to good account. His Opera gave evidence of independent musical thought and self-reliance. "To those who would wish to know in what category to place Wallace," writes Monsieur Sylvain St. Etienne, "we should say that he is like Rossini in the rapid flow of his melody and the sweet brilliant turn of his phrases, while by skilful management of tone he recalls Weber." This testimony to the merits of a British composer from a foreign source is flattering, although the comparisons may not be strictly accurate. As in Balfe's dramatic compositions his Italian predilections are visible, so in Wallace's his German proclivities are noticeable. Wallace's most perfect Opera is "Lurline," produced in 1860 by Miss Louisa Pyne and Mr. W. Harrison, twelve years after its completion. No favourable opportunity before that time had presented itself for its performance. Its attraction was almost unparalleled in modern times. It was soon produced in Germany, and with success. It is unnecessary to descant upon the merits of this very charming and well-known Opera. The Overture is composed after the Weber model, without bearing any direct resemblance to the Overtures of that composer. It is a masterly composition, richly scored, and it proclaims in every bar the hand of a skilful musician. Wallace's other Operas are "Matilda of Hungary," "The Amber-witch," "Love's Triumph," and "The Desert Flower." These several Operas are of unequal merit, and their success has been proportionably as unequal.

Having spent the greater part of a long life in England, Julius Benedict is almost entitled to be included amongst our most eminent native dramatic composers. His German feelings and education, polished by a long sojourn in Italy, has enabled him to combine the best musical characteristics of both nations, while his English sympathies and associations, formed by a residence of more than forty years in this country, have enabled him to give somewhat of a national turn to the melodies he has set to English text. Benedict's English Operas are "The Gipsy's Warning" (1838), "The Brides of Venice" (1844), "The Crusaders" (1846), and "The Lily of Killarney." There is no more specialty of style observable in Benedict's English Operas than in those of the majority of his British-born contemporaries. By his successful imitation of Irish national music Benedict has imparted to "The Lily of Killarney" a partial local colouring, very charming and attractive.

There have been other British composers than those already mentioned, who have, during the past half-century, contributed to the English stage one or more Operas of varied degrees of merit. It will be sufficient to refer to them briefly: J. A. Wade ("The Two Houses of Grenada"); John Thompson, of Edinburgh ("Hermann; or, the Broken Spear"); John Hatton ("Love's Ransom"); Henry Smart; John Hullah ("The Village Coquettes," "The Barber of Bussorah"); Howard Glover ("Ruy Blas"); Henry Leslie ("Bold Dick Turpin," "Ida").

The management of English Opera has been in many hands. It has had its triumphs and vicissitudes. Among those who have at various times taken upon themselves the perilous task of introducing, upholding, and establishing National Opera may be mentioned Arnold, Bunn, Maddox, Braham, Macready, Miss Louisa Pyne and Mr. W. Harrison, E. T. Smith, the National Opera Company, and Mr. Carl Rosa. The opportunities to hear pure English Operas, as distinct from Operas in English, are now more rare than ever. Mr. Carl Rosa, who, in association with his late gifted wife Madame Parepa-Rosa, carried on for some years English Opera and Opera in English in every part of America with success and profit, determined to venture upon a similar undertaking in this country. He has hitherto met with the success which talent, enterprise, boldness, industry, and perseverance rarely fail to command. It cannot but be a source of regret, however, to those who would see English Opera flourish pure and simple that Mr. Carl Rosa, with the valuable prestige he has deservedly acquired, should not have identified his spirited management with the production of more English Operas and less foreign translated Operas. There is no dearth of fine native Operas in England. Why have we not lately heard John Barnett's "Mountain Sylph," and "Fair Rosamond," Macfarren's "Charles II." and "Robin Hood," "Helvellyn," and "The Sleeper Awakened," Wallace's "Lurline," and "The Amber-witch," Loder's "Night-dancers"? The public are indebted to Mr. Carl Rosa for one new English Opera.

It falls to the lot of few young English composers to have so favourable an opportunity for exhibiting their dramatic powers in the composition of an Opera as was afforded to Mr. Frederick Cowen through the confidence and friendship of Mr. Carl Rosa. It must be confessed with satisfaction that by his performance he has justified his right to have been intrusted with a commission so important to himself and to the musical art in this country. Now more than ever the eyes of Europe are directed to the productions of English musicians, upon whom therefore rests a heavy responsibility to uphold in their works the honour of British musical art. That Mr. Cowen should satisfy the almost extravagant expectations which may have been formed was hardly within the range of probability. That he should produce an Opera distinguished for originality of design and treatment could scarcely have been anticipated. That he has composed an Opera of high merit, giving at the same time promise of greater excellence, cannot with justice be doubted. In "Pauline" there is much good music, conceived and developed in a musician-like manner. In the third act of the Opera are situations of intense dramatic interest, and the composer has not been slow to avail himself of them. As a whole, Cowen's Opera must be considered a successful first effort, although it may not fulfil all the hopes for conditions of novelty and specialty of style and manner. A young aspirant for operatic honours cannot, in England, work wholly independently. He has, besides the consideration of his own reputation, to study the exactions of singers, managers, and publishers. These are among the many prominent obstacles to the attainment of the highest dramatic excellence with which, in this country, native composers have to contend. The operatic "stars" claim to have music written for them which may display to the greatest advantage their peculiarities of voice and style, and thus insure a succession of "recalls." Whether required for the dramatic action of the Opera or not, songs of sentiment, likely to be redemanded, must be introduced to satisfy both singers and publishers, who, regarding music less from an æsthetic than a commercial point of view, require the composition of singable and saleable songs and ballads. The great Opera-composers of the Continent were happily not thus fettered. Mozart's father, in the plenitude of worldly wisdom, wrote to his son, "Consider that for every twelve real connoisseurs there are a hundred wholly ignorant; therefore do not overlook the popular in your style of composition, and forget to tickle the long ears." The true artist replied, "Fear not, father, respecting the pleasure of the crowd. There will be music for all sorts of people, but none for long ears."

National Opera in this country has not, at any period, had the inestimable advantage of being an Institution, as in Italy, Germany, and France. When Italy was only a "geographical expression," she maintained operatic establishments in every chief city. Opera-music was encouraged, and it flourished. The then despotic Sovereign States of Italy and Germany forbade the discussion of politics, and did all in their power to withdraw the attention of the people from such topics, and to direct their thoughts to the consideration of music. The production of a new Opera was looked forward to as an important national event. A fiasco was a common occurrence, and unsuccessful Operas were hissed and hooted most unmercifully by the connoisseurs. Composers, undaunted by failure and undismayed by publicly expressed disapprobation, came forward again and again, and in the end triumphed. In former days German sovereigns, petty and great, supported their several operatic establishments, and even took a personal part in their management and direction. With such encouragement, and such inducements to compose, Operas in Italian and German were always forthcoming—some fated to live, others doomed to die. Composers worked for a small remuneration, their genius unshackled by considerations of managers, publishers, and singers. Thus Schools of Opera were established, and every opportunity was afforded to the independent cultivation of the lyric drama. From what England possesses without such powerful aids, it may be assumed with confidence that with encouragement and support similar to that which has been enjoyed through a long series of years by foreign composers, English musicians would have proved themselves as operatic composers not less worthy than their Continental brethren.

It has been said that "English Opera has no history, no unbroken line of traditions; it has no regular sequence of operatic works by native composers." This is scarcely to be taken as an impartial view of the subject, and the statement may be to some extent controverted. Though interrupted, English Opera can boast of traditions; though irregular, English Opera claims the possession of a sequence of works. Max Müller, referring to the growth and progress of language, says, "We can connect two periods, separated by thousands of years, through the works of those who handed on the traditions of art from century to century; but we shall never meet here with the same continuous and unconscious growth which connects the language of Plautus with that of Dante." Applying this idea to music, we may connect the first English Opera with the last, although without a tie so continuously unbroken as that which unites Jacopo Peri with Verdi.

England may not yet possess a dramatic composer of extraordinary ability, but it may be asserted that she is as well off at the present moment in this respect as other countries. Talented, conscientious, zealous, ambitious native composers are to be found in Great Britain who, with the necessary support and encouragement, are capable of upholding the honour of English Opera. It was well observed a few years since, "Here, as abroad, we shall find hosts of talented men whose bright and sparkling fancies may be the delight of thousands; here, as everywhere, we shall find that the men of genius whose 'imagination bodies forth the form of things unknown' come but once in a generation—perhaps but once in a century—to be the wonder and the worship of centuries to come."

It is much to be deplored that our great native poets have not occupied themselves in writing dramas for alliance with music—in fact, "Operas"—as Dryden, Sheridan, and Addison did in former years. Much excellent music might thus have been rescued from association with a superfluity of doggerel and rhyming nonsense. English Opera unfortunately abounds in inferior verse, written without regard to the capacity of the English language and its adaptability to music and the voice. This has helped to foster the regretful prejudice which yet obtains against the lyric poetry of England, and to give continuous countenance to a fallacy which may never be wholly eradicated.

Although not so essentially a part of English as of Italian Opera, musical recitation, or speaking music, is nevertheless now required in its composition. To this our language easily adapts itself. But English Recitative should be as different from Italian, French, and German as the language. Charming as it is when heightening the melody of its own sweet tongue, Italian Recitative set to English dialogue or monologue forms an unnatural alliance, as we see when, in translated Operas, they are forced into an unsympathetic combination.

England possesses a rich treasury of English Opera by dead and living native composers worthy of revival. It would probably surprise not only foreigners, but Englishmen who have been content to live under the erroneous impression that there is no such thing as "English Opera," to see a catalogue of her repertory. Foreigners may well be forgiven for their ignorance of our operatic treasures when Englishmen themselves are unacquainted with them. How much longer shall we submit to be taunted with our musical poverty? Have our great native composers lived and worked in vain? Feel we no national pride in our composers as in our poets, painters, and sculptors? Is prejudice always to prevail? Are we ever to be led by Fashion in matters of art?

In this brief sketch of English Opera it has been shown that England was as early in the field of dramatic music as Germany and France, and that she was only second to Italy; that at the same time Henry Purcell and Alessandro Scarlatti were engaged in their respective countries in the composition of Opera; that during the last century England produced a succession of dramatic composers whose Operas and lesser lyrical works bear a distinctly marked national character of music; and that British musicians, in emulation of their foreign neighbours, have availed themselves of modern ideas in order to advance and elevate the art of music. Every Englishman who loves music for her own sake should feel a national pride in the productions of his own countrymen. He cannot but desire that English music shall flourish and English Opera prosper, and that she shall have at least parallel advantages with other countries. Let us then be impartial in our estimate of native productions; let us seek rather for excellence than for faults; let us seek out promising native talent, and let it be encouraged and helped forward; let the English dramatic composer be cheered upon his uncertain and chequered path; a generous and profitable service will thus be rendered to one of the most difficult and exacting branches of the fascinating, healthful, and civilising art of Music.

MUSICAL DEGREES.

AN important change in the system of granting musical degrees is taking place in the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge. As the action of these bodies seems to be entirely independent of each other, the fact that both are taking steps of a like character seems to show that the alterations about to be made are the result, in both cases, of the bad working of the system hitherto followed. Up to the present time the candidate for musical degrees had only to satisfy the authorities that he was deserving of the degree from a musical point of view; in future he will have to show that he is not deficient in the rudiments of that sound education ordinarily required of all who are in any way affiliated to one of these universities. That such a step will be of great advantage both to the university and to the better class of musical graduates no one can deny; and as no less than 100 candidates presented themselves in Oxford during last Lent term (this being the last occasion on which musicians could pass without an educational test), we may safely assume that the ordinary run of aspirants to musical degrees do not feel very comfortable at the idea of being examined in mathematics, languages, or the other subjects now made indispensable. At this point Oxford stops, leaving the musical examination of the candidates as before in the hands of three examiners, two of whom are apparently appointed for life (Sir F. G. Ouseley and Dr. Corfe), and the third (Dr. Monk) perpetually re-elected at the suggestion of the other two. Cambridge has gone further, and not only is about to require a literary test of musical candidates but also contemplates forming a "Board of Studies," whose duty it will be to prescribe the tests to be required of graduates, report upon the state of the faculty from time to time, and otherwise see that the working of the system is good from an academical point of view. The Oxford system is eminently unsatisfactory. Three examiners, all of whom have one way of thinking, and whose art-experience is almost entirely limited to the musical services in the churches with which they are respectively connected, cannot possibly be accepted by the profession as properly qualified to administer the honourable distinctions of one of the most influential universities in the world. Oxford must without doubt sooner or later imitate Cambridge in having a board of studies. But then comes the serious question, who is to form the board of studies? From the interesting account of what has been going on at Cambridge, printed elsewhere at length, it will be seen that Dr. Macfarren is not altogether satisfied with the steps his university proposes to take in this matter. He evidently rather dreads the possibility that the musical faculty may be partly or chiefly influenced by members of the senate, who, though highly educated and perhaps very distinguished men as explorers of the physical laws of music, may be very deficient in that practical knowledge of the art which can alone measure the abilities of professional musicians. He fears lest music should become a study for the head, instead of a sensitive vehicle of the higher emotions, the value of which must be gauged by one whose lifetime has been devoted to it as an art, not merely as a science. In Dr. Macfarren's misgivings on this point all real musicians will heartily sympathise. On the other hand, university men will have their doubts as to how far it is wise to give degrees at all in such an intangible and æsthetical subject as music. If musical genius, cultivated by due art-study is alone to be rewarded with degrees, Dr. Macfarren stands in no need of a "board of studies," or any other assistance; but if, on the other hand, it is found possible under the proposed system to incorporate a sound study of the physical basis of musical science with a just appreciation of the higher branches of the art, Cambridge will have solved a difficult problem. But it is to be sincerely hoped that the changes now made will not tend to frighten away professional musicians from the universities.

PATRONAGE.

IT has often been said that art in England is a luxury; but when we consider not only how many rich people can well afford to pay for luxuries, but how very large is the number of those who, merely possessing moderate means, are in the habit of setting aside a small portion of their income for the purpose of purchasing a few hours of intellectual enjoyment, there can be no reason why either art or artists in this country should languish. Even supposing that we are really a "nation of shopkeepers," we like to enjoy our leisure after business hours; and so, looking at the amount annually expended for the purchase of pictures, and the renting of boxes and stalls by the wealthy patrons of painting and music, and that contributed by those who are compelled to limit their ambition to the inspection of pictures at public exhibitions and "taking their chance" of getting unreserved seats at opera-houses and concert-rooms, we shall find that in the large sum spent upon what may by many be termed "superfluities" we may reasonably reckon a very considerable item for those which are purely mental. Yet, much as we appreciate the support of the true and earnest devotees of art who crowd our picture-galleries and rush to the unsecured places at musical performances, we cannot ignore the fact that with the moneyed aristocracy rests the power of directly aiding the young artist in his early struggles with the world, and more especially of enabling him to acquire the preliminary education and training so positively essential to the attainment of future excellence. Before enlarging upon this subject, however, it would be well to make ourselves clearly understood as to the duties of the class we would wish to find steadily increasing in this country, for there are many within our own knowledge who would be both ready and willing to lend a helping hand if only they could be certain that good results would accrue from their exertions.

The word "patron" in the present day has somewhat grown into contempt, not because it is impossible that a generous and well-intentioned amateur should be able to assist one who is rich in genius but poor in the means for developing it, but because in former times it was too much the custom for pedantic dabblers in art to attempt to bring themselves into prominence with the public by pretending to foster the talent of students, or, by attracting them into their own exclusive circle, to shine with a borrowed light at a small outlay. The fulsome dedications of early literary works by comparatively unknown authors to men who were not ashamed to be told in print that their character included all the virtues and rejected all the vices incident to human nature will sufficiently bring to recollection the first class of these so-called "patrons;" and for proof of the second let us call to mind how many youthful painters have been led into a false elysium at a time when their growing powers should have been tenderly nursed into artistic manhood; how many rising musicians have been seized upon by false friends and transplanted to an aristocratic atmosphere, where their life has languished away amidst the faint applause and encouragement of those who looked upon the art as an agreeable relaxation after the fatigues of the day. True it is that young artists were thus provided with board and lodging at the expense of their "patrons," and it was their duty therefore to give their services in return for this boon; but then so were the old Court jesters, who must certainly have been clever men to retain their position. What we especially wish to insist upon is that a large number of the painters and musicians who have been in very early life pressed by circumstances to accept the post of artistic lacqueys might with due encouragement have risen to an eminent place in their profession; and, indeed, may it not also with truth be said that many a Court jester might, under favourable influences, have attained an honourable place in the literature of his country? But, as authors and artists began to work more for the general public than for individuals, the race of "patrons" we have described gradually passed away. Dedications of books, as mere baits to secure the purchase of a certain number of copies, were no longer written, for a work either sold on its own merits or did not sell at all. The demand for art became general, and youthful artists therefore cared not to ruin their chance of acquiring fame by becoming the lion of a coterie. That the followers of literature and art are now proceeding in the right road cannot admit of a doubt; yet although we have entered our protest against trusting to a guide on their journey who would lead them into tempting by-paths, and beguile them with hollow flattery, we by no means, as we have already hinted, despise the help of one who is willing to urge them forward and strengthen them on the way. The transition time between the decay of the old "patron" and the advent of the new one may well be seized upon to place on record a few truths which may be of service both to those who give and those who receive.

In the first place, then, let us hasten to do justice to the capitalists, whose names we withhold, as they would desire, but whose deeds will long live in the memory of the few who know how much their fostering aid has effected for some of our eminent English artists in the days of their studentship. These, indeed, are the types of those we desire to see replace the "patrons" of the past, and who, "doing good by stealth," would most certainly "blush to find it fame." A real lover of art should have no desire but to forward its progress, and this is not to be done either by overwhelming a clever pupil with praise, or by appropriating his talents for the gratification of a select circle, but by defraying the expense of sending him at once where the most solid education can be procured. So many young musicians are crushed beyond the hope of recovery by the cruel kindness of admiring friends that we cannot too much impress upon those who have the means the absolute duty of withdrawing them in time from so pernicious an influence, and placing them where their talent will be gauged at its true value, and their powers gently drawn forth by those who have made musical training the business of their lives. There can be no doubt that the main reason why we see the unripe talents of many artists arrested in their growth, and the natural gifts of others unduly forced, is that the means of living must be sought before a sound musical training can be secured. It is to remedy this state of things that the patronage we have advocated should be exercised. If those who possess the money-power would but resolve to invest a small sum in so interesting a venture, we can assure them that a dividend of gratitude would be duly returned, not only by those immediately benefited, but by all who desire to promote the healthy advancement of musical art in this country.

HENRY C. LUNN.

THE REINHOLDS, SINGERS OF THE LAST CENTURY.

BY THE LATE DR. RIMBAULT.

THOSE who are in the habit of turning over old oratorio and opera books of the last century will remember the name of Reinhold. There were two singers of this name—father and son; and although they occupied some position in the musical world, strange to say they are not named in the "Biographical Dictionary of Musicians," nor in any of our general biographies. A few particulars then of these men are desirable, and the want is one which to a certain extent I can supply.

Thomas Reinhold was a native of Dresden, and the son, or "nephew," of the Archbishop of that city. He was born about 1690, and very early exhibited a remarkable passion for music. Handel was on intimate terms with the archbishop, and during one of his visits to Dresden young Reinhold took a great fancy to him. After a time he determined to leave his home, which he did by stealth, and seek the protection of the great master in London. Handel received him with open arms, and introduced him to Frederick, Prince of Wales, who became his patron, and assigned him rooms in his palace. Here he remained until his marriage, and subsequently his Royal Highness stood sponsor to his eldest son, who was christened Charles Frederick.

In 1731 Reinhold was engaged as a singer at the King's Theatre in the Haymarket, and his name stands in the bills of that year as "Reynholds." He sang in many of Handel's operas and in his early oratorios. He was one of the founders of the Royal Society of Musicians in 1738. His subsequent career flowed on in the same strain until his death, which occurred at his house in Chapel Street, Dean Street, Soho, in 1751. Reinhold was greatly esteemed by his professional brethren. He left a widow and four children in poor circumstances. According to the London Daily Advertiser, Garrick gave them his theatre for a benefit, May 20, 1751.

Charles Frederick Reinhold was brought up by the Royal Society of Musicians, and subsequently placed in the choirs of St. Paul's and the Chapel Royal. In 1755, when a mere boy, he performed Oberon in Smith's opera of "The Fairies." In the bills he is called "Master Reynolt." In 1759 his name occurs as a singer at Marylebone Gardens, where he continued to sing during the summer months until 1773, or perhaps later. He was an excellent actor as well as singer, and made his first appearance in the former capacity as Giles in the "Maid of the Mill," October 30, 1769. He sang in many of Handel's oratorios, and at the Commemoration of Handel, in Westminster Abbey, 1784. He acquired great fame by his singing of "Oh, ruddier than the cherry," and many other of Handel's songs. After occupying a prominent position as a singer for many years, he retired from his professional labours in 1797, Bartleman supplying his place at oratorios, concerts, and festivals.

Parke, in his "Musical Memoirs" (vol. i. p. 249), has left us the following notice of him: "Reinhold, by his talent, industry, and extreme frugality, acquired a handsome independence. Hook, the composer, informed me that, during a severe frost in January, whilst the snow was lying upon the ground, he and his wife went by invitation to take a Sunday dinner with Reinhold; and when the coach had arrived at the door, and the coachman had knocked, it was opened by Reinhold himself, who held in his hand a little broom, with which, before they were admitted, he carefully swept their shoes, fearing that they might, whilst passing from the carriage to his threshold, have taken up some snow which might injure his carpets. That Reinhold suffered his habits of economy to supersede one of the finest feelings of nature, gratitude, will be exemplified by the following fact: Reinhold, who had been for many years a member of the Royal Society of Musicians, in his worldly concerns never losing sight of the little broom, when about to retire said to the collector, who had called on him for the annual subscription (one guinea), 'Mr. Harwood, as I can now do without the Society, and the Society can do without me, you may strike my name out of your books, as I no longer consider myself a member.'

He resided at No. 90, Charlotte Street, Fitzroy Square, but died at Somers Town, in 1815, in his seventy-eighth year.

He left his favourite ring, with an intaglio head of Handel, to James Curtis, Esq., and he bequeathed £5 to Sir William Blizard, on express condition that he divided the windpipe of Reinhold's throat before his interment (an operation that was duly performed); lest he might be buried alive.

UNDER pretence of "trying the voice" of an aspiring singer or pronouncing on the executive powers of a pianist, we know how often professors have really to give advice to persons whom they have never seen before, and may very probably never see again. "Looking over" manuscript music, with a view to suggesting improvements, is one of those friendly acts which a theoretical master is often called upon to perform. But there is something novel in attempting to obtain harmony-lessons by sending compositions to a musical journal for review. A letter accompanying some music forwarded to us during the past month, however, shows that this practice is also resorted to; for the composer states that he has never studied either the theory or the practice of the art, and naïvely asserts that his intention in submitting the piece for our judgment is to "receive instruction," and hopes that we will "not leave any error unmentioned." Whilst wondering that any young writer can imagine that one of the duties of the editor of a musical periodical is to notice works by persons who confess that they have "never studied" the art, we cannot but acknowledge the candour of our correspondent in boldly stating the object he had in view. Yet why should music be considered so different from literature, and the composer of a piece do what the author of a book would never think of doing? Who, for instance, would publish a work and send it to a journal for review with a note stating that the writer had never been educated in his own language, and would therefore be much obliged by the critic giving a few hints as to the construction of sentences and kindly correcting any little mistake in orthography?

WE have never been able to understand why the homage paid to lyrical vocalists should be reserved for the prime donne. Surely there are great singers of the sterner sex who fully merit a portion of those enthusiastic marks of appreciation which are not only lavished upon the operatic heroines whilst on the stage, but often pursue them beyond the walls of the theatre, and even to the doors of their residences. True it is that bouquets and diamonds seem more especially suitable offerings for a lady; and we can hardly perhaps expect that persons would harness themselves to a carriage to draw a male vocalist home, however they may admire his artistic qualifications; but that there are methods by which the pent-up feelings of an audience can be displayed to him at the conclusion of a performance has been recently proved at the Theatre Royal, Dublin, on the appearance of Mr. Sims Reeves as Henry Bertram, in "Guy Mannering." When we mention that he was in his finest voice, it is unnecessary to say that his singing created an effect which baffles description. Every song was given with that exquisite sympathy of expression peculiarly his own, and when he responded to an encore he thoroughly won the hearts of his audience. The applause was overwhelming; and, as a matter of course, Mr. Reeves was recalled at the fall of the curtain and received a perfect ovation. But these conventional signs of gratification were evidently considered insufficient, for we are informed by the local papers that an immense crowd assembled round the stage-door, and when the great tenor appeared he was cheered to the echo. The people surrounded the carriage in which he had taken his seat, and congratulations on all sides were showered upon him. Several enthusiasts insisted on shaking hands with him; a parting salutation was given; and, a passage being at length made, the carriage drove off. It is scarcely perhaps desirable that operatic singers should thus be followed by their admirers into the streets after the labours of an evening are over, and compelled to undergo additional excitement when they need repose; but if, as we have said, such scenes are to be enacted by an abnormally excited audience, it is good to find that tenors as well as sopranos are occasionally made the subject of them; and we must also record our pleasure that so consummate an artist as Mr. Sims Reeves has unconsciously been the means of inaugurating this custom.

In one of Charles Dickens's "Sketches" an account is given of a newly invented fire-escape which, although never having been tested at a conflagration, had been occasionally exhibited in several streets before large audiences, and the number of boys who were saved from houses not on fire was, it was said, almost incredible. But one night it happened that its services were required in earnest; and then, from some unexplained cause, it could not for a long time be brought close enough to the burning premises, and when at length placed in proper position, it was discovered that the escape-ladder could only be presented at the windows upside down. This piece of good-humoured satire is often brought to our recollection when we see that some extra doors for exit, in case of any sudden alarm, have been provided at a few of our public buildings "by order of the Lord Chamberlain." Everybody feels so exceedingly comfortable whilst gazing at these additional modes of egress as long as quiet reigns amongst the audience, but once let a panic arise and the insufficiency of these precautions will be at once apparent. Mr. Mitchell, clerk in the Houses of Parliament, who was lately examined before the Select Committee appointed by the House of Commons to inquire into the best means of protecting life and property in the metropolis from fire, tells us that at Exeter Hall there are only two doors leading from the concert-room, and that it takes from ten to fifteen minutes to clear the room after a musical performance. With the exception of the Albert Hall, which has twenty-two exits, very few of our concert-rooms and theatres are constructed on any principle save that of supplying the means of allowing the people to walk leisurely out after an entertainment is over; and we are quite certain that unless some stringent law is passed enforcing upon the proprietors of existing structures the absolute necessity of providing for the more speedy escape of an audience in case of emergency, and compelling architects to submit their plans of future public buildings to a competent tribunal, we can have but little hope of averting a catastrophe whenever and wherever it may occur.

WE have long ago given up the attempt to comprehend the tactics of operatic lessees. Why it is, for instance, that with one artist in the establishment excellently suited for a certain part, another should be cast for it who has scarcely any qualification for the fulfilment of its requirements? Or why the most lavish expense should be bestowed upon an Opera the music of which neither appeals to the educated nor the uneducated listener? But there is one peculiarity which usually characterises the season calling, we think, rather for remonstrance than a mere passing observation. We mean the bringing upon the stage vocalists gathered from the continental theatres who are obviously incompetent to occupy a leading place in a lyrical establishment of any pretension. It is certainly possible that the lessee may not have the ripeness of judgment to decide whether a singer can sing; but that the Conductor is invariably a musician of high standing is an admitted fact; and surely there must be some strange influence at work when we find such unformed artists placed in principal parts that critics, for very sympathy with their false position, are compelled to pass gently over their defects in the hope—usually realised—that they will not be heard again. Unquestionably those who subscribe large sums for boxes and stalls during the season do so on the tacit understanding that the stage will be occupied either with artists of universally acknowledged talent or with those whose reputation abroad has been the passport to this country, and who require therefore but to be heard to be appreciated. An operatic audience has no right to be considered as a board of examiners to pronounce upon the relative merits of immature vocalists; still less should it be imagined that the Opera-house is an academy where students learn to sing, whilst the public pays for their instruction.

THE influence of the musical articles in the Athenæum having long since reached the point nil, those who, under ordinary circumstances, might have suffered annoyance from their intended hard-hitting, have learned to find in them a source of genuine amusement. The last effusion prepared for the readers of that learned and generally respectable journal is a reiteration of the violent attack on Doctors of Music which appeared about a year ago in the same columns. This article, under bad advice and much to its discredit, the Pall Mall Gazette reproduced, with an unmeaning commentary of its own. Probably the friendly Pall Mall Gazette was as unable to understand the real gist of the article as we are ourselves; but if this was the case it was rather unwise to attempt to comment upon it. It is not at all clear whether the writer in the Athenæum intended to attack musical graduates of Oxford only, or of Cambridge and Lambeth also; whether his remarks apply to honorary degrees, or only to those gained by examination. Moreover in the Pall Mall Gazette the article was headed "Musical Doctors;" it is quite possible therefore that it was meant as a hit at the eminent physician Dr. Stone, of St. Thomas's Hospital, and Dr. Champneys, of St. Bartholomew's, both of these gentlemen being very musical, and "doctors" into the bargain. But there can be no mistake about the meaning of the writer when he says that musical degrees are the almost exclusive possession of those "whose sole stock-in-trade is notoriety;" that musical degrees are hodie "the possession of the illiterate," and that last Lent term in Oxford there was "an ugly rush of raw material, in the shape of hungry and terrified aspirants for musical titles," &c. &c. That it is of the utmost importance not only that graduates in music but also all sound musicians should have a certain amount of literary qualifications, we readily admit; but would it not be a fair rejoinder if the musical graduates were to demand that those who are placed on the musical staff of London papers should know something about music? If it is scandalous that a man who writes Oxon. after his name is not literary, surely it is no less scandalous that the destinies of public performers, the future of talented young composers, and the tendency of public taste in music should sometimes be moulded and directed by men who are absolutely ignorant of the principles and practice of the art on which they write so glibly. In the few cases in which musical contributions to current literature are from the pens of practical musicians every word they write is read with respect and carries weight.

HER MAJESTY'S OPERA.

THE opening of this establishment as an Opera-house, on the 28th of April, attracted a large audience, the brilliant appearance of the theatre, with its beautiful and appropriate fittings, its excellent method of lighting by a central chandelier alone, and its remarkably good acoustical properties, more than satisfying those whose recollection still fondly clings to the old building. "Norma" was the work chosen for Mdle. Titens, who was appropriately selected as the first operatic heroine to tread the new stage, and who was greeted with an ovation as cordial as it was well merited; for certainly, both histrionically and vocally, in such characters as these she still remains without a rival. The return of Madame Christine Nilsson has had the effect of drawing large audiences, but at present her talent has only been exhibited in the parts in which she has already earned her fame. Mdle. Mila Rodani has been exceedingly well received, especially as Maria in "La Figlia del Regimento;" but a few "first appearances" we in kindness pass over. M. Faure, as usual, gives much strength to the company, and we may also record the unqualified success of Mdle. Salla, who as Amalia in "Un Ballo in Maschera" showed talents of a high order. A good word too must be said for Mdle. Alwina Valleria, who, supplying the place of Madame Nilsson as the heroine in Donizetti's "Lucia" (in consequence of the indisposition of the latter), created a marked effect upon her audience.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA.

ALTHOUGH we have nothing whatever to record at this establishment in the shape of novelty during the past month, the appearances of Madame Patti, Mdle. Albani, Mdle. Zaré Thalberg, and Mdle. Marimon have given as much life to the season as well-known vocalists in well-worn Operas can ever do, for all these excellent artists have returned to us with even an increase of power, and have been received, as they deserve, with the warmest marks of welcome. Mdle. Avigliana has made a successful début as Donna Elvira, in "Don Giovanni," but the cast of this Opera has scarcely been satisfactory to those who remember better days. Signor Gayarre has displayed all his merits and all his defects in several parts since our last notice but he is evidently intended to be the tenor of the season, and the public seem to receive him at his own valuation. We never remember, for instance, much worse singing than he exhibited in the popular "La donna è mobile" in "Rigoletto," and we never remember its being greeted with more solid applause. As the Fester in the same Opera, however, we may chronicle a decided success in Signor Pandolfini, who has not only an excellent voice, but a commanding stage presence, and will no doubt prove a decided acquisition to the company. The houses have been uniformly good.

SACRED HARMONIC SOCIETY.

At the last Concert of the season, which took place on the 25th ult., the spacious Exeter Hall was, as usual, crowded to excess, the evening being devoted to the rendering of Spohr's Oratorio "The Last Judgment" ("Die letzten Dinge"), and Mendelssohn's music to Racine's "Athalie." The performance proper may be said virtually to have commenced with the second part of Spohr's great work; for although Sir Michael Costa was at his post punctually at the appointed hour, some time elapsed before the ranks of the choir were complete; and during the performance of the fine overture, and for some considerable time after, those who had come to hear the grand sacred work in its entirety were forced to divide their attention between the music and the numerous groups of late comers inquiring for their seats. The confusion thus created was increased by the absence during the earlier portion of the Oratorio of Mr. Guy, to whom the tenor part had been intrusted. In the interval before his arrival Sir Michael himself intoned the tenor soli, for the guidance of the orchestra, but in the solo and chorus "Holy, holy" much pardonable hesitation was caused in the choral portions by the absence of the principal vocalist. When at last Mr. Guy made his appearance he was received—whether justly or not we cannot pretend to say—with unmistakable signs of disapprobation on the part of the audience. The clock, which (somewhat inconveniently at times!) occupies such a prominent position in the Hall, pointed then to the hour of eight, suggesting the idea that possibly Mr. Guy may have mistaken this more conventional hour for the one appointed in the present instance; and in any case, whatever the cause of his late arrival, we feel sure that it was not intended.

Notwithstanding these disturbing influences the work in question was very well rendered by the excellent choir, under the firm guidance of its esteemed conductor. The first, in point of time, of Spohr's three Oratorios, "Die letzten Dinge," is also the one upon which the composer's religious feelings are most deeply impressed. It is, however, somewhat unequal in style, and whereas in some portions of the work the restlessness of the romantic school—of which Spohr was one of the founders—is perceptible, in others the calm grandeur of the classical style is aimed at and sometimes attained. Instances of the former element abound in the orchestration and solos; the latter is more apparent in the choruses, notably in the concluding one, where the influence of Handel is to be traced in almost every note. The solos were efficiently rendered by Mesdames Sinico and Poole, Messrs. Guy and L. Thomas, and the orchestra left nothing to be desired. The Oratorio was succeeded by Mendelssohn's "Athalie," a work with the great merits of which English audiences are so familiar that special comment can be dispensed with on this occasion. There being no disturbing influences at work, such as marred the performance during the earlier part of the evening, the auditors gave themselves up to the enjoyment of an excellent rendering of Mendelssohn's masterly music, and warmly and deservedly applauded several portions of the work. If any fault is to be found, we should have liked to have accelerated the tempo of several of the choruses, which, especially in the male voices, also occasionally lacked the delicate intermediate shades between piano and forte. On the other hand, wherever the contrast of the two extremes was duly observed the effect produced was admirable. Miss Agnes Larkcom, Mrs. Suter, and Madame Poole were the soloists, and Mr. A. Matthison recited the illustrative verses with good effect.

THE WAGNER FESTIVAL.

WHEN the parents of a hopeful youth have had him christened John those who think that he should have been named George can do no other than acquiesce—John he must be to them; and similarly the concerts given in the Albert Hall under Herr Wagner's direction must be to us a "Festival." Truth to tell, however, their festive character is not very clear. They originated in a sad necessity to begin with. The Bayreuth Bühnenfestspiel was, as everybody might have anticipated it would be, a pecuniary failure. Five thousand pounds sterling were needed at its close to pay expenses, and though we are told that Wagner was not legally bound to make good this deficit—the onus falling on the town of Bayreuth—he considered himself under a moral obligation to reduce the debt as far as possible, and had in view, we are told, an artistic campaign throughout Germany with that object. When, therefore, it was proposed that he should come to England under conditions of a very favourable nature, the scheme obtained his assent, though not, we would fain believe, without much hesitation. For what did the English entrepreneurs ask him to do? First, to quit his seclusion and take a prominent place before a strange, mayhap an indifferent, public; next, to personally conduct his own music—a task for which he knew himself, as all of us now know him, to be unfitted; and, thirdly, to present that music under conditions never contemplated by its author and incompatible with its intended effect. No man was ever invited to do more disagreeable things, for, besides personal annoyances, the proposal entailed a sacrifice of artistic principle to an extent that compromised the whole of Wagner's system. It is easy to suppose, therefore, that the poet-composer yielded to the seduction of Messrs. Hodge and Essex with reluctance, foreseeing disaster in matters of much greater importance than any connected with money, and ashamed to lend the sanction of his presence to a violation of that which he has proclaimed to be the essential rules of lyrico-dramatic art. But, whether reluctantly or not, he yielded to the tempters, and the Wagner Festival, which was not a festival so much as an occasion for fasting and humiliation, duly took place.

So much has been said of late upon the mistake made by Wagner in giving concert-room performances of his dramatic music that we need not enlarge upon the subject here. Indeed, both the character and magnitude of his error are so obvious as to require no pointing out. Operatic scenes are bound to suffer when divorced from the stage—those from Wagner's operas most of all. In the case of works like "Don Giovanni," where the music is complete in itself, the resultant mischief may not be great, but in "Der Ring des Nibelungen" the music is so intimately associated with what goes on upon the stage that separation is impossible without damage of the gravest kind. Take, for example, the 150 bars or so of the chord in E flat in the opening of "Das Rheingold," where the arpeggios rise and fall in measured and, to the concert-room hearer, monotonous cadence. But, in view of the rippling waters of the Rhine, and the graceful rhythmic motions of the Rhine Maidens, the music becomes at once poetical and truthful. This is but one instance out of hundreds that might be named as conclusive of the fact that, in sanctioning the Albert Hall "Festival," Herr Wagner was at once cruel to his own artistic offspring and accessory to a measure calculated to deceive the public. We scarcely need trouble to establish these facts more conclusively than they are found on the very face of matters. It is clear at a glance that Herr Wagner's music suffers by divorce from the stage; and it is not less obvious that when so presented the public is unable to judge either its merits or its defects.

The enterprise, thus springing from a disagreeable necessity, and carried out on false if unavoidable principles, was pursued throughout by a malignant fate. We lay no stress upon current reports that the paying audience were much less numerous than the number of seats occupied, and that the managers of the "Festival" have incurred a heavy loss. These are matters which concern the public no more than they do Herr Wagner, who, we are glad to believe, had an adequate sum assured him. But the public were interested in the fact that the master brought from Germany a band of artists such as, with the exception of Madame Materna and Herr Hill, could not be called singers in any sense of the term. We in England are accustomed to the hearing of foreign vocalists who are not vocal, but it is doubtful whether a troupe more incompetent in this respect ever appeared on an important occasion. On the other hand, it may be said the representatives of Herr Wagner's dramatic characters are not required to sing so much as to declaim with more or less stentorian power. That is true, no doubt, yet there are times when something like singing is demanded, and at all times even the untrained ear demands accuracy of intonation, which at the Albert Hall was very seldom supplied. To make matters worse, two of the artists, Herren Unger and Hill, suffered from the effects of our balmy spring breezes, and the programmes were altered in the most disappointing way. Finally, it seems to have been in the engagement with Herr Wagner that he should conduct a portion of every concert. This was the hardest blow of all, for the master, great as he is in other respects, is a poor conductor; equally lacking spirit and the power of control. How, after such an enumeration as the foregoing can we style the Albert Hall Concerts a "Festival"? They presented nothing to rejoice at, and even the most unreflecting partisan of the master must now see that they only gave occasion to the enemy to blaspheme.

Coming to the arrangements made for the performances, it is significant as to Herr Wagner's musico-dramatic method that the orchestra was first and the rest nowhere. Apart from the soloists, eight in number, and a small chorus of male voices used in the selection from "Der Fliegende Holländer," there was nothing else but an orchestra numbering 169 instruments. With regard to this big machine it is worthy of note that its constitution differed from that of the orchestra at Bayreuth. The Bühnenfestspiel band was unique in the richness and variety of its brass and wood, while that at the Albert Hall followed the usual character, if not quite the usual proportion of orchestral elements. Thus there were twenty-four first violins, twenty-four second ditto, fifteen violas, twenty violoncellos, twenty-two double basses, six flutes, seven oboes, eight clarinets, seven bassoons, eight horns, five trumpets, five tubas, seven harps, and a percussion force of six. The power of this mass, great as it was, proved none too great for the effects demanded of it in the Albert Hall; nor, though at times the brass became unduly predominant, could much fault be found with the balance of the various parts. But the really notable thing in connection with the orchestra was the fact of its having been almost entirely collected in London at a time when none of the artists engaged at the operas, &c. were available. Nothing could more fully demonstrate the extraordinary musical wealth of London—wealth in a great measure unsuspected, as those had reason to know who saw performers long thought dead to the public reappear full of life and power. Moreover, the orchestra was a very capable one, and, if report be true, came up to even Herr Wagner's expectations. Its task was one of no small difficulty, and, although the rehearsals were numerous and painstaking, the manner in which everything was done deserved hearty acknowledgment and commendation. We may add here, as another agreeable feature of the "Festival," that the performances were largely patronised by the Royal Family. The Queen, it is true, did not attend as was expected, but scarcely a concert passed without the presence of one or more of her children. Both Herr Wagner and Herr Wilhelmj (leader of the orchestra) were introduced to the Prince of Wales, at the desire of his Royal Highness; and the poet-composer was further honoured by an audience with the Queen at Windsor, reviving recollections of a similar event in the Hanover Square Rooms twenty-two years ago.

Considering at what length the performances were noticed in the columns of the daily Press and elsewhere, we shall not be expected to go through them in detail. It will suffice to state what was done as a matter of record, and then offer some few general remarks. At the first concert were heard the Kaiser-marsch and selections from "Rienzi," "Tannhäuser," and "Das Rheingold," the last-named work being represented by its opening and closing scenes. The second programme included the first act of "Der Fliegende Holländer," and part of the third, followed by the first act of "Die Walküre." At the third concert were given parts of "Lohengrin" and "Tannhäuser;" at the fourth, the Huldigungsmarsch, portions of "Lohengrin," "Siegfried," and "Götterdämmerung;" at the fifth, a selection from "Die Meistersinger" and "Götterdämmerung," and at the last, the Centennial Exhibition March, another excerpt from "Die Meistersinger," portions of "Tristan und Isolde," and the closing scene of "Götterdämmerung." As to the manner in which these things were done we have already had somewhat to say, but now is the time to acknowledge the very valuable services of Herr Richter, the Wagnerian conductor par excellence. Whenever the bâton fell from the nerveless hand of the master Herr Richter took it up to retrieve the fortunes of the day. And right well he did this. New life appeared to animate the orchestra, every man of whom seemed to be in a measure inspired. Thenceforth, on every occasion, all went well, and the merits of Herr Wagner's elaborate orchestration were satisfactorily displayed.

The question now arises—and need not take up much time in the answering—what are the artistic results of the "Festival"? We have already shown that it has not afforded any means of judging Herr Wagner's music-dramas, and for that advantage we have still to wait. But it has enabled English amateurs to see, and in some measure to appreciate, the fact that the master's method, under the favourable circumstances of really emotional poetry, does allow of a musical result with which per se it would be hard to find fault on the score of non-compliance with orthodox rule. For example, the opening scene of "Die Walküre" is a revelation of a new order of beauty, and other instances might be cited. Per contra, those of us who were at Bayreuth know that a drama can offer such highstrung and passionate situations only now and then. Elsewhere, the master's method simply entails dulness and weariness beyond endurance. Thus far the "Festival" performances did something to promote the general knowledge of Wagner's work, but they did much more by revealing the amazing wealth of his ripened method of orchestration. Nothing like this can be found in the entire range of music. Wagner uses the orchestra with as much ease as a child plays with a little toy, and can make it do almost everything but speak. Its expression of the varying sentiments of the text is marvellous in directness and fidelity, while the constant play of colour, managed with all an artist's eye to effect, is a source of continual wonder and delight. This is all that can be said of the "Festival" from the point of view of good results, and it must be owned that the consequence is hardly proportioned to the vastness of the means employed.

Two supplementary Concerts were given on the 28th and 29th ult., but our remarks upon these are necessarily reserved.

HERR RUBINSTEIN'S RECITALS.

THE visit of Herr Rubinstein to England during the past month has excited no less interest among musicians and the general public than was the case last year. The great pianist has, it is evident, lost none of his attractive power; there is the same indescribable charm about his playing which was so noticeable on the occasion of his previous visit. We spoke of his performances in such detail just a twelvemonth ago in these columns that it is needless to repeat what was then said, more especially as there is no perceptible change in his style as compared with last year. That impetuous disposition which sometimes appears to carry him away still manifests itself from time to time. In certain pieces he seems to lose all self-control; yet it is impossible not to take him "for better for worse," because it is evident that his very failings are the result of that same impulsiveness which on other occasions gives so special a charm to his playing.

Instead of giving a dry catalogue of all the music performed at the Recitals during the month it will be best to say a word or two as to the most noteworthy items of each programme.

At the first Recital (on April 30) the most perfect pieces of playing were, first and foremost, Liszt's transcription of Schubert's "Erl-König," rendered not only with astonishing technical perfection, but with a fire and depth of expression which were unsurpassable; and next Schumann's "Etudes Symphoniques" in C sharp minor, also most magnificently performed. In a different style, Mozart's charming Rondo in A minor, and the Nocturnes by Field and Chopin, were perfect in grace and tenderness. On the other hand, Chopin's great Polonaise in A flat was given with a fury, almost with a ferocity, which rendered it a mere caricature. It was a wonderful display of execution, but it was impossible to agree with the reading.

At the second Recital (the 9th ult.) Beethoven's "Sonata Appassionata" (Op. 57), Schumann's "Carnaval," and a large selection from Chopin were among the chief works performed, all of which are especially well suited to the great pianist's style. Haydn's Variations in F minor, and three of Mendelssohn's "Lieder ohne Worte" were exquisitely given.

The third Recital (on the evening of the 14th) comprised Weber's A flat Sonata, a work in the interpretation of which no other pianist probably approaches Rubinstein; Schumann's great Fantasia in C (Op. 17), Chopin's Sonata in B flat minor, and a selection of small pieces by Rubinstein himself; while the fourth performance (on the 16th) was chiefly remarkable for the very fine rendering of Beethoven's Sonata (Op. 90), and Schubert's "Wanderer" Fantasia (Op. 15).

An evening concert (on the 25th) and the fifth Recital (on the 28th) taking place after our going to press, we can only record the fact. The last Recital is announced for to-morrow, the 2nd inst.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

THE Symphony in C, by Mr. Silas, performed for the first time at the fifth concert, on the 30th of April, scarcely came up to the high standard which we anticipated from a knowledge of this composer's previous works. True it is that the symmetry of construction and refinement of style which may as a rule characterise the chamber compositions of a thoroughly able and conscientious writer are not always to be found when a grand and more solid tone-poem is attempted; and even if Mr. Silas, therefore, feel with us that—cleverly written and brightly instrumented as his new Symphony undoubtedly is—he has hardly realised the position to which he aspired, he must remember that he fails in goodly company. The best movements in his work are the "Adagio" and "Finale;" the former, which opens with a graceful theme for the horns, having several excellent points, and the latter not only being based upon solid and well-defined subjects, but evidencing a power of treating these subjects with both skill and judgment. The Tarantella theme of the "Scherzo" will not bear the handling it receives as the movement progresses, nor indeed is the subject itself suitable for a Symphony, a fact especially observable when it is heard for the first time forte. With the audience, however, the entire composition was received most favourably, and Mr. Silas was called for at the conclusion and warmly applauded. In consequence of the illness of Mrs. Beesley, who was to have played Sterndale Bennett's Concerto in C minor, we were treated to a performance of Schubert's Fantasia for the pianoforte, (Op. 15), "symphonically adapted for pianoforte, with orchestra" by that great arranger of other person's ideas Franz Liszt. Professor Macfarren, in his analytical programme, says that the Abbate in this and in many other of his re-compositions "widely exercises his discretion, and for which he has his admirers." As we do not rank ourselves amongst these, we will content ourselves with recording that the Fantasia was performed by Signor Lodovico Breitner with characteristic energy. Herr Hausman's rendering of Raff's violoncello Concerto in D minor was infinitely better than the work merited. He has an exceedingly fine tone, and phrases like a finished artist. The vocalists were Madame Patey and Mr. Barton McGuckin.

The morning Concert on the 14th ult. was chiefly remarkable for containing Mozart's Concerto in C, for harp and flute, so well played by Mr. John Thomas and Mr. Oluf Svendsen as to delight all hearers, although the composition itself has but small claim to a place amongst the works of the composer. The cadenzas written by Mr. John Thomas show not only much technical knowledge of both instruments, but a deep sympathy with the work for which they are designed, and it is needless to say that they were warmly applauded. The programme also included a violin Concerto, with pianoforte accompaniment by F. W. Rust, finely played by Signor Papini, and songs by Mdlle. Redeker and Miss Robertson.

MR. HENRY LESLIE'S CHOIR.

THE third subscription Concert, which was given on the 11th ult., consisted entirely of English music, and attracted a large and enthusiastic audience. The excellent singing of the choir in Mr. W. Macfarren's part-song, "Bells across the sea;" Weelkes's Madrigal, "As Vesta was descending;" Sir R. Stewart's "Bells of St. Michael's Tower;" a new part-song for male voices by the Conductor, "The rejected lover," and Sir W. S. Bennett's "Come live with me," &c. was highly appreciated, and several encores were awarded. The solo vocalists were Madame Lemmens-Sherrington, who gave brilliant renderings of a new song by Mr. Leslie, "The mountain maid," and Taubert's "In the woodlands;" Madame Patey, who sang "What does little birdie say" (A. Manns) and the old Maypole song "Come lasses and lads," responding to the unanimous encore for the latter with "The minstrel boy;" Mr. Hollins, who was effective in the solo in Purcell's "Come if you dare" and "Sally in our alley;" and Mr. Santley, who was received in the usual enthusiastic manner in Dibdin's "Blow high, blow low" and "The Vicar of Bray," singing "The friar of orders grey" and "The leather bottle" in response to the unmistakable encores elicited by both the first-named songs. Bishop's glees "Blow, gentle gales" and "The Fisherman's Good-night" and Dr. Cooke's "Hark, the lark," were sung most effectively by Miss Bessie Stroud, Miss Orridge (R.A.M.), Mr. G. Cosby, and Mr. F. A. Bridge. The last subscription Concert for the present season was announced for the 31st ult.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.

THE reopening of this establishment took place on the 10th ult., in the presence of the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs and a numerous company. The programme of the Concert, which was one of the principal features of the day, was remarkable chiefly for its having been constituted exclusively of compositions by English musicians, a fact worthy of note when we remember how on many similar occasions native works have been either entirely ignored or made to occupy a very unimportant place. The majority of the items in the programme were too well known to need comment; but that the importance of bringing forward new works was not overlooked was proved by the introduction of three compositions written specially for the occasion, viz. "Song of the Vikings," for chorus and orchestra, by Mr. Eaton Fanning; "Hail to the chief," chorus by Mr. E. Prout; and a "Choral Overture" for voices, orchestra, and organ, by Mr. Thomas Wingham; all of which were highly effective and well received by the audience. Mr. Fanning and Mr. Prout conducted their respective works, and Mr. Wingham played the organ-part to his Overture. The solo vocalists were Mrs. Osgood, who was very successful in "Where the bee sucks" (Arne), and "Is it for ever?" (Madame Sainton-Dolby); Madame Patey, whose singing of "Sweet and low" (Wallace) and "The Storm" (Hullah) met with the customary marks of approbation; Mr. E. Lloyd, who was enthusiastically applauded in "Come if you dare" (Purcell), and "The death of Nelson" (Braham); and Mr. Thurley Beale, who gave a spirited rendering of "Heart of oak" (Boyce). The same vocalists also took part in Bishop's "Chough and crow," and Leslie's Trio "O memory." The choir was heard to advantage in several part-songs; and the band played the Overture to Bennett's "May Queen," a Bourrée by Dr. Sullivan, a MS. Overture by Balfe, and a March, from "The Sleeper Awakened," by G. A. Macfarren, with excellent effect. Mr. H. Leipold presided at the piano, and Mr. H. Weist Hill resumed his position as Conductor. The reception given to Mr. F. Archer, whose performance on the great organ concluded the day's entertainments, showed that he has lost none of his former popularity. A series of Saturday Popular Concerts, at which classical music is to receive due attention, is promised, and performances of English Operas, under the direction of Mr. G. Perren, are also announced.

FESTIVAL OF THE SONS OF THE CLERGY.

THE 223rd Anniversary Festival of the Sons of the Clergy took place in St. Paul's Cathedral on Wednesday the 16th ult., and the large congregation which filled the dome and extended to the last arch of the nave bore witness to the interest which these Festival Services create and the appreciation in which they are held. The choir numbered 300 voices, and the orchestra, which has of late years formed an important feature at most of the leading festivals held in the Cathedral, was conducted by Dr. Stainer, as heretofore, from the back of the lectern; Mr. George C. Martin, sub-organist of St. Paul's, presiding at the organ with his now acknowledged ability.

Sullivan's Overture "In Memoriam" preceded and formed a most fitting prelude to the Service. This, we believe, is the first occasion on which this Overture has been performed under similar circumstances, and the broad and melodious subjects could scarcely have been heard to greater advantage. The thanks and congratulations of the musical public are due to the committee of the "Sons of the Clergy" both for the happiness of their choice and the success with which it was attended.

To the Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, composed expressly for the occasion by Mr. E. H. Thorne, considerable interest was naturally attracted, as being both the most recent and perhaps one of the most ambitious works of a modern Church writer of recognised talent. The Magnificat opens with a chorus for double choir, accompanied by the orchestra and organ; this is succeeded by solos for soprano and tenor, answered antiphonally by the chorus. The first subject recurs at intervals throughout the Canticle, a novel feature, we believe, in Service music. Whether it is one to be advised or commended we are doubtful. Not only, to our thinking, do the frequent repetitions of the first sentence of the Canticle violate the sense of the words, but the constant reiteration of the opening phrase of the music appears somewhat meaningless, and certainly detracts from the freshness with which it would otherwise have re-entered at the "Gloria." In structure the Nunc Dimittis is more simple, and the "Gloria" consists of a form of the melody of the "Old Hundredth," treated as a canon two in one at the octave for the voices, with a free orchestral accompaniment. On the whole the Service is a work of great merit, and it will certainly improve upon acquaintance.

To Schubert's "Song of Miriam," which formed the Anthem, our remarks as to the opening Overture equally apply, for it is new to the church. Composed in 1828, only a few months before his death, it is most characteristic of Schubert's style, and shows him at his best. It is written, as most of our readers are probably aware, for a soprano solo and chorus; and we cannot say more than that the orchestral writing, though by another hand, is thoroughly Schubertish, and in the highest degree worthy of the work. The middle portion of the Cantata, which tells of the pursuit by Pharaoh's host, its overthrow, and the delivery of Israel while the waters of the Red Sea stand "as crystal walls on either side," is intensely dramatic and descriptive. The treble solos were divided between two of the Cathedral boys, and rendered in perfect tune, and with that purity of tone for which the choir is now becoming so justly famous. The C in alt, to which the solo part once ascends, was taken with especial precision and clearness. The success of the whole service reflects great credit upon Dr. Stainer, both for his training the choir and his able conducting.

The sermon, which was preached by the Rev. Ernest R. Wilberforce, was preceded, according to custom, by the "Old Hundredth" Psalm, and followed by the Hallelujah Chorus, and the blessing pronounced by the Bishop of London terminated a most impressive Festival Service.

LONDON GREGORIAN CHORAL ASSOCIATION.

THE fifth Annual Festival of this Association took place in St. Paul's Cathedral, and was, we think, from a general point of view, more successful than usual. The service began with Cælestis urbs, Jerusalem, from the "Hymnal Noted," sung as a processional. The enormous choir of 1,000 voices was reinforced by trumpets, trombones, euphoniums, clarinets, and a few violins, while Mr. Warwick Jordan, as usual at these services, played the organ. Considering the huge size of the choir (the procession lasted half an hour) the processional hymns were very well sung, but we think it nearly impossible for the organ to accompany and sustain voices at such a great distance; so if we may make a suggestion, at another time it might be well to station the brass instruments about half-way down the nave under the direction of a Conductor. This would be sufficient to keep all the voices together, and the organist's work would not be so difficult, while the general effect would certainly be greatly improved. The Psalms (Compline) and Canticles were given with fine power and precision, and the vast body of tone will not be easily forgotten by those who were fortunate enough to be present. The Anthem was the final chorus from Mr. Jordan's "Blow ye the trumpet in Zion," and, excepting the high A of the soprano parts, went exceedingly well. It would be better, we think, if this part of the service were left entirely to the harmony part of the choir, which we believe numbered nearly 500 voices on this occasion. We notice in Gregorian services of the present day a great desire to throw off the severity which in years gone by was considered its special characteristic; some verses in the Psalms are sung in harmony, and the poor old melodies are highly flavoured with the modern chromatic scale. Of course this popularises services of this kind, but we consider it an open question whether the rather difficult and exceedingly high-set harmonies used at the service at St. Paul's were improvements. Mr. Jordan went through his difficult labours with great credit; and the Rev. T. Helmore (who, as usual, occupied the post of Conductor) succeeded in directing the voices of the large and scattered choir with far more precision than could have been expected. The Rev. H. C. Shuttleworth, one of the minor Canons, chanted the prayers, &c., and the Rev. Canon Ashwell preached the sermon, which was both appropriate and concise.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY MUSICAL SOCIETY.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

THIS remarkably vigorous and enterprising Society—fitted alike by its own ability and by its recognition of ability in others to be the artistic representative of an English University—gave an orchestral and choral concert, in the Guildhall, on the 22nd ult., under the direction of Mr. C. V. Stanford, M.A. (Trinity). A concert of chamber-music had taken place some days before, and the speedy following of this by a performance on a larger scale no doubt arose from a desire to take advantage of "May week," when numbers of visitors are ready and anxious to be entertained. By these, as well as by members of the University and townspeople, the Guildhall was crowded on the occasion of which we speak; and it is but just to say that a more discriminating and appreciative audience has not come under our notice in the course of many years' experience. The programme was a model in its way. It contained enough, but not too much; it presented an agreeable mixture of the novel and familiar, and every item excited more or less a special interest. But a good programme is not the only essential of a good concert; there must be capable performers also, and these the enterprise of the Society did not fail to secure, adding to its own well-trained chorus a capital London orchestra, headed by Herr Straus, the Milles. Redeker and Friedlander being solo vocalists, with whom were associated, as representing cultured amateurism, the Rev. L. Borissow, the Rev. Walter Jekyll, and Mr. G. F. Cobb, the energetic and courteous President of the Society. Finally, in Mr. Stanford the concert had a Conductor who, if not yet rich in the experience necessary for a complete performance of his duties, possesses no ordinary ability.

The proceedings began with the Prelude to Wagner's "Meistersinger," respecting which, at a time when reams are being covered with opinions about Wagner and all his works, nothing need be said here. As to the performance, no reasonable person expected that an orchestra brought together with but time for one hurried rehearsal would perfectly interpret so complicated an expression of "festive pomp and warm passion, of open, joyous, mediæval humour." But the Overture was played nevertheless with vigour and dash sufficiently marked to win for it the favour of the audience, who were loud in their applause. Next came a novelty of the highest interest—a Rhapsodie (Op. 53) for alto solo and chorus of male voices by Herr Brahms, performed on this occasion for the first time in England. The German master found the theme of this work in the "Harzreise in Winter" of the great German poet, and has set to music that part of it where Goethe, moved to compassion for a wretched misanthrope encountered in his travels, first describes the condition of the recluse and then appeals on his behalf to the "Vater der Liebe." That an accurate idea of the subject may be formed, we will reproduce a translation of the original text. First, the poet pictures the misanthrope's condition: "But who goes there apart? In the brake his pathway is lost. Close behind clash the branches together; the grass rises anew; the desert engulfs him. Ah! who health the sorrows? Who, if balsam be deathly, and the hate of men from the fulness of love be drained? He that was scorned turned to a scorner; lonely he devours all he hath of worth in a barren self-seeking." The whole of this portion of the extract is set for alto solo and orchestra; the latter, as those who know Herr Brahms's manner will assume, playing a descriptive part not less important than the former. Here, indeed, the master comes, as regards the fashion of his art, very near to the Wagner of "Der Ring des Nibelungen." His vocal music embodies less the influence of melody than the strength of declamation, while the orchestra, treated with breadth of design and vividness of colour, really supplies all the musical effect. We cannot admire the result too much, whether from a technical or suggestive point of view. There is no need to assert Brahms's mastery over the orchestra; but it must be said that in this wild and gloomy music we have his genius as a tone-painter fully declared. Not a ray of light illumines the dark prospect, and before the end arrives the hearer longs, even amid his interest in the musical technique, for change and relief. How happily the change comes, and what a relief it brings with it, when the poet makes his passionate appeal to the Divine mercy: "But if from Thy Psalter, all-loving Father, one strain can but come to his hearing, O enlighten his heart! Lift up his o'erclouded eyes where are the thousand fountains hard by the thirsty one in the desert." After some bars of orchestral music, which show us, so to speak, the first faint flush of morning, Brahms makes his male-voice chorus enter, in close rich harmony with this piteous cry. And here, too, for further grateful contrast with previous desolation, he uses a suave and gentle melody, in itself suggestive of the desired peace. Nothing could be more beautiful or more truly expressive, and when, presently, the solo is again heard, like the voice of an angel pleading before the throne, we feel sure that there can only be one answer, that the eyes of the "thirsty one," no longer o'erclouded, will be lifted up to see the "thousand fountains" and to rejoice. Such are the impressions made by one hearing of the Rhapsodie, and without help from any other source. Closer criticism cannot now be given, nor, indeed, is it essential. Enough that Brahms so uses the language of human emotion that emotion responds to it, and whenever music has this effect its great end is attained. The performance was, on the whole, satisfactory. Middle. Redeker sang with intelligence and dramatic force, the chorus left nothing to desire, and the orchestra discharged its most responsible task, if not with the perfection made possible by intimate acquaintance alone, with praiseworthy completeness.

Following this novelty came another, a setting of the Forty-sixth Psalm for soli, chorus, orchestra, and organ, by Mr. C. V. Stanford, the Society's Conductor. As this work receives full attention in the reviewing columns of the present number of THE MUSICAL TIMES, any remarks upon its character would be superfluous here, and we have only to speak of its performance and the nature of its reception. The Psalm naturally excited a great deal of interest. Its composer appears to be a favourite in the musical circles of the University, and as he possesses talent which may some day confer upon his Alma Mater a large increase of artistic renown, the eagerness with which his work was heard requires no explanation. Unhappily, the performance was not so good as it might have been with more complete rehearsal, nor was it efficient enough to give the music a fair chance of making the best impression of which it is capable. The solos, entrusted to the artists and amateurs already named, were in a great measure satisfactory, and the choralists, as we need scarcely say, interpreted their Conductor's work with perfect knowledge and zeal; but the orchestra left much to desire, and once, indeed, broke down completely for want of fuller acquaintance with their task. On this account it was impossible not to sympathise with Mr. Stanford, while the fact that, in spite of this, the merit of the work was evident, and the applause it received warm and unanimous, supplied fair matter for congratulation. Mr. Stanford had to reappear in answer to a general "call" and bow his acknowledgments. The programme ended with Schumann's Symphony in D minor (No. 4), than which no more interesting work could have been found as a climax to an interesting concert.

On Tuesday, the 15th ult., the southern division of London choirs in connection with Trinity College, London, assisted at a Choral Festival in aid of the Choir Fund of Holy Trinity Church, Tulse Hill. Service commenced with an arrangement of Tallis in A, throughout which the voices were effectually drowned by the organ. The Psalms were precented and sung to Gregorian tones. It is a tendency not only of the Trinity College choirs, but of most other large choral bodies, to elaborate the so-called "service music" and the Anthem at the expense of the Psalms and Responses. Again, why Gregorian chants should have been selected for this occasion, when everything else was thoroughly Anglican in character, we cannot imagine. The Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis were sung to a setting in D by Humphrey J. Stark, a festival service containing many passages of remarkable beauty, the fugue at the end of the Magnificat Gloria being a scholarly piece of writing. The anthem, Croft's "God is gone up with a merry noise," was well rendered by the choir. The principal feature of the service was the performance, after the sermon, of Purcell's Te Deum (the "St. Cecilia") with organ accompaniment only. The alto solos were taken by Mr. Frost, of St Paul's Cathedral, the tenor by Mr. Stedman, and the bass by Mr. Horscroft, of St. Paul's. The verses were exquisitely sung, and the choruses went without a flaw. The rendering of the tenor solo, "Vouchsafe O Lord," by Mr. Stedman, was perfect and beyond all praise. If we take into consideration not only quality and range of voice, but artistic appreciation and expression, we can go so far as to say that we have never heard this solo so well sung as on this occasion. Mr. Frost and Mr. Horscroft are also entitled to their meed of praise for the admirable performance of their respective solos. The choir was remarkably well balanced, and did its work well throughout. The service was under the direction of Mr. Humphrey J. Stark, Mus. B., who conducted from the lectern; the cantors were Mr. Bonavia Hunt, Warden of Trinity College, and Mr. B. Agutter, Mus. B.; at the organ, Mr. E. H. Birch, Mus. B., Mr. A. Carnall, Mus. B., and Mr. Marchant.

A CORRESPONDENT sends us the following extract from "A Thousand Miles up the Nile," by Amelia B. Edwards: "The leader of the little band, an old man who played the kemengeh, or cocoanut fiddle. The kemengeh is a kind of small two-stringed fiddle, the body of which is made of half a cocoanut shell. It has a very long neck and a long foot that rests upon the ground like the foot of a violoncello, and it is played with a bow about a yard in length. The strings are of twisted horsehair. A more unpromising instrument it would be difficult to conceive, yet our old Arab contrived to make it discourse most excellent music. His solos consisted of plaintive airs and extemporised variations, embroidered with difficult and sometimes extravagant cadences. He always began sedately, but warmed to his work as he went on, seeming at last to forget everything but his own delight in his own music. At such times one could see that he was weaving some romance in his thoughts and translating it into sound. As the strings throbbed under his fingers the whole man became inspired, and more than once when in shower after shower of keen despairing notes he had described the wildest anguish of passion, I have observed his colour change and his hand tremble. He is celebrated throughout the Thebaid, and he is constantly summoned to various large towns to perform at private entertainments."

At Mr. J. B. Welch's fourth Annual Concert, which took place at St. James's Hall on the 10th ult., Mendelssohn's Hymn for contralto voice and chorus (Op. 96) and Schumann's Requiem (Op. 138, performed for the first time in London) were interesting items. Both works were on the whole well rendered, Miss Bolingbroke giving a careful and intelligent reading of the solo portion of Mendelssohn's Hymn; and Schumann's Requiem—in which Miss Anna Williams, Mrs. Bradshaw McKay, Mr. David Strong, and Mr. Edward Wharton were the principal singers—(although severely taxing the powers of the choral body) creating a highly favourable impression. Detailed criticism upon a composition of such importance must, however, be reserved for a future occasion, which, now that the works of this composer are obtaining such wide appreciation in this country, will no doubt be shortly presented. The other vocalists at this exceptionally good concert were Miss Kathleen Grant, Miss Bella Thomas, Mr. Shakespeare and Mr. Santley, Mr. Franklin Taylor being the solo pianist. Mr. J. B. Welch proved an able Conductor.

THE performance of Signor Randegger's Cantata, "Fridolin," at the concert of the Borough of Hackney Choral Association, on the 7th ult., afforded another proof of the excellent manner in which the choir is trained under the new Conductor, Mr. Ebenezer Prout. The choruses were so ably rendered, both as regards gradations of tone and precision of attack, as to elicit the warmest applause; the unwavering resolution of the Conductor to resist encores, indeed, being the only reason why some were not repeated. We are glad to find that our verdict upon this Cantata, when produced at the Birmingham Festival of 1873, has been fully endorsed by a metropolitan audience; and have little doubt that, as it becomes better known, it will be even more highly appreciated. The solo vocalists were Mrs. Osgood, Messrs. Shakespeare, Fox, and Pope, all of whom were thoroughly efficient, the lady especially creating a marked effect in the air "No bliss can be so great." Mr. Prout conducted with his accustomed care and intelligence.

A MORNING Concert was given by Mr. Osborne Williams at St. George's Hall on the 16th ult., when the following artists assisted: Miss Annie Sinclair, Miss Arabella Smythe, Madame Osborne Williams, Messrs. George Perren, Stedman, Maybrick, Thurley Beale, and Blagrove. Two new compositions of the concert-giver were performed—a duet for contralto and tenor, "Behold the warrior-bard depart," capitolly sung by Madame Osborne Williams and Mr. George Perren; and a very effective "Valse de Concert," played by the composer—both of which were received with considerable favour. Among other successful performances may be mentioned: "Lovely Spring" (W. Coenen) by Miss Annie Sinclair, "Ah, si ben mio" (Verdi) by Mr. George Perren, "My love" (Henry Parker) by Mr. Thurley Beale, "My boyhood's dream" (Hatton) by Mr. Maybrick, "I'll crown thee Queen" (B. Tours) by Mr. Stedman, and the concertina solos played by Mr. Blagrove. Messrs. Wilhelm Ganz and Henry Parker conducted with their usual ability.

On the evening of Wednesday the 16th ult. a highly interesting service was held at St. Mary's Church, Haggerston: Mr. C. J. Frost, Mus. B., Cam., directed the music and also presided at the organ. The most important parts of the service consisted of Smart's well-known and elaborate service in F, a very telling Festival Anthem by C. J. Frost, and Goss's "Praise ye the Lord," all of which were rendered with commendable precision and taste by the choir. At the conclusion of the service Mr. Frost gave an organ recital, the selection including a Sonata of Mendelssohn and a Fugue of Bach, and the performer's Sonata in A flat major and Offertory in G minor, his playing evidencing much skill and artistic feeling. Mr. Grizelle, who formed the only addition to the choir, sang Sullivan's "Come, ye children," and Mendelssohn's "Then shall the righteous," with considerable taste, and also successfully rendered the tenor solo in Mr. Frost's anthem.

MISS AGNES ZIMMERMANN'S Concert at St. James's Hall on the 3rd ult. was remarkable, as usual, for the absence of any attempt to seize the opportunity for exhibiting her own powers as a composer; for, with the exception of her clever Suite for pianoforte, violin, and violoncello, no work from her facile pen was contained in the programme. In Schumann's Fantasia, Op. 17, Miss Zimmermann's refined style and artistic feeling were most effectively displayed, and also in the pianoforte part of Brahms's Trio, with which the violin and horn (although ably played by Messrs. Straus and Wendland respectively) scarcely seemed to sympathise. Beethoven's Trio in B flat (Op. 97), for pianoforte, violin, and violoncello, was finely rendered by Miss Zimmermann, Messrs. Straus and Daubert; and the singing of Mdlle. Redeker, who was encored in a song by Klengel, completed one of the best classical concerts of the season.

The last of the admirable series of Concerts of Chamber Music, under the direction of Mr. J. S. Shedlock and Herr Polonaski, was given at the Rooms in Allen Street, Kensington, on the 23rd ult., the first part of the programme consisting chiefly of the works of Bach; the second part being devoted to Handel. The instrumental portion was sustained by Mdlle. Tesche, Messrs. Shedlock, Polonaski, Henri Lutgen, Amor, Bailey, Hann, Trust, and Rendall, whose artistic performances were thoroughly appreciated. The vocalists were Miss Mary Davies, Mdlle. Rosa, Mr. Stedman, and Mr. George Fox, prominent among whose solos were "My heart, ever faithful" (Bach), Miss Mary Davies; "Where'er you walk" (Handel), Mr. Stedman; "O ruddier than the cherry" (Handel), Mr. George Fox. Mr. E. H. Birch, and Mr. George Hooper conducted.

THE programme for the next meeting of the Three Choirs, at Gloucester, will be unusually interesting. After the full choral service on the first day, "Elijah" will be given; on the second day Bach's "Passion" (St. Matthew) and Beethoven's "Engedi" in the morning, and selections from the "Creation" and "St. Paul" in the evening; on the third morning Brahms's "Requiem," Wesley's "Wilderness," and the "Lobgesang;" and on the last morning the "Messiah." The Concerts at the Shire Hall will take place on the first and third evenings, when, amongst other pieces, Gade's "Crusaders" and Schumann's "Paradise and the Peri" will be performed. The vocalists engaged are Mdlle. Titiens, Miss Löwe, Miss B. Griffith, Madame Patey, Messrs. E. Lloyd, Cummings, Maybrick, and Santley. The Festival will commence on the 4th of September.

On the 2nd ult. Miss Ellen Horne gave a concert at St. James's Hall, when she was assisted in the vocal department by Miss Annie Butterworth, Madame Poole, Miss Kate Baxter, Mr. H. Guy, Mr. E. Lloyd, Mr. Chaplin Henry, Mr. A. Caink and Mr. Thurley Beale; Mdlle. Cecilia Brousil (violin), and the band of the Royal Horse Guards. The singing of "The Cantinier" (Balfe) by the concert-giver, "The Bailiff's Daughter" by Miss Kate Baxter, "Luna, veil thy light" (C. E. Tinney) by Mr. H. Guy, "I'll sing thee songs of Araby" (F. Clay) by Mr. E. Lloyd, "Largo al factotum" by Mr. A. Caink, and "I fear no foe" (Pinsuti) by Mr. Chaplin Henry, were received with much enthusiasm, several encores being awarded. Sir J. Benedict, Mr. A. Gilbert, Mr. H. Parker, Mr. C. E. Tinney and Mr. T. G. B. Halley were the Conductors.

THERE is every prospect of the approaching Handel Festival at the Crystal Palace being in all respects one of the most successful yet given. How the solo portions of the works to be performed will be rendered may be judged by the fact of Madame Adelina Patti, Mdlle. Albani, Madame Lemmens-Sherrington, Madame Edith Wynne, Madame Patey, Mr. E. Lloyd, Mr. Vernon Rigby, Mr. Cummings, Signor Foli, Herr Henschel, and Mr. Santley having been already engaged. The band and choir will number about 4,000 executants; the solo organ performances will be by Mr. Best, and Mr. Willing will preside at this instrument during the Oratorios. As we stated in our last number, Sir Michael Costa will, as usual, be the Conductor.

MR. J. PARRY COLE'S Fourth Variety Concert took place on the 3rd ult., at the Langham Hall, when he was assisted by the Misses Cora and Marie Stuart, Miss Susanna Cole, Messrs. Wallis Moylan, E. F. H. Burton, Frederick Chatterton, and other artists. Miss Cole received an encore for her rendering of Bishop's "Tell me, my heart," and the Misses Cora and Marie Stuart were highly successful in some duets by Mendelssohn and Kücken. The singing of Mr. Wallis Moylan was much admired, and Messrs. Burton and Saltoun were also well received in their respective songs. The instrumental solos were well given by Herr Rosenthal, Herr Henri Lutgen, Mr. Sydney Smith, and Mr. Frederick Chatterton. Mr. Cole was an efficient accompanist.

A VERY successful Concert was given, on the 25th ult. in the Schoolroom of All Saints Church, Kensington Park, one of the most prominent features being the admirable singing of twelve of the choir boys, especially in Mendelssohn's duet "I would that my love," the precision and intonation in this performance reflecting the highest credit upon their trainer, Mr. E. H. Birch. Miss Annie Butterworth and Mr. Stedman obtained encores for the "Lady of the Lea" (Smart) and "The dear long ago" (Julia Woolf), and Mrs. Florence Saunders made one of the best points of the evening by her careful playing of Liszt's transcription of the "Prophète." Much of the success was due to the excellent conducting of Mr. E. H. Birch.

A CONCERT in aid of the Royal Kent Dispensary was given at the New Cross Public Hall on Thursday, the 3rd ult. The vocalists were Miss Matilda Roby, who was deservedly encoired in both her songs, Miss Webb, Mr. G. F. Jefferys, Mr. H. E. Milner, and Madame Anna Jewell, who created a most favourable impression by her admirable singing of Schubert's "Marie" (encored) and Arditi's Valse. Mr. W. A. Adam played a flute solo, and Mr. Harry Brett a solo on the euphonium. The gem of the evening was Beethoven's Trio for pianoforte, clarinet, and violoncello, played by Mrs. Harry Brett, Mr. George Webb, and Mr. T. Serjeant.

ON Wednesday evening the 16th ult. the Oratorio "Elijah" was given in the Downs Chapel, Hackney, under the direction of Mr. E. J. Wallis, who conducted. The soloists were Madame Clara West, Madame Poole, Mr. Stedman, and Mr. George Fox, all of whom acquitted themselves in a highly efficient manner. The choir showed the result of excellent training, the choruses being given with much precision. The accompanists, Mr. Henry Parker on the piano, and Mr. R. Hainworth on the harmonium, contributed much to the success of the evening.

THE sixth Concert of the Mozart and Beethoven Society took place on the 16th ult., the first part being devoted entirely to compositions by these masters. The second part consisted of miscellaneous works by modern composers. The artists were Mdlle. Nellini, Madame Elma, Mdlle. F. Rocca, Madame A. Roche, Mr. E. E. Granville, Mr. H. Pyatt (vocalists); Miss Lillie Albrecht, Herr Max Laistner, and Herr Hause (piano); Herr Otto Booth (violin), Herr Schuberth (violoncello), Mr. H. A. Chapman (flute), and Madame Sievers (harmonium). Herr Schuberth conducted.

A CLEVER little comedy, by Mr. Burnand, entitled "No. 204," with some graceful music written by Mr. German Reed, has been produced with much success at Mr. and Mrs. German Reed's entertainment. It is exceedingly well sung and acted, by the Misses Holland and Braham, Messrs. A. Reed and Law. The programme also contains a new sketch by Mr. Corney Grain, illustrative of the troubles experienced by a young married couple at their first dinner-party, which enables the artist to exhibit his powers of imitation, and command of the pianoforte. Mr. George Gear is a very efficient accompanist.

ON the 18th ult. Mr. Theodore Drew gave a very successful evening concert at the Ladbroke Hall, Notting Hill, assisted by Miss Mary Davies, Miss Van Senden, Mr. Redfern Hollins, Mr. Stedman, Mr. T. Ley Greaves, Mr. Thurley Beale, vocalists; and Mr. George Clinton, clarinet; Mr. J. Munro Coward, American organ; with Mr. Julian Edwards, Conductor. The efforts of the bénéficiaire, both artistically and in the provision of an admirably selected programme, were highly appreciated by a large audience.

THE Concerts of Herr Hermann Franke, at the Royal Academy of Music, which concluded on the 8th ult., have been of so high a character as to make the lovers of classical music hope for a continuance of such model performances at the earliest opportunity. At the last concert the absence of Herr Wilhelm, from indisposition, sadly deranged the programme; but a very excellent selection, including the solo playing of Herr Hausmann on the violoncello and that of the concert-giver on the violin, thoroughly gratified the large audience assembled.

THE third season of the Organ Recitals at the Bow and Bromley Institute, which concluded on the 30th April, has been in the highest degree successful, not only in regard to the attendance at each performance, but as evidencing the fact of the growing interest taken by our leading organists in the attempt to popularise the works of the best composers for the instrument. The Recitals will be continued next season, when there can be little doubt that they will meet with even increased support and appreciation.

AN excellent concert was given by Mdlle. Ida Henry in the Concert-room of the Royal Academy of Music on the 15th ult. The principal feature in the programme was the artistic performance of the bénéficiaire, who, in Mendelssohn's Prelude and Fugue in E minor, a pianoforte Quartett of Schumann (in which she was ably assisted by MM. Viardot, Zerbini, and Daubert), Chopin's "Polonaise Brillante" (with Herr Daubert), and several other works of more or less importance, elicited warm and well-deserved applause. The vocalist was Mdlle. Redeker.

A SPECIAL Service in aid of the Choir Benevolent Fund will be held in St. Paul's Cathedral on Thursday evening the 28th inst. The Choir will consist entirely of professional singers, being composed of members of the St. Paul's, Westminster Abbey, and Chapel Royal Choirs, together with members of most of the Cathedral Choirs in England. The occasion being Coronation Day, opportunity will be given for an unusually fine rendering of Handel's "Zadok the Priest," which we hear is to be included in the Service.

WE regret much to announce the decease of the Rev. John Roberts, whose letter respecting the authorship of the tune "St. Mary" appeared in our last number. He was not only a zealous promoter of choral music in the Principality, but an able critic (two musical periodicals being under his editorship); and his judgment in matters connected with the art may be estimated by the fact of his being engaged as musical adjudicator in the Eisteddfodau, and most of the national festivities. He died at the age of fifty-four, after a brief illness.

MR. GEORGE SHINN, with the assistance of the St. Matthew's Choral Society, gave an evening concert at the Angell Town Institution, Brixton, on the 8th ult. The programme was of a varied and popular character, and was very well rendered, the solo vocalists being Miss Jessie Jones, Mr. Dudley Thomas and Mr. E. J. Bell; and the accompanist Mr. S. Fisher. Instrumental trios were contributed by Mr. James Turner (violin), Mr. H. A. Hawkins (violoncello), and Mr. Shinn (pianoforte).

THE Caxton Celebration will be appropriately inaugurated by a special Service in Westminster Abbey on the 2nd inst., at which Mendelssohn's "Lobgesang" will be performed as the Anthem. There will be a full orchestra and an increased choir, the whole being under the direction of Dr. J. F. Bridge, who has also contributed a setting of the Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis for the occasion. The service will commence at 3 o'clock and the Dean will preach the sermon.

THE City Temple Choral Society gave a very successful concert in the City Temple on the 17th ult. The programme consisted of sacred music only. The anthems and choruses were excellently rendered by the members of the Society, and the solos by Mrs. Parker and Mr. James were much appreciated. The tenor (whose name did not appear) was most deservedly encoired for his excellent rendering of "Waft her, angels." Mr. Minshall presided at the organ and played with skill several solos.

THE mass of evidence communicated to us respecting the "Cuckoo's call" during the past month is just as contradictory as we should have supposed, some declaring that the notes are a major third, some a minor third, some a minor second, and others asserting that the sounds are too indefinite to be written down at all. We have inserted a representative letter on the subject, and must now release our correspondents from the duty of further criticism on the bird's performance.

THE members of the St. Michael's Choral Society, Southwark, under the conductorship of Mr. George Winfield, gave their second concert of the season in the St. Michael's Schools on Tuesday, the 1st ult. The programme consisted of part-songs, duets, and solos. The Words from an Old Collection.

Music by J. L. HATTON.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)

Allegro.

TREBLE. All a-round in fai-ry ring, Thus we dance and thus we sing. Trip and ALTO. All a-round in fai-ry ring, Thus we dance and thus we sing. Trip and TENOR (Sve. lower). All a-round in fai-ry ring, Thus we dance and thus we sing. Trip and BASS. All a-round in fai-ry ring, Thus we dance and thus we sing. Trip and go, . . .

Allegro.

PIANO. $\text{♩} = 72$.

go, to and fro, Trip o'er the village green. All a-round . . . in fai-ry go, to and fro, Trip o'er the green. All a-round in fai-ry go, to and fro, Trip o'er the village green.

. . . trip and go, to and fro, Trip o'er the green. All a-round in fai-ry ring, Thus we dance and thus we sing. Trip and ring, All a-round . . . in fai-ry ring, Thus we dance and thus we sing. Trip and

All a-round in fai-ry ring, Trip and ring, All a-round in fai-ry ring, Thus we dance and sing. Trip and go, to and go, to and fro, trip and go, to and fro,

 go, to and fro, trip and go, to and fro, go, to and fro, trip and go, to and fro, trip and go, to and fro, Trip fro, trip and go, to and fro, trip and go, to and fro, trip and go, to and fro, Trip o'er the pp f

Trip o'er the vil - lage green, trip, trip, trip o'er the vil - lage green.
 Trip o'er the vil - - lage green, trip o'er the vil - lage green.
 o'er the vil - lage green, . . . trip, trip, trip o'er the vil - lage green.
 vil-lage green, the vil - lage green, . . . trip o'er the vil - lage green.

f

By the moon we sport and play, With the night be - gins our day, By the
 By the moon we sport and play, With the night be - gins our day, By the
 By the moon we sport and play, With the night be - gins our day, By the
 By the moon we sport and play, With the night be - gins our day, By the

p

moon we sport and play, With the night begins our day; While we frisk, the dew doth

moon we sport and play, With the night begins our day; While we frisk, the dew doth

moon we sport and play, With the night begins our day; While we frisk, the dew doth

moon we sport and play, With the night be - gins our day; While we frisk, the dew doth fall, Trip it, lit - tle ur-chins all; Light - ly as the humming bee, fall, Trip . . it, lit - tle ur-chins all; Light - ly as the humming bee, the hum -

fall, Trip . . it, lit - tle ur-chins all; Light - ly

fall, Trip . . it, lit - tle ur-chins all; Light - ly

the humming bee, the hum ming bee, the hum

as the humming bee, the hum

as the humming bee, the hum

dim. pp

- ming bee, f Two by two, and three by three, p So we
 - ming bee, mf and three by three, two by two, and three by three,
 - ming bee, mf . . . Two by two, and three by three, two by two, and three by three,
 - ming bee, mf Two by two, and three by three, two by two, and three by three, frisk with mer-ry glee, pp e stacc. so we frisk with mer-ry, mer-ry glee, we
 So we frisk with mer-ry glee, p so we frisk with mer-ry, mer-ry glee, we
 So we frisk with mer-ry glee, pp e stacc. so we frisk with mer-ry, mer-ry glee, we
 So we frisk with mer-ry glee, pp e stacc. so we frisk with mer-ry, mer-ry glee, we
 So we frisk with mer-ry, mer-ry glee, we frisk with mer-ry, mer-ry glee, we frisk with mer-ry, mer-ry glee, we frisk with frisk with mer-ry, mer-ry glee, we frisk with mer-ry, mer-ry glee, we frisk with frisk with mer-ry, mer-ry glee, we frisk with mer-ry, mer-ry glee, we frisk with frisk with mer-ry, mer-ry glee, we frisk with mer-ry, mer-ry glee, we frisk with frisk with mer-ry, mer-ry glee, we frisk with mer-ry, mer-ry glee, we frisk with mer - ry glee. All a-round in fai - ry ring, Thus we dance and thus we mer - ry glee. All a - round . . .

mer - ry glee. All around, Thus we dance and thus we mer - ry glee. All a - round . . .

sing; Trip and go, to and fro, Trip o'er the village green; All a - round . .
Trip and go, to and fro, Trip o'er the green; All a - sing; Trip and go, to and fro, Trip o'er the village green;
. . . Trip and go, . . . to and fro, to and fro, Trip o'er the green; All a - in fai - ry ring, Trip and

- round in fai - ry ring, All a - round . . . in fai - ry ring, Trip and All a - round in fai - ry ring, Trip and go, to and
- round in fai - ry ring, All a - round in fai - ry ring, Trip and go, to and fro, trip and go, to and fro, Trip go, to and fro, trip and go, to and fro, Trip fro, trip and go, to and fro, trip and go, to and fro, trip and go, to and fro, Trip o'er the go, to and fro, trip and go, to and fro, Trip o'er the pp f pp f

Trip o'er the vil-lage green, the vil-lage green, trip, trip, trip o'er the o'er the vil-lage green, . . trip o'er the green, . . trip, trip, trip o'er the village green, trip o'er the green, . . the vil-lage green, trip, trip, trip o'er the Trip o'er the vil-lage green, trip o'er the vil-lage green, trip o'er the f pp f

green, trip o'er the green, trip o'er the green.
 green, trip o'er the green, trip o'er the green.
 green, trip o'er the green, trip o'er the green.
 green, trip o'er the green, trip o'er the green.

p rall. p rall. p rall. p rall.

principal vocalists were the Misses A'Bear, Tapp, Earthy, O'Bray, Collins, Messrs. Irons, Cooke, and Mott. Mr. J. Finister, organist of St. Michael's Church, accompanied throughout the evening.

On the 24th ult. a Concert was given at the Town Hall, Stratford, in aid of the Building Fund of the West Ham Infants' School. The vocalists were Madame Ernst and Mr. Stedman. Mr. H. J. Stark was much applauded for his admirable pianoforte-playing. There was an orchestra, under the direction of Mr. T. C. Hutton, and the accompaniments were played by Dr. Hinton and Mr. H. J. Stark.

On Tuesday evening, the 8th ult., Haydn's Oratorio, "The Creation," was performed at the Trinity Presbyterian Church, Kentish Town, with great success. The principal singers were Miss Cattermole, Miss Wrenn, Mr. Monk, and Mr. Bridge; Miss Minnie Paul presided at the grand piano. The solos and concerted pieces were excellently rendered, and the chorus was both numerous and efficient. Mr. E. Cympton conducted with his usual care.

WE regret to learn that Mdlle. Titiens is seriously ill. She has undergone a painful operation, and is now lying in a precarious state. It need scarcely be said that the whole musical public will earnestly pray for the speedy recovery of an artist who has for so many years not only been a leading attraction on our operatic stage, but an indispensable requisite at all the principal musical performances in this country.

THE annual performance of the "Messiah," in aid of the funds of the Royal Society of Musicians, took place on the 4th ult. at St. James's Hall, under the conductorship of Mr. W. G. Cusins. The principal vocalists were Mrs. Osgood, Miss Bolingbroke, Madame Patey; Messrs. Cummings, Guy, Wadmore, and Lewis Thomas. There was an excellent choir, and an efficient band led by Mr. Willy.

ORGAN Recitals by Mr. W. T. Best on the great organ at the house of Mr. Holmes, Primrose Hill, have taken place weekly during the past month. Varied programmes have been selected, much to the satisfaction of those who take pleasure in this branch of the art, and who enjoy but few such opportunities of gratifying their taste.

HANDEL'S Oratorio "Esther" was performed by the Brixton Choral Society, under the direction of Mr. W. Lemare, on the 14th ult. The vocalists announced were Miss Kate Thomas, Mdlle. Helene Arnini, Messrs. J. Merrington, J. R. Jekyll, and J. Hutchinson; Mr. J. G. Boardman presiding at the organ.

WE have received from Mr. E. S. Palmer, of 30, Duke Street, St. James's, an etching of Herr Wagner by Leon Richeton. The characteristic features are well brought out, and the portrait will doubtless be appreciated by the many admirers of the master.

THE gross proceeds of the concert given on Easter Monday at the Albert Hall by Messrs. Nurdin and Peacock, in aid of the funds of the Cheesemongers' Benevolent Institution, amounted to £1,115 11s., which sum has been handed to Mr. John Corderoy, the treasurer.

WE understand that H.R.H. the Prince of Wales has been pleased to give his name as patron to the Choir Benevolent Fund.

A SERIES of Promenade Concerts, under the conductorship of M. Rivière, was commenced at the Queen's Theatre on the 19th ult.

REVIEWS.

Cinq-Mars. Opera en quatre actes. Poème de Paul Poirson et Louis Gallet. Musique de Charles Gounod. [Schott and Co.]

M. GOUNOD has shown himself more willing to oblige his friend M. Carvalho than solicitous for his own reputation. On the accession of the manager to the throne of the Opéra-Comique, the composer agreed to write for him an opera under conditions hardly allowing the best results. There was a real or fancied need for haste, and in six and twenty days after receiving the libretto M. Gounod had his score ready. We can admire the pluck and perseverance which alone made this result possible, and must look with satisfaction upon the fertility of ideas and fluency of expression to which the new opera bears witness. But whether a composer is justified in working under such conditions presents itself as a distinct question, the answer to which must be largely determined by the result of his labours. We do not censure Handel for writing the "Messiah" in three weeks, but were that oratorio a failure we should say of its author "Served him right." In like manner, whatever falling-off there may be in "Cinq-Mars" from the standard of M. Gounod's former works presents so much reason for blame as regards his submission to the circumstances imposed upon him.

The authors of the libretto were bold in undertaking to construct a book out of Alfred de Vigny's Romance. To make a drama from a novel is one of the most difficult of literary tasks; but to make a lyric drama with such materials is almost hopeless, because of the narrow limits entailed by musical exigencies. This, however, MM. Poirson and Gallet have done as successfully as could be expected, and their book may satisfy the French public, who know De Vigny's Romance well and are able to supply from recollection of its characters and incidents everything that the librettists were compelled to omit. But the case is different outside France and among those who do not keep themselves au courant with Gallic fiction. Our English public, for example, would have some difficulty in comprehending the operatic story. But it may be said that operatic stories are seldom comprehended. That is true, no doubt, and worth taking into account when estimating the chances of "Cinq-Mars;" but, on the other hand, the architect who, building a blind man's house, neglected symmetry and proportion, could scarcely plead the affliction of his employer in excuse.

The opera opens with a brief introduction beginning Adagio and containing a March (Andante) of solemn expression, destined to reappear at the crisis of the tragedy. Here is its leading phrase:—

The curtain then rises upon the chateau of the mother of Cinq-Mars, who has been summoned to Court by the all-powerful Cardinal, and we hear the assembled guests debating whether he should cultivate the favour of King or Minister. In this chorus (for tenors and basses) we recognise M. Gounod's happiest style. Among the visitors at the chateau is De Thou, the most intimate friend of Cinq-Mars, who is questioned by him as to his evident preoccupation of mind, and charged with being the lover of Princess Marie de Gonzague, also a guest then present. Cinq-Mars admits the soft impeachment, and laments the fate that tears him from his idol. Going on to wonder what destiny awaits him, he opens a book at random to divine it from the first lines which meet his eye. Then the friends eagerly read, in alternate phrases, the following:—"The high priest said to them, 'Sacrifice to the gods,' and the people, regarding them in silence, saw upon their faces already a celestial radiance. Calmly the two martyrs held each other's hand. The youngest then said, 'I fear to see thy blood. Let me die first, O my brother.' 'It is right, O Gervais, that I come after thee, for I have greater strength to see thee suffer.' They were soon struck with the same sword, and their blood mingled in the same grave." Undaunted by this sinister passage, the friends exclaim, "To live or die, what matters! God will strengthen us against fate. So be it." At that moment Father Joseph, the Cardinal's emissary, enters, and his echoing "So be it" ends the scene. There is a great deal to admire in the duet of the friends, especially where the reading occurs, the monotone of the voice gradually rising as the climax approaches, accompanied by a lugubrious figure:—

More and more intense becomes the passion till, at the reference to the blood of the martyrs, the subjoined phrase strikes the ear:—

and should be remembered as one of the leit-motives of the opera. Father Joseph has come to inform Marie that she is to marry the King of Poland, and an ensemble expresses the varied emotions with which the news is received. Passing this as containing nothing notable, and observing that at its close Cinq-Mars obtains from Marie the promise of a secret interview before they part, we come next to a chorus, "Allez par la nuit claire," of a simple unpretending character, and, after it, to the scene of the interview. Marie is the first to appear, wondering at the "audacious words" she has obeyed, and then breaking into an impassioned strain:—"O silent and resplendent night, fill my heart with thy peace and sweetness." Here M. Gounod is at his best. The music is not unsuggestive of that in which Marguerite ("Faust") at the window pours out her love-sick soul, and therefore its beauty at once finds acknowledgment. But, indeed, we know few things outside the love music of Wagner more sensuously exciting or more fascinating alike to ear and mind. Cinq-Mars now enters, declares his affection, and appeals for a favourable answer to the remembrance of the past. Here we come upon another representative theme:—

Faut-il donc oublier les beaux jours envolés Faut-il &c.

while the whole passage is remarkable for its acute expression. Marie, echoing the strain, bids Cinq-Mars be strong, for he is loved in return, and the act closes with a passionate though brief farewell.

The second act takes us to the Court of Louis XIII., and opens with a scene for Marion Delorme and the nobles, who sing her praises only to hear from the lady in return that the Cardinal contemplates exiling both her and her companion Ninon l'Enclos. One of the courtiers, Fontailles, thereupon expresses his idea of the condition of Paris without such fair attractions, doing so in a characteristic chanson with chorus, "On ne verra plus dans Paris." Taking advantage of their chagrin, Marion suggests revolt against the Cardinal, and invites her friends to a fête at which the project can be discussed. Passing over a short but brilliant March played while the king traverses the scene, we next find the courtiers congratulating Cinq-Mars upon his appointment as Grand Ecuyer; but our hero is happier than they know of, Louis having consented to his marriage with Marie, not suspecting the designs of his all-powerful Minister. The courtiers' chorus, "Ah! Monsieur le Grand Ecuyer," is one of the best things in the work, being full of spirit, point, and humour. As they depart, Marie enters, and in the course of their interview Cinq-Mars sings a Cavatina, "Quand vous m'avez dit un jour," declaring his resolve to overcome every obstacle, "si ce n'est la mort," that may hinder their union. This song is not remarkable, being, indeed, of a commonplace order. As it closes, Father Joseph appears, like an embodied spirit of evil. Again he delivers an unwelcome message with many expressions of regret. The Cardinal bids Cinq-Mars resign his pretensions to the lady's hand, albeit the King had given them royal sanction. Marie at once bursts into a passionate invective against Louis; her theme being accompanied by an energetic "figure" for the orchestra:—

At its close Cinq-Mars asks by what right the Cardinal so decrees, and declares he will not obey. The priest warns him that anger is a bad counsellor; but Cinq-Mars persists, and the scene ends with an energetic and exciting ensemble, the lovers declaring mutual constancy, while Father Joseph bids them look for a fatal dénouement. The next scene is laid at the house of Marion Delorme what time a fête à la Watteau takes place, and is introduced by an orchestral movement quite in the "powder and pigtail" style, one such as Rameau might have written. A dialogue for the hostess and Fontailles ensues, chiefly notable on account of a pretty accompanying theme for the strings. Following this comes the masque of "Clélie," with which Marion entertains her guests, and throughout which M. Gounod affects the style of the Watteau period. First we have a chorus and air, "Belle dont le sourire;" next a divertissement consisting of a Shepherds' Dance, a pantomime with chorus, "Aminthe est sauvage," several ballet movements of a fanciful character, a sonnet, "De vos traits mon âme est navrée," and an air and chorus, "Parmi les fougères." The music of all this we do not hesitate to call charming in its quaintness and old-world grace. M. Gounod has very happily caught the spirit as well as the form of his model, while the effect produced is heightened by contrast with modern surroundings. Moreover, the idea of the masque deserves approving recognition. It affords a relief to the prevailing gloom of the work, and relaxes the tension at which elsewhere mind and feeling are alike kept. The masque ended, very serious business begins. The courtiers disaffected to the Cardinal await the coming of Cinq-Mars, who presently arrives and delivers a spirited harangue, the burden of which is "The King reigns no longer. The Cardinal is master. It is time that king and country were avenged." All echo the cry in a short but energetic chorus, "Oui, le sang répandu nous demande vengeance;" after which Cinq-Mars proceeds to give details of his scheme, and the chorus is repeated with even more emphasis. As it ends, De Thou appears on the scene, and Cinq-Mars warns him to retire, but without avail. He will stand by his friend, while indignantly protesting against the alliance with Spain which forms part of the conspirators' project. In strong terms he begs Cinq-Mars not to be guilty of treason against his country, but the other conspirators demand the treaty, and the instant carrying out of their plot. Cinq-Mars consenting, the act closes with a repetition of the chorus "Oui, le sang répandu." Upon this part of the work M. Gounod has lavished all his care, not without good results, if, as we think, he has fallen short of the best. The music is always energetic and expressive, but it lacks individuality and never rises to the height of an inspiration. Luckily the dramatic interest is great, and the attention it claims diverts notice from shortcomings which otherwise could not be overlooked.

The third act opens with an orchestral introduction and chorus, "Le fanfare éveillée," which, being of a conventional hunting type, may pass without comment. Following it comes the trio of betrothal. The lovers determine, before separating, to consecrate themselves to each other, and Marie, guarded by De Thou, is brought to the appointed chapel, where she is joined by Cinq-Mars and those concerned with him in the dangerous enterprise upon which he has embarked. Beyond question the trio (for Marie, Cinq-Mars, and De Thou) ranks among the gems of the work. The true Gounod love-theme is here——with which is contrasted the solemn blessing of De Thou, given just when, with sinister purport, the phrase already quoted in connection with the martyrs reappears. Like most of the numbers the trio is not expanded, and when it ends we instinctively wish that M. Gounod had made more use of such materials. The betrothal takes place to the music of the almost funereal march forming part of the introduction (No. 1), and as all retire from the scene to enter upon the revolt we hear once more the passionate theme of the trio. These proceedings have had an unsuspected witness in Father Joseph, who now comes forward, and in an air, "Dans un trame invisible," gloats over the fate that awaits Cinq-Mars. The music of the song is full of character and, properly executed, must make its mark. At the close Marie enters, to be accosted by the priest, who warns her against Cinq-Mars, whom he accuses of interested motives. Marie indignantly protests, but Father Joseph goes on to reveal the project upon which Cinq-Mars has entered, and to say that nothing short of her renunciation of his love can save the rebel from death. Marie remains firm, and the scene ends, after a passionate ensemble, with a suggestion of the now familiar, though always sinister, March. At this moment hunting music is heard behind the scenes, and presently the king enters to the strains which accompanied his first appearance. Louis begs a favourable answer for the envoy of the Polish ruler. Once more the dramatic situation becomes intense. Marie knows not what to do. Her own love, the muttered behests of the priest, and the wish of the king distract her, till Louis solemnly commands the ambassador to salute her as his queen. Then the joyous hunting chorus breaks forth again and ends the act.

We now approach the catastrophe. When the curtain rises for the last time it does so on the prison of Cinq-Mars and De Thou, who are under sentence of death. Cinq-Mars dwells upon his love, while his friend bids him think of heaven. But this he cannot do. The orchestra reminds us that he goes back to the scene of the first interview with Marie, and then he gives expression to his feelings in a Cavatina, "O chère et vivante image," the music of which, written in M. Gounod's most passionate style, ought to become popular both among professional and amateur tenors. The melody is most touching and expressive, while its accompaniment overflows with rich effects. Marie now appears, and the intense feeling of the Cavatina is carried on into a Duet, "A ta voix le ciel s'est ouvert." For the latter, however, we care much less than for the former. It has merit, but lacks the nobility of character demanded by the situation. Marie brings tidings of a project for the deliverance of the friends, which is to be attempted on the morrow, and at once Cinq-Mars becomes radiant with hope, exclaiming as the Princess retires, "My heart overflows with infinite joy." But the morrow never comes. Steps are heard without, and, as the gloomy March once more strikes the ear, the friends are summoned to meet their doom. Then they recall the reading of the extract, and repeat "They were soon struck with the same sword and their blood mingled in the same grave." Before passing out to the block, they offer a united prayer, "Seigneur, soutiens notre âme," the music of which is as simple and devotional as, under such circumstances, it ought to be. That done the March is again heard, and the curtain slowly falls as the prisoners are led away.

We need add but little to these details in the way of general remarks. "Cinq-Mars" is not one of M. Gounod's best operas, but it contains much music of high interest on the score either of absolute beauty or dramatic truth. The whole work therefore deserves attention, and we sincerely hope that some spirited entrepreneur will give English amateurs the opportunity of judging its merits.

God is our Hope and Strength. (Psalm xlv.) Set to music for Soli, Chorus, Orchestra, and Organ, by C. Villiers Stanford. (Op. 8.) [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The composer of this Psalm is one of those young musicians who, either because they fancy themselves to be, or actually are, the possessors of great powers, attempt proportionate feats. We do not know all the seven works which precede it, but we are fully aware that Mr. Stanford has set himself a lofty ideal, and wastes none of his ability upon mere "pot-boilers." He is an earnest follower of the art, not, Judas-like, for the material good to be got out of it, but because being naturally an artist he cannot well help himself. We say this with boldness, since it is the only inference derivable from the fact that the young Cambridge graduate works perseveringly at the creation of music which, while it may bring him future fame, can do little in the way of present profit. Here then we start upon good terms with our composer. Youthful enthusiasm in a noble cause is always pleasant to look upon, and even when it becomes the parent of rashness, and entails all the penalties of zeal in excess of knowledge, we regard it with kindly interest and wish it well.

Not without concern do we open the pages of this Psalm, for we have asked ourselves, Will it ostentatiously proclaim its independence of Mendelssohn, or reflect that master's style and spirit? One or the other seemed inevitable, it being difficult to imagine any one sitting down to write such a work without Mendelssohn before him, either as something to be avoided or copied. The author of "As the hart pants" takes up the whole field of psalmody in its most expanded and important form, so that to ignore him when labouring in the same department is as difficult as to be heedless of Sebastian Bach in the region of organ fugues. But Mr. Stanford has avoided Scylla without falling into Charybdis. True, his work gives some indication that he has studied Mendelssohn; but generally speaking we recognise in it a successful avoidance of mere copying—the slavish reproduction of another man's mode of thought and language. This is in itself justification enough for the production of the Psalm. Mr. Stanford has divided his work into five numbers, certain of which are so subdivided that changes of key, rhythm, or tempo occur with more than usual frequency. But, on the other hand, unity is secured by the now familiar device of employing leading motives, which, occurring again and again at proper times and under fitting conditions, give the entire musical structure the compactness and consistency of a logical argument. The chief of these motives—

No. 1.

—is announced by the brass at the very outset, after the pattern set by Mendelssohn in his "Lobgesang," and by Schumann in his First Symphony. Here we have the central thought of the entire orchestral introduction (fifty-three bars), and also the theme of the opening chorus in fugue style: "God is our Hope and Strength." With reference to the contrapuntal writing in this number and elsewhere throughout the Psalm, we would suggest to Mr. Stanford the desirability of either avoiding mere counterpoint altogether in favour of the art which is descriptive rather than scholastic, or of giving counterpoint such a development and character as make it interesting per se. Fugues that are not fugues, and passages of imitation succeeding each other without design, have but small attraction and should be sparingly used; whereas counterpoint modelled on acknowledged forms and fully carried out secundum artem, while not incompatible with effects higher than those arising from technical skill, as many illustrious examples prove, exercise a power of which the musician may legitimately avail himself. In this particular instance we think Mr. Stanford would have gained by the introduction of a regular fugue—admitting the need of contrapuntal writing at all—employing the ensemble on the words "Therefore will we not fear" as an impressive climax. The ensemble, by the way, shows that its composer can handle masses with considerable effect gained by natural means. We may refer above all to the closing bars, in which, after much sturm und drang, the episode leads impressively to a resumption of the original theme and its contrapuntal treatment, which are this time presented with some considerable variations. No. 2, following No. 1 without a break, is a quartett andante con moto, in G major, having as its distinctive orchestral feature a series of flowing passages for strings, no doubt suggested by the words: "The rivers of the flood thereof shall make glad the city of God." The accompaniment throughout is picturesque and suggestive, and contributes equally with the voices to a happy result. In the vocal parts themselves there is not much to call for particular remark. They are melodious and well written, without aiming at anything like sensational effects. No. 3 is a chorus in the key of C minor—"The heathen make much ado"—having a bold and striking theme—

No. 2.

—attended throughout by an impetuous rush of quavers for strings in unison. There are some happy touches in this movement, which, generally speaking, strengthens our opinion that Mr. Stanford has the making of a good descriptive composer, the more because its effects are gained without the use of exaggerated means. After a rallentando midway in the number, a passage occurs in full harmony which afterwards becomes important:—

No. 3.

The working of the theme No. 2 having been resumed, No. 3 appears once more as the subject of a Coda in the tonic major, made all the more emphatic and expressive by a change from 3-4 to C. Its cadence may be transcribed:—

No. 4.

No. 4 is a baritone solo in A flat major, "O come hither and see the works of the Lord," in the accompaniment to which the harp plays a prominent—we cannot but think a somewhat too prominent—part. We note one effective passage on the words, "He breaketh the bow," &c., but otherwise the solo strikes us as the weakest number of the whole, albeit there are such evidences of thoughtful design as the appearance in the orchestra of the leading theme No. 1. A short chorus, piu lento, follows the solo in the same key, and to the words, "Be still then and know that I am God." Beginning ppp with voices in unison on the dominant, supported only by the horns, this impressive number works slowly through a grand crescendo, terminating, as far as the voices are concerned, on the dominant seventh harmony of the original key (E flat), and leading to a resumption of the opening theme (No. 1), with its contrapuntal treatment. Now, however, Mr. Stanford expands the subject and announces it as though a strict fugue were intended. But the strict fugal working of the theme is of less importance than are the episodic passages, and so far the number disappoints us. It is true that abundant precedents for such a plan as this might be found, but we contend that, when the resources of counterpoint are largely drawn upon in connection with a poetic text, the music to be successful must have an attraction of its own, arising from observance of some definite scholastic form, since in its very nature it can hardly be a vehicle of poetic expression. This theory mere desultory passages of imitation cannot of course satisfy. The coda of the "fugal chorus" is unusually expanded. First we have, piu lento, the theme No. 3 in its second form, accompanied by triplets of crotchets for the higher wind instruments. Then the same subject is announced fugally, leads to the reappearance of No. 1, and at last itself reappears (adagio) in full harmony. With this the work ends.

The scoring of the Psalm is one of its best features, and affords evidence that Mr. Stanford has bestowed much attention upon this branch of his art. It is bright, picturesque, and striking throughout; thicker perhaps here and there than desirable, but showing none the less a happy fancy and considerable skill. We note an exuberance about it characteristic in some degree of the entire work, and natural to the composer's years. Youth no more in art than in the affairs of common life is able to restrain its impulses; and Mr. Stanford's music suggests to us some generous nature anxious rather to lavish the wealth of its sympathies than to measure them out according to the dictates of caution and wisdom. But time will cure this fault. Mr. Stanford, unless we be mistaken beyond common, has the right stuff in him. Let him also acquire a mastery over all the resources of his art, while forming his style by persistent study of the best models, and the promise of this Psalm will be abundantly performed.

The Nibelung's Ring. English words to Richard Wagner's "Der Ring des Nibelungen," in the Alliterative Verse of the original. By Alfred Forman. [Schott and Co.]

THE large degree of attention which has lately been drawn to the works of Richard Wagner renders it unnecessary to make any remarks here upon the poem of his last and greatest drama. Considered altogether apart from the music, it has from its purely literary merits no small claim to our notice. Both from the skill of its dramatic construction and from the beauty of its diction it is infinitely superior to the large majority of operatic libretti; indeed it seems almost an insult to describe it as a libretto at all. It is rather a grand tragic poem, which (in spite of its author's theories) may be regarded as complete in itself even without the music.

Before speaking of Mr. Forman's English version it may be well to explain, for the benefit of such of our readers as have not studied the subject, wherein consists the peculiarity of the alliterative verse which Wagner has chosen as the most fitted for musical purposes. It is a species of verse in which the accented syllables begin with the same sound or sounds. There is no attempt at rhyme, though it is of course possible for rhyme to be combined with alliteration. Sometimes two different consonant sounds in one line are answered by two corresponding ones in the next. A short extract will make this clear to our readers, and, to assist them, the sounds in which the alliteration is contained are printed in italics. We take as our specimen the commencement of Loge's narrative in the second scene of the "Rheingold":—

So weit Leben und Weben in Wasser, Erd' und Luft, viel frug' ich,
forschte bei allen,
wo Kraft nur sich rührt
und Keime sich regen:
was wohl dem Manne
mächtiger dünk'
als Weibes Wonne und Werth?

The advantage claimed by Wagner for this species of verse is that, being so thoroughly rhythmical, it best adapts itself to musical rhythms, and that thus the connection between the music and the poetry becomes closer than would otherwise be possible. How far this theory is correct everyone who knows the music of "Der Ring des Nibelungen" can judge for himself; for ourselves, without going so far as to say that this is the only kind of verse suitable for music, we can at least express the opinion that, to judge from Wagner's management of it, it certainly possesses great advantages.

It will be seen, on the other hand, that the composition of a long poem under such restrictions must needs be a task of no ordinary difficulty; but it is not easy to realise the amount of labour involved in the reproduction of such a work in another language. Unless the alliteration be preserved in the translation, the whole spirit of the poem evaporates; and the necessity for preserving this feature must at times lead to a somewhat free rendering of the original idea, for the very obvious reason that, where two German words begin with the same letter, their English equivalents will in the large majority of cases not do so, and it will become needful to substitute others. None but a genuine enthusiast would have dreamed of undertaking so herculean a work as this translation; and that Mr. Forman is such an enthusiast the history of the book now before us proves. His English version was originally printed for private circulation; the "Rheingold," the "Walküre," and "Siegfried" as long ago as 1873, and the "Götterdämmerung" in 1875. With his earliest attempts the author was however not satisfied; and, before publishing it, the entire work has been revised, and to a very large extent rewritten. A copy of the earlier edition lies before us, and a somewhat careful collation with the more recent version has filled us with admiration of the extraordinary amount of pains taken with the work, and astonishment at the ingenuity of the translator in frequently finding two equivalents for the same German sentence quite unlike each other, and yet both in alliterative verse, and moreover in the same metre as the original, so that the English text can be sung to the music. If any reader wishes to form for himself a notion of the difficulty of the task, let him merely try to render into English in the same metre and with alliteration the few lines quoted above. We give Mr. Forman's translation of the passage, not because it is the happiest specimen that might have been selected, but because it is fairly representative of the average ability shown throughout, and further because it will afford those who are familiar with the German language the opportunity of comparing it with the original. It will be needless, after what has been said above, to mark the alliterations.

Where life is to be lit on,
in water, earth, and wind,
I asked always,
sought without end,
where forces beset,
and seeds are unfettered,
what has in mind
of man more weight than woman's wonder and worth?

It would be of course perfectly easy for a stickler for literal accuracy to find flaws in the above lines. He might say that "Weben" is not translated at all, that "sich rührt" does not mean "beset," and that "wonder" is certainly not an equivalent of "Wonne." But this would be a most unjust method of criticising; and we simply mention these points to show that we have not overlooked them. What we maintain is that the general meaning and spirit of the passage are faithfully reproduced; and, under such limitations as the translator has imposed upon himself, this is all that can reasonably be expected.

Students of German will of course prefer to read Wagner's splendid poem in the original tongue; but others will doubtless be glad to know of the existence of an English version which can be honestly recommended as giving an excellent idea both of the spirit and form of the work. It is only necessary to add that the volume is carefully printed in a neat and portable form. We venture to predict for it a large sale.

Letters from Bayreuth Descriptive and Critical of Wagner's "Der Ring des Nibelungen." With an Appendix. By Joseph Bennett, Special Correspondent of the Daily Telegraph. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

We need scarcely remind those who were present last year at the Wagner Operatic Festival at Bayreuth that amidst so exciting a scene, and under the oppressive effect of a heat almost unprecedented, the letters despatched by the London correspondents of the daily newspapers could scarcely be expected to do more than form a vivid record of the events as they passed, with a hastily sketched outline of the impressions they produced upon the writers. On perusing, however, this little volume of the collected articles on the subject by the correspondent of the Daily Telegraph we were struck not only with the orderly manner in which the materials are arranged, but by the ripeness of the author's opinions, which, whether they agree or disagree with those of the reader, cannot but be looked upon as the honestly expressed convictions of one who earnestly strives, according to his best judgment, to uphold the highest principles of art. A sweeping reform such as that put forth and partially carried out by Wagner is neither to be admitted nor rejected without due consideration; and it is much to the credit of Mr. Bennett that, instead of ranging himself under the banner of a musical "party," he discusses the question solely on its own merits. Whilst freely commenting upon the weak side of Wagner's theory, he boldly acknowledges that he has a formidable opponent to wrestle with. His principles, he says, "so gravely and powerfully advanced, so unreservedly accepted by thousands whose judgment commands respect, and so important that their formal illustration occupies the mind of the civilised world, are at least entitled to serious treatment." Assuredly they are; and those who read these conscientious and carefully considered letters will agree with us that, however their writer may occasionally differ from the views of the "Musician of the Future," he never forgets the respect due to his undoubted genius.

Bourrée, for the Pianoforte, composed by Stephen Jarvis. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE good solid writing in this Bourrée reflects much credit upon its composer, who has no doubt experienced the difficulty that all modern imitators of a past style find of striking out anything really original. The bold diatonic harmonies, however, are thoroughly in keeping with the character of the composition, the theme in the subdominant, with its imitative passages, being especially worthy of commendation. We shall be glad to see Mr. Jarvis exercise his talents upon a piece less conventional in form.

FOREIGN NOTES.

THE music-season 1876-77 is drawing to a close in Germany. Most of the principal concert institutions have already given their concluding performances, and one by one the coryphées of opera are taking their annual leave of absence in search either of repose from past fatigue or of fresh triumphs abroad. Among those singers whose vocal powers seem to be sustained rather than impaired by constant use may be mentioned the tenor Herr Wachtel, who, after his recent brilliant success at Berlin, has appeared with equal éclat in a series of operatic performances at Cologne, and will, it is now positively affirmed by German papers, shortly reappear in London, he having, it is said, accepted an engagement under very favourable conditions at Her Majesty's Theatre. Another "star" of opera of whom we have heard but little of late years, Madame Pauline Lucca, has been giving a series of "farewell performances" both at Munich and Vienna before crowded houses. The Viennese papers, however, express the hope that these "last notes" of the great dramatic singer may be classed with the "final" effusions of the poet, and that she will ultimately recall her decision for the benefit of operatic art. At the latter establishment—the Imperial Opera House at Vienna—repeated representations of Richard Wagner's "Die Walküre," the second part of the Tetralogy "Der Ring des Nibelungen," have resulted in a steady increase of the respective audiences, the attendance on the first night of its production having been somewhat limited. A correspondent of the Allgemeine Deutsche Musik-Zeitung, in recording the fact, adds that just those portions of the work which on first hearing were accepted merely as logical though tedious necessities for the development of the music-drama are beginning to engage the special attention of the musical public. Much praise is bestowed upon Madame Ehn for her admirable impersonation of the character of Sieglinde (represented at Bayreuth by Mdle. Josephine Schefizky, of Munich). During the coming autumn a complete performance of "Das Rheingold" will take place at Vienna for the first time since the Bayreuth Festival. We hear, on the other hand, that the town of Leipzig has obtained from the poet-composer the exclusive right for the performance in North Germany of his entire work, the Tetralogy above mentioned. At Berlin the same composer's opera "Die Meistersinger" was recently performed by special desire of the Emperor of Brazil, a monarch who takes a lively and intelligent interest in all the phases of modern artistic strivings and development.

During the cyclis of concerts just completed at the Gewandhaus of Leipzig no less than twenty-two symphonic works, twenty-one overtures, nineteen concertos for various instruments, and six choral works with orchestral accompaniment, besides a number of vocal and instrumental solos, were produced, many of them emanating from the pen of contemporary composers, a fact which speaks well of the activity displayed by that excellent institution. The programme of last year, which included a series of historical concerts, was however departed from this season, with this interesting experiment was not repeated. The Stern'sche Gesangverein at Berlin—an institution which under the masterly direction of Herr Julius Stockhausen occupies an eminent position in the musical life of the Prussian capital—has lately given three excellent performances of Beethoven's Missa Solemnis. A curious instance is recorded in the Allgemeine Deutsche Musik-Zeitung, of the conductor's versatile talent, and his energetic application to the office of a leader—who, if properly filling his post, ought to represent, for the time being, the personification of the work which his bâton directs. It appears that on the occasion of the third representation of the Mass, Herr Ernst, to whom the tenor solos had been allotted, failed to make his appearance until after the "Gloria;" and meanwhile Herr Stockhausen not only directed the difficult work, but himself supplied from the conductor's desk the absent tenor. It is hardly necessary to add that the public were not sparing in their hearty acknowledgments of this double performance.

A great gathering of musicians and members of the German Allgemeine Musik-Verein took place at Hanover, during the 19th and 24th ult., under the patronage of the Emperor of Germany. A series of concerts was to be given on the occasion, including among others the following works: Liszt's "St. Elizabeth;" Berlioz's "Sinfonie fantastique;" organ compositions by Bach, Matthison, Hansen, and Ritter; as well as instrumental soli by Saint-Saëns, Raff, Liszt, and others. Among operatic representations selected for the same occasion may be instanced Byron's drama "Manfred" with Schumann's music; "Jery und Bätely" (to Goethe's text), by Ingeborg von Bronsart; and an opera by Peter Cornelius, entitled "Der Barbier von Bagdad." A number of excellent artists were among the executants.

Music Festivals will be held during the present summer both at Salzburg and Breslau; at the last-mentioned town scenes from Gluck's "Armida" and from Wagner's "Götterdämmerung" will form interesting features of the programme. The idea of the Salzburg Festival emanates from the International Mozart Institution, and the greater part of the performances will, it is expected, consist of works by that master.

At the Court Theatre in Dresden Beethoven's "Fidelio" was the other day performed for the hundredth time, showing an average of less than two performances a year since its first representation in 1814 at Vienna.

Herr Tichatschek, the veteran tenor and dramatic artist, for many years associated with the Royal Opera at Dresden, will shortly celebrate his seventieth birthday, on which occasion a testimonial is to be presented to him by his numerous friends. Those who, like the writer, have heard him some ten years ago as Max in "Freischütz" or as Tannhäuser in Richard Wagner's Opera of that name, can testify to the fact of his being one of the most remarkable instances of retaining to a relatively advanced age the possession of exceptional vocal and dramatic powers. He was the first to interpret the character of Tannhäuser, or, as the modern phrase goes, he "created" that part.

The statue of Marschner, erected in front of the Royal Theatre at Hanover, will be inaugurated at the beginning of this month; it is the work of the sculptor Hartzner.

At the Théâtre National de l'Opéra in Paris, M. Massenet's new operatic work, "Le Roi de Lahore," was performed for the first time on April 27. The young composer has already attracted the attention of connoisseurs by several orchestral works, and especially by his Oratorio "Maria Magdalena," and his Opera was looked forward to with intense interest in musical circles. The new work—the plot of which is laid in India at the time of its conquest by the Mussulmans—is skilfully arranged by the librettist, M. Louis Gallet, and readily lends itself to the display of elaborate scenery and costumes, in the splendid realisation of which no effort has been spared on the part of the managers. The result was a complete success for the composer, whose music is said to be full of dramatic power and skilful in its orchestration; the incidental ballet-music, in which some original Indian tunes have been made use of, is likewise much admired. The Paris Press, while speaking generally in terms of praise of this new work of one of the representatives of "Young France," is however divided in the estimation of its merits en detail, and Le Menestrel discerns in it too much of Wagnerian leanings, of which M. Massenet has before this been suspected. The journal referred to concludes its analysis of "Le Roi de Lahore" with these words: "If the author has the courage to criticise himself, and the strength of mind to disengage himself from certain influences, he will be cherished by France not only as a great musician—which indeed he already is—but also as a dramatic composer of the first order."

A new Opera entitled "Le Bravo" was brought out at the Théâtre-Lyrique of Paris with moderate success. It is a first dramatic work of a young composer, M. Salvèyre, who seems to have founded his style upon Meyerbeer, Verdi, and Gounod.

M. Gounod has ceded the right of representation in Italy of his Opera "Cinq-Mars" for the sum of 30,000 fr.

Madame Arabella Goddard has met with a most flattering reception in Paris, where the performances of that eminent English artist have been much admired. She gave several recitals at the Salle-Pleyel before most appreciative audiences, and the journals are full of praise with regard to her brilliant executive powers and versatile talent.

The Directors of the Gewandhaus Concerts at Leipzig have presented that gifted singer Madame Peschka-Leutner with a handsome bracelet in recognition of the distinguished aid rendered by her appearance in numerous concerts of that institution. The bracelet has engraved on it the old motto of the Gewandhaus: "Res severa est verum gaudium." Madame Peschka-Leutner has recently given a series of concerts in various towns of Germany in conjunction with Mr. Oliver A. King and Miss Clara Meller, both pianists from London. The journée was a most successful one, and the artists are spoken of in most flattering terms by the local Press wherever they went. Mr. King on several occasions introduced some of his own compositions to the German public.

M. Saint-Saëns' Oratorio "The Deluge" was performed not long ago at the Grand-Théâtre at Antwerp, producing a great impression. The composer, who was present, became the object of quite an ovation on the part of the numerous audience.

Hector Berlioz, a most unpopular composer with the Parisians during his lifetime, seems suddenly to have come into public favour. His "Damnation de Faust" has now been performed several times at the Châtelet, and on the last occasion no less than six numbers had to be repeated.

Wagner's "Walküre" was performed on April 3 at New York, and in spite of many deficiencies its representation created a most powerful impression. Mdle. Pappenheim impersonated Brünnhilde.

We hear that a new theatre is to be erected at Tiflis after the design of the National Theatre at Bayreuth.

The opening of an Academy for the scientific cultivation of music at Calcutta is a fact worthy of notice. The founder is the musical savant Raya Sourindro Mohun Tagore, and the young institution numbers at present sixty pupils. Instruction both theoretical and practical is imparted by eight professors.

M. Ambroise Thomas' Opera "Mignon" was lately performed for the first time at Madrid. According to the Correspondencia d'Espana the work achieved a great success, to which the excellent singing of Mdles. Rigel and Ory very materially contributed.

On the 26th of April died at Paris Louise Bertin, composer, author, and painter. She was a pupil in musical composition of M. Fétis, and among her operatic works may be mentioned "Esmeralda," "Guy Mannering," and "Faust." She was the daughter of M. Bertin the elder, founder of the Journal des Débats.

MUSICAL DEGREES AT CAMBRIDGE.

(From the Cambridge University Reporter, May 15.)

The Syndicate appointed March 22, 1877, "to consider whether any and if any what change should be made in the Musical Examinations of the University and in the requirements for Musical Degrees, and to report thereon to the Senate before the end of next Michaelmas Term," beg leave to make a first report to the Senate as follows:—

A. The Syndicate observe that under the existing regulations for obtaining a degree in music no provision is made for testing the literary and scientific qualifications of the candidates. They think it undesirable that a University degree in music should be obtainable by persons of whose general culture the University has received no evidence. They therefore recommend:—

That no candidate be admitted to the examination for the degree of Mus. Bac. unless

(a) He have passed Parts I. and II. of the previous examination; or (b) produce evidence of having satisfied the examiners in one of the "Senior Local Examinations" of the University* in English grammar and arithmetic; in two at least of the subjects in section B (English history, geography, a work of some standard English writer, and political economy), and in the English essay; in one of the subjects of Sections C and D (viz. Latin, Greek, French, or German); and in Section E (Euclid and Algebra);

Or (c) produce a certificate of having satisfied the examiners in one of the "Higher Local Examinations" of the University;

Or (d) produce the certificate of the "Oxford and Cambridge Schools Examination Board."

Having regard to the case of candidates who have already applied for examination under the existing regulations, and whose age or professional pursuits may make the production of the above certificates a matter of difficulty, they recommend:—

That the above certificates, &c. be not required in the case of candidates who present themselves for examination before the end of the Easter Term, 1879, being at the time of such examination over thirty years of age.

B. With regard to the examination for the degree of Mus. Bac. the Syndicate recommend:—

That the examination for the degree of Mus. Bac. consist of three parts:—

- (1) A preliminary examination in
 - (a) Acoustics,
 - (b) Harmony,
 - (c) Counterpoint.

(2) The exercise.

(3) A more advanced examination in musical science; and that no person be accepted as a candidate for the second or third part of the examination until he has qualified in the previous part or parts.

C. The Syndicate recommend:—

That a Board of Musical Studies be appointed, the duties of which shall be to arrange, subject to the approval of the Senate, the details of the above and other University Examinations in Music, to consult together from time to time on all matters relating to the actual state of musical studies and examinations in the University, and to prepare, whenever it appears to them desirable, and lay before the Vice-Chancellor, a report to be by him published to the University. That such board shall consist of the Professor of Music and six other persons nominated by the Council and elected by the Senate, of whom three at least shall be members of the Senate or Doctors of Music of the University. Of these six two shall retire annually on the 20th day of November in every year (commencing with Nov. 20, 1878), and their places be supplied by election at the next ensuing Congregation.

D. The Musical Examinations of the University are at present conducted by the Professor only. The Syndicate recommend:—

(1) That the examinations for the degree of Bachelor of Music be conducted by the Professor, assisted by two or more Examiners nominated annually by the Board of Musical Studies (or, if there be no such board, by the Council), and elected by the Senate, of whom one at least shall be a member of the Senate, or a Mus. Doc. of the University; and that each examiner so appointed receive from the University chest the sum of £10 for each part of these examinations in which he is engaged.

(2) That the examinations for the degree of Doctor of Music be conducted by the Professor, assisted by two or more examiners nominated annually by the Board of Musical Studies (or, if there be no such board, by the Council), and elected by the Senate, of whom one at least shall be a member of the Senate, or a Mus. Doc. of the University.

E. The Syndicate recommend that the regulations contained in Parts A, B, and D of this report be applicable to the next examination for musical degrees held by the University, and that the dates of such examination together with the schedule of subjects be announced by the Board of Musical Studies (or, if there be no such board, by the Professor of Music) before the end of next Michaelmas Term.

F. The Syndicate recommend that in lieu of the fee of £8 paid to the University chest at the time of taking the degree of Mus. Bac. each candidate on presenting himself for the first part of the examination for the degree of Mus. Bac. pay to the Registry the fee of £3 3s., and the same on presenting himself for the final part of the examination, and that on presenting himself for the degree he pay to the University chest the sum of £5.

G. The Syndicate have had under their consideration the fact that beyond the lectures of the Professor the University gives at present no encouragement whatever to the study of music as a science. They are of opinion that it is undesirable that this Faculty should continue to occupy such a comparatively nominal position in the academic system, and they think that if the examinations recommended in part B of this report should be approved by the Senate a favourable opportunity would be afforded of recognising this study to the extent of admitting it as the subject of an additional special examination for the ordinary B.A. degree. They therefore recommend that:—

A student who has passed the previous and the general examinations, and is in his ninth term of residence at least, having previously kept eight terms, shall on passing the preliminary examination in acoustics, harmony, and counterpoint prescribed in Section B (1) be entitled, when he has kept nine terms, to receive the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

E. ATKINSON, Vice-Chancellor.

S. G. PHEAR.

G. A. MACFARREN [with the exception of the words "a member of the Senate or" in Section D paragraphs (1) and (2)].

E. W. BLORE.

SEDLAY TAYLOR.

COUTTS TROTTER.

GERARD F. COBB.

A. W. SPRATT.

J. W. CARTMELL.

R. PENDLEBURY.

(From the Cambridge University Reporter, May 22.)

Saturday, May 19, a meeting was held for the discussion of the Report of the Musical Examinations Syndicate.

The Vice-Chancellor was sorry to say that the Professor of Music dissented from one small part of the Report. He had asked the Professor to be so good as to state his reasons, and he had received from him the following letter:—

7, Hamilton Terrace, London, N.W.

MY DEAR MR. VICE-CHANCELLOR,—Not in the hope of changing the views of the gentlemen I have met on the Syndicate, but to justify my dissent from one expression in the report, I must trouble you with my reasons, which are the result of many years' reflection and of frequent consultation with musicians. I venture to wish for the omission of the words "a member of the Senate or" because I am firmly convinced that it is more than desirable—it is necessary for the honour of the University and the welfare of music—for every person who officiates in the musical examinations to be a musician of proved competency. The words against which I offer a protest open the possibility, however improbable, of the appointment as examiner of some Physicist, or other man of extraneous learning, to be subject to whose inquisition would be painful to any one whose life and best energies had been devoted to the widely comprehensive study of music. The distinction between non-professional and professional followers of an art are very fine, but most obvious; no book-learning, but the constant habit of producing, can alone make an artist, and the constant habit of tuition can alone make a teacher. This is because the daily observing of faults in others sharpens perception of right and wrong, and the daily working of art-problems is the sole experience of the means of avoiding error. As little would I trust the life of a friend to a physician whose knowledge was acquired wholly outside the medical profession, as I would a score to an examiner whose musicianship was not his all-absorbing occupation. The case is different certainly in theology and perhaps in law, where the subject is finite and changeless, from what it is in those studies which are constantly enriched by additions whose truth can but be tested by the continual habit of practical application. To enlarge upon the uses of other institutions than Cambridge might be personal, and would thus be untimely and far from my purpose; but I am bound to state the deep-rooted belief that, to make the Cambridge musical degrees most highly respected, musicians must be assured against the participation of amateurs in the investigating of their professional pretensions. My sincerity may I trust serve as apology, if need be, for any warmth of expression in the above, which I must ask you, if you please, to submit to the Council together with the Syndicate's report.—I am, my dear Mr. Vice-Chancellor, faithfully yours,

* Students above the age of eighteen may be admitted by the Local Examinations Syndicate to the Senior Local Examinations under the power given by Grace of June 3, 1865.

G. A. MACFARREN.

The Rev. the Vice-Chancellor.

Mr. Sedley Taylor held that musical degrees conferred without residence were an anomaly which might advantageously be got rid of altogether; but that, if they were to be retained, additional requirements such as those recommended by the Syndicate ought to be adopted without delay. It was most desirable to insist on a preliminary educational test. If the present regulations continued in force there might soon be a class of graduates inferior in general culture to persons who had simply passed the University Local Examinations. In fact, however, the imposition of some such test was no longer a matter of option. Other Universities which conferred musical degrees, such as Oxford, Dublin, and London, had already determined to require a literary qualification, and Cambridge must either take a similar step or prepare to welcome all the worst-educated candidates, who would be deterred from applying elsewhere by the preliminary tests there exacted. This was no theoretical apprehension: an unprecedentedly large number of applications for the next examination had already been received by the Professor of Music, in great part, doubtless, from aspirants who were anxious to get into the only port still free from blockade, and avoid unpleasant overhauling of a dubious cargo. To stop an ugly rush of this kind the University must adopt measures in the direction of the Syndicate's report. He felt very strongly the advisability of introducing the Acoustics of Music into the examination for the Mus. Bac. degree. The term "theory of music" was a misleading misnomer. Such subjects as harmony, counterpoint, fugue, &c., commonly embraced by it, were mere classifications of chords and progressions. Acoustics was alone entitled to be called a "theory" of music, as supplying an immovable basis in laws of Nature on which to rear a superstructure of Art. The essential elements of music, pitch, quality, concord and discord, were absolutely controlled by ascertained laws of great beauty and simplicity, which were capable too of fairly complete popular exposition. A knowledge of these laws would not be without direct value to the practical executant, from the careful attention to minute shades of pitch which his use of acoustical instruments such as the monochord and the resonator would necessarily entail. But to the teacher of music the benefit would be far more decisive. No branch of education probably was more completely under the sway of unreasoning routine and traditional dogmatism. An acquaintance with the laws of sound would make clear in the teacher's mind what was too often extremely obscure, viz. the distinction between consequences flowing directly from immutable physical laws and mere conventional rules possessing no sanction save that of established usage. In this, and in other ways, a knowledge of acoustics would render the teaching of music more intelligent and educationally valuable, and would tend also to emancipate the subject from arbitrary restrictions with which it was still encumbered. On these grounds he cordially supported the introduction of a branch of study on which he felt justified in speaking with some confidence. He would next refer to the proposal put forward in Professor Macfarren's letter. Its opening statement, that the examiners in music ought to be "musicians of proved competency," would, taking those words in their usual sense, be open to no other criticism than this, that a Cambridge Board of Studies, or the Council of the Senate, could be safely depended upon to make no appointment in which this condition was not fulfilled. But it was clear from the later part of the letter that by these words Professor Macfarren meant members of the musical profession, and that what he desired was to bar the possibility of any person other than a professional musician being appointed to examine in music. The difficulty of defining a professional musician with the precision necessary for the purposes of a formal University regulation would alone go far to render such a proposal inadmissible. Moreover, it would be inconsistent with the usage of the University, which had not required that examiners in other branches should have any professional connection with them. The examiners in the two great triposes were not necessarily persons who gained their living by teaching mathematics or classics, and such a restriction would be obviously disadvantageous and have no chance of adoption. It was not the business of the University to issue licenses to professional practitioners in music, but to attest the possession of a sound independent knowledge of the subject. The Senate would therefore do wisely to take a less restricted view than that advocated by the Professor of Music. As a step towards a juster recognition of the study of music as an independent branch of liberal education he warmly supported the proposal to allow that subject to count as one of the portals to an ordinary B.A. degree.

Mr. Cobb would add a few remarks to those made by Mr. Sedley Taylor, with which he thoroughly agreed. He was sorry he could not endorse the exception taken by Professor Macfarren to the Report. He ventured to think, however, that the Professor's letter was the result partly of his less intimate acquaintance with the rules and precedents of our academic system, and partly of his regarding the proposed changes in the sole light of their bearing on extraneous candidates for degrees. He seemed in fact to have written far more as the Principal of the Royal Academy of Music than as the head of the University Faculty. The excision of the words to which the Professor took exception would of course be technically insufficient to meet his views, for the Senate would still be free to appoint none but its own members to examine. It was against all precedent to stipulate for "proved competency" in examiners: the ordinary method of their appointment was the guarantee for this, and the body which had been fortunate enough to secure the services of so competent a Professor would be the last to neutralise their choice by giving him incompetent colleagues. On the other hand, in the case of a subject where there might be a tendency for some time to come to select non-academic examiners, there was an absolute necessity for the co-operation of at least one person possessing a proper familiarity with ordinary examination and other academic routine. Had the Syndicate recommended leaving things as they were the case would have been different; but their main object had been to make the Faculty really, what it was nominally, an Academic Faculty, and endeavour to encourage the scientific study of music within its own precincts, instead of being the mere source of professional passports. Professor Macfarren's letter left this main object entirely out of sight, and this very fact seemed to make the precaution objected to by him additionally necessary. Moreover the introduction of Acoustics, a subject with which few, if any, strictly professional musicians were at present acquainted, and which the Professor himself seemed to regard as "extraneous" even to the "widely comprehensive study" of music, would necessitate (for this branch of the examination) a non-professional appointment. It was not found that candidates for our degrees in law or medicine experienced such susceptibility on being examined by law examiners or physiologists not actually earning their living as barristers or surgeons, as the Professor seemed to apprehend for the musical candidate. Moreover were the Professor's view adopted, and no one eligible as examiner unless the "teaching" of music were his "all-absorbing occupation," it would exclude some who from the very fact of their freedom from professional engagements might be all the more absorbed in such studies, and therefore competent to examine.

With regard to making the preliminary examination an avenue to the ordinary degree, it might possibly be thought by some that the University did enough for the encouragement of musical study here by giving special musical degrees. Unfortunately, however, these degrees were not generally regarded in their proper light, but were viewed with disfavour as being somewhat distinctively professional. It was therefore necessary to provide for our undergraduate students some other stimulus. As an illustration of this he would mention the case of an undergraduate of his own college, whose father had objected on these grounds to his becoming a candidate for a musical degree, but who was quite ready to become a candidate for a musical special.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE TUNE "ST. MARY."

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—This tune has not been traced to any earlier source than Prys's "Welsh Psalter," 1621. If Mr. Roberts refers to the index prefixed to the Rev. Henry Parr's "Church of England Psalmody" (Novello, 1877), he will find all that is known on the subject at page 33 under "Prys," and at page 41 under "Playford." He will there see that the name "Hackney" is found in Playford's "Introduction," 1674, and therefore that the supposition that the tune was written by Rathiel originated in its bearing the name "Hackney," not that the name "Hackney" was given to the tune because it was believed to have been written by Rathiel.—Yours faithfully,

G. A. C.

May 4.

[Our correspondent will, we are sure, be pained to find, on reference to a paragraph in our present number, that the writer of the letter to which he kindly replies has died during the past month.—Ed. MUSICAL TIMES.]

THE CUCKOO'S CALL.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Will you allow me to add my testimony in favour of "Mus. Bac.'s" theory as to the major third in the cuckoo's note or call? Public attention was called to this question some years ago, and I then stated what I reiterate now—though I am afraid I shall be pronounced bold—that the cuckoo's note on its arrival and for some little time afterwards is a major third, and (I know there will be plenty of cavillers) generally from E to C. My duties have led me to travel about the country a good deal, and I have repeatedly tested this with a tuning-fork. The call afterwards wanders into something like a minor third, but rarely accurate; and finally gives way, late in the summer, to a confused call which is neither a major second nor any other interval in music that can be named. If this letter could be published at once your readers might have ample opportunity of judging for themselves of the correctness of my statement. Unfortunately by the 1st of June the call may be in its transition state.—Yours, &c.,

THOS. SMITH,

Organising Choirmaster to the "Church Music Society for the Archdeaconry of Sudbury."
Bury-St.-Edmunds, May 17, 1877.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

 Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will greatly oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all Subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music pages are always stereotyped, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

J. J.—The MUSICAL TIMES is duly registered for transmission abroad.

J. JONES.—Apply to the Clerk of the Schools, Clarendon Buildings, Oxford.

ALPHA.—We should recommend you to procure good strings, either Paduan or Roman.

JOHN WALKER.—Mr. Hullah's pamphlet "The Duty and Advantages of Learning to Sing" is out of print, and we do not know where a copy can be procured.

SUSSEX.—The quoted passages should be practised with each hand separately, and afterwards put together. We should not recommend any attempt to measure the two phrases note by note.

N. E. S., HARMONY, and other correspondents are informed that we cannot recommend books for the study of the various branches of the art.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this Summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

ABERDEEN.—Schumann's Cantata Paradise and the Peri was performed by the members of the Musical Association, on the 30th April, in the Music Hall. Most of the choruses were rendered with excellent precision, and the solos were given with much ability. The band was well balanced, and the execution of the overture and the accompaniments displayed great care. Herr Reiter conducted.

BELFAST.—The fifth Concert for the season of the Philharmonic Society took place in the Ulster Hall on April 27, when Mendelssohn's Oratorio St. Paul was performed with full orchestral and organ accompaniments. The performance was most successful. The soloists were Miss Essie Lynar, Dublin; Miss Emily Holden, Belfast; Mr. Walter Bapty, Dublin; and Mr. Gordon Gooch (R.A.M.), London. The band and chorus consisted of about 400 performers, Mr. Cohen and Herr Elsner acting respectively as principal violinist and violoncellist. Mr. Smythe, Mus. B., presided at the organ, and Herr Henry Stiehl conducted.

BIRMINGHAM.—The Carl Rosa Opera Company concluded its season on the 28th April. Wagner's Flying Dutchman, repeated on the 25th, attracted a still larger audience than previously. Beethoven's Fidelio, however, was the great success of the season, the house being literally crammed.—The Town Hall was crowded on the occasion of Mr. Pyatt's Concert, Monday, April 30th. Mr. Sims Reeves was the main attraction, and of course received an ovation upon his appearance. The other artists were Miss Larkcom, Miss D'Alton, and Signor Foli, vocalists; Mr. Henry Nicholson, flute; Mr. Lockwood, harp; Mr. Roedel, piano; and Mr. Pearce, harmonium.—A Chamber Concert was given on Tuesday the 2nd ult. by the harpist, Mr. French Davis, assisted by Miss Isabelle Davis, piano, and Mr. F. Ward, violin. Vocal selections were rendered by the members of Mr. Bickley's Glee Party.—The last of Mr. Stockley's Orchestral Concerts for the present season was given in the Town Hall on Thursday the 3rd ult. The programme comprised Beethoven's Symphony in D (No. 2), the overtures Ruy Blas, Der Freischütz, and L'italiana in Algieri, the Funeral March of a Marionette, and an Andante from a MS. Symphony by Mr. T. Anderson. The performance of the whole was excellent. Miss Robertson and Mr. Graham de Lancy were the solo vocalists. Some part-songs were given by the members of the Festival Choral Society, and much appreciated. Mr. Stockley conducted, and Mr. C. J. Stevens accompanied.—A Juvenile Concert, in aid of the Children's Hospital, was given in the Town Hall on Friday the 4th ult. The choir, consisting of a thousand children from different parochial schools, was conducted by the Rev. F. G. Bussell; and Messrs. Pearce and Halliley acted as accompanists.—On the 10th ult. the members of the Edgbaston Amateur Musical Union (an orchestral Society numbering some fifty performers) gave their first Concert in the Town Hall, for the benefit of the Rhyll Convalescent Home for Women. The admirable training of the band by the Conductor, Mr. C. J. Duchemin, was conspicuous; and the performance was highly successful. The vocalists were Miss Rose Hersee, Miss Enriquez, Mr. Vernon Rigby, and Mr. Lansmere, all of whom gave great pleasure by their performance. Mr. Duchemin, besides conducting, played most artistically the last two movements of Mendelssohn's Concerto in D minor and a Nocturne (Op. 37, No. 2) and Polonaise (Op. 40, No. 1) by Chopin. Mr. R. M. Winn, Mus. B., was an excellent accompanist.—A Chamber Concert in connection with the Royal Society of Artists took place on Saturday the 10th ult. The performers were Miss Emma Beasley, solo vocalist; Messrs F. Ward, S. Blythe, and W. F. Roden, strings; Mr. H. Waring (from Leipzig), piano; and Mr. T. Anderson, Mus. B., director and accompanist.—On the 15th ult. Gounod's Messe Solennelle and a selection of sacred music were given in Lodge Road Chapel. The solos in the Mass were rendered by Mrs. Bellamy, Mr. Coley, and Mr. Jno. Bellamy, the accompaniments (arranged for piano and harmonium) being played by Miss Woodward and Mr. G. A. Johnson. Other solos were contributed by Miss Jackson and Miss Bailey. Mr. Isaac Bradley was the Conductor. The Concert passed off very satisfactorily.

BLACKBURN.—On the 17th ult. the St. Cecilia Society gave a performance of Mendelssohn's Athalie, with full band and chorus, under the conductorship of Mr. Bentley, B.M. The principal vocalists were the Misses Carina and Edith Clelland.

BRECHIN.—The members of the Choral Union gave an entertainment in the Mechanics' Hall on the 2nd ult., when Mozart's Twelfth Mass was performed in a highly creditable manner. There were about sixty voices, under the able guidance of Dr. Kahlenberg, the conductor of the Union. Miss Prain was an efficient accompanist.

BRISTOL.—On Monday evening the 30th of April a special Festival Service was held in the church of St. Mary Redcliff, the choirs taking part in the service being those connected with St. Mary Redcliff Church, Bedminster Parish Church, and St. Mary's, Tyndall's Park, Clifton; Mr. John Barrett, the able organist and choirmaster of Bedminster Parish Church, conducting. The choir, which numbered 135 voices, entered the church singing the 24th Psalm as a processional. The psalms were the 145th, sung to Purcell's Chant in G, and the 150th, finely and most effectively sung in unison to Humphreys' Chant in C (the grand chant). The service was by Dr. S. Elvey in A continuation of Croft's Morning Service, and the anthem was Dr. Croft's (five parts) "Cry aloud and shout." The whole service was a great success. A most impressive and appropriate sermon was delivered by the Archdeacon of Bristol, and the service closed with the singing of the hymn "The Church's one foundation" to Dr. Wesley's tune "Aurelia." Mr. J. W. Lawson presided at the organ with his usual ability.

CATFORD.—On Tuesday the 1st ult. a very successful entertainment was given in the temporary church, under the direction of Mr. F. Marriott, Hon. Sec. The concert opened with a pianoforte solo, admirably performed by Miss Lottie Fitch, R.A.M. The principal vocalists were Mrs. A. Harris, Mr. F. Marriott, Mr. Sydney Cozens, and Mr. R. Patch; many of their songs were encored.

CLEWERT.—The overture to Mendelssohn's Lobgesang was played before, and Handel's G minor string Concerto after, Evensong on Ascension Day by a small orchestra of fifteen performers, including Messrs E. Donkin, J. Liddle, R. Blagrove, Walter Pettit, and F. Kendall. The service was Dykes in F, and the anthems "But Thou didst not leave" (Mr. A. Marriott), "Thou art gone up on high" (Mr. Ramsbottom), and "Let all men praise the Lord" from the Lobgesang. Sir George Elvey was the organist.

CLIFTON.—On Thursday the 3rd ult. an Organ Recital was given at the Victoria Rooms by Miss Pearce, of Bristol. The programme included selections from the works of the greatest masters, and was satisfactorily rendered.—On Monday the 7th ult. the annual amateur Concert of the choir of the church of St. Mary the Virgin, Tyndall's Park, was given at the Victoria Rooms. In addition to the part-songs, &c., well rendered by the choir, a very good selection of instrumental pieces was given by Dr. Colman (piano), Mr. Norgrove (flute), Mr. W. S. Pearce and Mr. Frank Smith (harmonium). Mr. Lawford-Huxtable was the solo vocalist, and Mr. Frank Smith, organist of the church, conducted.—On Thursday the 10th ult. the annual evening Concert of the Cecilia Choir was given at the Victoria Rooms. The first part of the programme consisted of J. F. Barnett's Cantata Paradise and the Peri, well rendered by the choir, the accompaniment being excellently played by Mr. T. T. Trimmell, Mus. B., on the organ. The solos and recitatives were well sung by members of the choir, &c. The second part consisted entirely of posthumous works of R. L. De Pearsall which were very much applauded by the audience. Mr. W. F. Trimmell conducted.—On Monday the 14th ult. a Pianoforte Recital was given at the Victoria Rooms by Mme. Arabella Goddard, the programme comprising classical and popular music. Miss Ada Jackson was the vocalist.

COCKERMOUTH.—The members of the Glee Society gave a Concert in the Public Hall, Station Street, on Wednesday the 9th ult., when a well-selected programme of glees, part-songs, quartets, songs, &c., was performed with great credit to the conductor and the members. Mr. J. Hunter was well received in Sullivan's "Once again;" and Miss Patterson's singing of a new song, "The boy that my heart loved," by P. T. Freeman, was much admired and redemanded. Mr. C. Bell was deservedly encored for his flute solo. The Rev. Canon Hoskins spoke a few words on the importance of a sound musical education, especially when elementary instruction in music formed part of the work of the class. Mr. C. J. Lewthwaite conducted, and Mr. W. H. Lewthwaite presided at the piano.

COLEFORD.—The members of the Choral Society gave a Concert in the Town Hall on the 11th ult., when Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise was exceedingly well performed. The solo vocalists were Miss Louisa Brown, Miss R. Salter and Mr. Locke. The Symphony was finely rendered by the band, and the choruses were given in a most satisfactory manner. The second part of the concert was miscellaneous. Miss Mayo presided at the pianoforte, Mr. Hooper at the organ, Mr. Woodward was principal violin, and Mr. Dew conducted.

DEWSBURY.—The last Concert of the Season was given by the members of the Dewsbury Choral Society on the 15th ult., in the Theatre Royal, when Haydn's Oratorio The Creation was performed. The principal vocalists were Madame Edith Wynne, Mr. Henry Guy, and Signor Foli; and the band and chorus numbered 220 performers. Mr. Charles Auty conducted. The "Representation of Chaos" by the band was a very fine performance. Signor Foli and Mr. Henry Guy were highly successful in their solos, and Madame Wynne was loudly applauded for her singing of "The marvellous work," "With verdure clad," and "On mighty pens." The choruses were very effectively rendered.

DISS.—The Choral Society gave the last Concert for the season on Thursday evening, April 26, to a large and appreciative audience. The first part consisted of Haydn's Spring and Summer. The solos were ably sustained by Miss Tyrwhitt Walker, Mrs. Pullen, Mr. W. Reeder, the Rev. E. J. Alvis, Mr. Pullen, and Mr. F. Aldrich. The band was led by the Rev. T. S. Shaw. The choruses were well rendered, "Come, gentle Spring," "God of light," and "Hark, the deep, tremendous voice" deserving special mention. The second part was miscellaneous. Mr. Hemstock presided at the organ, and Mr. Hill, Mus. B., of Norwich, conducted.

DROMORE, CO. TYRONE.—The members of the Choral Class gave their first Concert on the 18th ult. The glees and part-songs "Blow, ye balmy breezes" (Young), "Oh, the flowery month of June" (Jackson), "Gaily through the greenwood" (Young), and "The gipsy tent" (Cooke), were well rendered, and solos were successfully sung by Miss Marshall, Miss S. Magennis, Miss M. Alexander, and Mr. McCracken. The instrumental portion of the programme contained piano duets by the Misses Hamilton, Miss M. Marshall, and Mr. Alexander. Mr. Arnold, of Enniskillen, conducted, and contributed a violin solo which created a marked effect.

DUMFRIES.—The Philharmonic Society gave its last Concert for the season on the 18th ult. A select orchestra from Edinburgh, including Mr. Carl D. Hamilton (violin), Mr. T. C. Poyser (flute), and led by Mr. H. Dambmann, assisted the Society. Romberg's Lay of the Bell was performed with entire success. The solos were rendered by members of the Society with considerable credit, and the choruses were sung with great precision. The second part consisted of glees, solos, &c. Mr. J. G. Pearson presided at the piano, and Mr. J. G. Gooden conducted.

EAST GREENWICH.—The final Concert of the season of the Choral Society took place on Monday evening the 7th ult. in the Christ Church School Room. Mr. Carter's Cantata Placidia was selected as the opening piece. The solos were allotted to Messrs. Hayward, G. Russell, Whiteway, and Ratcliffe, Miss Whiteway, and Mrs. Stone, the choruses being sung by members of the Society. The Cantata was admirably performed, Mr. G. Russell's rendering of the declamatory air, "List to me," being especially worthy of notice. The second part consisted of songs, ballads, and pianoforte solos; the special feature being the singing of Mr. Blenkhorn. A pianoforte solo by Mr. Kitson was well received. Mr. G. T. Arthur conducted with care and precision, and Mr. Arthur Kitson presided at the piano.

EAST TWICKENHAM.—The third and final Concert for this season of the Choral Society was given in the Montpelier Hall on Tuesday evening the 1st ult., when Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise occupied the first part of the programme. The solos were admirably rendered by Mrs. Wingrove, Miss Bradshaw, and Mr. Kenningham, and the choruses were sung in a manner which fully sustained the excellent reputation this Society has achieved. Mendelssohn's Pianoforte Concerto in G minor was played by Mr. Dunster with much brilliancy and skill, eliciting the most enthusiastic applause. Cowen's Cantata The Rose Maiden formed the second part; the soloists being Mrs. Wingrove, Miss Bradshaw, Mr. Storer-Brown, Mr. Kenningham, and Signor Adelmann, all of whom were highly efficient. Mr. C. J. Dunster ably presided at the pianoforte. There was a very good orchestra led by Mr. Victor Buziau, and Mr. J. C. Dunster conducted.

ERITH.—On the 3rd ult. a performance of Mendelssohn's Elijah was given in the Public Hall, under the direction of Mr. Richard Lemaire. The principal vocalists were Miss Ellen Horne, Miss Ellen, Mr. Stedman, and Mr. Thurley Beale. Mr. Lemaire, having thoroughly well trained his choir, an admirable performance was the result. Mr. Byrom presided at the pianoforte and Mr. Jewry at the harmonium.

GLASGOW.—Mr. H. Seligmann gave a Concert on the 26th April in the Queen's Rooms, assisted by Miss Jessie Jones, Miss Orridge, Mr. George Fox (vocalists), Miss Jessie Munro (solo pianoforte), and Mr. Eaton Fanning (accompanist). The concert-giver possesses a good tenor voice which has been well trained, and he sings with expression and without the slightest trace of exaggerated emphasis. Miss Orridge was highly successful, her rich contralto voice being much admired. Miss Munro, who is a pupil of Mr. Julius Seligmann, manifested a high degree of proficiency in one of Schubert's Impromptus, and a Galop by Pauer, the latter redemanded. Mr. Fanning accompanied with judgment.

HARBORNE.—The second Concert of the Choral Union took place in the York Street Board School on Friday the 11th ult., Miss E. Rose and Mr. W. E. Roberts kindly giving their assistance as solo vocalists. The part-singing showed an advance upon that of the former concert, Weber's chorus "Lützow's wild chase" being sung with great spirit and effect. The pianoforte selections were well rendered by Miss Clarke, Messrs. Stratton, Bolton and Foxall. Mr. S. S. Stratton conducted.

HARPENDEN, HERTS.—The fourth Concert of the fourth season of the Harpenden Society was given in the National Schools on Tuesday evening the 1st ult. by the members, assisted by C. B. Lawes, Esq., and some artists from Luton. Mr. C. B. Kaye, organist of the parish church, conducted; and Mr. A. Anscombe, jun., one of Mr. Kaye's pupils, was the accompanist. The programme was miscellaneous. The part-songs were sung with taste and precision, and the solos won great applause, especially those sung by Mr. Lawes and Miss Morton. Much praise is due to Mr. Kaye for the marked improvement in the class.

HOLWELL, NEAR SHERBORNE.—A very interesting Amateur Concert was given on Tuesday the 15th ult. by Mr. A. H. Spens Black, assisted by Miss Blathway, Messrs. Follett, Minifie, and Stokes. Pianoforte selections from the works of Rubinstein and Schumann were excellently rendered by the Rev. E. Gardiner. The vocalists were highly successful. The selections on the "Gigelia" by Mr. Spens Black formed one of the principal features in the concert. The proceeds of the concert are to be devoted to the "Parish Church Restoration Fund."

HOLYPORT.—Mr. E. S. Harding's Concert, given on Tuesday evening the 1st ult. in the Boys' School Room, attracted a crowded audience. The programme consisted of Macfarren's Cantata May Day, Romberg's Toy Symphony, and a miscellaneous selection. The Cantata was most satisfactorily executed. The choruses, executed by the choir of Bray Church, assisted by several ladies, were given with creditable precision, and Mrs. Hole's pianoforte accompaniments were excellent. A piano solo which opened the second part of the programme was marvellously well played by Master Oscar Mannheimer. The songs were given, as a rule, very fairly, especial favour being gained by Miss Adcock for her "Cradle Song," by Mr. Starling for "Goodwin Sands," and by Mr. Stocken for Sullivan's "Sweethearts." The Toy Symphony was played well throughout, and gained much applause. Mr. Harding, who conducted, deserves credit for the careful training which had evidently been given to the performers.

HONLEY, NEAR HUDDERSFIELD.—On Whitsun Day the annual Festival in connection with St. Mary's Church took place, special sermons being preached morning and evening by the Rev. A. Hastings Kelk, M.A., in the afternoon by the Rev. H. H. Rose, M.A. The scholars, numbering over 400, sang the psalms, hymns, canticles, and anthem admirably, showing how well they had been trained, and reflecting the highest credit upon those who had laboured so earnestly. The anthem was "The Lord is my strength" (Sir John Goss). The principal hymns and tunes were "Lord, how delightful," "Oh! what is heaven" (Dr. Leslie), "Forward be our watchword" (H. Smart). The psalms were chanted to Anglican, the canticles to Gregorian chants. The organ accompaniments were well played by Mr. J. C. Beaumont, the organist. His voluntaries were "Finale" from Sonata No. 6 (Mendelssohn), "Andante Pastorale" (W. T. Best), "Fixed in His everlasting seat" (Handel). The collections on behalf of the Sunday Schools realised nearly £25.

ILFRACOMBE.—The performance of Haydn's Oratorio The Creation by the Choral Society at the Oxford Hall on the 17th ult. was in every respect a decided success. The choruses, especially "Achieved is the glorious work" and "The heavens are telling," were sung with remarkable precision; and the solo vocalists, Mdme. Cross Lavers, Messrs. T. M. Hayden and Henry Cross, were highly efficient. Much credit must be given to the conductor, Mr. T. C. Webb, for the careful manner in which he has trained the choir. There was a complete band; and Miss Hawken at the pianoforte and Mr. Wood at the harmonium proved able accompanists.

LIVERPOOL.—A National Ballad Concert was given on the 19th ult. in the Lord Nelson Street Hall by "The Liverpool Quartet." The programme was an excellent one, and the audience was most enthusiastic. Miss Ternan gave a capital rendering of "Kathleen Mavourneen," and "Auld Robin Gray," Miss Haworth was very successful in "Comin' thro' the rye." Mr. Harrison gave "Heart of Oak" and "The Minstrel Boy" in excellent style, and "Tom Bowling" and "My pretty Jane" were sung by Mr. Terbutt with much feeling and artistic finish. Several concerted pieces were excellently rendered.

MANCHESTER.—Mdme. Samson Dunne gave her Annual Concert and Pianoforte Recital at the Athenæum Rooms on the 28th April, under the patronage of Lady Annette de Trafford. An attractive programme was presented, special praise being accorded to the performance of Mendelssohn's "Andante and Rondo Capriccioso" by Mdme. Dunne, and the "Kreutzer Sonata" by Master T. Dunne. Miss Redfern (pupil of Mdme. Dunne) was also highly successful. The vocalist was Mdme. Rovina Arnold; solo, Zither, Miss S. Payne. On the 1st ult. a Concert was given in the Hulme Town Hall before a large audience. The vocalists were Mmes. Pickering and Bowmont (whose efforts were well received), Messrs. Dumville and Frearson; and the instrumentalists Messrs. Risegari and Clementi (violin), Arison (violin), and Horton C. Allison. Mus. B., Cantab. (pianoforte). Mr. Risegari gave Vieuxtemps' "Air Varié" and Raff's "Cavatina" with much effect. Mr. Horton C. Allison rendered the last two movements of Beethoven's Sonata (No. 12) in a flat with good taste and skill, improvised on airs from Gounod's Faust, and also performed (with Messrs. Clementi and Arison) Mendelssohn's Pianoforte Trio in C minor. There was some part-singing by a choir, under Mr. Ambler's direction.

NEWPORT, MONMOUTHSHIRE.—Miss Righton gave a Pianoforte Recital at the Assembly Room, Town Hall, on the 17th ult., before a select and appreciative audience. The programme contained selections from the works of Mendelssohn, Beethoven, Benedict, Heller, Hummel, Weber, and Thalberg. Miss Righton's playing was remarkable for ease and finish, and she was warmly and frequently applauded.

OXFORD.—On Wednesday evening the 19th ult. the members of the Choral Society gave a performance of Schumann's Pilgrimage of the Rose and Mendelssohn's Athalie. The solo vocalists were Miss Giulia Warwick, Mrs. Hubert Blake, Miss Annie Bolingbroke, Mr. Shakespeare, Mr. Shaw, and Mr. Wadmore. The lyrics in Athalie were effectively declaimed by Mr. Brandram, and the harp-playing of Mr. Dodds was a feature in the overture. The concert was highly successful, and the training of the choir was most creditable to Mr. Allchin.

RICHMOND, SURREY.—On the occasion of the Dedication Festival of St. Matthias' Church, which was held on the 3rd ult., a solemn Festal Evensong was sung in addition to the other usual services.

The Psalms were taken from the book prepared by the Richmond and Kingston District Church Choral Association for their Festival on the 19th inst. The Canticles were those by Gadsby in C, and the Anthem was Mendelssohn's Lauda Sion. The whole of the music was exceedingly well sung by the choir (strengthened by some of the members of the choir of the Chapel Royal, Windsor), under the direction of the Rev. H. W. Miller, M.A., Mus. B., Oxon. The organist, Mr. H. J. South, accompanied throughout with great taste and ability. The church was crowded in every part.

ROCHESTER.—The concluding Concert of the fourth season of the Rochester, Strood, and Chatham Choral Society was given at the new Corn Exchange on Monday evening, April 30, when Haydn's Oratorio The Creation was performed. The orchestra and choir numbered some 250 performers. The principal vocalists were Mdm. Lemmens-Sherrington, Mr. W. Shakespeare, and Mr. J. L. Wadmore. Dr. F. Bridge and Mr. T. Harcourt, jun., presided at the harmonium, and Mr. H. R. A. Robinson at the pianoforte. The whole of the instrumentalists and vocalists were, as usual, under the direction of the Rev. W. H. Nutter, who admirably sustained his reputation as an able conductor.

ROMFORD.—A very successful Concert was given on the 24th ult. by the members of the South Essex Choral Society, under the conductorship of Mr. Henry Regaldi. The programme consisted of selections from Haydn's Seasons, some part-songs, madrigals, &c., and a pianoforte duet played by Messrs. A. H. Brown and Louis J. Turrell. The solo vocalists were Miss Emily Hope, Miss Dunn, Mr. J. H. Pemberton, and the Rev. J. W. Bennett. Mr. A. H. Brown presided at the pianoforte.

RYDE, ISLE OF WIGHT.—On the 2nd ult. a very successful performance of Mendelssohn's Elijah was given by the Choral Union, under the conductorship of Miss M. F. Fowles, organist of St. James's Church. The choruses were most efficiently rendered, as were also the solos by Miss Brown, Miss Roper, Mr. H. Cross (Salisbury), and Mr. Hanson (St. Paul's Cathedral). The chorus numbered 130 voices, and the accompaniments were played by an orchestra of thirty-eight performers, led by Mr. C. Fletcher. At the last rehearsal of the Union the members presented Miss Fowles with a handsome timepiece on marble stand as an acknowledgment of their appreciation of her efforts as conductor.

SPLISBY.—The members of the Splisby, Wainfleet, and Friskney Amateur Choral Society gave their fourth annual Concert on the 1st ult., under the conductorship of Mr. Keller, before a large and appreciative audience. The first part (sacred) contained selections from The Creation and Rossini's Stabat Mater, concluding with Mendelssohn's 95th Psalm. The second part (secular and miscellaneous) consisted of part-songs, madrigals, duets, &c. A violoncello solo, delicately rendered by Mr. T. L. Selby, of Nottingham, was redemanded; and Mr. Dunkeaton, of the Lincoln Cathedral Choir, and Mr. Nunn, of the Leeds Parish Church Choir also contributed to the genuine success of the concert. The orchestra and choir numbered about eighty performers.

TORONTO.—Shaftesbury Hall was crowded to the galleries on the occasion of the Concert of the Philharmonic Society on the 5th April. The programme was divided into two parts, the first consisting of a selection from The Creation and the Andante from Beethoven's Second Symphony, and the second being devoted entirely to Rossini's Stabat Mater. The solo vocalists were Mr. Hampshire, Mrs. Bradley, Miss Hillary, and Mr. Warrington. The favourite numbers, the "Cujus animam," sung by Mr. Hampshire, the "Inflammatus" by Mrs. Bradley, and the "Pro peccatis" by Mr. Warrington, were all carefully rendered and warmly applauded. The quartet "Sancta Mater" and the unaccompanied quartet "Quando corpus" were both worthy of praise. The conductor was Mr. Torrington, to whom the public very properly gave the credit of the general result.

WARE.—On Tuesday the 1st ult. a performance of The Messiah was given at the Town Hall in the presence of a large audience. The solo vocalists were Miss Bell, Miss Christie, Mrs. Horley, Miss Edgar, Miss Cobham, Miss Cass, Mr. Trelawny Cobham, and Mr. F. Penna. Mr. Cobham sang with judgment and feeling, his rendering of "Thy rebuke," "Behold and see," and "But Thou didst not leave" being especially appreciated. Miss Christie, Mrs. Horley, Miss Edgar, and Miss Cass were also efficient in the solos allotted them. Miss Bell's rendering of "I know that my Redeemer liveth" was remarkable for expression and sweetness, and she was much applauded. Mr. F. Penna was highly effective, especially in the airs "Why do the nations" and "The trumpet shall sound." The choruses were exceedingly well sung. The Rev. A. D. C. Thompson, of Wormley, conducted. The Rev. S. Navine, of Hunsdon, presided at the piano, and Mr. Williams, organist of Hatfield, at the harmonium.

WINDSOR.—Mr. Orlando Christian gave his Annual Concert in the Town Hall on Thursday the 3rd ult. under the patronage of H.R.H. the Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein. An excellent programme was provided. The artists were Miss Annie Sinclair, Miss Emma Christian, Messrs. Orlando Christian and Mellor (of Eton College Chapel Choir), and the Broussil family. The vocal music was highly effective, Bishop's trio "Maiden fair, a word I pray," sung by Miss Sinclair and Messrs. Christian and Mellor, being encored. The performances of the string quartet party were much admired, and Mdlle. Bertha Broussil's execution of a Fantasia on the violin gained great applause. Messrs. A. Joll and W. F. Summers were the pianoforte accompanists.—The third and concluding Concert of the season given by the members of the Windsor and Eton Choral Society took place in the Town Hall on Monday the 14th ult. Dr. Crotch's Oratorio Palestine was the work selected for performance. Miss Ada Paterson, Miss Annie Knowles, Miss Emma Christian, and Messrs. Mellor and Thurley Beale were the solo vocalists. The choruses were fairly rendered, especially "In frantic converse," "Then the harp awoke," and "Worthy the Lamb." Miss Paterson was most successful in her rendering of "E'en they who dragged" and "No more your thirsty souls." The quartets "Be peace on earth" and "Then on your tops shall deathless verdure spring" were very evenly executed by Misses Knowles and Christian, and Messrs Mellor and Beale. The air "To highest heaven he lifts" was particularly well rendered by Mr. Thurley Beale. Sir George Elvey conducted, Mr. J. S. Liddle led the band, and Mr. S. Smith presided at the harmonium.

WISBEACH.—The Musical Society in connection with the Mechanics' Institute gave the last Concert for the season on Tuesday evening the 8th ult. before a large and influential audience. Mendelssohn's Lobgesang formed the first part of the programme, the principal parts being taken by Mrs. Sharpe, Miss E. Carlyon, Miss Anderson, and Mr. Gregory (all amateurs), with much success. The second part was secular. The band was led by Mr. Bennett; Miss Mason presided at the piano; Mr. G. H. Porter, organist of Louth, at the harmonium; and Mr. A. C. Thacker, organist of Thorney Abbey, conducted.

WOKINGHAM.—A Concert was given at Crowthorne School Room on Monday the 7th ult., when a number of ladies and gentlemen, forming an excellent choir of some twenty-five voices, ably rendered the part-songs, under the conductorship of Mr. George Bishop, formerly singing-master of Wellington College. A most attractive programme was provided. A pianoforte duet by the Misses Bishop, Chopin's Grand Valse by Mr. Steel, and Gottschalk's Pasquinade by Miss Taylor, were very artistically played. The solo vocalists were highly appreciated, Mr. Bishop being especially successful in Balfe's "Come into the garden, Maud."

WOODFORD.—A vocal and instrumental Concert was given on Tuesday the 1st ult. at the Lecture Hall, in aid of the funds of the Infant Orphan Asylum. The vocalists included Miss Nelly Dakin, Miss Russell, Mrs. Willett, Mr. Arthur Hooper, Mr. J. Brown, and Mr. Frank Conner, with a glee-party, all of whom were highly successful in their several contributions. A great feature of the evening was the performance of the Woodford Orchestral Society, under the conductorship of Mr. Walter A. Latter. Herr Oscar Mez gave a Fantasia on themes from Faust on the violin, for which he was enthusiastically recalled. The entertainment was under the direction of Mr. L. B. Wrightson.

WORCESTER.—The members of the Philharmonic Society gave the first Concert of the present season at the Music Hall on the 1st ult., when Mendelssohn's Lauda Sion and Haydn's Creation were performed. The principal vocalists were Miss Julia Wigan, Mr. Gillam, Mr. C. Fredricks, and Mr. Charles Goodhead, all of whom gave great satisfaction in the music allotted them. The rendering of "The marvellous work" by Miss Wigan caused an enthusiastic recall. The choruses (given by upwards of 100 voices) were taken up with point and precision, and the band, numbering about thirty executants, was very efficient. Mr. W. Done conducted as usual, and was well supported by Mr. A. R. Quarterman, assistant-conductor.

WORSLEY, LANCASHIRE.—On Tuesday evening the 1st ult. the members of the Choral Society gave their last Concert of the season. The programme was miscellaneous, including glees, part-songs, quartets, and songs by the best composers. The principal vocalists were Miss Taylor, Miss Harrison, Miss Knott, Mr. E. Barber, and Mr. G. Barlow. Miss Taylor delighted the audience by her rendering of "Angels ever bright and fair" (Handel), and Miss Harrison sang with great taste and expression. Mr. Barber and Mr. G. Barlow were also highly effective. The glees and part-songs were sung with care and precision. Mr. W. H. Ellwood, assistant-organist of the parish church, accompanied, and Mr. R. Froude Coules, F.C.O., conducted.

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. M. Le Patourel, Organist and Choirmaster to St. John the Evangelist, Guernsey.—Mr. Hy. J. Elder, Organist and Choirmaster to S. Benet's, Mile End.—Mr. Malcolm Heywood, A.R.H.M., Organist of All Saints, Hertford, Organist and Choirmaster to Christ's Hospital, Hertford.

OBITUARY.

On the 8th ult., at Catherington, WILLIAM ROBERT CROTCH, M.A., vicar of that place, late Fellow of New College, Oxford, only son of the late William Crotch, Mus. Doc., Oxon., in his 78th year.

On the 16th ult., at 1, Clifton Villas, Upper Lansdowne Road, South Lambeth, EDWARD J. CARD, Professor of Music, late of 29, St. James's Street, in his 61st year.

On the 18th ult., OTTO DONNER ELMENHORST, of 28, Norfolk Road, St. John's Wood, N.W., aged 45.

SCHUBERT SOCIETY.—President, Sir Julius Benedict. Founder and Director, Herr Schubert.—Eleventh Season, 1877. THE FOURTEENTH SOIREE MUSICALE will take place on Wednesday, 13th June. The Concerts and Soirees of this Society afford excellent opportunities for young rising artists to make their début, and for composers to have their works introduced. Prospectus and full particulars on application to H. G. Hopper, Hon. Sec., 244, Regent Street.

WANTED immediately, for the choir of St. George's, Hanover Square, a leading SOPRANO and leading BASS. Good voices and fair reading indispensable. Must be communicants. Duties, two services on Sundays and the great Festivals, and weekly practice. Stipend, £10 per annum. Apply to the Organist, after Sunday evening service, or, by letter, to W. Pinney, Mus. Bac., St. George's Vestry, Mill Street, W.

TENOR WANTED for Parish Church, Grove Park West, Chiswick. For particulars apply to W. E. Stevenson Receiver and Accountant General's Office, G.P.O., E.C.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

BENNETT, JOSEPH.—Letters from Bayreuth, Descriptive and Critical of Wagner's "Der Ring des Nibelungen." With an Appendix. 2s. 6d.SCHUBERT, FRANZ.—The Song of Miriam. For Soprano Solo, and Chorus. Op. 136. The English Version adapted from the German of Grillparzer and Exod. xv., by the Rev. W. H. MILMAN, M.A. 8vo, paper covers, 1s.BENNETT, SIR W. STERNDAL.—Twelve Songs. Op. 23 and 35. With English and German Words. New and Revised Edition. Paper covers, 4s.; cloth, 6s.THE MISSIONARY MANUAL of HYMNS and PRAYERS. Compiled by Sir JAMES ERASMUS PHILIPPS, Bart., M.A., and the Rev. W. VINCENT, M.A. Words only. Price 2d. — TUNE-BOOK. 8vo, paper covers, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s.STANFORD, C. VILLIERS.—God is our Hope and Strength. Psalm xlvii. String parts, 6s. 9d.BROWN, ARTHUR HENRY.—Missa Seraphica. The Office of Holy Communion 8vo, 1s.CLARKE, HAMILTON.—Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, in B flat. 8vo, 4d.HARWOOD, H. T.—A Morning and Evening Service for Four Voices in Harmony and Unison (principally in chant form), with Organ Accompaniment. 8vo, 9d.OKALEY, SIR HERBERT.—Te Deum and Jubilate, from Service in E flat. New Edition. Vocal score, with Organ Accompaniment, 4s. Vocal Parts, 2s. 8d.SYNGE, REV. EDWARD.—Mus. D.—Te Deum Laudamus and Jubilate Deo in A. 8vo, 8d.SHEPPARD, THE REV. H. FLEETWOOD.—Nunc Dimittis to the Fourth Tone (according to the use of Poitiers). 2d.SMEE, F.—Communion Service. Composed for Chichester Cathedral. 4s.STAINER, DR.—I saw the Lord. Anthem for Trinity Sunday. 8vo, 6d.ANDERSON, ROBERT.—Songs of Zion. Nos. 43, 44. Friend after friend departs. 2d. Part XI., 6d.CORNWALL, CHANNON.—Songs of the Church. Part II. 8vo, 4d.ANDERSON, ROBERT.—The Herring Song. New Scotch Part-song. Words by J. R. 1s 6d.DAVIS, GABRIEL.—Come away to the woods. Part-song. 8vo, 2d.MENDELSSOHN.—Andante (Pilgrim's March), from the Italian Symphony. Op. 90. Transcribed for the Pianoforte by JULES DE SIVRAI. 1s. 6d.WILLIAMS, OSBORNE.—Grand Valse de Concert. 2s.MARSHALL, FLORENCE A.—A New Year's Burden. Song. 2s.— I ARISE FROM DREAMS OF THEE. Song. The words by PERCY B. SHELLEY. 2s.— SWEET AND LOW. Song. Words by ALFRED TENNYSON. 2s.SPARK, DR. W.—Organist's Quarterly Journal. Part XXXV.

1. Minuet (A Minor). WILLIAM SPARK.
2. Gavotte (D Major). Do.
3. Introduction and Fugue. C Minor and Major. J. WRIGLEY, A.R.A.M.
4. March Lyro (F Major). J. WHITTAKER, London.
5. Sonata (D Flat Major). First movement. CHARLTON T. SPEER, A.C.O.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TENOR.—A good SOLOIST is OPEN to an ENGAGEMENT in Church Choir. Full Choral Service preferred. Address, H. D. P., 134, Falmouth Road, S.E.WANTED A TENOR for the choir of All Hallows', Lombard Street. £12 a year. Two services on Sunday. Apply at Church at service, or to Mr. T. Bensted, 6, Castle Terrace, Richmond.S. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.—There will be TWO VACANCIES in the choir for ASSISTANT VICARS CHORAL (both BASS VOICES) at Michaelmas next. Candidates must be under 30 years of age, members of the Church of England, and communicants. Testimonials as to moral character and musical ability to be sent to the Rev. the Succutor, S. Paul's Cathedral, E.C., before June 15.CHICHESTER CATHEDRAL.—WANTED, immediately, a BASS SINGER. Salary, £60. Apply to Mr. T. E. Aylward, Organist.BARITONE BASS REQUIRES a SUNDAY ENGAGEMENT. Cultivated voice; compass upwards of two octaves. Address, H21, Novello, Ewer and Co., 80 and 81, Queen Street, E.C.WANTED, immediately, an ORGANIST to PLAY at a Congregational Church near Norwood for Four Sundays. Must understand chanting. Fee, half-a-guinea a Sunday and travelling expenses. Organist can dine at advertiser's house. Address, A. B. C. D., Forest Hill Post Office.ORGANIST.—A Gentleman, who will be shortly disengaged, DESIRES a RE-ENGAGEMENT. Salary, £40. Good testimonials and references. R. G., 26, Marlborough Road, S.W.THE SCHOOL BOARD for the United District of Bulwith, East Yorkshire, REQUIRES the services of a Principal TEACHER, holding a Second-class Certificate, whose Wife shall take charge of the Infants and teach Sewing. Average attendance of scholars, it is estimated, will not exceed 120. Joint salary, £120, with a good and convenient house, attached to school, to reside in. Applications to be sent to the undersigned on or before the 14th of June inst. HENRY GREEN, Howden.MR. CHARLES JOSEPH FROST'S LADIES' SINGING CLASS, for the practice of part-music, will RECOMMENCE at his Residence, 73, Farleigh Road, Stoke Newington, the second week in June.ARTICLED PUPIL.—The Organist of S. Peter's, Eaton Square, wishes to meet with the above. Cathedral Services. A person of some cultivation desired. Address to the Organist, S. Peter's Vestry, Eaton Square, S.W.A YOUTH (16), having been apprenticed to the Pianoforte Tuning for two years, desires a SITUATION as IMPROVER. Address, H. D., 7, Victoria Road, Putney, S.W.WANTED, a thoroughly good TUNER and REPAIRER of PIANOS, American Organs, and Harmoniums. Permanent situation to a suitable man. Apply, inclosing carte, stating references and wages required, to Attwells' Music Warehouse, Reading.WANTED by a Musicseller near Manchester a VIOLIN-PLAYER. Must be a good executant. A man who can play and tune the pianoforte would find good and constant employment. He also would be required to assist in a music-shop. A person of good address absolutely necessary. Applications addressed Opis, stating terms, references, and all particulars, care of Messrs. Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W., will be promptly attended to.FOR SALE, MUSIC and PIANOFORTE BUSINESS in the Western Counties, situated in a thriving commercial and market town. Good Tuning Connection and opening for a professor. Stock, goodwill, &c., about £1,000. Address, H., Messrs. Novello and Co.ORGAN for SALE, by England. Two sets of manuals; 1½ octave pedals; 8 stops, viz. on great organ, stopped diapason treble, stopped diapason bass, open diapason, principal treble, principal bass, fifteenth—on swell, stopped diapason and principal; gilt front pipes and glass doors; height, 8 ft.; depth, 5 ft. To blow either by handle or by foot pedal. In good condition. Can be seen at Miss Austin's, 4, Warwick Avenue, Warwick Road, Upper Clapton, London, E., between the hours of 12 and 4 o'clock.ORGAN.—Two manual, by Gray; 6 stops; illuminated speaking front; 2½ octaves of pedals; thoroughly good repair. Bargain. Address, A., Post-office, Durham.A BARGAIN.—To be SOLD cheap, a sweet-toned HARMONIUM, by Alexandre. Handsome polished walnut case; 9 rows of reeds; two manuals; 31 stops; 2½ octaves of pedals, and foot and hand blower. Suitable for church, chapel, or mansion. Original price, 200 guineas. May be seen at Benjamin Scott and Son's Pianoforte Warehouse, 18 and 20, Devonshire Street, Carlisle.FOR SALE, fine English VIOLONCELLO (Thompson, London, 1776), in case, with Dodd Bow. Price 20 guineas. H. Cockson, 24, Rodney Street, Liverpool.TO DISPOSE OF, one of Messrs. F. Besson and Co.'s POCKET CORNETS (Leader's model), silver-plated, inside of bell and mouthpiece gilt, in polished box complete; nearly new. Cost 15 guineas; will be sold at a reduction. Apply, Messrs. Pohlman and Son, Princess Street, Halifax, Yorkshire.

Just published, price 2s., cloth.

THE PSALTER, as used in Canterbury Cathedral, together with the Canticles. Edited by ROBERT HAKE, M.A., Precentor of Canterbury. Also, separately, THE PSALTER, including Proper Psalms for certain days, 1s. 10d. The Canticles, 3d.London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Canterbury: HAL DRURY and A. GINDER.WENTWORTH PHILLIPSON'S "GUIDE TO YOUNG PIANOFORTE TEACHERS AND STUDENTS," 2s., by post 26 stamps. Czerny, 349, Oxford Street, W.

STEPHEN HELLER'S PIANOFORTE WORKS.—ASHDOWN and PARRY beg to announce that the entire Works of this renowned Composer may now be had of them.

The universal esteem in which these admirable Compositions are held throughout France, Germany, Austria, Russia, Italy, America—in fact, wherever the study of music is cultivated—is the best evidence of their unique beauty and sterling worth.

"Heller est classique, en ce sens qu'il admet et respecte les vieilles formes consacrées par l'expérience. Il est de la jeune école, il est romantique, en ce sens qu'il a trouvé des formes nouvelles qui resteront acquises à l'art.

"Il pouvait être un grand symphoniste; il n'a pas voulu l'être; il est resté pianiste comme Chopin. La postérité lui donnera une moindre page que celle lui eût été assignée s'il avait exprimé sa pensée avec des moyens plus grandioses, s'il eût exploré toutes les grandes formes de l'art. Mais être un pianiste comme le furent Mendelssohn, Schumann, Chopin, est-ce déjà si peu?" — Stephen Heller: sa Vie et ses Œuvres. H. Barbadette.

STEPHEN HELLER'S STUDIES.—A New and Complete Edition, thoroughly revised, published under the immediate superintendence of the Composer. Fifteen Books, each 6s. ASHDOWN and PARRY, Hanover Square.

STEPHEN HELLER'S STUDIES.—A large number of these celebrated Studies published separately. Price 1s. to 2s. 6d. each.

ASHDOWN and PARRY, London.

STEPHEN HELLER'S TARENTELLES.—ASHDOWN and PARRY, Hanover Square.

STEPHEN HELLER'S WANDERSTUNDEN (Réveries d'Artiste). Six numbers, 3s. each. No. 2 is the well-known "Allegretto con grazia" in D flat, played by Mr. Charles Hallé. ASHDOWN and PARRY, Hanover Square.

STEPHEN HELLER'S NUITS BLANCHES (Restless Nights). Four Books, 3s. to 4s. each; or in Eighteen Numbers, 1s. to 2s. each. No. 9 is the "Allegretto con grazia" in E; No. 11 the "Andante con moto" in G flat.

ASHDOWN and PARRY, Hanover Square.

STEPHEN HELLER'S PROMENADES D'UN SOLITAIRE. Two Books, each 4s. 6d.; or in Six Numbers, 1s. to 2s. 6d. each. No. 4 is the popular "Andante" in B flat.

ASHDOWN and PARRY, London.

STEPHEN HELLER'S DANS LES BOIS. Sept Réveries. Seven Numbers, each 3s. No. 3 is the much-admired "Andante con moto" in E.

ASHDOWN and PARRY, London.

STEPHEN HELLER'S DANS LES BOIS. Deuxième série. Seven Numbers, price 1s. to 4s. each. ASHDOWN and PARRY, Hanover Square.

STEPHEN HELLER'S VALSES. ASHDOWN and PARRY, Hanover Square.

STEPHEN HELLER'S ALBUM DÉDIÉ À LA JEUNESSE (NOTENBUCH). Four Books, each 5s. ASHDOWN and PARRY, Hanover Square.

STEPHEN HELLER'S PRELUDES.—Six Books, each 5s. Among these charming pieces, published in separate numbers, are the popular "Feu Follet," "Aubade," "Chant du Berceau," "Barcarolle," "Chanson de Mai," "An Evensong," &c. Prices from 1s. to 3s. each.

ASHDOWN and PARRY, Hanover Square.

STEPHEN HELLER'S SONATAS. ASHDOWN and PARRY, Hanover Square.

STEPHEN HELLER'S TRANSCRIPTIONS OF MENDELSSOHN'S SONGS.—The Improvisations on the Melody "Auf Flügeln des Gesanges," and the Transcription of the "Parting Song," are choice specimens.

ASHDOWN and PARRY, Hanover Square.

STEPHEN HELLER'S TRANSCRIPTIONS OF SCHUBERT'S SONGS. Thirty-three Numbers. Price 1s. to 2s. 6d. each.

ASHDOWN and PARRY, Hanover Square.

STEPHEN HELLER'S CAPRICES.—The celebrated Caprice on Schubert's "La Truite" has had, perhaps, as wide a popularity as any piece published during the present century.

ASHDOWN and PARRY, Hanover Square.

ASHDOWN and PARRY'S EDITIONS OF STEPHEN HELLER'S WORKS are to be had of every Music-seller in Great Britain, Ireland, the Colonies, India, and the United States of America; or will be sent post-free, at half-price, on receipt of post-office order or stamps.

ASHDOWN and PARRY, London.

STEPHEN HELLER'S PIANOFORTE COMPOSITIONS.—A COMPLETE CATALOGUE is NOW READY, and will be sent, on application, post-free to any part of the world.

ASHDOWN and PARRY, Hanover Square, London.

C. JEFFERYS, 67, BERNERS STREET

THE CHORAL SOCIETY

A COLLECTION OF

PART-SONGS, GLEES, CHORUSES, &c.

EDITED BY

MICHAEL WATSON

NEW NUMBERS,

Price 2d. each.

No.		Composer
45	To the hills and the vales. (Chorus)	Henry Purcell.
44	The Primrose	Arthur Johnson.
43	An evening song	Owen Head.
42	Row gently here	F. Schira.
41	Hark! the swains are calling	James J. Monk.
40	May Morn	T. M. Pattison.
39	Oh, the gallant fisher's life (for male voices) ...	Theodore Distin.
38	Spring-time	W. G. Marshall.
37	Evening	Seymour Smith.
36	A poor soul sat sighing	J. Meredith Ball.
35	Ebbing and flowing	T. G. B. Halley.
34	The Spirit of Music	W. F. Taylor.
33	Welcome, lovely Spring	Arranged by Michael Watson.
32	The boatie rows	Michael Watson.
31	How beautiful is night	F. Schira.

(To be continued.)

COMPLETE LISTS ON APPLICATION.

SIX ORIGINAL PIECES FOR HARMONIUM OR AMERICAN ORGAN,

By MICHAEL WATSON.

s. d.

1	Village dance, in B flat	3	0
2	Mélodie, in G	3	0
3	Pas Redoublé, in G	3	0
4	Berceuse, in F	3	0
5	March, in C	3	0
6	Reverie, in G	3	0

FOR PIANOFORTE,

By MICHAEL WATSON.

Bourrée in F	3	0
Gavotte, in B flat	3	0
Passe-pied, in B flat	3	0
Polonaise, in C	3	0
Tarantelle, in B flat	3	0
Bolero, in A minor	3	0
Gigue, in G	3	0
Sarabande, in B flat	3	0
Minuet, in C	3	0

NEW NUMBERS.

THE LYRIC STAGE,

By MICHAEL WATSON.

(Brilliant Operatic Fantasias.)

10	Lohengrin	Wagner	4	0
11	La Vie pour le Czar	Glinka	4	0
12	Tannhäuser	Wagner	4	0
13	Flying Dutchman	Wagner	4	0

GRAND OPERATIC DUETS,

By J. RUMMEL.

1	Lohengrin	Wagner	5	0
2	Tannhäuser	Wagner	5	0
10	Rienzi	Wagner	5	0
11	Flying Dutchman	Wagner	5	0

THE TWO MOST SUCCESSFUL SONGS OF THE SEASON.

Diehl's "Jack's Yarn," sung by Signor Foli	4	0
Levey's "White Blossoms," sung by Miss Fannie Leslie ...	3	0

LONDON: C. JEFFERYS, 67, BERNERS STREET, W.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, &c.

Just Published.

NEW PART-SONGS, MADRIGALS, &c.,

BY

R. L. PEARSALL.

COLLEGIATE SERIES.

No.
68.	Part-Song	... A lad and lassie. S.A.T.B.	...	2d.
70.	Part-Song	... True love, to-day I must away	...	2d.
64.	Madrigal	... When old King Cole	...	3d.
54.	Madrigal	... My bonnie lass, she smileth	...	3d.
67.	Glee	... Glorious Apollo	...	2d.
73.	Part-Song	... Was there not a look of fondness	...	2d.
55.	Part-Song	... Robin Hood	...	3d.
65.	Glee	... King Charles	...	3d.
72.	Part-Song	... My mother loves me not	...	2d.
69.	Part-Song	... Spring brings flow'rets fair	...	2d.
71.	Part-Song	... 'Twas a trumpet's pealing sound	...	3d.
52.	Ballad Dialogue	... Who kill'd Cock Robin?	... 8th Edition	3d.
(Folio, illustrated, 3s.)
50.	Part-Song	... Brave Lord Willoughby	... 5th	3d.
25.	Madrigal	... Here on the waters	... 4th	4d.
53.	Part-Song	... Her eyes the glow-worm	... 3rd	3d.
4.	Student's Song	... The three friends. S.A.T.B.	... 4th	3d.
5.	Student's Song	... " " T.T.B.B.	... 4th	3d.
60.	Madrigal	... Down by a river straying	... 2nd	4d.
61.	Madrigal	... Hie away! o'er bank and brae	... 2nd	4d.
51.	Glee	... Flow, limpid stream. A.T.B.B.	...	3d.
58.	Student's Song	... Gaudeamus igitur	... 6th Edition	3d.
74.	Part-Song	... Springs she not as light as air	...	2d.
63.	Part-Song	... My enemies they do increase	...	3d.
62.	Part-Song	... 'Tis raining!	...	3d.
59.	Part-Song	... The Poacher's Song	...	3d.
56.	Market Chorus	... The Villagers (with Pianoforte, Flute, or Violin Accompaniment), Chorus of Peasants, Market Women, Swiss Jodel, &c.	...	4d.

DR. S. S. WESLEY.

3.	Part-Song	... The Mermaid. S.A.T.B.	... 3rd Edition	4d.
6.	Part-Song	... Arising from the deep. S.A.T.B.	2nd	4d.
2.	Chorus	... The praise of music (Double Choir).	2nd	4d.
18.	Anthem	... O how amiable!	... 3rd	4d.
19.	Anthem	... Wherewithal shall a young man	2nd	4d.
40.	Anthem	... The Lord is my Shepherd	2nd	4d.
14.	Anthem	... Let us now praise famous men.	4th	4d.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

8.	Part-Song	... Swift the shades of eve	... 6th	3d.
12.	Part-Song	... The Vikings and the north wind	3rd	3d.
10.	Part-Song	... The eagle	... 2nd	3d.
42.	Anthem	... O praise the Lord	...	3d.
43.	Anthem	... I waited patiently	...	3d.

DULCIANA.

13.	National Anth.	... God save the Queen	... 20th Edition	2d.
(With Organ Accompaniment.)
7.	Part-Song	... Auld lang syne	... 26th	3d.

SCHUMANN.

26.	Solo and Chorus	... Sleep on, in visions	... 4th	3d.
11.	Solo and Chorus	... Vesture pure and scatheless	3rd	3d.
29.	Trio (S.S.A.)	... Magna peccatrix	...	3d.
30.	Trio (S.S.A.)	... The midnight hags	...	3d.

J. P. KNIGHT.

1.	Madrigal	... Canst thou say me nay?	... 3rd Edition	3d.
----	----------	----------------------------	-----------------	-----

NEW BALLADS.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

THE CATHEDRAL CHOIR (with Chorus)	...	4s.
-----------------------------------	-----	-----

R. L. PEARSALL.

DRUMMING AND FIFING	...	3s.
BRAVE LORD WILLOUGHBY	...	3s.
WHO KILL'D COCK ROBIN?	...	3s.

*Just Published.*CONSECUTIVE FIFTHS AND OCTAVES
IN COUNTERPOINT

AN ESSAY, BY R. L. PEARSALL.

Price 2s.; post-free, 2s. 2d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.
Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street, W.

HARMONIUM MUSIC

PUBLISHED BY

NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

ELLIOTT, J. W. Six Original Pieces, 2s.

— Harmonium Treasury. A Series of Select Pieces, Sacred and Secular. Two vols. handsomely bound in cloth, ros. 6d. each; or 51 Nos., 1s. each.

ENGEL, LOUIS. Twelve Sacred Airs. 5s.; or each number singly, 6d.

1. Air Seventeenth Century ... Stradella.
2. On mighty pens (Creation) ... Haydn.
3. Agnus Dei (1st Mass) ... Mozart.
4. Cujus animam (Stabat Mater) ... Rossini.
5. Dead March (Saul) ... Handel.
6. Lord, remember David ... "
7. Holy, holy ... "
8. Angels ever bright and fair ... "
9. Qui tollis (12th Mass) ... Mozart.
10. Eia Mater (Stabat Mater) ... Rossini.
11. He shall feed His flock (Messiah) ... Handel.
12. Pastoral Symphony ... "

— Six Melodies, by Schubert. 2s. 6d.; each number singly, 6d.

1. Ave Maria.
2. Hark, hark, the lark.
3. The Hunter.
4. L'Adieu.
5. Serenade.
6. Hark, the bell is tolling.

HALL, KING. A School for the Harmonium. Containing a Description of the Instrument, a Diagram of the Stops, full directions for Blowing, Fingering, &c., Twenty Original Progressive Studies carefully fingered, and a Collection of Sacred and Secular Pieces by the best composers, arranged for instruments of various sizes. 5s.

LEMMENS, J. Six Original Voluntaries. 3s.

MENDELSSOHN. St. Paul. Choral, Airs, and Chorus, arranged by R. Bibl. 2s. 6d.

— Elijah, Airs and Choruses, ditto. 2s. 6d.

REINAGLE, A. R. Ten Airs. 1s. 6d.

— Processional March. 1s.

SAINT-SAËNS, CAMILLE.

Barcarolle ... 1s. | Méditation ... 1s. | Prière ... 1s.

PIANOFORTE AND HARMONIUM.

CALKIN, J. B. Hommage à Mendelssohn. Three-Part Song, without words. 1s. 6d.

ELLIOTT, J. W. Six Movements from Mendelssohn's Oratorio Elijah. 5s. 3d., or singly—

No.	s. d.	No.	s. d.
1. If with all your hearts	1 3	4. For the mountains	1 3
2. It is enough	1 6	5. Then shall the righteous	1 3
3. He watching over Israel	1 6	6. O come every one	1 3

ENGEL, LOUIS. Six Duets.

- No. 1. Marion ... Engel 1s. 6d.
2. La Sonnambula ... Bellini 2s. 6d.
3. Adelaida ... Beethoven 2s. 6d.
4. Mosè in Egitto ... Rossini 1s. 6d.
5. Serenade and Ave Maria ... Schubert 1s. 6d.
6. Lied ohne Worte ... Mendelssohn 1s. 6d.

MENDELSSOHN. Original Melodies (Lieder ohne Worte), arranged by C. G. Lickl.

Op.	s. d.	Op.	s. d.
19. First Book	3 0	62. Fifth Book	3 0
30. Second ditto	3 0	67. Sixth ditto	3 0
38. Third ditto	3 0	85. Seventh ditto	3 0
53. Fourth ditto	3 0	102. Eighth ditto	3 0

— Two Andante Movements from Trios. Op. 49 and 66, arranged by Joseph Soyka. 3s.

— Overture, Hebrides, for Harmonium, Pianoforte, two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello, arranged by J. Soyka. 4s. 6d.

— Overture, Ruy Blas, Op. 95, arranged by C. T. Krebs. 4s. 6d.

— Ditto for Harmonium, Pianoforte, and Violin, arranged by J. Soyka. 3s.

SAINT-SAËNS, CAMILLE. Romance, Trio for Pianoforte, Violin, and Harmonium. 2s. 6d.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

THE HYMNARY

A BOOK OF CHURCH SONG.

THE FOLLOWING EDITIONS ARE NOW READY:—

No.				s.	d.
1.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Bourgeois Antique.	Cloth, red edges	1 0
2.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Cloth, red edges	0 6
"	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Limp cloth	0 4
"	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Paper covers	0 3
3.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth		4 0
4.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		5 0
5.	Tunes only.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth		3 0
6.	Tunes only.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		4 0
7.	Hymns with Tunes.	Treble part only.	Royal 24mo		1 6
"	Hymns with Tunes.	Treble part only.	Royal 24mo, cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		2 0
8.	Hymns with Tunes.	Small post 8vo, to bind with the Pearl 8vo Prayer Book.	Cloth		2 6
9.	Hymns with Tunes.	Ditto.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		3 0
10.	Hymns with Tunes.	Large type, Imperial 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		10 6

Selections of Hymns with Tunes for Advent, Christmas, Easter and Harvest, price One Penny each.

A Discount of 20 per Cent. will be allowed to the Clergy, for Cash, when not less than six copies of one edition are taken.

Applications for permission to print the Hymns and Tunes for Choral Festivals, should be addressed to the Publishers.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE NEW HYMNAL.

THE SONG OF PRAISE, By Lady VICTORIA EVANS-FRERE. Being a New and Enlarged Edition of the Rev. EDWARD HARLAND'S CHURCH PSALTER AND HYMNAL, including a large number of Original Tunes written by the most eminent Church musicians of the day expressly for this work. Prices as follow:—

	s.	d.
Large Organ Edition	...	8 6
Ditto, red edges, strongly bound, with blank music paper at the end, gilt lettered...	10	6
Small Music Edition	...	3 6
Ditto, red edges, strongly bound, gilt lettered	4	6
Words only	...	1 2
Ditto, red edges, gilt	...	1 6

Liberal Terms to the Clergy.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS, THE BROADWAY, LUDGATE.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK, containing 258

Tunes and 85 Chants.
No 1. Limp cloth, turned in	2s. 6d.
" 2. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.
TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.
" 3. Limp cloth, turned in	2s. 0d.
" 4. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	2s. 6d.

About 250,000 copies have already been sold.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK (Second Series)

containing 298 Tunes and 74 Chants.
No. 5. Limp cloth	2s. 6d.
" 6. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.
TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.
" 7. Limp cloth	2s. 0d.
" 8. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	2s. 6d.

First and Second Series Bound together.

No. 9. Limp cloth	4s. 6d.
" 10. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	6s. 0d.
" 12. Tonic Sol-fa, cloth	3s. 0d.

Now Ready.

SMALL EDITION of the COMPLETE WORK.

715 Tunes and Chants, providing for nearly 200 Varieties of Metre.

No. 11. Cloth	3s. 0d.
---------------	---------

Each Edition may be had in Superior Binding.

Communications and inquiries as to Copyrights, and also as to supplies of this work at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Commissioners, at Clare Street, Bristol.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.; Bristol: W. and F. Morgan; and all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

THE LONDON TUNE-BOOK. A Companion

for all Hymnals. Cloth, 3s.; red edges, 3s. 6d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes, as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN; containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tunes; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now ready, in small quarto, 330 pages.

THE BURNLEY TUNE-BOOK, an entirely new Psalms of 683 Tunes, Chants, Kyries, Glorias, Chant Te Deums, &c., nearly the whole of which are new and never before published. The collection of Chants and Kyries, as well as the Tunes, contains many beautiful compositions; and altogether the B. T. B. will be found one of the most useful, comprehensive, and interesting tune-books ever published.

Plain binding, 4s.; gilt lettered and red edges, 5s.

London: F. Pitman, Paternoster Row. Burnley: T. Simpson.

Eleventh Edition, Enlarged.

TUNES, NEW AND OLD; comprising all the Metres in the Wesleyan Hymn-Book. Also, Chants, Responses, and Doxologies. Compiled by JOHN DOBSON; and for the most part revised or re-arranged by HENRY JOHN GAUNTLETT, Mus. Doc.; JOHN FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., Oxon.; and SAMUEL REAY, Mus. Bac., Oxon. London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, and 80 and 81, Queen Street. Sold also at 66, Paternoster Row. Prices: plain cloth, 3s. 6d.; extra cloth, bevelled boards, red edges, 5s.

Sixth Edition, obl. 4to, cloth, 7s.

PARR'S CHURCH PSALMODY, containing 392 Tunes, in 100 Metres, 301 Chants, various Responses, &c., with Memoirs of the Composers and Histories of the Pieces, giving an amount of information nowhere else to be found.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S "SUPPLEMENTAL HYMN AND TUNE-BOOK" (4th Edition) may be had of the publishers, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. Quarto post, large type and beautifully bound in cloth, price 6s. 6d.; on toned paper, extra thick, 10s. 6d.

"MY SPIRIT LONGS FOR THEE." Hymn, set to Music by JOHN NAYLOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon., together with five other original Hymn Tunes, including "Rock of ages," for men's voices only. Price 4d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

HYMN TUNES, composed by ROBERT BROWN-BORTHWICK, Vicar of All Saints', Scarborough. Elegantly bound in scarlet cloth, price 2s. 6d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S SERIES of MODERN HYMN TUNES, KYRIES, &c. This Series embraces original Tunes and Kyries by some of the best living composers of Church Music, and may be had in separate numbers from 3d. and 6d. each. Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE CATHEDRAL PSALTER,

POINTED FOR CHANTING.

PUBLISHED WITH THE SANCTION OF

THE VERY REV. THE DEAN OF ST. PAUL'S

AND

THE VERY REV. THE DEAN OF WESTMINSTER.

Imperial 32mo, cloth	0 9
Ditto, with Proper Psalms, cloth	1 0
Demy octavo, large type, with Proper Psalms, cloth	2 6
Proper Psalms separately. Paper covers. 32mo	0 3
Canticles. 32mo	0 1
Do. 8vo	0 3

All Editions contain the Canticles, and Special Hymns for use on certain days instead of the Venite.

